[hotel refusing to permit non-Ee U representatives to continue to handbill for area standards for Ees of one of hotel's suppliers on hotel's private property near its main entrance, not unlawful, since herein E's property rights outweighed U's Section 7 right to inform public regarding lack of area standards, where activity at hotel's entrance increased possibility of theft of luggage, tort liability, and congestion and litter, atmosphere expected by guests violated, hotel had no interest in economic success of E with which U had dispute, nor was there vital link to Ees located on hotel's property]

Springfield Hospital 281 NLRB No. 076
[no violation where E sought to arrest U organizer for holding meeting in E's parking lot as there was no showing that E had uniformly permitted non-Ees to congregate for any purpose in its parking lot and had singled out U organizer and his organizing effort for police action. Fact E tolerated U organizer's presence along outer periphery of lot did not entitle him to freely pursue his organizing activity freely on premises]

Crest Industries Corp. 276 NLRB No. 067
(E's threatening to call police if U agents did not leave its premises, not violative where there was no showing that U lacked alternative means of communicating with Ees, and balance of conflicting interests must be struck in favor of E's private property rights)

5072-0500 Disclosure of employees who signed cards

Adco Metals, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 172
[E informing Ees in writing that they could expect to be subpoenaed as witnesses in Federal proceeding if they signed U authorization cards, unlawful, since deemed coercive as was threat that identity of signers would be disclosed, and absent any issues likely to be litigated concerning signing of U cards; neither U animus nor falsity of statement not prerequisite for finding of violation]

Benmit Division, U.S. Tubular, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 083
[threatening to find out who signed U authorization cards, violation]

5072-0800 Bribery

Southern Illinois Petrol, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 017
(E's telling Ee that he would pay money to keep U from organizing its Ees, violative)

Chaim Babad, et al., A Co-Partnership, d/b/a Tilden Arms Management Co. and Toby Estates, Inc., a Single Employer 276 NLRB No. 117
(successor E's bribing predecessor's Ees to quit and refusing to rehire them so as to eliminate U majority and bargaining obligation, violative)

Bonanza Sirloin Pit 275 NLRB No. 54
(bribing Ee with monetary gift to obtain Ee's support pending Bd's R election, violative)

Storall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(promising Ees financial rewards if they ceased their U activities, violative)

5072-0900 Removal of employees from bargaining unit

Zemco Manufacturing Company JD-446-84
(E's engaging in scheme to falsely title five Ees as supervisors to prevent them from supporting U, to provide pretext to discharge them if they did, and to deter other Ees from supporting U, violative)

5072-1100 Influencing strike vote or action

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 185 (C.A. 8, Nov. 1986)
[supervisor informing Ees one week before strike vote if you guys go on strike, U is not coming back, unlawful]

5072-1300 Refusing to hire applicants because of prior union adherence or activity

Pioneer Hotel and Gambling Hall, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 072
(supervisor's telling applicant for employment that he did not believe applicant could be hired because he was active on behalf of U, unlawful)

5072-1500 Solicitation of opposition to union

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division 281 NLRB No. 113
[where E was found to have unlawfully tainted decertification ptn by various 8(a)(1) conduct including specific remarks made to some Ees to undermine support for U, it was no defense that E produced Ee witnesses that had never heard E's unlawful remarks since it was fair to presume some of E's remarks were disseminated among Ees; E is a wrongdoer who must bear responsibility for consequences that flow from unlawful conduct and bears the burden of disentangling consequences from which it is chargeable from those which it is not]

Central Washington Health Services Association d/b/a Central Washing Hospital 279 NLRB No. 011
[supervisor asking Ee how she felt about communications between herself and U, speaking of E's side regarding U representation and referring to circulation of anti-U ptn, unlawful]

Central Washington Health Services Association d/b/a Central Washing Hospital 279 NLRB No. 011
[Ministerial acts by E that help Ees in processing decertification ptn do not necessarily violate Act. However, even ministerial acts can be unlawful where they are done in context which is not free of coercive conduct. Where E instigates and promotes decertification ptn, or another U repudiation document, it interferes with rights of Ees under Section 7 of Act]

Studio S.J.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126
(recruiting Ee to engage in anti-U conduct, violative)

Walter Garson, Jr & Associates 276 NLRB No. 137
(E gave no unlawful assistance or support to Ees in filing anti-U ptn letter and E merely advised Ees to communicate with NLRB and did not assist in any way with formulation of ptn; nor was E's permitting Ees to deliberate and prepare ptn on work time, providing assistance in communicating with absent Ees and transportation to NLRB office, unlawful, since no more work time given for this effort than for other solicitations, and all such assistance was merely ministerial)

Duroyd Manufacturing, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 025
(E paying another Ee to take Ee to NLRB regional office to file charges against U, assisting Ee in composing charges, and encouraging solicitation of Ee signatures on antiU ptn, unlawful)

PYA/Monarch, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 167
(general manager unlawfully solicited Ee to encourage other Ees to vote against U, notwithstanding Ee went to manager's office on his own initiative to discuss U, Ee did not initiate discussion on campaigning for E, nor did he volunteer to campaign)

Indiana Cabinet Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 169
(plant superintendant's statement to Ees that he had heard they were not satisfied with U, there was way they could start ptn through Bd, and E could not help them, not violative where superintendant did not attempt to learn whether Ees would sign it and specifically informed them that E could not assist them with any ptn; moreover, superintendant's mere informing Ees of procedure by which U disaffection ptn could be circulated would not create situation in which Ees would tend to feel peril if they refrained from circulating such ptn)

Indiana Cabinet Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 169
(four individuals' signing ptn opposing representation by U not violative even if individuals in question were considered to be supervisors)

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(E's president suggesting Ee file decertification ptn, unlawful, where suggestion made at same time they were discussing Ee's new wage rates, and Ee was subsequently made supervisor and given wage increase, and in view of fact E had given unlawful support to earlier untimely filed decertification ptn)

Weiser Optical Company 274 NLRB No. 143
(supervisor's telling Ee that it was getting close to this time referring to Bd's open period when decertification ptn can be filed, telling Ee that E's president was trying to get things started and informing Ees during a meeting that he thought Ees were mature enough to work out differences w/o a third party, held unlawful encouragement of decertification ptn and withdrawal of recognition based on ptn violative; E's unsolicited involvement with ptn was far more than ministerial aid since idea of ptn was implanted in Ees' mind by E, thus tainting ptn and E's good-faith doubt of U's majority status)

Maple Tree, Inc. JD-(ATL)-48-85
(soliciting Ees to withdraw from U organizing committee and soliciting other Ees to stop U organizing activities, violative)

5072-1600 Solicitation of revocation of authorization cards

Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 125
[no violation where E's manager in response to request by Ee for aid in getting her U authorization card back from U gave her paper and envelope and instructed her to see another Ee, who helped her compose letter to U, not unlawful, since aid was minimal and at Ee's request and manager did not follow up to ascertain if Ee requested card back]

Sealmactro Corporation 280 NLRB No. 015
[supervisor asking Ee if Ee had signed U card, and when ee said he had, asking Ee if he wanted card back, and when Ee replied yes, having Ee sign paper, then informing Ee when U campaign was over Ee organizers would not be there anymore, unlawful]

Rockwell International Corp. 278 NLRB No. 013
[E merely giving Ees sample letter to use for purpose of revoking their U authorization cards, not unlawful, since E may lawfully inform Ees of their right to revoke authorization cards even if Ees have not solicited such information as long as E makes no attempt to ascertain whether Ees avail themselves of this right or offers any assistance or otherwise creates impression that Ees are in peril by refraining from revoking their cards]

Uniontown Hospital Association 277 NLRB No. 144
(soliciting retrieval of U authorization cards and informing Ees of procedure to follow in doing so, violation and interference)

Studio S.J.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126
(violation, where Ee, as E's agent, sought revocation of authorization cards)

5072-1900 Decision to use and/or administration of polygraph test

Warehouse Supermarkets of Arizona, Inc., d/b/a Warehouse Foods JD-(SF)-101-86
[polygraph examination of Ee, unlawful, where questions directed to Ee concerning known U supporter's activity were obviously directed at finding out examined Ee's knowledge of U activity]

5072-2000 Prohibiting employee's discussion about wages or other conditions of employment, or about union

Scientific-Atlanta, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 090
[E's requesting Ees not to discuss their merit raises and disciplining them for doing so, violative]

Electronic Data Systems International Corporation 278 NLRB No. 014
[promulgation of rule that prohibited Ees from discussing salary information, unlawful, since such rule restrained Ees in exercise of their right to engage in concerted activity]

American Lebanese Syrian Associated Charities, Inc. d/b/a A.L.S.A.C. 277 NLRB No. 189
[rule prohibitng Ees from discussing salaries amongst themselves, violative]

The Loft (Showcase, Inc.) 277 NLRB No. 170
[promulgating rule which stated Any dissatisfaction in your job should be discussed directly with supervisor. Discussing your pay or other problems with your job with your co-workers will be grounds for dismissal unlawful, notwithstanding rule never enforced and subsequently rescinded, where Ees never notified of E's intention not to enforce rule or of recission]

The Loft (Showcase, Inc.) 277 NLRB No. 170
[Ee's complaining to E at Ee meeting concerning tip pool policy, held concerted protected activity, where Ees had previously met together regarding problem, Ee spoke on behalf of all Ees, and it may be inferred E considered Ee spokesman; further, Ees subsequent discussion of tip pool policy with other Ees was continuation of this protected activity]

Tom Wignall, Jr. and Billie Williams d/b/a Lovilia Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 186
(prohibiting Ees from talking with U organizers or with each other about U, or even frequenting bars where U Ees drank, unlawful)

Italo Il Casa Romana Restaurant, Inc. JD-(SF)-50-86
[E's owner's telling Ees to keep quiet about meeting in which E told Ees about scheduling charges, violative since E's statement was overly broad restriction on unit Ees' protected rights to communicate]

5072-2200 Interference with right to refrain from union activities

N.L.R.B. v. Eli Gordon, Gerald Tillinger and Seymour Tillinger, a Copartnership d/b/a Balsam Village Management Company 792 F.2d 29 (C.A. 2, May 1986)
[threatening to discharge and discharging Ees for refusing to renounce U, violations]

5072-2300 Interference with employees' right to bargain through representatives of their own choosing

Middletown Hospital Association 282 NLRB No. 079
[supervisor's efforts, when qcr existed as objections to election were pending, to enmesh Ees in construction of committee to handle matters that might be w/i province of U if certified, unlawful]

Putnam Buick, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 101
[Act does not countenance negotiating with individuals when they have bargaining representatives; however, under Sec. 8(c), E is entitled to communicate noncoercively with its unit Ees during negotiations since Ees ought to be fully informed as to all issues relevant to negotiations and parties' positions as to those issues, and Ees are fully capable of evaluating relative merits of those positions for themselves; nonetheless, 8(a)(5) violations will be found if E communications are coercive or invite direct bargaining]

Irving Tanning Company JD-(ATL)-19-85
(violation, where E distributed to its Ees summary description of retirement plan which expressly limited eligibility in plan to those Ees not included in collective bargaining unit)

5072-2400 Interference with employee's right to representation during meetings with employer

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[E's refusal to allow U representative attend discharge meeting with Ee, not violative, where E had signed discharge letter prior to meeting and had already made decision to discharge Ee prior to meeting, thus meeting was held simply for purpose of informing Ee of discharge]

Electronic Data Systems International Corporation 278 NLRB No. 014
[suspension and discharge of Ee who was major solicitor of U authorization cards, not unlawful, since for insubordination rather than for refusal to meet with supervisor w/o witness inasmuch as refusal was not protected under Weingarten where meeting was intended for purpose of informing Ee of disciplinary decision already made, and Ee had no reason to believe otherwise, there was no certified or recognized U, and discharge was not in retaliation for U activity where U activity not mentioned in relation to warning to be given at meeting or in connection with previous warnings]

Amoco Oil Company 278 NLRB No. 003
[refusal to provide Ees with U representative upon request at investigatory interview which Ees reasonably expected would result in discipline, violative, where expectation of discipline was present from fact that Ees were accused of burning up $1,000,000.00 boiler and objective of interview was to fix responsibility, Ees asked for U representative and one was available for them and E had not determined who was to be disciplined prior to investigation]

United States Postal Service 277 NLRB No. 156
(E held not to have unlawfully denied Ee's request, in course of an investigation and disciplinary interview with E, for U representative, where Ee never asked for contractual U representative but, instead, asked for fellow Ee who was officer of labor organization not representing E's Ees nor in anyway related to E; under Weingarten rule, requested representative must be agent of U which is exclusive representative of Ees)

San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 036
(Ees not unlawfully deprived of U representation at interview with E where interviews were conducted, not for investigation but to inform Ees of predetermined discipline; E's asking one ee whether he had any excuse for his conduct was not made in search of further evidence but in effort to assure that Ee understood the reasons for the discipline)

San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 036
(E's silencing Ee's representative who was trying to help Ee answer E's question at investigatory interview in which E sought to discover why Ee was dozing on the job, violative)

Harry M. Stevens, Inc., A/K/A Harry M. Stevens Services, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 031
(E's refusal to allow unrepresented Ee have coworker attend investigatory interview, not violative, since the right to representation at Weingarten--type interviews applies only to unionized Ees)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(Ee's request for U representation at meeting with E held not w/i ambit of Weingarten and E's actions not unlawful where E called Ee into his office for purpose of delivering disciplinary writeup concerning Ee's poor attendance, since E had reached final determination to issue such writeup prior to calling Ee into his office)

The Meadows East Inc. 275 NLRB No. 181
(no violation of Weingarten rights where plant was not unionized)

Prudential Insurance Company of America 275 NLRB No. 030
(denying Ee representation and blocking Ee's exit from interview, not unlawful, where U waived Ee's Weingarten right, clearly and unmistakably, in contract clause)

Illinois Bell Telephone Company 275 NLRB No. 27
(where Bd had ordered Ee who had been unlawfully denied representation during investigatory interview and b..en discharged for misconduct discussed during that interview reinstated with backpay, and E, on remand from ct to determine whether it had independent evidence of Ee's misconduct, showed no such evidence, Bd modified its make-whole remedy to a cease-and-desist order)

E. I. Dupont De Nemours 274 NLRB No. 209
(on reconsideration after requested remand from ct, Bd reversed prior decision that E violated 8(a)(1) by refusing unrepresented Ee's request for assistance of coworker at investigatory interview in view of recent Bd decision that only unionized Ees had right to representation at investigatory interviews)

E. I. DuPont de Nemours 274 NLRB No. 176
(discharging Ee solely because of his insubordination in refusing to meet with his supervisor to discuss Ee's allegedly unauthorized posting of Bd document on bulletin board w/o presence of Ee witness, not violative in absence of certified or recognized bargaining representative)

Sears, Roebuck and Co. 274 NLRB No. 055
(E's denial of Ee's request for presence of representative of his own choosing at Weingarten-type interview in non-unionized setting, not violative, since right to representation at Weingarten-type interviews applies only to represented Ees; Material Research Corp. overruled)

Radisson Muehlebach Hotel 273 NLRB No. 123
(denying U steward's request for presence of U official at interview which steward reasonably believed would result in his being suspended, violative, since he had been informed of possible suspension immediately before interview)

Greyhound Lines, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 180
(Ee's Weingarten rights violated by E's policy of requiring U representative to remain silent during investigatory interview)

Exxon Shipping Company JD-(NY)-96-85
(shipping company's denial of U representation at interview with Ee who had been found in possesion of marijuana by security personnel in violation of rule, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention purpose of interview was to gain information about use of drugs on ships generally, rather than for purpose of disciplining Ee, since Ee could reasonably fear discipline might result from interview; E's contention that Ee did not have reasonable belief that interview would result in discipline in ivew of assurances given to U representative that Ee would not be disciplined as result of interview, rejected, absent evidence assurances communicated to Ee)

Exxon Shipping Company JD-(NY)-96-85
]Weingarten rights to U representation at interview with E apply when (1) interview is investigatory i.e. designed to elicit answers to work related questions which might affect Ees or unit, and (2) Ee reasonably fears that discipline might result from interview. Main focus of analysis turns on Bd's perception of state of mind of interviewee and reasonableness of same, rather than purpose of E in conducting interview. Further, regardless of original purpose of interview, when E goes beyond such purpose and questions Ee about misconduct, full panoply of protectionss accorded Ee under Weingarten may be applicable)

Exxon Shipping Company JD-(NY)-96-85
(fact Ee stayed and answered questions at investigatory interview w/o U representation did constitute voluntary participation or waiver of his right to U representation)

Union Underwear Company, Inc. JD-77-85
(Bd has held that Weingarten rights (Ee's right to presence of U representative at investigatory interview which Ee reasonably believed would result in disciplinary action) are inapplicable where there is no certified or recognized U---. C dismissed since it was undisputed that there was no certified or recognized U involved)

Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo Motorways, Inc. JD-(SF)-31-85
(E's discharge of Ee following investigatory interview concerning Ee's working at other employment while receiving disability payments from E, not violative of Ee's Weingarten rights as alleged where, after E confronted Ee with information about his activities, Ee remarked that he needed to consult an attorney, discharge was for cause and not violative of Ee's right to representation during interview, as Ee never mentioned U or fellow Ee, only attorney)

Walter J. Slaughter v. N.L.R.B. (E.I. Dupont DeNemours & Co.) 794 F.2d 120 (C.A. 3, June 1986)
[in remanding case to Bd for further proceedings, ct reaffirmed its previous view that under reasoning of Weingarten it is at least permissible to interpret Sec. 7 as guaranteeing U members and unorganized Ees alike right to represntative at investigatory interviews]

5072-2500 Sponsorship of inside union, employee committee, personnel group, etc.

Middletown Hospital Association 282 NLRB No. 079
[supporting, participating in, or maintaining professional relations group composed of doctors and nurses at hospital, established as fulfillment of unlawful promise of benefit, held unlawful on that basis, regardless of whether group addressed matters that were terms and conditions of employment]

Bay State Ambulance and Hospital Rental, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 122
[E's strong promotion of its own Ee association as alternative to U at time election had been scheduled and telling Ees that association would be better avenue to improve working conditions and pay, violative]

Nick Gryfakis and Han Nyunt, A Partnership d/b/a N & H Enterprises d/b/a Abernathy's Restaurant JD-(SF)-33-86
[soliciting Ee grievances and impliedly promising to remedy them by soliciting Ees to form Ee negotiation committee to draft contract for E's approval, appointing representative to negotiate with committee, then refusing to sign contract because committee had failed to prevent holding of U representation election, violation]

Kaset Corporation d/b/a Atlantic Highlands Nursing Home, Inc. JD-(NY)-110-85
(suggesting to Ees that they form in-house independent U instead of petitioning U, violation)

5072-2600 Interference with employees' right to selection own representative

Amer-Cal Industries, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 148
(E's furnishing Ee with blank decertification ptn for Ee at Ee's request and giving Ee address where completed ptn should be mailed, not violative)

Food Concepts, Inc. JD-(NY)-36-85
(when E closed down one of its 2 locations, each represented by different U, and transferred those Ees to remaining location, a merger of units occurred and qcr existed. E violated Act when he recognized and applied contract of U that represented original Ees at location to the newly moved Ees, and also when supervisor threatened transferred Ees with discharge if they did not join other U)

5072-2700 Interference with employee's performance of duties as union representative

Orleans International, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 169
(telling U steward in loud voice, when he questioned allegedly discriminatory recission of reprimand to Ee for failing to perform work on Saturday, in effect not to question E's disciplinary policy, unlawful, since steward was performing his duty in justifiably questioning E excusing Ee from performing Saturday work inasmuch as presumably this required more Saturday work of other unit Ees)

United States Postal Service 273 NLRB No. 217
(violation, where E threatened to suspend U steward who protested new policy requiring stewards to process grievances w/i specified period of each day, which was announced at meeting between E and U representatives, stating his belief change of policy was violation of contract and of Act, and that he would leave meeting)

SWS Silicones Corporation JD-484-84
(threatening U steward for filing picayune grievances, unlawful)

5072-2800 Abetting activities of employees opposed to union

The Standard Products Company, Rocky Mount Division 281 NLRB No. 018
[minor horseplay on election day between 2 Ees about their respective pro- and anti-U views in presence of supervisor, not unlawful, since conduct was not likely to be highly coercive as claimed, where pro-U Ee's support for U was widely known, he did not hesitate to express that support during incident, and supervisor did not participate in incident]

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital 280 NLRB No. 011
[E granting Ees paid time off to attend meeting arranged by anti-U Ees at which E's attorney spoke about decertification and other options open to anti-U Ees, not unlawful, since E had customarily accorded same treatment to Ees attending U meetings]

Walter Garson, Jr & Associates 276 NLRB No. 137
(E gave no unlawful assistance or support to Ees in filing anti-U ptn letter and E merely advised Ees to communicate with NLRB and did not assist in any way with formulation of ptn; nor was E's permitting Ees to deliberate and prepare ptn on work time, providing assistance in communicating with absent Ees and transportation to NLRB office, unlawful, since no more work time given for this effort than for other solicitations, and all such assistance was merely ministerial)

Duroyd Manufacturing, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 025
(E paying another Ee to take Ee to NLRB regional office to file charges against U, assisting Ee in composing charges, and encouraging solicitation of Ee signatures on antiU ptn, unlawful)

Eastern States Optical Co., Inc. 275 NLRB No. 058
(E's attorney did not render unlawful assistance to Ees in preparation of decertification ptn where Ees contacted attorney after ptn initiated, neither attorney nor E played any role in Ees' decision to initiate ptn and E did not solicit any signatures. Attorney supplying Ees with unit description, names of E's officials necessary to complete Bd ptn, and statement that 6 signatures probably sufficient for Bd's ptn was nothing more than editorial or ministerial aid)

Duct-O-Wire Company JD-(ATL)-3-86
[E did not render unlawful assistance to Ees in preparation of decertification ptn where E played no role in Ees' decision to initiate ptn and E did not solicit any signatures; E's actions in supplying Ees with 4-page package discussing rights on decertification were nothing more than ministerial aid]

5072-2900 Excluding union members from savings and stock ownership plan

Lynn-Edwards Corp. 282 NLRB No. 007
[E's statements that Ees covered by U-negotiated contracts could not participate in Ee stock ownership plan, and E's maintenance of such restrictive provisions in the plan's governing document, violation and election interference]

5072-3000 Soliciting employees to cross picket line

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[E's manager encouraging Ees to follow lead of Ees who would cross picket line in case of strike, unlawful]

Beverly Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Parkview Gardens Care Center 280 NLRB No. 008
[supervisor asking nurses aide if she intended to strike not coercive and unlawful, since necessary to adequately staff facility during strike, but supervisor following question by suggesting to nurses aide that she would be discharged if she went out on strike, especially in view of her probationary status, unlawful]

5072-3400 Interference with decertification activity

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 175
(foreman's escorting Ee to other Ee's restricted work area where Ee was asked to sign decertification card, not violative; while it was somewhat unusual for Ees to go to other Ee's work area, it was not so unusual as to create atmosphere in which other Ee would tend to be coerced; moreover, foreman's presence was not violative where he said nothing and did not know beforehand why Ees wished to talk)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 175
(E's leaving confidential memos explaining U decertification in places where Ees could read them, not violative where E did not do so deliberately)

Western Medical Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a ARA Living Center, Verdugo Vista Convalescent Hospital JD-(SF)-54-85
(E's withdrawal of recognition based on ptn signed by majority of Ees indicating they no longer supported incumbent U, not violative, notwithstanding one of E's supervisors had written withdrawal language on 1 of 3 pages of ptn, where this was the only evidence of E's involvement with ptn, ptn was initiated by Ees alone and E held meeting with department heads and told them to remain neutral in regard to ptn, not get involved with it, give advice or answer questions)

5072-3500 Threatening employee with retaliation if he should discuss or file grievance

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E's vice-president's statement to Ee during grievance meeting that grievances had better stop constituted unlawful threat of unspecified reprisals]

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E's vice-president informing Ee that if Ee continued to stick his nose into everybody's business, referring to Ee's filing grievances sooner or later somebody's going to put it all over his face, unlawful, since constituted thinly veiled threat of physical harm for protected activity of filing grievances]

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E's statement to Ee who had been grievance chairman and continued to file grievances after resigning office that he would have his job, and that someone would put his nose all over his face went further than usual shop talk and constituted unlawful threat of physical harm]

5072-3900 Interference with handbilling and other union activities

Caress Bake Shop, Inc. d/b/a Barkus Bakery 282 NLRB No. 055
[attempting to eject U organizers from parking area of property adjacent to E which E had leased to operator of separate business, and calling police to assist in their removal, unlawful, where E's representatives never distinguished between E's premises and those of lease-holder, and U agents were told they had no right to be on leased property; E clearly was attempting to prevent U representatives from distributing literature anywhere in parking lot, including property other than its own]

Fairmont Hotel Company d/b/a The Fairmont Hotel 282 NLRB No. 027
[hotel refusing to permit non-Ee U representatives to continue to handbill for area standards for Ees of one of hotel's suppliers on hotel's private property near its main entrance, not unlawful, since herein E's property rights outweighed U's Section 7 right to inform public regarding lack of area standards, where activity at hotel's entrance increased possibility of theft of luggage, tort liability, and congestion and litter, atmosphere expected by guests violated, hotel had no interest in economic success of E with which U had dispute, nor was there vital link to Ees located on hotel's property]

Hoechst Garment Company, A Subsidiary of Spencer Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 081
[monitoring U handbilling on E's property and attempting to evict trespassing U representatives, no violation, since E's attempts to evict were exercise of legitimate proprietory prerogative and E representatives' presence at handbilling was part and parcel of permissible effort to evict]

Brocal Corp. d/b/a Alert Medical Transport 276 NLRB No. 066
(rescheduling E meeting with its Ees, which Ees were required and paid to attend, to coincide with U meeting, violative, since purpose was to prevent Ees from attending U meeting)

Borden Inc. JD-(SF)-007-86
[it is tendency to interfere with Ee receipt of U literature which is coercive rather than actual effect of such conduct]

5072-4000 Solicitation of statements from employees

Products Unlimited Corp. 280 NLRB No. 041
[asking Ee why she had been running around day before getting Ees to sign paper during working hours, not unlawful, since was legitimate interrogation concerning possible violation of no-solicitation rule, notwithstanding gathering of signatures was related to alleged unlawful discriminatory discharge]

5072-4200 Solicitation of employees' withdrawal from union

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division 281 NLRB No. 113
[where E was found to have unlawfully tainted decertification ptn by various 8(a)(1) conduct including specific remarks made to some Ees to undermine support for U, it was no defense that E produced Ee witnesses that had never heard E's unlawful remarks since it was fair to presume some of E's remarks were disseminated among Ees; E is a wrongdoer who must bear responsibility for consequences that flow from unlawful conduct and bears the burden of disentangling consequences from which it is chargeable from those which it is not]

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital 280 NLRB No. 011
[supervisor unlawfully solicited striking Ees' resignations from U since his conversations with Ees went beyond providing information regarding avoiding fines by resigning and conditioned return to work on resignation from U, and where supervisor evidenced continuing interest in knowing whether or not nurses intended to resign and return to work, and in some instances offered assistance in effecting resignation that was not merely ministerial]

5072-5500 Refusal to talk to employees except on individual basis

Regency Electronics, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 002

SWS Silicones Corporation JD-484-84
(threatening U steward for filing picayune grievances, unlawful)

SWS Silicones Corporation JD-484-84
(informing Ee he would get in trouble with E if he did not withdraw pending grievance, and if he filed additional grievances or associated with persons who filed grievances, unlawful)

5072-5600 Disciplining employee for conduct during grievance meeting

Puerto Rican Association for Human Development JD-(NY)-148-84
(Ees intervening on behalf of disciplined Ee and at request of this Ee writing memos setting forth their version of incident where memos not malicious, recklessly false or excessively disparaging of E's reputation or services, engaged in protected activities and suspension for writing these memos, violative. Additionally, suspension of Ee over his conduct in supervisor's office during discussion of memos, violative also, since E may not rely on Ee's conduct that it has unlawfully provoked as basis for disciplining Ees)

5072-5700 Interference with arbitration or grievance proceedings or participants therein

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E's vice-president's statement to Ee during grievance meeting that grievances had better stop constituted unlawful threat of unspecified reprisals]

Asarco Incorporated Mission Unit 279 NLRB No. 117
[escorting U steward out of grievance meeting in a manner that assertedly constituted a physical assault, not unlawful, since conduct was neither inherently destructive of Ees' Sec. 7 rights nor did it tend to restrain or coerce Ees in exercise of such rights, given facts of case]

Oil Field Construction Company JD-(SF)-104-86
[informing Ees that reason they had not been assigned to job was because of their grievance-filing activity, unlawful]

Educational Broadcasting Corporation d/b/a WNET/Thirteen JD-(NY)-125-85
[violation, where E threatened to discharge and blacklist Ee because she filed and pursued grievance]

Puerto Rican Association for Human Development JD-(NY)-148-84
(suspending secretary for typing memo that was held protected activity, violative)

5072-5800 Interference with representation on grievance committee

Arizona Portland Cement Company, A Division of California Portland Cement Company, A Division of Calmat 281 NLRB No. 030
[deferral inappropriate as to issue of who may be U representative at grievance meeting absent contract under which parties were mutually bound by agreed-upon grievance-arbitration procedure]

Arizona Portland Cement Company, A Division of California Portland Cement Company, A Division of Calmat 281 NLRB No. 030
[refusing to meet and bargain with international U's representative designated as U's representative for processing grievances at grievance step 2 meeting, violation]

5072-6000 noneligibility of bargaining unit employees for benefits

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 080
[language in brochure describing E's health plan that stated plan was available to any Ee of group who was not in occupation classification represented by U, violative of Section 8(a)(1) since it penalizes represented Ees, notwithstanding plan actually available to represented Ees]

Irving Tanning Company JD-(ATL)-19-85
(violation, where E distributed to its Ees summary description of retirement plan which expresly limited eligibility in plan to those Ees not included in collective bargaining unit)

5072-7700 Restraining union or other concerted activities on company time or premises

Bridgeway Oldsmobile, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 148
[E's announcement of rule prohibiting Ees from gathering in groups only 2 weeks after U's demand for recognition, violative; even though E proferred that rule was imposed because customers were being neglected and one Ee did testify that such a thing could happen, timing of rule and E's unremitting opposition to U justify finding Ees' U activities were under surveillance]

Springfield Hospital 281 NLRB No. 076
[E instituting new non-access rule for off-duty Ees just for date of R election, violative, where rule not disseminated, limited to election day, U animus, and departure from normal policy showed that purpose of rule was to thwart U activity of off-duty Ees]

Springfield Hospital 281 NLRB No. 076
[employment of off-duty deputy sheriffs, in full uniform, to be present at hospital on day before, and day of election for purpose of denying access on election day to off-duty Ees unless coming to vote, to non-Ees other than deliverymen, and to persons visiting patients, not violative, as no showing that deputies interfered with Ees rights. Deputies did not question any individuals about U activities or sentiments, or interfere with their right to vote, or create coercive atmosphere]

Products Unlimited Corp. 280 NLRB No. 041
[asking Ee why she had been running around day before getting Ees to sign paper during working hours, not unlawful, since was legitimate interrogation concerning possible violation of no-solicitation rule, notwithstanding gathering of signatures was related to alleged unlawful discriminatory discharge]

Saulsactro Corporation 280 NLRB No. 015
[supervisor asking Ee if he had attended U meeting previous night and how he felt about meeting, unlawful, since not merely casual questioning, but coercive, where supervisor was new and there was no ongoing relationship, and Ee was not self proclaimed U adherent]

Southern Maryland Hospital Center v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 666 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1986)
[E's Chief Executive Officer's confiscating U campaign materials being distributed by Ee at cafeteria entrance not violative where Official distributed to Ees most of materials he took and no Ee was intimidated by the incident. Conduct in this case was at most a minimal intrusion on Ee rights and not violative]

5072-7750 Distribution of union literature or cards

Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 039
[questioning Ee, who was known participant in dissident U group, concerning his requesting fellow Ees to sign ptn and affidavit contesting U voting procedures, not violative, since Ee was a known participant in dissident U group who solicited his fellow Ees to sign U material while they were on their work (as apposed to break) time. As E is entitled to have its Ees perform their work w/o interruptions, E has right to investigate apparent interferences with its Ees carrying out their duties]

Trover Clinic 280 NLRB No. 002
[E's statement to Ee that distribution of cartoon in Ee's possession, depicting nervous individual describing himself as undergoing abusive treatment, was possible grounds for discharge, unlawful, since distribution of cartoon would have constituted protected activity, where cartoon was related to Ee's working conditions, E's contention that cartoon was defamatory amounted to concession that it considered it to be directed at E's treatment of Ees, cartoon's message did not remove it from protection of Act, and E did not establish type of circumstances that would render cartoon unprotected]

T & T Machine Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 139
[informing Ee that soliciting was not allowed during working hours and warning Ee abouot harassment of other Ees during working hours, unlawful, absent any indication Ee's limited conversation with other Ee interfered with production]

T & T Machine Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 139
[instituting no-soliciation rule prohibiting any kind of solicitation or distribution of literature during actual working time, unlawful, since rule established for purpose of deterring and impeding Ee efforts to generate U support, in view of timing at onset of organizing campaign, and after issuance of unlawful warning to in-house organizing committee member, and in absence of any business justification for rule]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[interfering with distribution of literature in non-work areas during non-work time, violative and objectionable where Ees were told they could not distribute literature at plant entrance but would have to go to plant gate, and two Ees were threatened with arrest and escorted by security guards to plant gate]

[supervisor gathering up U literature from break area at conclusion of break, not unlawful as he was just cleaning up clutter in break area]

Uniontown Hospital Association 277 NLRB No. 144
(security guard's physically attempting to bar Ee from distributing U literature, violation and interference)

Southern Maryland Hospital Center 276 NLRB No. 153
(E's confiscation of U literature and the then distribution of same to Ees, violative, notwithstanding E's contention that E actually aided U in distribution and therefore such conduct cannot be condemned, since E's obligation is not to interfere at all with Ees' right to distribute U literature)

Bell Helter, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 136
(E unlawfully maintained overly broad no-distribution rule and unlawfully enforced it by confiscating U literature, where E's posted notice, properly authorizing distribution of literature, failed to repudiate old rule, since notice did not assure Ees against further interference with their rights but created impression among Ees of E benevolence in authorizing that which E could not have lawfully prohibited, and notice suggested to Ees that authorization for lawful distribution was subject to withdrawal; moreover, there were no assurances new Ees will not be requested to read and understand old rule)

Bell Helter, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 136
(managerial and supervisory personnel held not to have orally engaged in independently promulgating overly broad no-distribution rule but to have simply enforced long standing rule by prohibiting Ees from distributing U literature and by confiscating it)

Adams Super Markets Corp. 274 NLRB No. 194
(instructing Ee, who admitted to passing out U cards while on duty at cash register not to solicit when she was working and that disciplinary action could be taken if conduct repeated, not unlawful, absent evidence of disparate treatment)

Adams Super Markets Corp. 274 NLRB No. 194
(supermarkets' promulgation of facially valid no solicitation rule prohibiting solicitation or distribution of literature of any kind by any Ee during actual working time of Ee soliciting or Ee being solicited and prohibiting solicitation or distribution on E's property by non-Ees at any time, in new Ee handbook distributed during U campaign, not unlawful, since no solicitation rule published in handbook not new but amplification and clarification of already posted rule and Ee handbook customary place to include no-solicitation rule)

Offshore Shipbuilding, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 077
(informing Ees they were not to distribute U authorization cards on company time, not unlawful)

Ultrapower Services, Inc. JD-(SF)-122-86
[supervisor questioning Ee concerning allegations by other Ees of distribution and solicitation for U by Ee during working hours, ordering Ee to cease such activities if he had engaged in them, and informing Ee that company rule prohibiting solicitation did not preclude U activities before or after work or during lunch, not unlawful, where E's no solicitation/distribution rule was valid, Ee was not disciplined, nor was he coerced by interview inasmuch as he continued his activities, and absent permitting of non-U work time solicitations]

The Limited, Inc. JD-264-85
(E's posting notice and giving speeches to Ees telling them that they should inform E if they are put under pressure to join U and inviting or encouraging Ees to report identity of U supporters, violative)

Southern Maryland Hospital Center v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 666 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1986)
[E's Chief Executive Officer's confiscating U campaign materials being distributed by Ee at cafeteria entrance not violative where Official distributed to Ees most of materials he took and no Ee was intimidated by the incident. Conduct in this case was at most a minimal intrusion on Ee rights and not violative]

N.L.R.B. v. Vought Corporation - MLRS Systems Division 788 F.2d 1378 (C.A. 8, Apr. 1986)
[warning Ee against passing out U information and harassing Ees during working hours, unlawful, where no evidence Ee's solicitation had adverse impact on production, and in view of fact E allowed anti-U committee to solicit on company time]

N.L.R.B. v. Vought Corporation - MLRS Systems Division 788 F.2d 1378 (C.A. 8, Apr. 1986)
[E's plant security officer informing Ee that he would not be allowed to distribute U literature in plant parking lot, unlawful, notwithstanding supervisors overrode security officer, allowed the distribution and no discipline to Ee, since substantial evidence that statements tended to interfere with Ee's right to distribute U literature in nonworking area on nonworking time, and that there were no special circumstances to justify e's attempted enforcement of overly broad rule]

N.L.R.B. v. Vought Corporation - MLRS Systems Division 788 F.2d 1378 (C.A. 8, Apr. 1986)
[E's no distribution rule which prohibited reproducing, posting or passing out typed or printed material other than company business w/o permission unlawfully broad even if never enforced, in view of rule's chilling effect]

5072-7775 Wearing of or display of union insignia or other materials

Armon Company 279 NLRB No. 158
[telling Ee to stop wearing U hat, violation]

Government Employees (Office Employees, Local No. 2) 278 NLRB No. 055
[prohibition against wearing Hostage/Striker armbands, violative]

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company 276 NLRB No. 110
(in finding E's removal of Definition of a Scab notices from U's bulletin boards, unlawful, Bd did not equate maintaining notice on bulletin board with wearing a pin bearing a slogan, since danger of confrontation in the two situations is entirely different; and Bd noted there is a distinction between slogan herein and slogan which could be construed as obscene)

University of Richmond 274 NLRB No. 182
(rule prohibitig Ees from wearing any jewelry except earrings or wedding rings not discriminatorily enforced as to wearing of U insignia, as alleged, notwithstanding some evidence of failure to always enforce it, where rule was justified as to Ees engaged in cooking and serving food and was enforced before U's organizing campaign, albeit imperfectly)

Southern California Edison Company 274 NLRB No. 167
(wearing of button with Stick Your Retro written on it, protected, where saying not obscene, message had little significance to outsider so public image of E not injured and message was clearly related to pending negotiations)

5072-7780 Posting notices

National Micronetics, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 095
(maintaining bulletin board in such way that pro-U campaign propaganda, but not anti-U propaganda, could be defaced or removed, violation and interference)

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company 276 NLRB No. 110
(E's removal of Definition of a Scab notice from U's bulletin board, unlawful, absent special circumstances privileging its removal, where only evidence that notice was disruptive was that Ees were milling around or talking in huddles instead of working independently at their stations as they normally did; since their supervisors, however, did not tell Ees to go back to work, it cannot be concluded that such unusual behavior reasonably signaled serious threat to discipline, especially w/o some indication that E asked Ees to return to their work stations)

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company 276 NLRB No. 110
(supervisors' removal of Definition of a Scab notices from U's bulletin boards, removal of which they tried to justify on ground they each had been told by single Ee that there was something distasteful on bulletin board, held not to prove special circumstances privileging removal merely by reference to sensibilities of 1 or 2 Ees)

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company 276 NLRB No. 110
(in finding E's removal of Definition of a Scab notice from U's bulletin boards, unlawful, Bd did not presume that there was animosity among Ees because number of them crossed picket line during recent strike, so that notice critical of nonstrikers was likely to provoke confrontation, where strike was not accompanied by mass picketing and violence; United Aircraft Corp., 134 NLRB 1632, distg)

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company 276 NLRB No. 110
(in finding E's removal of Definition of a Scab notices from U's bulletin boards, unlawful, Bd did not equate maintaining notice on bulletin board with wearing a pin bearing a slogan, since danger of confrontation in the two situations is entirely different; and Bd noted there is a distinction between slogan herein and slogan which could be construed as obscene)

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company 276 NLRB No. 110
(violations, where supervisors directed Ees to remove Definition of a Scab notices from U's bulletin boards, and issued warnings and threats to Ees for distributing, posting, and reposting notices)

Uptilt, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 065
(violation, where E removed pro-U signs, in view of absence of E rules against posting of signs, and fact that posting of notices regarding non-U matters was permitted)

5072-7784 Circulating petition protesting discharges

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 277 NLRB No. 016
(violation, where supervisor informed Ees at departmental meeting that protected concerted activity of solicitation of signatures on behalf of Ee who had been discharged could not be conducted on company property)

Cone Mills Corporation-White Oak Plant 273 NLRB No. 188
(E's interference with Ees' U and/or protected activities by impeding circulation of ptn protecting discharge of 3 U stewards, unlawful)

5072-7787 Other restraints

Trover Clinic 280 NLRB No. 002
[supervisor's comment to Ee with whom supervisor was on good terms that Ee keep a low profile and be quiet with it, clearly referring to Ee's U organizing activity, unlawful, since remarks reasonably tended to interfere with Ee's free exercise of her Ee rights, and supervisor's statement concerning U activities can be coercive despite friendly relationship between the individuals and well-intentioned nature of the statements]

Raytheon Missile System Division, Raytheon Company 279 NLRB No. 035
[supervisor warning U adherent against having any U stuff on his desk during company time, not violative where E was simply utilizing housekeeping rule that was created prior to U's advent in non-discriminatory manner]

5072-8000 Confiscating union literature, etc.

Mississippi Chemical Corporation 280 NLRB No. 046
[supervisor's conduct assertedly in enforcing no distribution rule by confiscating from Ee break room single leaflet announcing U meeting, unlawful, where E had no written policies or established practice prohibiting nonwork related material in plant and, instead, tolerated such material; accordingly, in view of other 8(a)(1) conduct found herein, supervisor confiscated notice because it concerned U matter; moreover, Ees seeing its removal could reasonably perceive that U notices were not allowed in area; and, unlike removal of one notice from stack of notices, removal of single notice interfered with its intended purpose]

Southern Maryland Hospital Center 276 NLRB No. 153
(E's confiscation of U literature and the then distribution of same to Ees, violative, notwithstanding E's contention that E actually aided U in distribution and therefore such conduct cannot be condemned, since E's obligation is not to interfere at all with Ees' right to distribute U literature)

Bell Halter, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 136
(E unlawfully maintained overly broad no-distribution rule and unlawfully enforced it by confiscating U literature, where E's posted notice, properly authorizing distribution of literature, failed to repudiate old rule, since notice did not assure Ees against further interference with their rights but created impression among Ees of E benevolence in authorizing that which E could not have lawfully prohibited, and notice suggested to Ees that authorization for lawful distribution was subject to withdrawal; moreover, there were no assurances new Ees will not be requested to read and understand old rule)

Bell Halter, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 136
(managerial and supervisory personnel held not to have orally engaged in independently promulgating overly broad no-distribution rule but to have simply enforced long standing rule by prohibiting Ees from distributing U literature and by confiscating it)

Uptilt, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 065
(violation, where E removed pro-U signs, in view of absence of E rules against posting of signs, and fact that posting of notices regarding non-U matters was permitted)

The Union National Bank of Pittsburgh 276 NLRB No. 013
(E forwarding letters from U addressed to Ees at work at E's branches to E's main office instead of distributing them to Ees, unlawful implementation of discriminatory no distribution rule, where Ees frequently received personal mail at office; E's contentions that by its use of E's Internal Distribution Code on letters, U made E its delivery service and use of E's resources for delivery would violate Sec. 8(a)(2), rejected, since no exposure to liability for one time distribution especially where letters sent directly to branch offices and not sorted in mail room, E's directory not confidential)

Stovall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(supervisor's collecting U authorization cards from Ees, violative)

Tomco Carburetor Company 275 NLRB No. 001
(directing Ees to turn in their U authorization cards to their foremen, stating they would lose their jobs if they did not do so, violative)

Southern Maryland Hospital Center v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 666 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1986)
[E's Chief Executive Officer's confiscating U campaign materials being distributed by Ee at cafeteria entrance not violative where Official distributed to Ees most of materials he took and no Ee was intimidated by the incident. Conduct in this case was at most a minimal intrusion on Ee rights and not violative]

5072-8300 Interference with union or employee meetings

Brocal Corp. d/b/a Alert Medical Transport 276 NLRB No. 046
(rescheduling E meeting with its Ees, which Ees were required and paid to attend, to coincide with U meeting, violative, since purpose was to prevent Ees from attending U meeting)

Northline Bus Center, Inc. JD-(ATL)-41-85
(E's telling Ees that he had sent supervisor to restaurant at which U meeting had been scheduled to ascertain what was going on among Ees, unlawful)

M.F. Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Gopher Restaurant JD-417-84
(threat to discharge or layoff Ees if they discussed U among themselves on their own time away from E's premises, unlawful)

5072-8400 Interference with union contacting employees off employer's premises

Caress Bake Shop, Inc. d/b/a Barkus Bakery 282 NLRB No. 035
[attempting to eject U organizers from parking area of property adjacent to E which E had leased to operator of separate business, and calling police to assist in their removal, unlawful, where E's representatives never distinguished between E's premises and those of lease-holder, and U agents were told they had no right to be on leased property; E clearly was attempting to prevent U representatives from distributing literature anywhere in parking lot, including property other than its own]

5072-8600 Retaliation for engaging in union or other protected activity

Springfield Hospital 281 NLRB No. 076
[supervisor's threat to get even with Ee because he had engaged in protected concerted activity by signing petitions, violative]

Pete O'Dell & Sons Steel Erectors 275 NLRB No. 140
(discharge, layoff after subsequent rehire of Ee, violative, as Ee was engaged in protected concerted activity when he testified before Army Corps of Engineers during their investigation of U complaint that E was not in compliance with Davis-Bacon Act by classifying Ees as laborers thereby failing to pay Ees ironworkers wages for ironworker work performed by laborers, as Ee was engaged in U activity by assisting U with their complaint, and E tied other 8(a)(1) violations to Ee's U activities)

Studio S.J.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126
(threatening leading U activist with violence to her person or property and physically abusing her because she had engaged in U activity, violative)

Bechtel Power Corporation 277 NLRB No. 088
(discharge of ee, assertedly for violating E's hardhat rules, violative, since real reason was Ee's complaints about breathing exhaust fumes in working area which complaints were protected concerted activity under City Disposal, where Ee's complaints were embodied in contract which had clause providing that all workmen and E's were to see that safe working conditions are maintained on all jobs, Ee complained to E-official who admitted receiving similar complaints from other Ees, Ee was longtime U member and told official he wanted to talk to steward and other Ees were not similarly discharged for similar hardhat violations)

5072-8700 Interference with union activity away from employer's property or worksite

Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 125
[supervisor ordering Ee to remove pre-U campaign posters at places away from work site, unlawful]

5078 INTERFERENCE WITH ELECTION OR REPRESENTATION PROCEEDINGS OF BOARD

5078-2000 Assistance to one of competing unions

Steven Muss, Cynthia Muss Lawrence and Debbie Muss Kashen, A Copartnership, d/b/a Alexander Muss & Sons 274 NLRB No. 193
(E's recognition and execution of contract with one U and its withdrawal of recognition from another U which was striking E over failure of contract negotiations, not violative, since no R ptn had been filed with Bd thus raising qcr, and E had objective considerations for doubting striking U's majority status where striking Ees had been on strike for over a year, all strikers had been permanently replaced and 13 of 17 current Ees had freely signed cards authorizing new U to represent them, giving no indication of support for striking U)

5078-4000 Efforts to influence result

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154
[telling Ee to vote no in election, violation and interference]

5078-4025 Withholding benefits to influence vote

Eskaton Sunrise Community 279 NLRB No. 012
[telling Ees that they would not receive their paychecks unless they voted no in U election, unlawful]

5078-4030 Attempts to have employee refrain from voting

Link Manufacturing Co. 281 NLRB No. 028
[E's attempt on several occasions to get Ee not to vote in election, unlawful, since inference was clear that E used his authority to coerce Ee for such purpose]

5078-4050 Promise of or grant of benefit

Products Unlimited Corp. 280 NLRB No. 041
[supervisor informing Ees that E would not agree to U wage and benefit demands, and at same time promised to try to obtain raise for Ees as inducement to not vote for U, unlawful]

United Electrical & Mechanical, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 034
[promising Ees pay raises to influence their vote in election, violative]

Naral Color Corporation 276 NLRB No. 061
(telling Ees at group meetings prior to decertification election that they would be eligible for E's stock-option-program if they were non-U and U was opposing such plan for unit Ees at the bargaining table, not violative, since E was simply pointing out an existing benefit its non-U Ees enjoyed which would be available to unit Ees if they were non-U)

Steffer Brothers JD-269-86
[offering unlawfully discharged Ee his job if he voted against U in election, unlawful]

H. A. Satin Co., Inc. JD-(ATL)-2-86
[E's president informing Ees at non-unionized facility of cost of U dues, and initiation fees, stating that he saw no reason for Ees to begin working for U as they would receive same benefits as Ees at E's unionized facility w/o joining or voting in U, unlawful]

Southern Maryland Hospital Center v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 666 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1986)
[reinstitution of Ee of the Month award and offering $100 to winner each month during pre-election period not violative in view of both length of U's (approximately 13 months) organizational drive and large number of hospital Ees (approximately 1300). Designation of one individual as Ee of month can not reasonably be said to be so significant as to influence in any way attitude of Ees or outcome of election]

5078-4070 Hiring or retaining antiunion employees

Bridgeway Oldsmobile, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 165
[E's hiring of extra salespeople prior to election, assertedly because of increased sales, violative, since real reason was attempt to pack unit with anti-U votes where E did not demand of these Ees, like other Ees hired before them, that they withdraw from U, some of the Ees hired had originally been fired by E for incompetency and one Ee, who was supposed to have been hired as a supervisor, was hired to do unit work shortly before election]

Bo-Ed Inc. d/b/a Golden Fan Inn 281 NLRB No. 035
[E did not unlawfully pack the unit even though there was evidence that one of E's managers told another Ee that E was having additional work done to fix up the rooms and beef up the payroll, since statement was more susceptible to a finding that E was merely expressing a legitimate intention to add Ees to perform legitimate maintenance work; further, E's inclusion on Excelsior list of Ees found to be supervisory did not show any more unlawful purpose where their supervisory status was clearly debatable]

Star Color Plate Service, Division of Einhorn Enterprises, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 082
[E's packing the unit with part-time Ees shortly before election, violative, where Ees hired were almost all relatives or friends of management, thus E would know how they would vote and E had, at time it hired part-time Ees, full-time positions available]

State Garden Celery Company, Inc. JD-243-84
(hiring 2 Ees 6 weeks before election who had previously been performing electrical work for E held not purpose of packing unit with anti-U Ees since E was attempting to reduce its maintenance costs by hiring own electricians, and E sought to hire these Ees even before any U activity at plant)

State Garden Celery Company, Inc. JD-243-84
(E hiring of Ees after R hearing had been held and election was predictably imminent, unlawful, since for purpose of defeating U, where Ees hired were irregular part-time Ees who could not conceivably satisfy any genuine need, nor perform work of full time Ees whom E claimed they were replacing)

5078-4080 Changes in conditions of employment or threats thereof or statements made in connection with election

Bridgeway Oldsmobile, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 165
[E's attempt to manipulate Ee's resignation shortly before election by telling Ee to go ahead and resign if he was going to vote for U but if he would vote against U, E would put him on sick leave, violative]

Eskaton Sunrise Community 279 NLRB No. 012
[telling Ees that they would not receive their paychecks unless they voted no in U election, unlawful]

Jean Foust, Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Regency Manor Nursing Home 275 NLRB No. 171
(promoting several Ees in small unit to supervisory positions during critical period, assertedly to comply with state law, violative and objectionable, since real reason was to disenfranchise active U supporters, where state law did not in fact support E's position and even though job descriptions of Ees promoted would indicate supervisory status, those promoted did not in fact exercise any supervisory duties but rather performed same job as in the past)

H. A. Satin Co., Inc. JD-(ATL)-2-86
[promulgation of new and more stringent productivity rule, and issuing warnings pursuant thereto, unlawful, since actions taken to discourage Ees from supporting U, where E had never previously issued large number of warnings in single day for low production until w/i 1 month of U campaign, and in view of concurrent unlawful promise of benefits, notwithstanding asserted reason of financial difficulties, where financial problems had been on going for several years]

5078-8000 Restraining employees from voting

Stop N' Go Inc. 279 NLRB No. 052
[threatening to discharge Ees who took off from work to vote in election, violation]

Michiel's Inc., d/b/a Le Saint Jean Des Pres Restaurant 279 NLRB No. 017
[E's scheduling certain Ees to be off on day of election, assertedly to induce them not to participate in election, not violative, where Ees involved were regularly assigned that day of the week to be off; further, E is not required to employ all workers on election day just so they may find it more convenient to vote]

5078-8200 Offer of or promotion to supervisor to preclude voting in election

Jean Foust, Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Regency Manor Nursing Home 275 NLRB No. 171
(promoting several Ees in small unit to supervisory positions during critical period, assertedly to comply with state law, violative and objectionable, since real reason was to disenfranchise active U supporters, where state law did not in fact support E's position and even though job descriptions of Ees promoted would indicate supervisory status, those promoted did not in fact exercise any supervisory duties but rather performed same job as in the past)

5081 INTERFERENCE WITH BOARD PROCEEDINGS

5081-1700 Interference with Board investigation

La Salle Investment Co., Ltd., d/b/a Cafe La Salle 280 NLRB No. 043
[refusal to give letter of recommendation to Ee violative of 8(a)(4), as well as 8(a)(1), where reason for refusal was because U filed ULP charge naming Ee as discriminatee; under S.Ct's Scrivener cases, 8(a)(4) is interpreted to afford broad rather than narrow protection to Ee and includes not only Ee who has filed charges or given testimony but also Ee otherwise participating in Bd investigation]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[Ee relations director's statements to Ee that there was some question as to whether Bd subpoenas would be enforced and that compliance was up to Ee's discretion, violation and conduct affecting election, and employment relations manager's statements to him also violation and conduct interfering with election in that they falsely suggested that honoring subpoena was matter of discretion and subpoena could be ignored with impunity]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[E's notice stating that E took no position about Ees meeting with Bd and/or U representatives and signing papers, and that Ees had no legal obligation to do so, not violation or conduct interfering with election where notice was posted in response to Ees' inquiries, did not mischaracterize Bd's role, did not suggest E's disfavor over Ee's cooperating with Bd, and did not make false statements about Ees' obligation to go to meeting or sign papers]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[E's statements which denigrate Bd subpoenas and suggest that they need not be honored have only one purpose, to obstruct Bd investigation and presentation of cases and to interfere with Ees' Sec. 7 rights]

Joseph A. Perry d/b/a Holiday Inn-Glendale 277 NLRB No. 148
(telling Ee that if Bd agent asked her anything about the U she should say she didn't know anything and that the bosses had not told her anything, violative)

Superior Container, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 055
(where E summoned Ee to his office, told her that Bd agent would question her about prior conversation they had about U, and repeatedly asked Ee whether she remembered his statements to the effect that E would close shop, to which Ee replied that she did not remember and would tell the truth, ALJ held meeting was coercive in nature, since E appeared angry and seemed to attempt to pressure Ee to recant some of her recollection of prior meeting)

5081-3300 Interference with testimony of Board witness

Middletown Hospital Association 282 NLRB No. 079
[supervisor's cautionary statement, with respect to Ee's subpoena to testify, that Ee could be hurt, unlawful, since it may have tended to restrain Ee in exercise of her right to proffer testimony in furtherance of her U activity]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[Ee relations director's statements to Ee that there was some question as to whether Bd subpoenas would be enforced and that compliance was up to Ee's discretion, violation and conduct affecting election, and employment relations manager's statements to him also violation and conduct interfering with election in that they falsely suggested that honoring subpoena was matter of discretion and subpoena could be ignored with impunity]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[E's notice stating that E took no position about Ees meeting with Bd and/or U representatives and signing papers, and that Ees had no legal obligation to do so, not violation or conduct interfering with election where notice was posted in response to Ees' inquiries, did not mischaracterize Bd's role, did not suggest E's disfavor over Ee's cooperating with Bd, and did not make false statements about Ees' obligation to go to meeting or sign papers]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[E's statements which denigrate Bd subpoenas and suggest that they need not be honored have only one purpose, to obstruct Bd investigation and presentation of cases and to interfere with Ees' Sec. 7 rights]

Joseph A. Perry d/b/a Holiday Inn-Glendale 277 NLRB No. 145
(telling Ee that if Bd agent asked her anything about the U she should say she didn't know anything and that the bosses had not told her anything, violative)

Southern Maryland Hospital Center 276 NLRB No. 153
(E's supervisors telling Ee who had received Bd subpoena, that such document was not legal, did not have to be honored and Ee could attend hearing only if she was not scheduled to work, violative, even though Ee was subsequently told she was free to attend hearing)

Quality Millwork Corp. and Its Alter Ego Quality Door Co. 276 NLRB No. 069
(telling Ees that they need not appear at Bd hearing pursuant to Bd subpoenas, violative)

Coca Cola Bottling Company of Buffalo, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 195
(discharge of Ee, assertedly to maintain supposedly uniform disciplinary system, violative where real reason for discharge was to discourage him and other Ees from offering testimony which would exonerate other Ee and thereby demonstrate that E had erred in accusing other E of strike misconduct)

Roskin Brothers, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 053
(E's statement to Ee that he shouldn't worry in response to Ee's doubt about appearing at Bd hearing, not violative)

Nick Gryfakis and Han Nyunt, A Partnership d/b/a N & H Enterprises d/b/a Abernathy's Restaurant JD-(SF)-33-86
[counseling Ee subpoenaed by GC to testify at ULP hearing to recant his affidavit or take a vacation during hearing dates, directing Ee-witness to testify to as little as possible at Bd hearing and not to testify adversely to E, telling Ee-witness that U business was in the past and not to stir up trouble by his testimony, and telling Ee E was upset with him because of his testimony, violations]

Nick Gryfakis and Han Nyunt, A Partnership d/b/a N & H Enterprises d/b/a Abernathy's Restaurant JD-(SF)-33-86
[threatening to reduce Ee's shifts because he participated in Bd proceeding, violation]

N.L.R.B. v. J. Coty Messenger Service, Inc. ———F.2d———
(C.A. 2, May 1985)
[influencing former Ee to ignore validly served Bd subpoena, thereby infringing upon right of current Ees to have their rights vindicated by Bd, was violative]

5081-6700 Requesting to see copies of employees' statement to Board or attempting to obtain such copies

Dayton Typographic Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 778 F.2d 1180 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1985)
[E's attorney questioning Ee concerning upcoming ULP trial, asking him if he had given statement to Bd and asking for a copy of his Bd affidavit, not violative, notwithstanding E did not give Johnnie's Poultry assurances, since E did not coerce Ee where Ee implicitly wanted to cooperate with E, there was no evidence that Ee's affidavit would disclose matters outside scope of C, i.e., Ee's U or lack of U activity, and E made no threats to Ee]

5081-7000 Interference with access to Bd processes

Sea-Land Service, Inc. (Sea Operations) 280 NLRB No. 084
[ship's captain, responsible for transmitting all communications from ship, interrogating and discharging radio officer about message he sent at sea requesting local Bd's phone number, violative, notwithstanding legitimacy of captain's inquiry in asking whether radio was used in unauthorized manner, repeated inquiries as to why dischargee asked for Bd's phone number were not relevant to captain's responsibilities regarding communication equipment. Basis for discharge did not distinguish between specific questions asked so that lawful and unlawful motives cannot be separated]

Grand Rapids Die Casting Corp. 279 NLRB No. 093
[suspension and discharge of U steward, assertedly because of insubordination by refusing an order to return to work, violative, since real reason was her activity of grievance processing and threatening to file charges with Bd where Ee was threatened with discharge if she filed charges after Ee threatened to when E told her she was spending too much time on grievances, and E's manager continuously brought up fact Ee said she might file charges on day Ee was discharged]

John H. Cooney, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 088
(layoff of two Ees, (who did not kick-back to their E their backpay, to which State Department of Labor determined they were entitled) because project upon which they were working was suspended, not violative, since their work project was suspended; no additional work was available for them; and that two Ees did not kick back to E not supported by record; two Ees would have been laid off regardless of any protected activity w/i which they may have engaged)

Fluid Packaging Company, Inc. JD-127-86
[seeking to have Ee sign release waiving Ee's right to file charges with Bd involving lay-off, recall, or otherwise arising out of employment with E, violation]

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-86
(E's inquiry of Ee as to why Ee had not completed repairs coupled with question as to what harassment she was referring in ULP charge she had filed, followed by attack on Ee for filing charge, unlawful)

N.L.R.B. v. Norbar, Inc. 752 F.2d 235 (C.A. 6, Jan. 1985)
(requesting that Ee drop charges he had filed with the Bd, violative)

5081-8700 Inducement of withdrawal of charges

John Wanamaker Philadelphia 279 NLRB No. 140
[E's refusing to sign any agreement with U until U withdrew ULP charges, violative; further, E's informing Ees it would not sign a contract with U until ULP charges were withdrawn, violative]

Texaco, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 164
(RD erred in refusing to permit withdrawal of charge alleging E unlawfully withheld accident and sick benefits from Ees who were receiving such benefits prior to economic strike, where parties had reached strike settlement agreement under which U agreed to end strike, withdraw charges, and each Ee was to receive at least $150 in settlement of outstanding contractual claims, since benefits withheld no more than contractual term subsequently negotiated away in good faith, no other ULPs extant and no Ee objected; primary interest served by continual rights of a few Ees rather than public rights)

Steffer Brothers JD-269-86
[offering to reemploy unlawfully discharged Ee and others who had been similarly terminated if Ee persuaded his brother to discontinue ULP proceeding against E, unlawful]

5081-9500 Inducement of the filing of charges against union

Duroyd Manufacturing, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 025
(E paying another Ee to take Ee to NLRB regional office to file charges against U, assisting Ee in composing charges, and encouraging solicitation of Ee signatures on antiU ptn, unlawful)

5082 ACTIONS AGAINST SUPERVISOR

5082-2500 For activities inconsistent with status as supervisor

Reeves Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 153
[interrogating and admonishing supervisors concerning their role in securing signed U cards, not violative where interviews were conducted privately, no references were made to rank-and-file Ees and E concentrated only on its concerns about U activities of supervisors]

5082-3000 For refusing to commit unfair labor practice

Carpenters Local 925; et al. (Charlene Seier, an Individual) 279 NLRB No. 145
[business agent (BA) not threatened by U president telling him that he was putting his job on the line after BA wrote letter to executive board of U threatening to resign if board went ahead and fired one of its own Ees for seeking outside U representation, since U did not tell BA that he should execute decision to fire Ee. Supervisor can be fired for participating in concerted activities but not for refusing to commit ULP]

5082-4000 For participation in concerted activities

Carpenters Local 925; et al. (Charlene Seier, an Individual) 279 NLRB No. 145

[business agent (BA) not threatened by U president telling him that he was putting his job on the line after BA wrote letter to executive board of U threatening to resign if board went ahead and fired one of its own Ees for seeking outside U representation, since U did not tell BA that he should execute decision to fire Ee. Supervisor can be fired for participating in concerted activities but not for refusing to commit ULP]

5084 ASSISTANCE TO UNIONS

5084-0100 Generally

Black Grievance Committee v. N.L.R.B. 749 F.2d 1072 (C.A. 3, Dec. 1984)

(E's according one minority U privileged status over another minority U, thus encouraging membership in former while discouraging it in latter violative, notwithstanding neither U seeks 9(a) exclusive representative status, since E interfered with Sec. 7 rights of Ees to band together in group of their choice)

5084-2500 Assistance where 8(a)(2) not found

5084-2567 Inside or favored union

Harte & Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 128

[no violation of Section 8(a)(1) where U representative made statements that newly hired Ees at E's newly purchased facility would lose their jobs if they did not join U, notwithstanding statements made on E's premises obviously with E's permission, since extension of bargaining agreement to new facility was legal, and U representative's presence on E's premises authorized]

5084-5000 Forms of assistance

5084-5050 Exclusive recognition of minority union

5084-5050-6700 Subsequent acquisition of majority status immaterial

American Bakeries Company and Local Union No. 51, Teamsters (Local No. 326, Bakery Workers) 280 NLRB No. 160

[bargaining prior to achievement of U's majority status, violative despite fact that contract is not enforced or is conditioned upon U's ability to demonstrate majority standing at some later time]

5084-5067 Inducement of employees to join union

Hydro-Air Equipment, Inc. d/b/a Lanco 277 NLRB No. 012

(threatening Ees with discharge if Ees did not sign U authorization cards for U, unlawful)

Hydro-Air Equipment, Inc. d/b/a Lanco 277 NLRB No. 012

(informing Ees that E had signed contract with U and that Ees would be required to join U pursuant to security clause or be replaced, unlawful, since contract was signed with minority U in violationof Section 8(a)(2))

5084-5083 Solicitation of employees

United Artists Communications, Inc., Operating Capri Theatre 280 NLRB No. 119

[U's card majority not tainted by solicitation of authorization cards by supervisor where Ees aware that E was opposed to Us, and that supervisor soliciting was about to be discharged by incoming new manager]

Harte & Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 128

[no violation of Section 8(a)(1) where U representative made statements that newly hired Ees at E's newly purchased facility would lose their jobs if they did not join U, notwithstanding statements made on E's premises obviously with E's permission, since extension of bargaining agreement to new facility was legal, and U representative's presence on E's premises authorized]

Hydro-Air Equipment, Inc. d/b/a Lanco 277 NLRB No. 012

(informing Ees that E had signed contract with U and that Ees would be required to join U pursuant to security clause or be replaced, unlawful, since contract was signed with minority U in violationof Section 8(a)(2))

The Union National Bank of Pittsburgh 276 NLRB No. 013

(E forwarding letters from U addressed to Ees at work at E's branches to E's main office instead of distributing them to Ees, unlawful implementation of discriminatory no distribution rule, where Ees frequently received personal mail at office; E's contentions that by its use of E's Internal Distribution Code on letters, U made E its delivery service and use of E's resources for delivery would violate Sec. 8(a)(2), rejected, since no exposure to liability for one time distribution especially where letters sent directly to branch offices and not sorted in mail room, E's directory not confidential)

Moe Warehouse & Accessory 275 NLRB No. 165

(in order for U authorization cards to be tainted by participation of supervisor in U campaign, participation of supervisory personnel must be of such kind as to have implied to Ees signing cards that E favored U or that there is reasonable basis for believing that Ees whose cards are sought to be invalidated were coercively induced to designate U)

5090 CONTRACTS

5090-2500 Individual contracts

5090-2517 Contracts, legal in execution and terms, used to obstruct processes and benefits of collective bargaining

United Artists Communications, Inc., Operating Capri Theatre 280 NLRB No. 119

[contract between one U and theatre chain which covered cashiers and candy attendants at E's theatres not bar to efforts of another U to organize Ees at one of E's theatres, where contract had not been applied at all for year at theatre which other U sought to organize and prior thereto there was only limited enforcement, particularly where E had deliberately withheld benefits of contract from Ees at that theatre and Ees were unaware of contract's existence; E's contention that substantial compliance with bargaining agreement at some of its locations constituted substantial compliance at another location, rejected]

5090-5000 Affirmative defenses

5090-5033 Contract terminable at will

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) JD-18-86

[U letter of agreement stating that it did not intend to have steward granted superseniority to represent himself--apparently no other unit Ees remained--notwithstanding superseniority provisions of contract, and that agreement was voidable by E or U by written notification at any time, not binding contract but statement of intent voidable by U at will and thus no basis for holding violative E's retention of U steward pursuant to U's invocation of superseniority clause]

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) JD-18-86

[U stewards justifiably presumed to have valid lay-off-recall superseniority on basis of U's retaining on-the-job representation for processing grievances; superseniority of nonstewards of officers engaged in no on-the-job, steward-like functions, to whom it was later extended, was evaluated under different criteria]

5090-7500 Union-security agreements

5090-7575 Extension of valid agreement to new plant or newly-hired employees

Harte & Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 128

[no violation, where E and U agreed to extend bargaining agreement with security clause in effect at former facility to E's newly purchased facility, since new facility was essentially extension of E's old operation where new plant produced same products using same machinery, Ees performed essentially same functions. Contention move not mere relocation since it took too long for substantial percentage of transferees to arrive at new plant, rejected, since transferees constituted more than 40% of new work force on date transfer process substantially completed, and 8 month period to complete transfer operations not unreasonable herein]

5090-8700 Discriminatory maintenance of contract clause

5090-8750 Superseniority and/or other benefits for union officials or stewards

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) JD-18-86

[retaining pyrometer steward pursuant to U's invocation of superseniority clause of contract, not unlawfully discriminatory as to two Ees who were not allowed to bump steward from sole remaining pyrometer position but laid off, notwithstanding U's letter stating it did not intend to have steward granted superseniority to represent himself and lack of pyrometer Ees remaining on job for steward to represent, since U letter was not binding contract but statement of intent, and steward was required on job to protect unit work, police its assignment, and represent laid-off Ees' recall rights]

5096 VIOLENCE AND THREATS THEREOF

5096-2100 Arrest

Springfield Hospital 281 NLRB No. 076

[no violation where E sought to arrest U organizer for holding meeting in E's parking lot as there was no showing that E had uniformly permitted non-Ees to congregate for any purpose in its parking lot and had singled out U organizer and his organizing effort for police action. Fact E tolerated U organizer's presence along outer periphery of lot did not entitle him to freely pursue his organizing activity freely on premises]

Springfield Hospital 281 NLRB No. 076
[attempt to enforce invalid no-access rule against off-duty Ees by causing their arrest when evidence showed that Ees did not disturb on-duty Ees or disturb patients in patient-care areas, violative]

Springfield Hospital 281 NLRB No. 076
[supervisor informing off-duty Ee that she was subject to arrest if she remained in certain location of hospital, violative, as Ee was aware that arrests were made earlier in day of Ees in this location]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 083
[interfering with distribution of literature in non-work areas during non-work time, violative and objectionable where Ees were told they could not distribute literature at plant entrance but would have to go to plant gate, and two Ees were threatened with arrest and escorted by security guards to plant gate]

Steffer Brothers JD-269-86
[E's threat delivered over loudspeaker to Ees on company property shortly after their discharge, that E wanted them off his property or he would call police and have them arrested, unlawful, not only as to Ees directly threatened but also to other Ees who were present to hear threat]

N.L.R.B. v. Del Rey Tortilleria, Inc. 787 F.2d 1118 (C.A. 7, Apr. 1986)
[E's threatening Ee with visit from policy if he failed to cooperate, unlawful, where E was concurrently insisting that Ee tell the truth and that, if Ee knew anything about U, it would be well worth his while to tell E about it]

5096-2900 Assault on, and abuse of, pickets

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[supervisor's conduct during Ee picketing in pointing firearm at picket line captain in initimidating fashion, unlawful, since such intimidation was calculated and unprovoked, and inhibited Ee picketing]

Indiana Desk Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 165
(supervisor hitting picket outside of E's plant with his car, violative, as this interfered with striker's right to picket)

Indiana Desk Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 165
(violations where, while 2 top supervisors of E watched, security force hired by E to protect plant during strike arrived at plant in 10 vehicle caravan with approximately 30 men and 8 dobermans and german sheperd dogs and guards carried guns from cars to trailer, guards practiced martial arts and dogs allowed to lunge at each other and to attack guards wearing protective sleeves while pickets watched, as these displays were for purpose of intimidating strikers)

(violation where guards hired by E drove alongside vehicle driven by striker and tried to force his vehicle off the road)

Indiana Desk Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 165
(no violation where guards hired by E were merely pushing or shoving pickets out of way so that vehicles could come in or out of plant, but pushing and shoving pickets at other times, violative)

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115
(hitting, punching, and spitting on strikers, and even bumping police officer, violative)

5096-7000 Inflicting, or inciting infliction of, violence on union adherents

Studio S.I.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126
(threatening leading U activist with violence to her person or property and physically abusing her because she had engaged in U activity, violative)

Storall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(threatening that Ee would lose his family unless he abandoned U, violative)

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115
(requests to truck drivers to run picketers off the road and kill them, or to run over them, violative)

5096-8000 Assault on union representative or threat thereof

Asarco Incorporated Mission Unit 279 NLRB No. 117
[escorting U steward out of grievance meeting in a manner that assertedly constituted a physical assault, not unlawful, since conduct was neither inherently destructive of Ees' Sec. 7 rights nor did it tend to restrain or coerce Ees in exercise of such rights, given facts of case]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[E threatening U official with bodily harm in presence of Ees, not unlawful, since threat spoken in Italian, which was not understood by any Ees]

Batavia Nursing and Convalescent Inn 275 NLRB No. 125
(election day assault by E's attorney acting as its lead counsel upon U's field organizer in presence of Ees, unlawful, since attorney's actions were w/in general scope of his authority, even though E may not have authorized specific acts in question)

5096-8400 Threats of bodily harm

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E's vice-president informing Ee that if Ee continued to stick his nose into everybody's business, referring to Ee's filing grievances sooner or later somebody's going to put it all over his face, unlawful, since constituted thinly veiled threat of physical harm for protected activity of filing grievances]

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E's statement to Ee who had been grievance chairman and continued to file grievances after resigning office that he would have his job, and that someone would put his nose all over his face went further than usual shop talk and constituted unlawful threat of physical harm]

Eskaton Sunrise Community 279 NLRB No. 012
[threatening Ees with physical harm if they continued their U activities, unlawful]

Studio S.I.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126
(threatening leading U activist with violence to her person or property and physically abusing her because she had engaged in U activity, violative)

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010
(E's president's telling Ee he would like to choke him and telling another Ee that he would break his neck if U was successful, violative)

Indiana Desk Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 165
(violations where, while 2 top supervisors of E watched, security force hired by E to protect plant during strike arrived at plant in 10 vehicle caravan with approximately 30 men and 8 dobermans and german sheperd dogs and guards carried guns from cars to trailer, guards practiced martial arts and dogs allowed to lunge at each other and to attack guards wearing protective sleeves while pickets watched, as these displays were for purpose of intimidating strikers)

(violation where guards hired by E drove alongside vehicle driven by striker and tried to force his vehicle off the road)

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115
(threats of physical harm to U organizers, violative)

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115
(threats to kill picketers, to kill one picketer's family, and to burn homes of two picketers, violative)

B & W Machine & Welding Company JD-(SF)-107-86
[threatening life of Ee because of his participation in Bd proceedings, unlawful]

Phil's Food Market, Inc. JD-(SF)-105-85
(E's agent's threatening picketers with physical harm and displaying drawn gun and E's vice president's threatening them with assault by deliberately driving close to them in dangerous reckless manner, violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Norbar, Inc. 752 F.2d 235 (C.A. 6, Jan. 1985)
(foreman's asking Ee if he had been using foreman's name for U business and threatening to punch him in the nose if he had, violative)

5098 CONDUCT OF EMPLOYER OTHER THAN IMMEDIATE EMPLOYER OF EMPLOYEES

The Martin Brower Company JD-(SF)-63-86
[E's warning deliveryman that further violation of E's rule against deliverymen conversing with E's Ee, not violation where rule was nondiscriminatorily applied, warning was not threat but prediction of possible consequences, and E showed no animus against deliveryman, notwithstanding deliverman had, when employed by E, filed grievance against E and ULP charge and civil suit upon being discharged]

7500 AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES TO CHARGES OF INTERFERENCE, RESTRAINT, OR COERCION

7525 NON-COERCIVE NATURE OF MISCONDUCT

La-Z-Boy 281 NLRB No. 054
[personnel manager's and superintendent's telling open U supporter at gripe session, where he had asked about benefits at E's unionized plant and begun to dominate meeting, that if he liked unionized plant so much they would give him opportunity to transfer and guessed that several in meeting would help him pack, not violation in absence of threats]

The Standard Products Company, Rocky Mount Division 281 NLRB No. 018
[minor horseplay on election day between 2 Ees about their respective pro- and anti-U views in presence of supervisor, not unlawful, since conduct was not likely to be highly coercive as claimed, where pro-U Ee's support for U was widely known, he did not hesitate to express that support during incident, and supervisor did not participate in incident]

Lucky Stores, Inc. d/b/a Gemco 279 NLRB No. 153
[manager's interrogation of Ee concerning his U activities, unlawful, notwithstnading claimed social or friendly relationship between the two, since mere existence of such relationship, of itself, does not automatically nullify coercive effect of otherwise unlawful remarks; discussion, conducted in manager's office principally to issue warning notices to Ee, was business-oriented, rather than social, and demonstrated manager's economic power over Ee who received no assurance of no reprisals and became apprehensive as result of manager's remarks; and claimed personal relationship was not established]

Pilled of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117
(E did not neutralize effects of prior threats of plant closure and retaliation by giving Ees last minute job guarantees 1 day before election and assurances of continued employment where guarantee was ambiguous, statement did not specifically and unambiguously disavow E's prior conduct found unlawful and no assurances were given to Ees that in the future, E would not interfere in exercise of Ees' Section 7)

7527 ALTERNATIVES TO ACTION WOULD VIOLATE OTHER SECTIONS OF NLRA OR OTHER STATUTES

Times Wire & Cable Company 280 NLRB No. 003
[E's failure to grant an annual wage increase during pendency of U election, violative, where E had established policy for at least 3 years prior to election of granting annual wage increases; further, E's contention that it had no choice but to withhold wage increase because of upcoming election, rejected, where evidence clearly showed E had attempted to place the onus for withholding on the U rather than attempting to comply with the law]

7530 MISINTERPRETATION OF LAW

National Micronetics, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 095
(distribution of accurate decision with portions of LRRM report highlighted and characterized as true, held not illegal threat)

The Union National Bank of Pittsburgh 276 NLRB No. 013
(E forwarding letters from U addressed to Ees at work at E's branches to E's main office instead of distributing them to Ees, unlawful implementation of discriminatory no distribution rule, where Ees frequently received personal mail at office; E's contentions that by its use of E's Internal Distribution Code on letters, U made E its delivery service and use of E's resources for delivery would violate Sec. 8(a)(2), rejected, since no exposure to liability for one time distribution especially where letters sent directly to branch offices and not sorted in mail room, E's directory not confidential)

7550 MISCONDUCT OF EMPLOYEE

Dandridge Textile, Inc., Ronald W. Woods, Individually and As Officer and Managing Agent 279 NLRB No. 015
[discharge of 2 Ees for remarks made to E's owner in meeting concerning wage increases, violative notwithstanding owner may have found Ees' remarks unpleasant or distressing, where Ees' statements were not so vulgar or defamatory as to render them unfit for further service]

Quality C.A.T.V., Inc. 278 NLRB No. 156
[discharge of two TV linemen who installed television strands on utility poles and who refused to work during and after rainstorm because they were wet, violative, since their concerted refusal to work was to protest requirement that they climb poles when wet, an employment condition. Ee's protest was protected whether Ees acted because they were concerned about their safety, their personal comfort, or their supervisor's attitude. In carrying out their protest, Ees did not exceed permidsable bounds of protected activity]

7550-0125 Condonation vitiates defense

D & D Distribution Company, A Division of D & D Sewing Company v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 636 (C.A. 3, Sept. 1986)
[discharge for repeated lateness of Ee who had discussed wages with other Ees and suggested that they contact U if next wage increase was unsatisfactory, violation where lateness was sanctioned by E, rule was elastic term, conditions for discharge were not rigid, and Ee received no recent warnings, was not docked any pay, and received positive evaluation and offer of promotion]

7550-0133 Lawful discipline or admonition

Consumers Power Company 282 NLRB No. 024
[upon finding discharge of Ee, assertedly for assaulting his supervisor, part of res gestae of Ee's protected concerted activity and not unlawful, Bd rejected E's contention that its disciplinary policy mandates discharging Ee, since Ee was not discharged for similar conduct on prior occasion nor initially discharged herein, thereby indicating E had discretion in choosing disciplinary action against Ee; at any rate, E's disciplinary policy cannot lawfully mandate that Ee be discharged in violation of 8(a)(1)]

Aztec Concrete, Inc. and E.M.L. Construction Company, Joint Employers 277 NLRB No. 142
(layoffs allegedly because of slack work, Ees' substandard performance, drinking on job, and extended lunch breaks, violative where they were due to Ees' complaining to Corps of Engineers about E's failure to comply with Davis-Bacon wage and job-classification requirements at federal military installation)

Felbro, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 186
(E's telling Ees, who were demanding an explanation for layoff of Ee, that if they did not return to work they would be sent home, and then clocking them out and refusing to pay them for the remainder of the day, not violative, since Ees repeatedly refused to go back to work and E took no disciplinary action against Ees but simply refused to pay them for the remainder of the day they refused to work)

The Martin Brower Company JD-(SF)-63-86
[E's warning deliveryman that further violation of E's rule against deliverymen conversing with E's Ee, not violation where rule was nondiscriminatorily applied, warning was not threat but prediction of possible consequences, and E showed no animus against deliveryman, notwithstanding deliverman had, when employed by E, filed grievance against E and ULP charge and civil suit upon being discharged]

Bombay Palace of Westchester, Inc. JD-(NY)-81-85
[discharging Ee for taking three-month vacation, not violation, where discharge was according to E's past practice, and Ee knew when he left for vacation that job would not be held open past normal vacation period]

7550-0143 Disloyalty of employee

Squier Distributing Company 276 NLRB No. 133
(discharge of Ees for giving statements to sheriff in connection with his investigation of possible embezzlement of corporate funds by E, violative, as Ees were acting for their mutual aid or protection since they viewed -- as result of 2 after work meetings -- that their concerted cooperation with sheriff as best method of safeguarding their jobs which bears relationship to Ees' interests as Ees and is, therefore, concerted activity. Disloyalty claim rejected)

7550-0175 Mistaken belief as to misconduct no defense if conduct in fact did not occur

Coca Cola Bottling Company of Buffalo, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 195
(discharge of Ee for allegedly making bomb threat, violative where he did not engage in such misconduct)

7550-2500 Undermining or circumventing grievance procedure

N.L.R.B. v. Architectural Research Corporation 748 F.2d 1121 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1984)
(discharge of two Ees for stopping work and confronting E about restoring afternoon break, not violative, since action was not protected where break had been eliminated from contract by agreement with U and the two Ees, although having been repeatedly told that it was matter to be decided by E and U and that they should file a grievance, had persisted in trying to bypass the U and deal directly with E about it)

7550-3100 Undermining or circumventing bargaining representative

AAL, Inc., d/b/a River Oaks Nursing Home 275 NLRB No. 012
(discharge of 2 (U) unit Ees because of their walkout over E's staffing proposals not violative, since facts establish walkout occurred w/o prior U knowledge and was not in support of policies and actions theretofore taken by U since U had decided against proffering contract proposal for specific staffing of aides, and U agent did not avail himself of opportunity at meeting to discuss walkout to join in with demands of dischargees for specific staffing of aides)

7550-3700 Violence or threats thereof

Consumers Power Company 282 NLRB No. 024
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for assaulting his supervisor, unlawful, where Ee's conduct, as part of res gestae of protected concerted activity, in raising his fists to supervisor reflexively in response to supervisor's motioning of his hands in Ee's face, was not so egregious as to cause Ee to lose protection of Act nor of such character as to render him unfit for further service; nor was Ee's similar reaction to supervisor on prior occasion regarded by E so inherently egregious as to warrant his discharge at that time]

7550-5000 Work-related misconduct

Cherokee Heating and Air Conditioning Co. 280 NLRB No. 044
[discharge for taking day off w/o prior approval and w/o informing E of intent to retain employment, not violation]

D & D Distribution Company, A Division of D & D Sewing Company 277 NLRB No. 097
(discharge of Ee assertedly for excessive tardiness and absenteeism, unlawful, notwithstanding that Ee's record of tardiness was substantially worse than that of any other Ee in the year before his discharge, and that E had no past record of ULPs, where E failed to show that Ee would have been terminated for tardiness and absenteeism even in absence of his concerted activity)

D & D Distribution Company, A Division of D & D Sewing Company 277 NLRB No. 097
(discharge of Ee assertedly for excessive tardiness and absenteeism, unlawful, where inference was warranted that E had knowledge of Ee's protected concerted activities; for months-long period prior to discharge Ee was neither docked for, nor warned about his attendance but, instead, was praised for his work; and immediately after discharge E told Ee that real reason for discharge was not lateness but Ee's attitude toward E, thereby supporting inference that Ee's concerted activities caused his termination)

National Car Rental JD-NY)-60-85
(no violation, since discharge for insubordination, where aafter heated argument with Ee, supervisor ordered Ee to leave his office, and Ee responded that if supervisor wanted her to leave he would have to fire her)

7550-6000 Breach of employer's rules

American Lebanese Syrian Associated Charities, Inc. d/b/a A.L.S.A.C. 277 NLRB No. 189
[discharge of Ees because of their possession and dissemination of allegedly confidential list showing Ees' pay and pay raises, in violation of E's rules, violative, where E's claim that list confidential seriously undercut by fact that list was left at copy machine used by all Ees, E had known for months that Ees possessed list yet did nothing and Ees were discharged for violation of unlawful rule prohibiting talking about salaries]

D & D Distribution Company, A Division of D & D Sewing Company v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 636 (C.A. 3, Sept. 1986)
[discharge for repeated lateness of Ee who had discussed wages with other Ees and suggested that they contact U if next wage increase was unsatisfactory, violation where lateness was sanctioned by E, rule was elastic term, conditions for discharge were not rigid, and Ee received no recent warnings, was not docked any pay, and received positive evaluation and offer of promotion]

7550-7000 Offensive personal behavior

Caterpillar Tractor Company 276 NLRB No. 151
276 NLRB No. 151
(suspending U steward for drawing and disseminating cartoon containing obnoxious obscenities directed at foreman whom steward dealt with on grievances, not violative where Ee's misconduct was so egregious that it exceeded scope of whatever protection it might otherwise have been entitled, and obscenities had inevitable negative effect on foreman's supervisory status in eyes of other Ees)

Paint America Co. JD-17-86
[discharge of Ees allegedly for concertedly complaining to E regarding wages, hours, and working conditions, not unlawful, where Ees were discharged for flagrant violation of most basic of industrial rules regarding privacy of confidential documents; there was no connection between Ees purported complaints and their discharge; rather, they were discharged for handling and looking through documents of their supervisor, which conduct Ees knew was wrong]

7550-7500 Strike misconduct

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodcraft Division 275 NLRB No. 091
(on remand, Bd held that, in light of decision in Clear Pine Mouldings, E's discharge of two strikers, who visited home of non-striking Ee and in presence of Ee's pregnant wife and young daughter stated, while cursing in drunken state, that they would take care of Ee if he returned to work was not unlawful, since strikers' remark constituted threat and circumstances were obviously coercive and intimidating)

N.L.R.B. v. Preterm, Inc. 784 F.2d 426 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1986)
[misconduct of striking Ee directed against patrons or customers of E, or others seeking to enter (E's) premises for business purposes, is equivalent of misconduct against fellow Ees]

7550-8700 Breach of no-strike clause or threat thereof

Metropolitan Edison Company 279 NLRB No. 047
[threatening discipline, including suspension, for refusing to cross stranger picket line, not violation where broad no-strike clause waived Ee's right to honor stranger picket line, in absence of any evidence in bargaining history or past practice demonstrating that parties expressly excluded sympathy strikes from no-strike clause coverage]

7567 VOLUNTARY QUIT

Modern Iron Works, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 151
[discharge of Ees for engaging in work stoppage when they sought to get larger wage increase than they had received from E, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention that they had quit, where work stoppage was protected concerted activity, and there was no evidence Ees voluntarily relinquished their employment with E, which was clearly evidenced by their spokesman's express disclaimer that they had quit]

Ozark Properties, Inc. d/b/a Holiday Inn 274 NLRB No. 096
(discharge of Ees because of their participation in and support of a strike over working conditions violative, notwithstanding E's contention Ees were voluntary quits when they refused to return to work after a demand to return to work, where Ees walked off job at beginning of work day and set up picket line to protest work conditions and later that day, when striking Ees met with president of E, he demanded that Ees return to work or pick up their paycheck and normal practice of E was to give Ees a final paycheck when they were terminated)

Country Crest Creations, Ltd. JD-271-86
[Ees' going home early because work area was cold, not voluntary quit]

Dr. Olinda Floro JD-12-86
[Ee was discharged, rather than voluntarily quitting, where Ee responded to E's telling her to remove her things from office by stating that she could not believe what E was doing to her, E stated intention to pay Ee severance pay, E was training a coworker to take over Ee's duties and was advertising for replacement]

N.L.R.B. v. CER Inc. 762 F.2d 482 (C.A. 5, June 1985)
(Ee choosing to quit job rather than change manner in which he protested E's violations of bargaining agreement, which E viewed as prohibited since Ee was leaving his work station to correct violations, held constructive discharge rather than voluntary quit and violative, since Ee was faced with choice of discontinuing protected U activity or being terminated)

John Morrison, et al. (Carriage Ford, Inc.) v. N.L.R.B. 772 F.2d 283 (C.A. 6, Sept. 1985)
[Bd properly found that Ees had voluntarily quit and were not unlawfully discharged for engaging in protected activity of protesting change in work hours, where it was conceded by all parties that E had right to set working hours and, contrary to Ees claim that they were given no opportunity to discuss new hours and were summarily discharged. Bd found that E announcerl new hours and gave all Ees, and not just Ees herein, option of continuing to work new hours or leaving their employment]

7587 WAIVER OF RIGHT UNDER COLLECTIVE-BARGAINING AGREEMENT

Page Avjet Corporation 275 NLRB No. 113
(E's implementing and enforcing new uniform policy prohibiting the wearing of any non-company buttons or patches... on any part of the uniform including the hat, assertedly because E was concerned with its public image, violative, since rule was overbroad and no special circumstances existed to limit Ees' right to wear U insignia, where policy applied to all unit Ees regardless of amount of contact they had with the public; further, U did not waive right to complain by giving E right to establish conditions under which uniforms were to be worn since agreement did not limit what could be worn)

7599 OTHER

Dr. Olinda Floro JD-12-86
[defense that E lacked knowledge of Ees' concerted protected activity, rejected where E's sister informed E of it, Ees' complaints were overheard, and E's knowledge was shown by questions she asked Ee before discharging her]

518 EMPLOYER DOMINATION, ASSISTANCE OR SUPPORT OF LABOR ORGANIZATION

0100 GENERALLY

N.L.R.B. v. BASF Wyandotte Corp. 798 F.2d 849 (C.A. 5, Sept. 1986)

[Legislative history of Section 8(a)(2) of NLRA makes clear that Congress intended it, much as Section 302 LRRA, to be provision prohibiting bribery and company dominated Us, not prohibiting kind of labor-management cooperation necessary to collective bargaining as giving paid time to U steward for performance of U duties]

0120 EMPLOYER'S OBLIGATION OF NEUTRALITY TOWARDS EMPLOYEE'S ORGANIZATIONAL ACTIVITIES (See also 518-4040-6701-3300)

Haddon House Food Products, Inc. and Flavor Delight, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 182 (C.A. 3, June 1985)

(effect of Bd's Bruckner rule (262 NLRB 955) is that when faced with two rival non-incumbent Us, E is free to recognize that U authorized by an uncoerced majority at any time until the filing of a valid R ptn, and once notified of valid R ptn. E must refrainn from recognizing any of the rival non-incombent Us)

0180 MAJORITY SUPPORT OR APPROVAL OF EMPLOYER'S ACTIONS NOT CONTROLLING

The Lawson Company v. N.L.R.B. 753 F.2d (C.A. 6, Jan. 1985)

(Ee satisfaction with an existing (Ee bargaining) committee is one element that Bd should consider in determining whether E has violated Section 8(a)(2) of Act. Here, Ee dissatisfaction, with Ee bargaining committee was expressed by signing U authorization cards)

2000 FORMS OF DOMINATION AND INTERFERENCE

2017 EMPLOYER PARTICIPATION IN FORMATION OR INITIATION OF LABOR ORGANIZATION

2017-1400 Initial suggestion or instigation by employer

Hunter Douglas, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 123

(violation, where E's manager suggested formation of Ee committee, during U campaign, to discuss problems and remedies, meetings of committee were held on company time in company cafeteria, with agenda set by manager)

Texas Bus Lines, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 075

(holding mandatory meetings with Ees in which E strongly suggested that Ees establish Ee committee, showing willingness in management-committee meeting to bargain with Ee committee, and dealing with a committee member concerning Ee grievances found to constitute unlawful assistance and interference with formation and administration of Ee committee)

2017-1417 Transfer of employees

Food Concepts, Inc. JD-(NY)-36-85

(when E closed down one of its 2 locations, each represented by different U, and transferred those Ees to remaining location, a merger of units occurred and qcr existed. E violated Act when he recognized and applied contract of U that represented original Ees at location to the newly moved Ees, and also when supervisor threatened transferred Ees with discharge if they did not join other U)

2017-2800 Direct participation of employer

Superior Container, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 055

(E unlawfully dominated and controlled formation of Ee committee where he selected Ees to serve on committee and told committee that it was expected to address Ee or safety complaints and was to meet once a month; such committee, created by E to deal with E grievances, is clearly encompassed w/i proscription of 8(a)(2))

2017-2833 Supervisor's participation or assistance in campaigning and soliciting for union

United Artists Communications, Inc., Operating Capri Theatre 280 NLRB No. 119

[supervisor urging Ees to sign cards for U which it favored, and threatening Ees with discharge if they did not sign cards constituted unlawful assistance to U, notwithstanding there existed contract with U for which E demanded Ees sign cards, where Ees at location involved were unaware of contract, had not previously signed authorization cards, U had made no effort to enforce contract at location involved, and effort to have Ees sign cards occurred only after another U had filed ptn to represent Ees]

2050 TIME OF ORGANIZATION

2050-6700 Concurrent with or immediately after organizational drive of outside union

Hunter Douglas, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 123

(violation, where E's manager suggested formation of Ee committee, during U campaign, to discuss problems and remedies, meetings of committee were held on company time in company cafeteria, with agenda set by manager)

2083 ADMINISTRATION OF ORGANIZATION

2083-3300 Dictation or guidance by employer

Superior Container, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 055

(E unlawfully dominated and controlled formation of Ee committee where he selected Ees to serve on committee and told committee that it was expected to address Ee or safety complaints and was to meet once a month; such committee, created by E to deal with E grievances, is clearly encompassed w/i proscription of 8(a)(2))

2083-5000 Interference without domination

Texas Bus Lines, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 075

(E which was found to assist and interfere with Ee committee herein found not to dominate it where there is no evidence that E permitted Ees to use its premises for meetings, paid them for time spent in operating said committee, or controlled the committee by having its representatives as members)

2083-6700 Meetings

2083-6750 Called and attended by employer's representatives

Hunter Douglas, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 123

(violation, where E's manager suggested formation of Ee committee, during U campaign, to discuss problems and remedies, meetings of committee were held on company time in company cafeteria, with agenda set by manager)

2083-8300 Employer voice in affairs of employee committee

Baker Mine Services, Inc., d/b/a Coppinger Machinery Service, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 085

[E paying members of Ee committee negotiating committee for time spent negotiating bargaining agreement, providing ballots for committee elections, allowing elections during working hours w/o loss of pay, giving advice to Ee committee members during negotiations, meeting directly with Ees to encourage ratification of bargaining agreement negotiated with Ee committee, and paying cost of printing agreement, not unlawful; absent evidence of lack of arms-length relationship between E and U properly litigated, such activities only deemed cooperation of ministerial nature]

4000 FORMS OF ASSISTANCE AND SUPPORT

4001 GENERALLY

4001-5000 Assistance to nonqualified representative

Rainey Security Agency, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 041
(C allegation that E violated 8(a)(1), (2) and (3) as result of alleged failure of U to adequately represent Ees not sustained where the only plausible basis for holding E statutorily liable would be on theory that E conspired in installing U as Ee representative with full knowledge that U did not represent majority, and in such case, E could perhaps be held liable under 8(a)(1) and (3); however, while there was well-grounded suspicion of such knowing conspiracy, evidence did not quite demonstrate it)

4010 SUGGESTION OF FORMATION OR INITIATION OF UNION

Texas Bus Lines, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 075
(holding mandatory meetings with Ees in which E strongly suggested that Ees establish Ee committee, showing willingness in management-committee meeting to bargain with Ee committee, and dealing with a committee member concerning Ee grievances found to constitute unlawful assistance and interference with formation and administration of Ee committee)

Sears, Roebuck and Co. 274 NLRB No. 085
(establishment of communications committee by company manager, not unlawful, where committee was not labor organization, its function being to increase company efficiency rather than to deal with E on behalf of Ees)

4020 PERMITTING USE OF COMPANY TIME, PREMISES OR FACILITIES

4020-5000 Facilities

Safeway Stores, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 099
(E unlawfully assisted and supported U and U unlawfully accepted such assistance and support during its organizing campaign at E's new chain retail store, where E made store facilities available for U representatives to solicit U membership and health and welfare applications when E had already unlawfully recognized U, thus facilitating U access to store and giving U representatives opportunity to tell Ees U already represented them, which is unlike situation where neutral E's granting access to U to solicit Ees. w/o more, does not constitute unlawful assistance)

4020-5060 Clerical, telephone, and other facilities

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147
(E's contention that its granting of privileges to U i.e. permitting U chairman to spend 4 hours of paid time each workday conducting U business including grievance processing, use of office, telephone, and copying machine, violated Section 8(a)(2) as unlawful support of U, and thus justified unilateral withdrawal of privileges as illegal rather than mandatory subject of bargaining, rejected, since grant of time and property not violative of Section 8(a)(2) where U had been recognized and dealt with at arms length, but merely friendly cooperation of amiable labor management relationship, absent deeper E involvement or intrusion into U affairs)

Baker Mine Services, Inc., d/b/a Coppinger Machinery Service, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 085
[E paying members of Ee committee negotiating committee for time spent negotiating bargaining agreement, providing ballots for committee elections, allowing elections during working hours w/o loss of pay, giving advice to Ee committee members during negotiations, meeting directly with Ees to encourage ratification of bargaining agreement negotiated with Ee committee, and paying cost of printing agreement, not unlawful; absent evidence of lack of arms-length relationship between E and U properly litigated, such activities only deemed cooperation of ministerial nature]

Hunter Douglas, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 123
(violation, where E's manager suggested formation of Ee committee, during U campaign, to discuss problems and remedies, meetings of committee were held on company time in company cafeteria, with agenda set by manager)

The Kroger Company 275 NLRB No. 202
(where E remedied prior unlawful recognition and execution of U contract by repudiating such action, Bd held fact that E allowed U to conduct contract ratification meeting at E's facility immediately following company meeting did not add to prior unlawful conduct, where company meeting was voluntary, no supervisors or E officials were present at ratification meeting, and GC did not contend that E's allowing U to discuss ratification with Ees immediately after company meeting and/or mechanics of ratification vote were unlawful or supported finding that earlier recognition was not cured)

4020-8300 Organizational activities

Ryder System, Inc.; Ryder Distribution Systems, Inc.; and DPD, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 118
[E's holding meetings with Ees and allowing its agent to solicit authorization cards during breaks, recognizing U based on those authorization cards and entering into contract with U and telling applicants for employment that E could not use them if they had a Teamster attitude (which was the U E did not want to recognize or deal with), violative]

4020-8367 Solicitation

Roundup Company d/b/a Meyer's Cafe & Konditorei, A Wholly Owned Subsidiary of Fred Meyer, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 001
[E's inviting U to organize its new delicatessen Ees, inviting U representatives to be present when it was signing up applicants for employment, directing applicants to U, and stating applicants had to join U in order to work, violation]

United Artists Communications, Inc., Operating Capri Theatre 280 NLRB No. 119
[supervisor urging Ees to sign cards for U which it favored, and threatening Ees with discharge if they did not sign cards constituted unlawful assistance to U, notwithstanding there existed contract with U for which E demanded Ees sign cards, where Ees at location involved were unaware of contract, had not previously signed authorization cards, U had made no effort to enforce contract at location involved, and effort to have Ees sign cards occurred only after another U had filed ptn to represent Ees]

[E's agent soliciting signatures on authorization cards in front of E's supervisors, violative]

4025 PRIVATE ELECTIONS

S.M.S. Automotive Products, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 006
[E's conducting a private secret ballot election among Ees, violative, where at time election was conducted, E had unlawfully entered into contract with U that did not enjoy majority support and E did nothing to repudiate the unlawful contract prior to election; further, E's granting recognition to another U that won election and that U's acceptance of recognition, unlawful, since by conducting the unlawful election, U could not have represented an uncoerced majority of Ees]

4030 FINANCIAL SUPPORT

4030-1400 Checkoff

4030-1408 Deducting union dues without employee's checkoff authorizations

United States Postal Service 279 NLRB No. 008
[continuing to withhold Ee's dues after revocation of dues checkoff authorization, violation, notwithstanding revocation was not w/i open annual period designated in dues authorization and governing bargaining agreement, where authorization directing E to assign to U such regular and periodic membership dues as the Union may certify as due and owing provided for payment of dues as quid pro quo for U membership, so that, when Ee validly resigned U membership, his agreement to have membership dues assigned ceased to exist for purpose of dues checkoff]

4030-1467 Soliciting dues deduction authorizations

Mode O'Day Company, Division of Wickes Companies, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 029
[inclusion of check off authorization form among forms furnished Ees during hiring process may justify finding that Ees were led to believe that execution of such authorization was condition of employment]

Mode O'Day Company, Division of Wickes Companies, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 029
[requiring Ee to sign U dues check off authorization form at time of hire and deducting U initiation fee from wages pursuant to authorization, unlawful, since Ee's execution of authorization was not voluntary where Ee, given filled-in authorization form along with other forms she was required to sign, could reasonably assume that she was required to sign authorization form predated as of date of hire and to sign on such date; and E further encouraged Ee to sign immediately by assuring her no monies would be deducted for 30 days]

4030-4200 Expenses of suspected union defrayed, or supplies paid for

Baker Mine Services, Inc., d/b/a Coppinger Machinery Service, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 085
[E paying members of Ee committee negotiating committee for time spent negotiating bargaining agreement, providing ballots for committee elections, allowing elections during working hours w/o loss of pay, giving advice to Ee committee members during negotiations, meeting directly with Ees to encourage ratification of bargaining agreement negotiated with Ee committee, and paying cost of printing agreement, not unlawful; absent evidence of lack of arms-length relationship between E and U properly litigated, such activities only deemed cooperation of ministerial nature]

4030-5600 Payment or granting of leave for time spent on union business

Baker Mine Services, Inc., d/b/a Coppinger Machinery Service, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 085
[E paying members of Ee committee negotiating committee for time spent negotiating bargaining agreement, providing ballots for committee elections, allowing elections during working hours w/o loss of pay, giving advice to Ee committee members during negotiations, meeting directly with Ees to encourage ratification of bargaining agreement negotiated with Ee committee, and paying cost of printing agreement, not unlawful; absent evidence of lack of arms-length relationship between E and U properly litigated, such activities only deemed cooperation of ministerial nature]

Hunter Douglas, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 123
(violation, where E's manager suggested formation of Ee committee, during U campaign, to discuss problems and remedies, meetings of committee were held on company time in company cafeteria, with agenda set by manager)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147
(E's contention that its granting of privileges to U i.e. permitting U chairman to spend 4 hours of paid time each workday conducting U business including grievance processing, use of office, telephone, and copying machine, violated Section 8(a)(2) as unlawful support of U, and thus justified unilateral withdrawal of privileges as illegal rather than mandatory subject of bargaining, rejected, since grant of time and property not violative of Section 8(a)(2) where U had been recognized and dealt with at arms length, but merely friendly cooperation of amiable labor management relationship, absent deeper E involvement or intrusion into U affairs)

N.L.R.B. v. BASF Wyandotte Corp. 798 F.2d 849 (C.A. 5, Sept. 1986)
[Legislative history of Section 8(a)(2) of NLRA makes clear that Congress intended it, much as Section 302 LRRA, to be provision prohibiting bribery and company dominated Us, not prohibiting kind of labor-management cooperation necessary to collective bargaining as giving paid time to U steward for performance of U duties]

4040 RECOGNITION AND EXECUTION OF CONTRACT

The Kroger Company 275 NLRB No. 202
(where E remedied prior unlawful recognition and execution of U contract by repudiating such action, Bd held fact that E allowed U to conduct contract ratification meeting at E's facility immediately following company meeting did not add to prior unlawful conduct, where company meeting was voluntary, no supervisors or E officials were present at ratification meeting, and GC did not contend that E's allowing U to discuss ratification with Ees immediately after company meeting and/or mechanics of ratification vote were unlawful or supported finding that earlier recognition was not cured)

4040-0167 Presumption of majority status at time of execution

James Nederlander d/b/a Ned West, Inc., d/b/a Pacific Amphitheatre 276 NLRB No. 008
(where E and minority U unlawfully entered into, maintained and enforced contract containing both U security and exclusive referral provisions, fact that persons were referred by U to employment with E held not proof that they were U members or had authorized U to represent them thereby conferring majority status on U)

Rainey Security Agency, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 041
(while E in 8(a)(2) case need not initially shoulder burden of proving a majority, law requires that there must in fact have been majority at time of recognition; fact of majority support will ordinarily be presumed, as all actions such as recognition are normally assumed to be consistent with the law; but once there is some showing that any earlier-gathered majority, however manifested, might have been obtained or maintained by improper influence, Bd may, in exercise of its reasoned judgment, require parties to separate until properly joined)

The Kroger Company 275 NLRB No. 202
(E's recognition and execution of U contract covering E's warehouse Ees and truckdrivers, unlawful, where E failed two-pronged test for determining if recognition of U is lawful since, first, only 3 out of full complement of 21 Ees were working when E extended recognition to U and, second, E could not have been in normal production inasmuch as warehouse function was distribution of groceries to retail stores and no drivers had been hired)

The Kroger Company 275 NLRB No. 202
(in finding that E unlawfully recognized and executed contract with U at which time E did not employ representative complement of its work force, Bd rejected E's contention that its recognition of U was lawful since 3 of planned complement of 9 warehouse Ees had been hired as of recognition date, where contract applied to unit of warehouse Ees and truckdrivers)

The Kroger Company 275 NLRB No. 202
(E cured its initial unlawful recognition and execution of U contract where E timely repudiated such conduct w/i days of its occurrence; repudiation was unambiguous and specific, as E expressly withdrew recognition, rescinded contract, and assured Ees of their free choice in joining U; there was adequate publication and Ees were assured their Sec. 7 rights would not be interfered with in future, as E told each Ee that he would be employed regardless of whether he joined U; and there was no other illegal conduct by E)

Tyler Distribution Centers, Inc. JD-(NY)-21-86
[E's according recognition to one local U at new plant and executing contract before it had hired any Ees, violative; further, E's enforcement of U security requirements thereafter as it hired Ees, violative]

4040-1733 Expanding unit

Metropolitan Teletronics Corp. 279 NLRB No. 134
[grant of recognition and execution of contract containing U security clause not violation for lack of representative complement at time, where work force at new plant performing same functions as at closed plants constituted representative complement and expectation of expansion contingent on grant of state assistance was too uncertain for expanding unit to be found]

Harte & Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 128
[no violation, where E and U agreed to extend bargaining agreement with security clause in effect at former facility to E's newly purchased facility, since new facility was essentially extension of E's old operation where new plant produced same products using same machinery, Ees performed essentially same functions. Contention move not mere relocation since it took too long for substantial percentage of transferees to arrive at new plant, rejected, since transferees constituted more than 40% of new work force on date transfer process substantially completed, and 8 month period to complete transfer operations not unreasonable herein]

Harte & Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 128
[no premature recognition when E relocated facility 32 miles away and parties agreed to extend existing agreement with its security clause to new site, as operations remained essentially the same, and transferees from old plant constituted substantial percentage (approximately 40% or more) of new plant Ee complement on date that the transfer process was substantially completed, not date when plant fully operational]

James Nederlander d/b/a Ned West, Inc., d/b/a Pacific Amphitheatre 276 NLRB No. 008
(E and assisted U unlawfully entered into, maintained, and enforced U security contract covering Ees at E's new facility at time that U, having been recognized at time that Ees had not yet been hired, did not represent uncoerced majority of Ees)

Haddon House Food Products, Inc. and Flavor Delight, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 182 (C.A. 3, June 1985)
(E's recognizing and entering into contract containing U security with U pursuant to card check (no incumbent U present), violative, where, at time above events took place, there were unremedied ULPs from prior organizing attempt by another U which made unfettered Ee free choice unlikely while those practices remained unremedied)

4040-2500 Inappropriate unit

United States Steel Corporation 280 NLRB No. 098
[extending coverage of existing collective-bargaining agreement to group of Ees not previously covered and not yet hired, violation notwithstanding contention that truckdrivers at old facility were accreted to unit of warehouse Ees at new facility]

Safeway Stores, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 099
(E unlawfully recognized U and U unlawfully accepted recognition when both E and U knew that U did not represent uncoerced majority of Ees, where recognition occurred under contract covering existing multistore unit containing recognition clause including future stores w/i U's jurisdiction, but new store Ees were never given opportunity in an election to ascertain whether they desired U representation and thus desired to join larger unit; and new store Ees were not accreted to existing unit)

Armco, Inc., Eastern Steel Division, Ashland Works 279 NLRB No. 143
[successor E's contention that incumbent U at new plant had waived right to represent Ees by yielding representational rights to a rival U and failing to request bargaining, rejected, and E's refusal to bargain with incumbent U, unilateral changes in terms and conditions of employment, recognition of rival U and enforcing U security, violative, since bargaining request would have been futile i.e., E had already granted recognition to rival U, Ees at new plant had not been accreted and incumbent U had in no way clearly and unmistakeably waived right to represent Ees]

Paper Manufacturers Company 274 NLRB No. 070

Steven Muss, Cynthia Muss Lawrence and Debbie Muss Keshen, A Copartnership, d/b/a Alexander Muss & Sons 274 NLRB No. 193
(E's recognition and execution of contract with one U and its withdrawal of recognition from another U which was striking E over failure of contract negotiations, not violative, since no R ptn had been filed with Bd thus raising qcr, and E had objective considerations for doubting striking U's majority status where striking Ees had been on strike for over a year, all strikers had been permanently replaced and 13 of 17 current Ees had freely signed cards authorizing new U to represent them, giving no indication of support for striking U)

4040-4500 Where employer has valid contract with another union

Safeway Stores, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 099

Windsor Place Corp. 276 NLRB No. 051
(E can recognize U w/o determining or requiring that U demonstrate its majority status, but risks 8(a)(2) liability for recognizing a U supported by a minority of unit Ees)

Rainey Security Agency, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 041
(grant of exclusive recognition to minority U constitutes unlawful 8(a)(2) support; minority U for these purposes includes both a U which has simply failed to secure sufficient support in unit for which it is recognized and U which has obtained ostensible majority support that is tainted by coercion and therefore is unreliable)

Rainey Security Agency, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 041
(E violated 8(a)(2) and U violated 8(b)(1)(A), respectively, by E's proffering recognition to U and executing contract with U, and U's acceptance of recognition and entering into contract with E, where U did not represent uncoerced majority either because it never obtained authorization cards from majority of Ees or because, if it did, authorization cards may have been poisoned by dues deduction forms furnished to applicants to fill out even before E's operations had begun and by accompanying statements made by U's agents that applicants had to join U)

4040-5025 Good-faith belief as to majority status immaterial

Safeway Stores, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 099

Windsor Place Corp. 276 NLRB No. 051
(E's recognizing and entering into contract with U, violative, since U did not have majority support where 1 person in 2 person unit had signed authorization cards for two different Us, Ee had not clearly indicated support for one U over the other and E knew at time of extending recognition, that Ee had signed two authorization cards, thus negating claim that it knew U had achieved majority status)

Ryder/P.I.E. Nationwide 275 NLRB No. 084
(E's recognition of U and U's acceptance thereof, and their execution of contract, unlawful, where U never had valid majority in combined regular clerical unit resulting from merger of freight terminal offices of 2 Ees since E's and U's reliance on casual Ee's authorization card to include her in regular Ees' unit was contrived to lend colorable legitimacy to improper inclusion in unit, thereby tipping majority balance in favor of U; and parties' good faith but mistaken belief that Ee was regular Ee did not excuse prohibited conduct)

4040-5050 Subsequent acquisition of majority status immaterial

American Bakeries Company and Local Union No. 51, Teamsters (Local No. 326, Bakery Workers) 280 NLRB No. 160

James Naderlander d/b/a Ned West, Inc., d/b/a Pacific Amphitheatre 276 NLRB No. 008
(fact that assisted U subsequently achieved majority status prior to actual signing of contract held not valid defense to parties' prior commission of ULPs)

The Kroger Company 275 NLRB No. 202
(in finding that E remedied its prior unlawful recognition and execution of U contract by repudiating such action, Bd distinguished instant case from those in which E's initial unlawful recognition so tainted subsequent events that U's eventual receipt of majority support was irrelevant and did not validate initial recognition; unlike those cases E here withdrew recognition, rescinded contract, and advised each Ee that he would be employed whether or not he chose to join U, thereby effectively removing deceptive cloak of authority and remedying earlier violation)

Ryder/P.I.E. Nationwide 275 NLRB No. 084
(where E's and U's execution of contract was unlawful because of improper inclusion of casual Ee in combined regular Ees' unit resulting from merger of 2 Es, thereby tipping majority balance in favor of U, ALJ held fact that casual Ee was made regular Ee retroactive to date before implementation of merger did not cure situation since belated acquisition of majority is of no saving consequence if earlier recognition was unlawful)

4040-5088 Where another union certified as representative of unit found appropriate

Hydro-Air Equipment, Inc. d/b/a Lanco 277 NLRB No. 012
(E's recognition of and signing contract with U as representative of Ees at new location, unlawful, since it was under continuing obligation to recognize and bargain with another U which had represented Ees at previous location, inasmuch as relocation took place during certification year, at time of recognition of other U majority of unit consisted of Ees who had transferred from old location, and only significant change in operations was geographic)

Harte & Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 128
[Bd has developed standards in contract bar and failure to bargain cases to determine if there is sufficient continuity of operations to justify applying existing agreement to new location. Existing contract will remain in effect after relocation if operations are substantially same and if Ees from old plant constitute approximately 40% or more of new Ee complement. In relocation situations determining whether U should continue to represent Ees at new location involves balancing of newly hired Ees' interest in choosing whether or not to have U representation against transferees' interest in retaining fruits of their collective activity]

4060 PARTICIPATION OF SUPERVISORS IN AFFAIRS OF LABOR ORGANIZATION

4060-1600 Solicitation of union membership and support

Food Concepts, Inc. JD-(NY)-36-85
(when E closed down one of its 2 locations, each represented by different U, and transferred those Ees to remaining location, a merger of units occurred and qcr existed. E violated Act when he recognized and applied contract of U that represented original Ees at location to the newly moved Ees, and also when supervisor threatened transferred Ees with discharge if they did not join other U)

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(E unlawfully assisted and supported favored U over rival U, in view of supervisors' non-interference with Ee solicitation in support of favored U; supervisors' signing of favored U's autorization cards, granting of time off for Ees attending its meetings, and comments of top management officials and owners that E could operate with favored U)

4060-5000 Serves as officer, or in other official capacity

Oil Field Construction Company JD-(SF)-106-86
[E's permitting statutory supervisor to act as U's steward unlawful, since E thereby interfered with Ees' right to be represented by individuals having single-minded loyalty to their interests and interfered with U's proper administration of its representative function inasmuch as apparent and actual conflict of interest existed between individual's supervisory responsibilities and his duties as steward, and E was aware of such dual role]

Oil Field Construction Company JD-(SF)-104-86
[E's permitting U's president to act as supervisor, not unlawful, where in his role as president, supervisor's connection with bargaining matters, i.e., negotiations or grievance handling, was too remote to warrant finding that requisite conflict of interest existed]

Festival Enterprises, Inc. JD-(SF)-185-85
[E's permitting two high level supervisors to participate in internal affairs of U by attending meetings and holding office, violative; further, E's contention that it could not violate 8(a)(2) since supervisors did not supervise any unit Ees, rejected, since supervisors were potentially placed on both sides of the table regardless of whom they supervised]

4060-6700 Membership on negotiating committee

Festival Enterprises, Inc. JD-(SF)-185-85
[E's negotiating with low level supervisor who belonged to U and administered contract for unit Ees, violative; further, fact that supervisor did not negotiate contract or process grievances w/i 6 month period preceding C did not bar issuance under 10(b) since E's interference in administration of U itself may have caused this lack of activity]

4070 DECLARATIONS OF UNION PREFERENCE

4070-5000 Favoring one outside union over others

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(while finding that, if E had stated to Ees that it favored 1 of 2 rival outside Us and would not unlawfully undermine Ee support of favored U, such statement would be lawful, Bd held that what E had stated was that it would reward Ees who supported favored U because it would not be that much of an expense to E, which contrasted sharply with E's unlawful efforts to undermine Ees' support of competing U; accordingly, Bd found E unlawfully assisted and supported favored U which E felt it could better control)

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(E unlawfully assisted and supported favored U over rival U, in view of supervisors' non-interference with Ee solicitation in support of favored U; supervisors' signing of favored U's autorization cards, granting of time off for Ees attending its meetings, and comments of top management officials and owners that E could operate with favored U)

Palmas Del Mar Company 277 NLRB No. 011
(urging Ees to abandon support for U they favored in election campaign and support and solicit other Ees to form an organization to campaign for and support U favored by E, unlawful and objectionable support of U)

4090 DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT, OR THREATS THEREOF, TO ASSIST LABOR ORGANIZATION

4090-1400 Discharge, layoff, suspension, or refusal to hire for not supporting favored union

(E violated 8(a)(1) and (2) when it threatened Ees, not previously included in unit, by stating that they must join U or be discharged)

4090-3700 Discharge or layoff for refusal to sign checkoff authorization or to permit withholding of union assessments

James Nederlander d/b/a Ned West, Inc., d/b/a Pacific Amphitheatre 276 NLRB No. 008
(E unlawfully assisted U by telling Ee that he would be terminated w/i 7 days if Ee did not permit E to withhold U assessments from Ee's wages pursuant to contract with U)

4090-4900 Preferential wages and benefits for Union members

F & C Transfer Co., Inc. 277 NLRB No. 071
(E's payment of higher wages and contribution to pension fund only for those Ees in unit who were members of U, unlawful. Further, since contract on its face applied to both bonded and nonbonded Ees (only bonded Ees could become members of U), parol evidence may not be used to establish U represents only bonded Ees)

6000 STATUS OF SUCCESSOR TO DOMINATED OR ASSISTED LABOR ORGANIZATION

The Kroger Company 275 NLRB No. 202
(E cured its initial unlawful recognition and execution of U contract where E timely repudiated such conduct w/i days of its occurrence; repudiation was unambiguous and specific, as E expressly withdrew recognition, rescinded contract, and assured Ees of their free choice in joining U; there was adequate publication and Ees were assured their Sec. 7 rights would not be interfered with in future, as E told each Ee that he would be employed regardless of whether he joined U; and there was no other illegal conduct by E)

524 EMPLOYER DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT

0100 GENERALLY

Rainey Security Agency, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 041

(C allegation that E violated 8(a)(1), (2) and (3) as result of alleged failure of U to adequately represent Ees not sustained where the only plausible basis for holding E statutorily liable would be on theory that E conspired in installing U as Ee representative with full knowledge that U did not represent majority, and in such case, E could perhaps be held liable under 8(a)(1) and (3); however, while there was well-grounded suspicion of such knowing conspiracy, evidence did not quite demonstrate it)

0117 SCOPE OF PROSCRIPTION

0117-2500 Act does not touch normal exercise of the right of the employer to select its employees or to discharge them

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078

[no universal theory that E must follow seniority in recall of economic strikers. GC must establish existence of seniority recall rights by reference to collective-bargaining agreement or binding established past practice. However, even assuming either of above conditions proved, there must be alleged Sec. 8(a)(5) charge; otherwise, E free to devise new recall procedure as long as it is applied consistently. Here, all 8(a)(5) charges (unilateral changes) withdrawn; therefore, E did not violate Sec. 8(a)(3) by failing to recall strikers by seniority]

0117-9200 Discriminatee need not be engaged in concerted activity

Salem Leasing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 774 F.2d 85 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1985)

[as there is no cross reference in Sec. 8(a)(3), as there is in Sec. 8(a)(1), to Sec. 7 organizational rights, ct reluctant to read a concerted activity requirement into Section 8(a)(3)]

0133 INDIVIDUALS AFFECTED

0133-0100 Generally

0133-0150 Identification of specific victims not always essential

Activ Industries, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 040

(in adopting ALJ's conclusion that E unlawfully terminated more than third of its work force, Bd emphasized that it was E's mass discharge, and not its selection of Ees for discharge that was unlawful; accordingly, GC was not required to show correlation between each Ee's U activity and his or her discharge)

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. JD-239-86

[it is not essential for GC to establish that each and every member of group of Ees allegedly discharged for U activities was U activist, since anyone removed in course of discriminatorily motivated housecleaning is discriminatee, even if not personally engaged in U activities; moreover, in view of large number voting in favor of U, there was statistical chance that large percentage of Ees voted for U and that anyone discharged was U supporter]

0133-2500 Nonunion employees

Dubose Masonry, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 125

[discharge of non-U bricklayers while U bricklayers were standing around at jobsite, violative, since GC presented prima facie case where evidence was sufficient to support inference that Ees lack of U membership was motivating factor in E's decision to terminate. E's assertion that non-U bricklayers were laid off because of decline in work at jobsite was unsupported]

0133-3100 Union employees

Plateau Coal Sales, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 156

[E's seeking to induce Ees to work w/o U representation and withdrawing offers of employment from its entire work force when Ees refused to work nonU, held violative, since E wanted to avoid recognizing U, and Ees were U members]

0133-3125 Union employees where union is the employer

Northern District of Connecticut Iron Workers Local Union No. 15, Joint Apprenticeship Committee (Bruce Gilbert, an Individual) 278 NLRB No. 131

[violation, where U through its participation in Joint Apprentice Committee (JAC) discharged apprentice coordinator since discharge was for his intra-U activities, where he and 1 member of JAC had been rivals in campaigns for U office, and that member had appointed two other members of JAC while he was U president, in view of timing of discharge which took place when composition of committee was about to change, committee failed to specify reason for discharge and abruptness of discharge]

0133-5000 Relative of active union members

Retail Delivery Systems, Inc. JD-(NY)-15-86

[termination of Ee (dropping him from casual list) because of U activities carried on by his brother, violative]

0133-6200 Employee of person other than respondent

0133-6250 Employee of independent contractor

ARA Leisure Services, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 782 F.2d 456 (C.A. 4, Jan. 1986)

[discharge of helpers of tableheads i.e. vendors who sold novelties items at concessions at sports arena, by E which operated concessions under lease arrangement, unlawful, since tableheads held supervisors in employ of E rather than independent contractors, and in view of E's U animus and fact discharges took place two weeks before election, notwithstanding specific knowledge by e of U sympathies of only 4 out of 18 helpers, since E had general knowledge of U support among novelty helpers, E's contention that termination of tableheads required discharge of helpers also, rejected]

0133-7500 Applicants for employment

Stop-N-Go Foods, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 102

[E's refusal to hire applicant, unlawful, since for her filing ULP charge against her former E over her discharge and giving testimony at ULP hearing, especially where applicant explained to E that former E's asserted reason for discharge, improper cash handling, had been held to be pretext]

0133-7600 Probationary employee

North Vernon Forge, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 106

[discharge of rehired probationary Ee because Ee complained about his job assignment to his supervisor and to U making him alleged unsatisfactory probationary Ee, held violative since attempts by Ee to enforce provisions of existing collective bargaining agreement, even though agreement was ambiguous as to Ee's rights, are protected concerted activity under Act, as long as Ee's interpretations of agreement had reasonable basis]

S. Rosenthal and Company, Inc. d/b/a Rosenthal-Kaufmann Lithograph Company 276 NLRB No. 068

(where E, pursuant to past practice, had extended part-time Ees' probationary period so as to have more time to assess their qualifications and find full-time positions for them, its discharging them when U demanded strict compliance with contract provision requiring that they be included in the bargaining unit or be discharged, not violative, since U effectively ended their probationary period and E discharged them because it had no full-time positions open rather than because of anti-U animus or discrimination)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204

(discharge of probationary part-time Ee at store acquired by E from former owner, assertedly for limited availability for work and slow performance, not unlawful, where Ee's assertion of contractual rights to obtain additional hours from former E was no basis for imputing retaliatory motivation on E's actions some 3 months later, in view of absence of U animus or of wholesale termination of U members following change of ownership, removal of supervisor having fractious relationship with Ee from his evaluation, and other supervisors' unfavorable comments about Ee's performance)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204

(discharge of probationary Ee who had insisted upon right to U representation at disciplinary meeting with E and who had filed grievances concerning

her assignment dispute with E, not unlawful, since discharge was well-grounded in legitimate business interests where Ee had extreme-poor attendance record; Ee had repeated disagreements with work schedule because of restrictions on her availability, and she exhibited unacceptable work habits during short time she had been working for E)

0133-8000 Confidential employee

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091

[Ee holding 10 percent of E's stocks and assertedly discharged for violating E work rule held not divested of protection of Act by his stock ownership which was not determinative factor of unprotected status; rather, degree of participation in management and/or labor policy was relevant; here, there was no evidence that individual received any preference because of his stock ownership or that he participated in formulation of any policies involving management or Ee relations]

Raytheon Missile System Division, Raytheon Company 279 NLRB No. 035

[E's transfer of compensation assistant in E's industrial relations department to position in production control department, not violative where Ee had current legitimate access to confidential labor relations information at time her pro-U sympathy first became known to E; E's decision to transfer her was predicated on more than conjecture, but rather on reasonable apprehension, based on her pro-U activity, that she might compromise confidential labor relations information]

0133-8700 Supervisory employees

Opelika Foundry 281 NLRB No. 121

[E's refusal to meet with grievance committee which included individual as member, and subsequently discharging individual allegedly because of his U activity, not unlawful, since individual held to be supervisor]

0133-8725 Not protected because of union membership or participation in concerted activity

0133-8725 Not protected because of union membership or participation in concerted activity

Heck's Inc. 277 NLRB No. 098

(discharge of individual held to be supervisor, not unlawful, absent evidence discharge was for refusal to commit ULPs)

ARA Leisure Services, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 782 F.2d 456 (C.A. 4, Jan. 1986)

[discharge of tableheads i.e. vendors of novelty items at concessions located at sports arena, who had helpers who assisted them, not unlawful, since they were held supervisors in employ of E which operated concessions under lease rather than independent contractor]

0133-9000 Strikers

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078

[notwithstanding no prior preemployment physical exam policy and only instituted after economic strike ended, and notwithstanding it has been applied to recalled strikers, but not all of replacement Ees have undergone physicals, no violations over instituting physical exam policy or failure to reinstate recalled striker who failed exam, even though physician said illness treatable and posed no threat to his ability to perform job, since policy of E is that all Ees will take physical, policy bore no indication of discriminatory intent, E also discharged striker replacement who had same illness and policy was reasonable response to potential liability]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078

[no universal theory that E must follow seniority in recall of economic strikers. GC must establish existence of seniority recall rights by reference to collective-bargaining agreement or binding established past practice. However, even assuming either of above conditions proved, there must be alleged Sec. 8(a)(5) charge; otherwise, E free to devise new recall procedure as long as it is applied consistently. Here, all 8(a)(5) charges (unilateral changes) withdrawn; therefore, E did not violate Sec. 8(a)(3) by failing to recall strikers by seniority]

Lectromelt Casting and Machinery Company, A Division of Akron Standard Division, Eagle Picher Industries, Inc.; et al. 278 NLRB No. 102

[discharge of 3 U committeemen who participated in wildcat strike and appeared on picket line, violation, since E singled them out for disparate treatment because of their U office, where there was no evidence that they engaged in strike leadership activities, similarly situated Ees were not disciplined, and E knew that two of the committeemen had urged other Ees to return to work and unless E capitulated on grievance held not threatened to cause strike]

Government Employees (Office Employees, Local No. 2) 278 NLRB No. 085

[U-E's discriminatory and unilateral withholding of scheduled annual leave from Ees participating in strike, violation, since inherently destructive of significant employee rights]

Brady-Stannard Motor Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 178

(Bd found that after impasse wages paid to striker replacements was consistent with E's final offer to U to continue expired contract for 1 year where Bd looked at actual earnings received by replacements over 6 month period and it showed they were equal to or lower than what strikers earned in similar period in prior year notwithstanding wage package of replacements different from strikers. Therefore, no violation by offering replacements higher wage formula but where actual wages same, because it was, in effect, offering same contract to replacements as one that expired and which was offered to U)

0133-9300 Foreign nationals and illegal aliens

Sure-Tan, Inc., et al. v. N.L.R.B. ———U.S.——— (US S.CT, June 1984)

[Es' reporting of undocumented alien workers to INA in retaliation for their U activities after U won election held constructive discharge where such reporting was sole cause of INA investigation and workers' departure from country, and this result was foreseen by Es]

0150 WHAT CONSTITUTES DISCRIMINATION

0150-0100 Generally

The Trustees of Columbia University in the City of New York 279 NLRB No. 019

[Bd dismissed 8(a)(3) allegation that E unlawfully withdrew non-contractual tuition benefit plan in retaliation for U's successfully pursuing grievance over similar contractually required fund where proof of 8(a)(3) allegation depended on proof of 8(a)(5) allegation that Bd dismissed in deferring to arbitrator's award finding that E did not have to provide both benefits]

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112

(U activities of Ee, plus Ee's layoff, w/o causal connection do not alone make out case of prohibited discrimination; rather Bd must evaluate all relevant evidence to determine if GC has affirmatively shown that layoffs were unlawfully motivated)

Robins Federal Credit Union 273 NLRB No. 165

(although sequence of events, particularly timing of discharge of Ee on eve of election and method by which Ee was summarily dismissed gave rise to suspicion as to whether E terminated Ee because of her U activities, mere suspicion is not sufficient to support finding of violation)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(not every action that encourages or discourages U membership is unlawful; if allegedly discriminatory action is not inherently destructive of Ee rights, E or U can prevail if it shows legitimate and substantial business justifications for the action)

0150-2500 Differentiation between employees

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078

[no universal theory that E must follow seniority in recall of economic strikers. GC must establish existence of seniority recall rights by reference to collective-bargaining agreement or binding established past practice. However, even assuming either of above conditions proved, there must be alleged Sec. 8(a)(5) charge; otherwise, E free to devise new recall procedure as long as it is applied consistently. Here, all 8(a)(5) charges (unilateral changes) withdrawn; therefore, E did not violate Sec. 8(a)(3) by failing to recall strikers by seniority]

Leads Cablevision, Inc. and Cablevision Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 014

(granting disparate increases to Ees of each facility of joint E who received substantially equivalent evaluations overall, violative, since joint E intended that Ees of one of joint Es' facilities receive substantially lower increases than their counterparts because they selected U to represent them. E intended that dissimilar result occur)

Garrett Railroad Car & Equipment, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 151

(recalling Ee (economic striker) out of seniority after strike's end, violative, since such treatment of Ee was disprate. E's action was not shown to be for some legitimate business reason or purpose and assessed in background of E's ULPs was inherently destructive of Ee Section 7 rights. Record provided sufficient evidence of E's singling out Ee striker who wanted to abandon strike (E had learned) and rendered this Ee-striker favorable disparate treatment some 3 weeks after strike ended)

0150-2550 Discrimination based on identity of representative

Kansas City Terminal Elevator Company 274 NLRB No. 010

(E's imposing 3-day suspension on its Ee, U activist and shop steward, because Ee had been playing cards during scheduled working time, but during lull in production process, violative, since suspension letter received by Ee indicated that conduct for which Ee was suspended was first offense-Ee had been guilty of safety related offense but E did not consider card playing in same category-which according to E's progressive disciplinary system should have been cause only for written disciplinary warning)

0150-2575 Discrimination based upon holding union office

Med West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(prima facie case made out for successor's unlawful failure to rehire Ees where: 1) Ees were known U adherents, 2) majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, 3) disparate treatment as other Ees rehired were guilty of same offenses that successor alleged for not rehiring these Ees, and 4) successor found to have unlawfully refused to bargain with U, which constituted additional evidence of U animus)

Med West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(where substantial majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, strong circumstantial evidence of U animus is present, though evidence probative and not dispositive, notwithstanding successor retained some U Ees)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(in finding no violation where E imposed more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, Bd considered S.Ct's Metropolitan Edison decision from standpoint of U's waiver of U officials' Sec. 7 rights to extent they have affirmative duty to prevent illegal work stoppages, U's lawful bargaining away of statutory protection accorded U officials, insufficiency of general no-strike clause to constitute waiver, relevance of arbitration decisions in establishing waiver, and establishment of waiver by circumstances surrounding bargaining relationship as well as by language of agreement itself)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(in finding no violation where E imposed more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, Bd held that, with regard to specificity requirement for naming of U officials as opposed to specificity regarding what affirmative action can be expected of U in event of unlawful strike, it has long been established that U, like an E, acts through its agents and it would be radical departure from longstanding precedent to hold that U's contractual or other obligations must be explicitly designated as responsibility of specified officials or agents)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(imposition of disparate disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, not unlawful, where U assumed duty to prevent unlawful strikes and thereby waived steward's statutory rights; while S.Ct in Metropolitan Edison found affirmative action cannot be required unless such requirement is bargained for, it merely held general no-strike clause was not enough to constitute waiver and left open what contractual language would suffice; here, contract unequivocally imposed duty to end unlawful strike, and stewards did not fulfill their contractual obligations even under most narrow construction of contract)

Mead Packaging 273 NLRB No. 181
(8(a)(3) and 8(b)(2) of the Act prohibit Es and Us, respectively, from discriminating against Ees in regard to hire or tenure of employment or any term or condition of employment to encourage or discourage membership in any labor organization..., and absent appropriate justification, E or U policies are unlawful if they treat Ees disparately according to their level of U activity; and in addition, bargaining agreements which discourage or encourage U activities through a disparate grant of benefits are unlawful unless providing the benefit serves legitimate statutory purposes and indirectly benefits all unit Ees)

Local Union 1392, Electrical Workers v. N.L.R.B. (Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.) 786 F.2d 733 (C.A. 6, Mar. 1986)
[where E imposing more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, not unlawful where contractual language showed U intent for its officials to attempt to prevent unauthorized work stoppages, and this language constituted clear and unmistakable waiver of officials right to be free from selective discipline]

0150-5000 Change in terms or conditions of employment

Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 039
[transfer of Ee, active participant in dissident U group, to less desirable time and work site, not violative since there was no substantive evidence to explain why E would chose to discriminate against Ee at time of transfer, as Ee had been engaging in his dissident activities for about 5 years w/o recrimination. Ee an experienced inspector, replaced inexperienced inspector on transfer]

Harold Weinz; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013
[E's unilateral reclassification of its (motel) desk clerks to supervisory positions, violative, where conduct, coupled with E's other ULPs and coinciding with other violative layoffs effectuated decimation of unit. Evidence discloses no justifiable reason for such conduct and record evidence suggests there would be 1:1 ratio of supervisors to unit Ees]

Brady-Stannard Motor Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 178
(Bd found that after impasse wages paid to striker replacements was consistent with E's final offer to U to continue expired contract for 1 year where Bd looked at actual earnings received by replacements over 6 month period and it showed they were equal to or lower than what strikers earned in similar period in prior year notwithstanding wage package of replacements different from strikers. 0167-1000 Affirmative showing of prohibited motive required

The Lawson Company v. N.L.R.B. 753 F.2d (C.A. 6, Jan. 1985)
(under Section 8(a)(1) and (3) of Act, E's motive is critical element in determining whether grant of benefits, prior to R election by E, is violative of Act)

Purolator Armored, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 1423 (C.A. 7, July 1985)
(notwithstanding operation was losing money, E violated Act by terminating said operation as E was willing to absorb these losses until U won election which shows that economics was not foremost in E's decision, and as U elected as operation's representative was same as one that represented other E units and there was frequent interchange with Ees, the closure had chilling effect on unionism)

0167-1017 Violation where action motivated in part by objective of encouragement or discouragement

Sea-Land Service, Inc. (Sea Operations) 280 NLRB No. 084
[ship's captain, responsible for transmitting all communications from ship, interrogating and discharging radio officer about message he sent at sea requesting local Bd's phone number, violative, notwithstanding legitamacy of captain's inquiry in asking whether radio was used in unauthorized manner, repeated inquiries as to why dischargee asked for Bd's phone number were not relevant to captain's responsibilities regarding communication equipment. Basis for discharge did not distinguish between specific questions asked so that lawful and unlawful motives cannot be separated]

Garrison Valley Center, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 164
(discharge of Ee who was most active Ee on behalf of U during U's organizing campaign allegedly because Ee left patient at E's nursing home unattended while performing other work, violative, since E failed to meet burden of establishing that E would have discharged Ee even in absence of her U activities. Record evidence demonstrated that E had tolerated brief absences for work-related reasons and would discharge an Ee only when serious injury or death resulted from Ee's conduct)

0167-1033 Prohibited motive inferable from conduct inherently destructive of employee rights

Government Employees (Office Employees, Local No. 2) 278 NLRB No. 055
[U-E's discriminatory and unilateral withholding of scheduled annual leave from Ees participating in strike, violation, since inherently destructive of significant employee rights]

MacDonald Miller Company 277 NLRB No. 079
(discharge of Ee doing certain work, no violation, notwithstanding discharge was admittedly due to fact he was subject of U grievance demanding that

Ees doing such work be paid higher wage under U contract, since, contrary to GC, doctrine of inherent destruction of Ee rights did not apply in grievance context, absent proof of U animus, because there was no far-reaching impact on work force and no visible and continuing obstacle to Ees' exercise of Sec. 7 rights; even assuming, arguendo, that inherent destruction doctrine had merit, it had been rebutted by E's explanation that paying higher wage would reduce its competitiveness)

Griffith-Hope Company 275 NLRB No. 073

(although finding that E violated 8(a)(5) by unilaterally subcontracting unit work resulting in layoff of Ees, Bd held subcontracting did not violate 8(a)(3) since, while E subcontracted work to avoid paying contractual wage and benefits, its unlawful action was not inherently destructive of Ees' Sec. 7 rights, particularly since there was no U animus)

Kenner Printing Company, Inc. JD-(NY)-32-85

(E's conversion of oral warning system to written one following notification of U's intent to organize E's Ees not inherently destructive of Ees' rights, as alleged, where E's purpose was to document instances of Ee misconduct, and campaign was free of ULPs by E)

Kobell v. Thorsen Tool Co. ———— F.Supp.————(DC M.D. PA, Dec. 1982)

0167-1033-5000 Notwithstanding conduct motivated by substantial business justification

Thomas Janitorial Service, Inc. JD-(SF)-60-86

[where E was successful bidder on contract and failed to contact predecessor's Ees who were U members to ascertain whether they would work below U scale, violative, notwithstanding no U animus and failure of U to respond to E's request for wage scale prior to his making bid. E had no indication Ees would not work at reduced wages but just assumed so leaving his failure to offer employment to be based on U membership which is inherently destructive of Ees' statutory rights]

0167-3000 Intent need not be shown where encouragement or discouragement foreseeable consequence

Glaziers Local Union 558 v. N.L.R.B. 787 F.2d 1406 (C.A. 10, Mar. 1986)

[while real motive or true purpose underlying challenged conduct is controlling, specific intent to encourage or discourage U membership is not always necessary to sustain violations of Section 8 of the Act; discrimination may be inferred and some conduct may by its very nature contain implications of required intent; natural foreseeable consequences of certain action may warrant inference; however, where intent is inferred from conduct, it may be difficult to identify true motive because of possible complex of motives]

Road Sprinkler Fitters Local Union No. 669 a/w Plumbers v. N.L.R.B. 778 F.2d 292 (C.A. D.C., Dec. 1985)

[although true purpose or real motive in hiring or firing is test of statutorily required intent to encourage U membership, it need not be shown by specific proof, since some conduct may by its very nature contain implications of required intent; where E conduct inherently encourages or discourages U membership, common law rule that man is held to intend foreseeable consequences of his conduct, is applicable]

0167-5000 Discrimination must be based on union animus or protected activity

Ro-Lab Rubber Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 057

[E proved it would have discharged Ee for multiple incidents of negligence and unexcused absence even if there had been neither U activities by Ees nor unlawful retaliatory general increase in discipline by E]

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061

[fact E's unilateral mid-term changes in Ees' terms and conditions of employment were prompted by economic rather than discriminatory considerations is immaterial if E did not bargain about those changes. Defense that refusal to bargain did not take place in context of overall subjective, bad faith may be available when charge is violation of Section 8(a)(3) of Act, but it is no defense to 8(a)(5) allegation]

C. D. Draucker d/b/a Redding Industrial Electric 275 NLRB No. 087

(no independent U animus required to be shown for finding violation where refusal to reemploy job applicant referred by U through hiring hall was based on E's experience with applicant in former employment with E at construction project at which time applicant, as U steward, engaged in protected U activities which irked E and general contractor)

Castricone Contractors, Inc. JD-(NY)-80-85

(discharge of Ee who joined U after starting work and when he gave E his U papers was told by E that Ee could either finish off the day or go home now — there were other people in U laid off that are not working, violative as E member of E association that signed contract with U and Ee discharged because E would have had to pay Ee contract wage)

Glaziers Local Union 558 v. N.L.R.B. 787 F.2d 1406 (C.A. 10, Mar. 1986)

[inquiry into motivation for challenged conduct is critical because Section 8 does not outlaw all encouragement or discouragement of membership in Us; only such as is accomplished by discrimination is prohibited; real purpose behind a U's action is crucial because all U-procured employment action demonstrates U's power and encourages membership and all U action is motivated by desire, proximate or ultimate, to encourage membership]

0183 ADEQUACY OF EVIDENCE TO ENCOURAGE OR DISCOURAGE UNION MEMBERSHIP

0183-0100 Generally

The Trustees of Columbia University in the City of New York 279 NLRB No. 019

[Bd dismissed 8(a)(3) allegation that E unlawfully withdrew non-contractual tuition benefit plan in retaliation for U's successfully pursuing grievance over similar contractually required fund where proof of 8(a)(3) allegation depended on proof of 8(a)(5) allegation that Bd dismissed in deferring to arbitrator's award finding that E did not have to provide both benefits]

Taylor & Gaskin, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 065

(in adopting ALJ's finding that E violated 8(a)(4) and (1) when it refused to rehire laid-off Ee because he had filed ULP charge against E, Bd disagreed with ALJ's statement that Wright Line does not apply to cases where there is finding that asserted legitimate business reason for adverse action was pretextual)

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86

[evidence developed in course of undercover investigation of Ees designed to develop facts to support discharges which would weaken U's strength among remaining workforce cannot be used to exonerate E from charge of unlawful discrimination]

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)

(as E motivation is factual question, Bd's conclusion concerning motivation must be upheld if supported by substantial evidence)

0183-3300 Burden of coming forward

0183-3333 Burden of showing discriminatory motive on General Counsel

Enterprise Aggregates Corporation 276 NLRB No. 011

(no violation when E who had paid retirement benefits previously refused to pay these benefits to strikers, in view of failure by GC to make out prima facie case that denial of benefits was based on Ees' protected activities GC relied solely on earlier case against E on same issue in which Bd found that E's refusal to pay benefits was based on E's animosity towards participants in strike. Absent any other evidence, Bd refused to infer same proximate cause in instant case especially in light of passage of more than year from end of strike and E ceasing operations until Ees requested benefits)

John J. Hudson, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 123

(layoff of three Ees who had signed U authorization cards, not violative, notwithstanding it occurred three days after supervisor informed manager of Ees' organizing efforts and one day after supervisor told Ee who was wearing U button that Ees were killing themselves by trying to organize, since layoff was according to seniority, U had not filed one grievance or ULP charge in twenty-seven years it had represented E's Ees at another facility, and supervisor's statement did not establish requisite U animus where it was made after manager responsible for labor relations at both facilities had told supervisor to lay Ees off)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)

(while GC must usually show that E knew about individual Ee's U activities before Bd may conclude E violated Sec. 8(a)(3), GC may also prevail by showing E ordered general layoffs for purpose of discouraging U activities of some. This theory is viable even though some Ees who actually opposed U were laid off with their pro-U counterparts, or if all pro-U Ees not laid off. Focus is on E's motivation in ordering extensive layoffs, rather than upon pro-U or anti-U status of particular Ees)

N.L.R.B. v. Searle Auto Glass, Inc., d/b/a Best Glass Company 762 F.2d 769 (C.A. 9, June 1985)

(when Ee's discharge is motivated both by legitimate business reasons and reasons related to Ee's exercise of protected activities, ct will find ULP only if protected activity was substantial factor in decision to discharge; burden never shifts but as affirmative defense, E may show by preponderance of evidence that Ee would have been terminated even in absence of protected conduct)

0183-3333-3300 When employer's conduct causes comparatively slight harm to employee rights and employer raises defense of business justification

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[Bd held hiring of temporary Ees in order to operate business during lawful lockout to bring economic pressure in support of legitimate bargaining position, not unlawful, where use of temporary Ees (1) is measure reasonably adapted to achievement of legitimate E interest, and (2) has only comparatively slight adverse effect on protected Ee rights; and Bd need not require more proof of E's legitimate purpose nor engage in balancing E interests against Ee rights to find violation, even absent independent proof of unlawful E motivation; Inland Trucking Co., 179 NLRB 350, overruled]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[E presented no legitimate and substantial business justifications for changing its longstanding work assignment policy (favoring senior drivers over junior drivers) during strike and retaining that change thereafter thus, even assuming that adverse effect of policy on Ees' rights was only coinparatively slight, E's action violative since E failed to prove that it had legitimate and substantial business justification for policy change]

Stanley A. Dash, Jr. v. N.L.R.B. (Lawyers Co-Operative Publishing Co.) 793 F.2d 1062 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[where discharged Ee alleges that his discharge constitutes ULP, GC bears burden of proving Ee's exercise of protected activity was motivating factor in termination. As affirmative defense, E may show by preponderance of evidence that it would have terminated Ee despite protected activity]

0183-3333-6700 No burden where employer conduct inherently destructive of employer rights

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[in finding E's use of temporary Ees during lawful lockout not violative, Bd held use of temporary Ees had only comparatively slight effort on Ee rights, and E's effort to remain in operation after lawful lockout was not inherently destructive nor per se violation of Act w/o inquiry into E's motivation; fact that E was protagonist in locking out Ees did not warrant inferring any greater impact on Ee rights from subsequent use of temporary Ees; and distinction as to effects between lawful offensive and defensive economic weaponry no longer exists]

0183-3367 Prima facie case places burden of coming forward on employer

International Hat Company, A Wholly-Owned Subsidiary of Interco Incorporated 281 NLRB No. 053
[setting U activist's new rate of pay for bulk cutting at level which substantially reduced his earnings, violation where E knew it was setting rate too low to maintain Ee's earnings and failed to establish that reduction in earnings would have occurred absent Ee's U activities]

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 007
[discharging U activist for undercharging customer by falsifying meal ticket, not violation, since, even if U activities were a motive, E met its Wright Line burden where Ee failed to clarify any question about E's discontinuation of freebies, and supervisor making discharge decision lacked personal U animus, was not treating Ee disparately, as he was new on job, and was ignorant of Ee's identity when he started investigating matter]

United States Postal Service 277 NLRB No. 156
(ALJ's personal belief that E's legitimate reason was sufficient to warrant action taken is not substitute for evidence that E would have relied on this reason alone)

Tom Wignall, Jr. and Billie Williams d/b/a Lovilia Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 186
(reduction of Ee's position and job responsibilities from designation as temporary manager, not unlawful, even though Ee's U sympathies were motivating factor for E's action, where E would have reassigned Ee even absent protected conduct, since Ee admitted he wanted to return to former position because earnings as temporary manager were insufficient to justify extra responsibilities and risk of losing qualifying papers for former position; and Ee's wages did not increase as temporary manager, and he retained existing wage rate upon returning to former position)

Industrial Agrico Processing, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 102
(discharge of U adherent because he loitered in controller's office, violative, since credible testimony and in context of numerous ULPs show that E failed to demonstrate that it would have discharged Ee even in absence of Ee's U activity)

County Respiratory Products, Inc. JD-(NY)-107-85
(discharge of Ee for threatening E's president with physical violence, not violative, notwithstanding E may have been pleased to have reason to discharge Ee who was prime suspect in U activity, where E would have discharged even in absence of U activity)

Roberto Sanchez and Elva Rodriguez v. N.L.R.B. 785 F.2d 409 (C.A. 2, Mar. 1986)
[discharge of U steward allegedly for driving incident, rather than for U activities, unlawful, since U steward met his burden of proving under Wright Line that discharge was result of U animus]

Turnbull Cone Baking Company of Tennessee v. N.L.R.B. 778 F.2d 8 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1985)
[once GC has demonstrated that Ee's protected activity was substantial or motivating factor in E's adverse action against Ee, E may then avoid liability if it can prove by preponderance of evidence that there were independent, legitimate reasons for its decision; thus, in mixed or dual motive cases, where there is both anti-U animus and nondiscriminatory reason for adverse action, burden of proof shifts to E to prove that adverse action would have occurred in any event for valid reasons]

Turnbull Cone Baking Company of Tennessee v. N.L.R.B. 778 F.2d 8 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1985)
[if ALJ erred in failing to employ formal Wright Line analysis and to follow its burden-shifting procedures of imposing on E affirmative defense for escaping liability, such error was harmless since ALJ at least found that E had failed to prove its affirmative defense]

N.L.R.B. v. Del Rey Tortilleria, Inc. 787 F.2d 1118 (C.A. 7, Apr. 1986)
[in reviewing Bd's findings with respect to discharges of Ees, ct held that, under Wright Line, E, in essence, has affirmative defense which he must prove by preponderance of evidence]

N.L.R.B. v. Searle Auto Glass, Inc., d/b/a Best Glass Company 762 F.2d 769 (C.A. 9, June 1985)
(when Ee's discharge is motivated both by legitimate business reasons and reasons related to Ee's exercise of protected activities, ct will find ULP only if protected activity was substantial factor in decision to discharge; burden never shifts but as affirmative defense, E may show by preponderance of evidence that Ee would have been terminated even in absence of protected conduct)

0183-3375 Employer's burden not satisfied where reason pretexual

Bridgeway Oldsmobile, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 165
[although ALJ found E's proferred reason for discharge of Ee, i.e., insubordination, was wholly pretextual and real reason for discharge was Ee's U support, Bd still applies Wright Line analysis in all cases alleging violations of 8(a)(3) and (1); however, because finding of pretext necessarily means that E's reasons did not exist or were not relied on, inference of wrongful motive is left intact and discharge is unlawful]

The Standard Products Company, Rocky Mount Division 281 NLRB No. 018
[Ee's discharge for sleeping on job, unlawful, notwithstanding that Ee was marginal Ee briefly employed by E and was recipient of series of reprimands for tardiness, where E did not meet its Wright Line burden that it would have discharged Ee even absent his U activity, in view of supervisor's statement to Ee that he would not be fired if he would get back his U authorization card]

Taylor & Gaskin, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 065
(in adopting ALJ's finding that E violated 8(a)(4) and (1) when it refused to rehire laid-off Ee because he had filed ULP charge against E, Bd disagreed with ALJ's statement that Wright Line does not apply to cases where there is finding that asserted legitimate business reason for adverse action was pretextual)

Power-Seal Corporation 276 NLRB No. 036
(E's contention that it had discharged family of former plant manager and part owner of the business, because, while still employed by E, latter had conceived of competing business which became viable the day after his resignation failed to rebut prima facie case of discharge for U activity where reason on which E relied to discharge Ees was shown not to have existed and E failed to show that it would have taken same action in absence of protected conduct)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[discharge of Ees held unlawful where evidence of Ees' U activities, E's widespread 8(a)(1) conduct, express demonstration of U animus, and active curiosity in Ees' organizing activties was sufficient to establish prima facie case of unlawful motivation for discharges; and, since E's asserted reasons for discharges were pretextual, E failed to meet its Wright Line burden]

0183-6700 Sufficiency of evidence

Ballou Brick Company v. N.L.R.B. 798 F.2d 339 (C.A. 8, July 1986)
[individual demonstrations of E's anti-U motivation, together with ULPs, support finding of anti-U motivation where all laid-off Ees had signed U authorization cards, those deemed U leaders were not recalled, E listed most of laid-off Ees as potentially voting for U, and chief operating officer said Ees were laid off for U activities and told former Ee he would be considered for employment after U campaign died down]

0183-6701 Generally

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of Ees, who had been active in replacing U steward, for poor workmanship and because some of Ees were troublemakers, not unlawful, notwithstanding that layoff occurred after E's superintendent met with Ees, since each of critical aspects of meeting was susceptible to two different meanings, one lawful and other unlawful, and record taken as whole gave insufficient basis for Bd to choose unlawful meaning over lawful meaning)

Stewart-Warner Corporation/Thor Power Tool Company JD-(ATL)-62-86
[suspicion raised by Ee's U activities, E's knowledge thereof, and limited evidence of E's U animus held not proof of unlawful motivation in discharge of active U adherent]

0183-6712 Circumstantial evidence

Med West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(where substantial majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, strong circumstantial evidence of U animus is present, though evidence probative and not dispositive, notwithstanding successor retained some U Ees)

Turnbull Cone Baking Company of Tennessee v. N.L.R.B. 778 F.2d 8 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1985)
[Bd may rely on all the evidence, including direct admissions as well as circumstantial evidence, which alone may be sufficient, in detemining E's actual motive underlying its actions]

0183-6712-2500 Direct evidence rarely obtainable and not essential

Yaohan of California, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 032
[even in absence of credited evidence of direct knowledge of Ee's U activities, circumstances surrounding his discharge held sufficient to create inference that E was aware of Ee's U activities and fired him for that reason]

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual JD-98-85
(discriminatory intent may be inferred not only from direct evidence but from record as a whole)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(improper motivation need not be demonstrated by direct evidence but may be inferred from all circumstances and must be upheld if it is reasonable in light of proven facts)

0183-6725 Inference of discrimination

T & T Machine Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 139
[inference of unlawful motivation in E's layoff of 4 members of U in-house organizing committee not dispelled by E's failure to layoff other Ees who openly favored U, nor would inference be dispelled if E had laid off Ees who had no involvement with U]

Activ Industries, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 040
(direct evidence of discriminatory motivation is not necessary to support finding of discrimination and such intent may be inferred from record as a whole)

Med West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(prima facie case made out for successor's unlawful failure to rehire Ees where: 1) Ees were known U adherents, 2) majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, 3) disparate treatment as other Ees rehired were guilty of same offenses that successor alleged for not rehiring these Ees, and 4) successor found to have unlawfully refused to bargain with U, which constituted additional evidence of U animus)

Med West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(successor E based hiring decisions on consultation with predecessor E where record showed that successor spent on average of 75 seconds reviewing each personnel file)

Med West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(where substantial majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, strong circumstantial evidence of U animus is present, though evidence probative and not dispositive, notwithstanding successor retained some U Ees)

Enterprise Aggregates Corporation 276 NLRB No. 011

Absent any other evidence, Bd refused to infer same proximate cause in instant case especially in light of passage of more than year from end of strike and E ceasing operations until Ees requested benefits)

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112
(Bd reversed ALJ, notwithstanding assertion that reversal turned on ALJ's demeanor credibility findings, since Bd, to same extent as ALJ, is free to draw its own inferences from record so long as demeanor is not involved)

Warehouse Supermarkets of Arizona, Inc., d/b/a Warehouse Foods JD-(SF)-101-86
[absent direct evidence, trier of fact may infer from total circumstances that motive for discharge was desire to eliminate U adherents; if stated motive is found false, inference is that there is another motive E desires to conceal and that such motive is unlawful]

Warehouse Supermarkets of Arizona, Inc., d/b/a Warehouse Foods JD-(SF)-101-86
[discharge of cashiers at E's store, who were known or believed to be leaders in Ees' organizing efforts, assertedly because they were responsible for cash shortages at work, unlawful; absent direct evidence that Ees personally took funds, surrounding circumstances including E's anti-U animus, made inference appropriate that E's motivating factor was desire to eliminate U adherents]

N.L.R.B. v. Sherwood Trucking Company 775 F.2d 744 (C.A. 6, Oct. 1985)
[E's refusal to hire Ees of company that formerly performed work subcontracted to E, assertedly because of former Ees' affiliation with U, not violative where anti-U statements which would have formed basis for concluding that refusal to hire was illegal were made by individual who held no supervisory position with E during relevant period, and motivating factor in E's not hiring Ees was condition attached to E's receiving contract for performing work]

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(E's decision to have mass layoff w/i hours after becoming aware of U's organizational effort suports Bd's inference of improper motivation)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(E deviated from past practice in sending letters to 4 laid off Ees suggesting that they seek employment elsewhere because there was no reason to believe they would be recalled. Since three of four Ees were among most prominent U adherents, Bd could reasonably view letters as evidence of E's anti-U animus)

Lemon Drop Inn, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 752 F.2d 323 (C.A. 8, Jan. 1985)
(inference of E's unlawfulness may be drawn from E's hostility toward U, coincidence between Ee's activities and discharge, or absence of previous warnings or reprimands to Ee)

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 184
(notwithstanding that E's cessation of U activist's Saturday work was violative, warning notice, based on customer complaint concerning Ee's serving vending machine at customer's facility and later discharge for his sloppy work habits and misconduct, not violative, since Ee's work was not satisfactory and E showed that action of warning and subsequent discharge of Ee would have taken place even in absence of mechanic's U activity)

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86

[mere exercise of protected rights does not immunize Ee from discharge and it is error to accord no weight to Ee's performance deficiencies]

0183-6789 Lack of employer's specific knowledge of individual employees and differences in union activity between individual employees immaterial

Wilco Business Forms, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 154
[layoff motivated by exercise of protected Ee conduct need not include every single Ee of whom E had knowledge was engaged in such protected conduct. Where lay-off en masse is implemented in response to protected Ee conduct, GC is not obligated to establish anti-U motive with respect to each individual Ee laid-off]

Ballou Brick Co. 277 NLRB No. 009
(E's contention, in defense of allegations of unlawful discharge of 13 Ees, that GC's prima facie case must include evidence that E was aware that each individual engaged in protected activity, rejected, since a general knowledge of Ees' U activities is sufficient and in instant case, E had knowledge that its Ees were engaging in U meetings)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[even if E does not have specific knowledge of individual Ee's U activities but nevertheless discharges such Ees because other Ees engaged in U activities, discharge is unlawful since E violates Act where, notwithstanding actual conduct of Ee, it lays off such Ee because of belief or suspicion; moreover, where E engages in pattern of discriminatory conduct against Ee groups because many, even though not all, of them engaged in U activity, discrimination suffered by all Ees as result of E conduct is unlawful]

ARA Leisure Services, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 782 F.2d 456 (C.A. 4, Jan. 1986)
[where overall decision has been found to be prompted by U organizational activity, individual discharges may be ascribed to that same cause where, as here, E has actual knowledge of some Ees' U activity, and reasonable suspicion that other terminated Ees were among U supporters also]

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1178 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(while GC must usually show that E knew about individual Ee's U activities before Bd may conclude E violated Sec. 8(a)(3), GC may also prevail by showing E ordered general layoffs for purpose of discouraging U activities of some. This theory is viable even though some Ees who actually opposed U were laid off with their pro-U counterparts, or if all pro-U Ees not laid off. Focus is on E's motivation in ordering extensive layoffs, rather than upon pro-U or anti-U status of particular Ees)

1700 UNION OR OTHER PROTECTED ACTIVITY OF DISCRIMINATEE

1717 ACTIVE PARTICIPATION IN UNION ACTIVITIES

1717-1000 Officers or leaders in union affairs

Esco Elevators, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 138
(on ct remand, Bd held Ee's safety-related complaints constituted U endeavor and not personal undertaking, and his discharge purportedly because of fist fight with another Ee, unlawful, where Ee emphasized safety matters in campaign for U office before being elected U president; inspection of safety conditions at job sites was part of his role as U official; E was discharged by supervisor who had ascertained Ee was pressing safety conditions because he was U president; and other U officers were involved in attempting to resolve safety problem)

N.L.R.B. v. Esco Elevators, Inc. 794 F.2d 1078 (C.A. 5, July 1986)
[Bd's conclusion on remand that Ee's safety complaints were not merely personal undertaking, but rather part of Ee's U campaign for U president Ee had emphasized safety issues, and supervisors' minds campaign was related to his safety complaints, U had investigated and discussed need for correction of alleged unsafe conditions with E's management]

1717-1900 Conspicuous in unionizing effort

Garrison Valley Center, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 164
(discharge of Ee who was most active Ee on behalf of U during U's organizing campaign allegedly because Ee left patient at E's nursing home unattended while performing other work, violative, since E failed to meet burden of establishing that E would have discharged Ee even in absence of her U activities. Record evidence demonstrated that E had tolerated brief absences for work-related reasons and would discharge an Ee only when serious injury or death resulted from Ee's conduct)

1717-2400 Grievance protest or acting as grievance committeeman

Garland Coal & Mining Co. 276 NLRB No. 102
(discharge of chairman of grievance and safety committees for insubordination for refusing to sign E's memorandum threatening discharge if committees' members interfered in any activity outside their own unit, unlawful, where chairman's conduct did not remove him from protection of Act, since his refusal to sign did not impede or disrupt productivity in any way; refusal took place in private and not in front of other Ees; authority of supervisors involved was not publicly undermined; and there was no claim official's conduct exceeded acceptable bounds of conduct)

1717-3300 Demanding compliance with bargaining contract

MacDonald Miller Company 277 NLRB No. 079
(discharge of Ee, allegedly for his U activities and U stewardship and interest in enforcing contractual term according his job higher wages, not violation, since E showed no U animus and acted in accordance with such contractual term in transferring Ee's job to other U members already making such higher wages, leaving Ee w/o a job and E w/o obligation to retain him)

1717-3600 Participation in sympathy strike

Arizona Public Company 273 NLRB No. 210
(issuing 3-day suspensions to 8 Ees because they refused to cross a stranger picket line thus refusing to perform assigned work of removing overhead lines at municipal building complex, not violative, since E's contract with U permitted E to discipline Ees who engage in any unauthorized stoppage, strike, intentional slowdown, or suspension of work, and U, by letter, stated that it had not authorized stoppage, strike, slowdown or suspension of work at involved work site. Absent extrinsic evidence that parties intended otherwise, and general no-strike clause waives the Ees' right to engage in sympathy strikes)

Indianapolis Power & Light Company 273 NLRB No. 211
(broad no-strike clause in bargaining agreement though not expressly mentioning sympathy strikes nevertheless held to include sympathy strikes in its proscription, unless extrinsic evidence indicates parties intended otherwise, and suspension and threat of discharge made to sympathy striker, not violative)

Electrical Workers, Local 387 v. N.L.R.B. (Arizona Public Service Co.) 788 F.2d 1412 (C.A. 9, May 1986)
[sympathy strikers' suspension lawful based on new Bd rule that, absent extrinsic evidence of contrary intent, general no-strike clause waived right to engage in such strikes, reversed and remanded, Bd treated rule as establishing irrebuttable presumption that broad no-strike clause barred such strike, rather than as shifting burden of proving whether clause was intended to encompass sympathy strikes. Bd relied on clause and U letter disavowing strike w/o discussing intent, prior rule's impact on contract's meaning, terms, or negotiations, and parties' conduct under it as rule required]

1717-6700 Participation in State board proceedings

Thompson's Gas, Inc. and Del-Ro Transports, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 092
(in finding no violation of 8(a)(1), (2), and (3) in E's termination of Ee's privilege to make personal purchases on E's charge account, Bd held that even if E's action was related to Ee's claim with state department of labor regarding wages and monies owed to him by E, it could properly be concluded that no violation should be found on such ground because it was not concerted activity)

Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, Inc. 290 NLRB No. 039

[transfer of Ee, active participant in dissident U group, to less desirable time and work site, not violative since there was no substantive evidence to explain why E would chose to discriminate against Ee at time of transfer, as Ee had been engaging in his dissident activities for about 5 years w/o recrimination. Ee an experienced inspector, replaced inexperienced inspector on transfer]

Southern Maryland Hospital Center v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 666 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1986)

[discipline for violation of E's (Hospital's) no solicitation rule not an ULP, where E undisputedly showed (1) violation of rule, (2) failed attempt to resolve dispute and possibly, withdraw discipline, and (3) final disciplinary actions in proportion to conduct involved, even though E had allowed some innocuous activity, such as sale of some raffle tickets, Girl Scout cookies and cosmetics by Ees w/o reprisal under E's rule]

Restaurant Corporation of America v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 1390 (C.A. D.C., Sept. 1986)

[non-U solicitations involving intra-Ee generosity designed to express appreciation of fellow Ees on occasions such as birthdays or departures held not substantially equivalent to U solicitation; therefore, E's failure to treat non-U solicitation and U solicitation alike did not constitute discrimination w/i meaning of 8(a)]

1717-7600 Strike leadership

1717-7625 Leadership in spontaneous work stoppage

Lectromelt Casting and Machinery Company, A Division of Akron Standard Division, Eagle Picher Industries, Inc.; et al. 278 NLRB No. 102

[discharge of 3 U committeemen who participated in wildcat strike and appeared on picket line, violation, since E singled them out for disparate treatment because of their U office, where there was no evidence that they engaged in strike leadership activities, similarly situated Ees were not disciplined, and E knew that two of the committeemen had urged other Ees to return to work and unless E capitulated on grievance held not threatened to cause strike]

Orleans International, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 169

(discharge of U steward, unlawful, since not for driving with expired license or for involvement in automobile accident but rather for his repeated filing and pursuing grievances and performance of other duties as steward, bringing intra-U charges against individual who was E's agent, his ardent bargaining positions and demands, and activities on behalf of dissident U group, where discharge was five and a half weeks after accident, discharges of other Ees in similar circumstances had been for significantly greater offenses, and in view of E's demonstrated U animus)

Kansas City Terminal Elevator Company 274 NLRB No. 010

(E's imposing 3-day suspension on its Ee, U activist and shop steward, because Ee had been playing cards during scheduled working time, but during lull in production process, violative, since suspension letter received by Ee indicated that conduct for which Ee was suspended was first offense-Ee had been guilty of safety related offense but E did not consider card playing in same category-which according to E's progressive disciplinary system should have been cause only for written disciplinary warning)

United Parcel Service, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 205

(suspension and discharge of U stewards for participation in strike which was in violation of no strike agreement, not unlawful, notwithstanding contention actions discriminatory because of U office these individuals held as other strikers not similarly disciplined, where U stewards went beyond simple participation and provided leadership to rank-and-file Ees by relaying messages from U business agent, picketing in more than one location, and explaining strike to television reporters)

Dr. Frederick Davidowitz, and Dr. Martin Goldberg; P.C. 277 NLRB No. 110
(discharge of dentist who was U adherent, unlawful, since asserted reasons for discharge: poor production, attitude; violating rules by keeping patients waiting; held pretextual in view of E knowledge of U activity to be inferred from rumor mill, relied on in past by E; timing, discharge took place 1 week after U meeting where dentist had declared support of and following period of his intense solicitation for U; further, writeups in personnel file did not contribute to discharge decision as other dentists had approximate same number of write-ups over equivalent period and not discharged)

D & D Distribution Company, A Division of D & D Sewing Company 277 NLRB No. 097
(inference that E knew of Ee's concerted activities was warranted most significantly in view of testimony that about a week before Ee's discharge Ee engaged 2 Ees in 5-minute conversation about wages general vicinity and w/i hearing distance of supervisor)

Marion Center Supply, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 026
(E's knowledge of Ee's union activity inferred from E's knowledge of U campaign, discharge of Ee that occurred almost simultaneously with main U adherent's discharge, and E's asserted reason for discharging Ees being pretextual)

B & W Machine & Welding Company JD-(SF)-107-86

[refusal to give letter of recommendation to Ee violative of 8(a)(4), as well as 8(a)(1), where reason for refusal was because U filed ULP charge naming Ee as discriminatee; under S.Ct's Scrivener cases, 8(a)(4) is interpreted to afford broad rather than narrow protection to Ee and includes not only Ee who has filed charges or given testimony but also Ee otherwise participating in Bd investigation]

Dorothy Shamrock Coal Company 279 NLRB No. 174
[E's letter to its laid off Ees saying that it would not discuss reinstitution of operations or reemployment with Ees because they filed ULP charges with Bd not violative where by its very language (from E) expressed nothing more than perceived incapacity or at best temporary reluctance, to delve into matter of reemployment. Clearly E's letter to Ees was not patent refusal to reactivate its trucks and to reinstate drivers]

Stop-N-Go Foods, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 102
[E's refusal to hire applicant, unlawful, since for her filing ULP charge against her former E over her discharge and giving testimony at ULP hearing, especially where applicant explained to E that former E's asserted reason for discharge, improper cash handling, had been held to be pretext]

Woodline Motor Freight, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 152
[E's change in policy which allowed drivers to choose from available runs on the basis of seniority to requiring drivers to take whatever run was assigned, unlawful, since done in response to Ees' support of U and because of recent issuance of ULP complaint alleging unlawfully reduced hours of work]

Independent Stave Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 089
[Ee's refusal to comply with terms of contractual agreement to award prize to winner of Ee contest because winning Ee's grievances were subject of Bd charges, violation]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[E's seeking U.S. District Court order for Ees to withdraw Bd charges concerning E's unilateral elimination of contract's U time clause, not violation where E had reasonable basis for seeking declaratory judgment determining legality of U time clause under Sec. 302]

Telford & Doolen, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of U steward and Ee and ultimate discharge of Ee, assertedly because they engaged in U activities and because they filed charges or gave testimony under Act, not unlawful, since E's motives were purely economic, coupled with dissatisfaction with Ee's job performance where, as result of its bad financial condition, E laid off its entire work force, recalling Ees only from time to time and ultimately closing department involved; and no replacements were ever hired for terminated Ees)

Taylor & Gaskin, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 065
(in adopting ALJ's finding that E violated 8(a)(4) and (1) when it refused to rehire laid-off Ee because he had filed ULP charge against E, Bd disagreed with ALJ's statement that Wright Line does not apply to cases where there is finding that asserted legitimate business reason for adverse action was pretextual)

Granco, Inc., d/b/a Thriftway Supermarket; et al. 276 NLRB No. 164
(discharge of Ee, unlawful, where one of the reasons for so finding was fact that Ee was terminated at first possible monent after E learned that Ee was named in U-filed charge as discriminatee)

Confort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(discharge, after hearing, of U supporter, who was one of Ees who had filed charges against E and representative of charging party designated to be present throughout hearing, violative where E had condoned his absenteeism and tardiness until U campaign began, had wanted to promote him to lead position, had displayed anti-U campaign, had withdrawn its offer to solve Ee's tardiness problem by transferring him to another shift, and had concededly talked with him about his suspension and discharge in presence of E's comptroller in order to have a witness)

Roadway Express, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 052
(discharge of U steward, who had received numerous purportedly work-related warning letters and 5-day suspension prior to discharge, unlawful where, while there was no dual motive because there was no business justification, GC demonstrated that E considered steward, who had filed numerous charges with Bd and had testified at Bd hearing, and had also protested E's proposed flexible work week, as U activist and harbored animus toward him and his U activities; and E did not meet burden of demonstrating that same action would have been taken irrespective of steward's conduct)

Newsday, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 019
(no violation where record was completely void of any evidence to show that any of 4 named alleged discriminatees filed charges or testified at Bd hearing; they merely attended sessions of R hearing as did many other Ees)

ITT-FELEC Services, Inc. JD-(SF)-131-86
[conditioning Ee's reemployment upon his withdrawal of ULP charge pending before Bd, violation, notwithstanding charge lacked merit, where Ee did not file charge in bad faith or knowingly give false testimony]

E.I. Dupont De Nemours and Company JD-11-86
[refusal to hire applicant after layoff, assertedly because she was insubordinate at prior job with same E, violative, since real reason was Ee's persistent U activities and repeated filing of charges with the Bd at prior job where Ee's asserted act of insubordination in protesting overtime and refusing to train Ees was protected activity done in furtherance of her U duties, Ee had 19 years of high quality service with E, and E, in overlooking Ee for hire, hired Ees with little or no experience]

United States Postal Service JD-375-85
[denying Ee a promotion to full-time status because she had filed charges with the Bd, violative, where Ee was recommended for promotion prior to filing charge and was denied promotion after charge was filed]

Gallati Cartage of Michigan, Inc. JD-311-85
(reprimanding and eventually discharging Ee for filing charges with Bd and giving testimony in support of charges, violative)

Glass Cubes Unlimited, Inc., Decorative Installations, Inc., and Manhattan Stores Interiors, Inc. JD-(NY)-73-85
(discharge of Ee for accompanying other individuals to Bd for purpose of filing charges, violative)

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(reprimand of Ee who was painter at apartment building because of condition of paint room, unlawful, since for filing ULP charge, in view of timing and fact Ee was given no chance to explain, and no explanation given as to when paint room was inspected or why)

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(discharge of painter at apartment building, who was U adherent and filed charges, for failure to work, on usual day off in order to accomplish urgently needed painting, not violative, since discharge would have taken place absent protected activity, inasmuch as work on that day necessary and in view of previous poor quality and slowness of Ee's work)

3325-2100 Consulting with Board agent

Sea-Land Service, Inc. (Sea Operations) 280 NLRB No. 084
[ship's captain, responsible for transmitting all communications from ship, interrogating and discharging radio officer about message he sent at sea requesting local Bd's phone number, violative, notwithstanding legitamacy of captain's inquiry in asking whether radio was used in unauthorized manner, repeated inquiries as to why dischargee asked for Bd's phone number were not relevant to captain's responsibilities regarding communication equipment. Basis for discharge did not distinguish between specific questions asked so that lawful and unlawful motives cannot be separated]

3325-2800 Announced intent to file charges

Book Covers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of Ee for refusing to work overtime as required by contract, violative, as practice was to excuse Ees from working assigned overtime if supervisor presented with reasonable excuse, and excuse which Ee gave, and which lay behind motivation to fire Ee, was that Ee was going to labor board to file charges against E; furthermore, no Ee ever disciplined beyond receiving oral warring before)

3325-4200 Giving testimony at Board or other proceeding

Baddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 084
[causing cessation of workmen's compensation payments to injured Ee in retaliation for testifying at Bd hearing, violation where E informed insurance company that it had been paying wrong Ee, but failed to explain that Ee had given correct identity to E]

Polymer Prints Ltd. Formerly Known as Subliflex, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 068
[denial of overtime to Ees, unlawful, since E's action was taken because Ees were present in hearing room in instant case as witnesses to be called by GC, where there was huge disparity between overtime worked by Ees herein and that worked by other Ees, and E's explanation for disparity on ground that other Ees were cooperative raised clear inference that had Ees herein not been witnesses they would have been considered cooperative and would have had fair share of overtime]

Polymer Prints Ltd. Formerly Known as Subliflex, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 068
[Ee who signed agreement resigning as Ee in exchange for cash severance payment held not to have voluntarily quit but to have been constructively discharged, where material reduction in his work hours was intended by E to force Ee to quit, and such reduction was in retaliation against Ee for having appeared to testify as GC's witness at hearing in instant case]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[changing U activist's working conditions by assigning him less skilled job and split shift for his U activities and testifying at Bd hearing, violation]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[laying off U activists for U activities and testifying at Bd hearing, violation]

Stop-N-Go Foods, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 102
[E's refusal to hire applicant, unlawful, since for her filing ULP charge against her former E over her discharge and giving testimony at ULP hearing, especially where applicant explained to E that former E's asserted reason for discharge, improper cash handling, had been held to be pretext]

Specialty Steel Treating, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 067
[issuing Ee written reprimand for failure to return to work after Bd hearing, violation where it was in retaliation for Ee's having testified, as shown by fact that Ee had taken entire day off and was not scheduled to return to work, and supervisor, who attended hearing, did not tell him to return to work]

Telford & Doolen, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of U steward and Ee and ultimate discharge of Ee, assertedly because they engaged in U activities and because they filed charges or gave testimony under Act, not unlawful, since E's motives were purely economic, coupled with dissatisfaction with Ee's job performance where, as result of its bad financial condition, E laid off its entire work force, recalling Ees only from time to time and ultimately closing department involved; and no replacements were ever hired for terminated Ees)

La Reina, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 209
(violation, where Ee at tortilla maker, after testifying contrary to E's interests in Bd proceeding, was supervised more closely, warned about speaking with co-workers, reprimanded for picking dough off floor for reprocessing and quit when ordered to sign warning slip under threat of discharge, where picking up dough which had fallen on floor customary, and E's contention it reprimanded Ee because it believed she had deliberately placed rag in dough to cause E possible liability, rejected)

Cerock Wire & Cable Group, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 111
(issuing warning to U adherent in retaliation for his testimony at Bd hearing, violative)

Fermont, A Division of Dynamics Corporation of America 274 NLRB No. 131
(allegation that notice to Ee regarding change in duties was separately aimed at penalizing Ee for having testified against E in previous month in another ULP case dismissed, since no nexus was shown between giving of testimony and disciplinary action, where there was significant time lapse between events and no independent evidence to bridge gap)

Roadway Express, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 052
(discharge of U steward, who had received numerous purportedly work-related warning letters and 5-day suspension prior to discharge, unlawful where, while there was no dual motive because there was no business justification, GC demonstrated that E considered steward, who had filed numerous charges with Bd and had testified at Bd hearing, and had also protested E's proposed flexible work week, as U activist and harbored animus toward him and his U activities; and E did not meet burden of demonstrating that same action would have been taken irrespective of steward's conduct)

Ducane Heating Corporation 273 NLRB No. 175
(permanent layoff of Ee, assertedly because of a decline in business, violative, since real reason was Ee's testimony at Bd hearing against E and her U activity where E did not produce any evidence in support of its economic defense, in fact evidence adduced at trial showed E was very busy, and layoff occurred only 4 days after Ee gave testimony at Bd hearing)

Nick Gryfakis and Han Nyunt, A Partnership d/b/a N & H Enterprises d/b/a Abernathy's Restaurant JD-(SF)-33-86
[reducing Ee's hours disproportionately for testifying adversely to E at Bd hearing, violation]

Gallati Cartage of Michigan, Inc. JD-311-85
(reprimanding and eventually discharging Ee for filing charges with Bd and giving testimony in support of charges, violative)

County Respiratory Products, Inc. JD-(NY)-107-85
(imposing mandatory overtime on U supporter who testified at R hearing under threat of discharge when another Ee was asking for the work, violative)

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc. JD-(NY)-141-84
(discharge of Ees violative since it was for their testifying on behalf of U at hearing on E's objections to election)

N.L.R.B. v. Bliss and Laughlin Steel Company, Inc. 754 F.2d 229 (C.A. 7, Feb. 1985)
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he refused to review and sign contract on behalf of E and thus was insubordinate, violative, since real reason was his U activity and testimony adverse to E at Bd hearing where E was trying to set up Ee by having him sign contract in an attempt to prove he was a supervisor and pretextual nature of E's action was shown by fact that after Ee refused to sign contract, E did not attempt to have any other company official act upon it)

3325-4500 Attending Board proceeding

The Lewis Grocer Company 282 NLRB No. 019
[issuing disciplinary warnings to Ee for insubordination, not unlawful, since it could not be inferred that his participation in Bd investigation at trial was in any way motivating factor in E's decision to discipline him]

Comfort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(discharge, after hearing, of U supporter, who was one of Ees who had filed charges against E and representative of charging party designated to be present throughout hearing, violative where E had condoned his absenteeism and tardiness until U campaign began, had wanted to promote him to lead position, had displayed anti-U campaign, had withdrawn its offer to solve Ee's tardiness problem by transferring him to another shift, and had concededly talked with him about his suspension and discharge in presence of E's comptroller in order to have a witness)

Comfort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(E's refusal to pay Ee, who was serving as U's representative at Bd hearing, for holiday and day after because he was absent from work to be present at hearing, not violative, since E's action was pursuant to contract and past practice, and Ee was not present at hearing day before holiday for purpose of testifying under subpeona)

Vokas Provision Co., d/b/a The Rich Plan of Western v. N.L.R.B. 796 F.2d 864 (C.A. 6, July 1986)
[in absence of subpoena, Ee does not have statutorily protected right to absent himself from work w/o permission even though he seeks to voluntarily testify at Bd proceeding]

Vokas Provision Co., d/b/a The Rich Plan of Western v. N.L.R.B. 796 F.2d 864 (C.A. 6, July 1986)
[E's refusal to permit six Ees to voluntarily attend Bd R hearing during working time w/o subpoena and its discharge of those Ees for leaving work contrary to E's explicit instructions, not violative]

3325-4900 Providing Board agent with physical evidence

G.M. Trimming, Inc., et al., Debtor-In-Possession, and George Marks 279 NLRB No. 121
[layoff of Ees for giving photocopies of paycheck and paycheck stubs to U which was using them in bankruptcy proceeding in which E involved, unlawful]

3325-5600 Present at proceeding to give testimony but not called

Quality Millwork Corp. and Its Alter Ego Quality Door Co. 276 NLRB No. 069
(discharge violative where, on going to Bd regional office pursuant to the subpoena, Ee was seen and pointed out to E's attorney by E and was discharged three days later in spite of an unblemished work record)

3325-7000 Giving statement to Board agent

The Well-Bred Loaf, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 036
[discharging Ee for giving written statement to Bd agent about E's alleged violations under investigation, violation, notwithstanding Ee's statement was not signed until day after discharge, where supervisor's finding Ee's statement in Ee's coat pocket and reading it precipitated discharge]

John Morrison, et al. (Carriage Ford, Inc.) v. N.L.R.B. 772 F.2d 283 (C.A. 6, Sept. 1985)
[discharge or layoff of Ees as result of their refusal to assist E in defending E against ULP charges brought by Ees' fellow Ees, unlawful, where Ees were highly productive and, while there was evidence that Ees were terminated for legitimate reasons, record contained substantial evidence which supported Bd's finding that reasons were pretextual]

3325-9200 Cooperating with and assisting Board in its proceedings

The Lewis Grocer Company 282 NLRB No. 019
[issuing disciplinary warnings to Ee for insubordination, not unlawful, since it could not be inferred that his participation in Bd investigation at trial was in any way motivating factor in E's decision to discipline him]

Park Manor Nursing Home, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 028
(E's discharge of U activist, assertedly for failing to obtain supervisory permission before leaving building, violative where real reason for discharge was her cooperation in investigation of U's charge in Bd case, her membership on U's negotiating committee, and her informing Bd that E was responsible for revocation ptn)

Sears, Roebuck and Co. 274 NLRB No. 055
(requiring Ees to take vacation or personal holiday rather than leave w/o pay for time spent attending Bd hearing to assist counsel for GC and charging party, violative, notwithstanding fact that E did not take action to discourage Ees from assisting in presentation)

Building Material & Dump Truck Drivers, Local Union No. 420, Teamsters (Mike Sullivan and Associates) 273 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of business agent not violative, even if he was discharged, in part, because of his refusal to accept reduced amount of backpay in prior Bd proceeding, where U demonstrated that business agent would have been discharged, in any event, because of his failure to properly carry out his assigned duties and responsibilities as business agent)

3350 FORMS OF DISCRIMINATION

3350-3100 Denial of vacation or overtime pay

Polymer Prints Ltd. Formerly Known as Subliflex, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 068
[denial of overtime to Ees, unlawful, since E's action was taken because Ees were present in hearing room in instant case as witnesses to be called by GC, where there was huge disparity between overtime worked by Ees herein and that worked by other Ees, and E's explanation for disparity on ground that other Ees were cooperative raised clear inference that had Ees herein not been witnesses they would have been considered cooperative and would have had fair share of overtime]

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, where there was no disparate application of concededly valid rule; and there were no other indicia of discriminatory intent)

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, where there was no disparate application of valid rule even though Ee had solicited for Ee dinner while on working time in sight of E's managers' where dinner was isolated event sponsored and promoted by E itself, E is free to utilize its Ees' paid time for whatever legal activity it chooses, and Ees are not entitled to use medium of communication simply because E is using it)

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, not withstanding contention that, if GC was permitted to demonstrate that management officials had themselves at various times used working time to distribute pro-company literature, such showing would entitle U's adherents to equal time, since Bd cases do not demonstrate existence of rule favoring or enforcing doctrine of equal time for U's)

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84

3350-6000 Layoff or threat thereof

Norris Concrete Materials, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 045
[E's layoff of Ee, unlawful, where motivated by Ee's son filing charges rather than by lack of business or Ee's delivery of unsatisfactory batch of cement]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[laying off U activists for U activities and testifying at Bd hearing, violation]

G.M. Trimming, Inc., et al., Debtor-In-Possession, and George Marks 279 NLRB No. 121
[layoff of Ees for giving photocopies of paycheck and paycheck stubs to U which was using them in bankruptcy proceeding in which E involved, unlawful]

Telford & Doolen, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of U steward and Ee and ultimate discharge of Ee, assertedly because they engaged in U activities and because they filed charges or gave testimony under Act, not unlawful, since E's motives were purely economic, coupled with dissatisfaction with Ee's job performance where, as result of its bad financial condition, E laid off its entire work force, recalling Ees only from time to time and ultimately closing department involved; and no replacements were ever hired for terminated Ees)

Ducane Heating Corporation 273 NLRB No. 175
(permanent layoff of Ee, assertedly because of a decline in business, violative, since real reason was Ee's testimony at Bd hearing against E and her U activity where E did not produce any evidence in support of its economic defense, in fact evidence adduced at trial showed E was very busy, and layoff occurred only 4 days after Ee gave testimony at Bd hearing)

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibraltar Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(inclusion of U adherents in layoff during normal seasonal layoffs, assertedly contrary to seniority practices in past when Ees herein were retained, not unlawful, notwithstanding E's U animus and suspicious timing of layoffs shortly after election, where lesser seniority of retained Ee had little significance under circumstances herein; recall of less senior Ees before recalling Ees herein was based on past practice; and acceptance of GC's argument against E's reasons for recalling Ees other than Ees herein would require ALJ and Bd to improperly substitute their judgment for management's)

John Morrison, et al. (Carriage Ford, Inc.) v. N.L.R.B. 772 F.2d 283 (C.A. 6, Sept. 1985)
[discharge or layoff of Ees as result of their refusal to assist E in defending E against ULP charges brought by Ees' fellow Ees, unlawful, where Ees were highly productive and, while there was evidence that Ees were terminated for legitimate reasons, record contained substantial evidence which supported Bd's finding that reasons were pretextual]

Sea-Land Service, Inc. (Sea Operations) 280 NLRB No. 084
[ship's captain, responsible for transmitting all communications from ship, interrogating and discharging radio officer about message he sent at sea requesting local Bd's phone number, violative, notwithstanding legitimacy of captain's inquiry in asking whether radio was used in unauthorized manner, repeated inquiries as to why dischargee asked for Bd's phone number were not relevant to captain's responsibilities regarding communication equipment. Basis for discharge did not distinguish between specific questions asked so that lawful and unlawful motives cannot be separated]

Heck's Inc. 280 NLRB No. 093
[discharging leading U organizer on whose behalf U had filed ULP charge with Bd, violation, notwithstanding she had been issued three written warnings for breach of company policy, where discharge was closely related in time to her U and Bd-related activities and E had shown animus against her by unlawfully transferring her to another job]

The Well-Bred Loaf, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 036
[discharging Ee for giving written statement to Bd agent about E's alleged violations under investigation, violation, notwithstanding Ee's statement was not signed until day after discharge, where supervisor's finding Ee's statement in Ee's coat pocket and reading it precipitated discharge]

Grand Rapids Die Casting Corp. 279 NLRB No. 093
[suspension and discharge of U steward, assertedly because of insubordination by refusing an order to return to work, violative, since real reason was her activity of grievance processing and threatening to file charges with Bd where Ee was threatened with discharge if she filed charges after Ee threatened to when E told her she was spending too much time on grievances, and E's manager continuously brought up fact Ee said she might file charges on day Ee was discharged]

Telford & Doolen, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of U steward and Ee and ultimate discharge of Ee, assertedly because they engaged in U activities and because they filed charges or gave testimony under Act, not unlawful, since E's motives were purely economic, coupled with dissatisfaction with Ee's job performance where, as result of its bad financial condition, E laid off its entire work force, recalling Ees only from time to time and ultimately closing department involved; and no replacements were ever hired for terminated Ees)

Quality Millwork Corp. and Its Alter Ego Quality Door Co. 276 NLRB No. 069
(discharge violative where, on going to Bd regional office pursuant to the subpoena, Ee was seen and pointed out to E's attorney by E and was discharged three days later in spite of an unblemished work record)

Comfort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(discharge, after hearing, of U supporter, who was one of Ees who had filed charges against E and representative of charging party designated to be present throughout hearing, violative where E had condoned his absenteeism and tardiness until U campaign began, had wanted to promote him to lead position, had displayed anti-U campaign, had withdrawn its offer to solve Ee's tardiness problem by transferring him to another shift, and had concededly talked with him about his suspension and discharge in presence of E's comptroller in order to have a witness)

United Artists Eastern Theatres, Operating Valentine Theatre 275 NLRB No. 025
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of unsatisfactory work, violative, since real reason was Ee's participation in R proceeding and his U activity where Ee was told he would be promoted if he dropped the U and E gave inconsistent reasons to support discharge; further, E's contention that Ee's admission to accepting gratuities from patrons in violation of E's rules was conduct sufficient to deny reinstatement, rejected, since there was no evidence this was dischargeable offense and E was willing to overlook such behavior in exchange for Ee's forgoing U activity)

Roadway Express, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 052
(discharge of U steward, who had received numerous purportedly work-related warning letters and 5-day suspension prior to discharge, unlawful where, while there was no dual motive because there was no business justification, GC demonstrated that E considered steward, who had filed numerous charges with Bd and had testified at Bd hearing, and had also protested E's proposed flexible work week, as U activist and harbored animus toward him and his U activities; and E did not meet burden of demonstrating that same action would have been taken irrespective of steward's conduct)

Building Material & Dump Truck Drivers, Local Union No. 420, Teamsters (Mike Sullivan and Associates) 273 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of business agent not violative, even if he was discharged, in part, because of his refusal to accept reduced amount of backpay in prior Bd proceeding, where U demonstrated that business agent would have been discharged, in any event, because of his failure to properly carry out his assigned duties and responsibilities as business agent)

Ducane Heating Corporation 273 NLRB No. 175
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of substandard production, violative, since real reason was Ee's testimony at Bd hearing against E and his active U support where Ee had excellent work record and E did not find fault with E's production until after he gave testimony at Bd hearing)

Gallati Cartage of Michigan, Inc. JD-311-85
(reprimanding and eventually discharging Ee for filing charges with Bd and giving testimony in support of charges, violative)

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibraltar Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(discharge of Ee, who was U steward and filed charges against E with Bd and, while out on disability, continued to visit shop to function as U steward, unlawful, where E showed animus towards Ee for his protected activities; E's actions, shortly afer filing of charges, to have Ee tone down his activities in investigating charges and as U steward showed E desired to retaliate against Ee for his activities relating to charges and function as U steward; and E failed to establish that Ee was stealing time by failing to put in full day's work)

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(discharge of painter at apartment building, who was U adherent and filed charges, for failure to work, on usual day off in order to accomplish urgently needed painting, not violative, since discharge would have taken place absent protected activity, inasmuch as work on that day necessary and in view of previous poor quality and slowness of Ee's work)

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc. JD-(NY)-141-84
(discharge of Ees violative since it was for their testifying on behalf of U at hearing on E's objections to election)

Vokas Provision Co., d/b/a The Rich Plan of Western v. N.L.R.B. 796 F.2d 864 (C.A. 6, July 1986)
[E's refusal to permit six Ees to voluntarily attend Bd R hearing during working time w/o subpoena and its discharge of those Ees for leaving work contrary to E's explicit instructions, not violative]

John Morrison, et al. (Carriage Ford, Inc.) v. N.L.R.B. 772 F.2d 283 (C.A. 6, Sept. 1985)
[discharge or layoff of Ees as result of their refusal to assist E in defending E against ULP charges brought by Ees' fellow Ees, unlawful, where Ees were highly productive and, while there was evidence that Ees were terminated for legitimate reasons, record contained substantial evidence which supported Bd's finding that reasons were pretextual]

N.L.R.B. v. Bliss and Laughlin Steel Company, Inc. 754 F.2d 229 (C.A. 7, Feb. 1985)
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he refused to review and sign contract on behalf of E and thus was insubordinate, violative, since real reason was his U activity and testimony adverse to E at Bd hearing where E was trying to set up Ee by having him sign contract in an attempt to prove he was a supervisor and pretextual nature of E's action was shown by fact that after Ee refused to sign contract, E did not attempt to have any other company official act upon it)

3350-6300 Constructive discharge

Norris Concrete Materials, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 045
[Ee unlawfully constructively discharged after his reinstatement pursuant to non-board settlement agreement, where E had not entered into settlement agreement in good faith, and after Ee's reinstatement established classification and discipline systems designed to starve Ee out, and assigned Ee to unsafe truck where E's actions motivated by Ee's son filing prior charge]

Polymer Prints Ltd. Formerly Known as Subliflex, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 068
[Ee who signed agreement resigning as Ee in exchange for cash severance payment held not to have voluntarily quit but to have been constructively discharged, where material reduction in his work hours was intended by E to force Ee to quit, and such reduction was in retaliation against Ee for having appeared to testify as GC's witness at hearing in instant case]

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(known active U supporter who quit when her duties and hours of work were markedly changed held to have been unlawfully constructively discharged, where evidence established direct causal connection between discriminatory motivated changes in Ee's duties and hours and quitting of her employment; E engaged in systematic course of conduct punishing Ees because of their U activities and forcing Ees to quit; and this is expecially so, considering unlawful 8(a)(1) conduct by E clearly evidencing U animus)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(E unlawfully constructively discharged Ee by scheduling Ee for work, assertedly pursuant to new policy, when she was unable to do so, where policy was applied to Ee after she was specifically identified as U supporter; application of policy was inconsistent; E demonstrated animus toward Ees supporting U; and E's defense that it imposed same requirement as to all other Ees failed to rebut GC's prima facie case)

3350-6600 Denial of promotion

United States Postal Service JD-375-85
[denying Ee a promotion to full-time status because she had filed charges with the Bd, violative, where Ee was recommended for promotion prior to filing charge and was denied promotion after charge was filed]

3350-7000 Work assignment

Nick Gryfakis and Han Nyunt, A Partnership d/b/a N & H Enterprises d/b/a Abernathy's Restaurant JD-(SF)-33-86
[reducing Ee's hours disproportionately for testifying adversely to E at Bd hearing, violation]

County Respiratory Products, Inc. JD-(NY)-107-85
(imposing mandatory overtime on U supporter who testified at R hearing under threat of discharge when another Ee was asking for the work, violative)

3350-7500 Failure to pay for time lost from work or mandated witness fees

Comfort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(E's refusal to pay Ee, who was serving as U's representative at Bd hearing, for holiday and day after because he was absent from work to be present at hearing, not violative, since E's action was pursuant to contract and past practice, and Ee was not present at hearing day before holiday for purpose of testifying under subpeona)

3350-7700 Suspension

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E's assignment of work to Ee that was onerous for him because of his physical condition, and subsequent suspension of Ee, violative of Section 8(a)(4) as well as Section 8(a)(3), where timing of action evidenced motivation for Ee's filing of charge as well as his grievance activity, and in view of E's U animus as demonstrated by its threats of physical harm to Ee in grievance meeting followed by telling him to go tell it to the labor board too]

Grand Rapids Die Casting Corp. 279 NLRB No. 093
[suspension and discharge of U steward, assertedly because of insubordination by refusing an order to return to work, violative, since real reason was her activity of grievance processing and threatening to file charges with Bd where Ee was threatened with discharge if she filed charges after Ee threatened to when E told her she was spending too much time on grievances, and E's manager continuously brought up fact Ee said she might file charges on day Ee was discharged]

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(E unlawfully changed known U supporter's hours and also disciplined and suspended her for overextending her break period, where Ee had unblemished disciplinary record, nothing was previously said or done if she was late or absent prior to her U activity, changes and discipline occurred shortly after inception of U organizing activity; warning was given to Ee after E received U's demand for recognition, and E failed to establish that it would have taken some actions in absence of Ee's U activity)

]suspension of Ee employed as delivery driver and acting as shop steward, not unlawful, notwithstanding E's U animus toward U generally and Ee specifically, where Ee, upon being advised by E of requirement for municipality's fitness to drive certificate, could have obtained certificate very same day suspension occurred; instead, Ee insisted on route change to which he was not entitled and chose to go to U; nor was Ee in any hurry to return to work in view of conflict between his job herein and with another E, and his delay in reporting to work after obtaining certificate)

3350-8100 Transfer to another job

Hack's Inc. 280 NLRB No. 055
[transferring U organizer, violation where supervisor told her it resulted from her ULP charge against E and would be rescinded if she agreed to drop charge]

Fermont, A Division of Dynamics Corporation of America 274 NLRB No. 131
(allegation that notice to Ee regarding change in duties was separately aimed at penalizing Ee for having testified against E in previous month in another ULP case dismissed, since no nexus was shown between giving of testimony and disciplinary action, where there was significant time lapse between events and no independent evidence to bridge gap)

3350-8300 Filing nonmeritorious lawsuit for retaliatory purposes

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[E's seeking U.S. District Court order for Ees to withdraw Bd charges concerning E's unilateral elimination of contract's U time clause, not violation where E had reasonable basis for seeking declaratory judgment determining legality of U time clause under Sec. 302]

3350-8700 Altering conditions of employment

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E's assignment of work to Ee that was onerous for him because of his physical condition, and subsequent suspension of Ee, violative of Section 8(a)(4) as well as Section 8(a)(3), where timing of action evidenced motivation for Ee's filing of charge as well as his grievance activity, and in view of E's U animus as demonstrated by its threats of physical harm to Ee in grievance meeting followed by telling him to go tell it to the labor board too]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[changing U activist's working conditions by assigning him less skilled job and split shift for his U activities and testifying at Bd hearing, violation]

Woodline Motor Freight, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 152
[E's change in policy which allowed drivers to choose from available runs on the basis of seniority to requiring drivers to take whatever run was assigned, unlawful, since done in response to Ees' support of U and because of recent issuance of ULP complaint alleging unlawfully reduced hours of work]

3350-9400 Refusal to employ, reemploy or recall from layoff

Bynon Environmental Services, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 039
[E's refusal to reemploy Ee because he had filed ULP charge, violative]

Dorothy Shamrock Coal Company 279 NLRB No. 174
[E's letter to its laid off Ees saying that it would not discuss reinstitution of operations or reemployment with Ees because they filed ULP charges with Bd not violative where by its very language (from E) expressed nothing more than perceived incapacity or at best temporary reluctance, to delve into matter of reemployment. Clearly E's letter to Ees was not patent refusal to reactivate its trucks and to reinstate drivers]

Stop-N-Go Foods, Inc 279 NLRB No. 102
[E's refusal to hire applicant, unlawful, since for her filing ULP charge against her former E over her discharge and giving testimony at ULP hearing, especially where applicant explained to E that former E's asserted reason for discharge, improper cash handling, had been held to be pretext]

Unigles Industries, Div. United Merchants & Mfrs. 276 NLRB No. 035
(E's refusal to re-hire discriminatees because they had testified against E in prior ULP case violative)

ITT-FELEC Services, Inc. JD-(SF)-131-86
[conditioning Ee's reemployment upon his withdrawal of ULP charge pending before Bd, violation, notwithstanding charge lacked merit, where Ee did not file charge in bad faith or knowingly give false testimony]

E.I. Dupont De Nemours and Company JD-11-86
[refusal to hire applicant after layoff, assertedly because she was insubordinate at prior job with same E, violative, since real reason was Ee's persistent U activities and repeated filing of charges with the Bd at prior job where Ee's asserted act of insubordination in protesting overtime and refusing to train Ees was protected activity done in furtherance of her U duties, Ee had 19 years of high quality service with E, and E, in overlooking Ee for hire, hired Ees with little or no experience]

3350-9700 Surveillance

La Reina, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 209
(violation, where Ee at tortilla maker, after testifying contrary to E's interests in Bd proceeding, was supervised more closely, warned about speaking with co-workers, reprimanded for picking dough off floor for reprocessing and quit when ordered to sign warning slip under threat of discharge, where picking up dough which had fallen on floor customary, and E's contention it reprimanded Ee because it believed she had deliberately placed rag in dough to cause E possible liability, rejected)

3350-9800 Assault, abuse or harassment

United Artists Eastern Theatres, Operating Valentine Theatre 275 NLRB No. 025
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of unsatisfactory work, violative, since real reason was Ee's participation in R proceeding and his U activity where Ee was told he would be promoted if he dropped the U and E gave inconsistent reasons to support discharge; further, E's contention that Ee's admission to accepting gratuities from patrons in violation of E's rules was conduct sufficient to deny reinstatement, rejected, since there was no evidence this was dischargeable offense and E was willing to overlook such behavior in exchange for Ee's forgoing U activity)

5000 FORMS OF DISCRIMINATION

5006 BLACKLISTING

American Stevedoring Company 280 NLRB No. 098
[refusal of E, who had obtained contract to perform delivery service for retail stores, to hire drivers of contractor who had previously performed this service, unlawful, since refusal was because of drivers' U membership]

Leeward Nursing Home 278 NLRB No. 157
[no violation, where Ees were discharged as result of subcontracting and some Ees were not hired by subcontractor, since subcontracting lawful, subcontractor not named as Respondent, and absent evidence of blackballing of Ees by Respondent E which subcontracted]

5009 REQUIRING PHYSICAL, PSYCHOLOGICAL OR OTHER EXAMINATIONS

Plateau Coal Sales, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 156
[E's telling one of job applicants who was one of the applicants who allegedly had failed his required physical exam that he and others selected from panel (of applicants) need not be re-examined if they agreed to work non U, violative, since re-examination of job applicants would further delay (E's) dealing with U]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[notwithstanding no prior preemployment physical exam policy and only instituted after economic strike ended, and notwithstanding it has been applied to recalled strikers, but not all of replacement Ees have undergone physicals, no violations over instituting physical exam policy or failure to reinstate recalled striker who failed exam, even though physician said illness treatable and posed no threat to his ability to perform job, since policy of E is that all Ees will take physical, policy bore no indication of discriminatory intent, E also discharged striker replacement who had same illness and policy was reasonable response to potential liability]

Evans St. Clair, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 065
[placing U leader on involuntary medical leave, not violation where he was found unconscious on platform near his machine, had fallen off platform previously, doctor's note indicated that Ee should not work around machinery, and E suspected that Ee had recurring medical condition that might imperil E's safety record]

5010 ISSUANCE OF WARNING OR REPRIMAND LETTERS

Baddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 004
[giving U activist warning and placing him on probation because he could not get to work because of car trouble, rather than giving him day off w/o pay or vacation day as was customary, violation]

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[issuing 2 letters of reprimand to driver for failing to call E's dispatch office prior to his departure from E's facility and for failure to inform dispatch

office of overload he had delivered, unlawful, since motivated by Ee's grievance activity in view of E's unlawful threats to Ee for his grievance filing, and fact prior to issuing these 2 letters to Ee w/i few days of each other, E had issued only 4 letters of reprimand in last 5 years]

Link Manufacturing Co. 281 NLRB No. 028
[written warning given Ee for concededly poor attendance, not unlawful, notwithstanding warning issued after E's receipt of election ptn and unlawful conversion of other Ees' layoffs from temporary to permanent, where E had no specific knowledge of Ee's U activities or reason for focusing its anti-U animus on Ee]

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[issuance of written reprimand to Ee assertedly for numerous incidents of being unavailable for work, unlawful, where E's animosity toward U and particularly toward Ee, timing of reprimand after E presented himself as U-designated steward, and lack of justification gave rise to inference of discriminatory motivation which was not rebutted by E who had indicated general discriminatory retaliatory intent to go by the book]

La Reina, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 103
[strictly enforcing clothing rule and issuing written reprimand and one-day suspension for failure to comply on day after election, violation where rule had formerly been leniently enforced]

Star Color Plate Service, Division of Einhorn Enterprises, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 082
[E's more strict supervision of Ees, shortening an Ee's lunch period and issuing written warnings to Ees for various reasons, all because E felt it was losing control and needed to instill stricter work rules, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where E cracked down only after Ees testified at R proceeding]

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154
[written warning for attempting to get two Ees to sign U authorization cards while at their work stations, not violation where no-solicitation rule was uniformly enforced, notwithstanding E's use of supervisors to pass out anti-U campaign literature, since no-solicitation rule does not encompass E's situation]

Sahara Datsun, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 148
[unilaterally instituting, one week after receipt of U ptn, system of written warnings that could be placed in Ees' files for rule infractions rather than oral ones]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[issuing oral warning to Ee for destroying copy of safety rule, violation since Ee was U official acting in that capacity in meeting with E]

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(E's implementation of new warning system for lateness and absenteeism following election between rival Us, violative, where unlawful motive was shown by statements to Ees threatening discharge for striking, plant closure and telling Ees that to choose either U was futile, E unlawfully discharged supporter of rival U pursuant to new system and E implemented new system in precipitate manner and it was applied inconsistently)

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(issuance of written reprimand admonishing Ee about her poor attitude and work habits, not unlawful, where warning was issued solely because of poor condition in which Ee left her work place when she left for the day and not because of unlawful retaliation for Ee's threat to seek U's assistance in her sechduling dispute with E)

Confort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(issuing written warnings to U supporter, allegedly for excessive absenteeism and tardiness, violative where E had issued him only two written warnings and delayed his pay increase only once for same behavior, had offered him promotion to night lead position, and had only begun to pay attention to his tardiness and absenteeism when U campaign was in full swing)

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019
(issuance of verbal and written warnings to U's chief steward who was also prominently involved in U matters, for violating work rules prohibiting profane language and sexual and/or racial harassment of other Ees, not unlawful, since incident did not involve common shop talk but was offensive remark directed at person of Ee in manner that violated work rules; U prominence did not isolate steward from discipline for sufficient cause; and warnings were issued after due investigation by E)

Roadway Express, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 052
(E's issuance of purportedly work-related warning letters to U steward who had filed numerous charges against E with Bd and had testified at Bd hearing, and had also protested E's proposal to institute flexible work week, unlawful, where E viewed steward as U activist and harbored animus toward him and his U and protected activities, letters were issued w/o justification, and in one instance supervisor purposefully sought reason for issuing warning letter to steward)

Radisson Muehlebach Hotel 273 NLRB No. 183
(reprimanding known U supporter for allegedly waiting on other waitress's table, violative where she only poured coffee or cream for other waitress's customers according to common practice)

Radisson Muehlebach Hotel 273 NLRB No. 183
(reprimanding U steward for being in area from which he was restricted during decertification election campaign and for allegedly sexually harassing antiU female Ee, violative where, even assuming restriction on U steward was valid, steward had been instructed to work there, and Ee whom he allegedly harassed merely described herself as upset)

Valley Presbyterian Hospital JD-(SF)-57-86
[issuing single warning notice both for Ee's soliciting and distributing U literature in acute-care hospital's labor and delivery locker room and for soliciting Ee performing patient care in labor and delivery work area, violation, notwithstanding that, although prohibition as to locker room was unlawful and prohibition as to Ee performing patient care in work area was lawful, since Ee's lawful and unlawful activities were inextricably intertwiened and E did not show that Ee would have received warning notice simply for soliciting in work area]

Sue-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86
[issuing written warning to Ee who publicized E's alleged ULPs and labor relations in newspaper article, violation where Ee had called in according to prior practice, had not been sufficiently late to have to be replaced]

Sue-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86
[issuing written warning to waiter, who publicized E's alleged ULPs and labor relations in newspaper article for failure to check out with E after cleaning up and setting table for next meal, violation where offense was trivial]

Sue-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86
[warning Ee about repeatedly asking guest to sign statement about waiter's service and conduct which resulted in guest's annoyance and E's loss of future business from guest, lawful, notwithstanding Ee was acting in capacity as U steward, since that protected U activity lost protection]

County Respiratory Products, Inc. JD-(NY)-107-85
(E's president's issuing disciplinary warning notice to Ee because he believed Ee had signed authorization card and was bringing in U and further threatening to discharge him if he did not sign notice, violative)

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, where there was no disparate application of valid rule even though Ee had solicited for Ee dinner while on working time in sight of E's managers' where dinner was isolated event sponsored and promoted by E itself, E is free to utilize its Ees' paid time for whatever legal activity it chooses, and Ees are not entitled to use medium of communication simply because E is using it)

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, not withstanding contention that, if GC was permitted to demonstrate that management officials had themselves at various times used working time to distribute pro-company literature, such showing would entitle U's adherents to equal time, since Bd cases do not demonstrate existence of rule favoring or enforcing doctrine of T3equal time for U's)

5012 REFUSAL TO EMPLOY OR REEMPLOY

5012-3000 After discharge, layoff, or suspension

Alabama Metal Products, Inc., and Its Alter Ego Delta Laminating, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 123
[manufacturing company's refusal to recall Ees from layoff for employment at newly formed and separately located company providing products for use by manufacturing company, not unlawful, where factors establishing single E or alter ego status were either absent or insufficient for finding that either of such relationships existed]

Elal Realty Management Inc. 279 NLRB No. 002
[discharge of Ees and refusal to rehire them by successor E, violative, since reason was Ees' U membership and E's desire to work with non-U Ees where E gave patently false reasons for discharge which justified inference of anti-U motive; further, bargaining order is appropriate for successor E since U made demand to bargain and all Ees are ordered reinstated, thus, successor E employs majority of prior workforce]

United States Steel Corporation 279 NLRB No. 004
[E's refusal to hire Ee laid off from one of its facilities to work at another of its facilities, unlawful, since for his activities as U grievance chairman where his supervisor's reference to grievance chairman as troublemaker when speaking to foreman at facility to which he had applied for transfer connotated his activity of filing grievances, and this characterization was relied upon in rejecting Ees request for transfer. Use of word alone, not violative, but must look at context in which used]

McAllister Brothers Inc. and Outreach Marine Corporation, Alter Egos 278 NLRB No. 091
[discharge of 38 Ees and refusal to rehire them as positions became available, violative, since E discharged Ees assertedly because it sold business but was found herein to be single E and alter egos with new E, thus, U's contract remained in effect in regard to all aspects of employment relationship]

Kenneth L. Hand Sr. d/b/a Neighborhood Roofing and Contracting, and Kenneth L. Hand Jr. and Sylvia Hand d/b/a Farrand Park Services 276 NLRB No. 081
(E's failure to recall Ees following most recent layoff allegedly because there was no available work, violative where E's reason was false and each of these Ees had either sought U's assistance and representation, or had insisted he recieve contractual wage rates and benefits to which he was entitled)

Donald Dunn d/b/a D.C. Construction Company 276 NLRB No. 097
(E unlawfully failed to reemploy Ee who was laid off job for nondiscriminatory reasons, where E conducted job under its own perception that U limitations blocked hire and continued employment of Ee; supervisor made statements which, on their face, were direct admissions that E withheld employment of Ee because of his lack of U membership; and E's claims that Ee was not rehired because his work was inadequate were shifting and implausible)

Jean Foust, Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Regency Manor Nursing Home 275 NLRB No. 171
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because she refused promotion to supervisor and thus had to be let go, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity, where E was engaged in scheme to coerce Ees into accepting supervisory positions in an effort to preclude pro-U Ees from voting; further, E's failure to rehire Ee some 9 months later because she was associated with the turmoil at E's premises, violative, since turmoil meant Ee's support of U)

Genwal Coal Co., Inc. 275 NLRB No. 077
(E's refusal to recall discriminatees, allegedly for overstaying lunch break and selling E's coal to others, during period it had hired several new Ees, violative where E had not rebutted GC's prima facie case by showing that newly hired Ees were more able or versatile to perform experienced Ees' mining duties and E's admission that he would not recall them because of their U activities)

Eureka Stone Quarry, Inc. JD-23-86
[discharge of Ee and subsequent denial of reinstatement, assertedly because Ee sought assistance of U in getting insurance payment, not unlawful, where E and U repeatedly attempted to assist Ee; rather, Ee was terminated because of failure to perform assigned duties]

Coal Systems, Inc. and W. Julian Scalf Engineering & Construction Co., Inc. JD-452-84
(lay off of Ees by company, found alter ego of predecessor E herein, and its refusal to recall them because they had filed contractual grievances against predecessor E, violative)

5012-3500 After leave of absence

Judy Hornby Designs, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 168
[E's refusal to immediately reinstate Ee when she asked to return to work, not unlawful, since not because of her solicitation for U, but rather Ee, on short notice, voluntarily decided to take off whole month of December, after being refused permission by E to work 3 days a week during December; nor did E's limiting its efforts to contact Ee concerning her return to work to day telephone calls rather than also writing and calling in evening constitute lack of good faith effort to contact Ee]

5012-3800 After filing of grievance

Emeryville Trucking, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 153
[singling out of U activist by refusing to employ him in order to get rid of him altogether, making good on threats to get him for filing grievance and helping other Ees file grievances, violative]

(violative)

5012-3900 After voluntary quit

Exhaton Service Community 279 NLRB No. 012
[refusal to reemploy U adherents who had left E's employ, assertedly because they were unqualified for vacant positions due to inexperience, unlawful, where E, while declining to reemploy U adherents, hired new Ees for positions in question but presented no evidence that new hires had greater experience than U adherents; and E had previously told U adherents they would be kept on because they were top of the line as desired by E]

Lionel G. Sullivan and Ralph A. Fattore, A Partnership d/b/a Downtown Toyota 276 NLRB No. 106
(refusal to rehire U activist who had voluntarily quit violative where supervisor stated that he would not consider rehiring him until U issue was resolved)

5012-4000 Discriminatory hiring practice (See also Union Security Requirements 524-5090)

Automobile Mechanics Local No. 701, Machinists (Avis Rent A Car System, Inc.) 280 NLRB No. 140
[E held not to have unlawfully discriminated against predecessor's Ees in its driver-recruiting practices since E was recruiting for independent contractor positions, and such individuals are not protected by Act]

Ryder System, Inc.; Ryder Distribution Systems, Inc.; and DPD, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 118
[E's refusal to hire predecessor's Ees, assertedly because they were not qualified, violative, since real reason was their support for U E did not want to recognize and deal with where E had planned all along not to hire majority of predecessor's Ees, E made predecessor's Ees take employment tests in order to disqualify them while not requiring such of new Ees and many new Ees hired were less experienced than predecessor's Ees]

United States Steel Corporation 280 NLRB No. 090
[refusing to hire Ees who refused or failed to join U pursuant to U-security clause, violation where E unlawfully recognized U as their representative]

Chaim Babad, et al., A Co-Partnership, d/b/a Tilden Arms Management Co. and Toby Estates, Inc., a Single Employer 276 NLRB No. 117
(successor E's bribing predecessor's Ees to quit and refusing to rehire them so as to eliminate U majority and bargaining obligation, violative)

Big E Leasing and Service Corp. and RJE Leasing, Pittsburgh Division, Corp. 275 NLRB No. 182

United Beef Co., Inc. 277 NLRB No. 107
(E's refusal to rehire 2 Ees because they testified for U at arbitration hearing, and its refusal to hire one of Ees for additional reason that he had been active U steward, violative)

Rogers Cleaning Contractors, Inc. and Its Alter Ego, Olmsted Cleaning Contractors, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 053
(E's refusal to hire two Ees of alter ego E assertedly because Ee's disabilities would prevent them from performing some of their duties and E had no openings, unlawful since E was motivated by a desire to eliminate U activists and grievants)

Gatliff Business Products, Inc. and RBD Service Corporation 276 NLRB No. 060
(refusing to consider applicant for job admittedly because of applicant's U adherence, violative)

Hoboken Shipyards, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 212
(refusal to hire active shop steward, who had filed several grievances while employed by prior owner, allegedly for refusing to work day shift and refusing overtime work, violative where other Ees who had made such refusals were hired)

Joan Foust, Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Regency Manor Nursing Home 275 NLRB No. 171
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because she refused promotion to supervisor and thus had to be let go, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity, where E was engaged in scheme to coerce Ees into accepting supervisory positions in an effort to preclude pro-U Ees from voting; further, E's failure to rehire Ee some 9 months later because she was associated with the turmoil at E's premises, violative, since turmoil meant Ee's support of U)

C. D. Draucker d/b/a Redding Industrial Electric 275 NLRB No. 087
(refusal to reimploy job applicant referred by U through hiring hall, unlawful, where supervisor's effective recommendation that applicant not be reemployed was based on supervisor's experience with applicant in former employment with E at construction project at which applicant, as U steward, engaged in protected U activity of complaining about working conditions, with some complaints resulting in state-OSHA action, all of which irked E and general contractor)

Genwal Coal Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 077
(E's refusal to recall discriminatees, allegedly for overstaying lunch break and selling E's coal to others, during period it had hired several new Ees, violative where E had not rebutted GC's prima facie case by showing that newly hired Ees were more able or versatile to perform experienced Ees' mining duties and E's admission that he would not recall them because of their U activities)

Inland Container Corporation 275 NLRB No. 60
(successor E's utilization in its hiring process of preference for a demonstrated willingness to work in a nonunion environment, and successor E's refusal to hire any Ees of predecessor because of their U membership, violati ve)

Guarantee Savings and Loan, A Federal Savings and Loan Association 274 NLRB No. 094
(no violation, since E's refusal to hire applicant was not because of applicant's U activities at his former E. Potential new E only told by former E that applicant was troublemaker and he would not rehire him because applicant had quit w/o giving adequate notice)

J. A. Croson Company 274 NLRB No. 031
(E's failure to hire applicants who responsed to help wanted ads, not unlawful, since decisions not to hire not based on their U affiliation, where initially neither U nor non-U applicants hired, inasmuch as job for which need for Ees had been anticipated was not progressing as rapidly as anticipated, and inasmuch as Ees eventually hired were hired w/o considering their U status)

Sun Coast Foods, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 203
(successor E's refusal to hire Ee of predecessor E, not unlawful, since refusal not because of her U activities, notwithstanding Ee had been shop steward, financial secretary of U, on negotiating committee, and that she had never been reprimanded or disciplined regarding her work during 27 years with predecessor E, where she had minimal involvement with grievances, Ees of predecessor E with comparable U affiliation were both hired and rejected, and she had been absent for health reasons and upon her return her duties had doubled, thus E believed another individual would be more capable of performing job)

Sun Coast Foods, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 203
(successor E's refusal to hire Ees of predecessor E, not unlawful, since refusal not because of their U activities, notwithstanding they had served as U officers, steward, and on grievance committee, and that they had greater seniority than some Ees hired, in view of E's lack of U animus and fact several Ees of predecessor E who were rejected had no U affiliation and majority of Ees hired had worked for predecessor E)

E.I. Dupont De Nemours and Company JD-11-86
[refusal to hire applicant after layoff, assertedly because she was insubordinate at prior job with same E, violative, since real reason was Ee's persistent U activities and repeated filing of charges with the Bd at prior job where Ee's asserted act of insubordination in protesting overtime and refusing to train Ees was protected activity done in furtherance of her U duties, Ee had 19 years of high quality service with E, and E, in overlooking Ee for hire, hired Ees with little or no experience]

E.I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company JD-(ATL)-96-84
(E's refusing to hire applicant, assertedly because Ee appeared too inflexible for E's working conditions, violative, since real reason was Ee's U involvement where E repeatedly questioned Ee during employment interview about his U sympathies, thereby learning that Ee was shop steward and active U supporter at last place of employment, and Ee had excellent work record and scored higher on E's preemployment test than other Ees that were hired)

Food and Commercial Workers, Local 152 v. N.L.R.B. 768 F.2d 1463 (C.A. D.C., July 1985)
(successor E's failure to hire Ees of predecessor, unlawful, since substantial evidence discriminatorily motivated where criteria established by E for hiring i.e. discipline, health, absenteeism and safety record, applied more strictly to Ees of predecessor E than to other applicants, rule against neopotism impacted disparately against Ees of predecessor E, and only 1/6-1/5 of individuals hired by successor E were Ees of predecessor)

Master Mining, Inc. and Neibert Coal Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 183
(E's refusal to hire applicant, assertedly because of absentee problem with predecessor E, not violative, notwithstanding GC made prima facie case, where testimony revealed Ee had history of absenteeism, job Ee was applying for was vitally important and excessive absenteeism could not be tolerated and fact that E continued to investigate absentee record of Ee after it had knowledge of protected activity was compelling evidence that E would not have hired Ee even absent protected activity)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(Ees did not waive right to challenge clause providing U officials with superseniority for puposes of layoff since, unlike economic rights which are subject to waiver, right at issue herein is one in which U and Ee interests are likely to conflict; under Gulton superseniority presumably encourages Ees to support U so as to increase their chances of attaining U office and greater job security; on the other hand, Ees have right not to be coerced into supporting incumbent U and, since superseniority encourages such support, Ees' ability to select representative no longer remains free)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(Bd properly retroactively applied its Gulton decision setting forth new rule pertaining to superseniority, where instant case was not of first impression nor abrupt departure from well established practice and, instead, resolved uncertainty created by Bd's earlier decisions; there was no reliance by parties on old rule and given uncertainty created by following cases, reliance thereon would have been calculated risk, and so there was nothing to oppose statutory interest in applying new rule; nor was it shown retroactive order will work inordinate hardship upon them)

(E's refusal to transfer U activist out of department that admittedly was giving Ee serious medical problems, violative, where E routinely transferred other Ees from department when they had problems and Ee was transferred into undesirable department only a few days after she issued an open letter to Ees in support of U)

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's reassigning known U activist from assisting plant supervisor to working on dock, violative where true explanation for reassignment was Ee's connection with U)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[assigning known U adherent employed as bartender to less desireable banquet work, and later discharging him, assertedly because of complaints by waitresses and by customer, unlawful, where customer's reference to Ee was made in letter containing general complaint about service and other conditions at E's business; letter was dated 4 days after E was removed from work schedule as bartender; and E could not have been seriously concerned about oral complaints against Ee since E neither informed Ee of it nor warned him about it]

Health Care Service-California d/b/a Valley Oaks Health Care Center JD-(SF)-198-85
[changing U supporter's work schedule to time which was less desireable to Ee, assertedly because it was mandated by State law, violative, where E presented no evidence of State law mandating such change and there was no showing of why Ee should not have been allowed to maintain her previous work schedule]

County Respiratory Products, Inc. JD-(NY)-107-85
(imposing mandatory overtime on U supporter who testified at R hearing under threat of discharge when another Ee was asking for the work, violative)

5023-1900 Closer supervision

Star Color Plate Service, Division of Einhorn Enterprises, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 082
[E's more strict supervision of Ees, shortening an Ee's lunch period and issuing written warnings to Ees for various reasons, all because E felt it was losing control and needed to instill stricter work rules, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where E cracked down only after Ees testified at R proceeding]

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010

La Reina, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 209
(violation, where Ee at tortilla maker, after testifying contrary to E's interests in Bd proceeding, was supervised more closely, warned about speaking with co-workers, reprimanded for picking dough off floor for reprocessing and quit when ordered to sign warning slip under threat of discharge, where picking up dough which had fallen on floor customary, and E's contention it reprimanded Ee because it believed she had deliberately placed rag in dough to cause E possible liability, rejected)

Kenner Printing Company, Inc. JD-(NY)-32-85
(E's conversion of oral warning system to written one following notification of U's intent to organize E's Ees not inherently destructive of Ees' rights, as alleged, where E's purpose was to document instances of Ee misconduct, and campaign was free of ULPs by E)

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(E requiring Ee sign time in and out on maintenance work which Ee performed after E acquired knowledge of Ees U involvement, unlawful as step in effectuation of threat of threat to more closely supervise Ee)

5023-3300 More onerous conditions

Beddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 084
[no violation by transferring Ee who began wearing U button one week before U election from unit near polling site where objective evidence and Ee's own evaluation did not demonstrate that position to which he was transferred involved more onerous conditions than prior position, and his allegations of harassment by new supervisor were not supported by record absent evidence that he was subjected to significantly closer supervision or stricter timekeeping than other unit Ees]

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E assigning Ee to drive flatbed trucks, thus ceasing to accomodate Ee by assigning him only to drive tank trucks, inasmuch as wearing of speaking and breathing tube necessitated by removal of his larynx caused Ee difficulty with tarping flatbed trucks and with dust from dump trucks, unlawful, since constituted more onerous working conditions, notwithstanding more onerous because of Ee's physical condition and assignment was motivated by U animus in view of timing after unlawful reprimand of Ee and E's unlawful threats to Ee for filing grievances; further, E's contention of business justification rejected where use of tank trucks had increased]

Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 125
[newly appointed department manager, contrary to previous manager, leaving to do lists for Ees, not imposition of more onerous conditions on particular U adherent in department, particularly where she was never disciplined for failing to complete tasks]

Armon Company 279 NLRB No. 158
[assigning senior driver who had signed U card to weed cutting and sweeping tasks after he came in wearing U hat he had been told not to wear, violation]

Bonanza Sirloin Pit 275 NLRB No. 54

National Brands Beverage Division Curtice-Burns, Inc. JD-(NY)-95-86
[imposing more stringent assignment and reporting procedures on Ees because of their U activities, violative]

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(E requiring Ee sign time in and out on maintenance work which Ee performed after E acquired knowledge of Ees U involvement, unlawful as step in effectuation of threat of threat to more closely supervise Ee)

5023-4100 Restrictions on coffee breaks

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally discontinuing practice of letting Ees take breaks and lunch periods in loading dock area in retaliation for U support, violation]

5023-6700 Allotment of work

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 184
(E's discontinuance of truck repairman's Saturday work (when repairman worked as independent contractor for E) week after serving as U election observer held violative, since repairman's employment as independent contractor for E on Saturdeays was related to his status as full-time repairman and substitute driver-Ee for E during regular work week)

5026 DISCRIMINATION IN TRAINING OPPORTUNITIES

Star Color Plate Service, Division of Einhorn Enterprises, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 082
[E's refusal to provide active U supporter an opportunity to train on machine, which training would have resulted in an increase in pay, violative, where Ee was chief U protagonist and was otherwise fully capable of running machine]

The Trustees of Columbia University in the City of New York 279 NLRB No. 019
[Bd dismissed 8(a)(3) allegation that E unlawfully withdrew non-contractual tuition benefit plan in retaliation for U's successfully pursuing grievance over similar contractually required fund where proof of 8(a)(3) allegation depended on proof of 8(a)(5) allegation that Bd dismissed in deferring to arbitrator's award finding that E did not have to provide both benefits]

5028 FAILURE TO APPLY TERMS OF CONTRACT

Independent Stave Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 089
[Ee's refusal to comply with terms of contractual agreement to award prize to winner of Ee contest because winning Ee's grievances were subject of Bd charges, violation]

Edgar Springs, Inc. d/b/a Spring Industries 274 NLRB No. 149
(maintaining and enforcing individual lease equipment agreement with Ee whereby Ee leased certain safety equipment from E at such times as her work was covered by project agreement between E and U, which provided that all necessary safety equipment would be provided by E, violative)

5029 ACTIONS AFFECTING EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS

5029-1200 Remuneration and benefits

5029-1212 Withholding of paychecks

Cassis Management Corp. 281 NLRB No. 174
[E's withholding of 2 weeks' accrued wages from Ee, unlawful, where it was done in furtherance of Ee's unlawful discharge]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[auto dealer's refusal to pay commissions to striking salesmen for orders placed for cars prior to strike, but delivered by strike replacements or management, unlawful, where pre-strike policy was split of commission between salespersons where order taken and delivery made by different salespersons, and reasonable interpretation of contract in regard to commissions was that if Ee terminated before delivery of car, commission not forfeited]

5029-1218 Failure to implement pension plan

John Wanamaker Philadelphia 279 NLRB No. 140
[E's suspending a customary wage review, refusing to consider and grant annual wage increases and withholding from unit Ees medical, disability and pension and profit-sharing benefits while granting same to non-unit Ees, assertedly because E was negotiating with U over those matters, violative, where E was unlawfully refusing to discuss economic matters with U at bargaining table and was thus engaged in bad faith bargaining]

5029-1220 Denial of participation in profit-sharing plan

John Wanamaker Philadelphia 279 NLRB No. 140
[E's suspending a customary wage review, refusing to consider and grant annual wage increases and withholding from unit Ees medical, disability and pension and profit-sharing benefits while granting same to non-unit Ees, assertedly because E was negotiating with U over those matters, violative, where E was unlawfully refusing to discuss economic matters with U at bargaining table and was thus engaged in bad faith bargaining]

5029-1225 Delay, denial, or withholding of wage increase

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally changing customary effective date of annual increase with resulting lack of traditional increase in hourly workers' holiday pay due to Ees' U activity, violation]

Times Wire & Cable Company 280 NLRB No. 003
[E's failure to grant an annual wage increase during pendency of U election, violative, where E had established policy for at least 3 years prior to election of granting annual wage increases; further, E's contention that it had no choice but to withhold wage increase because of upcoming election, rejected, where evidence clearly showed E had attempted to place the onus for withholding on the U rather than attempting to comply with the law]

John Wanamaker Philadelphia 279 NLRB No. 140
[E's suspending a customary wage review, refusing to consider and grant annual wage increases and withholding from unit Ees medical, disability and pension and profit-sharing benefits while granting same to non-unit Ees, assertedly because E was negotiating with U over those matters, violative, where E was unlawfully refusing to discuss economic matters with U at bargaining table and was thus engaged in bad faith bargaining]

Orval Kent Food Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 057
[E's failure to consider its maintenance Ees for or to grant them merit increases, not violative, notwithstanding superintendant's testimony that he would have granted merit increases had U not come into shop, where E did not fail to meet its bargaining obligaton, and withholding of merit increases was for no reason other than parties failure to agree on issue]

National Micronetics, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 095
(delaying promised pay increase and job reclassification because of U campaign, violation)

Texas Bus Lines, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 075
(E's refusal to honor request by outside U currently representing Ees for scheduled wage increase found in contract with Ee committee which had previously represented Ees, not violation where Ee committee was found to have abandoned and disclaimed interest in representing Ees, and any efficacy it had had was displaced by Ees' election of outside U as their representative; further outside U had no standing to enforce contract term which it did not negotiate and whose inception preceded its formal raising of a qcr)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(E's action, after receiving U's recognition demand, announcing and subsequently revoking wage increase because of U activities, unlawful, where E told Ees that wage increase had been recommended and notice was posted on bulletin board about same time announcing that across-the-board wage increase would be made effective shortly; however, Bd did not find that decision to defer consideration of proposed wage increase in wake of U organizing activities pending their outcome or that of an election necessarily violates Act)

Luther Martin and Minnie Martin, Co-Partners, d/b/a Martin's Leasing Company JD-83-86
[tightening E's policy of pay advances at height of election campaign and refusing U adherent advance, unlawful]

Bowling Green-Warren County Community Hospital Corporation, d/b/a The Medical Center At Bowling Green, Kentucky v. N.L.R.B. 756 F.2d 41 (C.A. 6, Mar. 1985)
(neither 8(a)(1) nor 8(a)(3) violated by E's denial of wage increase to petitioned-for Ee unit while granting it to non-U Ees w/o explanation for such action, since in this type of case, in which either granting or withholding of increase could be found violative, all relevant circumstances should be considered to determine whether E intended to discourage U activity; and here GC stipulated that only reason for disparate treatment was advice of counsel, and there was no evidence contradicting such stipulation)

5029-1226 Evaluation of work

Sealnectro Corporation 280 NLRB No. 015
[giving U adherent below average evaluation based primarily on his talking and being out of his work area, unlawful, since such evaluation was given because of Ee's U activity]

Studio S.J.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126
(giving Ee false job performance evaluations because she had engaged in U organizing, violative)

Bell Halter, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 136
(evaluation of Ee's job performance as being marginal rather than satisfactory, unlawful, where Ee was known active advocate of U to which E was strongly opposed; unfavorable evaluation after Ee engaged in U activity was substantial departure from prior favorable evaluation when he was not so engaged; downgrading of Ee because of attitude, in absence of other explanation, was synonymous with faulting Ee for supporting U; E failed to justify downgrading by specific instances; and supervisor making evaluation had doubtful opportunity to observe Ee whose immediate supervisor considered him satisfactory)

5029-1231 Granting of wage or commission rate increase

A/Z Electric, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 057
[granting wage increases to induce Ees to reject U, unlawful]

Kokomo Tube Company 280 NLRB No. 035
[grant of across board wage increase, unlawful, since granted to undermine U campaign, where announced 1 day after E had obtained knowledge of U activity based on more than rumors, increase received by Ees after U had filed R ptn, and where previouse increases had been tied to E's profits whereas these raises wee not justified by profits]

Leeds Cablevision, Inc. and Cablevision Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 014
(granting disparate increases to Ees of each facility of joint E who received substantially equivalent evaluations overall, violative, since joint E intended that Ees of one of joint Es' facilities receive substantially lower increases than their counterparts because they selected U to represent them. E intended that dissimilar result occur)

Mid-State Distributing Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 172
(increasing commission rate paid drivers, occurring simultaneously with unlawful termination of drivers' helpers, unlawful, where increase was substantial benefit granted drivers at outset of U campaign as incentive for them to work w/o helpers, and it was inferable that increase was granted with same purpose of discouraging U activity as in the case of termination of helpers, thereby tainting increase with such discrimination as well as being independent interference with Ees' rights)

Bowling Green-Warren County Community Hospital Corporation, d/b/a The Medical Center At Bowling Green, Kentucky v. N.L.R.B. 756 F.2d 41 (C.A. 6, Mar. 1985)
(neither 8(a)(1) nor 8(a)(3) violated by E's denial of wage increase to petitioned-for Ee unit while granting it to non-U Ees w/o explanation for such action, since in this type of case, in which either granting or withholding of increase could be found violative, all relevant circumstances should be considered to determine whether E intended to discourage U activity; and here GC stipulated that only reason for disparate treatment was advice of counsel, and there was no evidence contradicting such stipulation)

5029-1275 Reduction

International Hat Company, A Wholly-Owned Subsidiary of Interco Incorporated 281 NLRB No. 053
[setting U activist's new rate of pay for bulk cutting at level which substantially reduced his earnings, violation where E knew it was setting rate too low to maintain Ee's earnings and failed to establish that reduction in earnings would have occurred absent Ee's U activities]

Studio S.J.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126
(reducing Ee's pay rate by denying her opportunity to earn additional money because she had engaged in U organizing, violative)

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010
(reduction in hours worked in retaliation against Ee for his U sympathies, violative)

Bronx Metal Polishing Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 031
(reducing U activist's piecework rate of pay, and thus his earnings, so that he quit, violative as unlawful change in working conditions and as constructive discharge)

5029-1279 Denial of holiday pay

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally changing customary effective date of annual increase with resulting lack of traditional increase in hourly workers' holiday pay due to Ees' U activity, violation]

Programming & Systems, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 157
(denying Ee (U activist) her holiday pay because she missed the 2 days preceding Thanksgiving (E had rule that teachers absent before or after holiday lose pay for the holiday) violative, since E paid 2 other teachers who were absent on Monday following Thanksgiving weekend. Instance of disparate treatment where E refused to waive its holiday of pay rule with respect to U activist)

5029-1280 Overtime; reduction, denial or change in practice or policy

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[E's reduction of overtime to U adherents, unlawful, where prior to U winning election they had consistently been given overtime, and where other Ees continued to be given overtime]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[E's changing its 23-year policy for assigning work, including overtime, after strike, from work assignments on basis of seniority to rotation system of assigning work eliminating entirely factor of seniority, violative, since (new) policy in fact had predictable and actual effect of creating conditions after strike ended in which strikers would lose advantages in job assignments they had enjoyed under E's 23-year-old work assignment policy and strike replacements would be beneficiaries of those losses. Once strike ended, entire work force lost valuable rights]

National Micronetics, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 095
(denying overtime to U activist immediately after E learned he would serve as U election observor, violation)

Book Covers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of Ee for refusing to work overtime as required by contract, violative, as practice was to excuse Ees from working assigned overtime if supervisor presented with reasonable excuse, and excuse which Ee gave, and which lay behind motivation to fire Ee, was that Ee was going to labor board to file charges against E; furthermore, no Ee ever disciplined beyond receiving oral warring before)

Brocal Corp. d/b/a Alert Medical Transport 276 NLRB No. 066
(relieving U adherent of requirement to have his timecards signed before performing overtime work, violative where such action was done to discourage Ee's U activity)

M. W. Kellogg Constructors, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 134
(refusing to assign unscheduled overtime work to travelers because they were not members of local U, violative)

County Respiratory Products, Inc. JD-(NY)-107-85
(imposing mandatory overtime on U supporter who testified at R hearing under threat of discharge when another Ee was asking for the work, violative)

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc. JD-(NY)-141-84
(reducing overtime of U adherents, violative)

5029-1284 Sick pay; denial, withholding, or change in practice or policy

Texaco, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 164
(RD erred in refusing to permit withdrawal of charge alleging E unlawfully withheld accident and sick benefits from Ees who were receiving such benefits prior to economic strike, where parties had reached strike settlement agreement under which U agreed to end strike, withdraw charges, and each Ee was to receive at least $150 in settlement of outstanding contractual claims, since benefits withheld no more than contractual term subsequently negotiated away in good faith, no other ULPs extant and no Ee objected; primary interest served by continual rights of a few Ees rather than public rights)

Van Gas, Inc. JD-(SF)-33-85
(changing sick leave policy to require 2 day waiting period for paid sick leave to begin rather than paying from first day Ee sick, unlawful; contention change necessitated because of abuse held pretext where E failed to produce evidence of abuse, in view of U animus and fact policy changed 2 days after U won election)

5029-1287 Change in basis of payment

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1–17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[utilizing break in service rule to deprive reinstated economic strikers of their prior seniority, treating them as new Ees, and assigning them new hourly wage rate different from that earned before strike, unlawful]

International Hat Company, A Wholly-Owned Subsidiary of Interco Incorporated 281 NLRB No. 053
[setting U activist's new rate of pay for bulk cutting at level which substantially reduced his earnings, violation where E knew it was setting rate too low to maintain Ee's earnings and failed to establish that reduction in earnings would have occurred absent Ee's U activities]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[auto dealer's refusal to pay commissions to striking salesmen for orders placed for cars prior to strike, but delivered by strike replacements or management, unlawful, where pre-strike policy was split of commission between salespersons where order taken and delivery made by different salespersons, and reasonable interpretation of contract in regard to commissions was that if Ee terminated before delivery of car, commission not forfeited]

LeRic Floor Covering, Inc., and Richard E. Fackler d/b/a REF Carpet Service and Installation Alter Egos JD-79-85
(no unlawful failure of unionized E to pay contractual wage rates and benefit contributions for part of Ees' hours of work for non-U E, where Es were neither alter egos nor joint Es, and Ees' work for non-U E was not a disguise for portion of work for unionized E)

5029-1400 Retirement benefits; denial, withholding, or change in practice or policy

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[lockout of Ees in order to further E's bargaining position after reaching impasse in contract negotiations with U held not equivalent to layoff and, consequently, denial of pension withdrawal benefits to Ees throughout lockout period held not unlawful, since retirement plan, providing for pension withdrawal rights to Ees laid off temporarily for lack of work, did not include locked out Ees]

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[denial of pension withdrawal benefits during period of scheduled 2-week holiday layoff which was cancelled because lockout occurred contemporaneously with scheduled layoff, not unlawful, where E viewed lockout from its inception as being of indefinite duration; and timing of lockout first working day after U rejected E's latest contract proposal raised inference that purpose of lockout was to place economic pressure on U to accept E's bargaining position and not to overlap with prescheduled layoff so as to deprive Ees of benefits to which they otherwise would have been entitled]

Enterprise Aggregates Corporation 276 NLRB No. 011
(no violation when E who had paid retirement benefits previously refused to pay these benefits to strikers, in view of failure by GC to make out prima facie case that denial of benefits was based on Ees' protected activities GC relied solely on earlier case against E on same issue in which Bd found that E's refusal to pay benefits was based on E's animosity towards participants in strike. Absent any other evidence, Bd refused to infer same proximate cause in instant case especially in light of passage of more than year from end of strike and E ceasing operations until Ees requested benefits)

5029-2500 Hours

5029-2510 Change in policy regarding observance of hours of work

Thompson's Gas, Inc. and Del-Ro Transports, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 092
(alleged selective docking of pay by disparate application of grace period allowed for tardiness of Ee who had joined U, filed ULP charge, and cooperated in prosecution of U's ULP charges, not unlawful, where comparison of Ee's time sheets with those of similarily situated Ees showed that E's application of grace period allowance was not selective nor arbitrary but was uniform and consistent; and fact that E's office workers enjoyed different grace period did not evidence discriminatory motive)

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. JD-239-86
[E's shortening of grace period allowed for reporting to work, having economic impact on Ees by imposing loss of half hour's pay for failing to comply with grace period, held violative of 8(a)(1) as well as 8(a)(3), in view of timing of E's action w/i month of U's overwhelming U election victory, coupled with animus displayed on other occasions; patent falsity of E's proffered excuse; and E's prior statement about tightening up on tardiness and attendance in event of U victory]

5029-2525 Change in work schedule

Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 125
[scheduling U adherent to work on her regular day off, not unlawful, where day was day before Thanksgiving and expected to be exceptionally busy day]

Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 039
[transfer of Ee, active participant in dissident U group, to less desirable time and work site, not violative since there was no substantive evidence to explain why E would chose to discriminate against Ee at time of transfer, as Ee had been engaging in his dissident activities for about 5 years w/o recrimination. Ee an experienced inspector, replaced inexperienced inspector on transfer]

Michiel's Inc., d/b/a La Saint Jean Des Pres Restaurant 279 NLRB No. 017
[E's requiring Ees (waiters) to work lunches, violative, where new rule was announced one day after election and E had always accomodated Ees' various schedules before election]

Budget Rent A Car of Washington, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 032
(giving U activist less favorable work schedule, assertedly to insure success of E's newly instituted operation, violative)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(changing duties and/or hours of work of known active U supporters, unlawful, where such actions were not consistent with E's historical practice; changes were made immediately following inception of U's organizing campaign; E engaged in 8(a)(1) conduct clearly evidencing U animus; and E failed to rebut GC's prima facie case that E would have made changes in absence of Ee U activity)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(E unlawfully changed known U supporter's hours and also disciplined and suspended her for overextending her break period, where Ee had unblemished disciplinary record, nothing was previously said or done if she was late or absent prior to her U activity, changes and discipline occurred shortly after inception of U organizing activity; warning was given to Ee after E received U's demand for recognition, and E failed to establish that it would have taken some actions in absence of Ee's U activity)

Chicago Rivet & Machine Co. 275 NLRB No. 178
(transferring leading U adherent from second to first shift resulting in his loss of second shift premium and placing him in position such that he might be forced to choose between his job and his farm, violative where it was of no economic benefit to E but retaliation for Ee's U activities)

Wells Fargo Armored Service Corp. JD-(SF)-19-86
[changing U activist's work schedule from day shift to night shift, violation in light of E's U animus]

Health Care Service-California d/b/a Valley Oaks Health Care Center JD-(SF)-198-85
[changing U supporter's work schedule to time which was less desireable to Ee, assertedly because it was mandated by State law, violative, where E presented no evidence of State law mandating such change and there was no showing of why Ee should not have been allowed to maintain her previous work schedule]

5029-2550 Reduction

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[reducing hours in workweek due to Ees' support of U, violation where E failed to prove economic necessity]

Terraillon Corp. 280 NLRB No. 037
[reduction of Ee's hours, unlawful, since for his U adherence; E's economic defense rejected where it retained high school student who was part time Ee who had only worked short time, rather than maintaining Ee's hours]

Armon Company 279 NLRB No. 158
[reducing hours of senior drivers who had signed U card, violation]

Larry Chapman, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Farm Boy Food Mart 278 NLRB No. 058
[reducing Ee's hours, not violation where reduction implemented prior to onset of union activities and was due to Ee's derogatory remarks about E]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[reducing U representatives' paid working hours from eight to six or four hours daily, violation where it resulted from E's abrogation of U time clause allowing U representatives to spend four paid hours daily to conduct U business]

Storall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(reduction in work hours to make good prior warning that E would make it rough on Ees if U came in, violative)

Nick Gryfakis and Han Nyunt, A Partnership d/b/a N & H Enterprises d/b/a Abernathy's Restaurant JD-(SF)-33-86
[progressively reducing hours because of her known U adherence, violation]

Nick Gryfakis and Han Nyunt, A Partnership d/b/a N & H Enterprises d/b/a Abernathy's Restaurant JD-(SF)-33-86
[issuing reprimand note to U activist, for complaining about unlawful reduction in her hours, violation]

Continental Garage Management Corp. JD-(NY)-106-85

5029-2900 Health and welfare benefits; denial, withholding, or change in practice or policy

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[implementation after strike of health plan for represented Ees which was already in effect for nonrepresented Ees, not unlawful, where motivated by business considerations, rather than anti-U considerations]

John Wanamaker Philadelphia 279 NLRB No. 140
[E's suspending a customary wage review, refusing to consider and grant annual wage increases and withholding from unit Ees medical, disability and pension and profit-sharing benefits while granting same to non-unit Ees, assertedly because E was negotiating with U over those matters, violative, where E was unlawfully refusing to discuss economic matters with U at bargaining table and was thus engaged in bad faith bargaining]

LeRic Floor Covering, Inc., and Richard E. Fackler d/b/a REF Carpet Service and Installation Alter Egos JD-79-85
(no unlawful failure of unionized E to pay contractual wage rates and benefit contributions for part of Ees' hours of work for non-U E, where Es were neither alter egos nor joint Es, and Ees' work for non-U E was not a disguise for portion of work for unionized E)

5029-3700 Bonuses

5029-3733 Discrimination in regard to

Sahara Datsun, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 148
[unilaterally discontinuing variable weekly incentive bonuses for three weeks in retaliation for representation ptn, violation]

5029-3767 Withholding of

Southern Maryland Hospital Center 276 NLRB No. 133
(E's denial of a yearend bonus to all Ees on gounds that it could not afford it and a previous bonus was simply a gift and did not establish past practice, violative, since such denial was in reprisal for Ees' prior U organizing activities where E's profits had not changed at all over the year, E published recruitment advertisements and brochures listing a yearend benefit as a bonus and E told Ees it intended to provide them with a Christmas gift)

Storall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(unilaterally denying Ees their usual Christmas bonus because of their U activities, violative)

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019
(E's payment of year-end bonus, assertedly unlawfully discontinued, held to constitute wages and terms and conditions of employment, notwithstanding absence of formula for determining bonus amount or of prior formal pronouncement or fact that amounts varied, where bonus was uninterruptedly paid for 30 years; Ees considered bonus as established benefit and had continued expectation of receiving it; and nonpayment of bonus in proceeding year did not establish that bonus constituted discretionary gift)

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019
(while payment of year-end bonus, assertedly unlawfully discontinued, was established condition of employment, it id not constitute accrued bonus, where Ees qualified for its payment if employed at time of distribution, there was no past practice of set time for its distribution, and no Ee leaving employment prior to distribution period had received bonus as earned for work previously performed)

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019
(discontinuing payment of year-end bonus, not unlawful, where E's statement that due to split work force as result of strike it would not distribute bonus was too ambiguous to amount to admission that bonus was not being paid because some Ees had engaged in strike, there was no apparent disparate treatment of strikers or favored treatment of nonstrikers, and withholding of bonus payment did not constitute unlawful enhancement of bargaining position evidencing discrimination nor was it inherently destructive of Ees' rights)

Southern Maryland Hospital Center v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 666 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1986)
[failure to pay Christmas bonus, not violative, since E had paid bonus for first time in prior year which did not establish policy or practice of yearly bonus since bonuses are discretionary in nature, they must be given over significant period of time so that it would be clearly apparent to objectively reasonable E that his grant or denial of benefit at time action taken conforms to status quo]

Government Employees (Office Employees, Local No. 2) 278 NLRB No. 055
[U-E's discriminatory and unilateral withholding of scheduled annual leave from Ees participating in strike, violation, since inherently destructive of significant employee rights]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 008
(ceasing prior practice of paying accrued vacation and random day benefits to Ees who were not actively employed, which included economic strikers, because of strike, violative; E's contention that it declared moratorim on use of accrued vacation and random days to prevent reduction in production no defense to accrued benefits and denial of payment for such accrued benefits to strikers who had terminated their employment where denial was not due to failure to satisfy contractual preconditions, as contended by E, but because of their striking)

5029-4500 Withdrawal of privileges

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[E's implementation of change in telephone procedures by no longer permitting Ees to answer personal telephone calls, immediately after U won election, violative]

Auburn Foundry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 192
(revoking agreement with Ee that, according to past practice he might alter his work schedule, violative where it was due to Ee's filling grievance against his foreman for performing unit work)

Sears, Roebuck and Co. 274 NLRB No. 055
(requiring Ees to take vacation or personal holiday rather than leave w/o pay for time spent attending Bd hearing to assist counsel for GC and charging party, violative, notwithstanding fact that E did not take action to discourage Ees from assisting in presentation)

5029-4800 Grievance procedures

Electronic Data Systems International Corporation 278 NLRB No. 014
[suspension and discharge of Ee who was major solicitor of U authorization cards, not unlawful, since for insubordination rather than for refusal to meet with supervisor w/o witness inasmuch as refusal was not protected under Weingarten where meeting was intended for purpose of informing Ee of disciplinary decision already made, and Ee had no reason to believe otherwise, there was no certified or recognized U, and discharge was not in retaliation for U activity where U activity not mentioned in relation to warning to be given at meeting or in connection with previous warnings]

5029-5000 Change in business methods or operations

5029-5050 Subcontracting

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[subcontracting unit work and refusing to recall laid off Ees to perform such work, unlawful, in view of E's anti-U animosity, and desire, intent and practice of retaliating against Ees for their U activities; fact that immediately following strike for recognition, E drastically increased subcontracting practice; and E's failure to sustain burden of showing that subcontracting would have been inevitable]

Harold Weine; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013

Leeward Nursing Home 278 NLRB No. 157
[no unlawful subcontracting by E where E seriously investigated possibility of subcontracting for economic reasons prior to obtaining knowledge of U activity]

Service Merchandise Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 023
[E's discharge of drivers and warehouse Ee who had been driver and subcontracting driving operations, unlawful, where for support of drivers' association and threat to seek representation by outside U, in view of E's expressed opposition to outside U, summary nature of discharges, and secrecy of negotiations for subcontracting; contention subcontracting motivated by economic considerations, rejected, where subcontracting resulted in 25% increase in cost even though fewer miles driven over private driver operation]

Griffith-Hope Company 275 NLRB No. 073
(although finding that E violated 8(a)(5) by unilaterally subcontracting unit work, Bd held subcontracting did not violate 8(a)(3) since, while E subcontracted work to avoid paying contractual wage and benefits, its unlawful action was not inherently destructive of Ees' Sec. 7 rights, particularly since there was no U animus)

Ausable Communications, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 166
(cable TV company's subcontracting construction work and laying off Ees, unlawful, since in retaliation for U activity, rather than as result of E's policy against performing construction work with its own Ees, where E had known its Ees were engaged in construction work, and in view of precipitous nature of layoffs)

5029-5075 Partial closing of business

Purolator Armored, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 1423 (C.A. 7, July 1985)
(notwithstanding operation was losing money, E violated Act by terminating said operation as E was willing to absorb these losses until U won election which shows that economics was not foremost in E's decision, and as U elected as operation's representative was same as one that represented other E units and there was frequent interchange with Ees, the closure had chilling effect on unionism)

5029-5087 Reorganization of work system

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[E's unilateral change from permanent assignment of nurses aides and unit secretaries to certain wing to rotating assignments from one wing to another during strike at its alcohol and drug treatment facility, and continuing policy after end of strike, not violative of Section 8(a)(3), where work no more onerous or different in one wing than other, and after strike system applied equally to strikers and non-strikers; however, change was held violative of Section 8(a)(5)]

Harold Weine; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013
[E's unilateral reclassification of its (motel) desk clerks to supervisory positions, violative, where conduct, coupled with E's other ULPs and coinciding with other violative layoffs effectuated decimation of unit. Evidence discloses no justifiable reason for such conduct and record evidence suggests there would be 1:1 ratio of supervisors to unit Ees]

Woodline Motor Freight, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 152
[E's change in policy which allowed drivers to choose from available runs on the basis of seniority to requiring drivers to take whatever run was assigned, unlawful, since done in response to Ees' support of U and because of recent issuance of ULP complaint alleging unlawfully reduced hours of work]

5029-6200 Discontinuance of employee benefits

5029-6214 Coffee break

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally discontinuing practice of letting Ees take breaks and lunch periods in loading dock area in retaliation for U support, violation]

5029-6222 Credit cards

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(E ordering U adherents to turn in company trucks and gasoline credit cards, unlawful, since for their U activities where business justification advanced for first time at trial and in view of precipitate manner in which action taken)

Thompson's Gas, Inc. and Del-Ro Transports, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 092
(E's imposition of finance charges for personal purchases on E's charge account by Ee who had joined U, filed ULP charges, and cooperated in investigation and prosecution of U's ULP charges, not unlawful, where E's action, directed at Ees who failed to make satisfactory progress in paying off their accounts, treated Ee like other Ees in this regard; and such action constituted legitimate exercise of managerial prerogative and was reasonable business decision which was neither arbitrary nor discriminatory)

5029-6250 Payroll advances

Luther Martin and Minnie Martin, Co-Partners, d/b/a Martin's Leasing Company JD-83-86
[tightening E's policy of pay adavances at height of election campaign and refusing U adherent advance, unlawful]

5029-6272 Company transportation and/or parking space

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(E ordering U adherents to turn in company trucks and gasoline credit cards, unlawful, since for their U activities where business justification advanced for first time at trial and in view of precipitate manner in which action taken)

5029-6274 Disability benefits

Texaco, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 164
(RD erred in refusing to permit withdrawal of charge alleging E unlawfully withheld accident and sick benefits from Ees who were receiving such benefits prior to economic strike, where parties had reached strike settlement agreement under which U agreed to end strike, withdraw charges, and each Ee was to receive at least $150 in settlement of outstanding contractual claims, since benefits withheld no more than contractual term subsequently negotiated away in good faith, no other ULPs extant and no Ee objected; primary interest served by continual rights of a few Ees rather than public rights)

5029-6287 Disadvantageous change in conditions connected with job

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[discontinuing practice of permitting U adherent to drink soda at his work station required for medical reasons, violation as it was in retaliation against Ees for their support of U and that its conduct was motivated solely by antiunion concerns]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[discontinuing receiving clerk's card system due to U activities, violation as it was in retaliation for Ees support of U]

Control Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[changing U activist's working conditions by assigning him less skilled job and split shift for his U activities and testifying at Bd hearing, violation]

Continental Garage Management Corp. JD-(NY)-106-85
(imposing more onerous working conditions because of Ees' U activities, violative)

5029-6288 Use of company telephone, photocopying machines, etc.

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally ceasing practice of letting Ees make free local telephone calls and receive telephone calls during working hours, violation]

5029-6300 Loan policy

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[E's refusal to give proceeds from bank loan to Ee for whom he had cosigned loan application, unlawful, where refusal was due to intervention of U organizing drive and coming election, and was in direct conflict with past policy of E]

Thompson's Gas, Inc. and Del-Ro Transports, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 092
(E's imposition of finance charges for personal purchases on E's charge account by Ee who had joined U, filed ULP charges, and cooperated in investigation and prosecution of U's ULP charges, not unlawful, where E's action, directed at Ees who failed to make satisfactory progress in paying off their accounts, treated Ee like other Ees in this regard; and such action constituted legitimate exercise of managerial prerogative and was reasonable business decision which was neither arbitrary nor discriminatory)

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc. JD-(NY)-141-84
(E held to have unlawfully withheld loan from Ee, contrary to past practice, because of Ee's U activities where, upon receiving bank check made out to Ee (which represented proceeds of bank loan to Ee for which E cosigned) E returned check to bank and cancelled the loan in accordance with E's decision to no longer lend money to Ees if U won election)

5029-6400 Rules

Southern Maryland Hospital Center v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 666 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1986)
[discipline for violation of E's (Hospital's) no solicitation rule not an ULP, where E undisputedly showed (1) violation of rule, (2) failed attempt to resolve dispute and possibly, withdraw discipline, and (3) final disciplinary actions in proportion to conduct involved, even though E had allowed some innocuous activity, such as sale of some raffle tickets, Girl Scout cookies and cosmetics by Ees w/o reprisal under E's rule]

5029-6500 Privileges

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[E's institution, shortly before end of strike, of restrictions on smoking and drinking soft drinks and coffee during reporting time at medical facility i.e. time during which patients' records turned over from outgoing to incoming shift, not violative of Sec. 8(a)(3); contention that change discriminatory where did not apply to doctors and retaliatory against striking nurses, rejected, inasmuch as restrictions applied equally to strikers and non-strikers, change not timed to retaliate against strikers since end of strike not w/i control of E, and justified by prevention of staining or burning of medical records]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally discontinuing practice of letting Ees take breaks and lunch periods in loading dock area in retaliation for U support, violation]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[barring leading U activists from parking in front row of parking lot in retaliation for U activities, violation in context of other ULPs harassing them, but insufficient to reach level of unilateral change about which E was obligated to bargain]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally discontinuing practice of allowing Ee who wore U T-shirt to drink soda at his work station for medical reasons, violation but not unlawful unilateral change where it only affected one Ee]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally restricting known U supporters' running of football pools to prework, lunch, and break times while continuing to allow non-U supporters to run pools during working hours, violation but not unlawful unilateral change where it only affected two Ees]

Harold Weinz; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Maid and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013
[E's unilateral elimination of Ees' check cashing privileges, violative, since action came upon heels of U designation as (Ee) bargaining agent and for no proferred business reason]

5029-6800 Participation in discriminatory administration of insurance, pension, and other benefit plans

Mead Packaging 273 NLRB No. 181
(E's unilateral discontinuance of insurance and pension benefits to U officers on leaves of absence for purpose of holding U office, not violative; granting such benefits to U officers alone under provision of contract would violate 8(a)(3) and 8(b)(2), since granting such benefits to U officers did not further effective administration of E's bargaining agreement where U officers were on U's payroll and acted as representatives of Ees at other Es premises, engaging in engotiations and arbitrations, and generally monitored compliance with U's bargaining agreements and further, granting of such benefits was not available to other Ees on an equal basis)

5029-7500 Discipline

The Acme-Arsena Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 144
(profane and foul language or what is normally considered discourteous conduct while engaged in protected activity does not justify disciplining Ee acting in representative capacity)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(E unlawfully changed known U supporter's hours and also disciplined and suspended her for overextending her break period, where Ee had unblemished disciplinary record, nothing was previously said or done if she was late or absent prior to her U activity, changes and discipline occurred shortly after inception of U organizing activity; warning was given to Ee after E received U's demand for recognition, and E failed to establish that it would have taken some actions in absence of Ee's U activity)

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86
[E's unilateral change in eliminating progressive system of discipline held not unlawful retaliation for Ee support of U, even though change was detrimental to Ee interests, and occurred only few weeks after election compaign in which E opposed U, where E nevertheless met its burden of showing that E's action would have occurred even in absence of U drive]

Burlington Industries, Inc. JD-(ATL)-13-85
(counseling U advocate not unlawful since it was not part of disciplinary process but merely attempt to correct Ee's work performance, notwithstanding permanent record kept of all counseling)

5029-7525 Placing employee on probation

Baddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 084
[giving U activist warning and placing him on probation because he could not get to work because of car trouble, rather than giving him day off w/o pay or vacation day as was customary, violation]

5029-7533 Reprimand or warning

Trover Clinic 280 NLRB No. 002
[repremanding known U advocate and subsequently discharging her, assertedly because of complaint received concerning Ee's handling of patient's itemized account statement unlawful, where E departed from its customary manner of responding to patients' complaints concerning Ee behavior or work performance by failing to investigate matter and to seek explanation from Ee even though substantial confusion existed among Ees concerning procedure for production of itemized statements, and E did not follow its policy of counseling Ee and giving series of reprimands before reaching discharge stage]

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(issuance of written reprimand admonishing Ee about her poor attitude and work habits, not unlawful, where warning was issued solely because of poor condition in which Ee left her work place when she left for the day and not because of unlawful retaliation for Ee's threat to seek U's assistance in her sechduling dispute with E)

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's warnings to known U activist, assertedly for misuse of plant telephone, not violative where it was E's failure to cooperate, and not misuse on Ee's part, which was responsible for large number of calls Ee made in his unsuccessful attempt to get information about Ees' insurance plan and calls made with approval of supervisor; real reason was warnings resulted from Ee's U activities)

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's issuing warnings w/o cause to six of nine Ees in bargaining unit because they selected U, violative)

Roadway Express, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 052
(E's issuance of purportedly work-related warning letters to U steward who had filed numerous charges against E with Bd and had testified at Bd hearing, and had also protested E's proposal to institute flexible work week, unlawful, where E viewed steward as U activist and harbored animus toward him and his U and protected activities, letters were issued w/o justification, and in one instance supervisor purposefully sought reason for issuing warning letter to steward)

National Brands Beverage Dividison Curtice-Burns, Inc. JD-(NY)-95-86
[issuing disciplinary warnings to Ee because of his U activities, violative]

Italo II Casa Romana Restaurant, Inc. JD-(SF)-50-86
[E's establishment of new disciplinary system and its issuance of disciplinary warnings to 3 Ees, violative where E failed to demonstrate that, absent Ees' recent selection of U, it would have taken disciplinary action]

County Respiratory Products, Inc. JD-(NY)-107-85
(E's president's issuing disciplinary warning notice to Ee because he believed Ee had signed authorization card and was bringing in U and further threatening to discharge him if he did not sign notice, violative)

5029-8100 Assignment of work; withdrawals of, additions to, etc.

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[removing Ee's name from dispatch roster after threatening him for grievance activity and assigning him more onerous work, unlawful, since motivated by U animus]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[E's changing its 23-year policy for assigning work, including overtime, after strike, from work assignments on basis of seniority to rotation system of assigning work eliminating entirely factor of seniority, violative, since (new) policy in fact had predictable and actual effect of creating conditions after strike ended in which strikers would lose advantages in job assignments they had enjoyed under E's 23-year-old work assignment policy and strike replacements would be beneficiaries of those losses. Once strike ended, entire work force lost valuable rights]

Eskaton Sunrise Community 279 NLRB No. 012
[refusal to assign shifts desired by U adherents, assertedly due to higher seniority of Ees transferred from another facility of E who filled positions on shifts in question, unlawful, where but for E's scheme to defeat U there would have been no need for transfers in the first place; and E presented no evidence other than self-serving declaration regarding his seniority defense]

T & T Machine Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 139
[sending U supporter home for alleged lack of work rather than, as previously, giving him temporary assignments such as grass cutting or car washing at no reduction in pay, but offering to retain Ee if he changed sides, unlawful]

Penn Jersey Paper Co. 275 NLRB No. 064
(limiting 2 nonunit Ees, who had been performing unit work, to nonunit sweeping job, unlawful, where E's action was prompted by E's learing of 1 Ee's letter to U requesting U action to admit Ee to membership and to obtain U wage for him; even apart from any participation by second Ee in writing of letter, E was thereby engaged in protected activity; coercive tendency of E's action was aggravated by threat to discharge both Ees; and E failed to present any legimate and substantial business justification for its action)

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 194
(E's discontinuance of truck repairman's Saturday work (when repairman worked as independent contractor for E) week after serving as U election observer held violative, since repairman's employment as independent contractor for E on Saturdeays was related to his status as full-time repairman and substitute driver-Ee for E during regular work week)

Luther Martin and Minnie Martin, Co-Partners, d/b/a Martin's Lawing Company JD-83-86
[E's refusal to offer to let leading U activist to make delivery trips, unlawful, where E exhibited marked U animus and indicated low opinion of Ee because of his U activity, and E's claim that it sought to contact Ee to offer him trips was not credited]

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[assigning known U adherent employed as bartender to less desirable banquet work, and later discharging him, assertedly because of complaints by waitresses and by customer, unlawful, where customer's reference to Ee was made in letter containing general complaint about service and other conditions at E's business; letter was dated 4 days after E was removed from work schedule as bartender; and E could not have been seriously concerned about oral complaints against Ee since E neither informed Ee of it nor warned him about it]

(unlawful discharge of Ee w/lowest seniority and working 1 shift per week when E reinstituted old policy that Ees work minimum of 2 shifts per week and took shift from him and gave it to senior Ee who also worked 1 shift, in view of E's animus, no explanation why E delayed 5 months before implementing decision to return to old shift policy, and knowledge of Ee's U inclination inferred from E's knowledge that Ee's brother, also Ee, was U adherent, smallness of workforce (21 Ees) and supervisor at time of his termination voiced concern over U considerations

Coal Systems, Inc. and W. Julian Scalf Engineering & Construction Co., Inc. JD-452-84
(E's reassigning job to another company, found alter ego to first E herein, because Ees had filed contractual grievances against former E, violative)

5029-8400 Revision of absenteeism and tardiness rules

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally instituting more restrictive tardiness policy as result of Ees' support of U, violation]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally instituting new rules as to Ees' taking time-off for personal reasons to penalize Ees for choosing U, violation]

5029-8700 Refusal to grant leave

Bridgeway Oldsmobile, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 165
[E's denial of Ee's leave request and Ee's request to change shifts with another Ee in order to obtain leave, violative, where E had singled Ee out as U supporter and such permission was freely given to other Ees]

Terrailon Corp. 280 NLRB No. 037
[E's vice-president revoking approval of Ee's previously authorized vacation, and discharging her when she took vacation as planned, unlawful, since for her U adherence rather than because she was needed for audit during vacation period, where approval of Ee's vacation dates was reaffirmed after audit scheduled, and only withdrawn after U demanded recognition, and Ee had performed her functions in connection with audit prior to requested vacation date]

5029-8900 Transfer or refusal of transfer

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[failure to recall former economic strikers to available positions on machine operating crew and to transfer reinstated former striker to fill out such crew, unlawful, where E decided to bring in outside crew and then attempted to justify its action after the fact by claiming that unreinstated strikers were not qualified]

Beverly Enterprises - Indiana, Inc. d/b/a Fountainview Place 281 NLRB No. 088
[transfer of U adherent from housekeeping (cleaning) to laundry at convalescent hospital, unlawful, where purpose was to isolate Ee from other Ees, notwithstanding E's contention transfer was due to Ee's poor work in cleaning, and need for additional help in laundry where Ee had prior experience, since these reasons pretextual where Ee had recently received favorable evaluation and wage increase, Ee was open U supporter, and transfer took place soon after E learned of her U activities, and further E had told Ee not to attend 2 Ee meetings]

Saulsetre Corporation 280 NLRB No. 015
[transfer of Ee who was inspector to smaller department where he could influence fewer Ees, unlawful, since for his U activities of handing out U authorization cards and literature]

Raytheon Missile System Division, Raytheon Company 279 NLRB No. 035
[E's transfer of compensation assistant in E's industrial relations department to position in production control department, not violative where Ee had current legitimate access to confidential labor relations information at time her pro-U sympathy first became known to E; E's decision to transfer her was predicated on more than conjecture, but rather on reasonable apprehension, based on her pro-U activity, that she might compromise confidential labor relations information]

United States Steel Corporation 279 NLRB No. 004
[E's refusal to hire Ee laid off from one of its facilities to work at another of its facilities, unlawful, since for his activities as U grievance chairman where his supervisor's reference to grievance chairman as troublemaker when speaking to foreman at facility to which he had applied for transfer connotated his activity of filing grievances, and this characterization was relied upon in rejecting Ees request for transfer. Use of word alone, not violative, but must look at context in which used]

Eskaton Sunrise Community 279 NLRB No. 012
[refusal to assign shifts desired by U adherents, assertedly due to higher seniority of Ees transferred from another facility of E who filled positions on shifts in question, unlawful, where but for E's scheme to defeat U there would have been no need for transfers in the first place; and E presented no evidence other than self-serving declaration regarding his seniority defense]

Safelite, Division of Lear Siegler, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 080
(E's layoff of, refusal to transfer and refusal to recall 6 Ees to new plant located only a few miles from old plant, assertedly for reasons of operational efficiency, violative, since real reason was Ees' U affiliation where E attempted to mislead U representing Ees at old plant that there were no plans to open new plant, E made clear when it announced opening of new plant that it would be non-union and no U activity would be tolerated and after E laid off 6 Ees, it immediately hired 6 new inexperienced Ees for new plant)

Safelite, Division of Lear Siegler, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 080
(E's refusal to transfer and recall 4 Ees to new plant located only a few miles from old plant, violative, notwithstanding Ees were laid off from old plant for nondiscriminatory reasons, where E's unlawful motive was demonstrated by statements that it wished to keep U out of new plant, E promised to increase wages at new plant if Ees abandoned U and E gave absolutely no reasons for its failure to transfer Ees to new plant)

United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 015
(transfer of U activist to special research project which was tedious and produced eye fatigue and headaches and was thus regarded as less desirable than her previous work, violative)

Pillod of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117
(E's refusal to transfer U activist out of department that admittedly was giving Ee serious medical problems, violative, where E routinely transferred other Ees from department when they had problems and Ee was transferred into undesirable department only a few days after she issued an open letter to Ees in support of U)

United Artists Eastern Theatres, Operating Valentine Theatre 275 NLRB No. 025
(telling white Ees who were U supporters that E would transfer them to a part of town where they would be a distinct minority, violative)

The Kent Corporation 275 NLRB No. 023
(E's transferring U advocate out of his department, assertedly for warnings that were over year old, violative where E directed transfer shortly after it observed Ee a known U activist, pick up 10 or 12 election notices from Bd agent and take those notices into work)

Florsheim Shoe Shops, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 015
(transfer of shoe salesman and shop steward to less desirable sales location, violative where E failed to rebut GC's prima facie case of unlawful motivation; Bd found that statistics E stated it used in deciding to transfer Ee covered time period after it made its decision)

Felbro, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 186
(eliminating interdepartmental transfers in response to Ees' U activity violative, where E's past practice was to allow Ees to freely transfer from department to department)

South Nassau Communities Hospital 274 NLRB No. 179
(transfer of U activist who was nurse at hospital to different unit, not unlawful, since transfer was because of difficulties in working relationship with supervisor where E judged situation was not going to improve, had reached personal level, and caused great deal of stress, after Ee had failed to inform supervisor of patient's death, assumed duties belonging to supervisor, challenged supervisor's decision regarding vacation leave, and E's past practice was to transfer Ees where personality conflicts had arisen either among Ees or between E and supervisor)

Railway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer 274 NLRB No. 198
(E unlawfully transferred driver from short haul to long haul runs for engaging in protected activity of complaining about E's interpretation of contract regarding payment of certain fee by drivers; transfer which is discriminatorily motivated is unlawful regardless of whether transfer adversely affects wages or other working conditions of Ee)

Pacific Bell JD-(SF)-113-86
[transfer of Ee, allegedly because of her good faith attempts to invoke seniority provisions of contract, not unlawful, since Ee was not engaged in concerted activity because she was not in unit covered by contract she was invoking, and because invocation of contract by her as non-unit Ee was not integrally related to collective action]

The Evening News Association JD-24-86
[refusal to transfer and promote Ee to accomodate her desire to continue to work for her present supervisor when during reorganization he was transferred to new position, not unlawful, since refusal was for business reasons rather than for Ee's U activities, where another Ee had been performing duties of secretary to individual who held position to which Ee's supervisor being transferred; further, to accomodate Ee's desire would require redistribution of clerical responsibilities, and Ee had never previously applied for promotions that were available, nor been promised promotion]

5029-9700 Change in job duties or in job classifications

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[E's unilateral reassignment of duty of recording patients' temperatures, pulse rates and respirations from unit secretaries to nurses aides upon beginning of strike and continuing policy after end of strike, not violative of Section 8(a)(3), since change applied to both strikers and non-strikers, and was justified by nurses aides greater availability at early morning hour which allowed recordation prior to doctors' rounds; however, change was violative of Section 8(a)(5)]

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[E assigning Ee to drive flatbed trucks, thus ceasing to accomodate Ee by assigning him only to drive tank trucks, inasmuch as wearing of speaking and breathing tube necessitated by removal of his larynx caused Ee difficulty with tarping flatbed trucks and with dust from dump trucks, unlawful, since constituted more onerous working conditions, notwithstanding more onerous because of Ee's physical condition and assignment was motivated by U animus in view of timing after unlawful reprimand of Ee and E's unlawful threats to Ee for filing grievances; further, E's contention of business justification rejected where use of tank trucks had increased]

Harold Weinz; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013
[E's unilateral reclassification of its (motel) desk clerks to supervisory positions, violative, where conduct, coupled with E's other ULPs and coinciding with other violative layoffs effectuated decimation of unit. Evidence discloses no justifiable reason for such conduct and record evidence suggests there would be 1:1 ratio of supervisors to unit Ees]

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(changing duties and/or hours of work of known active U supporters, unlawful, where such actions were not consistent with E's historical practice; changes were made immediately following inception of U's organizing campaign; E engaged in 8(a)(1) conduct clearly evidencing U animus; and E failed to rebut GC's prima facie case that E would have made changes in absence of Ee U activity)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-84-86
[assigning known U adherent employed as bartender to less desirable banquet work, and later discharging him, assertedly because of complaints by waitresses and by customer, unlawful, where customer's reference to Ee was made in letter containing general complaint about service and other conditions at E's business; letter was dated 4 days after E was removed from work schedule as bartender; and E could not have been seriously concerned about oral complaints against Ee since E neither informed Ee of it nor warned him about it]

5029-9800 Denial of union representation at interview with employer

Exxon Shipping Company JD-(NY)-86-85
]Weingarten rights to U representation at interview with E apply when (1) interview is investigatory i.e. designed to elicit answers to work related questions which might affect Ees or unit, and (2) Ee reasonably fears that discipline might result from interview. Main focus of analysis turns on Bd's perception of state of mind of interviewee and reasonableness of same, rather than purpose of E in conducting interview. Further, regardless of original purpose of interview, when E goes beyond such purpose and questions Ee about misconduct, full panoply of protections accorded Ee under Weingarten may be applicable)

5029-9900 Other

Harold Weinz; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013
[E's unilateral elimination of Ees' check cashing privileges, violative, since action came upon heels of U designation as (Ee) bargaining agent and for no proferred business reason]

Independent Stave Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 089
[Ee's refusal to comply with terms of contractual agreement to award prize to winner of Ee contest because winning Ee's grievances were subject of Bd charges, violation]

5030 DUES CHECKOFF REVOCATIONS

United States Postal Service 280 NLRB No. 169
[E's and U's refusing to honor Ees' revocations of dues-checkoffs, violative where checkoff authorizations were revoked by operation of law when U membership ceased to exist by virtue of effective resignation from membership]

5034 ACTIONS AFFECTING SENIORITY

Woodline Motor Freight, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 152
[E's change in policy which allowed drivers to choose from available runs on the basis of seniority to requiring drivers to take whatever run was assigned, unlawful, since done in response to Ees' support of U and because of recent issuance of ULP complaint alleging unlawfully reduced hours of work]

5034-3300 Reduction of, or failure to grant seniority

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1—17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[utilizing break in service rule to deprive reinstated economic strikers of their prior seniority, treating them as new Ees, and assigning them new hourly wage rate different from that earned before strike, unlawful]

Airport Distributors, Inc. — 280 NLRB No. 091

[whether or not Ee quit or was merely on leave of absence, E's denial of reinstatement of Ee's seniority date upon his return to work, unlawful, where E stated that seniority date was denied because Ee and fellow Ees sought U representation]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. — 279 NLRB No. 078

[no universal theory that E must follow seniority in recall of economic strikers. GC must establish existence of seniority recall rights by reference to collective-bargaining agreement or binding established past practice. However, even assuming either of above conditions proved, there must be alleged Sec. 8(a)(5) charge; otherwise, E free to devise new recall procedure as long as it is applied consistently. Here, all 8(a)(5) charges (unilateral changes) withdrawn; therefore, E did not violate Sec. 8(a)(3) by failing to recall strikers by seniority]

5034-6700 Discriminatory seniority policy

Coal Systems, Inc. and W. Julian Sculf Engineering & Construction Co., Inc. — JD-452-84

(issuing new seniority list which imposed lower standings on Ees reassigned to another company, found alter ego to first E herein, because Ees had filed contractual grievances, against former E, violative)

5034-6740 Strike seniority

N.L.R.B. v. Harrison Ready Mix Concrete, Inc. — 770 F.2d 78 (C.A. 6, Aug. 1985)

(placing strikers who abandoned strike below replacements and Ees who did not strike on seniority list, upon their reinstatement, not unlawful, since, in absence of specific and detailed findings by Bd of E's inherently destructive conduct, E neither intended nor caused any discrimination between strikers and nonstrikers or any destructive impact upon strike or U activity)

5034-6750 Superseniority

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company — 278 NLRB No. 098

[granting super-seniority to Executive Board members and Treasure of U for their terms of office for shift preference, surplus and layoff, and maintaining super-seniority clause with respect to Executive Board members and Treasurer of U, violative, where they had no responsibilities requiring on-the-job presence to further administration of bargaining agreement]

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company — 278 NLRB No. 098

[according U's Executive Board member super-seniority under bargaining agreement with respect to shift preference and thereby causing Ee to be removed from first shift and placed on second shift, violative where Executive Board Member had no responsibility requiring on-the-job presence to further administration of bargaining agreement]

Telford & Doolen, Inc. — 277 NLRB No. 112

(layoff of U steward who was accorded superseniority under contract, not unlawful, where no other job was available that he was qualified to fill; steward had no seniority in E's other department and, under contract, was not entitled to bump anyone in that department in order to retain his job; and no Bd precedent exists which accords steward lawful superseniority extending beyond his department or seniority roster)

Dravo Corporation, Dravo Marine Equipment Company — 276 NLRB No. 128

(C dismissed where record insufficient to establish that U's vice-president and members of U's negotiating team were entitled to contractual superseniority, since they did not perform steward-like on-the-job grievance processing or contract administration; majority of negotiating meetings involved bargaining over such matters as contract concessions and subcontracting out work)

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) — JD-18-86

[retaining pyrometer steward pursuant to U's invocation of superseniority clause of contract, not unlawfully discriminatory as to two Ees who were not allowed to bump steward from sole remaining pyrometer position but laid off, notwithstanding U's letter stating it did not intend to have steward granted superseniority to represent himself and lack of pyrometer Ees remaining on job for steward to represent, since U letter was not binding contract but statement of intent, and steward was required on job to protect unit work, police its assignment, and represent laid-off Ees' recall rights]

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers — 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(in considering propriety of Bd's Gulton rule pertaining to superseniority provisions and their enforcement by E and U, ct reviewed history of Bd's treatment of superseniority provisions in its prior decisions and affirmed Bd's decision herein that E and U unlawfully enforced superseniority provision causing layoff of Ees with greater seniority than U officials who were retained under superseniority clause)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers — 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(however ct might have decided superseniority matter at issue herein, Bd's formulation of new superseniority rule in its Gulton decision, after reconsidering Limpco line of cases was reasonable in allowing superseniority for layoff purposes only if U officials needed to be present at workplace; Bd is entitled to change its mind, so long as new general standard is applicable to all litigants)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers — 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(in affirming Bd's Gulton rule allowing enforcement of superseniority clause for layoff purposes only if U officials needed to be on job, ct held S.Ct's Campbell decision did not require different result; even if Campbell, in which S.Ct held veterans' retention of seniority under Selective Service Act did not invalidate superseniority of U officials over veterans during layoff, had been decided under NLRA, Gulton decision would not be inconsistent with Campbell since no reason existed to believe U officials therein did not meet Gulton's on job criteria)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers — 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(ct held Bd's superseniority line of cases proceed from premise that superseniority encourages workers to be good U members so that they might increase their chances of being selected for positions afforded superseniority; such premise, drawn from Bd's experience in labor relations, is reasonable and therefore should not be rejected by reviewing ct; nor does reasonableness of premise depend on whether U officials afforded superseniority are appointed by U hierarchy or are elected by U members)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers — 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(superseniority accorded U's recording secretary for layoff purposes held not justified under Gulton where secretary had neither significant representational nor contract administration duties requiring her presence in workplace; her duties were essentially clerical outside plant; and her maintenance of plant bulletin board took relatively little time and could be accomplished with only minor inconvenience of occasional trip to plant)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers — 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(superseniority accorded sergeant-at-arms held not justified under Gulton where his duties involved only regulating U meetings and did not entail representational or contract administration duties at or away from plant; nor did his position on U fair practices committee justify grant of superseniority since it was awarded not because of that position but because of his status as U official; Bd could plainly find that his layoff would not seriously interfere with his duties as executive board member)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers — 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers — 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)

(Ees did not waive right to challenge clause providing U officials with superseniority for puposes of layoff since, unlike economic rights which are subject to waiver, right at issue herein is one in which U and Ee interests are likely to conflict; under Gulton superseniority presumably encourages Ees to support U so as to increase their chances of attaining U office and greater job security; on the other hand, Ees have right not to be coerced into supporting incumbent U and, since superseniority encourages such support, Ees' ability to select representative no longer remains free)

N.L.R.B. v. Wayne Transportation, A Division of Wayne Corporation, and Auto Workers, UAW Local 721 — 776 F.2d 745 (C.A. 7, Nov. 1985)

[grant of superseniority to U officer who performed steward-like duty on intermittent occasions as substitute, but whose primary duty did not involve performance of steward-like duties or on-the-job contract administration functions, violative]

5034-6760 Motive determinative

Garrett Railroad Car & Equipment, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 151
(recalling Ee (economic striker) out of seniority after strike's end, violative, since such treatment of Ee was disprate. E's action was not shown to be for some legitimate business reason or purpose and assessed in background of E's ULPs was inherently destructive of Ee Section 7 rights. Record provided sufficient evidence of E's singling out Ee striker who wanted to abandon strike (E had learned) and rendered this Ee-striker favorable disparate treatment some 3 weeks after strike ended)

N.L.R.B. v. Harrison Ready Mix Concrete, Inc. 770 F.2d 78 (C.A. 6, Aug. 1985)
(placing strikers who abandoned strike below replacements and Ees who did not strike on seniority list, upon their reinstatement, not unlawful, since, in absence of specific and detailed findings by Bd of E's inherently destructive conduct, E neither intended nor caused any discrimination between strikers and nonstrikers or any destructive impact upon strike or U activity)

5034-6780 Not unlawful per se

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[no universal theory that E must follow seniority in recall of economic strikers. GC must establish existence of seniority recall rights by reference to collective-bargaining agreement or binding established past practice. However, even assuming either of above conditions proved, there must be alleged Sec. 8(a)(5) charge; otherwise, E free to devise new recall procedure as long as it is applied consistently. Here, all 8(a)(5) charges (unilateral changes) withdrawn; therefore, E did not violate Sec. 8(a)(3) by failing to recall strikers by seniority]

5040 REFUSAL TO PROMOTE

Products Unlimited Corp. 280 NLRB No. 041
[refusal to promote visible U adherent, unlawful, since for U activities rather than for absenteeism, where adherent had greater seniority, and directly related experience particularly supervisory which Ee selected lacked, and selected Ee had only marginally better attendance record when days on which U adherent was snowed in were considered as they were in regard to selectee, and Ee selected had recently been warned for use of abusive language]

The Evening News Association JD-24-86
[refusal to transfer and promote Ee to accomodate her desire to continue to work for her present supervisor when during reorganization he was transferred to new position, not unlawful, since refusal was for business reasons rather than for Ee's U activities, where another Ee had been performing duties of secretary to individual who held position to which Ee's supervisor being transferred; further, to accomodate Ee's desire would require redistribution of clerical responsibilities, and Ee had never previously applied for promotions that were available, nor been promised promotion]

5046 EVICTION FROM COMPANY HOUSING

Cassis Management Corp. 281 NLRB No. 174
[eviction of superintendent of E's apartment building from his rent-free apartment held not separate violation but merged into his unlawful discharge, where apartment was integral part of Ee's compensation, and its use, as incident of wages and benefits, was lost as result of unlawful discrimination; and such loss was to be compensated through usual backpay proceedings with restoration of his employment benefits]

5050 DEMOTION

Resistance Technology, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 117
[demotion and pay reduction of Ee group leader, violation where Ee had been U observer at election, received no warning concerning work, supervisor stated demotion was due to U activity, and E advanced no lawful reason]

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010

Tom Wignall, Jr. and Billie Williams d/b/a Lovilia Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 186
(reduction of Ee's position and job responsibilities from designation as temporary manager, not unlawful, even though Ee's U sympathies were motivating factor for E's action, where E would have reassigned Ee even absent protected conduct, since Ee admitted he wanted to return to former position because earnings as temporary manager were insufficient to justify extra responsibilities and risk of losing qualifying papers for former position; and Ee's wages did not increase as temporary manager, and he retained existing wage rate upon returning to former position)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(demoting leadman/foreman because of concern about his having a leadership role in facility after it went nonU violative where leadman had requested conference with E's president about what would happen after contract expired and had been observed meeting with U representatives in parking lot; exception that ALJ failed to apply Wright Line causation test overruled where E's unsupported claims of leadman's insubordination and lack of production failed to counter GC's prima facie case)

5053 TRANSFER

Baddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 084
[transferring U activist prior to election from position in which he had virtually unlimited access to all areas to position in which he was limited to one specific area, violation where E failed to adequately explain transfer to position in which Ee had no experience when experienced temporary Ees were available]

Baddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 084
[no violation by transferring Ee who began wearing U button one week before U election from unit near polling site where objective evidence and Ee's own evaluation did not demonstrate that position to which he was transferred involved more onerous conditions than prior position, and his allegations of harassment by new supervisor were not supported by record absent evidence that he was subjected to significantly closer supervision or stricter timekeeping than other unit Ees]

J & B Smith Company, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 057
[transferring only Ee who was passing out U cards to most onerous job in plant, violation, notwithstanding allegations of poor performance]

Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 039
[transfer of Ee, active participant in dissident U group, to less desirable time and work site, not violative since there was no substantive evidence to explain why E would chose to discriminate against Ee at time of transfer, as Ee had been engaging in his dissident activities for about 5 years w/o recrimination. Ee an experienced inspector, replaced inexperienced inspector on transfer]

La Reina, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 103
[transferring Ee to graveyard shift in retaliation for initiating U activities in plant, violation]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175
[where E closed production plant and reopened new plant 175 miles away, E need not offer economic strikers who were unlawfully denied reinstatement at old plant positions at new plant since transfer of Ees from old to new plant not guaranteed but rather all interested Ees were required submit applications to be considered for employment at new plant]

The Meadows East Inc. 275 NLRB No. 181
(no violation by transferring Ees to day shift to provide closer supervision of their activities after investigation confirmed that they slept and played cards on night shift and otherwise contributed to shift's morale problems; E was not even aware of their U activities at that time)

Chicago Rivet & Machine Co. 275 NLRB No. 178
(transferring leading U adherent from second to first shift resulting in his loss of second shift premium and placing him in position such that he might be forced to choose between his job and his farm, violative where it was of no economic benefit to E but retaliation for Ee's U activities)

Florsheim Shoe Shops, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 015
(transfer of shoe salesman and shop steward to less desirable sales location, violative where E failed to rebut GC's prima facie case of unlawful motivation; Bd found that statistics E stated it used in deciding to transfer Ee covered time period after it made its decision)

Pacific Bell JD-(SF)-113-86
[transfer of Ee, allegedly because of her good faith attempts to invoke seniority provisions of contract, not unlawful, since Ee was not engaged in concerted activity because she was not in unit covered by contract she was invoking, and because invocation of contract by her as non-unit Ee was not integrally related to collective action]

5056 LOCKOUT

5056-0100 Generally

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[E's lock out of Ees held not equivalent to layoff since shutdown of plant for lack of profitable work cannot be equated to lockout which is used to bring economic pressure to bear in support of E's bargaining position; thus, layoff has economic purpose whereas lockout has strategic objectives in bargaining]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[in finding E's use of temporary Ees during lawful lockout not violative, Bd held it lacks authority to function as arbiter of sort of economic weapons parties can use in making bargaining demands since S.Ct has defined E's conduct as less than inherently destructive and has recognized legitimacy of business justifications involved, thereby striking fixed balance in favor of permitting use of temporary Ees after lawful lockout and limiting Bd's use of qualitative balance test to exceptional cases involving conduct inherently destructive of Ee rights]

5056-0175 Employer's motivation or intention

National Gypsum Company, Inc. Gold Bond Building Products Division 281 NLRB No. 096
[E did not violate Sections 8(a)(3) and (1), absent specific proof of anti-U motivation, where it used temporary Ees in order to engage in business operations during lawful lockout initiated for purpose of bringing pressure to bear in support of legitimate bargaining position]

Transportation By La Mar, Inc., Ready Transportation Co., Inc., La Mar Googer and Jerome Butler 281 NLRB No. 079
[E's hiring temporary replacements after it had lawfully locked out its U-represented Ees, lawful, where absent specific proof of anti-U motivation it acted for legitimate business purpose of fulfilling customers' orders]

B-Bar-B, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 036
[E's hiring temporary replacements after it had lawfully locked out its U-represented Ees, lawful, where, absent specific proof of anti-U motivation, it acted for legitimate business purpose of fulfilling customers' orders]

Georgia-Pacific Corporation, Crossett Division 281 NLRB No. 002
[E continuing production during lawful lockout in face of impending strike with non-unit temporary replacements, not unlawful, since intended to bring pressure to bear in support of legitimate bargaining position, in view of economic justification for continuing operations, and absent U animus or tendency to discourage U membership]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[in finding E's use of temporary Ees during lawful lockout not violative, Bd held use of temporary Ees had only comparatively slight effort on Ee rights, and E's effort to remain in operation after lawful lockout was not inherently destructive nor per se violation of Act w/o inquiry into E's motivation; fact that E was protagonist in locking out Ees did not warrant inferring any greater impact on Ee rights from subsequent use of temporary Ees; and distinction as to effects between lawful offensive and defensive economic weaponry no longer exists]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[Bd held hiring of temporary Ees in order to operate business during lawful lockout to bring economic pressure in support of legitimate bargaining position, not unlawful, where use of temporary Ees (1) is measure reasonably adapted to achievement of legitimate E interest, and (2) has only comparatively slight adverse effect on protected Ee rights; and Bd need not require more proof of E's legitimate purpose nor engage in balancing E interests against Ee rights to find violation, even absent independent proof of unlawful E motivation; Inland Trucking Co., 179 NLRB 350, overruled]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[E's use of temporary Ees during lawful lockout, not violative, where E's conduct had comparatively slight effect on Ee rights, and E presented evidence of legitimate and substantial business justification; E does not violate 8(a)(3) and (1) absent specific proof of anti-U motivation by using temporary Ees in order to engage in business during lawful lockout, including lockout instigated for sole purpose of bringing economic pressure to bear in support of legitimate bargaining position; Inland Trucking Co., 179 NLRB 350, overruled]

5056-1233 Own nonunit personnel

Georgia-Pacific Corporation, Crossett Division 281 NLRB No. 002
[E continuing production during lawful lockout in face of impending strike with non-unit temporary replacements, not unlawful, since intended to bring pressure to bear in support of legitimate bargaining position, in view of economic justification for continuing operations, and absent U animus or tendency to discourage U membership]

5056-1267 Newly hired temporary employees

National Gypsum Company, Inc. Gold Bond Building Products Division 281 NLRB No. 096
[E did not violate Sections 8(a)(3) and (1), absent specific proof of anti-U motivation, where it used temporary Ees in order to engage in business operations during lawful lockout initiated for purpose of bringing pressure to bear in support of legitimate bargaining position]

Transportation By La Mar, Inc., Ready Transportation Co., Inc., La Mar Googer and Jerome Butler 281 NLRB No. 079

[E's hiring temporary replacements after it had lawfully locked out its U-represented Ees, lawful, where, absent specific proof of anti-U motivation, it acted for legitimate business purpose of fulfilling customers' orders]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[in finding E's use of temporary Ees during lawful lockout not violative, Bd held use of temporary Ees reasonably served precisely same purpose served by lockout of bringing economic pressure to bear in support of legitimate bargaining position; exercising right to lockout in bargaining dispute does not necessitate foregoing option to secure business earnings any more than exercising right to strike requires Ees to forego attempts to secure income by temporary alternative employment, strike benfits, or unemployment compensation]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[in finding E's use of temporary Ees during lawful lockout not violative, Bd held use of temporary Ees had only comparatively slight effort on Ee rights, and E's effort to remain in operation after lawful lockout was not inherently destructive nor per se violation of Act w/o inquiry into E's motivation; fact that E was protagonist in locking out Ees did not warrant inferring any greater impact on Ee rights from subsequent use of temporary Ees; and distinction as to effects between lawful offensive and defensive economic weaponry no longer exists]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[in finding E's use of temporary Ees during lawful lockout not violative, Bd considered impact of lockout and use of temporary Ees on lockout Ees' right to bargain collectively, right to strike, and right to belong to U and held that, in every instance, use of temporary Ees meant no threat to permanent Ee status of locked out Ees since U and individual members were able to relieve their adversity by accepting E's less favorable terms and returning to work]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[Bd held hiring of temporary Ees in order to operate business during lawful lockout to bring economic pressure in support of legitimate bargaining position, not unlawful, where use of temporary Ees (1) is measure reasonably adapted to achievement of legitimate E interest, and (2) has only comparatively slight adverse effect on protected Ee rights; and Bd need not require more proof of E's legitimate purpose nor engage in balancing E interests against Ee rights to find violation, even absent independent proof of unlawful E motivation; Inland Trucking Co., 179 NLRB 350, overruled]

5056-1600 In support of legitimate bargaining position

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[lockout of Ees in order to further E's bargaining position after reaching impasse in contract negotiations with U held not equivalent to layoff and, consequently, denial of pension withdrawal benefits to Ees throughout lockout period held not unlawful, since retirement plan, providing for pension withdrawal rights to Ees laid off temporarily for lack of work, did not include locked out Ees]

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[E's lock out of Ees held not equivalent to layoff since shutdown of plant for lack of profitable work cannot be equated to lockout which is used to bring economic pressure to bear in support of E's bargaining position; thus, layoff has economic purpose whereas lockout has strategic objectives in bargaining]

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[denial of pension withdrawal benefits during period of scheduled 2-week holiday layoff which was cancelled because lockout occurred contemporaneously with scheduled layoff, not unlawful, where E viewed lockout from its inception as being of indefinite duration; and timing of lockout first working day after U rejected E's latest contract proposal raised inference that purpose of lockout was to place economic pressure on U to accept E's bargaining position and not to overlap with prescheduled layoff so as to deprive Ees of benefits to which they otherwise would have been entitled]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[in finding E's use of temporary Ees during lawful lockout not violative, Bd held use of temporary Ees reasonably served precisely same purpose served by lockout of bringing economic pressure to bear in support of legitimate bargaining position; exercising right to lockout in bargaining dispute does not necessitate foregoing option to secure business earnings any more than exercising right to strike requires Ees to forego attempts to secure income by temporary alternative employment, strike benfits, or unemployment compensation]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[Bd held hiring of temporary Ees in order to operate business during lawful lockout to bring economic pressure in support of legitimate bargaining position, not unlawful, where use of temporary Ees (1) is measure reasonably adapted to achievement of legitimate E interest, and (2) has only comparatively slight adverse effect on protected Ee rights; and Bd need not require more proof of E's legitimate purpose nor engage in balancing E interests against Ee rights to find violation, even absent independent proof of unlawful E motivation; Inland Trucking Co., 179 NLRB 350, overruled]

Harter Equipment, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 071
[E's use of temporary Ees during lawful lockout, not violative, where E's conduct had comparatively slight effect on Ee rights, and E presented evidence of legitimate and substantial business justification; E does not violate 8(a)(3) and (1) absent specific proof of anti-U motivation by using temporary Ees in order to engage in business during lawful lockout, including lockout instigated for sole purpose of bringing economic pressure to bear in support of legitimate bargaining position; Inland Trucking Co., 179 NLRB 350, overruled]

5056-2000 In support of legitimate business position

Transportation By La Mar, Inc., Ready Transportation Co., Inc., La Mar Googer and Jerome Butler 281 NLRB No. 079
[E's hiring temporary replacements after it had lawfully locked out its U-represented Ees, lawful, where absent specific proof of anti-U motivation it acted for legitimate business purpose of fulfilling customers' orders]

B-Bar-B, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 036
[E's hiring temporary replacements after it had lawfully locked out its U-represented Ees, lawful, where, absent specific proof of anti-U motivation, it acted for legitimate business purpose of fulfilling customers' orders]

5056-3200 Lockout limited to union members unlawful

Mattiace Petrochemical Company A Division of Mattiace Industries Inc., and Petro Chemical Haulers Co., Inc. JD-(NY)-34-86
[violation, where E, in absence of strike threat by U, locked out Ees who signed U authorization cards and accompanied U representative when demand for recognition was made, but permitted persons who did not support U to continue to work]

5059 SHUTDOWN OR TERMINATION OF OPERATIONS

Strawsine Manufacturing Co., Inc., et al. 280 NLRB No. 063
[E's closing of plant, termination of Ees and relocation in another state, assertedly because dire economic reasons compelled such decision, violative, since real reason was E's desire to rid itself of U where E's other plants were losing much more money than plant which was closed, E made no effort to sell plant after closure in order to improve economic condition and E otherwise misrepresented closing of plant to U and secretly relocated facility]

5059-3300 Partial termination

B & P Trucking, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 092
[shutting down trucking portion of operations and discharging all drivers, violation since reason was E's wish to avoid unionization, rather than trucking operation's lack of profitability]

Desota, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 114
[closing plant, laying off Ees, and transferring work to E's other facilities, not unlawfully discriminatory, where E's sole reason was economy and efficiency resulting from reduction of excess capacity and effect of chilling unionism at other plants was not readily foreseeable]

5059-5000 Resumption of operations

Inland Container Corporation 275 NLRB No. 60
(E held successor notwithstanding 2 1/2 month hiatus between closing of predecessor and commencement of successor E's operations, where hiatus may have been necessary at least inpart because of E's discriminatory hiring policies and plant renovations; however, renovations E made were insufficient to negotiate substantial continuity of employing enterprise as new machinery was introduced and work done did not alter machinery's fundamental character but was in nature of long overdue repairs)

5060 RELOCATION OF OPERATIONS

Strawsine Manufacturing Co., Inc., et al. 280 NLRB No. 063
[E's closing of plant, termination of Ees and relocation in another state, assertedly because dire economic reasons compelled such decision, violative, since real reason was E's desire to rid itself of U where E's other plants were losing much more money than plant which was closed, E made no effort to sell plant after closure in order to improve economic condition and E otherwise misrepresented closing of plant to U and secretly relocated facility]

Link Manufacturing Co. 281 NLRB No. 028
[suspension of Ee for failing to report for work, unlawful, where E knew or suspected Ee was leading U adherent whom E subjected to unlawful threats, interrogation, and promises; other Ees who missed work were not disciplined; E threatened and reproached Ee for defying E by voting in election; E's explanation that Ee's attitude changed considerably indicated discriminatory motive; and it was only after onset of U and Ee's voting in election that E found Ee's attendance record intolerable]

Local No. 980, Automobile Workers (Local 32, Office Employees) 280 NLRB No. 161
[U, in role as E, violated Act by suspending Ee for distributing leaflets which asked for U members' support in Ee's efforts to obtain contract]

Woodcliff Lake Hilton Inn, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 146
[E's suspending U advocate for 1 day, assertedly for playing guitar on duty and being absent from work station violation where E had condoned guitar playing in past, Ee was absent from work station on legitimate business, and E had not followed its own progressive disciplinary system]

Woodcliff Lake Hilton Inn, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 146
[E's suspending of known U supporter, assertedly for being late for work, violative where other Ees had not been suspended for some offense and E had not followed its own progressive disciplinary system]

La Reina, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 103
[strictly enforcing clothing rule and issuing written reprimand and one-day suspension for failure to comply on day after election, violation where rule had formerly been leniently enforced]

Hoechton Garment Company, A Subsidiary of Spencer Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 081
[suspending Ee for abusing leave of absence granted to care for sick child, violation, notwithstanding Ee was seen across street from plant observing handbilling during leave, in view of E's knowledge of Ee's U support, lack of precedent for disciplining leave violation, E's failure to discipline Ee for violating leave to return to plant to pick up paycheck or to establish that Ee obtained leave by false pretenses or acted inconsistently with caring for sick child, and E's motivation to discipline Ee on basis of complaints voiced by anti-U Ees]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[suspension and discharge of Ee-driver, assertedly for failure to make deliveries to customer who complained to E, and for Ee's attitude and intrusive behavior at customer's location, unlawful, where E was known outstanding U advocate and leader of Ees; asserted misconduct by Ee consisted of single day's conduct over 8-year exemplary work history; E was partly responsible for Ee's reaction at customer's location because of faulty loading and failure to support Ee at the time; and past discharges for misconduct required history of poor attitude or conduct of aggravated nature]

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154
[three-day suspension of U adherent, not violation, notwithstanding it was overdue and did not occur until Ee wore U T-shirt to work, where it was pursuant to E's attendance-control policy, which was nondiscriminatorily enforced, and Ee's U adherence was well known before he wore U T-shirt]

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 007
[three-day suspension of U activist for failing to complete assigned duties, not violation, where it was pursuant to E's threat to discipline Ee on receipt of fifth warning]

Alamo Cement company 277 NLRB No. 108
(suspension of Ee for violating unlawful no-solicitation, no distribution rule, unlawful)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(suspension of Ee at end of meeting with E who had called Ee into his office for purpose of delivering disciplinary writeup concerning her poor attendance, not unlawful, where suspension was in response to Ee's insubordinate conduct during meeting, which led to E's exasperated decision to suspend Ee pending consultation with higher authority on what next step to take)

Comfort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(suspension of U supporter for excessive absenteeism and tardiness, justified and lawful)

The Mead Corporation-Publishing Paper Division-Escanaba 275 NLRB No. 052
(3-day suspension of U steward for insubordination in refusing to comply with E's forceover order to continue working additional shift in order to make emergency repairs on machine, lawful, since, contrary to ALJ, Bd found his refusal to work overtime was unprotected insubordination legitimately subject to discipline; further, there was no proof of anti-U discrimination and E had legitimate need to force Ees to perform emergency repair work)

University of Richmond 274 NLRB No. 182
(suspending known U leader three days, not violative, since Ee would have been suspended for absence from her work station w/o permission during busiest part of her workday and for her loud and abusive behavior during and after the resulting interview by E regardless of her U activities)

Taft Broadcasting Company, WBRC–TV 274 NLRB No. 038
(suspension of U's business manager for questioning right of E to polygraph members of bargaining unit concerning problem of property destruction and questioning whether others including representatives of E might also have had access to property and motive for destroying it, violative)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(in finding no violation where E imposed more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, Bd considered S.Ct's Metropolitan Edison decision from standpoint of U's waiver of U officials' Sec. 7 rights to extent they have affirmative duty to prevent illegal work stoppages, U's lawful bargaining away of statutory protection accorded U officials, insufficiency of general no-strike clause to constitute waiver, relevance of arbitration decisions in establishing waiver, and establishment of waiver by circumstances surrounding bargaining relationship as well as by language of agreement itself)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(in finding E's disparate disciplinary suspension of U stewards for violating no-strike provision requiring U to disavow publicly unlawful strike and take affirmative action to end strike not unlawful, Bd held nothing in S.Ct's Metropolitan Edison decision indicates requirement for specificity with reqard to naming of U officials as opposed to specificity requirement regarding what affirmative action can be expected of U to end unlawful strike; and in Metropolitan Edison unlike here, no-strike clause was merely general clause imposing no obligation on U, and U officials took conscientious steps to end walkout)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(in finding no violation where E imposed more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, Bd held that, with regard to specificity requirement for naming of U officials as opposed to specificity regarding what affirmative action can be expected of U in event of unlawful strike, it has long been established that U, like an E, acts through its agents and it would be radical departure from longstanding precedent to hold that U's contractual or other obligations must be explicitly designated as responsibility of specified officials or agents)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(imposition of disparate disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, not unlawful, where U assumed duty to prevent unlawful strikes and thereby waived steward's statutory rights; while S.Ct in Metropolitan Edison found affirmative action cannot be required unless such requirement is bargained for, it merely held general no-strike clause was not enough to constitute waiver and left open what contractual language would suffice; here, contract unequivocally imposed duty to end unlawful strike, and stewards did not fulfill their contractual obligations even under most narrow construction of contract)

Wells Fargo Armored Service Corp. JD-(SF)-19-86
[suspending Ee two business days after E received U request that Ees at location in question be considered accretion to existing unit and notice that Ee was U steward and U executive committee member, violation where E's contention that Ee misappropriated and copied three confidential company documents was unsupported by evidence; second suspension, immediately afterwards, for failure to comply with E's no-beard policy, violation where E had let Ee work for three months w/o complying]

Sue-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86
[suspending Ee, violation where it was due to Ee's publicizing E's alleged ULPs and labor relations in newspaper article rather than his allegedly threatening and abusive manner toward E]

Sue-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86
[suspending waiter two weeks for failure to appear at breakfast, lawful where Ee admittedly violated long standing company rule]

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibralter Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
]suspension of Ee employed as delivery driver and acting as shop steward, not unlawful, notwithstanding E's U animus toward U generally and Ee specifically, where Ee, upon being advised by E of requirement for municipality's fitness to drive certificate, could have obtained certificate very same day suspension occurred; instead, Ee insisted on route change to which he was not entitled and chose to go to U; nor was Ee in any hurry to return to work in view of conflict between his job herein and with another E, and his delay in reporting to work after obtaining certificate)

Local Union 1392, Electrical Workers v. N.L.R.B. (Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.) 786 F.2d 733 (C.A. 6, Mar. 1986)
[where E imposing more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, not unlawful where contractual language showed U intent for its officials to attempt to prevent unauthorized work stoppages, and this language constituted clear and unmistakable waiver of officials right to be free from selective discipline]

5065 TERMINATION OF INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR EMPLOYMENT

La Salle Investment Co., Ltd., d/b/a Cafe La Salle 280 NLRB No. 043
[contention that termination of independent contractor performing janitorial services in building of one of respondent Es herein was so related to his status as Ee of another respondent E that there was violation of 8(a)(3), rejected, where termination resulted from Ee's loss of keys to building he was servicing, which was characterized as last straw precipitating termination of his janitorial services; Senfiner Volkswagon, 273 NLRB No. 24, inapplicable]

5067 LAYOFF

Desota, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 114
[closing plant, laying off Ees, and transferring work to E's other facilities, not unlawfully discriminatory, where E's sole reason was economy and efficiency resulting from reduction of excess capacity and effect of chilling unionism at other plants was not readily foreseeable]

5067-0100 Generally

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[E's lock out of Ees held not equivalent to layoff since shutdown of plant for lack of profitable work cannot be equated to lockout which is used to bring economic pressure to bear in support of E's bargaining position; thus, layoff has economic purpose whereas lockout has strategic objectives in bargaining]

5067-0500 For not being union member

M. W. Kellogg Constructors, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 134
(laying off travelers, violative where they were selected because they were not members of local U as shown by E's informing some Ees that E was laying off travelers because of local U's policy; fact GC did not show supervisory satisfaction with some travelers and fact they were plumbers doing pipefitting work did not render layoffs of some travelers lawful where they had worked for E some months w/o termination for cause, and E did not testify as to why they were laid off and did not distinguish plumbers from pipefitters in layoff selections)

King Kullen Grocery Co., Inc. JD-NY-35-85
(no unlawful layoff of Ee because he was not member of and referred by U, as alleged, where under contract E could hire Ees off the street after U failed to supply job applicant w/i forty-eight hours of receiving notice of job opening, E knew when it hired Ee that he was not member of or referred by U, and Ee was still on probabtion and could be discharged for any reason)

5067-1200 For union or other protected activity

Northwind Maintenance and Painting Co., Inc. 281 NLRB No. 048
[laying off two crews of Ees immediately after learning of involvement with U, failing to recall crew whose members had signed U authorization cards, and replacing them with new hires, violation]

Link Manufacturing Co. 281 NLRB No. 028
[layoff of Ees, several of whom had signed U cards and engaged in U activities, held unlawful w/o regard to specific knowledge on E's part of pro-U activities of particular Ees, where E, upon being apprised of filing of election ptn, effected layoffs in order to purge itself of possible U supporters, thereby reacting to advent of U in nature of power display]

Wilco Business Forms, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 154
[sudden layoff of U adherent w/o prior notice followed by General Manager's comment, when U adherent was laid off, I guess you can see through that, violative, since evidence supported inference that protected U organizing activities of Ees was motivating factor in E's decision to lay off Ee]

Resistance Technology, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 117
[mass layoff of Ees violative in view of U animus, E's prior assurance that there would be no layoffs, suddenness and timing of layoffs, and failure of E to prove its contention that layoffs were economically necessary, where nature and level of work remained unchanged, E instituted overtime following layoffs, and E recalled substantially all laid-off Ees after U lost election]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[laying off U activists for U activities and testifying at Bd hearing, violation]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[permanently laying off all unit members who had signed U authorization cards, violation]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[U supporter on sick leave w/o E's objection not voluntary quit where she was negotiating with E for protection against fellow Ee when permanently laid off by E; also, E had previously constructively discharged her by subjecting her to intolerable working conditions where a fellow Ee had so threatened her that she had to call security guard and police]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[permanent layoff of U supporter, violation notwithstanding fact he was returned to same job when he accepted telegraphic job offer E made three days later for different job at minimum wage; whether he missed any work days due to layoff was unknown]

G.M. Trimming, Inc., et al., Debtor-In-Possession, and George Marks 279 NLRB No. 121
[supervisor ordering Ee to punch out when Ee announced he would attend U meeting, informing Ee I don't like you. I don't want you here no more constituted unlawful layoff]

La Reina, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 103
[selecting U supporters for layoff and refusing to recall them when hiring new Ees, violation]

Star Color Plate Service, Division of Einhorn Enterprises, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 082
[layoff of two Ees, assertedly because of slack work caused by machine breakdown, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were laid off immediately after E received R ptn, E knew Ees were active U supporters, layoff was precipitous and E had never before laid off Ees when a machine had broken down]

Beckley Belt Service, Inc., d/b/a Beckley Belt Services & Roofing Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 066
[laying off Ees who complained to management about use of non-U labor to perform unit work while unit members were not working and followed up complaint with grievance, because of alleged reorganization, violation]

T & T Machine Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 139
[sending U supporter home for alleged lack of work rather than, as previously, giving him temporary assignments such as grass cutting or car washing at no reduction in pay, but offering to retain Ee if he changed sides, unlawful]

Dayton Auto Electric, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 080
[layoff of Ees unlawful, notwithstanding decrease in sales and repeated entreaties from its bankers and accountant for E to reduce work force, where E did little to reduce work force until U entered picture, despite high turnover which would have allowed E to reduce work force by attrition]

Quality Aluminum Products, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 049
[layoff of Ees for signing and passing out U cards, attending U meeting, and wearing U buttons, violation]

Studio S.J.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126
(layoff of at least 4 Ees in order to rid E of remaining U organizer, violative)

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(layoff of Ee unlawful and held to be constructive discharge, since for U activites, where E after the fact attempted to capitalize on Ee's wife's illness to state on layoff slip voluntary quit to care for wife, in order to preclude any obligation to recall Ee, E had previously made disparaging remarks about U and hired new Ees rather than recall Ee)

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(layoff of U adherent, unlawful, since for his U advocacy rather than for lack of work or Bd's work deficiencies, where several weeks of work remained on project where Ee was working, newly hired Ees were retained in preference to Ee, and Ee was once recalled to same job where alleged work deficiences justifying his layoff were noted)

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(layoff of U adherent out of seniority contrary to company policy, unlawful)

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(accelerated layoff of Ees before date on which layoff was scheduled, not unlawful, where E was face-to-face with immediate cessation of cash flow on date of layoff which was motivated by legetimate business judgement to immediately curtail future payroll obligations and operational expenses during cash flow crisis)

Upcilt, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 065
(layoff and failure to recall Ees who posted U posters and discussed U organization, unlawful, since for their U activities, notwithstanding E's contention action was because of attendance records, where E failed to show attendance or work deficiencies of some Ees laid off, Ees were not told at time of layoff they were selected for layoff because of attendance problems, and new Ees were hired immediately after layoffs)

Superior Container, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 055
(layoff of Ees assertedly for economic reasons, unlawful, since E failed to show it would have terminated Ees in absence of their U activities, where E's economic justification for layoff was pretext in view of fact that remaining work force worked overtime shortly after layoff and E then hired new Ees w/o first recalling terminated Ees; E testified that savings were not important in his decision, and that he did not follow prior practice; and E contradicted himself in explaining overtime)

Limpert Brothers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 037
(layoff of Ees, assertedly because of slack work and business losses, violative, where Ees were laid off only one day after E obtained knowledge of U activity, E informed several Ees that reason for layoff was U activity and layoff was precipitous, occurring w/o any warning to Ees)

Webb Furniture Enterprises, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 180
(layoff of Ee who had singed U literature twice, unlawful, notwithstanding he was one among many Ees who signed U literature. E's contention layoff was because of his absenteeism, rejected, where another Ee who did not sign U literature and who had higher absenteeism record than Ee was retained, and in view of E's knowledge of Ee's U activities, and its U animus)

Webb Furniture Enterprises, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 180
(E's contention that layoff of Ee was for absenteeism and lack of versatility in job performance, rather than for his U activities, rejected, and layoff held unlawful, notwithstanding Ee had second worse absenteeism in his department, absent evidence retained Ees alleged to be more versatile than laid off Ee were in fact more versatile, or that E relied on their relative abilities in retaining them over Ee)

John J. Hudson, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 123
(layoff of three Ees who had signed U authorization cards, not violative, notwithstanding it occurred three days after supervisor informed manager of Ees' organizing efforts and one day after supervisor told Ee who was wearing U button that Ees were killing themselves by trying to organize, since layoff was according to seniority, U had not filed one grievance or ULP charge in twenty-seven years it had represented E's Ees at another facility, and supervisor's statement did not establish requisite U animus where it was made after manager responsible for labor relations at both facilities had told supervisor to lay Ees off)

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of Ees, who had been active in replacing U steward, for poor workmanship and because some of Ees were troublemakers, not unlawful, notwithstanding that layoff occurred after E's superintendent met with Ees, since each of critical aspects of meeting was susceptible to two different meanings, one lawful and other unlawful, and record taken as whole gave insufficient basis for Bd to choose unlawful meaning over lawful meaning)

Aluminum Technical Extrusions, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 199
(permanent layoff of Ees, assertedly because E had lost a major customer violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were laid off w/i hours after E learned of their U activity, layoff procedure was departure from E's past practice, E replaced Ees w/i a week after the layoff and failed to provide any documentation or corroboration in support of its business defense)

Redway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer 274 NLRB No. 198
(U's requesting Ee to lay off Ee because of his activities on behalf of rival U, and E's compliance with U's request, unlawful, where Ee would not have been laid off but for U's request)

Electrical Workers, Local Union No. 596 (Lylloth G. Woodall, an Individual) 274 NLRB No. 196
(permanently laying off U adherent not violative, where she would have been laid off even in absence of her protected activities, which included filing of ULP charges, in view of Ee writing check for vacation pay in gross amount w/o deductions and not including vacation pay in W-2 form which placed E in noncompliance with regulations of taxing and regulatory agents)

I. A. R. Electric, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 099
(E's layoff of Ee, assertedly because of Ee's efforts to compel foreman to enforce contract terms for benefit of Ees on job, not violative where layoff was result of bona fide reduction in force)

Trans Tech Electric, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 089
(violation where E laid Ee off for concerted activity of complaining that certain work should be done by members of his and his fellow Ees' U and for putting pressure on E by getting the U involved in the matter)

Thompson's Gas, Inc. and Del-Ro Transports, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 092
(intermittent layoffs, assertedly for lack of work, of Ee who had joined U, filed ULP charges, and cooperated in prosecution of U's ULP charges, not unlawful, where layoffs occurred during seasonal summer decline in business and E's strained financial condition; fact that E was not laid off in past summers was not significant because of change in Ee's work status since then)

C. M. Carpenter, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Carpenter Trucking 274 NLRB No. 046
(layoff of U adherent who was leader in organization drive and who was to be U steward, lawful, notwithstanding E's animus against U adherent, where at time he was laid off adherent had worked only 5 days in 2 weeks, there was lack of business, and in view of fact adherent was next to bottom of seniority list, and E's policy in case of layoff was that Ees last hired were first to go)

Pittsburgh Coal Works 274 NLRB No. 011
(layoff of most active U supporters, assertedly for economic reasons, violative where E hired new Ee instead of recalling fully qualified U supporter, when laying Ees off, E followed neither seniority nor ability and qualifications of Ees; one result of layoffs, transfers, and recalls was that all known anti-U Ees were retained but all of most active U organizers were eliminated; in absence of discriminatory motivation E would not have laid off any Ees)

Ausable Communications, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 166
(cable TV company's subcontracting construction work and laying off Ees, unlawful, since in retaliation for U activity, rather than as result of E's policy against performing construction work with its own Ees, where E had known its Ees were engaged in construction work, and in view of precipitous nature of layoffs)

Safety & Security Systems, Inc. JD-(SF)-85-86
[laying off U leader, violation, notwithstanding E's economic problems, where Ees with less ability and seniority were retained, E had committed ULPs against other U adherents, and management had specific plan to discriminate against U adherents]

Youngstown Hospitality Co., d/b/a Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge JD-3-86
[layoff of all Ees who attended U meetings violation, where general manager observed Ees attending meetings, evidence did not show layoffs were economically necessary, and E hired new Ees after layoffs w/o offering full reinstatement to laid off Ees]

SFTT The Santa Fe Trail Transportation Company/ BN transport JD-377-85
[laying off Ees in reprisal for strikes at E's other facilities, violation]

Gallati Cartage of Michigan, Inc. JD-311-85
(laying off Ee when he refused to sign either form consenting to reduction in his wage rate and benefits, or form consenting to his layoff w/o regard to his seniority rights, violative where he refused to sign either form because of his belief that by signing forms he would be relinquishing his rights under bargaining contract)

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibralter Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(inclusion of U adherents in layoff during normal seasonal layoffs, assertedly contrary to seniority practices in past when Ees herein were retained, not unlawful, notwithstanding E's U animus and suspicious timing of layoffs shortly after election, where lesser seniority of retained Ee had little significance under circumstances herein; recall of less senior Ees before recalling Ees herein was based on past practice; and acceptance of GC's argument against E's reasons for recalling Ees other than Ees herein would require ALJ and Bd to improperly substitute their judgment for management's)

Dawson Carbide Industries, Inc. 782 F.2d 64 (C.A. 6, Jan. 1986)

[layoff of Ee because of grievance he filed and U representaive's prosecution thereof, unlawful, as was layoff of another Ee in retaliation for U representative's efforts on behalf of grieving Ee]

Beckley Belt Service, Inc., d/b/a Beckley Belt Services & Roofing Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 066
[laying off Ees who complained to management about use of non-U labor to perform unit work while unit members were not working and followed up complaint with grievance, because of alleged reorganization, violation]

Emeryville Trucking, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 153
[truck lessor's causing layoff of drivers that it jointly employed with common carrier in retaliation for having to pay grievance award that was made pursuant to bargaining agreement between drivers' U and common carrier, violative]

Emeryville Trucking, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 153
[truck lessor's causing layoff of driver for his having aided other drivers in filing of grievances under bargaining agreement between U and its joint E common carrier, violative]

Dale Energy Corporation JD-202-85
(layoff of Ees by E who was debtor-in-possession unlawful, notwithstanding E's financial difficulties, since motivation for layoffs was to reach U committeeman who filed grievances, where E told U committeeman he had caused layoffs, and all Ees but committeeman recalled w/i week)

Coal Systems, Inc. and W. Julian Sealf Engineering & Construction Co., Inc. JD-452-84
(lay off of Ees by company, found alter ego of predecessor E herein, and its refusal to recall them because they had filed contractual grievances against predecessor E, violative)

5067-2500 To avoid dealing with union

Amateyus, Ltd., d/b/a Volk & Huxley, and Vulcan Typography Co. 280 NLRB No. 021
[E's layoff of Ees from business it was terminating unlawful where it immediately began new business, held to be alter ego of teminated business, and induced laid off Ees to become Ees of new company under non-U conditions]

Safelite, Division of Lear Siegler, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 080
(E's layoff of, refusal to transfer and refusal to recall 6 Ees to new plant located only a few miles from old plant, assertedly for reasons of operational efficiency, violative, since real reason was Ees' U affiliation where E attempted to mislead U representing Ees at old plant that there were no plans to open new plant, E made clear when it announced opening of new plant that it would be non-union and no U activity would be tolerated and after E laid off 6 Ees, it immediately hired 6 new inexperienced Ees for new plant)

P.J. Hamill Transfer Company, and Robert Blackwell, Trustee in Bankruptcy, alter ego and/or successor, and Brennan Express, Inc., alter egos 277 NLRB No. 39
(layoff of Ees, not unlawful, where layoff was result of E's cessation of operations after its bank account was garnisheed by U trust fund to satisfy judgment for E's failure to make contributions to fund; remarks of vice-president of E and its alleged alter ego to U's business agent that E had tried to do it U and it did not work, and now they were going to do it another way equivocal and insufficient to establish U animus)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(layoff of U adherents indefinitely with advice to file for unemployment compensation constituted unlawful discharge where E quickly recalled less senior Ees laid off at same time and its unsupported claim of U adherents' decline in production failed to counter prima facie showing that E was motivated by U adherents' concern with prospects for new U contract in face of E's statement it was going non-U and their pro-U orientation)

Purolator Armored, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 1423 (C.A. 7, July 1985)
(notwithstanding operation was losing money, E violated Act by terminating said operation as E was willing to absorb these losses until U won election which shows that economics was not foremost in E's decision, and as U elected as operation's representative was same as one that represented other E units and there was frequent interchange with Ees, the closure had chilling effect on unionism)

5067-3700 Discrimination in selection in economic lay-off

Delta Data Systems Corp. 279 NLRB No. 169

American Model & Pattern, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 018
(selecting two U supporters for layoff out of seniority, assertedly for economic reasons, violative, where E had past proactice of following seniority and reasons given for selecting these two Ees were shifting and contradictory)

Roskin Brothers, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 053
(E's selection of Ees for layoff who were all U card signers, assertedly because E was facing severe financial difficulties, violative, notwithstanding that E's proffered economic defense was not pretextual, since real reason was Ees' U activity where the day after E gained knowledge of who was involved with the U, 8 U card signers were laid off, two of the least senior Ees were not laid off and E's reasons about why certain Ees were selected for layoff were vague and tentative)

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) JD-18-86
[retaining pyrometer steward pursuant to U's invocation of superseniority clause of contract, not unlawfully discriminatory as to two Ees who were not allowed to bump steward from sole remaining pyrometer position but laid off, notwithstanding U's letter stating it did not intend to have steward granted superseniority to represent himself and lack of pyrometer Ees remaining on job for steward to represent, since U letter was not binding contract but statement of intent, and steward was required on job to protect unit work, police its assignment, and represent laid-off Ees' recall rights]

Acar Machine & Tool Co., Inc. JD-240-85
(laying off chief U organizer who was senior to retained Ee contrary to past practice, violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Association, et al. 751 F.2d 1571 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)
(laying off returning strikers shortly after their return under contract clause allowing E to lay off unqualified Ees, violative where Es' purpose was to retaliate against Ees for striking and to weaken U as shown by Es' choosing strikers for layoff w/o consulting personnel records or investigating their past performance)

5067-5800 Of reinstated or still striking economic strikers

N.L.R.B. v. Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Association, et al. 751 F.2d 1571 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)

(laying off returning strikers shortly after their return under contract clause allowing E to lay off unqualified Ees, violative where Es' purpose was to retaliate against Ees for striking and to weaken U as shown by Es' choosing strikers for layoff w/o consulting personnel records or investigating their past performance)

5067-8300 Pursuant to union demand because of employees' lack of union membership

Dubose Masonry, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 125

[discharge of non-U bricklayers while U bricklayers were standing around at jobsite, violative, since GC presented prima facie case where evidence was sufficient to support inference that Ees lack of U membership was motivating factor in E's decision to terminate. E's assertion that non-U bricklayers were laid off because of decline in work at jobsite was unsupported]

Montgomery Elevator Company 278 NLRB No. 122

[E demoting and terminating Ee at U's request, unlawful, where for Ee's non-membership in U; contention Ee laid off since there were no helper positions available when he was returned to that status pursuant to agreement with U that Ees who failed mechanics test while working as mechanic with temporary permit be returned to helper status for 1 year, rejected, in view of disparate treatment of Ee and timing of termination soon after meeting of U's representative with E]

M. W. Kellogg Constructors, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 1435 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1986)

5073 DISCHARGE

5073 DISCHARGE

5073-0100 Generally

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86

[evidence developed in course of undercover investigation of Ees designed to develop facts to support discharges which would weaken U's strength among remaining workforce cannot be used to exonerate E from charge of unlawful discrimination]

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86

[even if E does not have specific knowledge of individual Ee's U activities but nevertheless discharges such Ees because other Ees engaged in U activities, discharge is unlawful since E violates Act where, notwithstanding actual conduct of Ee, it lays off such Ee because of belief or suspicion; moreover, where E engages in pattern of discriminatory conduct against Ee groups because many, even though not all, of them engaged in U activity, discrimination suffered by all Ees as result of E conduct is unlawful]

5073-1100 What constitutes discharge

5073-1101 Generally

Rapid Armored Truck Corp. 281 NLRB No. 057

[test for determining whether E's statement or actions constitute discharge depends upon whether they would reasonably lead Ees to believe that they had been discharged. Events must be viewed through Ee's eyes, in light of circumstances known to them at time]

Brenal Electric, Inc. JD-(NY)-21-84

[Ees discharged rather than quit, where they were informed by E after U's demand for recognition if they wanted to put him out of business they had succeeded. that he was closing his doors, but that Ees could stay until Friday, and after hearing these statements one Ee turned in his beeper and keys and walked out and other Ees followed; Ees could reasonably believe that they were discharged, especially where Ee who turned in beeper and keys had previously been asked by E to turn in tools and keys]

5073-1114 Constructive discharge

[Es' reporting of undocumented alien workers to INA in retaliation for their U activities after U won election held constructive discharge where such reporting was sole cause of INA investigation and workers' departure from country, and this result was foreseen by Es]

Alaska Cummins Services, Inc. d/b/a Groves Truck and Trailer 281 NLRB No. 161

[to establish constructive discharge, GC must prove two elements, first, that E imposed intolerable work conditions compelling the Ee to leave the job and second, that E imposed the conditions because of Ee's U activity; here, while E's threat to Ees that it expected to close shop was a threat violative of 8(a)(1), it does not rise to the level of constituting intolerable working conditions regardless of Ee's insecurity since it is only a threat of some future action which may or may not be carried]

Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 125

[Ee who was U adherent, and leader of group of Ees at one of E's stores who went to E's headquarters to complain about new work schedule and what they asserted to be theft from store by manager, was unlawfully constructively discharged where during interview as to why he had taken other Ees to E's headquarters, Ee was told his brother had resigned, and that his opportunities for employment with other Es would be better if he resigned rather than be discharged and he would have been fired if he hadn't resigned]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056

[U supporter on sick leave w/o E's objection not voluntary quit where she was negotiating with E for protection against fellow Ee when permanently laid off by E; also, E had previously constructively discharged her by subjecting her to intolerable working conditions where a fellow Ee had so threatened her that she had to call security guard and police]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056

[changing U supporter's job from live on-air announcing to pushing buttons to play taped announcements and reducing his compensation found unlawful constructive discharge of him as announcer]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056

[refusing to communicate with U supporter and failing to put his sales talks on air as advertisements constituted unlawful constructive discharge from part-time sales job]

Rainbow Tours, Inc., d/b/a Rainbow Coaches 280 NLRB No. 017

[reinstatement to position with diminished hours, drop in income, less desirable assignments and less desirable equipment, held improper; no tolling of backpay, and inasmuch as these changes are directly attributable to his unlawful discharge, his quitting E's employ w/o having another job was not willful loss of earnings but is constructive discharge]

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073

[Ees who refused to go to work for company which had purchased E were unlawfully constructively discharged, where E had refused to bargain with U, declared it was going to go non-U, and Ees would lose benefits, since their employment conditioned on abandonment of their rights guaranteed by Act]

Woodline Motor Freight, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 152

[U adherent who resigned was constructively discharged, where he was offered full time employment at one of E's trucking facilities the closure of which was purportedly imminent, given warning, and finally offered employment at distant facility if he would redomicile at distant facility, and when he accepted and moved, received no dispatches whereas other drivers were given runs]

Olympic Limousine Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 133

[E's cancellation of second shift, assertedly for economic reasons, which decision had effect of forcing main U supporter to quit since he went to scho. . days, violative, where E had recently instituted second shift and had told Ees it was working well, there was no decline in E's business to justify decision and E had shown animus towards U supporter]

Studio S.J.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126

(causing changes in Ee's working conditions, including reduction in 25 percent of her work, putting her under constant surveillance, harassing her and telling her she could not talk with others about nonbusiness matters, thereby forcing her to resign, held constructive discharge and violative where burdens were imposed on Ee because of her U organizing activities)

Cascade Painting Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 103

(Ees held contructively discharged where they quit their jobs because Ea had announced that they were going to operate non-U, and Ees did not want to lose their U benefits; by declaring that they were going non-U, Ea forced Ees to either quit or forego further representation by U, and a choice of such character may not be validly imposed upon Ees)

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047

(layoff of Ee unlawful and held to be constructive discharge, since for U activites, where E after the fact attempted to capitalize on Ee's wife's illness to state on layoff slip voluntary quit to care for wife, in order to preclude any obligation to recall Ee, E had previously made disparaging remarks about U and hired new Ees rather than recall Ee)

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010

(Ee's refusal to accept reassignment that had been made undesirable by reducing his hours of work so that he chose to quit held constructive discharge and unlawful where E designed scheme in retribution for his having signed U card)

Bronx Metal Polishing Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 031

(reducing U activist's piecework rate of pay, and thus his earnings, so that he quit, violative as unlawful change in working conditions and as constructive discharge)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(known active U supporter who quit when her duties and hours of work were markedly changed held to have been unlawfully constructively discharged, where evidence established direct causal connection between discriminatory motivated changes in Ee's duties and hours and quitting of her employment; E engaged in systematic course of conduct punishing Ees because of their U activities and forcing Ees to quit; and this is expecially so, considering unlawful 8(a)(1) conduct by E clearly evidencing U animus)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(E unlawfully constructively discharged Ee by scheduling Ee for work, assertedly pursuant to new policy, when she was unable to do so, where policy was applied to Ee after she was specifically identified as U supporter; application of policy was inconsistent; E demonstrated animus toward Ees supporting U: and E's defense that it imposed same requirement as to all other Ees failed to rebut GC's prima facie case)

South Nassau Communities Hospital 274 NLRB No. 179
(no unlawful constructive discharge of U adherent but rather she resigned rather than be transferred after receiving unlawful warning, since transfer was due to personality conflict with supervisor and did not violate Act, nor did unlawful warning she received make circumstances so difficult as to force her resign)

South Nassau Communities Hospital 274 NLRB No. 179
]there are two elements necessary to establish constructive discharge: (1) burdens imposed on Ee must cause change in working conditions so difficult or unpleasant as to force him to resign, and (2) it must be shown that those burdens were imposed because of Ee's U activities)

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115
(no constructive discharge of Ee found where, although E had declared that he would force returning strikers to quit, neither government-required inspection of Ee's work nor effort to increase her productivity so that she could move on to more remunerative piece work constituted a change in working conditions so difficult or unpleasant as to force resignation of Ee)

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115
(threatening, abusing and physically assaulting returning striker and humiliating him by initiation of condition over which he had no control constituted unlawful constructive discharge)

David A. Morrow & Associates, Inc. and Ryan Electric, Inc., Alter Ego and/or Single Employer JD-380-85
[Ees held to have been unlawfully constructively discharged when they rejected offers of jobs which were conditioned on their acceptance of loss of contractual fringe benefits]

Wells Fargo Armored Service Corp. JD-(SF)-19-86
[violation where E showed intent to make employment relationship so unpleasant and intolerable that resignation was only reasonable response by twice suspending U activist, putting him on night shift, threatening to discharge him for failure to comply with no-beard policy and hiring new Ee to fill position for which fellow U activist was qualified]

Engineering Tube Specialties, Inc. JD-245-85
(Ee was constructively discharged where E refused to continue accomodating Ee's hours to needs of her children, after Ee had refused to solicit Ees to vote against U, thus resulting in Ee's resignation; E's business justification of increased business and need for hours different from her current hours, pretextual)

N.L.R.B. v. Auto Fast Freight, Inc. 793 F.2d 1126 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[giving Ees choice between resigning U membership and continuing to work so that they were forced to resign when they refused to relinquish U membership, violation]

5073-1117 Discharge for cause

Inner City Broadcasting Corporation 281 NLRB No. 162
[discharge of radio news announcer allegedly because she refused to sign Ee ptn which sought ouster of U, not unlawful, where discharge was part of E's response to decline in audience ratings, and E's discharge was for failure to improve her on-the-air performance]

Evans St. Clair, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 065
[discharging U leader for insubordination and threat of physical violence, not violation where threat was perceived as such by supervisor, relied on as discharge grounds, and was made w/o culpable provocation by supervisor, who had no obligation to withdraw from conversation with Ee about U meeting, and whose calling Ee boy was not so extreme as to excuse Ee's conduct]

Building Material & Dump Truck Drivers, Local Union No. 420, Teamsters (Mike Sullivan and Associates) 273 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of business agent not violative, even if he was discharged, in part, because of his refusal to accept reduced amount of backpay in prior Bd proceeding, where U demonstrated that business agent would have been discharged, in any event, because of his failure to properly carry out his assigned duties and responsibilities as business agent)

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, where there was no disparate application of concededly valid rule; and there were no other indicia of discriminatory intent)

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, where there was no disparate application of valid rule even though Ee had solicited for Ee dinner while on working time in sight of E's managers' where dinner was isolated event sponsored and promoted by E itself, E is free to utilize its Ees' paid time for whatever legal activity it chooses, and Ees are not entitled to use medium of communication simply because E is using it)

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, not withstanding contention that, if GC was permitted to demonstrate that management officials had themselves at various times used working time to distribute pro-company literature, such showing would entitle U's adherents to equal time, since Bd cases do not demonstrate existence of rule favoring or enforcing doctrine of equal time for U's)

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)
[discharge of U activist, not violation where as probationary Ee he had continuing unsatisfactory work performance]

5073-1128 Eviction from work by fellow employees

5073-1128-5000 Acquiescence by employer

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115
(violation by discriminatory discharge of returning ULP striker for not keeping low profile vis-a-vis other Ees, as directed, where nonstriker abused striker but was not even disciplined therefor)

5073-1142 Impression of discharge conveyed to employee and acquiesced in by employer equivalent to discharge

Rapid Armored Truck Corp. 281 NLRB No. 057
[E asking strikers, who entered E's premises to receive paychecks from previous week, to turn in their company identification cards and uniforms since viewed through eyes of Ees request had purpose of discharge; further it constituted discharge of all strikers, notwithstanding not all strikers were asked to turn in identification cards and uniforms, especially in view of E's prior threat of discharge]

5073-1156 Notice of termination to unreplaced economic strikers

Woodlawn Hospital 274 NLRB No. 123
(E's letter to U representing Ees on strike which informed U that Ees were discharged, held effective notice to Ees; contention that E must give actual notice to Ees themselves, rejected, since U was acting as agent of Ees; knowledge of discharge is imputed to Ees, where letter contained clear notice that strikers were discharged and where U asserted itself an agent of Ees by responding to letter on behalf of Ees as collective-bargaining agent; further, it is particularly appropriate in a strike situation, that a U be deemed to have broad authority to make and receive offers and proposals on behalf of strikers)

5073-1163 Notice of termination to employees in layoff status

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1–17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[terminating recall rights of Ees on layoff status at commencement of economic strike, pursuant to implementation of rule treating Ees after break in service as new Ees, unlawful, where laid off Ees included those who became economic strikers by manifesting their intent to join strike by engaging in picketing]

Link Manufacturing Co. 281 NLRB No. 028
[change of Ee layoffs from temporary to permanent held unlawful attempt to prevent their being eligible to vote in election and generally to discourage U activities, where E's evidence was not susceptible to any interpreation which would explain change in nature of layoffs; and only event that did

Link Manufacturing Co. 281 NLRB No. 028
[conversion of Ee's layoff from temporary to permanent, not unlawful, where evidence suggested he was terminated for fighting with fellow Ee for which he was treated no differently than non-U Ees involved in fights; GC never alleged that Ee's termination was unlawfully motivated, and the only notification to Ee showed he was permanently laid off; and, unlike unlawful change from temporary to permanent of other Ees' layoffs, there was no significant intervening U-related cause, such as E's receipt of election ptn, occurring between Ee's layoff and his termination]

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(termination of laid off Ees, unlawful where, contrary to E's assertion that Ees were in preferential pool to be hired when E's economic condition improved, E notified Ees that layoff was a permanent termination; and E's lack of logical explanation for terminating Ees, coupled with E's unlawful activity in opposing U's organizing effort, led to conclusion that termination was part of E's continuing effort to discourage Ee support for U and to dissipate its strength in unit)

5073-1170 Pretext

Carpenters Local 925; et al. (Charlene Seier, an Individual) 279 NLRB No. 145
[pretextual discharge cases should be viewed as those in which —defense of business justification is wholly w/o merit]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[finding of unlawful suspension and discharge of Ee supported by fact that E seized upon customer's complaint about Ee's failure to make delivery to rid itself of Ee who E knew would continue to be strong U advocate and spokesman on Ees' behalf; and, in order to build case against Ee, E disregarded Ee's effort to invoke grievance procedure which should have been available to him]

The Acme-Arsena Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 144
(discharge of U steward assertedly for various valid reasons, unlawful, where steward was never previously warned or disciplined for reasons E gave for discharging him, all of which were merely grossly exaggerated pretext advanced by E to conceal its unlawful motive of discharging steward for engaging in protected activity of complaining to E about work jurisdiction and safety matters)

Mobile Concrete, Inc. JD-453-84
(discharge of U adherent, assertedly because, contrary to instructions, he obtained his paycheck before end of workday on payday and continued to use personal radio in his truck after such use by plant drivers was banned, violative where E seized on minor insubordinations as pretext to sever pro-U Ee in circumstances in which it would not have severed neutral or anti-U Ee)

N.L.R.B. v. Bliss and Laughlin Steel Company, Inc. 754 F.2d 229 (C.A. 7, Feb. 1985)
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he refused to review and sign contract on behalf of E and thus was insubordinate, violative, since real reason was his U activity and testimony adverse to E at Bd hearing where E was trying to set up Ee by having him sign contract in an attempt to prove he was a supervisor and pretextual nature of E's action was shown by fact that after Ee refused to sign contract, E did not attempt to have any other employee perform any official act upon it)

5073-1184 Transfer to subcontractor

Handy Andy Associates, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 029
(discharge of Ees pursuant to E's decision to subcontract work, not violative where E demonstrated that sole basis for decision was predicated on economic or other legitimate business considerations)

5073-2200 For engaging in protected activity

The Lewis Grocer Company 282 NLRB No. 019
[discharge of driver Ee, who was U supporter, assertedly for filing ULP charge against E and his protected activities, not violative, where real reason was his DOT violations]

Local No. 980, Automobile Workers (Local 32, Office Employees) 280 NLRB No. 161
[U, in role as E, violated Act by discharging secretary for her statements quoted in newspaper article concerning her contract dispute with U and her suspension for protected activity, where article was generally factual and any inaccuracies were not malicious]

Heck's Inc. 280 NLRB No. 055
[discharging leading U organizer on whose behalf U had filed ULP charge with Bd, violation, notwithstanding she had been issued three written warnings for breach of company policy, where discharge was closely related in time to her U and Bd-related activities and E had shown animus against her by unlawfully transferring her to another job]

B & P Trucking, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 092
[shutting down trucking portion of operations and discharging all drivers, violation since reason was E's wish to avoid unionization, rather than trucking operation's lack of profitability]

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154
[discharging U adherent, violation notwithstanding his insubordination and falsification of employment application, since Ee was good worker, falsification had nothing to do with his discharge, and E had previously violated 8(a)(1)]

Sahara Datsun, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 148
[discharge of two U organizers same day E received U ptn for election signed by one of them, violation]

Port East Transfer, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 125
[discharge of Ee unlawful, where for writing pro-U graffiti on E's restroom wall since such writing protected. Discharge was for content of writing, and not for defacing E's property, inasmuch as it was common for Ees to write graffiti on restroom walls, no other Ee had been disciplined, and writings of discharged E were not so malicious, defamatory, or insubordinate as to lose protection of the Act]

Marion Steel Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 127
[discharging known in-plant leader of U drive for his bad attitude in verbally assaulting supervisor and management by asking supervisor if he wanted to sign U card and making vulgar comment about supervisor's going back to work if U came in, violation, since bad attitude was euphemism for pro-U activities in context of Ee's open pro-U activities in context of Ee's open pro-U activities, which had resulted in his being placed in isolated job under close supervision to prevent his discussing U with other Ees . . being warned to stop his U activities]

North Vernon Forge, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 106
[discharge of rehired probationary Ee because Ee complained about his job assignment to his supervisor and to U making him alleged unsatisfactory probationary Ee, held violative since attempts by Ee to enforce provisions of existing collective bargaining agreement, even though agreement was ambiguous as to Ee's rights, are protected concerted activity under Act, as long as Ee's interpretations of agreement had reasonable basis]

Lectromelt Casting and Machinery Company, A Division of Akron Standard Division, Eagle Picher Industries, Inc.; et al. 278 NLRB No. 102
[discharge of 3 U committeemen who participated in wildcat strike and appeared on picket line, violation, since E singled them out for disparate treatment because of their U office, where there was no evidence that they engaged in strike leadership activities, similarly situated Ees were not disciplined, and E knew that two of the committeemen had urged other Ees to return to work and unless E capitulated on grievance held not threatened to cause strike]

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 007
[discharging U activist for undercharging customer by falsifying meal ticket, not violation, since, even if U activities were a motive, E met its Wright Line burden where Ee failed to clarify any question about E's discontinuation of freebies, and supervisor making discharge decision lacked personal U animus, was not treating Ee disparately, as he was new on job, and was ignorant of Ee's identity when he started investigating matter]

Reeves Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 153
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for being in polling area at U election, violative since Ee had right to access to polling area and real reason for discharge was Ee's U sympathies and activities]

United States Postal Service 277 NLRB No. 156
(discharge of U activist, violation where supervisor, in consulting E's attorney about the discharge, discussed not only Ee's unprotected reporting of E's building code violations to city but also his statements that Ees were underpaid and he was unionizing them and E would not have discharged Ee for unprotected activity alone)

MacDonald Miller Company 277 NLRB No. 079
(discharge of Ee, allegedly for his U activities and U stewardship and interest in enforcing contractual term according his job higher wages, not violation, since E showed no U animus and acted in accordance with such contractual term in transferring Ee's job to other U members already making such higher wages, leaving Ee w/o a job and E w/o obligation to retain him)

Dave Castellino & Sons 277 NLRB No. 050
(termination of Ee for refusal to work in response to demonstrators' picket line at E's jobsite, unlawful, where Ee made common cause with protected activity of demonstrators, herein found to be statutory Ees, protesting against E's alleged failure to comply with statutory duty and contractual commitment to provide work force composed of 50 percent of area residents, and fact that ee's action was motivated by fear of personal bodily injury was irrelevant)

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(giving preference in hiring to applicant who was willing to accede to E's anti-U posture, where discharging all but one Ee who supported U w/i 6 months after election, unlawful, especially in view of E's other violations including creating impression of surveillance and interrogation)

United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 015
(E's discharge of U activist, based on good faith belief that he had engaged in unprotected act of defacing E's facility with obscene graffiti, not violative)

Park Manor Nursing Home, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 028
(E's discharge of U activist, assertedly for failing to obtain supervisory permission before leaving building, violative where real reason for discharge was her cooperation in investigation of U's charge in Bd case, her membership on U's negotiating committee, and her informing Bd that E was responsible for revocation ptn)

Malta Construction Company 276 NLRB No. 171
(discharging Ee for refusing to remove U insignia from his company hardhat, violative where E failed to establish any special circumstances based on legitimate production or safety reasons to justify prohibition)

Malta Construction Company 276 NLRB No. 171
(discharge of U advocate for interfering with other Ee's work, violative where E did not previously discipline him as it justifiably could have done as result of his known work habits but, rather, tolerated him as Ee until he talked U on job)

The Acme-Arsena Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 144
(discharge of Ee assertedly for his behavior while acting as U steward, unlawful, where E failed to show it would have discharged Ee in absence of his protected activity of complaining to E about work jurisdiction and safety matters; even assuming Ee's threat to contact IRS to investigate E's books was not connected to his U activity, E failed to show it would have discharged him for such threat alone; and Ee's discourteous behavior or use of obscene language during protected activity was not so egregious as to remove him from Act's protection)

The Acme-Arsena Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 144
(discharge of U steward assertedly for various valid reasons, unlawful, where steward was never previously warned or disciplined for reasons E gave for discharging him, all of which were merely grossly exaggerated pretext advanced by E to conceal its unlawful motive of discharging steward for engaging in protected activity of complaining to E about work jurisdiction and safety matters)

Garland Coal & Mining Co. 276 NLRB No. 102
(discharge of chairman of grievance and safety committees for insubordination for refusing to sign E's memorandum threatening discharge if committees' members interfered in any activity outside their own unit, unlawful, where chairman's conduct did not remove him from protection of Act, since his refusal to sign did not impede or disrupt productivity in any way; refusal took place in private and not in front of other Ees; authority of supervisors involved was not publicly undermined; and there was no claim official's conduct exceeded acceptable bounds of conduct)

Pioneer Hotel and Gambling Hall, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 072
(discharge of Ee, unlawful, where ALJ specifically discredited testimony of supervisor who effected discharge, and even assuming Ee's testimony was not credible, E failed to rebut GC's prima facie case which showed that Ee was a strong U activist, E had knowledge of Ee's activity and possessed U animus; and particularly noteworthy were statements by company officials that Ee's co-worker had been terminated for handing out U cards, and that any Ee who distributed or signed U card would be discharged)

Pioneer Hotel and Gambling Hall, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 072
(discharge of Ee active on behalf of U, unlawful, where supervisors admitted to Ee and to other Ees that Ee was fired for handing out U cards; such admissions established that E knew of Ee's U activity and that E harbored type of anti-U animus that would motivate it to discharge Ee, and also established causal connection between U activity and discharge; and E failed to adduce any evidence with regard to reason for discharge or to show that there was valid nondiscriminatory reason for discharge)

Gatliff Business Products, Inc. and RBD Service Corporation 276 NLRB No. 060
(discharging Ees for their disloyalty in participating in U activities and voting in U election, violative)

Gatliff Business Products, Inc. and RBD Service Corporation 276 NLRB No. 060
(discharging Ees for refusing to cross picket line of unlawfully laid off Ees to go to work, violative)

McLane/Western, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 063
(on ct remand, Bd held E had not shown it maintained rule requiring discharge of Ee for eating some demonstrably unsalvable goods and had not established Wright Line defense to alleged unlawful discharge for U activity, where past instances of stealing resulting in terminations did not involve taking of demonstrably unsalvable goods; Ee ate broken cracker from case in such condition goods were customarily thrown out; E's manager saw and had full opportunity to inspect damaged case; and management's reaction to incident belies its claim it had hard-and-fast rule unequivocally requiring Ee's discharge)

Technicolor Government Services, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 041
(discharging U steward for distributing to E's Ees application forms for employment with another E, who was bidder in competition for E's position as service contractor found unlawful where activity was concerted, protected U activity that was not disruptive and did not breach any existing rule of E)

Power-Seal Corporation 276 NLRB No. 036
(violation where E, who was aware of U organizing campaign in plant, discharged Ees he thought would vote for U)

Pottsville Bleaching and Dyeing Company 275 NLRB No. 175
(discharging U activist for allegedly insubordinate reaction to being disciplined for talking on job, violative, since only U activist of three Ees involved was disciplined, and his reaction thereto, although not submissive, was not insubordinate)

Programming & Systems, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 157
(precipitous discharge of only U activist still in E's employ w/o any plausible explanation either at time of discharge or at hearing, violative, where Ee, despite her seniority and satisfactory performance, was only teacher discharged after Christmas recess and E was shown to be vehemently opposed to unionization of its teachers)

Confect & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(discharge, after hearing, of U supporter, who was one of Ees who had filed charges against E and representative of charging party designated to be present throughout hearing, violative where E had condoned his absenteeism and tardiness until U campaign began, had wanted to promote him to lead position, had displayed anti-U campaign, had withdrawn its offer to solve Ee's tardiness problem by transferring him to another shift, and had concededly talked with him about his suspension and discharge in presence of E's comptroller in order to have a witness)

Cuamano Brothers, Inc. d/b/a Ethnic Produce 275 NLRB No. 038
(violation where on same day U demanded recognition from E's president two Ees, who with third Ee and encouragement of supervisor had gone to U hall and signed U authorization cards, were told by supervisor that E's president was angry and upset about demand for recognition and was discharging them)

Advance Development & Manufacturing Corporation 275 NLRB No. 036
(discharge of Ees, assertedly for their lunch break practices, violative, where E discharged Ees in reaction to receipt of U letter demanding recognition and in order to frustrate U's efforts to achieve recognition)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(layoff of U adherents indefinitely with advice to file for unemployment compensation constituted unlawful discharge where E quickly recalled less senior Ees laid off at same time and its unsupported claim of U adherents' decline in production failed to counter prima facie showing that E was motivated by U adherents' concern with prospects for new U contract in face of E's statement it was going non-U and their pro-U orientation)

Bartels & Shores Chemical Company 274 NLRB No. 159
(discharge of U adherent violative, where E had prior knowledge of his U activities, timing of discharge occurred one work day after Ees had arranged to contact U, E demonstrated U animus shortly after his termination in calling another Ee, the remaining U advocate, to office and inviting him to quit, and E focused its wrath on the two Ees who asked for U)

Roadway Express, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 052
(discharge of U steward, who had received numerous purportedly work-related warning letters and 5-day suspension prior to discharge, unlawful where, while there was no dual motive because there was no business justification, GC demonstrated that E considered steward, who had filed numerous charges with Bd and had testified at Bd hearing, and had also protested E's proposed flexible work week, as U activist and harbored animus toward him and his U activities; and E did not meet burden of demonstrating that same action would have been taken irrespective of steward's conduct)

Radisson Muehlebach Hotel 273 NLRB No. 183
(discharging Ee allegedly for asking supervisors if they had seen newspaper article stating that E had not remitted any money to the U for past three months, violative, where real reason was Ee's support of U where her support had been unknown to E until she revealed it by her question, and E had clearly shown U animus by its ULPs since decertification election, objections to which were still pending)

Teamsters, Local Union 138 (J. Fabian Trucking Corp.) JD-(NY)-97-96

charge activity was filing of EEOC charge, of which E was unaware, and his sole involvement with U dissident group was to ask for their help after discharge]

Roadmaster Corporation JD-(ATL)-18-86

[discharging non-U Ee who was working during strike for telling her boyfriend, a former U steward and striker, the name of a crossover Ee, i.e., Ee who crossed the picket line to work during the strike, violation notwithstanding contention that information was confidential since E acted on belief that Ee was assisting the strike, a concerted, protected activity]

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86

[E's numerous unlawful interrogations, solicitation of informants, impressions of surveillance, and timing of discharges, all w/in 11 days after receipt of U's R ptn, held to make obvious fact that motivation for Ees' discharges was their U activities]

Sue-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86

[discharging Ee who directed stream of invective, profanity and abuse at E, lawful, notwithstanding E's prior unlawful threats and suspension for publicizing E's alleged ULPs and labor relations in newspaper article]

Hinz Store Fixtures & Construction Co., Inc. JD-(SF)-191-85

[E's trying to force Ee to accept its position that he voluntarily quit, and discharging him for trying to secure E's compliance with bargaining agreement, violation]

Educational Broadcasting Corporation d/b/a WNET/Thirteen JD-(NY)-125-85

[discharge, allegedly for inability to work closely with another Ee, violation, since real reason was Ee's filing and pursuing grievance, where Ee had reasonable and honest belief in entitlement to relief under U contract]

The Fred B. Nebra Company JD-337-85

(discharge of Ee who spoke to supervisor about performing unit work under U contract, unlawful)

Onan Corporation, A Division of Onan Corporation JD-(ATL)-11-85

(suspension and discharge of Ee for refusing to comply with E's demand that he remove T-shirt with U insignia and other U paraphenalia from his work place, violative, since Ee's action was not insubordinate or proper basis for discipline in view of discrimination inherent in E's demand)

The Kroger Company JD-(ATL)-23-85

(discharging and thereafter refusing to reinstate Ees because of their participation in strike, violative)

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibralter Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85

(discharge of Ee, who was U steward and filed charges against E with Bd and, while out on disability, continued to visit shop to function as U steward, unlawful, where E showed animus towards Ee for his protected activities; E's actions, shortly afer filing of charges, to have Ee tone down his activities in investigating charges and as U steward showed E desired to retaliate against Ee for his activities relating to charges and function as U steward; and E failed to establish that Ee was stealing time by failing to put in full day's work)

Hyde Park Community Hospital JD-62-85

(discharging Ee in retaliation for his filing grievance, through U, for overtime, violative)

Harry Rosenblatt & Sons JD-(SF)-50-85

(discharge of Ee who engaged in U organizing activities and prevailed upon management to meet with Ees at behest of aggrieved fellow Ees, allegedly for poor performance due to outside job, unlawful)

W-W Masonary, Inc. JD-486-84

(discharge of job steward, assertedly for poor productivity and performance, violative where action of steward in complaining to E concerning its alleged violation of bargaining agreement was precipitating cause of discharge and absent steward's participation in dispute, E would not have fired him)

Mobile Concrete, Inc. JD-453-84

(discharge of U adherent, assertedly because, contrary to instructions, he obtained his paycheck before end of workday on payday and continued to use personal radio in his truck after such use by plant drivers was banned, violative where E seized on minor insubordinations as pretext to sever pro-U Ee in circumstances in which it would not have severed neutral or anti-U Ee)

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)

[discharge violation, since it was for U activities rather than poor work performance because Ee's difficulty in supervising second shift resulted from defective products, over which he had no control, and he was not warned of alleged poor quality and productivity of his work]

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)

[discharge of U activist, violation, notwithstanding claim of his poor performance and desire to do only one kind of work that would not justify full time employment, where evidence showed he performed other work, received no complaints or warnings about any aspect of his work, and was given pay raise and bonus three weeks before discharge]

N.L.R.B. v. Jefferson Electric Company, a Division of Litton Systems, Inc. 783 F.2d 679 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)

[discharging Ee for actively campaigning for U, violative]

JMC Transport, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 776 F.2d 612 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1985)

[where Ee's extremely hostile and abusive outbursts while engaged in protesting E's change in pay policy clearly could be seen as unprotected in context in which discharge is based on specific allegedly unprotected conduct, ct held E's failure to fire Ee for his abusive conduct defeated E's contention that Ee's conduct was unprotected; in context in which E had not found conduct so disruptive as to justify discharge at the time, ct declined to impose post hoc classification of unprotected conduct]

N.L.R.B. v. E. I. DuPont De Nemours 750 F.2d 524 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1984)

(discharge of U activist, allegedly because multiple positions on his machine broke simultaneously, violative where overhaul of his machine because of poor operation, which was due a month before, did not occur until after his discharge, and where other Ees who had also had simultaneous multiple breaks of positions on their machines had not even been reprimanded)

N.L.R.B. v. Vought Corporation - MLRS Systems Division 788 F.2d 1378 (C.A. 8, Apr. 1986)

[discharge of Ee who was chairman of inplant U organizing committee, handed out U literature and authorization cards, and wore U insignia, unlawful, since discharge for protected activity rather than for abusive profane language towards supervisor when given written warning, since Ee's conduct not so indefensible as to forfeit protection of Act and was justifiably provoked by E's repeated violations of his rights]

Lemon Drop Inn, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 752 F.2d 323 (C.A. 8, Jan. 1985)

(discharge of Ee violative where he had previously been considered good Ee, E had exhibited U animus by its threat to shut down business in response to U organizing, E's exlanation for Ee's discharge was pretextual)

Lemon Drop Inn, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 752 F.2d 323 (C.A. 8, Jan. 1985)

(discharge of Ee violative where E demonstrated its U animus by threatening retaliatory shutdown in response to organization of Ees, E had knwoledge of Ee's involvement with U, Ee was fired 5 days after having observed election and record supported ALJ's additional finding that E's economic justification for laying off Ee was pretextual)

N.L.R.B. v. Technicolor Government Services, Inc. 795 F.2d 916 (C.A. 11, Aug. 1986)

[discharging U steward for distributing to E's Ees application forms for employment with another E, who was bidder in competition for E's position as service contractor, violative since activity was concerted and protected]

5073-2400 For refusing to join or support favored union

R. H. Cole Truck Service JD-295-86

Las Vegas Paving Corp. JD-(SF)-49-86

[layof of Ees for refusing to join U, violative; further, E's contention that Ees forfeited right to backpay by engaging in post-layoff misconduct, rejected, since Ees engaged only in use of various non-threatening gestures and vulgarity directed at Ees who remained at work]

5073-3000 For not renouncing union membership or not engaging in antiunion activities

Edward Cooper Painting, and Cooper and Cooper Painting, An Alter Ego 273 NLRB No. 234

(E, by its withdrawal of U recognition and refusal to abide by contract, in effect unlawfully discharged U Ee who refused to work for non-U shop)

N.L.R.B. v. Oberle-Jordre Company, Division of The Bishopric Products Company 777 F.2d 1119 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1985)

[discharge of U member, unlawful, since motivating factor was his continued affiliation with U, where E's interrogation of Ee regarding withdrawal from U was accompanied by explicit promises of employment conditioned on Ee's responses to interrogation]

5073-3300 For striking or during strike

5073-3325 Non-ULP strike

Rapid Armored Truck Corp. 281 NLRB No. 057

[E's discharge of and refusal to reinstate strikers, not unlawful, since their conduct unprotected, where strikers' objective was to compel E to recognize and bargain with U which was ineligible for certification because of its policy of admitting both guard and non-guard Ees to membership and picketing was also violative of Section 8(b)(7)(C)]

5073-3350 Pursuant to no-strike agreement

United Parcel Service, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 205
(suspension and discharge of U stewards for participation in strike which was in violation of no strike agreement, not unlawful, notwithstanding contention actions discriminatory because of U office these individuals held as other strikers not similarly disciplined, where U stewards went beyond simple participation and provided leadership to rank-and-file Ees by relaying messages from U business agent, picketing in more than one location, and explaining strike to television reporters)

Nicholas, Inc. and Nicholas, Inc., Debtor in Possession JD-(NY)-31-86
[in cases arising before amendments to Bankruptcy Act effective, E, debtor-in-possession, lawfully discharged Ees for striking in violation of no-strike provision in contract where strike occurred during interim period of E petitioning court approval to reject contract and prior to court granting petition, and E continued to abide by terms of contract during this period, thus affirming contract]

N.L.R.B. v. Deauville Hotel 751 F.2d 1562 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)
(discharge of Ee for picketing in violation of no-strike clause renewed in contract agreed upon after economic strike, not unlawful where U had reasonable time to notify its members, including dischargee, of new contract with no-strike clause; dischargee was in fact notified, reported for work, and joined picketers only when mistakenly informed by U steward that the contract had not been singed; U was obligated to heed no-strike clause and prevent unlawful strikers and neither U nor Ee was excused from honoring said clause)

N.L.R.B. v. Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Association, et al. 751 F.2d 1571 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)
(enforcing no-strike clause by discharging returning economic strikers who began picketing three days after ratification of contract and end of strike, not violative, since, judged by objective standard, reasonable time for parties to cool off had passed since agreement on contract and for U to notify Ees of agreement and of strike's ends where Ees had ratified contract, ratification had been publicized, existence of no-strike clause in contract was known, and U officials failed towarn picketers when they came to U hall that violation of no-strike clause could result in discharge)

5073-3375 ULP strike

Gatliff Business Products, Inc. and KBD Service Corporation 276 NLRB No. 060
(discharging Ees for refusing to cross picket line of unlawfully laid off Ees to go to work, violative)

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115
(discharge of Ees who struck in protest against E's discharge of fellow Ee for U activity, violative; discharge of other Ees who joined ULP strike and picket line next day, also violative, notwithstanding that they may never have been told directly that they were discharged, since E repeatedly told strikers that anyone who had walked out was fired or considered to have quit)

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84
(strike held ULP strike where E, but its unilateral action in changing conditions and terms of employment, secured what it had been unable to secure at bargaining table, i.e. total control over E's operations and therefore did not enter into negotiations with sincere desire to reach agreement, and failure to do so was due to E's pattern of bargaining in bad faith)

5073-4500 For not accepting offer of supervisory position

Joan Faust, Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Regency Manor Nursing Home 275 NLRB No. 171
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because she refused promotion to supervisor and thus had to be let go, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity, where E was engaged in scheme to coerce Ees into accepting supervisory positions in an effort to preclude pro-U Ees from voting; further, E's failure to rehire Ee some 9 months later because she was associated with the turmoil at E's premises, violative, since turmoil meant Ee's support of U)

5073-4600 For filing grievances or participating in grievance or arbitration proceedings

D.H. Martin Petroleum Co. 280 NLRB No. 058

Ryder/P.I.E. Nationwide, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 109
[discharging driver, violation, where, notwithstanding he falsified trip card, he would not have been discharged but for his numerous successful grievances costly to E]

Advance Manufacturing Corp. JD-9-86
[discharge of U steward, unlawful, since in retaliation for U committeeman's objection to E's violation of contract and filing grievance, rather than for poor work performance for which steward had been warned, where at time of his discharge steward's personnel file contained no reprimands inasmuch as under E's reprimand system his reprimands had been removed, discharge was precipitous, and absent evidence steward's mistakes were wholly or partially responsible for cost overruns on one project cited by E, or his mistakes were as great as another E's on another project]

Educational Broadcasting Corporation d/b/a WNET/Thirteen JD-(NY)-125-85
[discharge, allegedly for inability to work closely with another Ee, violation, since real reason was Ee's filing and pursuing grievance, where Ee had reasonable and honest belief in entitlement to relief under U contract]

Gallati Carriage of Michigan, Inc. JD-311-85
(discharge of Ee, in reprisal for filing grievance over cut in wages and benefits, violative)

5073-4700 For refusing to accept nonunion working conditions

Plateau Coal Sales, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 156
[E's seeking to induce Ees to work w/o U representation and withdrawing offers of employment from its entire work force when Ees refused to work nonU, held violative, since E wanted to avoid recognizing U, and Ees were U members]

Castricone Contractors, Inc. JD-(NY)-80-85
(discharge of Ee who joined U after starting work and when he gave E his U papers was told by E that Ee could either finish off the day or go home now — there were other people in U laid off that are not working, violative as E member of E association that signed contract with U and Ee discharged because E would have had to pay Ee contract wage)

5073-5200 Per se violation in application of discriminatorily promulgated plant rule

N.L..R.B. v. Malta Construction Company 806 F.2d 1009 (C.A. 11, Dec. 1986)
[discharge of Ee for deliberate interference with production and refusing work assignment, followinstructions during U campaign when Ee refused to remove U sticker from his E supplied hard hat when Ee was on his water break assisting fellow Ee who had a stuck front-end loader, held violative, since GC proved existence of presumptively invalid rule banning U insignia on hard hats and E did not prove any special circumstance to justify its rule. Ee had never been warned or disciplined for his behavior prior to his taking about U]

5073-5300 For refusing to work assigned hours

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(discharge of painter at apartment building, who was U adherent and filed charges, for failure to work, on usual day off in order to accomplish urgently needed painting, not violative, since discharge would have taken place absent protected activity, inasmuch as work on that day necessary and in view of previous poor quality and slowness of Ee's work)

5073-5400 For refusal to accept unlawful conditions

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sisselman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115
(discharging ULP striker who was reinstated to different job while replacement continued to occupy her former position because she insisted upon proper reinstatement, violative)

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc. JD-(NY)-141-84
(discharging Ee because he disobeyed E's instructions to not come to the shop to vote, violative)

5073-5500 Forced resignation

Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 125
[Ee who was U adherent, and leader of group of Ees at one of E's stores who went to E's headquarters to complain about new work schedule and what they asserted to be theft from store by manager, was unlawfully constructively discharged where during interview as to why he had taken other Ees to E's headquarters, Ee was told his brother had resigned, and that his opportunities for employment with other Es would be better if he resigned rather than be discharged and he would have been fired if he hadn't resigned]

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibraltar Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(request for Ees' resignations by E who never gave them option of remaining with E nor told them that if they did not resign they would only be suspended held to constitute discharge in and of itself, since request for resignation was merely giving Ees a choice of quitting or being fired)

5073-6000 Familial or other close relationship

Retail Delivery Systems, Inc. JD-(NY)-15-86
[termination of Ee (dropping him from casual list) because of U activities carried on by his brother, violative]

5073-6600 Mass discharge

Shore Pointe Associates, Inc., d/b/a Americare Convalescent Center 280 NLRB No. 130

[while in typical Wright Line case GC must demonstate E's awareness of pro-U acts or sentiments of individual Ees, GC can proceed on theory that E ordered general layoffs for purpose of discouraging U activity even if not all pro-U Ees are directly effected; E's general retaliation against workforce can discourage exercise of Sec. 7 rights just as effectively as adverse action taken against only known U supporters]

Shore Pointe Associates, Inc., d/b/a Americare Convalescent Center 280 NLRB No. 130

[pre-election mass discharge of Ees assertedly because of economic necessity held violative of 8(a)(1) as well as 8(a)(3) where E, in face of warnings to reduce costs, hired additional Ees and incurred other avoidable business expenses; only logical reason for discharges was to impose chilling effect on Ees about to vote for U representation; such chilling effect was implemented by E's other unlawful conduct; and asserted economic basis for discharges was not credited in view of E's business expenditures]

B & P Trucking, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 092

[shutting down trucking portion of operations and discharging all drivers, violation since reason was E's wish to avoid unionization, rather than trucking operation's lack of profitability]

Electronic Data Systems International Corporation 278 NLRB No. 014

[discharge of 10 Ees, who engaged in unprotected work stoppage of a few minutes which was spontaneous reaction to discharge of supervisor, but not in protest of impact of discharge on employment, unlawful, notwithstanding unprotected nature of work stoppage and fact took place 9 months after U organizing campaign, in view of E's superficial investigation, previous good record of dischargees, severity of discipline in relationship to misconduct, disparity of treatment between U adherents and other Ees]

Hunter Douglas, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 123

(discharge of Ees on second shift, which E believed to be focus of U activity, unlawful, since E failed to demonstrate same action would have taken place absent protected activity, notwithstanding Es contention it eliminated shift due to shift's lower productivity, greater management availability on first shift, reduction in indirect costs and security considerations, in view of abruptness of layoff and fact E deviated from previous layoff policy by eliminating entire shift rather than overall reduction of Ees from all shifts based on individual seniority and qualifications)

Joseph A. Perry d/b/a Holiday Inn-Glendale 277 NLRB No. 145

(mass discharge of Ees, assertedly because of insubordination and because E received a bad hotel inspection, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were discharged w/i 2 days of E's knowledge thereof, E gave shifting reasons, threatened Ees with reprisals for U activity and unlawfully interrogated Ees)

Activ Industries, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 040

(in adopting ALJ's conclusion that E unlawfully terminated more than third of its work force, Bd emphasized that it was E's mass discharge, and not its selection of Ees for discharge that was unlawful; accordingly, GC was not required to show correlation between each Ee's U activity and his or her discharge)

Activ Industries, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 040

(mass discharge of Ees because of U activities, comprising third of work force, unlawful, where discharges occurred only 9 days after U organizing campaign began; shortly before discharge all but 1 of Ees involved received average to excellent job evaluations; supervisor admitted he chose some Ees for discharge because of their U activism; and E, while intervening to prevent discharge of some Ees, nevertheless deferred to supervisor's recommendation on discharging Ees whose work performance or behavior E was not familiar with; and Ee overheard another supervisor's statement that U was reason for discharges)

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. JD-239-86

[discharge of large number of Ees comprising nearly 30 percent of work force, unlawful, in view of E's display of blatant anti-U hostility toward U's organizing drive, discharges being effective w/i days of overwhelming U victory in election, prior admission by supervisor that E was going to fire lot of people because of election outcome, and U activities of Ees, as individuals and as group, on company premises in sight of supervisors]

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. JD-239-86

[it is not essential for GC to establish that each and every member of group of Ees allegedly discharged for U activities was U activist, since anyone removed in course of discriminatorily motivated housecleaning is discriminatee, even if not personally engaged in U activities; moreover, in view of large number voting in favor of U, there was statistical chance that large percentage of Ees voted for U and that anyone discharged was U supporter]

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86

[multiple discharges which included prominent U supporters, based on findings made by undercover investigative agent concerning Ees' conduct on unsupervised shift, unlawful, where investigation was sham calculated to provide foundation for elimination of sole remaining members of U negotiating committee, in view of E's ongoing unprecidented bent toward discharges and willingness to sacrifice large segment of skilled workforce in face of large backlog and heavy demand on basis of unconfirmed accusations of third party undercover agent]

5073-7100 Pursuant to unlawful no-solicitation rule

Harry M. Stevens, Inc., A/K/A Harry M. Stevens Services, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 031

(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he solicited U cards on working time, violative, where Ee had not yet commenced his assigned work, he was discharged in the absence of a valid no-solicitation/no-distribution rule and E made no showing that Ee had interfered with production)

Pillod of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117

(discharge of Ee, assertedly because she attempted to distribute U literature on work time, disrupted company meetings and falsified employment application violative, since real reason was her U activity where E enforced no-distribution rule in discriminatory manner, Ee was engaged in protected activity of supporting U at company meetings and E seized on false employment data as mere pretext to discharge as E did not act on information until after Ee defended U)

N.L..R.B. v. Malta Construction Company 806 F.2d 1009 (C.A. 11, Dec. 1986)

[discharge of Ee for deliberate interference with production and refusing work assignment, followinstructions during U campaign when Ee refused to remove U sticker from his E supplied hard hat when Ee was on his water break assisting fellow Ee who had a stuck front-end loader, held violative, since GC proved existence of presumptively invalid rule banning U insignia on hard hats and E did not prove any special circumstance to justify its rule. Ee had never been warned or disciplined for his behavior prior to his taking about U]

5073-7200 To avoid dealing with union

Fox-Art Theatres, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 115

[discharge of movie projectionist, unlawful, since solely because of his U membership, where he had had good work record for 12 years, and was considered great operator by his manager, but was told he was no longer employed by E because this is not U house anymore]

Service Merchandise Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 023

[E's discharge of drivers and warehouse Ee who had been driver and subcontracting driving operations, unlawful, where for support of drivers' association and threat to seek representation by outside U, in view of E's expressed opposition to outside U, summary nature of discharges, and secrecy of negotiations for subcontracting; contention subcontracting motivated by economic considerations, rejected, where subcontracting resulted in 25% increase in cost even though fewer miles driven over private driver operation]

Mar-Kay Cartage, Inc. and Contemporary Delivery Systems, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 152

(layoff and termination of Ees prior to E's shutdown and formation of new company held to be alter ego of disbanded company, for purpose of avoiding dealing with U, unlawful)

Dextra Industries, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 204

(violation where E refused to negotiate new agreement with U and thereafter terminated its shop Ees to avoid its bargaining obligation with U)

Lynco Millwork & Manufacturing Co. JD-166-86

[discharging maintenance Ee, violation since E eliminated maintenance position rather than face possibility of having position included in unit pursuant to unit clarification ptn filed by U]

N.L.R.B. v. Chaim Babad, Bernard Steinmetz and Emanuel Steinmetz, A Co-Partnership d/b/a J.R.R. Realty Co. 785 F.2d 46 (C.A. 2, Mar. 1986)

[successor's discharing predecessor's Ees because of their U membership and replacing them with non-U Ees, violation]

5073-7300 To legitimatize unlawful discharge of other employee(s)

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86

[discharge of Ees at same time that prominent U supporters were unlawfully discharged assertedly for improper conduct on job also unlawful where termination of U supporters would only have air of legitimacy if more culpable Ees herein were also included in discharges]

5073-8000 Pursuant to union demand because of employees opposition to union officer

Penn Yan Express, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 057

(discharging Ee because he had supported losing candidate in U election and winner had given E reason to believe that he might cause problems if he were kept on, violative; finding of unlawful motivation was based on crediting of dischargee's testimony that he was discharged so that E could avoid U problems and crediting of defeated candidate's testimony to same effect where it was undenied)

5073-8200 Pursuant to union demand because employee-member did not comply with union rules

Naftali Deutsch and Alexander Coler d/b/a C–D Investment Co. 279 NLRB No. 090

[District Council's action, and E's acquiescence, in reinstating two duly appointed stewards and causing discharge of steward appointed by U officer w/o authority to do so and in violation of hiring hall rules, not unlawful where District Council was preserving integrity of contractually prescribed referral practice, and discharge of steward appointed w/o proper authority was necessary to effective performance of its representative function]

5073-8300 Pursuant to union demand because of employees' lack of union membership or membership in particular local

Dubose Masonry, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 125

[discharge of non-U bricklayers while U bricklayers were standing around at jobsite, violative, since GC presented prima facie case where evidence was sufficient to support inference that Ees lack of U membership was motivating factor in E's decision to terminate. E's assertion that non-U bricklayers were laid off because of decline in work at jobsite was unsupported]

Montgomery Elevator Company 278 NLRB No. 122

[E demoting and terminating Ee at U's request, unlawful, where for Ee's non-membership in U; contention Ee laid off since there were no helper positions available when he was returned to that status pursuant to agreement with U that Ees who failed mechanics test while working as mechanic with temporary permit be returned to helper status for 1 year, rejected, in view of disparate treatment of Ee and timing of termination soon after meeting of U's representative with E]

Greg Construction Co. 277 NLRB No. 163

(discharge of Ees to avoid paying wage rate in U contract, rather than because U demanded discharges because they were not U members, not unlawful)

Waterfront Service Co., Inc. JD-171-86

5073-8500 Pursuant to union demand because of employees intra-union troublemaking

Teamsters, Local Union 138 (J. Fabian Trucking Corp.) JD-(NY)-97-86

[no unlawful discharge and refusal to reinstate Ee and conditioning of his reinstatement upon U's consent because of Ee's concerted activities where E terminated him for refusing to accept his assigned load, his sole pre-discharge activity was filing of EEOC charge, of which E was unaware, and his sole involvement with U dissident group was to ask for their help after discharge]

5073-8600 Pursuant to union demand because of employee's dues delinquency

Dillingham Tug & Barge Corporation 278 NLRB No. 019

[discharging Ee at U's request for failing to pay dues when Ee had no dues obligation, violation]

5073-8700 To discourage support for disfavored union

United Artists Communications, Inc., Operating Capri Theatre 280 NLRB No. 119

[discharge of Ees who signed authorization cards for the one of competing Us with which E least preferred to deal, unlawful, where GC established that Ees were active on behalf of U and that E was aware of their U sympathies as evidenced by its interrogations of Ees and efforts to have them sign authorization cards for favored U, E's multiplicity of contradictory reasons for discharge and inability to pinpoint or substantiate misconduct relied upon for some discharges]

5073-9200 As result of discriminatory enforcement of rule

Harry M. Stevens, Inc., A/K/A Harry M. Stevens Services, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 031

(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he solicited U cards on working time, violative, where Ee had not yet commenced his assigned work, he was discharged in the absence of a valid no-solicitation/no-distribution rule and E made no showing that Ee had interfered with production)

Restaurant Corporation of America v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 1390 (C.A. D.C., Sept. 1986)

[discharge of Ees held not unlawful enforcement of valid no-solicitation rule, notwithstanding Bd's finding of instances of non-U solicitation that occurred during work time, where Bd's and ALJ's observations of non-U solicitations could not substitute for requisite finding that U and non-U solicitations had substantially equivalent potentials for disruption of work]

5073-9360 As result of plant relocation or closure

Strawbine Manufacturing Co., Inc., et al. 280 NLRB No. 063

[E's closing of plant, termination of Ees and relocation in another state, assertedly because dire economic reasons compelled such decision, violative, since real reason was E's desire to rid itself of U where E's other plants were losing much more money than plant which was closed, E made no effort to sell plant after closure in order to improve economic condition and E otherwise misrepresented closing of plant to U and secretly relocated facility]

McAllister Brothers Inc. and Outreach Marine Corporation, Alter Egos 278 NLRB No. 091

[discharge of 38 Ees and refusal to rehire them as positions became available, violative, since E discharged Ees assertedly because it sold business but was found herein to be single E and alter egos with new E, thus, U's contract remained in effect in regard to all aspects of employment relationship]

5073-9600 As result of change in operations

Leeward Nursing Home 278 NLRB No. 157

[no violation, where Ees were discharged as result of subcontracting and some Ees were not hired by subcontractor, since subcontracting lawful, subcontractor not named as Respondent, and absent evidence of blackballing of Ees by Respondent E which subcontracted]

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84

(unlawful discharge of Ee w/lowest seniority and working 1 shift per week when E reinstituted old policy that Ees work minimum of 2 shifts per week and took shift from him and gave it to senior Ee who also worked 1 shift, in view of E's animus, no explanation why E delayed 5 months before implementing decision to return to old shift policy, and knowledge of Ee's U inclination inferred from E's knowledge that Ee's brother, also Ee, was U adherent, smallness of workforce (21 Ees) and supervisor at time of his termination voiced concern over U considerations

5075 PREFERENTIAL REINSTATEMENT

Mid-State Distributing Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 172

(preferential rehiring of unlawfully terminated Ee over more senior Ees and granting him preference in method of pay thereafter, unlawful, where senior Ees had engaged in prominent U activities on picket line and on election day, while rehired Ee had openly declared to E his support of E rather than of U)

Gaso Pumps, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 076

(no violation by E informing Ees that in event of strike they may be permanently replaced w/o at same time informing them of their preferential reinstatement rights unless statement may be fairly understood as threat of reprisal or is explicitly coupled with such threats)

5079 REFUSAL TO REINSTATE

5079-1400 Following lay-off

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091

[subcontracting unit work and refusing to recall laid off Ees to perform such work, unlawful, in view of E's anti-U animosity, and desire, intent and practice of retaliating against Ees for their U activities; fact that immediately following strike for recognition, E drastically increased subcontracting practice; and E's failure to sustain burden of showing that subcontracting would have been inevitable]

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047

(layoff of Ee unlawful and held to be constructive discharge, since for U activites, where E after the fact attempted to capitalize on Ee's wife's illness to state on layoff slip voluntary quit to care for wife, in order to preclude any obligation to recall Ee, E had previously made disparaging remarks about U and hired new Ees rather than recall Ee)

Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc., Leslie Volkswagen, Inc., and Dupage Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 148

(alter ego E's failure to offer employment to 3 Ees who had been laid off by predecessor E, violative, notwithstanding 2 of Ees were offered and accepted positions with third E that resulted in loss of seniority to both Ees, since alter ego failed to abide by bargaining agreement that precluded Ees' loss of seniority)

Weyerhaeuser Company 274 NLRB No. 130

(failure to recall and reinstate economic strikers on reopening plant - closed down for nonstrike related economic conditions - 2 years after it shut down and 18 months after strike ended, not violative, because failure to recall not attributable to replacements or to strike related reduction in work but to contract provision in work but to contract provision which stated that Ee shall be considered terminated and seniority lost if on layoff for 12 months, and when strike ended economic strikers joined nonstrikers on layoff status and there position is no different than other Ees just because they were economic strikers)

5079-2800 Non-ULP strikers

5079-2801 Generally

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175
[economic strikers should not be equated to laid-off Ees because economic strikers enjoy statutory right to reinstatement with no time limit set on exercise of reinstatement rights]

Zartic, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 171
[permanently replacing strikers by failing to go to preferential recall list and hiring new Ees, violation that prolonged strike and converted it to ULP strike]

5079-2813 Where replaced

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[E's failure to reinstate former economic striker after rescinding temporary job offer, not unlawful, where temporary job, which Ee was to be given, was filled by individual who normally filled that position; and E is not required to provide another job for former striker if, through no fault of E, proffered position no longer exists]

Service Electric Company 281 NLRB No. 107
[in instant case, even under terms of settlement agreement, it was striking Ees---not E---who had burden of taking initiative in order to trigger (E's) reinstatement obligation]

Brookhurst Professional Building, Inc., Number Three d/b/a Browning Manor Convalescent Hospital 279 NLRB No. 172
[no unlawful refusal to reinstate economic strikers where E had hired permanent replacements, U never made unconditional offer for its striking members to return to work where it attached conditions to its offer, and E asked strikers to register, rather than to apply as it usually understood, for preferential hiring list]

Hansen Brothers Enterprises 279 NLRB No. 098
[economic strikers are entitled to immediate reinstatement upon unconditional offer to return to work, provided their positions have not been filled by permanent replacements or there was no business justification; thus, where striker replacements are only temporary, offer to return to work which demands no more than discharge of those replacements is appropriate]

Hansen Brothers Enterprises 279 NLRB No. 098
[Bd noted that it did not read S.Ct's Belknap decision, 463 U.S. 491, as converting E's vague statements to economic strikers' replacements concerning their permanent Ee status into offer of permanent employment for purpose of determining strikers' reinstatement rights; Belknap did not hold that E need no longer promise replacements permanent employment to render them permanent; rather, it held that to avoid civil liability to replacements if replaced pursuant to Bd order or settlement agreement providing for reinstatement of strikers, E may promise replacements permanent employment subject to such conditions subsequent]

Hansen Brothers Enterprises 279 NLRB No. 098
[although U's offer on behalf of economic strikers to return to work, coupled with demand that all strikers be immediately reinstated and striker replacements be discharged, was conditional, Bd held E unlawfully refused to reinstate strikers since replacements were temporary and U's offer was therefore appropriate, where E's communications to strikers concerning reemployment rights and to replacements concerning their permanent Ee status were noncommital, and its statements showing own intent to permanently employ replacements, failed to satisfy E's burden of showing mutual understanding between itself and replacements that they were permanent]

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E's failure to reinstate former economic striker, unlawful, notwithstanding former striker's statement that he was happily employed at another E, absent evidence job former striker currently held was substantially equivalent to job he had held at E and that it constituted regular, rather than part-time or temporary employment]

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E's failure to recall former economic striker after his replacement left not justified by contentions that former striker had obtained regular and substantial employment with another E, or that his replacement possessed skills not possessed by former striker which allowed E to use replacement in enlarged work capacity, absent evidence that former strikers employment with other E was actually equivalent, or that changes in operations during strike warranted need for skills greater than those E required at beginning of strike, or that replacement was hired because he possessed those skills]

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E's failure to recall former economic striker who had repaired auto engines when his replacement left, not unlawful, since justified by substantial business reasons in view of changed nature of its engine repair operations to emphasis on work on different type of engines, and inability of former striker to perform this type of work]

Pacific Mutual Door Company 278 NLRB No. 120
[where E retained control over Ees leased to it by joint E and Ees began work of unreinstated drivers on permanent basis after unreinstated drivers unconditionally requested reinstatement, Bd found that jobs of unreinstated drivers were not eliminated and that E in essence hired new Ees instead of reinstating two economic strikers after their unconditional request for reinstatement; thus, E's matured reinstatement obligation to strikers was not obviated by E's contract with joint E that leased drivers to E and E's failure to reinstate strikers on date of contract, violative]

U.S. Mineral Products Co. 276 NLRB No. 022
(permanently replaced economic strikers' entitlement to reinstatement is limited to being put on preferential hiring list with E not being required to reinstate economic striker unless and until his former job or its equivalent comes open by termination or expansion. However, once striker accepts permanent employment elsewhere, he ceases to be Ee of E and is no longer entitled to reinstatement rights)

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 008
(E's refusal to reinstate economic strikers upon their unconditional offer to return to work, violative notwithstanding they had been replaced by new hires, since replacements were only temporary where E told them it was only offering them work until strike was over)

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 185 (C.A. 8, Nov. 1986)
[E's failure to reinstate economic strikers upon their offer to return to work, unlawful, where replacements for strikers were hired with understanding their employment was until strikers returned to work, and later statements held not to change replacements' temporary status]

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 785 F.2d 249 (C.A. 8, Mar. 1986)
[failure of E to offer economic strikers reinstatement to jobs they were qualified for though not same or substantially equivalent to prestrike position, violative, as E had policy of cross-training and developing multiple capabilities for its Ees and did, in fact, transfer new Ees into positions that unreinstated strikers qualified for; therefore, E's recall policy clearly discriminated against unreinstated strikers in favor of new job applicants and Ees -- including permanent striker replacements -- already on payroll]

5079-2819 To former or substantially equivalent position

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[termination of economic striker assertedly because he refused proffered job, unlawful, where he refused job due to medical reasons resulting from prior surgery, and proffered job was not substantially equivalent employment since job involved work on shift different from that which Ee worked prior to strike, and temporary position to which he was recalled did not provide same benefits as those received by full time Ees]

Carter-Glogau Laboratories, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 049
[E's failure to promote or transfer reinstated economic strikers to unit positions they occupied prior to strike, not unlawful, where there was no evidence that reinstated strikers were not reinstated originally to substantially equivalent positions; Harvey Engineering Corp., 270 NLRB 1290, is inapposite, and GC failed to carry burden of proving E failed to satisfy its obligations under Laidlaw (171 NLRB 1366)]

Highlands Hospital Corporation, Inc., d/b/a Highlands Regional Medical Center 278 NLRB No. 160
[E did not unlawfully refuse to reinstate non-unit Ees who stated they would not, and did not, work during strike by unit Ees, where vacant positions for which Ees may or may not have been qualified were not substantially equivalent to their former jobs; and vacant unit jobs which Ees claimed they were qualified to fill, but in which they had no experience, were similarly not substantially equivalent; and GC offered no explanation as to why Ees had superior demand on such unit positions than unit Ees still awaiting recall]

Highlands Hospital Corporation, Inc., d/b/a Highlands Regional Medical Center 278 NLRB No. 160
[E did not unlawfully refuse to reinstate non-unit Ee, who stated she would not, and did not work, during strike by unit Ees, to vacant position, where position was listed as occasional job averaging less than 16 hours per week employment and it had no job benefits; such part-time job is not substantially equivalent to full-time job]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175
[jobs were not substantially equivalent where hours, duties, and authority were same though pay and benefits less and jobs should have been offered to unreinstated economic strikers as E unilaterally set wages and benefits after strike ended and after unconditional offer to return made by strikers]

U.S. Mineral Products Co. 276 NLRB No. 022
(permanently replaced economic strikers' entitlement to reinstatement is limited to being put on preferential hiring list with E not being required to reinstate economic striker unless and until his former job or its equivalent comes open by termination or expansion. However, once striker accepts permanent employment elsewhere, he ceases to be Ee of E and is no longer entitled to reinstatement rights)

U.S. Mineral Products Co. 276 NLRB No. 022
]substantially equivalent employment includes same shift; and had economic striker refused any but first shift (striker's prior work shift) she would not have lost her status on preferential hiring list)

U.S. Mineral Products Co. 276 NLRB No. 022
(no limitation on length of time economic striker has reinstatement rights and burden on E to contact economic strikers who have asked for reinstatement when openings occur)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(existence of temporary job is not equivalent of vacancy to which striker should have been reinstated)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(temporary nature of job is critical factor in determining whether it is substantially equivalent to what position a striker had held)

The Kroger Company JD-(ATL)-23-85
(discharging and thereafter refusing to reinstate Ees because of their participation in strike, violative)

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 785 F.2d 249 (C.A. 8, Mar. 1986)
[failure of E to offer economic strikers reinstatement to jobs they were qualified for though not same or substantially equivalent to prestrike position, violative, as E had policy of cross-training and developing multiple capabilities for its Ees and did, in fact, transfer new Ees into positions that unreinstated strikers qualified for; therefore, E's recall policy clearly discriminated against unreinstated strikers in favor of new job applicants and Ees -- including permanent striker replacements -- already on payroll]

5079-2825 Except as new employees

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[utilizing break in service rule to deprive reinstated economic strikers of their prior seniority, treating them as new Ees, and assigning them new hourly wage rate different from that earned before strike, unlawful]

5079-2831 Unconditional offer to return to work

Aluminum Welding & Machine Works, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 062
[E's refusal to reinstate economic striker, violative, notwithstanding E's contention that faster work of new Ee constituted justification for refusal to reinstate striker where striker had made unconditional offer to return, job for which he was qualified was available, and E instead hired new Ee]

Georjan, Inc. and/or Fort Mason Enterprises, Inc. and/or Latrobe Speedway 281 NLRB No. 129
[failure to reinstate strikers after they gave unconditional offer to return to work, violative]

Service Electric Company 281 NLRB No. 107
[in instant case, even under terms of settlement agreement, it was striking Ees---not E---who had burden of taking initiative in order to trigger (E's) reinstatement obligation]

Hansen Brothers Enterprises 279 NLRB No. 098
[although U's offer on behalf of economic strikers to return to work, coupled with demand that all strikers be immediately reinstated and striker replacements be discharged, was conditional, Bd held E unlawfully refused to reinstate strikers since replacements were temporary and U's offer was therefore appropriate, where E's communications to strikers concerning reemployment rights and to replacements concerning their permanent Ee status were noncommital, and its statements showing own intent to permanently employ replacements, failed to satisfy E's burden of showing mutual understanding between itself and replacements that they were permanent]

Pacific Mutual Door Company 278 NLRB No. 120
[where E retained control over Ees leased to it by joint E and Ees began work of unreinstated drivers on permanent basis after unreinstated drivers unconditionally requested reinstatement, Bd found that jobs of unreinstated drivers were not eliminated and that E in essence hired new Ees instead of reinstating two economic strikers after their unconditional request for reinstatement; thus, E's matured reinstatement obligation to strikers was not obviated by E's contract with joint E that leased drivers to E and E's failure to reinstate strikers on date of contract, violative]

Hitacount Corp., A Subsidiary of S.C.M. Corporation 278 NLRB No. 104
[E held not obliged to reinstate economic strikers where their offer to return to work was conditional on immediate reinstatement of all strikers; anyway, E was, in no position to reinstate all strikers because of impact strike had on its business, the hiring of permanent replacements, and other factors; fact that E thereafter offered to recall all strikers over period of time did not prove that unconditional offer to return to work was made in first place or serve to impose on E obligation to treat conditional offer as if it were unconditional]

Hitacount Corp., A Subsidiary of S.C.M. Corporation 278 NLRB No. 104
[E held to have honored economic striker's unconditional offer to return to work in timely fashion where striker first responded to E's offer of reinstatement that she intended to return to night shift which at the time was not operational; then when E reinstated night shift E inadvertently neglected to notify striker of vacancy on night shift but quickly remedied inadvertentency by hiring striker when she applied for night shift job]

Zartic, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 171
[permanently replacing strikers by failing to go to preferential recall list and hiring new Ees, violation that prolonged strike and converted it to ULP strike]

Zartic, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 171
[refusing to allow U card signer to return to work with other strikers who had stayed out due to fear and refusing to recall her when it recalled other Ee who had signed recall list at same time she had, violation]

Dublin Town, Ltd. JD-(NY)-11-85
(E's failure to reinstate Ee (whether as ULP striker or economic striker after Ee made unconditional request for reinstatement violative, where no bona fide permanent replacement was hired)

Embossing Printers, Inc. JD-19-85
(economic strikers rejection of unconditional offer of reinstatement (offer held unconditional notwithstanding it included strikers accepting unilateral changes to their health benefits as these changes were found to be lawful) converted their status to voluntary quits)

5079-2834 Failure to follow seniority

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[no universal theory that E must follow seniority in recall of economic strikers. GC must establish existence of seniority recall rights by reference to collective-bargaining agreement or binding established past practice. However, even assuming either of above conditions proved, there must be alleged Sec. 8(a)(5) charge; otherwise, E free to devise new recall procedure as long as it is applied consistently. Here, all 8(a)(5) charges (unilateral changes) withdrawn; therefore, E did not violate Sec. 8(a)(3) by failing to recall strikers by seniority]

Pacific Mutual Door Company 278 NLRB No. 120
[E's offer of reinstatement to two economic strikers were neither invalid, conditional nor discriminatory, notwithstanding facts that offers were made seriation, not by seniority, and directly to Ees; fact that reinstatement offers were made to less than all eligible former strikers at onetime did not render each offer invalid; thus, rejection of E's reinstatement offers to eligible strikers tolled their backpay and satisfied E's reinstatement obligation with respect to alleged ULPs]

Indiana Desk Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 165
(no violation where E did not follow seniority in offering jobs to economic strikers, but rather offered jobs to Ees who held the same jobs before strike and in event of unavailability or declination by that Ee it then offered job to most qualified other striking Ee)

5079-2837 Under terms of strike settlement agreement

Hotel Holiday Inn De Isla Verde 278 NLRB No. 147
[upon ct remand, Bd deferred to strike settlement agreement restricting conditions of reemployment of economic strikers allegedly discharged for misconduct, and vacated its order requiring reinstatement where at time of settlement, there was no finding strikers had been unlawfully discharged and, thus, they did not have legal right to remedy nor did E have legal obligation to provide remedy; here, in return for meeting on some middle ground, E voluntarily offered to reinstate strikers, and both E and U voluntarily offered to forgo any adjudication rights they might have had]

Hotel Holiday Inn De Isla Verde 278 NLRB No. 147
[in deferring, pursuant to ct remand, to strike settlement agreement restricting conditions of reemployment of economic strikers allegedly discharged for misconduct, and vacating its order requiring reinstatement, Bd, in addition to its stated reasons for so holding, based deferral on absence of evidence or allegation that settlement was entered into fraudulently or under duress]

Gaso Pumps, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 076
(E's insisting to impasse on, and subsequently unilaterally implementing, strike settlement proposal limiting reinstatement rights of striking Ees to 6 months after termination of strike, violative, where U had never agreed to settlement agreement during negotiations and E had not shown that legitimate and substantial business justifications existed for its limitations on strikers' reinstatement rights; Ees may not be deprived of statutory rights in the absence of a clear and unmistakable waiver of those rights)

5079-2874 Not unlawful if legitimate and substantial business justification

Aluminum Welding & Machine Works, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 062
[E's refusal to reinstate economic striker, violative, notwithstanding E's contention that faster work of new Ee constituted justification for refusal to reinstate striker where striker had made unconditional offer to return, job for which he was qualified was available, and E instead hired new Ee]

Weyerhaeuser Company — 274 NLRB No. 130
(failure to recall and reinstate economic strikers on reopening plant - closed down for nonstrike related economic conditions - 2 years after it shut down and 18 months after strike ended, not violative, because failure to recall not attributable to replacements or to strike related reduction in work but to contract provision in work but to contract provision which stated that Ee shall be considered terminated and seniority lost if on layoff for 12 months, and when strike ended economic strikers joined nonstrikers on layoff status and there position is no different than other Ees just because they were economic strikers)

Gaso Pumps, Inc. — 274 NLRB No. 076
(E's insisting to impasse on, and subsequently unilaterally implementing, strike settlement proposal limiting reinstatement rights of striking Ees to 6 months after termination of strike, violative, where U had never agreed to settlement agreement during negotiations and E had not shown that legitimate and substantial business justifications existed for its limitations on strikers' reinstatement rights; Ees may not be deprived of statutory rights in the absence of a clear and unmistakable waiver of those rights)

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. — 806 F.2d 185 (C.A. 8, Nov. 1986)
[E who refused to reinstate economic strikers violates Act unless he shows that his action was based on legitimate and substantial business justifications. Burden of proof is on E]

5079-2875 Not unlawful absent discriminatory motivation

Ralphs Grocery Company — JD-(SF)-111-86
[E's layoff and refusal to reinstate Ees who refused to cross primary picket line established by U in course of dispute with E involving another bargaining unit, not unlawful, since not for Ees' protected activity, where work performed by laid off Ees was transferred to another location, fact transfer of work coincided with strike happenstance, and laid off Ees had no contractual right to work at other location which was in different unit, and absent evidence of unlawful motivation of E or deviation from its usual practices]

5079-2881 Disqualified by strike misconduct

Guy F. Atkinson d/b/a Bingham-Willamette Company — 279 NLRB No. 037
[E's refusal to reinstate two former economic strikers, both of whom had served as U steward, and one of whom had been picket captain, not unlawful, since justified by their strike misconduct of throwing eggs at vehicles and beating on van of non-striking Ee, and hitting non-striking Ee in face; fact non-striker who assaulted and threatened picket stating he had gun, and whose friend took picket's possessions, was given only two day suspension did not constitute unlawful disparate treatment, since his conduct did not render non-striker unfit for futher employment in view of his prompt apology and offer of restitution]

Keco Industries, Inc. — 276 NLRB No. 167
(E's refusal to reinstate former striker who carried gun in vicinity of plant entrance used by non-striking Ees, not unlawful, since former striker's conduct would reasonably tend to coerce or intimidate Ees in exercise their Section 7 rights)

Keco Industries, Inc. — 276 NLRB No. 167
(refusal to reinstate former striker, not unlawful, where former striker had struck non-striking Ee in face, banged fist on winshield of car and called another non-striking Ee who was in car scab, and made offensive, obscene remarks to woman personnel manager)

Keco Industries, Inc. — 276 NLRB No. 167
(refusal to reinstate former striker, not unlawful, where former striker slashed tire of truck on loading dock at E on fifth day of strike)

Keco Industries, Inc. — 276 NLRB No. 167
(refusal to reinstate former striker, not unlawful, where former striker threw rock at car transporting non-striking Ees)

National Council of Young Israel d/b/a Shalom Nursing Home — 276 NLRB No. 118
(ex-striker who joined with other pickets who were black in calling replacement Ees nigger, not barred from reinstatement, since participation in incident, taken in overall context, would not lead to such strained relations with other Ees were she permitted to return to work)

National Council of Young Israel d/b/a Shalom Nursing Home — 276 NLRB No. 118
(ex-striker who asked Ee who was in wheelchair Why don't you get up and walk? and told supervisor whose sister was amputee that her sister had a peg leg, and screamed at Ee whose husband had died suddenly near picket line We got one. We killed some white trash. not barred from reinstatement, since conduct isolated and racist remark may well have been precipitated by unfair accusation that she was cause of heart attack that lead to death of Ee's husband near picket line)

National Council of Young Israel d/b/a Shalom Nursing Home — 276 NLRB No. 118
(ex-striker properly excluded from preferential hiring list for reinstatement, absent evidence to refute report that while picketing, w/o provocation, he hit Ee with stick and told him he would end up in pine box as this was an assault with threat that Ee would be killed)

MGM Grand Hotel — 275 NLRB No. 146
(calling nonstriker scab is not type of strike misconduct that justifies refusal of reinstatement)

Catalytic, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 016
(discharge of striking Ee for misconduct, violative, where misconduct consisted of brief telephone call to nonstriking Ee's home which wife answered and striker said you G-d damned bitch and hung up, as this call, though unlawful under State law, was neither coercive nor intimidating, nor was there any evidence that striker knew of other calls made to residence or participated in any plan of harassment)

Bacardi Corporation — JD-157-85
(no violation for not reinstating economic striker who threw stone that struck Ee's vehicle and did $35 damage)

Middlesex Builders Inc. — JD-(NY)-33-85
(refusal to reinstate most active U supporters, violative where E failed to prove their alleged strike misconduct duringeconomic strike and was shown to have stated that he intended to get rid of them)

5079-2900 Preconditions to reinstatement

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company — 280 NLRB No. 077
[E's response to U's unconditional offer of ULP strikers to return to work was that it would reemploy them only as work became available and then only under unlawfully implemented terms and conditions of employment, violative, and backpay starts from day of offer to return to work]

Histacount Corp., A Subsidiary of S.C.M. Corporation — 278 NLRB No. 104
[E held to have honored economic striker's unconditional offer to return to work in timely fashion where striker first responded to E's offer of reinstatement that she intended to return to night shift which at the time was not operational; then when E reinstated night shift E inadvertently neglected to notify striker of vacancy on night shift but quickly remedied inadvertentency by hiring striker when she applied for night shift job]

U.S. Mineral Products Co. — 276 NLRB No. 022
(permanently replaced economic strikers' entitlement to reinstatement is limited to being put on preferential hiring list with E not being required to reinstate economic striker unless and until his former job or its equivalent comes open by termination or expansion. However, once striker accepts permanent employment elsewhere, he ceases to be Ee of E and is no longer entitled to reinstatement rights)

Abe Ochs, An Individual, d/b/a Kingform Cap Company — JD-188-85
(conditioning offer of reinstatement upon Ee's agreeing not to discuss the U upon returning to work and to withdraw pending ULP charges, violative)

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. v. N.L.R.B. — 803 F.2d 1333 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1986)
[refusal to reinstate striker whose prior work performance was deficient and included customer complaints, 16 reprimands, fights with other Ees, and ptn signed by 13 Ees following strike requesting that Ee not be reinstated, not unlawful, notwithstanding contention that E tolerated Ee's poor work performance in past and waited to discharge him until after his participation in strike, absent evidence of improper motive for refusal to reinstate where Ee's participation in strike was no more than other striking Ees and no other Ee engaging in same type or level of activity was discharged]

N.L.R.B. v. Jarm Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Blu-Fountain Manor — 785 F.2d 195 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)
[when a strike starts as or becomes a ULP strike, striking Ees are entitled to immediate reinstatement whenever they so request regardless of whether permanent strike replacements have been hired]

5079-4217 Where replaced

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[no imposition on part of U of all or none condition or waiver of U's unconditional offer to return to work where objecting to E's unlawful reinstatement procedure of taking ULP strikers as work became available (piecemeal) rather than discharging replacements, U said Ees would not return piecemeal]

Workroom For Designers, Inc. and Sidney H. Sizelman, an Individual 274 NLRB No. 115

(failure to reinstate ULP strikers when replacements were still performing strikers' former jobs and reinstatement of striker to another job than her former job while that job was being performed by a replacement, violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. 782 F.2d 7 (C.A. 1, Jan. 1986)

[E's refusal to dismiss replacements hired for strikers after conversion of economic strike to ULP strike, and reinstate strikers, unlawful]

N.L.R.B. v. Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. 782 F.2d 7 (C.A. 1, Jan. 1986)

[E ordered to place former strikers replaced during economic phase of strike which subsequently converted to ULP strike, on preferential hiring list; E's contention order punitive and abuse of Bd's discretion since more expansive than violation, rejected, where Bd found both precise violation of Sec. 8(a)(3) for refusing to reinstate strikers replaced after conversion of strike to ULP strike, and a general violation of Secs. 8(a)(3) and (1) in its general disregard of reinstatement rights of all ULP strikers; nor did fact no violation of Ees' preferential hiring rights had yet occured render order inappropriate]

N.L.R.B. v. Jarm Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Blu-Fountain Manor 785 F.2d 195 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[successor E's refusal to reinstate striking Ees of predecessor E who had been replaced, violative, and successor held liable for predecessor's ULP which converted strike to ULP strike, since successor purchased business with knowledge of predecessor's ULP; further, successor's contention that ULP charge against predecessor had originally been dismissed and thus it had no notice of potential reinstatement liability, rejected, since it assumed the risk that the actions may later be found unlawful]

5079-4219 To former or substantially equivalent position

N.L.R.B. v. Seligman and Associates, Inc., and Its Wholly Owned Division, Scott Management Company 808 F.2d 1155 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1986)

[offer of reinstatement phrased as a question such as If (E) offered you your job back with backpay, would you take it? not invalid. However, offer must still indicate availability of former (job) or comparable position. E's offer, in instant case, did not convey that there was job immediately available. Question put to Ee as to whether he would return to work if offered reinstatement does not present specific, unequivocal offer of reinstatement]

5079-4230 Unconditional offer to return to work

Rapid Armored Truck Corp. 281 NLRB No. 057

[former strikers who stated to E we would like to return to work or we would like our jobs back made unconditional offers to return to work; however, former strikers who asked what the chances were of returning to work did not make unconditional offers to return to work]

Brookhurst Professional Building, Inc., Number Three d/b/a Browning Manor Convalescent Hospital 279 NLRB No. 172

[no unlawful refusal to reinstate economic strikers where E had hired permanent replacements, U never made unconditional offer for its striking members to return to work where it attached conditions to its offer, and E asked strikers to register, rather than to apply as it usually understood, for preferential hiring list]

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84

(U's statement that ULP strikers would return to work as a group held not to constitute conditional offer to return to work)

Dublin Town, Ltd. JD-(NY)-11-85

(E's failure to reinstate Ee (whether as ULP striker or economic striker after Ee made unconditional request for reinstatement violative, where no bona fide permanent replacement was hired)

N.L.R.B. v. Preterm, Inc. 784 F.2d 426 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1986)

[whether offer to return to work was conditional or unconditional is question of fact for Bd to determine. Bd's finding deemed conclusive if supported by substantial evidence on the record as a whole]

N.L.R.B. v. Preterm, Inc. 784 F.2d 426 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1986)

[burden of proof to show that offer to return to work was other than unconditional is on E]

5079-4283 Disqualified by strike misconduct

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[ULP striker forfeited rights to reinstatement and backpay by throwing nails on main driveway to plant notwithstanding guard and nonstriking Ees first threw nails beside picketing strikers' cars]

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[where group of pickets carrying baseball-bat-sized sticks approached and surrounded car of nonstriker which frightened driver so that car lurched forward and struck picket who, in turn, struck car with her stick, as did other pickets, and as car propelled her off to driver's side struck car again, Bd found that pickets did more than just block car's ingress and their misconduct would reasonably tend to intimidate Ee; therefore, discharge of picket not violative]

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[throwing rocks at nonstriking Ees' vehicles grounds for not reinstating strikers]

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[dropping nails in pathway of cars entering on exiting plant, grounds for refusing reinstatement]

[throwing bottle of paint and striking supervisor's car gounds for refusing reinstatement]

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[stabbing at tire with ice pick grounds for refusing reinstatement notwithstanding tire was not damaged]

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[post discharge conduct of breaking glass in roadway grounds for lawfully refusing reinstatement. Backpay runs until time of this conduct and not when wrongfully discharged by E]

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[picket showing nail to management official and then tossing nail under tire which then penetrated tire sufficient misconduct so as to preclude reinstatement. Cf Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. 265 NLRB No. 104, where placing single nail on roadway which was retrieved prior to causing any damage and there was no malice in act was held not so serious misconduct as to warrant discharge]

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[striker who followed delivery van from plant onto interstate highway and drove in a reckless manner by zigzagging in front of van and applying his brakes lost his right to reinstatement]

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. 276 NLRB No. 040

(E's refusal to reinstate striker, assertedly because he had participated in assault upon nonstriking Ee, violative, where striker was not actually involved in assault but rather simply told one of E's drivers who witnessed assault by another striker not to get on the radio, which was an ambiguous statement and could not show that striker acted in concert with striker engaged in serious misconduct)

N.L.R.B. v. Preterm, Inc. 784 F.2d 426 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1986)

[misconduct of striking Ee directed against patrons or customers of E, or others seeking to enter (E's) premises for business purposes, is equivalent of misconduct against fellow Ees]

N.L.R.B. v. Preterm, Inc. 784 F.2d 426 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1986)

[denial of reinstatement and backpay to ULP strikers for misconduct--spitting at non-striker, damaging non-striker's car, forcibly restraining non-striker from entering premises, telling potential patients that it was unsafe to enter premises, telling patients inside premises it was unsafe and forcibly preventing patient from entering premises]

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. v. N.L.R.B. 803 F.2d 1333 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1986)

[Es' refusal to reinstate ex-striker, who assumed responsibility for beating non-striker by another striker, and by warning witness to beating not to call for medical aid or police striker associated himself with perpetrator in this criminal act]

5079-4291 Availability for work

Radio Electric Service Company 278 NLRB No. 078
[Bd left to compliance stage determination of validity of E's claim that ULP striker was deceased and that, consequently, any reinstatement order regarding striker would be inappropriate, where Bd had no basis for determining validity of E's claim]

5079-4500 Following discharge

Olympic Limousine Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 133
[Ee is entitled to reinstatement, notwithstanding he pled guilty to assault against supervisor at plant after he was unlawfully discharged, where assault was not pre-planned, action was provoked by supervisor screaming profanities at him and E had allowed other non-Ees to enter premises w/o questioning them and thus, conduct was not so egregious so as to deny him reinstatement]

The Gateway Theatre Corporation d/b/a Senator Threatre, Capitol Hill Cinemas 277 NLRB No. 186
[discharges of Ee about whose work there had been no complaint, unlawful, since motivated by E's U animus, notwithstanding E's offer to rehire Ee and Ee's refusal because he did not wish to cross picket line, inasmuch as E's offer was not to retain Ee, but to rehire him and does not detract from fact E discharged Ee for no valid reason]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc. JD-(NY)-141-84
(unlawful refusal to reinstate found since E's letter was not valid unconditional reinstatement offer where it stated that a position was available, asked if Ee were interested w/o identifying position and gave Ee 48 hours from receipt of letter to contact E; offer was not specific, unconditional and unequivocal and did not give Ee sufficient time to make up his mind)

5079-4900 Strikers in unprotected strike

Rapid Armored Truck Corp. 281 NLRB No. 057
[E's discharge of and refusal to reinstate strikers, not unlawful, since their conduct unprotected, where strikers' objective was to compel E to recognize and bargain with U which was ineligible for certification because of its policy of admitting both guard and non-guard Ees to membership and picketing was also violative of Section 8(b)(7)(C)]

5079-5600 Following leave of absence

Judy Hornby Designs, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 168
[E's refusal to immediately reinstate Ee when she asked to return to work, not unlawful, since not because of her solicitation for U, but rather Ee, on short notice, voluntarily decided to take off whole month of December, after being refused permission by E to work 3 days a week during December; nor did E's limiting its efforts to contact Ee concerning her return to work to day telephone calls rather than also writing and calling in evening constitute lack of good faith effort to contact Ee]

5079-7000 Following sick leave

La Reina, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 103
[conditioning U activist's return to work on supplying doctor's certificate and them discharging her, violation where E had been told that Ee had not seen a doctor while ill, and E had previously discriminatorily laid her off]

5079-8600 Following quit

The Gateway Theatre Corporation d/b/a Senator Threatre, Capitol Hill Cinemas 277 NLRB No. 186
[Ee voluntarily quit, rather than was unlawfully discharged, where he left E's employ for temporary position with another E and U planned to refer him back to E; E's lawful termination of its relationship with U and unlawful discharge of other Ees who had been referred by U did not constitute discrimination against Ee]

Embossing Printers, Inc. JD-19-85
(economic strikers rejection of unconditional offer of reinstatement (offer held unconditional notwithstanding it included strikers accepting unilateral changes to their health benefits as these changes were found to be lawful) converted their status to voluntary quits)

5080 RECLASSIFICATION OF EMPLOYEES

Harold Weine; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013
[E's unilateral reclassification of its (motel) desk clerks to supervisory positions, violative, where conduct, coupled with E's other ULPs and coinciding with other violative layoffs effectuated decimation of unit. Evidence discloses no justifiable reason for such conduct and record evidence suggests there would be 1:1 ratio of supervisors to unit Ees]

5081 WITHDRAWAL OR ELIMINATION OF JOB POSTING OR CLASSIFICATION

Brocal Corp. d/b/a Alert Medical Transport 276 NLRB No. 066
(abolishing job classification (aides) and terminating all Ees in classification, violative, notwithstanding Dept. of Welfare who was E's biggest customer changed its regulations to eliminate requirement for aides, since E knew most of aides were pro-U, did not attempt to transfer them into other positions for which they were qualified and for which there was shortage of applicants)

5084 FAILURE TO OR DELAY IN RECALL

5084-3300 Laid-off employee

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[subcontracting unit work and refusing to recall laid off Ees to perform such work, unlawful, in view of E's anti-U animosity, and desire, intent and practice of retaliating against Ees for their U activities; fact that immediately following strike for recognition, E drastically increased subcontracting practice; and E's failure to sustain burden of showing that subcontracting would have been inevitable]

La Reina, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 103
[selecting U supporters for layoff and refusing to recall them when hiring new Ees, violation]

Ro-Lab Rubber Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 057
[E's failure to recall Ee prior to other Ees violated 8(a)(3), where warnings to Ee would have been given in absence of U activity and that Ee was recalled when sufficient work and application of E's criteria for recall warranted]

Safelite, Division of Lear Siegler, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 080
(E's layoff of, refusal to transfer and refusal to recall 6 Ees to new plant located only a few miles from old plant, assertedly for reasons of operational efficiency, violative, since real reason was Ees' U affiliation where E attempted to mislead U representing Ees at old plant that there were no plans to open new plant, E made clear when it announced opening of new plant that it would be non-union and no U activity would be tolerated and after E laid off 6 Ees, it immediately hired 6 new inexperienced Ees for new plant)

Safelite, Division of Lear Siegler, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 080
(E's refusal to transfer and recall 4 Ees to new plant located only a few miles from old plant, violative, notwithstanding Ees were laid off from old plant for nondiscriminatory reasons, where E's unlawful motive was demonstrated by statements that it wished to keep U out of new plant, E promised to increase wages at new plant if Ees abandoned U and E gave absolutely no reasons for its failure to transfer Ees to new plant)

P.J. Hamill Transfer Company, and Robert Blackwell, Trustee in Bankruptcy, alter ego and/or successor, and Brennan Express, Inc., alter egos 277 NLRB No. 39
(no violation, where E, alleged to be alter ego of another Respondent E, failed to recall Ees laid off by other E in accordance with their seniority with other E, or honor bargaining contract between other Respondent E and U, since it was held not to be alter ego, nor did it alone meet Bd's jurisdictional standards)

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(failure to recall laid off Ee assertedly for variety of reasons, unlawful, where E perceived Ee to be prime instigator of U's organizing activity prior to layoff; E recalled other Ees with less experience and seniority in Ee's line of work; and E's reliance on damage to equipment purportedly caused by Ee was of doubtful validity in view of E's lack of reaction to alleged incident which belied importance E now attached thereto)

Uptilt, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 065
(layoff and failure to recall Ees who posted U posters and discussed U organization, unlawful, since for their U activities, notwithstanding E's contention action was because of attendance records, where E failed to show attendance or work deficiencies of some Ees laid off, Ees were not told at time of layoff they were selected for layoff because of attendance problems, and new Ees were hired immediately after layoffs)

Laidlaw Waste Systems of Michigan, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 150
(failure to recall laid off Ee who was newly transferred to facility because he had not joined local U purusuant to U-security clause, violative where Ee had not been allowed 30-day grace period in which to join U)

Coamano Bros., Inc. 275 NLRB No. 119
(E's failure to recall Ee from layoff, not violative where E did not hire any Ee to fill position vacated by discharge of Ee)

Genwal Coal Co., Inc. 275 NLRB No. 077
(E's refusal to recall discriminatees, allegedly for overstaying lunch break and selling E's coal to others, during period it had hired several new Ees, violative where E had not rebutted GC's prima facie case by showing that newly hired Ees were more able or versatile to perform experienced Ees' mining duties and E's admission that he would not recall them because of their U activities)

Marko Contractors, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 63
(writing Ee letter stating that E's work demands in foreseeable future were such that Ee would not be recalled and that Ee had been terminated violative where Ee was only Ee not recalled, and E told another Ee that reason was that E had heard he had something to do with the U, that he had started it)

Inland Container Corporation 275 NLRB No. 60
(successor E's utilization in its hiring process of preference for a demonstrated willingness to work in a nonunion environment, and successor E's refusal to hire any Ees of predecessor because of their U membership, violati ve)

Storall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(refusal to recall laid off Ee, contrary to E's past practice, because of Ee's distribution of U literature, position on U grievance committee, and participation in strike, violative)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(layoff of U adherents indefinitely with advice to file for unemployment compensation constituted unlawful discharge where E quickly recalled less senior Ees laid off at same time and its unsupported claim of U adherents' decline in production failed to counter prima facie showing that E was motivated by U adherents' concern with prospects for new U contract in face of E's statement it was going non-U and their pro-U orientation)

Weyerhaeuser Company 274 NLRB No. 130
(failure to recall and reinstate economic strikers on reopening plant - closed down for nonstrike related economic conditions - 2 years after it shut down and 18 months after strike ended, not violative, because failure to recall not attributable to replacements or to strike related reduction in work but to contract provision in work but to contract provision which stated that Ee shall be considered terminated and seniority lost if on layoff for 12 months, and when strike ended economic strikers joined nonstrikers on layoff status and there position is no different than other Ees just because they were economic strikers)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(E deviated from past practice in sending letters to 4 laid off Ees suggesting that they seek employment elsewhere because there was no reason to believe they would be recalled. Since three of four Ees were among most prominent U adherents, Bd could reasonably view letters as evidence of E's anti-U animus)

5084-5000 Replaced economic strikers when replacement leaves

U.S. Mineral Products Co. 276 NLRB No. 022
(no limitation on length of time economic striker has reinstatement rights and burden on E to contact economic strikers who have asked for reinstatement when openings occur)

5084-5700 Economic strikers

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[failure to recall former economic strikers to available positions on machine operating crew and to transfer reinstated former striker to fill out such crew, unlawful, where E decided to bring in outside crew and then attempted to justify its action after the fact by claiming that unreinstated strikers were not qualified]

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[terminating recall rights of Ees on layoff status at commencement of economic strike, pursuant to implementation of rule treating Ees after break in service as new Ees, unlawful, where laid off Ees included those who became economic strikers by manifesting their intent to join strike by engaging in picketing]

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[termination of economic striker assertedly because he refused proffered job, unlawful, where he refused job due to medical reasons resulting from prior surgery, and proffered job was not substantially equivalent employment since job involved work on shift different from that which Ee worked prior to strike, and temporary position to which he was recalled did not provide same benefits as those received by full time Ees]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[notwithstanding no prior preemployment physical exam policy and only instituted after economic strike ended, and notwithstanding it has been applied to recalled strikers, but not all of replacement Ees have undergone physicals, no violations over instituting physical exam policy or failure to reinstate recalled striker who failed exam, even though physician said illness treatable and posed no threat to his ability to perform job, since policy of E is that all Ees will take physical, policy bore no indication of discriminatory intent, E also discharged striker replacement who had same illness and policy was reasonable response to potential liability]

Foote & Davies, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 012
[E's failure to recall sympathy striker to positions as they were vacated through attrition, assertedly because other Ees recalled had superior rights, violative, since real reason was Ee's engaging in sympathy strike where Ee made unconditional offer to return to work before vacancies occurred, Ee was not advised of openings even though he had more seniority than Ees recalled according to E's own seniority system and practice and E advanced no legitimate business reason for not recalling Ee]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175
[economic strikers should not be equated to laid-off Ees because economic strikers enjoy statutory right to reinstatement with no time limit set on exercise of reinstatement rights]

U.S. Mineral Products Co. 276 NLRB No. 022
(to job classification they held at time they commenced striking and vacancies in these positions, violative)

Weyerhaeuser Company 274 NLRB No. 130

Brady-Stannard Motor Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 178
(Bd found that after impasse wages paid to striker replacements was consistent with E's final offer to U to continue expired contract for 1 year where Bd looked at actual earnings received by replacements over 6 month period and it showed they were equal to or lower than what strikers earned in similar period in prior year notwithstanding wage package of replacements different from strikers. Therefore, no violation by offering replacements higher wage formula but where actual wages same, because it was, in effect, offering same contract to replacements as one that expired and which was offered to U)

Greater Detroit Heating and Cooling, Inc. JD-116-85
(E's failure to reinstate strikers to their jobs as vacancies arose after they made unconditional offer to return to work, violative)

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 785 F.2d 249 (C.A. 8, Mar. 1986)
[failure of E to offer economic strikers reinstatement to jobs they were qualified for though not same or substantially equivalent to prestrike position, violative, as E had policy of cross-training and developing multiple capabilities for its Ees and did, in fact, transfer new Ees into positions that unreinstated strikers qualified for; therefore, E's recall policy clearly discriminated against unreinstated strikers in favor of new job applicants and Ees -- including permanent striker replacements -- already on payroll]

N.L.R.B. v. Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Association, et al. 751 F.2d 1571 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)
(no violation by refusing to recall economic strikers where their positions had been eliminated for bona fide economic reason, replacements for them had not been hired, and non-strikers occupying similar positions had been permanently transferred to other jobs)

5090 UNION SECURITY REQUIREMENTS

5090-0100 Generally

Donald Dean d/b/a D.C. Construction Company 276 NLRB No. 097
(fact that E discriminates to encourage U membership on basis of its own perception of its obligations to U imposes no automatic liability upon U where E's action is not taken under compulsion of exclusive hiring arrangement or pursuant to U request)

5090-0167 Purpose of proviso

Graphic Communications District Council No. 2, etc. (Ray Cole, Division Manager Data Documents, Inc.) 278 NLRB No. 052
[first proviso of 8(a)(3), subjecting statutory guarantees against employment discrimination to agreement requiring membership in U as condition of employment by tender of periodic dues and fees, must be literally observed and strictly limited in its restriction of Ees' normal exercise of their Sec. 7 right to refrain from membership or support of a U]

5090-5000 Prerequisites for validity of union-security requirements

5090-5033 Majority status of contracting union at time of execution

Matlack, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 036
[E unlawfully refused to bargain with U representing majority of its Ees, rendered unlawful assistance to another U not having such representation, and discriminated in hire and tenure of Ees by entering into and maintaining U security contract with other U and by requiring Ees to join latter U and pay specified initiation fees and dues]

James Nederlander d/b/a Ned West, Inc., d/b/a Pacific Amphitheatre 276 NLRB No. 008
(E and assisted U unlawfully entered into, maintained, and enforced U security contract covering Ees at E's new facility at time that U, having been recognized at time that Ees had not yet been hired, did not represent uncoerced majority of Ees)

Ryder/P.I.E. Nationwide 275 NLRB No. 084
(E's and U's execution of contract, found violative of 8(a)(2) and 8(b)(1)(A) because U did not have valid majority in Ee unit at time contract was executed, held not violative of 8(a)(3) or 8(b)(2) since contract did not have U-security provision)

Rainey Security Agency, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 041
(E violated 8(a)(3) and U violated 8(b)(2) by including U security clause in contract which they had unlawfully entered into, and thereafter by enforcing it, where U did not represent uncoerced majority either because it never obtained authorization cards from majority of Ees or because, if it did, authorization cards may have been poisoned by dues deduction forms furnished to applicants to fill out even before E's operations had begun and by accompanying statements made by U's agents that applicants had to join U)

Haddon House Food Products, Inc. and Flavor Delight, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 182 (C.A. 3, June 1985)
(E's recognizing and entering into contract containing U security with U purusuant to card check, and that U's accepting recognition and entering into contract, violative, since, at time above events took place, there was real qcr where another U had on file with Bd a valid R ptn known to E at time it recognized former U; further, former U's defense that it had no knowledge of latter U's R ptn at time it initiated card check, rejected)

5090-5077 30-day grace period requirement

5090-5077-2000 Full 30 days

Laidlaw Waste Systems of Michigan, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 150
(failure to recall laid off Ee who was newly transferred to facility because he had not joined local U purusuant to U-security clause, violative where Ee had not been allowed 30-day grace period in which to join U)

5090-6700 Execution or maintenance of invalid union-security agreement

5090-6720 Contract with assisted union

Roundup Company d/b/a Meyer's Cafe & Konditorei, A Wholly Owned Subsidiary of Fred Meyer, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 001
[executing contract with U security clause, violation where U did not represent uncoerced majority, E knew that its contract with U representing other of its Ees arguably covered them, and E enforced U-security clause by soliciting initiation fees and dues for U]

Matlack, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 036
[E unlawfully refused to bargain with U representing majority of its Ees, rendered unlawful assistance to another U not having such representation, and discriminated in hire and tenure of Ees by entering into and maintaining U security contract with other U and by requiring Ees to join latter U and pay specified initiation fees and dues]

Safeway Stores, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 099
(E and U violated 8(a)(3) and 8(b)(2), respectively, where E maintained U-security clause in invalid agreement with unlawfully assisted U, pursuant to which E deducted U dues w/o obtaining dues deduction authorization forms from Ees, and U actually or constractively received such dues deductions)

James Nederlander d/b/a Ned West, Inc., d/b/a Pacific Amphitheatre 276 NLRB No. 008
(E and assisted U unlawfully entered into, maintained, and enforced U security contract covering Ees at E's new facility at time that U, having been recognized at time that Ees had not yet been hired, did not represent uncoerced majority of Ees)

Big E Leasing and Service Corp. and RJE Leasing, Pittsburgh Division, Corp. 275 NLRB No. 182
(E's applying illegal prehire agreement containing U security clause to unlawfully assisted U and discriminating against other job applicants by hiring only applicants referred by U, violative)

Ryder/P.I.E. Nationwide 275 NLRB No. 084
(E's and U's execution of contract, found violative of 8(a)(2) and 8(b)(1)(A) because U did not have valid majority in Ee unit at time contract was executed, held not violative of 8(a)(3) or 8(b)(2) since contract did not have U-security provision)

5090-6722 While question of representation pending

Metropolitan Teletronics Corp. 279 NLRB No. 134
[grant of recognition to and execution of contract containing U security clause with one of two Us which had represented Ees transferred from two closed plants, not violation where Ees from plant who were formerly represented by recognized U constituted 63 percent of merged work force and Ees from other closed plant represented by other U denied recognition constituted no more than 5 percent of work force recognized]

Haddon House Food Products, Inc. and Flavor Delight, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 182 (C.A. 3, June 1985)
(E's recognizing and entering into contract containing U security with U purusuant to card check, and that U's accepting recognition and entering into contract, violative, since, at time above events took place, there was real qcr where another U had on file with Bd a valid R ptn known to E at time it recognized former U; further, former U's defense that it had no knowledge of latter U's R ptn at time it initiated card check, rejected)

5090-8300 Illegal enforcement of valid union- security agreement

5090-8307 Extension of contract to nonconsenting employees

United States Steel Corporation 280 NLRB No. 098
[including U-security clause in pre-hire agreement with U, violation where E offered unlawful recognition to u representing existing unit to which the Ees were unlawfully accreted]

Harte & Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 128
[no violation, where E and U agreed to extend bargaining agreement with security clause in effect at former facility to E's newly purchased facility, since new facility was essentially extension of E's old operation where new plant produced same products using same machinery, Ees performed essentially same functions. Contention move not mere relocation since it took too long for substantial percentage of transferees to arrive at new plant, rejected, since transferees constituted more than 40% of new work force on date transfer process substantially completed, and 8 month period to complete transfer operations not unreasonable herein]

5090-8314 Discharge for reasons other than nonpayment of fees and dues

Charles A. Drescher & Son, Inc. and Drescher Paper Box JD-205-86
[violation by discharging Ee for 3 days for sole purpose of preventing his having to join U pursuant to U-security clause in mistaken belief that hiatus would start a second non-U 31-day period in U-security clause]

5090-8317 Discharge for nonpayment of dues

Helmsley-Spear, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 043
(E did not violate 8(a)(3) where, in discharging Ee pursuant to U demand allegedly because of dues delinquency, E had no reasonable grounds to believe, prior to discharge, that U's demand was not lawfully motivated or that U failed to properly notify Ee of dues delinquency)

5090-8350 Unauthorized deduction of union dues

Rainey Security Agency, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 041
(in determining that E violated 8(a)(1) and 8(a)(3) by presenting job applicants with dues deduction forms and telling them they had to join U, ALJ relied on totality of circumstances, including coercive implications of inclusion of check-off forms in job application process, unconvincing state of record as to authorization cards gathered by U president, and indications that E's officials were seeking to choose U to represent Ees; and Bd's full statutory powers encompass authority to sever bargaining relationship with an unstable foundation as found herein, in order to afford Ees complete and unhampered freedom of choice)

Rainey Security Agency, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 041
(E violated 8(a)(1) and 8(a)(3) by presenting job applicants with dues deduction forms during application process and telling them that they had to join U, where U did not represent uncoerced majority either because it never obtained authorization cards from majority of Ees or because, if it did, authorization cards may have been poisoned by dues deduction forms furnished to applicants to fill out even before E's operations had begun and by accompanying statements made by E's agents that applicants had to join U)

5090-8396 Union membership terminated without discriminatee receiving adequate notice and opportunity to comply

Helmsley-Spear, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 043
(E did not violate 8(a)(3) where, in discharging Ee pursuant to U demand allegedly because of dues delinquency, E had no reasonable grounds to believe, prior to discharge, that U's demand was not lawfully motivated or that U failed to properly notify Ee of dues delinquency)

6700 INDICIA OF INTENT TO ENCOURAGE OR DISCOURAGE UNION MEMBERSHIP

6701 GENERALLY

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)

(improper motivation need not be demonstrated by direct evidence but may be inferred from all circumstances and must be upheld if it is reasonable in light of proven facts)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)

(while GC must usually show that E knew about individual Ee's U activities before Bd may conclude E violated Sec. 8(a)(3), GC may also prevail by showing E ordered general layoffs for purpose of discouraging U activities of some. This theory is viable even though some Ees who actually opposed U were laid off with their pro-U counterparts, or if all pro-U Ees not laid off. Focus is on E's motivation in ordering extensive layoffs, rather than upon pro-U or anti-U status of particular Ees)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)

(E's decision to have mass layoff w/i hours after becoming aware of U's organizational effort suports Bd's inference of improper motivation)

6705 ADVANCE INDICATION OF INTENTION TO DISCHARGE

Turnbull Cone Baking Company of Tennessee v. N.L.R.B. 778 F.2d 8 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1985)

[announcement of intent to discharge or otherwise retaliate against Ee for engaging in protected activity held especially persuasive evidence that discharge of Ee was unlawfully motivated]

6708 ANTIUNION ATTITUDE OF EMPLOYER

6708-0100 Generally

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091

[discharge assertedly for Ee's failure to comply with trucking company's rule requiring reporting of damage to vehicles due to accidents, unlawful, in view of E's animus toward U and its supporters, and awareness of Ee's U support and his strike and picketing activity]

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)

[E's knowledge of Ees' U activities and anti-U animus based on small plant doctrine, properly inferred where Ees openly discussed U representation in main room of small facility in presence of management and supervisors, decision to terminate Ees was made evening after one Ee told other Ees that U representative would visit plant later in week, reasons for discharges were inconsistent and inadequate, and new Ees were hired two months after discharges]

6708-0150 Antiunion background alone insufficient to sustain finding of discrimination

Shoreline South Intermediate Care, Inc.; Inland Pacific, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 095

(GC's contention that E, who took over facility of former E, operated only non-U facilities supported finding that E did not retain Ees of former E because of their U affiliation, rejected; such conclusion is not warranted since there is no such per se rule of law nor was such conclusion supported by facts herein)

6708-3700 Antiunion conduct found in prior Board decisions

Bronx Metal Polishing Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 031

(anti-U conduct found in prior Bd decisions involving same parties and similar issues bolstered such finding herein)

6708-5000 Antiunion conduct and remarks subsequent to discrimination

Pioneer Hotel and Gambling Hall, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 072

(discharge of Ee active on behalf of U, unlawful, where supervisors admitted to Ee and to other Ees that Ee was fired for handing out U cards; such admissions established that E knew of Ee's U activity and that E harbored type of anti-U animus that would motivate it to discharge Ee, and also established causal connection between U activity and discharge; and E failed to adduce any evidence with regard to reason for discharge or to show that there was valid nondiscriminatory reason for discharge)

Brudevor, Inc. JD-(SF)-57-86

[discharge of known U adherent, not unlawful, notwithstanding supervisors' subsequent statements that discharge was for U activity, where supervisors played no part in discharge nor was there evidence to suggest that they were in position to know actual reason for discharge; and because of family relationship with 1 supervisor, Ee knew that supervisor was simply expressing his own opinion concerning discharge]

Ballou Brick Company v. N.L.R.B. 798 F.2d 339 (C.A. 8, July 1986)

[individual demonstrations of E's anti-U motivation, together with ULPs, support finding of anti-U motivation where all laid-off Ees had signed U authorization cards, those deemed U leaders were not recalled, E listed most of laid-off Ees as potentially voting for U, and chief operating officer said Ees were laid off for U activities and told former Ee he would be considered for employment after U campaign died down]

6708-5600 Antiunion conduct and remarks at time of discrimination

Limpert Brothers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 037

(layoff of Ees, assertedly because of slack work and business losses, violative, where Ees were laid off only one day after E obtained knowledge of U activity, E informed several Ees that reason for layoff was U activity and layoff was precipitous, occurring w/o any warning to Ees)

6708-6200 Antiunion conduct and remarks prior to discrimination

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050

[discharge of Ee, assertedly for refusal to follow E's rule regarding telephone contact with E's suppliers, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where animus was shown by E's unilateral change in working conditions after U won election and E's refusal to meet with Ee as U steward, rule was not contained in E's Ee-handbook and E in fact had no blanket rule prohibiting Ee contacts with suppliers]

Kou Fu, Inc. d/b/a Peng Teng 278 NLRB No. 050

[buyer's refusal to hire some Ees of seller, unlawful since refusal motivated by their voting for U during election held between signing of contract to buy and sell company and title closing, where buyer knew of Ees' U activities, in view of its U animus as evidenced by threats, promises of benefits to induce Ees to reject U, statements that hiring conditioned on return of U card, and U failed to show Ees would have been rehired absent U activities; notwithstanding fact that U rehired some U adherents]

Service Merchandise Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 023

[E's discharge of drivers and warehouse Ee who had been driver and subcontracting driving operations, unlawful, where for support of drivers' association and threat to seek representation by outside U, in view of E's expressed opposition to outside U, summary nature of discharges, and secrecy of negotiations for subcontracting; contention subcontracting motivated by economic considerations, rejected, where subcontracting resulted in 25% increase in cost even though fewer miles driven over private driver operation]

Joseph A. Perry d/b/a Holiday Inn-Glendale 277 NLRB No. 145

(mass discharge of Ees, assertedly because of insubordination and because E received a bad hotel inspection, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were discharged w/i 2 days of E's knowledge thereof, E gave shifting reasons, threatened Ees with reprisals for U activity and unlawfully interrogated Ees)

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093

(E's implementation of new warning system for lateness and absenteeism following election between rival Us, violative, where unlawful motive was shown by statements to Ees threatening discharge for striking, plant closure and telling Ees that to choose either U was futile, E unlawfully discharged supporter of rival U pursuant to new system and E implemented new system in precipitate manner and it was applied inconsistently)

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010

(discharge of Ee unlawful where E knew of his U sympathies as evidenced by E's post-discharge statements, E gave conflicting reasons to Ee at time of discharge, E gave no explanation as to reason for discharge at hearing, and E demonstrated extreme U animus)

Genwal Coal Co., Inc. 275 NLRB No. 077

(E's refusal to recall discriminatees, allegedly for overstaying lunch break and selling E's coal to others, during period it had hired several new Ees, violative where E had not rebutted GC's prima facie case by showing that newly hired Ees were more able or versatile to perform experienced Ees' mining duties and E's admission that he would not recall them because of their U activities)

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. JD-239-86

[E's display of anti-U hostility w/i days of U election victory prior to discharges]

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)

[operations manager's statements that he would run any U representative out and that e had threatened to close facility in face of unionization could be viewed as one element supporting GC's case of unlawful discharge notwithstanding they were isolated and made five months before discharge]

6710 CONTRASTING TREATMENT

Superior Container, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 056
(no disparate treatment found in discharge of Ee, previously reinstated as consequence of ULP proceeding, for violating Ee's absentee policy where, although it appeared discipline should have been of lesser degree if misconduct was first offense, dischargee was not new Ee since he was reinstated with all rights, benefits, and privileges he previously enjoyed; GC failed to produce evidence to support his burden of proving disparate treatment; and assuming E overreacted, was unreasonable, or even arbitrary, it is well-established that E may discharge Ee for good reason, bad reason, or no reason)

6710-0100 Generally

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86
[while discipline of principal U organizer on heels of election contributed to suspicion as to nature of action by E who demonstrated propensity to discriminate, and while issue was not w/o doubt, ALJ held that, absent convincing proof of disparate treatment, suspension and subsequent discharge of U leader was not unlawful]

6710-2500 Of discriminatee and other employees

Premier Maintenance, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 003
[discharge of Ee, unlawful, since for his U activity, rather than for not calling in when he would be absent, where E did not advance Ee's absence as reason for refusal to reemploy him, but rather informed Ee that his charge before NLRB would have to be resolved before he could be rehired, and E in past had not discharged Ees for first failure to call in]

Baddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 084
[discharging Ee for alleged insubordination in remarking, when asked to work overtime, Fuck it. I am leaving, violation, where other Ees who used similar language in conversing with supervisors and were insubordinate merely received warnings]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[verbal and written warnings to U steward, violation since they showed pattern of harassment where being first in lunchroom at breaktime and using outside sidewalk violated no promulgated rule, he was warned for excessive talking, but person he was talking with was not, and his alleged insubordination in telling supervisor to take a hike did not compare with obnoxious and obscene language almost routinely directed at supervisors]

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[discharge assertedly for Ee's failure to comply with trucking company's rule requiring reporting of damage to vehicles due to accidents, unlawful, in view of absence of similar treatment of other Ees]

Products Unlimited Corp. 280 NLRB No. 041
[discharge of U adherent, unlawful, since for her U activities rather than for initial refusal to turn off her radio when requested to do so by her supervisor, where E at first suspended Ee, then subsequently contrary to usual policy, discharged her with no investigation, Ees had previously been permitted to play radios if volume did not disturb other Ees and other Ees had radios on at time U adherent was requested to turn hers off]

Yaohan of California, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 032
[discharge of Ee after he approached E and pressed him about getting second wage increase, unlawful where, following Ee's discharge, another Ee argued with E about getting wage increase but was not terminated for such conduct]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[finding of unlawful suspension and discharge of Ee, who was outstanding U advocate and leader of Ees, supported by fact that, contrary to treatment of past allegations by customers of improper Ee conduct, Ee, disciplined assertedly for same reason, was never provided opportunity to respond in writing to specification of his improper conduct, and his 8-year exemplary history, noted by E representatives' references to Ee as excellent worker and as having working record of good quality, was not given its due weight]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[finding of unlawful suspension and discipline of Ee, assertedly for improper performance of job, supported by fact that E failed to warn Ee about imposition of such discipline, and that manner in which discharge interview was conducted was not warranted by E's practice with other Ees accused of misconduct]

Port East Transfer, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 125
[discharge of Ee unlawful, where for writing pro-U graffiti on E's restroom wall since such writing protected. Discharge was for content of writing, and not for defacing E's property, inasmuch as it was common for Ees to write graffiti on restroom walls, no other Ee had been disciplined, and writings of discharged E were not so malicious, defamatory, or insubordinate as to lose protection of the Act]

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of high absenteeism, violative, since real reason was Ee's support of rival U where Ee received many warnings only after Bd conducted election between competing Us, E's implementation of new warning system was violative of 8(a)(3) and warning system was applied in disparate manner)

Book Covers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of Ee for refusing to work overtime as required by contract, violative, as practice was to excuse Ees from working assigned overtime if supervisor presented with reasonable excuse, and excuse which Ee gave, and which lay behind motivation to fire Ee, was that Ee was going to labor board to file charges against E; furthermore, no Ee ever disciplined beyond receiving oral warring before)

Duroyd Manufacturing, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 025
(discharge of Ee, unlawful, since for his U activities, rather than for profanity against E's president and insubordination in view of E's U animus and its other violations, and fact prior use of profanity by Ee against E's president, use of profanity by other Ees had been previously tolerated and harassment of Ee by president)

Hoboken Shipyards, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 212
(refusal to hire active shop steward, who had filed several grievances while employed by prior owner, allegedly for refusing to work day shift and refusing overtime work, violative where other Ees who had made such refusals were hired)

Webb Furniture Enterprises, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 180
(layoff of Ee who had singed U literature twice, unlawful, notwithstanding he was one among many Ees who signed U literature. E's contention layoff was because of his absenteeism, rejected, where another Ee who did not sign U literature and who had higher absenteeism record than Ee was retained, and in view of E's knowledge of Ee's U activities, and its U animus)

Programming & Systems, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 157
(denying Ee (U activist) her holiday pay because she missed the 2 days preceding Thanksgiving (E had rule that teachers absent before or after holiday lose pay for the holiday) violative, since E paid 2 other teachers who were absent on Monday following Thanksgiving weekend. Instance of disparate treatment where E refused to waive its holiday of pay rule with respect to U activist)

Garrett Railroad Car & Equipment, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 151
(recalling Ee (economic striker) out of seniority after strike's end, violative, since such treatment of Ee was disprate. E's action was not shown to be for some legitimate business reason or purpose and assessed in background of E's ULPs was inherently destructive of Ee Section 7 rights. Record provided sufficient evidence of E's singling out Ee striker who wanted to abandon strike (E had learned) and rendered this Ee-striker favorable disparate treatment some 3 weeks after strike ended)

Pilled of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he took company property home w/o authorization, violative, since real reason was his U activity where other Ees regularly took home company property w/o discipline and E knew Ee was active U supporter)

Pilled of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117
(E's refusal to transfer U activist out of department that admittedly was giving Ee serious medical problems, violative, where E routinely transferred other Ees from department when they had problems and Ee was transferred into undesirable department only a few days after she issued an open letter to Ees in support of U)

Confort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(E's refusal to pay Ee, who was serving as U's representative at Bd hearing, for holiday and day after because he was absent from work to be present at hearing, not violative, since E's action was pursuant to contract and past practice, and Ee was not present at hearing day before holiday for purpose of testifying under subpeona)

Maritz Communications Company, A Wholly Owned Subsidiary of Maritz, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 016
(purchaser's failure to hire Ee of seller, not unlawful, since due to loss of work rather than U affiliation; contention that purchaser was motivated by U affiliation rather than business considerations evidenced by disparate treatment, rejected, inasmuch as Ee retained had more familiarity with certain equipment; nor did purchaser's offering raise to Ee retained if Ee would relinquish U membership evidence U animus, since raise was to compensate for loss of contribution in his behalf to U pension fund)

Robins Federal Credit Union 273 NLRB No. 165
(in finding discharge of Ee acting as loan officer at E-credit union for violating E's written policy prohibiting issuance of loans to loan officer's relatives not unlawful, ALJ held that, assuming relevance of disparate treatment of supervisor, who resigned after being afforded opportunity to do so at her request, was of questionable relevance as it occurred substantially after Ee's discharge; but assuming its relevance, it was supportive of E's position that it regarded violation of its policy as dischargeable offense)

Federal Armored Express, Inc. JD-200-86
[suspension and discharge of Ee who was driver-guard for armored car company, and posted U notices, unlawful, since for his U activities rather than for loss of his drivers license, in view of E's antiU statements and where E had given other drivers who had lost licenses jobs that did not require license. E hired new drivers rather than reinstate Ee even after notified of restoration of his driving privileges]

New Galax Mirror Corporation JD-475-84
(warning leading U adherent and subsequently discharging him, assertedly for abusive statements made to another Ee in violation of company rules, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where warning was simply a pretext to coverup E's hostility towards a known U supporter and other Ees were not similarly disciplined for similar or worse conduct)

N.L.R.B. v. J. Coty Messenger Service, Inc. ———F.2d——— (C.A. 2, May 1985)
[company records indicated that other Ees with worse attendance were not terminated]

N.L.R.B. v. Bliss and Laughlin Steel Company, Inc. 754 F.2d 229 (C.A. 7, Feb. 1985)
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he was late for work, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where Ee was extremely active U organizer, Ee was in fact not late for work on day he was discharged and E's tardiness program was highly discretionary and applied to Ee in disparate manner)

6710-5000 Of union and nonunion employees or applicants for employment

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally restricting known U supporters' running of football pools to prework, lunch, and break times while continuing to allow non-U supporters to run pools during working hours, violation but not unlawful unilateral change where it only affected two Ees]

Benmit Division, U.S. Tubular, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 083
[discharging U supporter for failure to call in that he would be absent but not even disciplining non-U supporter for poor absenteeism record, disparate]

Dubose Masonry, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 125
[discharge of non-U bricklayers while U bricklayers were standing around at jobsite, violative, since GC presented prima facie case where evidence was sufficient to support inference that Ees lack of U membership was motivating factor in E's decision to terminate. E's assertion that non-U bricklayers were laid off because of decline in work at jobsite was unsupported]

T & T Machine Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 139
[inference of unlawful motivation in E's layoff of 4 members of U in-house organizing committee not dispelled by E's failure to layoff other Ees who openly favored U, nor would inference be dispelled if E had laid off Ees who had no involvement with U]

F & C Transfer Co., Inc. 277 NLRB No. 071
(E's payment of higher wages and contribution to pension fund only for those Ees in unit who were members of U, unlawful. Further, since contract on its face applied to both bonded and nonbonded Ees (only bonded Ees could become members of U), parol evidence may not be used to establish U represents only bonded Ees)

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 067
(giving preference in hiring to applicant who was willing to accede to E's anti-U posture, where discharging all but one Ee who supported U w/i 6 months after election, unlawful, especially in view of E's other violations including creating impresion of surveillance and interrogation)

Leeds Cablevision, Inc. and Cablevision Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 014
(granting disparate increases to Ees of each facility of joint E who received substantially equivalent evaluations overall, violative, since joint E intended that Ees of one of joint Es' facilities receive substantially lower increases than their counterparts because they selected U to represent them. E intended that dissimilar result occur)

Mad West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(prima facie case made out for successor's unlawful failure to rehire Ees where: 1) Ees were known U adherents, 2) majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, 3) disparate treatment as other Ees rehired were guilty of same offenses that successor alleged for not rehiring these Ees, and 4) successor found to have unlawfully refused to bargain with U, which consituted additional evidence of U animus)

Mad West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(where substantial majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, strong circumstantial evidence of U animus is present, though evidence probative and not dispositive, notwithstanding successor retained some U Ees)

Inland Container Corporation 275 NLRB No. 60
(successor E's utilization in its hiring process of preference for a demonstrated willingness to work in a nonunion environment, and successor E's refusal to hire any Ees of predecessor because of their U membership, violati ve)

E.I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company JD-(ATL)-96-84
(E's refusing to hire applicant, assertedly because Ee appeared too inflexible for E's working conditions, violative, since real reason was Ee's U involvement where E repeatedly questioned Ee during employment interview about his U sympathies, thereby learning that Ee was shop steward and active U supporter at last place of employment, and Ee had excellent work record and scored higher on E's preemployment test than other Ees that were hired)

Bowling Green-Warren County Community Hospital Corporation, d/b/a The Medical Center At Bowling Green, Kentucky v. N.L.R.B. 756 F.2d 41 (C.A. 6, Mar. 1985)
(neither 8(a)(1) nor 8(a)(3) violated by E's denial of wage increase to petitioned-for Ee unit while granting it to non-U Ees w/o explanation for such action, since in this type of case, in which either granting or withholding of increase could be found violative, all relevant circumstances should be considered to determine whether E intended to discourage U activity; and here GC stipulated that only reason for disparate treatment was advice of counsel, and there was no evidence contradicting such stipulation)

Food and Commercial Workers, Local 152 v. N.L.R.B. 768 F.2d 1463 (C.A. D.C., July 1985)
(successor E's failure to hire Ees of predecessor, unlawful, since substantial evidence discriminatorily motivated where criteria established by E for hiring i.e. discipline, health, absenteeism and safety record, applied more strictly to Ees of predecessor E than to other applicants, rule against neopotism impacted disparately against Ees of predecessor E, and only 1/6-1/5 of individuals hired by successor E were Ees of predecessor)

6710-7500 Of striking and nonstriking employees or returning strikers and replacements

6710-7500 Of striking and nonstriking employees or returning strikers and replacements

Cartridge Actuated Devices, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 066
[discharge of strikers for engaging in violent conduct and causing substantial damage to vehicles crossing picket line, unlawful, since E failed to discipline nonstriking Ees who engaged in similar conduct; Bd disagreed with view that striker's behavior of kicking vehicle was type of impulsive behavior that can be expected in course of lengthy and tense strike]

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[E's institution, shortly before end of strike, of restrictions on smoking and drinking soft drinks and coffee during reporting time at medical facility i.e. time during which patients' records turned over from outgoing to incoming shift, not violative of Sec. 8(a)(3); contention that change discriminatory where did not apply to doctors and retaliatory against striking nurses, rejected, inasmuch as restrictions applied equally to strikers and non-strikers, change not timed to retaliate against strikers since end of strike not w/i control of E, and justified by prevention of staining or burning of medical records]

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[E's unilateral reassignment of duty of recording patients' temperatures, pulse rates and respirations from unit secretaries to nurses aides upon beginning of strike and continuing policy after end of strike, not violative of Section 8(a)(3), since change applied to both strikers and non-strikers, and was justified by nurses aides greater availability at early morning hour which allowed recordation prior to doctors' rounds; however, change was violative of Section 8(a)(5)]

Guy F. Atkinson d/b/a Bingham-Willamette Company 279 NLRB No. 037
[E's refusal to reinstate two former economic strikers, both of whom had served as U steward, and one of whom had been picket captain, not unlawful, since justified by their strike miscoaduct of throwing eggs at vehicles and beating on van of non-striking Ee, and hitting non-striking Ee in face; fact non-striker who assaulted and threatened picket stating he had gun, and whose friend took picket's possessions, was given only two day suspension did not constitute unlawful disparate treatment, since his conduct did not render non-striker unfit for futher employment in view of his prompt apology and offer of restitution]

Brady-Stannard Motor Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 178
(Bd found that after impasse wages paid to striker replacements was consistent with E's final offer to U to continue expired contract for 1 year where Bd looked at actual earnings received by replacements over 6 month period and it showed they were equal to or lower than what strikers earned in similar period in prior year notwithstanding wage package of replacements different from strikers. Therefore, no violation by offering replacements higher wage formula but where actual wages same, because it was, in effect, offering same contract to replacements as one that expired and which was offered to U)

N.L.R.B. v. Harrison Ready Mix Concrete, Inc. 770 F.2d 78 (C.A. 6, Aug. 1985)
(placing strikers who abandoned strike below replacements and Ees who did not strike on seniority list, upon their reinstatement, not unlawful, since, in absence of specific and detailed findings by Bd of E's inherently destructive conduct, E neither intended nor caused any discrimination between strikers and nonstrikers or any destructive impact upon strike or U activity)

6710-8700 Of steward and other strikers or employees

Orleans International, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 169
(discharge of U steward, unlawful, since not for driving with expired license or for involvement in automobile accident but rather for his repeated filing and pursuing grievances and performance of other duties as steward, bringing intra-U charges against individual who was E's agent, his ardent bargaining positions and demands, and activities on behalf of dissident U group, where discharge was five and a half weeks after accident, discharges of other Ees in similar circumstances had been for significantly greater offenses, and in view of E's demonstrated U animus)

United Parcel Service, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 205
(suspension and discharge of U stewards for participation in strike which was in violation of no strike agreement, not unlawful, notwithstanding contention actions discriminatory because of U office these individuals held as other strikers not similarly disciplined, where U stewards went beyond simple participation and provided leadership to rank-and-file Ees by relaying messages from U business agent, picketing in more than one location, and explaining strike to television reporters)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(in finding no violation where E imposed more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, Bd considered S.Ct's Metropolitan Edison decision from standpoint of U's waiver of U officials' Sec. 7 rights to extent they have affirmative duty to prevent illegal work stoppages, U's lawful bargaining away of statutory protection accorded U officials, insufficiency of general no-strike clause to constitute waiver, relevance of arbitration decisions in establishing waiver, and establishment of waiver by circumstances surrounding bargaining relationship as well as by language of agreement itself)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(in finding no violation where E imposed more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, Bd held that, with regard to specificity requirement for naming of U officials as opposed to specificity regarding what affirmative action can be expected of U in event of unlawful strike, it has long been established that U, like an E, acts through its agents and it would be radical departure from longstanding precedent to hold that U's contractual or other obligations must be explicitly designated as responsibility of specified officials or agents)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193
(imposition of disparate disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, not unlawful, where U assumed duty to prevent unlawful strikes and thereby waived steward's statutory rights; while S.Ct in Metropolitan Edison found affirmative action cannot be required unless such requirement is bargained for, it merely held general no-strike clause was not enough to constitute waiver and left open what contractual language would suffice; here, contract unequivocally imposed duty to end unlawful strike, and stewards did not fulfill their contractual obligations even under most narrow construction of contract)

Local Union 1392, Electrical Workers v. N.L.R.B. (Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.) 786 F.2d 733 (C.A. 6, Mar. 1986)
[where E imposing more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, not unlawful where contractual language showed U intent for its officials to attempt to prevent unauthorized work stoppages, and this language constituted clear and unmistakable waiver of officials right to be free from selective discipline]

6713 DELAY IN DISCIPLINARY ACTION

6713-3300 After knowledge of facts relied upon to justify discipline

United States Postal Service 275 NLRB No. 074
(discharge of Ee who was mail carrier, unlawful, since for his threat to file grievance, rather than for his failure to notify E on third day of absence from work whether he would be at work next day, or for his poor work performance and customers complaints regarding him, where no rule or policy required Ees absent for less than week to notify E if they succeeded in obtaining substitute, which Ee had done, thus E had no rational reason to expect Ee to call, and Ee had condoned Ee's work deficiencies for approximately two months prior to discharge)

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. v. N.L.R.B. 803 F.2d 1333 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1986)
[refusal to reinstate striker whose prior work performance was deficient and included customer complaints, 16 reprimands, fights with other Ees, and ptn signed by 13 Ees following strike requesting that Ee not be reinstated, not unlawful, notwithstanding contention that E tolerated Ee's poor work performance in past and waited to discharge him until after his participation in strike, absent evidence of improper motive for refusal to reinstate where Ee's participation in strike was no more than other striking Ees and no other Ee engaging in same type or level of activity was discharged]

6713-6700 After knowledge of offense relied upon to justify discipline

The Gateway Theatre Corporation d/b/a Senator Theatre, Capitol Hill Cinemas 277 NLRB No. 186
[discharges of Ees, unlawful, since for affiliation with U, notwithstanding Ees' repeated violations of rules regarding tardiness, unauthorized persons in work area, and leaving job, in view of E's U animus and condonation of Ees' infractions]

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86
[failure of management to take corrective action at time of discovery of Ee misconduct on job reflected disinterest in counselling or preventive action and indicated interest in developing evidence which would support severe discipline such as discharge]

6715 DEPARTURE FROM ESTABLISHED PROCEDURES AND STANDARDS

6715-0100 Generally

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112
(layoff criteria that E applied was consistent with past practice regarding layoffs, and consistency with past practice undercuts suspicions that layoffs were for unlawful reasons)

6715-1000 Bonus practice

Brocal Corp. d/b/a Alert Medical Transport 276 NLRB No. 066
(giving Ees turkeys shortly before election (held December 30), violative; contention that turkeys were Christmas bonus as was past practice, rejected, as E did not have such past practice)

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019
(E's payment of year-end bonus, assertedly unlawfully discontinued, held to constitute wages and terms and conditions of employment, notwithstanding absence of formula for determining bonus amount or of prior formal pronouncement or fact that amounts varied, where bonus was uninterruptedly paid for 30 years; Ees considered bonus as established benefit and had continued expectation of receiving it; and nonpayment of bonus in proceeding year did not establish that bonus constituted discretionary gift)

Southern Maryland Hospital Center v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 666 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1986)
[failure to pay Christmas bonus, not violative, since E had paid bonus for first time in prior year which did not establish policy or practice of yearly bonus since bonuses are discretionary in nature, they must be given over significant period of time so that it would be clearly apparent to objectively reasonable E that his grant or denial of benefit at time action taken conforms to status quo]

6715-2000 Discharge procedure

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[discharge assertedly for Ee's failure to comply with trucking company's rule requiring reporting of damage to vehicles due to accidents, unlawful, in view of deviation from customary policy of investigating accidents]

Products Unlimited Corp. 280 NLRB No. 041
[discharge of U adherent, unlawful, since for her U activities rather than for initial refusal to turn off her radio when requested to do so by her supervisor, where E at first suspended Ee, then subsequently contrary to usual policy, discharged her with no investigation, Ees had previously been permitted to play radios if volume did not disturb other Ees and other Ees had radios on at time U adherent was requested to turn hers off]

Yuchan of California, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 032
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for cause, unlawful, where Ee was discharged abruptly prior to end of his work-week, just 1 day following his solicitation for U inside E's store; and discharge was contrary to E's policy of giving warning prior to discharging an Ee]

Tower Clinic 280 NLRB No. 002
[repremanding known U advocate and subsequently discharging her, assertedly because of complaint received concerning Ee's handling of patient's itemized account statement unlawful, where E departed from its customary manner of responding to patients' complaints concerning Ee behavior or work performance by failing to investigate matter and to seek explanation from Ee even though substantial confusion existed among Ees concerning procedure for production of itemized statements, and E did not follow its policy of counseling Ee and giving series of reprimands before reaching discharge stage]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[finding of unlawful suspension and discharge of Ee supported by fact that E seized upon customer's complaint about Ee's failure to make delivery to rid itself of Ee who E knew would continue to be strong U advocate and spokesman on Ees' behalf; and, in order to build case against Ee, E disregarded Ee's effort to invoke grievance procedure which should have been available to him]

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. JD-239-86
[wholesale termination of Ees which was unprecedented in company's history]

United States Postal Service JD-203-86
[discharge of probationary Ee who slipped at work, hurt his back, and was unable to work for several days, unlawful, since for filing grievance over denial of light work after being cleared for such duty and after receiving conflicting information from E's Ee relations department which said there was no light duty available for probationary Ees but that compensation unit would pay him, and compensation unit informed him he would not be paid because cleared for light duty, where not policy of E to terminate probationary Ees who lost time due to injury, and E only discharged after giving notice U would be utilized to secure his rights]

United States Postal Service (North Jersey Facility) JD-(NY)-105-85

6715-2500 Layoff procedure

T & T Machine Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 139
[sending U supporter home for alleged lack of work rather than, as previously, giving him temporary assignments such as grass cutting or car washing at no reduction in pay, but offering to retain Ee if he changed sides, unlawful]

Hunter Douglas, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 123
(discharge of Ees on second shift, which E believed to be focus of U activity, unlawful, since E failed to demonstrate same action would have taken place absent protected activity, notwithstanding E's contention it eliminated shift due to shift's lower productivity, greater management availability on first shift, reduction in indirect costs and security considerations, in view of abruptness of layoff and fact E deviated from previous layoff policy by eliminating entire shift rather than overall reduction of Ees from all shifts based on individual seniority and qualifications)

Jonas Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(layoff of U adherent out of seniority contrary to company policy, unlawful)

American Model & Pattern, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 018
(selecting two U supporters for layoff out of seniority, assertedly for economic reasons, violative, where E had past proactice of following seniority and reasons given for selecting these two Ees were shifting and contradictory)

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112
(E was under no obligation to use seniority of Ees as criterion in selection process for layoff where record did not reveal that seniority had been used in past for layoff selection)

Aluminum Technical Extrusions, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 199
(permanent layoff of Ees, assertedly because E had lost a major customer violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were laid off w/i hours after E learned of their U activity, layoff procedure was departure from E's past practice, E replaced Ees w/i a week after the layoff and failed to provide any documentation or corroboration in support of its business defense)

Thompson's Gas, Inc. and Del-Ro Transports, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 092
(intermittent layoffs, assertedly for lack of work, of Ee who had joined U, filed ULP charges, and cooperated in prosecution of U's ULP charges, not unlawful, where layoffs occurred during seasonal summer decline in business and E's strained financial condition; fact that E was not laid off in past summers was not significant because of change in Ee's work status since then)

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibralter Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(inclusion of U adherents in layoff during normal seasonal layoffs, assertedly contrary to seniority practices in past when Ees herein were retained, not unlawful, notwithstanding E's U animus and suspicious timing of layoffs shortly after election, where lesser seniority of retained Ee had little significance under circumstances herein; recall of less senior Ees before recalling Ees herein was based on past practice; and acceptance of GC's argument against E's reasons for recalling Ees other than Ees herein would require ALJ and Bd to improperly substitute their judgment for management's)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(E's substantial deviation from past practices can be indicia of anti-U animus)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(E deviated from past practice in sending letters to 4 laid off Ees suggesting that they seek employment elsewhere because there was no reason to believe they would be recalled. Since three of four Ees were among most prominent U adherents, Bd could reasonably view letters as evidence of E's anti-U animus)

Ballou Brick Company v. N.L.R.B. 798 F.2d 339 (C.A. 8, July 1986)
[layoff procedure differed from that in prior years as to layoff list being neat rather than messy, layoff speech being made by chief operating officer rather than superintendent, letters explaining layoff being handed out for first time, and, most significantly, layoffs being called permanent, rather than temporary, meaning that laid off Ees could not vote in U election]

6715-3000 Disciplinary policy

Wayne W. Sell Corporation 281 NLRB No. 082
[issuing 2 letters of reprimand to driver for failing to call E's dispatch office prior to his departure from E's facility and for failure to inform dispatch office of overload he had delivered, unlawful, since motivated by Ee's grievance activity in view of E's unlawful threats to Ee for his grievance filing, and fact prior to issuing these 2 letters to Ee w/i few days of each other, E had issued only 4 letters of reprimand in last 5 years]

Sealectro Corporation 280 NLRB No. 015
[discharge of Ee unlawful since for U adherence rather than for poor attendance and failure to notify E when he was not coming into work, in view of E's departure from usual discipline system, E's U animus, fact rule regarding reporting absences had not been consistently enforced, and that uncooperative attitude which was given as reason for discharge at hearing, but was not given at time of discharge, raises inference that real reason was pretext]

Re-Lab Rubber Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 087
[E's instituting and administering harsher disciplinary policy after its discovery of U's organizing activity, violative]

Ryder/P.I.E. Nationwide, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 109
[discharging grievant for dishonesty for theft of time discriminatory where other Ees had not been discharged for that offense]

Book Covers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of Ee for refusing to work overtime as required by contract, violative, as practice was to excuse Ees from working assigned overtime if supervisor presented with reasonable excuse, and excuse which Ee gave, and which lay behind motivation to fire Ee, was that Ee was going to labor board to file charges against E; furthermore, no Ee ever disciplined beyond receiving oral warring before)

South Nassau Communities Hospital 274 NLRB No. 179
(issuance of warnings and 1 day suspension for alleged violation of hospital's no solicitation rule to U activist who gave another Ee U pamphlet and to Ee who received pamphlet, unlawful, since for U activities of Ee who gave out pamphlet, where issuance of suspension simultaneously with warning with only cursory investigation was departure from E's usual disciplinary procedure, and in view of disparate enforcement of no solicitation rule and E's U animus)

Kansas City Terminal Elevator Company 274 NLRB No. 010
(E's imposing 3-day suspension on its Ee, U activist and shop steward, because Ee had been playing cards during scheduled working time, but during lull in production process, violative, since suspension letter received by Ee indicated that conduct for which Ee was suspended was first offense-Ee had been guilty of safety related offense but E did not consider card playing in same category-which according to E's progressive disciplinary system should have been cause only for written disciplinary warning)

Italo II Casa Romana Restaurant, Inc. JD-(SF)-50-86
[E's establishment of new disciplinary system and its issuance of disciplinary warnings to 3 Ees, violative where E failed to demonstrate that, absent Ees' recent selection of U, it would have taken disciplinary action]

6715-4000 Enforcement of plant rules

6715-4025 Imposition of more stringent rules

National Brands Beverage Dividison Curtice-Burns, Inc. JD-(NY)-95-86
[imposing more stringent assignment and reporting procedures on Ees because of their U activities, violative]

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[E's institution of rules regarding punching in and out, safety glasses, progressive discipline for absence or tardiness, smoking, leaving work areas and production standards unlawful, since in retaliation for Ees' U activity where instituted day after E received U's pin and in view of unlawful statement of E's owner prior to announcement of rule if Ees wanted E to be run like a big company, E would be run like a big company]

Fun-Sy Productions, Inc. JD-(NY)-49-85
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of lateness, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where discharge occurred shortly after E gained knowledge of U campaign, E tolerated Ee's lateness in past and discharge was made pursuant to unlawful new lateness rule promulgated by E in response to Ees' U activity)

6715-4050 Consistent enforcement rebuts discrimination

Southwire Company 277 NLRB No. 043

6715-5500 Allotment of work

Woodline Motor Freight, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 152
[E's change in policy which allowed drivers to choose from available runs on the basis of seniority to requiring drivers to take whatever run was assigned, unlawful, since done in response to Ees' support of U and because of recent issuance of ULP complaint alleging unlawfully reduced hours of work]

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 184
(E's discontinuance of truck repairman's Saturday work (when repairman worked as independent contractor for E) week after serving as U election observer held violative, since repairman's employment as independent contractor for E on Saturdeays was related to his status as full-time repairman and substitute driver-Ee for E during regular work week)

6715-6000 Leave practice

Programming & Systems, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 157
(denying Ee (U activist) her holiday pay because she missed the 2 days preceding Thanksgiving (E had rule that teachers absent before or after holiday lose pay for the holiday) violative, since E paid 2 other teachers who were absent on Monday following Thanksgiving weekend. Instance of disparate treatment where E refused to waive its holiday of pay rule with respect to U activist)

6715-7000 Recall after layoff

Acer Machine & Tool Co., Inc. JD-240-85
(refusing to recall discriminatorily laid off Ee, while other Ees had been working overtime, contrary to past practice and Ee handbook, violative)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(E deviated from past practice in sending letters to 4 laid off Ees suggesting that they seek employment elsewhere because there was no reason to believe they would be recalled. Since three of four Ees were among most prominent U adherents, Bd could reasonably view letters as evidence of E's anti-U animus)

6715-9000 Reporting requirement in case of illness

Premier Maintenance, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 003
[discharge of Ee, unlawful, since for his U activity, rather than for not calling in when he would be absent, where E did not advance Ee's absence as reason for refusal to reemploy him, but rather informed Ee that his charge before NLRB would have to be resolved before he could be rehired, and E in past had not discharged Ees for first failure to call in]

6723 DISCRIMINATORY TREATMENT OF OTHER EMPLOYEES

T & T Machine Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 139
[inference of unlawful motivation in E's layoff of 4 members of U in-house organizing committee not dispelled by E's failure to layoff other Ees who openly favored U, nor would inference be dispelled if E had laid off Ees who had no involvement with U]

The Gateway Theatre Corporation d/b/a Senator Theatre, Capitol Hill Cinemas 277 NLRB No. 186
[Ee voluntarily quit, rather than was unlawfully discharged, where he left E's employ for temporary position with another E and U planned to refer him back to E; E's lawful termination of its relationship with U and unlawful discharge of other Ees who had been referred by U did not constitute discrimination against Ee]

Lands Cablevision, Inc. and Cablevision Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 014
(granting disparate increases to Ees of each facility of joint E who received substantially equivalent evaluations overall, violative, since joint E intended that Ees of one of joint Es' facilities receive substantially lower increases than their counterparts because they selected U to represent them. E intended that dissimilar result occur)

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86
[discharge of Ees at same time that prominent U supporters were unlawfully discharged assertedly for improper conduct on job also unlawful where termination of U supporters would only have air of legitimacy if more culpable Ees herein were also included in discharges]

Dale Energy Corporation JD-202-85
(layoff of Ees by E who was debtor-in-possession unlawful, notwithstanding E's financial difficulties, since motivation for layoffs was to reach U committeeman who filed grievances, where E told U committeeman he had caused layoffs, and all Ees but committeeman recalled w/i week)

6725 DISPROPORTIONATE NUMBER OF UNION'S MEMBERS IN GROUP DISCRIMINATED AGAINST

Mod West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(prima facie case made out for successor's unlawful failure to rehire Ees where: 1) Ees were known U adherents, 2) majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, 3) disparate treatment as other Ees rehired were guilty of same offenses that successor alleged for not rehiring these Ees, and 4) successor found to have unlawfully refused to bargain with U, which constituted additional evidence of U animus)

Mod West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(where substantial majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, strong circumstantial evidence of U animus is present, though evidence probative and not dispositive, notwithstanding successor retained some U Ees)

Ballou Brick Company v. N.L.R.B. 798 F.2d 339 (C.A. 8, July 1986)
[individual demonstrations of E's anti-U motivation, together with ULPs, support finding of anti-U motivation where all laid-off Ees had signed U authorization cards, those deemed U leaders were not recalled, E listed most of laid-off Ees as potentially voting for U, and chief operating officer said Ees were laid off for U activities and told former Ee he would be considered for employment after U campaign died down]

6725-2500 Discriminatory basis for reinstating strikers

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077
[E's response to U's unconditional offer of ULP strikers to return to work was that it would reemploy them only as work became available and then only under unlawfully implemented terms and conditions of employment, violative, and backpay starts from day of offer to return to work]

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 785 F.2d 249 (C.A. 8, Mar. 1986)
[failure of E to offer economic strikers reinstatement to jobs they were qualified for though not same or substantially equivalent to prestrike position, violative, as E had policy of cross-training and developing multiple capabilities for its Ees and did, in fact, transfer new Ees into positions that unreinstated strikers qualified for; therefore, E's recall policy clearly discriminated against unreinstated strikers in favor of new job applicants and Ees -- including permanent striker replacements -- already on payroll]

Ann's Laundry & Dry Cleaners, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 026

Duroyd Manufacturing, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 025
(discharge of Ee, unlawful, since for his U activities, rather than for profanity against E's president and insubordination in view of E's U animus and its other violations, and fact prior use of profanity by Ee against E's president, use of profanity by other Ees had been previously tolerated and harassment of Ee by president)

6733 FAILURE TO GIVE BOARD EXPLANATION FOR DISCHARGE

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010
(discharge of Ee unlawful where E knew of his U sympathies as evidenced by E's post-discharge statements, E gave conflicting reasons to Ee at time of discharge, E gave no explanation as to reason for discharge at hearing, and E demonstrated extreme U animus)

Tom Wignall, Jr. and Billie Williams d/b/a Lovilia Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 186

6735 FAILURE TO TELL EMPLOYEE AT TIME OF DISCHARGE REASON THEREFOR

Cassis Management Corp. 281 NLRB No. 174

Florsheim Shoe Store Company 279 NLRB No. 133
[discharge of Ee who was member of U while working for this e in another state, not violative, notwithstanding Ee fired abruptly (only 1-1/2 hours after starting on job) and no justification given for discharge since no showing of U animus on part of E nor had E prevented former U members from working at its nonU stores]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[finding of unlawful suspension and discharge of Ee who was outstanding U advocate and leader of Ees supported by fact that only reason given to Ee for discipline was his failure to perform work properly, and he was never informed that his attitude and asserted boisterous and intrusive behavior at customer's place of business was central to E's decision to terminate him]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[finding of unlawful suspension and discharge of Ee supported by fact that E made no real effort to find out what happened regarding incident for which Ee was disciplined, E never gave Ee fair opportunity to defend himself, and there was curious lack of communication regarding reasons for discipline]

Northern District of Connecticut Iron Workers Local Union No. 15, Joint Apprenticeship Committee (Bruce Gilbert, an Individual) 278 NLRB No. 131
[violation, where U through its participation in Joint Apprentice Committee (JAC) discharged apprentice coordinator since discharge was for his intra-U activities, where he and 1 member of JAC had been rivals in campaigns for U office, and that member had appointed two other members of JAC while he was U president, in view of timing of discharge which took place when composition of committee was about to change, committee failed to specify reason for discharge and abruptness of discharge]

Uptilt, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 065

Cassis Management Corp. 281 NLRB No. 174

Wilco Business Forms, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 154
[sudden layoff of U adherent w/o prior notice followed by General Manager's comment, when U adherent was laid off, I guess you can see through that, violative, since evidence supported inference that protected U organizing activities of Ees was motivating factor in E's decision to lay off Ee]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[discharge of auto salesman who was steward, not unlawful, notwithstanding discharge abrupt and w/o immediate warning, where he was poorest producer, had failed to make guaranteed draw for several months, absent disparate treatment and in view of fact Ee was inactive steward]

Yaohan of California, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 032
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for cause, unlawful, where Ee was discharged abruptly prior to end of his work-week, just 1 day following his solicitation for U inside E's store; and discharge was contrary to E's policy of giving warning prior to discharging an Ee]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[finding of unlawful suspension and discipline of Ee, assertedly for improper performance of job, supported by fact that E failed to warn Ee about imposition of such discipline, and that manner in which discharge interview was conducted was not warranted by E's practice with other Ees accused of misconduct]

The Acme-Arsena Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 144
(discharge of U steward assertedly for various valid reasons, unlawful, where steward was never previously warned or disciplined for reasons E gave for discharging him, all of which were merely grossly exaggerated pretext advanced by E to conceal its unlawful motive of discharging steward for engaging in protected activity of complaining to E about work jurisdiction and safety matters)

Tom Wignall, Jr. and Billie Williams d/b/a Lorilia Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 186

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 184
(discharge of Ee, U activist, because of his incompetence and incompatibility violative, since Ee had 10-year record of no discipline with E; general manager discharged Ee approximately 1 week after Ee became openly involved in U organizing activities, received wage increase 2 months before discharge and incidents that allegedly served as basis for discharge were not brought to Ee's attention at time they occurred)

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibralter Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(E's failure to investigate Ee's conduct relied on by E for discharging him, assertedly because of lateness and absences, and to warn Ee that his absence record was not satisfactory, held indication of intent to discriminatorily discharge U adherent)

N.L..R.B. v. Malta Construction Company 806 F.2d 1009 (C.A. 11, Dec. 1986)
[discharge of Ee for deliberate interference with production and refusing work assignment, followinstructions during U campaign when Ee refused to remove U sticker from his E supplied hard hat when Ee was on his water break assisting fellow Ee who had a stuck front-end loader, held violative, since GC proved existence of presumptively invalid rule banning U insignia on hard hats and E did not prove any special circumstance to justify its rule. Ee had never been warned or disciplined for his behavior prior to his taking about U]

6740-5000 Pretext

Bridgeway Oldsmobile, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 165
[although ALJ found E's proferred reason for discharge of Ee, i.e., insubordination, was wholly pretextual and real reason for discharge was Ee's U support, Bd still applies Wright Line analysis in all cases alleging violations of 8(a)(3) and (1); however, because finding of pretext necessarily means that E's reasons did not exist or were not relied on, inference of wrongful motive is left intact and discharge is unlawful]

Carpenters Local 925; et al. (Charlene Seier, an Individual) 279 NLRB No. 145
[pretextual discharge cases should be viewed as those in which —defense of business justification is wholly w/o merit]

Elal Realty Management Inc. 279 NLRB No. 002
[discharge of Ees and refusal to rehire them by successor E, violative, since reason was Ees' U membership and E's desire to work with non-U Ees where E gave patently false reasons for discharge which justified inference of anti-U motive; further, bargaining order is appropriate for successor E since U made demand to bargain and all Ees are ordered reinstated, thus, successor E employs majority of prior workforce]

Granco, Inc., d/b/a Thriftway Supermarket; et al. 276 NLRB No. 164
(discharge of active U adherent assertedly for not reporting for work for several days after he had been given permission to absent himself from work, unlawful, in view of extensive U activity known to E who strenuously opposed such activity, counterfeit defense giving rise to inference of unlawful motivation, and absence of any effort to seek explanation from Ee)

B & W Machine & Welding Company JD-(SF)-107-86
[discharge of Ees, unlawful, where E's various asserted lawful reasons for discharges were not shown to be reasonably based on any facts or rational basis, and E seized upon various incidents as excuse or afterthought to decision to be rid of leading U supporters]

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. JD-239-86

6773 SHORTAGE OF LABOR AT TIME OF LAYOFF

Steffer Brothers JD-269-86
[discharge of U supporters unlawful, in view of timing of discharges closely after E learned of filing of R ptn at time that E's continuing need for Ees prompted hiring of replacements]

6780 RETENTION OR REINSTATEMENT OF OTHER EMPLOYEE GUILTY OF SAME OFFENSE

Mid West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(prima facie case made out for successor's unlawful failure to rehire Ees where: 1) Ees were known U adherents, 2) majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, 3) disparate treatment as other Ees rehired were guilty of same offenses that successor alleged for not rehiring these Ees, and 4) successor found to have unlawfully refused to bargain with U, which constituted additional evidence of U animus)

6780-5000 Retention of non-union employee guilty of same offense for which discharge was made

H. Treffinger Repair Services, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 085
[discharge of known U adherents assertedly because of threat made to, or because of engaging in fight or horseplay with, anti-U Ee, unlawful, where latter was not disciplined for engaging in purported fight; E admitted having U animus, made no investigation but relied on anti-U Ee's version of what happened, and took shifting positions in explaining discharges; and E effected discharges over shop supervisor's protests]

6783 DISREGARD OF SENIORITY

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[whether or not Ee quit or was merely on leave of absence, E's denial of reinstatement of Ee's seniority date upon his return to work, unlawful, where E stated that seniority date was denied because Ee and fellow Ees sought U representation]

Products Unlimited Corp. 280 NLRB No. 041
[refusal to promote visible U adherent, unlawful, since for U activities rather than for absenteeism, where adherent had greater seniority, and directly related experience particularly supervisory which Ee selected lacked, and selected Ee had only marginally better attendance record when days on which U adherent was snowed in were considered as they were in regard to selectee, and Ee selected had recently been warned for use of abusive language]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[no universal theory that E must follow seniority in recall of economic strikers. GC must establish existence of seniority recall rights by reference to collective-bargaining agreement or binding established past practice. However, even assuming either of above conditions proved, there must be alleged Sec. 8(a)(5) charge; otherwise, E free to devise new recall procedure as long as it is applied consistently. Here, all 8(a)(5) charges (unilateral changes) withdrawn; therefore, E did not violate Sec. 8(a)(3) by failing to recall strikers by seniority]

Foots & Davies, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 012
[E's failure to recall sympathy striker to positions as they were vacated through attrition, assertedly because other Ees recalled had superior rights, violative, since real reason was Ee's engaging in sympathy strike where Ee made unconditional offer to return to work before vacancies occurred, Ee was not advised of openings even though he had more seniority than Ees recalled according to E's own seniority system and practice and E advanced no legitimate business reason for not recalling Ee]

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(layoff of U adherent, unlawful, since for his U advocacy rather than for lack of work or Bd's work deficiencies, where several weeks of work remained on project where Ee was working, newly hired Ees were retained in preference to Ee, and Ee was once recalled to same job where alleged work deficiences justifying his layoff were noted)

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(layoff of U adherent out of seniority contrary to company policy, unlawful)

Indiana Dusk Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 163
(no violation where E did not follow seniority in offering jobs to economic strikers, but rather offered jobs to Ees who held the same jobs before strike and in event of unavailability or declination by that Ee it then offered job to most qualified other striking Ee)

Garrett Railroad Car & Equipment, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 151
(recalling Ee (economic striker) out of seniority after strike's end, violative, since such treatment of Ee was disprate. E's action was not shown to be for some legitimate business reason or purpose and assessed in background of E's ULPs was inherently destructive of Ee Section 7 rights. Record provided sufficient evidence of E's singling out Ee striker who wanted to abandon strike (E had learned) and rendered this Ee-striker favorable disparate treatment some 3 weeks after strike ended)

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112
(E was under no obligation to use seniority of Ees as criterion in selection process for layoff where record did not reveal that seniority had been used in past for layoff selection)

Rankin Brothers, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 053
(E's selection of Ees for layoff who were all U card signers, assertedly because E was facing severe financial difficulties, violative, notwithstanding that E's proffered economic defense was not pretextual, since real reason was Ees' U activity where the day after E gained knowledge of who was involved with the U, 8 U card signers were laid off, two of the least senior Ees were not laid off and E's reasons about why certain Ees were selected for layoff were vague and tentative)

Acar Machine & Tool Co., Inc. JD-240-85
(laying off chief U organizer who was senior to retained Ee contrary to past practice, violative)

6785 LACK OF APPARENT REASON OR ADEQUATE EXPLANATION FOR ACTION

Dasal Caring Centers, Inc., d/b/a Lemay Caring Center and Dasal Caring Centers, Inc., d/b/a Walton Caring Center 280 NLRB No. 007
[successor E's refusal to hire majority of predecessor's Ees, assertedly because those hired were more qualified, violative, notwithstanding successor E hired some U members, since real reason was Ees' refusal to withdraw from U where supervisor of successor E told some Ees they would be guaranteed employment if they withdrew from U, successor did not articulate any definite standard by which Ees were evaluated for selection and E's refusal to comply with subpoena for employment records justified adverse inference that e had unlawful motive]

Programming & Systems, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 157
(precipitous discharge of only U activist still in E's employ w/o any plausible explaination either at time of discharge or at hearing, violative, where Ee, despite her seniority and satisfactory performance, was only teacher discharged after Christmas recess and E was shown to be vehemently opposed to unionization of its teachers)

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 184
(discharge of Ee, U activist, because of his incompetence and incompatibility violative, since Ee had 10-year record of no discipline with E; general manager discharged Ee approximately 1 week after Ee became openly involved in U organizing activities, received wage increase 2 months before discharge and incidents that allegedly served as basis for discharge were not brought to Ee's attention at time they occurred)

East Central Communications, Inc. JD-116-86
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for abuse of paid sick leave rule, unlawful, in view of E's knowledge of Ee's vigorous U activity, timing of discharge shortly before election, E's failure to follow own 3-warning rule in disciplining Ee or to credibly explain why it had failed to do so, and fact that, if it had followed its rules, maximum discipline would have been issuance of warning for first offense; and E thereby seized upon infraction as excuse to mask discharge of Ee because of his U activity and to discourage similar activity among its Ees]

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)
[E's knowledge of Ees' U activities and anti-U animus based on small plant doctrine, properly inferred where Ees openly discussed U representation in main room of small facility in presence of management and supervisors, decision to terminate Ees was made evening after one Ee told other Ees that U representative would visit plant later in week, reasons for discharges were inconsistent and inadequate, and new Ees were hired two months after discharges]

6788 SHIFT OF GROUND IN EXPLAINING EMPLOYER'S ACTION

Raynor Motel Corporation d/b/a Holiday Inn East 281 NLRB No. 092

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[discharge assertedly for Ee's failure to comply with trucking company's rule requiring reporting of damage to vehicles due to accidents, unlawful, in view of shifting and mutually inconsistent accounts of reasons for and circumstances of discharge]

6788—Cont.

Soulectro Corporation 280 NLRB No. 015
[discharge of Ee unlawful since for U adherence rather than for poor attendance and failure to notify E when he was not coming into work, in view of E's departure from usual discipline system, E's U animus, fact rule regarding reporting absences had not been consistently enforced, and that uncooperative attitude which was given as reason for discharge at hearing, but was not given at time of discharge, raises inference that real reason was pretext]

Donald Dean d/b/a D.C. Construction Company 276 NLRB No. 097
(E unlawfully failed to reemploy Ee who was laid off job for nondiscriminatory reasons, where E conducted job under its own perception that U limitations blocked hire and continued employment of Ee; supervisor made statements which, on their face, were direct admissions that E withheld employment of Ee because of his lack of U membership; and E's claims that Ee was not rehired because his work was inadequate were shifting and implausible)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170

M.B.M. Transportation Inc. JD-206-86
[discharge of Ee who discussed organizing U with Ees and also working conditions, and hours and rates of pay, unlawful, where E displayed anti-U animus and knew of Ee's organizing activities; discharge was timed shortly after Ee commenced such activities and shortly before scheduled Ee meeting at his home; and E offered series of shifting reasons for discharge, many of which surfaced after Ee's discharge, and all of which were w/o credible corroboration]

Statewide Industrial Catering, Inc. JD-(NY)-139-85
[discharge of 2 U adherents, violative where E gave shifting reasons for discharges, two supervisors who were key to case did not testify, and E demonstrated U animus]

6788-5000 Conflicting reasons or inconsistent theories

Harold Weiss; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013

Joseph A. Perry d/b/a Holiday Inn-Glendale 277 NLRB No. 145
(mass discharge of Ees, assertedly because of insubordination and because E received a bad hotel inspection, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were discharged w/i 2 days of E's knowledge thereof, E gave shifting reasons, threatened Ees with reprisals for U activity and unlawfully interrogated Ees)

American Model & Pattern, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 018
(selecting two U supporters for layoff out of seniority, assertedly for economic reasons, violative, where E had past proactice of following seniority and reasons given for selecting these two Ees were shifting and contradictory)

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010
(discharge of Ee unlawful where E knew of his U sympathies as evidenced by E's post-discharge statements, E gave conflicting reasons to Ee at time of discharge, E gave no explanation as to reason for discharge at hearing, and E demonstrated extreme U animus)

United Artists Eastern Theatres, Operating Valentine Theatre 275 NLRB No. 025
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of unsatisfactory work, violative, since real reason was Ee's participation in R proceeding and his U activity where Ee was told he would be promoted if he dropped the U and E gave inconsistent reasons to support discharge; further, E's contention that Ee's admission to accepting gratuities from patrons in violation of E's rules was conduct sufficient to deny reinstatement, rejected, since there was no evidence this was dischargeable offense and E was willing to overlook such behavior in exchange for Ee's forgoing U activity)

Ben Susan Restaurant Corp. d/b/a The Blue Note JD-(NY)-92-86
[discharge of pro-union Ees violative, where E's proferred reasons were contradictory and unsupported]

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[discharge of known U adherent, assertedly for entering and engaging in improper behavior in unauthorized area at E's facility, unlawful, where E told Ee he was being discharged for economic reasons, and then at hearing stipulated it did not discharge any Ees for economic reasons and asserted for first time that discharge was because of E's improper behavior]

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)
[E's knowledge of Ees' U activities and anti-U animus based on small plant doctrine, properly inferred where Ees openly discussed U representation in main room of small facility in presence of management and supervisors, decision to terminate Ees was made evening after one Ee told other Ees that U representative would visit plant later in week, reasons for discharges were inconsistent and inadequate, and new Ees were hired two months after discharges]

Ballou Brick Company v. N.L.R.B. 798 F.2d 339 (C.A. 8, July 1986)
[argument in ct that Ees were poor workers inconsistent with E's letter and speech to Ees stating that they were laid off for economic reasons, not misconduct]

6790 STATEMENT MADE BY EMPLOYER CONCERNING DISCHARGE

6790-3300 After discharge

Yaohan of California, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 032
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for cause, unlawful, where supervisor linked discharge with U organizing activities by making statement following discharge to fellow Ee that I know something's going on. We cannot afford to join the U right now.]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[pre-hearing admission of supervisor that reason for Ee's suspension and discharge was his U activity entitled to substantial weight, even though supervisor may not have been privy to E's decisional process, where supervisor served extensive years with E in supervisory capacity, and E failed to obtain from supervisor timely information regarding events leading to disciplining of Ee, which only supervisor could supply]

D & D Distribution Company, A Division of D & D Sewing Company 277 NLRB No. 097
(E's statement to Ee immediately after discharge of Ee assertedly for tardiness that reason for discharge was not really Ee's lateness but that it was more because of his attitude toward E that was not liked held not only to show that Ee's attendance record was not cause of discharge but also supported inference that Ee's protected concerted activities were cause of Ee's termination since, when attitude is given as reason for discharge, it has often been viewed as synonymous with U or concerted activity)

Activ Industries, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 040
(in finding mass discharge of Ees unlawful, Bd relied on supervisor's admission that he chose Ees for discharge because they were involved in U activism, and fact that an Ee overheard supervisor's statement that U was reason for discharge)

Granco, Inc., d/b/a Thriftway Supermarket; et al. 276 NLRB No. 164
(supervisor's statement to Ee that E had to discharge another Ee because of his U activities held not admission against interest by E where there was no proof that supervisor was privy to reasons for discharge or that he was offering more than surmise; however, statement reasonably reflected understanding by E's agent that E might, and probably did, fire Ee for his U activities and, as such, statement has some relevance and weight reflecting E's state of mind with respect to discharges for U activities)

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112
(E's characterization, at ULP hearing, of alleged discriminatees as troublemakers did not necessarily mean that E regarded them as such because of U activity; rather, remark could have easily referred to Ees' harassment of travelers and other workers, and record provided insufficient basis for choosing one interpretation over another)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[E's belief that Ee was U supporter inferred from fact that Ee worked with known chief U organizer, E made diligent effort to learn who were U organizers, and E acknowledged to Ee after Ee's discharge that E was sorry but someone had informed E that Ee was U organizer]

6790-6700 Prior to or at time of discharge

Power-Seal Corporation 276 NLRB No. 036
(E's remark to supervisor and telling discharges at exit interview that he could not risk having Ees around in view of all the U talk)

Tom Wignall, Jr. and Billie Williams d/b/a Lovilia Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 186
(inexplicably evasive statements made by E to Ees when terminated)

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. JD-239-86
[supervisor's statement to Ees immediately after election won by U that E was going to fire lot of people because of outcome of election]

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[discharge of known U adherent, assertedly for entering and engaging in improper behavior in unauthorized area at E's facility, unlawful, where E told Ee he was being discharged for economic reasons, and then at hearing stipulated it did not discharge any Ees for economic reasons and asserted for first time that discharge was because of E's improper behavior]

6793 TIMING OF DISCRIMINATORY ACTION

6793-1200 After employer gained knowledge of union activity

Kokomo Tube Company 280 NLRB No. 035
[grant of across board wage increase, unlawful, since granted to undermine U campaign, where announced 1 day after E had obtained knowledge of U activity based on more than rumors, increase received by Ees after U had

filed R ptn, and where previouse increases had been tied to E's profits whereas these raises wee not justified by profits]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[timing of discharge of outstanding U advocate and leader of Ees less than 4 months after U lost election supported finding that discharge was unlawful]

Sahara Datsun, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 148
[discharge of two U organizers same day E received U ptn for election signed by one of them, violation]

Joseph A. Perry d/b/a Holiday Inn-Glendale 277 NLRB No. 145
(mass discharge of Ees, assertedly because of insubordination and because E received a bad hotel inspection, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were discharged w/i 2 days of E's knowledge thereof, E gave shifting reasons, threatened Ees with reprisals for U activity and unlawfully interrogated Ees)

Dr. Frederick Davidowitz, and Dr. Martin Goldberg; P.C. 277 NLRB No. 110
(discharge of dentist who was U adherent, unlawful, since asserted reasons for discharge: poor production, attitude; violating rules by keeping patients waiting; held pretextual in view of E knowledge of U activity to be inferred from rumor mill, relied on in past by E; timing, discharge took place 1 week after U meeting where dentist had declared support of and following period of his intense solicitation for U; further, writeups in personnel file did not contribute to discharge decision as other dentists had approximate same number of write-ups over equivalent period and not discharged)

National Micronetics, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 095
(denying overtime to U activist immediately after E learned he would serve as U election observor, violation)

Limpert Brothers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 037
(layoff of Ees, assertedly because of slack work and business losses, violative, where Ees were laid off only one day after E obtained knowledge of U activity, E informed several Ees that reason for layoff was U activity and layoff was precipitous, occurring w/o any warning to Ees)

Aluminum Technical Extrusions, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 199
(permanent layoff of Ees, assertedly because E had lost a major customer violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were laid off w/i hours after E learned of their U activity, layoff procedure was departure from E's past practice, E replaced Ees w/i a week after the layoff and failed to provide any documentation or corroboration in support of its business defense)

Roskin Brothers, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 053
(E's selection of Ees for layoff who were all U card signers, assertedly because E was facing severe financial difficulties, violative, notwithstanding that E's proffered economic defense was not pretextual, since real reason was Ees' U activity where the day after E gained knowledge of who was involved with the U, 8 U card signers were laid off, two of the least senior Ees were not laid off and E's reasons about why certain Ees were selected for layoff were vague and tentative)

Steffer Brothers JD-269-86
[discharge of U supporters unlawful, in view of timing of discharges closely after E learned of filing of R ptn at time that E's continuing need for Ees prompted hiring of replacements]

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[E's numerous unlawful interrogations, solicitation of informants, impressions of surveillance, and timing of discharges, all w/in 11 days after receipt of U's R ptn, held to make obvious fact that motivation for Ees' discharges was their U activities]

Castriconе Contractors, Inc. JD-(NY)-80-85
(discharge of Ee who joined U after starting work and when he gave E his U papers was told by E that Ee could either finish off the day or go home now — there were other people in U laid off that are not working, violative as E member of E association that signed contract with U and Ee discharged because E would have had to pay Ee contract wage)

Fan-Sy Productions, Inc. JD-(NY)-49-85
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of lateness, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where discharge occurred shortly after E gained knowledge of U campaign, E tolerated Ee's lateness in past and discharge was made pursuant to unlawful new lateness rule promulgated by E in response to Ees' U activity)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(E's decision to have mass layoff w/i hours after becoming aware of U's organizational effort suports Bd's inference of improper motivation)

6793-2500 Coincidence with critical period in union movement

Activ Industries, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 040
(mass discharge of Ees because of U activities, comprising third of work force, unlawful, where discharges occurred only 9 days after U organizing campaign began; shortly before discharge all but 1 of Ees involved received average to excellent job evaluations; supervisor admitted he chose some Ees for discharge because of their U activism; and E, while intervening to prevent discharge of some Ees, nevertheless deferred to supervisor's recommendation on discharging Ees whose work performance or behavior E was not familiar with; and Ee overheard another supervisor's statement that U was reason for discharges)

Robins Federal Credit Union 273 NLRB No. 165
(although sequence of events, particularly timing of discharge of Ee on eve of election and method by which Ee was summarily dismissed gave rise to suspicion as to whether E terminated Ee because of her U activities, mere suspicion is not sufficient to support finding of violation)

6793-2511 At height of union membership or organizational drive

Tom Wignall, Jr. and Billie Williams d/b/a Lovilia Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 186

M.B.M. Transportation Inc. JD-206-86
[discharge of Ee who discussed organizing U with Ees and also working conditions, and hours and rates of pay, unlawful, where E displayed anti-U animus and knew of Ee's organizing activities; discharge was timed shortly after Ee commenced such activities and shortly before scheduled Ee meeting at his home; and E offered series of shifting reasons for discharge, many of which surfaced after Ee's discharge, and all of which were w/o credible corroboration]

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)
[E's knowledge of Ees' U activities and anti-U animus based on small plant doctrine, properly inferred where Ees openly discussed U representation in main room of small facility in presence of management and supervisors, decision to terminate Ees was made evening after one Ee told other Ees that U representative would visit plant later in week, reasons for discharges were inconsistent and inadequate, and new Ees were hired two months after discharges]

6793-2517 Following demand for recognition

Terraillon Corp. 280 NLRB No. 037
[E's vice-president revoking approval of Ee's previously authorized vacation, and discharging her when she took vacation as planned, unlawful, since for her U adherence rather than because she was needed for audit during vacation period, where approval of Ee's vacation dates was reaffirmed after audit scheduled, and only withdrawn after U demanded recognition, and Ee had performed her functions in connection with audit prior to requested vacation date]

Ballou Brick Co. 277 NLRB No. 009
(discharge of 13 Ees, assertedly because E's inventory was so great as to eliminate the need for production, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where E at no time halted production after the discharges, offered no records to support its economic defense and discharges occurred shortly after E had received U's demand for recognition)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(E's action, after receiving U's recognition demand, announcing and subsequently revoking wage increase because of U activities, unlawful, where E told Ees that wage increase had been recommended and notice was posted on bulletin board about same time announcing that across-the-board wage increase would be made effective shortly; however, Bd did not find that decision to defer consideration of proposed wage increase in wake of U organizing activities pending their outcome or that of an election necessarily violates Act)

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[E's institution of rules regarding punching in and out, safety glasses, progressive discipline for absence or tardiness, smoking, leaving work areas and production standards unlawful, since in retaliation for Ees' U activity where instituted day after E received U's ptn and in view of unlawful statement of E's owner prior to announcement of rule if Ees wanted E to be run like a big company, E would be run like a big company]

6793-2533 Following election of union

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[E's implementation of change in telephone procedures by no longer permitting Ees to answer personal telephone calls, immediately after U won election, violative]

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(giving preference in hiring to applicant who was willing to accede to E's anti-U posture, where discharging all but one Ee who supported U w/i 6 months after election, unlawful, especially in view of E's other violations including creating impression of surveillance and interrogation)

Leeds Cablevision, Inc. and Cablevision Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 014
(granting disparate increases to Ees of each facility of joint E who received substantially equivalent evaluations overall, violative, since joint E intended that Ees of one of joint Es' facilities receive substantially lower increases than their counterparts because they selected U to represent them. E intended that dissimilar result occur)

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. JD-239-86
[timing of discharges w/i days of overwhelming U victory in election]

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86
[while discipline of principal U organizer on heels of election contributed to suspicion as to nature of action by E who demonstrated propensity to discriminate, and while issue was not w/o doubt, ALJ held that, absent convincing proof of disparate treatment, suspension and subsequent discharge of U leader was not unlawful]

Purolator Armored, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 1423 (C.A. 7, July 1985)
(notwithstanding operation was losing money, E violated Act by terminating said operation as E was willing to absorb these losses until U won election which shows that economics was not foremost in E's decision, and as U elected as operation's representative was same as one that represented other E units and there was frequent interchange with Ees, the closure had chilling effect on unionism)

6793-2544 Following identification of principal organizers

Star Color Plate Service, Division of Einhorn Enterprises, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 082
[layoff of two Ees, assertedly because of slack work caused by machine breakdown, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were laid off immediately after E received R ptn, E knew Ees were active U supporters, layoff was precipitous and E had never before laid off Ees when a machine had broken down]

Dr. Frederick Davidowitz, and Dr. Martin Goldberg; P.C. 277 NLRB No. 110
(discharge of dentist who was U adherent, unlawful, since asserted reasons for discharge: poor production, attitude; violating rules by keeping patients waiting; held pretextual in view of E knowledge of U activity to be inferred from rumor mill, relied on in past by E; timing, discharge took place 1 week after U meeting where dentist had declared support of and following period of his intense solicitation for U; further, writeups in personnel file did not contribute to discharge decision as other dentists had approximate same number of write-ups over equivalent period and not discharged)

6793-2555 Following union organizational meeting or other union action (strike, obtaining settlement agreement, etc.)

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[discharge assertedly for Ee's failure to comply with trucking company's rule requiring reporting of damage to vehicles due to accidents, unlawful, in view of timing of discharge of Ee who participated in strike activity w/i 2 weeks of strike-settling recognition agreement]

Quality Aluminum Products, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 049

6793-2566 Following unsuccessful election

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of high absenteeism, violative, since real reason was Ee's support of rival U where Ee received many warnings only after Bd conducted election between competing Us, E's implementation of new warning system was violative of 8(a)(3) and warning system was applied in disparate manner)

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(E's implementation of new warning system for lateness and absenteeism following election between rival Us, violative, where unlawful motive was shown by statements to Ees threatening discharge for striking, plant closure and telling Ees that to choose either U was futile, E unlawfully discharged supporter of rival U pursuant to new system and E implemented new system in precipitate manner and it was applied inconsistently)

Jefferson Electric Company, A Division of Litton Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 104
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of her refusal to work with cleaning fluid, violative, since real reason was her U activities where Ee had previously been excused from working with cleaning fluid because of her sensitivity to the fumes with no mention of disciplinary action, other Ees were allowed to transfer out of department where cleaning fluid was located because of allergic reactions w/o mention of discipline, and Ee was discharged subsequent to her U activities and w/i days after certification of election results, which U lost)

IBP, Inc. JD-221-85
(discharge of Ee who was U adherent in U organizing campaign and election, not unlawful, since discharge was pursuant to lawful warnings under E's progressive disciplinary policy regarding tardiness and took place one month after U lost election, and absent U animus, commission of other ULPs by E or disparate treatment)

6793-2588 Imminence of representation election

ARA Leisure Services, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 782 F.2d 456 (C.A. 4, Jan. 1986)
[discharge of helpers of tableheads i.e. vendors who sold novelties items at concessions at sports arena, by E which operated concessions under lease arrangement, unlawful, since tableheads held supervisors in employ of E rather than independent contractors, and in view of E's U animus and fact discharges took place two weeks before election, notwithstanding specific knowledge by e of U sympathies of only 4 out of 18 helpers, since E had general knowledge of U support among novelty helpers, E's contention that termination of tableheads required discharge of helpers also, rejected]

6793-5000 Coincidence with other unfair labor practices

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(giving preference in hiring to applicant who was willing to accede to E's anti-U posture, where discharging all but one Ee who supported U w/i 6 months after election, unlawful, especially in view of E's other violations including creating impression of surveillance and interrogation)

Granco, Inc., d/b/a Thriftway Supermarket; et al. 276 NLRB No. 164
(discharge of Ee after he had been placed on probation assertedly for poor productivity, unlawful, in view of E's knowledge of Ee's leading role in U organizing, extent and severity of E's other ULPs, conceded hostility to U, implausibility of E's reasons for discharge, and fact that E seized upon disagreement with Ee about his production as opportunity to immediately accomplish Ee's separation which E had first tried to do by coercing Ee into quitting by placing him on probation)

McLean Roofing Company 276 NLRB No. 093
(discharge of U advocates, assertedly for drinking and stealing, violative where discharge occurred shortly after E's expressions of U animus, interrogations, threats, and identification of discharged Ees as U organizers)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[E's numerous unlawful interrogations, solicitation of informants, impressions of surveillance, and timing of discharges, all w/in 11 days after receipt of U's R ptn, held to make obvious fact that motivation for Ees' discharges was their U activities]

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[discharge of Ees held unlawful where evidence of Ees' U activities, E's widespread 8(a)(1) conduct, express demonstration of U animus, and active curiosity in Ees' organizing activties was sufficient to establish prima facie case of unlawful motivation for discharges; and, since E's asserted reasons for discharges were pretextual, E failed to meet its Wright Line burden]

N.L.R.B. v. J. Coty Messenger Service, Inc. ———F.2d——— (C.A. 2, May 1985)
[E's interrogation, threats, and promises provide substantial evidence of E's anti-U animus, and viewed together with other factors support finding that Ee was fired because of U activities]

6793-5040 Discipline of other employees for union activity

Programming & Systems, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 157
(discharge of teacher-U adherent because she did not have baccalaureate degree as required by state regulations violative where discharge undertaken in attempt to vindicate the discharge of another E, U adherent. Effect of lack of qualifications left to compliance stage)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[even if E does not have specific knowledge of individual Ee's U activities but nevertheless discharges such Ees because other Ees engaged in U activities, discharge is unlawful since E violates Act where, notwithstanding actual conduct of Ee, it lays off such Ee because of belief or suspicion; moreover, where E engages in pattern of discriminatory conduct against Ee groups because many, even though not all, of them engaged in U activity, discrimination suffered by all Ees as result of E conduct is unlawful]

6793-5060 Interrogation

Robins Federal Credit Union 273 NLRB No. 165
(in finding discharge of Ee acting as loan officer at E-credit union for violating E's written policy prohibiting issuance of loans to loan officer's relatives not unlawful, ALJ held unlawful interrogation by single supervisor of a fellow Ee following Ee's discharge, unaccompanied by threats, not sufficient to prove animus toward U by E)

N.L.R.B. v. Oberle-Jordre Company, Division of The Bishopric Products Company 777 F.2d 1119 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1985)
[discharge of U member, unlawful, since motivating factor was his continued affiliation with U, where E's interrogation of Ee regarding withdrawal from U was accompanied by explicit promises of employment conditioned on Ee's responses to interrogation]

6793-7500 Following conspicuous union activity of discriminatees

6793-7512 Active solicitation for union

Yashan of California, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 032
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for cause, unlawful, where Ee was discharged abruptly prior to end of his work-week, just 1 day following his solicitation for U inside E's store; and discharge was contrary to E's policy of giving warning prior to discharging an Ee]

Dr. Frederick Davidowitz, and Dr. Martin Goldberg; P.C. 277 NLRB No. 110
(discharge of dentist who was U adherent, unlawful, since asserted reasons for discharge: poor production, attitude; violating rules by keeping patients waiting; held pretextual in view of E knowledge of U activity to be inferred from rumor mill, relied on in past by E; timing, discharge took place 1 week after U meeting where dentist had declared support of and following period of his intense solicitation for U; further, writeups in personnel file did not contribute to discharge decision as other dentists had approximate same number of write-ups over equivalent period and not discharged)

Activ Industries, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 087
(E issuing disciplinary letter to Ee for allegedly harassing another Ee, unlawful, since E issued letter to discipline Ee for conversation solely because that conversation concerned unionization, and notwithstanding letter issued to discipline Ee for single conversation, in which Ee alleged to have made obscene remarks, where Ee told he was being disciplined for several conversations with other Ee about U, none of which lost protected status)

Pillod of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117
(E's refusal to transfer U activist out of department that admittedly was giving Ee serious medical problems, violative, where E routinely transferred other Ees from department when they had problems and Ee was transferred into undesirable department only a few days after she issued an open letter to Ees in support of U)

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 184
(discharge of Ee, U activist, because of his incompetence and incompatibility violative, since Ee had 10-year record of no discipline with E; general manager discharged Ee approximately 1 week after Ee became openly involved in U organizing activities, received wage increase 2 months before discharge and incidents that allegedly served as basis for discharge were not brought to Ee's attention at time they occurred)

6793-7525 Adverse testimony in representation proceeding

Star Color Plate Service, Division of Einhorn Enterprises, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 082
[E's more strict supervision of Ees, shortening an Ee's lunch period and issuing written warnings to Ees for various reasons, all because E felt it was losing control and needed to instill stricter work rules, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where E cracked down only after Ees testified at R proceeding]

6793-7535 Wearing union insignia or button

Quality Aluminum Products, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 049

Southern California Edison Company 274 NLRB No. 167
(wearing of button with Stick Your Retro written on it, protected, where saying not obscene, message had little significance to outsider so public image of E not injured and message was clearly related to pending negotiations)

N.L..R.B. v. Malta Construction Company 806 F.2d 1009 (C.A. 11, Dec. 1986)
[discharge of Ee for deliberate interference with production and refusing work assignment, followinstructions during U campaign when Ee refused to remove U sticker from his E supplied hard hat when Ee was on his water break assisting fellow Ee who had a stuck front-end loader, held violative, since GC proved existence of presumptively invalid rule banning U insignia on hard hats and E did not prove any special circumstance to justify its rule. Ee had never been warned or disciplined for his behavior prior to his taking about U]

6793-7563 Processing of grievances

United States Steel Corporation 279 NLRB No. 004
[E's refusal to hire Ee laid off from one of its facilities to work at another of its facilities, unlawful, since for his activities as U grievance chairman where his supervisor's referance to grievance chairman as troublemaker when speaking to foreman at facility to which he had applied for transfer connotated his activity of filing grievances, and this characterization was relied upon in rejecting Ees request for transfer. Use of word alone, not violative, but must look at context in which used]

6793-7575 Leadership in union movement

Able Bus, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 076
[discharge of bus driver after ordering his replacement off bus, not unlawful, since not motivated by his campaigning for office of U steward on platform adverse to E, where election took place over 3 months prior to discharge, he was defeated by wide margin, and had in intervening period violated safety rule in regard to his bus for which his suspension was to start next day]

6793-7581 Filing grievance

Gateway Concrete Forming Services, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 032
(discharge of Ee, U steward, allegedly because of his unsatisfactory work at his laboring job, violative where E seemed to like Ee's work fine, and discharge occurred 4 months after Ee's employment began, but only 10 days after Ee filed grievance over his layoff. Record showed principle moving cause of discharge was Ee's filing of his grievance, a protected activity)

United States Postal Service JD-203-86
[discharge of probationary Ee who slipped at work, hurt his back, and was unable to work for several days, unlawful, since for filing grievance over denial of light work after being cleared for such duty and after receiving conflicting information from E's Ee relations department which said there was no light duty available for probationary Ees but that compensation unit would pay him, and compensation unit informed him he would not be paid because cleared for light duty, where not policy of E to terminate probationary Ees who lost time due to injury, and E only discharged after giving notice U would be utilized to secure his rights]

6793-7589 Acting as union election observer

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 184
(E's discontinuance of truck repairman's Saturday work (when repairman worked as independent contractor for E) week after serving as U election observer held violative, since repairman's employment as independent contractor for E on Saturdeays was related to his status as full-time repairman and substitute driver-Ee for E during regular work week)

6795 UNUSUAL SURROUNDING CIRCUMSTANCES

6795-1500 Formality and summary nature of dismissal

Cassis Management Corp. 281 NLRB No. 174
[discharge of Ee serving as superintendent of E's apartment building, assertedly because Ee's wife operated sewing factory in their apartment, unlawful, where no warning or reason was given Ee for discharge; it was unlikely E would have summarily discharged Ee because of wife's sewing activity which E himself had taken advantage of and which E last discussed with Ee 3 months previously; and unconvincing nature of E's evidence of discrimination buttressed evidence of discrimination]

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[discharge assertedly for Ee's failure to comply with trucking company's rule requiring reporting of damage to vehicles due to accidents, unlawful, in view of abruptness of E's action w/o confronting Ee with vehicle's condition]

Service Merchandise Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 023
[E's discharge of drivers and warehouse Ee who had been driver and subcontracting driving operations, unlawful, where for support of drivers' association and threat to seek representation by outside U, in view of E's expressed opposition to outside U, summary nature of discharges, and secrecy of negotiations for subcontracting; contention subcontracting motivated by economic considerations, rejected, where subcontracting resulted in 25% increase in cost even though fewer miles driven over private driver operation]

Tom Wignall, Jr. and Billie Williams d/b/a Lovilia Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 186

Robins Federal Credit Union 273 NLRB No. 165
(although sequence of events, particularly timing of discharge of Ee on eve of election and method by which Ee was summarily dismissed gave rise to suspicion as to whether E terminated Ee because of her U activities, mere suspicion is not sufficient to support finding of violation)

6795-2000 Cover up and making a record

Health Enterprises of America, Inc., d/b/a Miami Health Care Center 282 NLRB No. 033
[notwithstanding U adherent violated rule against patient abuse, discharge violative as real reasons were U activities and filing lawsuit against E, in view of spurious investigation and disparate discipline accorded discriminatee for violating rule]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[finding of unlawful suspension and discharge of Ee supported by fact that E seized upon customer's complaint about Ee's failure to make delivery to rid itself of Ee who E knew would continue to be strong U advocate and spokesman on Ees' behalf; and, in order to build case against Ee, E disregarded Ee's effort to invoke grievance procedure which should have been available to him]

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(E's use of recommendation to abolish position of Ee, herein found to have been unlawfully constructively discharged, held effort to conceal earlier unlawful conduct)

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86
[multiple discharges which included prominent U supporters, based on findings made by undercover investigative agent concerning Ees' conduct on

unsupervised shift, unlawful, where investigation was sham calculated to provide foundation for elimination of sole remaining members of U negotiating committee, in view of E's ongoing unprecidented bent toward discharges and willingness to sacrifice large segment of skilled workforce in face of large backlog and heavy demand on basis of unconfirmed accusations of third party undercover agent]

6795-6000 Seeking employee's resignation

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84

(informing Ee that supervisor with whom she had close working relationship had been discharged and that if she wanted to, she could quit or stay on, not violative, since no request that Ee quit, nor could one reasonably conclude E was suggesting Ee quit because of U activity)

6795-8000 Suddenness of employer's decision

Wilco Business Forms, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 154

[sudden layoff of U adherent w/o prior notice followed by General Manager's comment, when U adherent was laid off, I guess you can see through that, violative, since evidence supported inference that protected U organizing activities of Ees was motivating factor in E's decision to lay off Ee]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093

[discharge of auto salesman who was steward, not unlawful, notwithstanding discharge abrupt and w/o immediate warning, where he was poorest producer, had failed to make guaranteed draw for several months, absent disparate treatment and in view of fact Ee was inactive steward]

Yaohan of California, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 032

[discharge of Ee, assertedly for cause, unlawful, where Ee was discharged abruptly prior to end of his work-week, just 1 day following his solicitation for U inside E's store; and discharge was contrary to E's policy of giving warning prior to discharging an Ee]

Florsheim Shoe Store Company 279 NLRB No. 133

[discharge of Ee who was member of U while working for this e in another state, not violative, notwithstanding Ee fired abruptly (only 1-1/2 hours after starting on job) and no justification given for discharge since no showing of U animus on part of E nor had E prevented former U members from working at its nonU stores]

Northern District of Connecticut Iron Workers Local Union No. 15, Joint Apprenticeship Committee (Bruce Gilbert, an Individual) 278 NLRB No. 131

[violation, where U through its participation in Joint Apprentice Committee (JAC) discharged apprentice coordinator since discharge was for his intra-U activities, where he and 1 member of JAC had been rivals in campaigns for U office, and that member had appointed two other members of JAC while he was U president, in view of timing of discharge which took place when composition of committee was about to change, committee failed to specify reason for discharge and abruptness of discharge]

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047

(E ordering U adherents to turn in company trucks and gasoline credit cards, unlawful, since for their U activities where business justification advanced for first time at trial and in view of precipitate manner in which action taken)

Programming & Systems, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 157

(precipitous discharge of only U activist still in E's employ w/o any plausible explaination either at time of discharge or at hearing, violative, where Ee, despite her seniority and satisfactory performance, was only teacher discharged after Christmas recess and E was shown to be vehemently opposed to unionization of its teachers)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)

(E's decision to have mass layoff w/i hours after becoming aware of U's organizational effort suports Bd's inference of improper motivation)

8300 AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES TO CHARGES OF DISCRIMINATION

8301 GENERALLY

8301-4000 Act permits discharge for any reason other than union activity

Salem Leasing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 774 F.2d 85 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1985)

[as there is no cross reference in Sec. 8(a)(3), as there is in Sec. 8(a)(1), to Sec. 7 organizational rights, ct reluctant to read a concerted activity requirement into Section 8(a)(3)]

8301-6000 Mixed motives; other grounds immaterial if encouragement or discouragement was also purpose

Turnbull Cone Baking Company of Tennessee v. N.L.R.B. 778 F.2d 8 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1985)

[once GC has demonstrated that Ee's protected activity was substantial or motivating factor in E's adverse action against Ee, E may then avoid liability if it can prove by preponderance of evidence that there were independent, legitimate reasons for its decision; thus, in mixed or dual motive cases, where there is both anti-U animus and nondiscriminatory reason for adverse action, burden of proof shifts to E to prove that adverse action would have occurred in any event for valid reasons]

8301-8000 Valid cause for discrimination no defense

8301-8025 8(a)(3) not sustained where lawful and illegal motive may be equally inferred

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 184

(notwithstanding that E's cessation of U activist's Saturday work was violative, warning notice, based on customer complaint concerning Ee's serving vending machine at customer's facility and later discharge for his sloppy work habits and misconduct, not violative, since Ee's work was not satisfactory and E showed that action of warning and subsequent discharge of Ee would have taken place even in absence of mechanic's U activity)

8301-8087 Inference of discrimination not overcome

Med West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146

(prima facie case made out for successor's unlawful failure to rehire Ees where: 1) Ees were known U adherents, 2) majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, 3) disparate treatment as other Ees rehired were guilty of same offenses that successor alleged for not rehiring these Ees, and 4) successor found to have unlawfully refused to bargain with U, which constituted additional evidence of U animus)

8304 DISCRIMINATEE'S ACCEPTANCE OF OTHER EMPLOYMENT PRIOR TO TIME FOR RECALL OR EMPLOYMENT

American Press, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 109

[successor E did not discriminatorily refuse to hire predecessor's former Ee who refused E's offer because his current place of employment was closer than E's plant was to his home and did not require payment of city income tax required in employment with E]

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089

[what constitutes regular and substantially equivalent employment is determined not by merchanistic application of literal language of statute, but rather through objective appraisal of several factors, both tangible and intangible, including desire and intent of Ee concerned. E's belief, however honest or reasonable, that striker has obtained regular and equivalent employment is not sufficient ot meet burden]

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089

[E's failure to reinstate former economic striker, unlawful, notwithstanding former striker's statement that he was happily employed at another E, absent evidence job former striker currently held was substantially equivalent to job he had held at E and that it constituted regular, rather than part-time or temporary employment]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078

[E's obvious failure to discharge its burden in establishing that Ee had obtained comparable employment as basis for excluding him from possible recall made E's action violative, since E disqualified for reinstatement those Ees it deemed on basis of insufficient information to have obtained comparable employment where basis was whether Ee was employed in same type of job, with competitor, but no further check as to wages, benefits, job assignments, etc.]

8305 NO VACANCY

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175

[existence of temporary jobs is not equivalent of vacancy to which strikers should have been reinstated]

Rogers Cleaning Contractors, Inc. and Its Alter Ego, Olmsted Cleaning Contractors, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 053

(E's claim of no vacancy rejected where real reason was applicants' grievance activities under alter ego E)

S. Rosenthal and Company, Inc. d/b/a Rosenthal-Kaufmann Lithograph Company 276 NLRB No. 068

(where E, pursuant to past practice, had extended part-time Ees' probationary period so as to have more time to assess their qualifications and find full-time positions for them, its discharging them when U demanded strict compliance with contract provision requiring that they be included in the bargaining unit or be discharged, not violative, since U effectively ended their probationary period and E discharged them because it had no full-time positions open rather than because of anti-U animus or discrimination)

8307 BUSINESS MANAGEMENT CONSIDERATIONS

8307-0100 Generally

Carpenters Local 925; et al. (Charlene Seier, an Individual) 279 NLRB No. 145
[pretextual discharge cases should be viewed as those in which ---defense of business justification is wholly w/o merit]

Taylor & Gaskin, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 065
(in adopting ALJ's finding that E violated 8(a)(4) and (1) when it refused to rehire laid-off Ee because he had filed ULP charge against E, Bd disagreed with ALJ's statement that Wright Line does not apply to cases where there is finding that asserted legitimate business reason for adverse action was pretextual)

8307-0150 Economic necessity does not justify ULP

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No 061
[fact E's unilateral mid-term changes in Ees' terms and conditions of employment were prompted by economic rather than discriminatory considerations is immaterial if E did not bargain about those changes. Defense that refusal to bargain did not take place in context of overall subjective, bad faith may be available when charge is violation of Section 8(a)(3) of Act, but it is no defense to 8(a)(5) allegation]

8307-1100 Complete cessation of business

McAllister Brothers Inc. and Outreach Marine Corporation, Alter Egos 278 NLRB No. 091
[discharge of 38 Ees and refusal to rehire them as positions became available, violative, since E discharged Ees assertedly because it sold business but was found herein to be single E and alter egos with new E, thus, U's contract remained in effect in regard to all aspects of employment relationship]

P.J. Hamill Transfer Company, and Robert Blackwell, Trustee in Bankruptcy, alter ego and/or successor, and Brennan Express, Inc., alter egos 277 NLRB No. 39
(layoff of Ees, not unlawful, where layoff was result of E's cessation of operations after its bank account was garnisheed by U trust fund to satisfy judgment for E's failure to make contributions to fund; remarks of vice-president of E and its alleged alter ego to U's business agent that E had tried to do it U and it did not work, and now they were going to do it another way equivocal and insufficient to establish U animus)

8307-1200 Subcontracting

Leeward Nursing Home 278 NLRB No. 157
[no violation, where Ees were discharged as result of subcontracting and some Ees were not hired by subcontractor, since subcontracting lawful, subcontractor not named as Respondent, and absent evidence of blackballing of Ees by Respondent E which subcontracted]

Service Merchandise Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 023
[E's discharge of drivers and warehouse Ee who had been driver and subcontracting driving operations, unlawful, where for support of drivers' association and threat to seek representation by outside U, in view of E's expressed opposition to outside U, summary nature of discharges, and secrecy of negotiations for subcontracting; contention subcontracting motivated by economic considerations, rejected, where subcontracting resulted in 25% increase in cost even though fewer miles driven over private driver operation]

Handy Andy Associates, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 029
(discharge of Ees pursuant to E's decision to subcontract work, not violative where E demonstrated that sole basis for decision was predicated on economic or other legitimate business considerations)

Confort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(simultaneous subcontracting out, reduction in overtime, and enforced use of discretionary vacation, allegedly because of U campaign, not violative where they were due to economic market conditions in the industry and unpredictable nature of E's business)

Continental Garage Management Corp. JD-(NY)-106-85
(contention that E had arranged to subcontract unit work and hired Ees to perform it only temporarily belied by backdating of subcontractor's proposals)

8307-2200 Reorganization

Harold Weine; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013
[E's unilateral reclassification of its (motel) desk clerks to supervisory positions, violative, where conduct, coupled with E's other ULPs and coinciding with other violative layoffs effectuated decimation of unit. Evidence discloses no justifiable reason for such conduct and record evidence suggests there would be 1:1 ratio of supervisors to unit Ees]

Beckley Belt Service, Inc., d/b/a Beckley Belt Services & Roofing Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 066
[laying off Ees who complained to management about use of non-U labor to perform unit work while unit members were not working and followed up complaint with grievance, because of alleged reorganization, violation]

(although prima facie case was established that Ee was terminated because of her U activity, inference of unlawful motivation for discharge was rebutted by evidence establishing that well before learning of organizational activity among Ees, E had prepared shop reorganization plan at which time E planned to terminate Ee after taking advantage of her services to train her replacement; and Ee was terminated after E determined that Ee was of no assistance in training replacement)

The Evening News Association JD-24-86
[refusal to transfer and promote Ee to accomodate her desire to continue to work for her present supervisor when during reorganization he was transferred to new position, not unlawful, since refusal was for business reasons rather than for Ee's U activities, where another Ee had been performing duties of secretary to individual who held position to which Ee's supervisor being transferred; further, to accomodate Ee's desire would require redistribution of clerical responsibilities, and Ee had never previously applied for promotions that were available, nor been promised promotion]

8307-2800 Discontinuance of department, operation, or shift for economic reasons

ABS Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 145
[parent company's having subsidiary sell impacter operation and shut down plant, not violation where subsidiary had already ceased 80 percent of operations due to lack of market, and other subsidiary to which impacter operation was sold was more efficient and needed more sales; moreover parent company had normal relations with U at subsidiary plant, was also selling non-U plants, and was only one of many Es in its industry drastically affected by recession]

Desota, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 114
[closing plant, laying off Ees, and transferring work to E's other facilities, not unlawfully discriminatory, where E's sole reason was economy and efficiency resulting from reduction of excess capacity and effect of chilling unionism at other plants was not readily foreseeable]

Purolator Armored, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 1423 (C.A. 7, July 1985)
(notwithstanding operation was losing money, E violated Act by terminating said operation as E was willing to absorb these losses until U won election which shows that economics was not foremost in E's decision, and as U elected as operation's representative was same as one that represented other E units and there was frequent interchange with Ees, the closure had chilling effect on unionism)

8307-2850 Not real reason

Wilco Business Forms, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 154

B & P Trucking, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 092
[shutting down trucking portion of operations and discharging all drivers, violation since reason was E's wish to avoid unionization, rather than trucking operation's lack of profitability]

Olympic Limousine Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 133
[E's cancellation of second shift, assertedly for economic reasons, which decision had effect of forcing main U supporter to quit since he went to school days, violative, where E had recently instituted second shift and had told Ees it was working well, there was no decline in E's business to justify decision and E had shown animus towards U supporter]

Hunter Douglas, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 123
(discharge of Ees on second shift, which E believed to be focus of U activity, unlawful, since E failed to demonstrate same action would have taken place absent protected activity, notwithstanding E's contention it eliminated shift due to shift's lower productivity, greater management availability on first shift, reduction in indirect costs and security considerations, in view of abruptness of layoff and fact E deviated from previous layoff policy by eliminating entire shift rather than overall reduction of Ees from all shifts based on individual seniority and qualifications)

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(unlawful discharge of Ee w/lowest seniority and working 1 shift per week when E reinstituted old policy that Ees work minimum of 2 shifts per week and took shift from him and gave it to senior Ee who also worked 1 shift, in view of E's animus, no explanation why E delayed 5 months before implementing decision to return to old shift policy, and knowledge of Ee's U inclination inferred from E's knowledge that Ee's brother, also Ee, was U adherent, smallness of workforce (21 Ees) and supervisor at time of his termination voiced concern over U considerations

Murray Sandblast and Paint, Inc. JD-276-85
(supervisor's announcing to Ees that E was going to implement stricter sanctions for Ee absenteeism and tardiness, not violative where GC did not show that U's (R) ptn was factor in announcement of absence/tardiness crackdown and it was shown crackdown was for more efficient production and less customer complaints)

8307-3600 Protection of confidential labor relations matters

Raytheon Missile System Division, Raytheon Company 279 NLRB No. 035
[E's transfer of compensation assistant in E's industrial relations department to position in production control department, not violative where Ee had current legitimate access to confidential labor relations information at time her pro-U sympathy first became known to E; E's decision to transfer her was predicated on more than conjecture, but rather on reasonable apprehension, based on her pro-U activity, that she might compromise confidential labor relations information]

8307-3900 Introduction of new equipment, production process or work shift

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[automation of radio station no defense to discharge of all announcers who had signed U authorization cards while retaining nonsigners where E did not have financial condition necessitating automation, did not decide to automate until it received U representation ptn, and abandoned automation w/i days of its institution, returning to its prior format with more announcers than before]

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E's failure to recall former economic striker who had repaired auto engines when his replacement left, not unlawful, since justified by substantial business reasons in view of changed nature of its engine repair operations to emphasis on work on different type of engines, and inability of former striker to perform this type of work]

8307-4200 Poor productivity

W-W Masonary, Inc. JD-486-84
(discharge of job steward, assertedly for poor productivity and performance, violative where action of steward in complaining to E concerning its alleged violation of bargaining agreement was precipitating cause of discharge and absent steward's participation in dispute, E would not have fired him)

8307-4250 Not real reason

Mid-State Distributing Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 172
(termination of drivers' helpers assertedly because of their low productivity, unlawful, in view of helpers' significant U activity; timing of terminations to recently initiated U activity; substantial increase in sales at time of terminations; and inconsistencies in evidence detracting from E's position and indicating pretext which was reinforced by absence of layoffs during prior slack periods)

Ducane Heating Corporation 273 NLRB No. 175
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of substandard production, violative, since real reason was Ee's testimony at Bd hearing against E and his active U support where Ee had excellent work record and E did not find fault with E's production until after he gave testimony at Bd hearing)

8307-4500 Suitability of probationary employee

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(discharge of probationary part-time Ee at store acquired by E from former owner, assertedly for limited availability for work and slow performance, not unlawful, where Ee's assertion of contractual rights to obtain additional hours from former E was no basis for imputing retaliatory motivation on E's actions some 3 months later, in view of absence of U animus or of wholesale termination of U members following change of ownership, removal of supervisor having fractious relationship with Ee from his evaluation, and other supervisors' unfavorable comments about Ee's performance)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(discharge of probationary Ee who had insisted upon right to U representation at disciplinary meeting with E and who had filed grievances concerning her assignment dispute with E, not unlawful, since discharge was well-grounded in legitimate business interests where Ee had extreme-poor attendance record; Ee had repeated disagreements with work schedule because of restrictions on her availability, and she exhibited unacceptable work habits during short time she had been working for E)

United States Postal Service JD-203-86
[discharge of probationary Ee who slipped at work, hurt his back, and was unable to work for several days, unlawful, since for filing grievance over denial of light work after being cleared for such duty and after receiving conflicting information from E's Ee relations department which said there was no light duty available for probationary Ees but that compensation unit would pay him, and compensation unit informed him he would not be paid because cleared for light duty, where not policy of E to terminate probationary Ees who lost time due to injury, and E only discharged after giving notice U would be utilized to secure his rights]

8307-4900 Shortage of essential materials or equipment

8307-4950 Not real reason

Mid-State Distributing Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 172
(layoff of longhaul driver assertedly because of lack of sufficient number of vehicles, and because of common carrier cost decline, unlawful, in view of Ee's U activity, E's knowledge thereof and its U animus, circumstances of timing during U campaign, and fact that asserted business condition was not significant change justifying layoff since, under vehicle leasing arrangement, E continued using vehicle which driver had operated at favorable cost)

8307-5200 Overstaffing

Maritz Communications Company, A Wholly Owned Subsidiary of Maritz, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 016
(purchaser's failure to hire Ee of seller, not unlawful, since due to loss of work rather than U affiliation; contention that purchaser was motivated by U affiliation rather than business considerations evidenced by disparate treatment, rejected, inasmuch as Ee retained had more familiarity with certain equipment; nor did purchaser's offering raise to Ee retained if Ee would relinquish U membership evidence U animus, since raise was to compensate for loss of contribution in his behalf to U pension fund)

Allbritton Communications Co., The News Printing Co., Inc. and The Hudson Dispatch v. N.L.R.B. 766 F.2d 812 (C.A. 3, July 1985)
(E's layoff of Ees, not violative, notwithstanding E's U animus and coincidence between layoff and U organizational campaign, where there was no deviation from past practice of layoffs in face of economic conditions)

8307-5250 Not real reason

Wilco Business Forms, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 154
[no hiring freeze and E hired Ee one week before layoff]

8307-8000 Absorption or elimination of work duties

MacDonald Miller Company 277 NLRB No. 079
(discharge of Ee, allegedly for his U activities and U stewardship and interest in enforcing contractual term according his job higher wages, not violation, since E showed no U animus and acted in accordance with such contractual term in transferring Ee's job to other U members already making such higher wages, leaving Ee w/o a job and E w/o obligation to retain him)

Baker Manufacturing Company v. N.L.R.B. 759 F.2d 1219 (C.A. 5, May 1985)
(precipitous discharge of toolroom attendant, allegedly because her position had been abolished to reduce overhead, violative where it occurred soon after E learned she was among Ees who were organizing U and told them they could leave if they did not like his management; further, although she was good worker, E did not place her in position occupied by probationary Ees or in new jobs opening up soon after her discharge)

N.L.R.B. v. Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Association, et al. 751 F.2d 1571 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)
(no violation by refusing to recall economic strikers where their positions had been eliminated for bona fide economic reason, replacements for them had not been hired, and non-strikers occupying similar positions had been permanently transferred to other jobs)

8307-8400 Slack work or other economic necessity

Telford & Doolen, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of U steward and Ee and ultimate discharge of Ee, assertedly because they engaged in U activities and because they filed charges or gave testimony under Act, not unlawful, since E's motives were purely economic, coupled with dissatisfaction with Ee's job performance where, as result of its bad financial condition, E laid off its entire work force, recalling Ees only from time to time and ultimately closing department involved; and no replacements were ever hired for terminated Ees)

8307-8433 Not real reason

Northwind Maintenance and Painting Co., Inc. 281 NLRB No. 048
[hiring new Ees as replacements is patent evidence that attributing layoff to contract cancellation was pretext]

Shore Pointe Associates, Inc., d/b/a Americare Convalescent Center 280 NLRB No. 130
[pre-election mass discharge of Ees assertedly because of economic necessity held violative of 8(a)(1) as well as 8(a)(3) where E, in face of warnings to reduce costs, hired additional Ees and incurred other avoidable business expenses; only logical reason for discharges was to impose chilling effect on Ees about to vote for U representation; such chilling effect was implemented by E's other unlawful conduct; and asserted economic basis for discharges was not credited in view of E's business expenditures]

Resistance Technology, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 117
[mass layoff of Ees violative in view of U animus, E's prior assurance that there would be no layoffs, suddenness and timing of layoffs, and failure of E to prove its contention that layoffs were economically necessary, where nature and level of work remained unchanged, E instituted overtime following layoffs, and E recalled substantially all laid-off Ees after U lost election]

Benmit Division, U.S. Tubular, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 083
[demoting U activist allegedly because of slack work, violative, where evidence showed that hours worked by Ees in his job classification did not decline during period]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[automation of radio station no defense to discharge of all announcers who had signed U authorization cards while retaining nonsigners where E did not have financial condition necessitating automation, did not decide to automate until it received U representation ptn, and abandoned automation w/i days of its institution, returning to its prior format with more announcers than before]

Terraillon Corp. 280 NLRB No. 037
[reduction of Ee's hours, unlawful, since for his U adherence; E's economic defense rejected where it retained high school student who was part time Ee who had only worked short time, rather than maintaining Ee's hours]

The Well-Bred Loaf, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 036
[alleged slack work contradicted by hiring of new Ees contemporaneously with discharges and reinstatement of Ees soon after discharges]

Armon Company 279 NLRB No. 158
[layoff of senior truck driver who had signed card, violation where contentions that using common carriers for deliveries was cheaper and step toward liquidating business was not supported by evidence]

Star Color Plate Service, Division of Einhorn Enterprises, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 082
[layoff of two Ees, assertedly because of slack work caused by machine breakdown, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were laid off immediately after E received R ptn, E knew Ees were active U supporters, layoff was precipitous and E had never before laid off Ees when a machine had broken down]

Dayton Auto Electric, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 080
[layoff of Ees unlawful, notwithstanding decrease in sales and repeated entreaties from its bankers and accountant for E to reduce work force, where E did little to reduce work force until U entered picture, despite high turnover which would have allowed E to reduce work force by attrition]

Quality Aluminum Products, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 049
[E's claim that layoffs necessitated by lack of orders and seasonal nature of business, rejected where major downturn in business occurred after layoffs, Ees were not given customary pre-layoff notice, and layoffs immediately followed Ees' attendance at U meetings and display of U buttons]

Ballou Brick Co. 277 NLRB No. 009
(discharge of 13 Ees, assertedly because E's inventory was so great as to eliminate the need for production, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where E at no time halted production after the discharges, offered no records to support its economic defense and discharges occurred shortly after E had received U's demand for recognition)

Superior Warehouse Grocers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010
(layoff of U adherent, assertedly because of lack of business, violative)

Kenneth L. Hand Sr. d/b/a Neighborhood Roofing and Contracting, and Kenneth L. Hand Jr. and Sylvia Hand d/b/a Farrand Park Services 276 NLRB No. 081
(E's failure to recall Ees following most recent layoff allegedly because there was no available work, violative where E's reason was false and each of these Ees had either sought U's assistance and representation, or had insisted he recive contractual wage rates and benefits to which he was entitled)

Quality Millwork Corp. and Its Alter Ego Quality Door Co. 276 NLRB No. 069

Gatliff Business Products, Inc. and RBD Service Corporation 276 NLRB No. 060
(mass layoff of U adherents during U organizing campaign not necessitated by E's problems with cash flow and bank overdrafts, as contended; E had never laid any Ees off in past ten years when it had similar problems; further, E had just had large debt forgiven)

Superior Container, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 055
(layoff of Ees assertedly for economic reasons, unlawful, since E failed to show it would have terminated Ees in absence of their U activities, where E's economic justification for layoff was pretext in view of fact that remaining work force worked overtime shortly after layoff and E then hired new Ees w/o first recalling terminated Ees; E testified that savings were not important in his decision, and that he did not follow prior practice; and E contradicted himself in explaining overtime)

Limpert Brothers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 037
(layoff of Ees, assertedly because of slack work and business losses, violative, where Ees were laid off only one day after E obtained knowledge of U activity, E informed several Ees that reason for layoff was U activity and layoff was precipitous, occurring w/o any warning to Ees)

Corrugated Partitions West, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 126
(layoff of Ees during U organizational campaign, assertedly because of poor sales, unlawful)

Penn Jersey Paper Co. 275 NLRB No. 064
(discharge of Ee allegedly because of laziness on job and poor economic conditions, unlawful, where Ee was terminated because of U activity and fellow Ee's efforts to obtain U membership for both of them, in view of E's failure to give Ee written warning for performing his job in indolent manner, 2-week delay in implementing decision to terminate Ee, voluntary payment of 2 weeks' severance pay to Ee, improved business conditions at time of discharge, and use of another individual to perform Ee's duties after his termination)

Ducane Heating Corporation 273 NLRB No. 175
(permanent layoff of Ee, assertedly because of a decline in business, violative, since real reason was Ee's testimony at Bd hearing against E and her U activity where E did not produce any evidence in support of its economic defense, in fact evidence adduced at trial showed E was very busy, and layoff occurred only 4 days after Ee gave testimony at Bd hearing)

Morning Star International, Inc. JD-209-86
[layoff of leading U proponents assertedly for lack of work, unlawful where, although E was operating at a loss, there was work to be done at plant as evidenced by E's hiring of Ees immediately before and after layoff, including Ees who performed work identical to that performed by laid off Ees; Ees had performed many jobs at plant other than their primary work; and E offered no explanation for giving Ees extended layoff unlike short layoff period given other Ees]

Baker Manufacturing Company v. N.L.R.B. 759 F.2d 1219 (C.A. 5, May 1985)
(layoff of five U organizers, allegedly because lockout had caused work shortage, violative where E's records showed, and E had recently assured Ees, that there was plenty of work; further, E could have reduced work force by not hiring two new Ees and by laying off less skilled Ees)

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)
[discharges not justified by E's financial woes where discharged Ees were replaced w/i two months]

Ballou Brick Company v. N.L.R.B. 798 F.2d 339 (C.A. 8, July 1986)
[contention that layoffs were compelled by economic necessity in view of decrease in sales, increase in inventory w/o storage space, and completion of capital construction project, rejected where sales had increased, E had reduced inventory but increased production, and only one of laid-off Ees had been hired to work on construction project]

8307-8450 Adequately established

ABS Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 145
[parent company's having subsidiary sell impacter operation and shut down plant, not violation where subsidiary had already ceased 80 percent of operations due to lack of market, and other subsidiary to which impacter operation was sold was more efficient and needed more sales; moreover parent company had normal relations with U at subsidiary plant, was also selling non-U plants, and was only one of many Es in its industry drastically affected by recession]

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154
[no unlawful discharge of U adherents where they were placed on leave of absence status due to injury pursuant to E's policy, their jobs were not filled during their absence, and they were recalled when E's business picked up in same manner as non-U supporters]

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(accelerated layoff of Ees before date on which layoff was scheduled, not unlawful, where E was face-to-face with immediate cessation of cash flow on date of layoff which was motivated by legitimate business judgement to immediately curtail future payroll obligations and operational expenses during cash flow crisis)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(discharge of Ees at store acquired by E from former owner in whose employ Ees had filed grievances and had refused to take polygraph tests concerning mishandling of E's funds, not unlawful where, although E must have considered Ees' refusals to take tests, E possessed substantial adverse information about Ees which alone justified discretionary business judgment not to retain them; and E's discharge decision was not motivated by anti-U animus or antipathy toward Ees' use of grievance procedure nor was it based on Ees' reliance on contract rights and procedures)

Confort & Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 082
(simultaneous subcontracting out, reduction in overtime, and enforced use of discretionary vacation, allegedly because of U campaign, not violative where they were due to economic market conditions in the industry and unpredictable nature of E's business)

Thompson's Gas, Inc. and Del-Ro Transports, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 092
(intermittent layoffs, assertedly for lack of work, of Ee who had joined U, filed ULP charges, and cooperated in prosecution of U's ULP charges, not unlawful, where layoffs occurred during seasonal summer decline in business and E's strained financial condition; fact that E was not laid off in past summers was not significant because of change in Ee's work status since then)

C. M. Carpenter, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Carpenter Trucking 274 NLRB No. 046
(layoff of U adherent who was leader in organization drive and who was to be U steward, lawful, notwithstanding E's animus against U adherent, where at time he was laid off adherent had worked only 5 days in 2 weeks, there was lack of business, and in view of fact adherent was next to bottom of seniority list, and E's policy in case of layoff was that Ees last hired were first to go)

Tennessee Cold & Dry Storage, A Division of Conagra, Inc. JD-(ATL)-61-86
[discharge of known U supporters, not unlawful, notwithstanding U animus and suddeness of discharges, since E rebutted GC's prima facie case, in view of business considerations including seasonal downturn, loss of major customer, and fact terminations by seniority]

Easthampton Electrical Services, Inc. JD-85-85
(discharges of Ees not unlawful, notwithstanding discharges took place one month after Ees had returned to 40 hour week, previously in slow times hours of all Ees had been cut rather than some Ees discharged, E had had profitable year, and two weeks prior to discharges had granted unit wide salary increase, absent evidence of E knowledge of U organizing activity, and since E offered plausible business and economic reasons for discharges, including fact total hours worked by Ees in dischargees' classification down)

8307-8467 Reasonable basis for selecting those to be laid off first, recalled first or discharged

Indiana Desk Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 165
(no violation where E did not follow seniority in offering jobs to economic strikers, but rather offered jobs to Ees who held the same jobs before strike and in event of unavailability or declination by that Ee it then offered job to most qualified other striking Ee)

Tennessee Cold & Dry Storage, A Division of Conagra, Inc. JD-(ATL)-61-86
[discharge of known U supporters, not unlawful, notwithstanding U animus and suddeness of discharges, since E rebutted GC's prima facie case, in view of business considerations including seasonal downturn, loss of major customer, and fact terminations by seniority]

8307-8467-2500 Efficiency of employee

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 009
[E's failure to recall former economic striker after his replacement left not justified by contentions that former striker had obtained regular and substantial employment with another E, or that his replacement possessed skills not possessed by former striker which allowed E to use replacement in enlarged work capacity, absent evidence that former strikers employment with other E was actually equivalent, or that changes in operations during strike warranted need for skills greater than those E required at beginning of strike, or that replacement was hired because he possessed those skills]

Webb Furniture Enterprises, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 180
(E's contention that layoff of Ee was for absenteeism and that other Ees were more versatile rather than for U activities, rejected, as E retained 2 other Ees who did not sign U literature and with worse attendance records than discriminatee and record did not support claim of versatility of other Ees)

8307-8467-7500 Where basis for selection for layoff or recall unreasonable

Garrett Railroad Car & Equipment, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 151
(recalling Ee (economic striker) out of seniority after strike's end, violative, since such treatment of Ee was disprate. E's action was not shown to be for some legitimate business reason or purpose and assessed in background of E's ULPs was inherently destructive of Ee Section 7 rights. Record provided sufficient evidence of E's singling out Ee striker who wanted to abandon strike (E had learned) and rendered this Ee-striker favorable disparate treatment some 3 weeks after strike ended)

Safety & Security Systems, Inc. JD-(SF)-85-86
[laying off U leader, violation, notwithstanding E's economic problems, where Ees with less ability and seniority were retained, E had committed ULPs against other U adherents, and management had specific plan to discriminate against U adherents]

8307-8800 Completion of work for which employees hired

ITT-FELEC Services, Inc. JD-(SF)-131-86
[routine termination of temporary job, not violation]

Baker Manufacturing Company v. N.L.R.B. 759 F.2d 1219 (C.A. 5, May 1985)
(discharge of U supporter allegedly because E had ceased manufacturing equipment upon which he had been hired to work, violative where he was maintenance, not production, worker, there was ample work for him at time of his discharge, and E had recently told him so)

Ballou Brick Company v. N.L.R.B. 798 F.2d 339 (C.A. 8, July 1986)
[layoff of U adherents, violation, notwithstanding completion of project they were hired to work on, where they had been told that they would be kept on as permanent Ees]

8307-9100 Transfer of department to new plant

8307-9167 Sustained where economically justified

ARS Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 145
[parent company's having subsidiary sell impacter operation and shut down plant, not violation where subsidiary had already ceased 80 percent of operations due to lack of market, and other subsidiary to which impacter operation was sold was more efficient and needed more sales; moreover parent company had normal relations with U at subsidiary plant, was also selling non-U plants, and was only one of many Es in its industry drastically affected by recession]

Allbritton Communications Co., The News Printing Co., Inc. and The Hudson Dispatch v. N.L.R.B. 766 F.2d 812 (C.A. 3, July 1985)
(E's layoff of Ees, not violative, notwithstanding E's U animus and coincidence between layoff and U organizational campaign, where there was no deviation from past practice of layoffs in face of economic conditions)

Purolator Armored, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 764 F.2d 1423 (C.A. 7, July 1985)
(notwithstanding operation was losing money, E violated Act by terminating said operation as E was willing to absorb these losses until U won election which shows that economics was not foremost in E's decision, and as U elected as operation's representative was same as one that represented other E units and there was frequent interchange with Ees, the closure had chilling effect on unionism)

8307-9600 Likelihood of claims against employer

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[notwithstanding no prior preemployment physical exam policy and only instituted after economic strike ended, and notwithstanding it has been applied to recalled strikers, but not all of replacement Ees have undergone physicals, no violations over instituting physical exam policy or failure to reinstate recalled striker who failed exam, even though physician said illness treatable and posed no threat to his ability to perform job, since policy of E is that all Ees will take physical, policy bore no indication of discriminatory intent, E also discharged striker replacement who had same illness and policy was reasonable response to potential liability]

8311 BUSINESS DISRUPTION

8311-6700 Slowing production

Maple Tree, Inc. JD-(ATL)-68-85
(discharge of U advocates, assertedly for deliberately slowing production, violative)

8320 ALTERNATIVES TO ACTION WOULD VIOLATE OTHER SECTIONS OF NLRA OR OTHER STATUTES

Health Care Service-California d/b/a Valley Oaks Health Care Center JD-(SF)-198-85
[changing U supporter's work schedule to time which was less desireable to Ee, assertedly because it was mandated by State law, violative, where E presented no evidence of State law mandating such change and there was no showing of why Ee should not have been allowed to maintain her previous work schedule]

8322 CONTRACT PROVISION

S. Rosenthal and Company, Inc. d/b/a Rosenthal-Kaufmann Lithograph Company 276 NLRB No. 008
(where E, pursuant to past practice, had extended part-time Ees' probationary period so as to have more time to assess their qualifications and find full-time positions for them, its discharging them when U demanded strict compliance with contract provision requiring that they be included in the bargaining unit or be discharged, not violative, since U effectively ended their probationary period and E discharged them because it had no full-time positions open rather than because of anti-U animus or discrimination)

8322-2000 Discriminatory enforcement of provisions

Montgomery Elevator Company 278 NLRB No. 122
[E demoting and terminating Ee at U's request, unlawful, where for Ee's non-membership in U; contention Ee laid off since there were no helper positions available when he was returned to that status pursuant to agreement with U that Ees who failed mechanics test while working as mechanic with temporary permit be returned to helper status for 1 year, rejected, in view of disparate treatment of Ee and timing of termination soon after meeting of U's representative with E]

Book Covers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of Ee for refusing to work overtime as required by contract, violative, as practice was to excuse Ees from working assigned overtime if supervisor presented with reasonable excuse, and excuse which Ee gave, and which lay behind motivation to fire Ee, was that Ee was going to labor board to file charges against E; furthermore, no Ee ever disciplined beyond receiving oral warring before)

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) JD-18-86
[retaining pyrometer steward pursuant to U's invocation of superseniority clause of contract, not unlawfully discriminatory as to two Ees who were not allowed to bump steward from sole remaining pyrometer position but laid off, notwithstanding U's letter stating it did not intend to have steward granted superseniority to represent himself and lack of pyrometer Ees remaining on job for steward to represent, since U letter was not binding contract but statement of intent, and steward was required on job to protect unit work, police its assignment, and represent laid-off Ees' recall rights]

8322-3000 Superseniority and/or other benefits for union officials or stewards

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company 278 NLRB No. 098
[granting super-seniority to Executive Board members and Treasure of U for their terms of office for shift preference, surplus and layoff, and maintaining super-seniority clause with respect to Executive Board members and Treasurer of U, violative, where they had no responsibilities requiring on-the-job presence to further administration of bargaining agreement]

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company 278 NLRB No. 098
[according U's Executive Board member super-seniority under bargaining agreement with respect to shift preference and thereby causing Ee to be removed from first shift and placed on second shift, violative where Executive Board Member had no responsibility requiring on-the-job presence to further administration of bargaining agreement]

Telford & Dooley, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of U steward who was accorded superseniority under contract, not unlawful, where no other job was available that he was qualified to fill; steward had no seniority in E's other department and, under contract, was not entitled to bump anyone in that department in order to retain his job; and no Bd precedent exists which accords steward lawful superseniority extending beyond his department or seniority roster)

Mead Packaging 273 NLRB No. 181
(E's unilateral discontinuance of insurance and pension benefits to U officers on leaves of absence for purpose of holding U office, not violative; granting such benefits to U officers alone under provision of contract would violate 8(a)(3) and 8(b)(2), since granting such benefits to U officers did not further effective administration of E's bargaining agreement where U officers were on U's payroll and acted as representatives of Ees at other Es premises, engaging in engotiations and arbitrations, and generally monitored compliance with U's bargaining agreements and further, granting of such benefits was not available to other Ees on an equal basis)

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) JD-18-86
[U letter of agreement stating that it did not intend to have steward granted superseniority to represent himself--apparently no other unit Ees remained--notwithstanding superseniority provisions of contract, and that agreement was voidable by E or U by written notification at any time, not binding contract but statement of intent voidable by U at will and thus no basis for holding violative E's retention of U steward pursuant to U's invocation of superseniority clause]

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) JD-18-86
[retaining pyrometer steward pursuant to U's invocation of superseniority clause of contract, not unlawfully discriminatory as to two Ees who were not allowed to bump steward from sole remaining pyrometer position but laid off, notwithstanding U's letter stating it did not intend to have steward granted superseniority to represent himself and lack of pyrometer Ees remaining on job for steward to represent, since U letter was not binding contract but statement of intent, and steward was required on job to protect unit work, police its assignment, and represent laid-off Ees' recall rights]

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) JD-18-86
[U stewards justifiably presumed to have valid lay-off-recall superseniority on basis of U's retaining on-the-job representation for processing grievances; superseniority of nonstewards of officers engaged in no on-the-job, steward-like functions, to whom it was later extended, was evaluated under different criteria]

Automobile Workers, Local No. 1309 (International Harvester Company) JD-18-86
[presumption of validity of job retention of U steward under superseniority provision of contract not rebutted by high ratio of stewards to Ees in steward's department, since Bd criteria for decisions focuses on U steward's on-the-job function rather than ratio of stewards to represented Ees]

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)
(in affirming Bd's Gulton rule allowing enforcement of superseniority clause for layoff purposes only if U officials needed to be on job, ct held S.Ct's Campbell decision did not require different result; even if Campbell, in which S.Ct held veterans' retention of seniority under Selective Service Act did not invalidate superseniority of U officials over veterans during layoff, had been decided under NLRA, Gulton decision would not be inconsistent with Campbell since no reason existed to believe U officials therein did not meet Gulton's on job criteria)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)
(ct held Bd's superseniority line of cases proceed from premise that superseniority encourages workers to be good U members so that they might increase their chances of being selected for positions afforded superseniority; such premise, drawn from Bd's experience in labor relations, is reasonable and therefore should not be rejected by reviewing ct; nor does reasonableness of premise depend on whether U officials afforded superseniority are appointed by U hierarchy or are elected by U members)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)
(superseniority accorded U's recording secretary for layoff purposes held not justified under Gulton where secretary had neither significant representational nor contract administration duties requiring her presence in workplace; her duties were essentially clerical outside plant; and her maintenance of plant bulletin board took relatively little time and could be accomplished with only minor inconvenience of occasional trip to plant)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)
(superseniority accorded sergeant-at-arms held not justified under Gulton where his duties involved only regulating U meetings and did not entail representational or contract administration duties at or away from plant; nor did his position on U fair practices committee justify grant of superseniority since it was awarded not because of that position but because of his status as U official; Bd could plainly find that his layoff would not seriously interfere with his duties as executive board member)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)
(Ees did not waive right to challenge clause providing U officials with superseniority for puposes of layoff by ratifying agreement containing clause; right at issue herein is right to be free from discrimination that encourages U membership and is not economic right under S.Ct's Metropolitan Edison decision, such as right to strike or to refuse to cross lawful picket line, in attempt by Ees and U to achieve economic advantage and for which waiver is appropriate because Ee and U interests are presumed to coincide; if they do not, Ees remain free to change their representative)

N.L.R.B. v. Niagara Machine & Tool Works and Local 508, Automobile Workers 746 F.2d 143 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1984)
(Ees did not waive right to challenge clause providing U officials with superseniority for puposes of layoff since, unlike economic rights which are subject to waiver, right at issue herein is one in which U and Ee interests are likely to conflict; under Gulton superseniority presumably encourages Ees to support U so as to increase their chances of attaining U office and greater job security; on the other hand, Ees have right not to be coerced into supporting incumbent U and, since superseniority encourages such support, Ees' ability to select representative no longer remains free)

(contract provision's grant of superseniority for executive personnel of U, including recording secretary and treasurer, unlawful, notwithstanding U's contention that contract provision was negotiated at time superseniority was lawful under Bd decisions and Bd changed and retroactively applied rule on super seniority)

N.L.R.B. v. Wayne Transportation, A Division of Wayne Corporation, and Auto Workers, UAW Local 721 776 F.2d 745 (C.A. 7, Nov. 1985)

8322-8000 No-strike agreement

Arizona Public Company 273 NLRB No. 210

(issuing 3-day suspensions to 8 Ees because they refused to cross a stranger picket line thus refusing to perform assigned work of removing overhead lines at municipal building complex, not violative, since E's contract with U permitted E to discipline Ees who engage in any unauthorized stoppage, strike, intentional slowdown, or suspension of work, and U, by letter, stated that it had not authorized stoppage, strike, slowdown or suspension of work at involved work site. Absent extrinsic evidence that parties intended otherwise, and general no-strike clause waives the Ees' right to engage in sympathy strikes)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193

(in finding no violation where E imposed more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, Bd considered S.Ct's Metropolitan Edison decision from standpoint of U's waiver of U officials' Sec. 7 rights to extent they have affirmative duty to prevent illegal work stoppages, U's lawful bargaining away of statutory protection accorded U officials, insufficiency of general no-strike clause to constitute waiver, relevance of arbitration decisions in establishing waiver, and establishment of waiver by circumstances surrounding bargaining relationship as well as by language of agreement itself)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193

(in finding E's disparate disciplinary suspension of U stewards for violating no-strike provision requiring U to disavow publicly unlawful strike and take affirmative action to end strike not unlawful, Bd held nothing in S.Ct's Metropolitan Edison decision indicates requirement for speccificity with reqard to naming of U officials as opposed to specificity requirement regarding what affirmative action can be expected of U to end unlawful strike; and in Metropolitan Edison, unlike here, no-strike clause was merely general clause imposing no obligation on U, and U officials took conscientious steps to end walkout)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193

(in finding no violation where E imposed more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, Bd held that, with regard to specificity requirement for naming of U officials as opposed to specificity regarding what affirmative action can be expected of U in event of unlawful strike, it has long been established that U, like an E, acts through its agents and it would be radical departure from longstanding precedent to hold that U's contractual or other obligations must be explicitly designated as responsibility of specified officials or agents)

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company 273 NLRB No. 193

(imposition of disparate disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, not unlawful, where U assumed duty to prevent unlawful strikes and thereby waived steward's statutory rights; while S.Ct in Metropolitan Edison found affirmative action cannot be required unless such requirement is bargained for, it merely held general no-strike clause was not enough to constitute waiver and left open what contractual language would suffice; here, contract unequivocally imposed duty to end unlawful strike, and stewards did not fulfill their contractual obligations even under most narrow construction of contract)

Nicholas, Inc. and Nicholas, Inc., Debtor in Possession JD-(NY)-31-86

[in cases arising before amendments to Bankruptcy Act effective, E, debtor-in-possession, lawfully discharged Ees for striking in violation of no-strike provision in contract where strike occurred during interim period of E petitioning court approval to reject contract and prior to court granting petition, and E continued to abide by terms of contract during this period, thus affirming contract]

Local Union 1392, Electrical Workers v. N.L.R.B. (Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.) 786 F.2d 733 (C.A. 6, Mar. 1986)

[where E imposing more severe disciplinary suspensions on U stewards for violating no-strike provision, not unlawful where contractual language showed U intent for its officials to attempt to prevent unauthorized work stoppages, and this language constituted clear and unmistakable waiver of officials right to be free from selective discipline]

Electrical Workers, Local 387 v. N.L.R.B. (Arizona Public Service Co.) 788 F.2d 1412 (C.A. 9, May 1986)

[sympathy strikers' suspension lawful based on new Bd rule that, absent extrinsic evidence of contrary intent, general no-strike clause waived right to engage in such strikes, reversed and remanded, Bd treated rule as establishing irrebuttable presumption that broad no-strike clause barred such strike, rather than as shifting burden of proving whether clause was intended to encompass sympathy strikes. Bd relied on clause and U letter disavowing strike w/o discussing intent, prior rule's impact on contract's meaning, terms, or negotiations, and parties' conduct under it as rule required]

N.L.R.B. v. Deauville Hotel 751 F.2d 1562 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)

(Bd holding that reasonable period of time must be allowed after contract is made for air to clear before enforcement of no strike clause unenforceable as lacking objective standard: ct applied standard of reasonable time for Ees to know that parties had agreed on contract with no-strike clause, taking into account local or national nature of preceding strike, existence of such clause in prior contract, whether incorporation of no-strike clause in new contract was controversial, extent of members' exposure to new contract during negotiations and ratification, and period of time between contract's effective date and strike)

N.L.R.B. v. Deauville Hotel 751 F.2d 1562 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)

(objective standard lacking for Bd's holding allowing time to clear the air before E may enforce no-strike clause in contract agreed on after strike, since, although no-strike clauses encourage collective-bargaining and peaceful resolution of parties' disputes, Bd's rule, which has no standards or limits, means that E may take substantial risk in discharging Ees for violating the clause so that it may deem the clause of little value, and both parties may assign it little value in future negotiations)

N.L.R.B. v. Deauville Hotel 751 F.2d 1562 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)

(discharge of Ee for picketing in violation of no-strike clause renewed in contract agreed upon after economic strike, not unlawful where U had reasonable time to notify its members, including dischargee, of new contract with no-strike clause; dischargee was in fact notified, reported for work, and joined picketers only when mistakenly informed by U steward that the contract had not been singed; U was obligated to heed no-strike clause and prevent unlawful strikers and neither U nor Ee was excused from honoring said clause)

N.L.R.B. v. Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Association, et al. 751 F.2d 1571 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1985)

(enforcing no-strike clause by discharging returning economic strikers who began picketing three days after ratification of contract and end of strike, not violative, since, judged by objective standard, reasonable time for parties to cool off had passed since agreement on contract and for U to notify Ees of agreement and of strike's ends where Ees had ratified contract, ratification had been publicized, existence of no-strike clause in contract was known, and U officials failed towarn picketers when they came to U hall that violation of no-strike clause could result in discharge)

8329-0600 Unconditional application

Brookhurst Professional Building, Inc., Number Three d/b/a Browning Manor Convalescent Hospital 279 NLRB No. 172

[no unlawful refusal to reinstate economic strikers where E had hired permanent replacements, U never made unconditional offer for its striking members to return to work where it attached conditions to its offer, and E asked strikers to register, rather than to apply as it usually understood, for preferential hiring list]

Hansen Brothers Enterprises 279 NLRB No. 098

[although U's offer on behalf of economic strikers to return to work, coupled with demand that all strikers be immediately reinstated and striker replacements be discharged, was conditional, Bd held E unlawfully refused to reinstate strikers since replacements were temporary and U's offer was therefore appropriate, where E's communications to strikers concerning reemployment rights and to replacements concerning their permanent Ee status were noncommital, and its statements showing own intent to permanently employ replacements, failed to satisfy E's burden of showing mutual understanding between itself and replacements that they were permanent]

[ct rejected E's contention that when Ee is fired for misconduct only relevant issue is whether executive who makes firing decision has good faith belief that misconduct occurred; allowing E to assert good faith when one of its supervisors was primary actor in fabrication leading to discharge, as here, simply runs counter to any logical definition of good faith]

8351-0142 Mistaken belief as to misconduct no defense if conduct did not in fact occur

Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 125
[E's contention that U adherent discharged after receiving 3 reprimands pursuant to E's policy, rejected and discharge unlawful, since one of reprimands was in retaliation for her protected activity just a few weeks after she rejected overtures from E to be anti-U. Electrical Workers, Local 387 v. N.L.R.B. (Arizona Public Service Co.) 788 F.2d 1412 (C.A. 9, May 1986)

(discharging three economic strikers for following car containing nonstrikers so as to intimidate them, not violative; although one striker was in different car and separated from other two strikers by E's pursuing car, inference that he was engaged in same high speed chase as they were was reasonable)

Gold Bond Building Products, A Division of National Gypsum Company JD-184-86
[discharge of striking Ee for slashing tire and instigating another tire slashing, not unlawful, since Ee's misconduct was sole reason for discharge; also, in E's mind, Ee's trespassing or illegal entry into plant disguised as security officer, although nonviolent and may well have been a joke and questionable as to whether such act alone would have justified discharge, was contributing factor for discharge since E feared sabotage]

Gold Bond Building Products, A Division of National Gypsum Company JD-184-86
[discharge of striking Ee for using open knife and tapping it on window of entering worker's car, and threatening 2 truck-drivers not to further serve E, not unlawful, since Ee's conduct was inherently coercive and intimidating with respect to Ee's exercise of Sec. 7 right to refrain from engaging in protected activities]

Skw Alloys, Inc. JD-330-85
(discharge of pickets, not unlawful, since justified by E's good faith belief that these two pickets had thrown nails on entrance way to plant resulting in flat and destroyed tires, where nail check of area had revealed no nails prior to pickets coming on duty, and subsequently when no one else was in area, nails were found; further, pickets had not previously been disciplined for protected activity and there was no evidence of U animus or disparate treatment)

N.L.R.B. v. Preterm, Inc. 784 F.2d 426 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1986)
[misconduct of striking Ee directed against patrons or customers of E, or others seeking to enter (E's) premises for business purposes, is equivalent of misconduct against fellow Ees]

N.L.R.B. v. Preterm, Inc. 784 F.2d 426 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1986)
[denial of reinstatement and backpay to ULP strikers for misconduct--spitting at non-striker, damaging non-striker's car, forcibly restraining non-striker from entering premises, telling potential patients that it was unsafe to enter premises, telling patients inside premises it was unsafe and forcibly preventing patient from entering premises]

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. v. N.L.R.B. 803 F.2d 1333 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1986)
[Es' refusal to reinstate ex-striker, who assumed responsibility for beating non-striker by another striker, and by warning witness to beating not to call for medical aid or police striker associated himself with perpetrator in this criminal act]

General Teamsters Local No. 162 v. N.L.R.B. (Western Pacific Construction Materials Co.) 782 F.2d 839 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1986)
[discharging striker for throwing rock that struck and damaged car of nonstriking Ee, not unlawful]

8351-6900 Strike unprotected

Electronic Data Systems International Corporation 278 NLRB No. 014
[discharge of 10 Ees, who engaged in unprotected work stoppage of a few minutes which was spontaneous reaction to discharge of supervisor, but not in protest of impact of discharge on employment, unlawful, notwithstanding unprotected nature of work stoppage and fact took place 9 months after U organizing campaign, in view of E's superficial investigation, previous good record of dischargees, severity of discipline in relationship to misconduct, disparity of treatment between U adherents and other Ees]

8351-8700 Unlawful interference with employer's business

N.L.R.B. v. Preterm, Inc. 784 F.2d 426 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1986)
[misconduct of striking Ee directed against patrons or customers of E, or others seeking to enter (E's) premises for business purposes, is equivalent of misconduct against fellow Ees]

8351-9300 Wildcat strike, or threat thereof

Lectromelt Casting and Machinery Company, A Division of Akron Standard Division, Eagle Picher Industries, Inc.; et al. 278 NLRB No. 102
[discharge of 3 U committeemen who participated in wildcat strike and appeared on picket line, violation, since E singled them out for disparate treatment because of their U office, where there was no evidence that they engaged in strike leadership activities, similarly situated Ees were not disciplined, and E knew that two of the committeemen had urged other Ees to return to work and unless E capitulated on grievance held not threatened to cause strike]

8355 NONUNION EMPLOYEE SIMULTANEOUSLY DISCHARGED, LAID OFF OR OTHERWISE DISCIPLINED

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[notwithstanding no prior preemployment physical exam policy and only instituted after economic strike ended, and notwithstanding it has been applied to recalled strikers, but not all of replacement Ees have undergone physicals, no violations over instituting physical exam policy or failure to reinstate recalled striker who failed exam, even though physician said illness treatable and posed no threat to his ability to perform job, since policy of E is that all Ees will take physical, policy bore no indication of discriminatory intent, E also discharged striker replacement who had same illness and policy was reasonable response to potential liability]

Med West Health Care Management Corporation, d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center, Successor, and Nationwide Management, Inc., d/b/a Cedar Falls Health Care Center 276 NLRB No. 146
(where substantial majority of Ees not rehired were U leaders, strong circumstantial evidence of U animus is present, though evidence probative and not dispositive, notwithstanding successor retained some U Ees)

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(while GC must usually show that E knew about individual Ee's U activities before Bd may conclude E violated Sec. 8(a)(3), GC may also prevail by showing E ordered general layoffs for purpose of discouraging U activities of some. This theory is viable even though some Ees who actually opposed U were laid off with their pro-U counterparts, or if all pro-U Ees not laid off. Focus is on E's motivation in ordering extensive layoffs, rather than upon pro-U or anti-U status of particular Ees)

8356 OTHER UNION ADHERENTS NOT DISCHARGED

Shore Pointe Associates, Inc., d/b/a Americare Convalescent Center 280 NLRB No. 130
[while in typical Wright Line case GC must demonstate E's awareness of pro-U acts or sentiments of individual Ees, GC can proceed on theory that E ordered general layoffs for purpose of discouraging U activity even if not all pro-U Ees are directly effected; E's general retaliation against workforce can discourage exercise of Sec. 7 rights just as effectively as adverse action taken against only known U supporters]

Oil Field Construction Company JD-(SF)-104-86

Birch Run Welding & Fabricating, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 761 F.2d 1175 (C.A. 6, May, 1985)
(while GC must usually show that E knew about individual Ee's U activities before Bd may conclude E violated Sec. 8(a)(3), GC may also prevail by showing E ordered general layoffs for purpose of discouraging U activities of some. This theory is viable even though some Ees who actually opposed U were laid off with their pro-U counterparts, or if all pro-U Ees not laid off. Focus is on E's motivation in ordering extensive layoffs, rather than upon pro-U or anti-U status of particular Ees)

8365-1300 No obligation to reinstate absent indication of employees' wish to return

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089

[E's failure to reinstate former economic striker, unlawful, notwithstanding former striker's statement that he was happily employed at another E, absent evidence job former striker currently held was substantially equivalent to job he had held at E and that it constituted regular, rather than part-time or temporary employment]

Woodline Motor Freight, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 152

[discriminatee did not waive right to reinstatement by his expressed intent to resign, but did not do so, where offer was invalid, inasmuch as descriminatee reasonably feared further discrimination should they return to E's employ, and were likely to change minds when presented with valid offer. Discriminatee does not waive reinstatement by his response to invalid offer]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175

[placing ad in newspaper that E had openings and was interviewing is not sufficient notice to reinstated economic strikers who had made unconditional offer to return to work notwithstanding some strikers saw ad and were reinstated. Burden on E to seek out strikers]

8365-1700 Obligation to make offer of reinstatement for temporary employment

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175

[existence of temporary jobs is not equivalent of vacancy to which strikers should have been reinstated]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175

[Ees who were hired for a few months with employment to terminate on date certain when plant was to close and production shifted to new plant, held not temporary Ees, and failure of E to offer these jobs to unreinstated economic strikers, violative]

8365-2000 No obligation to reinstate if for sufficient, legitimate, and substantial business reasons

Radio Electric Service Company 278 NLRB No. 078

[E's failure to reinstate ULP strikers upon their unconditional offer to return to work, unlawful, since E failed to meet burden of establishing its affirmative defense of unavailability of jobs, where E presented no evidence regarding claimed elimination of all unit work as result of strike and emergency changes nor as to claimed reduction of personnel; evidence that E did present was clearly irrelevant; and work previously performed by strikers had been reassigned and was being performed by nonunit Ees whom E was obligated to remove, if necessary, and to replace them with ULP strikers]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175

[Ees who were hired for a few months with employment to terminate on date certain when plant was to close and production shifted to new plant, held not temporary Ees, and failure of E to offer these jobs to unreinstated economic strikers, violative]

8365-3000 Conditions attached to offer

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[no imposition on part of U of all or none condition or waiver of U's unconditional offer to return to work where objecting to E's unlawful reinstatement procedure of taking ULP strikers as work became available (piecemeal) rather than discharging replacements, U said Ees would not return piecemeal]

Hotel Holiday Inn De Isla Verde 278 NLRB No. 147

[upon ct remand, Bd deferred to strike settlement agreement restricting conditions of reemployment of economic strikers allegedly discharged for misconduct, and vacated its order requiring reinstatement where at time of settlement, there was no finding strikers had been unlawfully discharged and, thus, they did not have legal right to remedy nor did E have legal obligation to provide remedy; here, in return for meeting on some middle ground, E voluntarily offered to reinstate strikers, and both E and U voluntarily offered to forgo any adjudication rights they might have had]

N.L.R.B. v. Preterm, Inc. 784 F.2d 426 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1986)

[burden of proof to show that offer to return to work was other than unconditional is on E]

8365-3300 Reinstatement to position not substantially same no defense

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056

[E's offer to reinstate laid-off U supporters to jobs below their professional capacities at reduced pay not valid offer]

Rainbow Tours, Inc., d/b/a Rainbow Coaches 280 NLRB No. 017

[reinstatement w/o according Ee seniority acquired before discriminatory discharge does not satisfy E's obligation to reinstate Ee to substantially equivalent position]

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089

[E's failure to reinstate former economic striker, unlawful, notwithstanding former striker's statement that he was happily employed at another E, absent evidence job former striker currently held was substantially equivalent to job he had held at E and that it constituted regular, rather than part-time or temporary employment]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175

[jobs were not substantially equivalent where hours, duties, and authority were same though pay and benefits less and jobs should have been offered to unreinstated economic strikers as E unilaterally set wages and benefits after strike ended and after unconditional offer to return made by strikers]

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198

(temporary nature of job is critical factor in determining whether it is substantially equivalent to what position a striker had held)

N.L.R.B. v. Seligman and Associates, Inc., and Its Wholly Owned Division, Scott Management Company 808 F.2d 1155 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1986)

[offer of reinstatement phrased as a question such as If (E) offered you your job back with backpay, would you take it? not invalid. However, offer must still indicate availability of former (job) or comparable position. E's offer, in instant case, did not convey that there was job immediately available. Question put to Ee as to whether he would return to work if offered reinstatement does not present specific, unequivocal offer of reinstatement]

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 785 F.2d 249 (C.A. 8, Mar. 1986)

[failure of E to offer economic strikers reinstatement to jobs they were qualified for though not same or substantially equivalent to prestrike position, violative, as E had policy of cross-training and developing multiple capabilities for its Ees and did, in fact, transfer new Ees into positions that unreinstated strikers qualified for; therefore, E's recall policy clearly discriminated against unreinstated strikers in favor of new job applicants and Ees -- including permanent striker replacements -- already on payroll]

8365-4000 Offer of reinstatement but with different terms of employment

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[E's response to U's unconditional offer of ULP strikers to return to work was that it would reemploy them only as work became available and then only under unlawfully implemented terms and conditions of employment, violative, and backpay starts from day of offer to return to work]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056

[E's offer to reinstate laid-off U supporters to jobs below their professional capacities at reduced pay not valid offer]

Rainbow Tours, Inc., d/b/a Rainbow Coaches 280 NLRB No. 017

[reinstatement w/o according Ee seniority acquired before discriminatory discharge does not satisfy E's obligation to reinstate Ee to substantially equivalent position]

Rainbow Tours, Inc., d/b/a Rainbow Coaches 280 NLRB No. 017

[reinstatement to position with diminished hours, drop in income, less desirable assignments and less desirable equipment, held improper; no tolling of backpay, and inasmuch as these changes are directly attributable to his unlawful discharge, his quitting E's employ w/o having another job was not willful loss of earnings but is constructive discharge]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175

[jobs were not substantially equivalent where hours, duties, and authority were same though pay and benefits less and jobs should have been offered to unreinstated economic strikers as E unilaterally set wages and benefits after strike ended and after unconditional offer to return made by strikers]

(placing strikers who abandoned strike below replacements and Ees who did not strike on seniority list, upon their reinstatement, not unlawful, since, in absence of specific and detailed findings by Bd of E's inherently destructive conduct, E neither intended nor caused any discrimination between strikers and nonstrikers or any destructive impact upon strike or U activity)

8365-6300 No valid offer made

Berger Transfer & Storage Co. 281 NLRB No. 155
[E's operations managers' statement to discharged strikers generally that their actions were hurting company, that company could do better for them, and company wanted them to return to work, was not unconditional offer of reinstatement, was vague, did not clearly rescind their discharges, and thus their failure to return to work after purported offer did not toll backpay]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[letter to laid-off Ee which stated: There is new position available with our company. We would like to know if you are interest in this position, not valid offer of reinstatement as offer not specific, not unequivocal, and not unconditional]

Woodline Motor Freight, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 152
[no valid offer of reinstatement where discriminatees refused reinstatement because of reasonable fear that they would not be fully reinstated but would be subjected to further discrimination particularly in view of discrimination against U adherents who accepted reinstatement preceding offer of reinstatement to these discriminatees]

Woodline Motor Freight, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 152
[discriminatee did not waive right to reinstatement by his expressed intent to resign, but did not do so, where offer was invalid, inasmuch as descriminatee reasonably feared further discrimination should they return to E's employ, and were likely to change minds when presented with valid offer. Discriminatee does not waive reinstatement by his response to invalid offer]

Radio Electric Service Company 278 NLRB No. 078
[E's letter to U, purportedly offering reinstatement to ULP strikers, held not valid offer, since it was not specific, unequivocal, and unconditional, where letter did not offer to reinstate strikers to specific jobs, but rather only stated that some jobs may be available; letter not only questioned ability of strikers to perform available jobs, but also implied that they would have to compete with laid-off Ees for those jobs; and rather than offering to reinstate strikers, E's letter requested negotiations with U over reinstatement rights of strikers and other Ees]

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(letter requesting that Ee who had been unlawfully laid off to advise E earliest date he could report for work did not constitute offer of recall, since not specific, unequivocal, nor did it assure Ee that he would have preexisting benefits of which he had been deprived because of his U activities)

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(E's letter to Ee who had been unlawfully laid off stating We expect to have an opening for an apprentice with your qualification w/i two weeks. Please advise this office by certain date if you would be interested in accepting employment with company not offer of reinstatement, since failed to specify job or when it would be available, nor was expectation of opening unconditional profer of same or substantially equivalent position as that from which Ee had been laid off)

Brenal Electric, Inc. JD-(NY)-21-84
[letter in which E stated that discharged Ees must contact E w/i 7 days if they desired reinstatement, not valid offer of reinstatement and did not end backpay liability, where day Ees were required to let E know of their decision was day after earliest date letter could have been received by Ees]

Brenal Electric, Inc. JD-(NY)-21-84
[valid offer of reinstatement made where, at E's request, Ee who had returned to work informed other Ees who had been discharged that their jobs were still available, and E would like them to return to work, since Ee informed former Ees that he was calling at E's request, former Ees knew he had returned to work, and therefore could reasonably assume he spoke for E]

Brenal Electric, Inc. JD-(NY)-21-84
[valid offer of reinstatement made where upon being informed by discharged Ee that he had been denied unemployment benefits because E had informed unemployment compensation agency that his job was still available, E confirmed his job as available]

N.L.R.B. v. Seligman and Associates, Inc., and Its Wholly Owned Division, Scott Management Company 808 F.2d 1155 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1986)
[offer of reinstatement phrased as a question such as If (E) offered you your job back with backpay, would you take it? not invalid. However, offer must still indicate availability of former (job) or comparable position. E's offer, in instant case, did not convey that there was job immediately available. Question put to Ee as to whether he would return to work if offered reinstatement does not present specific, unequivocal offer of reinstatement]

8365-7500 Subsequent reinstatement no defense

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[discriminatory layoff of U supporter, violation notwithstanding subsequent recall]

The Gateway Theatre Corporation d/b/a Senator Threatre, Capitol Hill Cinemas 277 NLRB No. 186
[discharges of Ee about whose work there had been no complaint, unlawful, since motivated by E's U animus, notwithstanding E's offer to rehire Ee and Ee's refusal because he did not wish to cross picket line, inasmuch as E's offer was not to retain Ee, but to rehire him and does not detract from fact E discharged Ee for no valid reason]

8372 REPLACEMENT

8372-5000 Non-ULP strikers may be replaced

Browning-Ferris Industries of Pennsylvania, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 021
(E's hiring of replacements for its economic strikers on terms and conditions of its previous offer, not unlawful, since there was a valid impasse, old contract had expired, and E's bargaining conduct did not invalidate the impasse)

8372-5017 But preferential treatment of replacements unlawful

U.S. Mineral Products Co. 276 NLRB No. 022
(permanently replaced economic strikers' entitlement to reinstatement is limited to being put on preferential hiring list with E not being required to reinstate economic striker unless and until his former job or its equivalent comes open by termination or expansion. However, once striker accepts permanent employment elsewhere, he ceases to be Ee of E and is no longer entitled to reinstatement rights)

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 785 F.2d 249 (C.A. 8, Mar. 1986)
[failure of E to offer economic strikers reinstatement to jobs they were qualified for though not same or substantially equivalent to prestrike position, violative, as E had policy of cross-training and developing multiple capabilities for its Ees and did, in fact, transfer new Ees into positions that unreinstated strikers qualified for; therefore, E's recall policy clearly discriminated against unreinstated strikers in favor of new job applicants and Ees -- including permanent striker replacements -- already on payroll]

8372-5067 Temporary employee by permanent employee

Hansen Brothers Enterprises 279 NLRB No. 098
[economic strikers are entitled to immediate reinstatement upon unconditional offer to return to work, provided their positions have not been filled by permanent replacements or there was no business justification; thus, where striker replacements are only temporary, offer to return to work which demands no more than discharge of those replacements is appropriate]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175
[existence of temporary jobs is not equivalent of vacancy to which strikers should have been reinstated]

Medallion Kitchens, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 175
[Ees who were hired for a few months with employment to terminate on date certain when plant was to close and production shifted to new plant, held not temporary Ees, and failure of E to offer these jobs to unreinstated economic strikers, violative]

8372-7500 ULP strikers may not be permanently replaced

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077
[no imposition on part of U of all or none condition or waiver of U's unconditional offer to return to work where objecting to E's unlawful reinstatement procedure of taking ULP strikers as work became available (piecemeal) rather than discharging replacements, U said Ees would not return piecemeal]

8376 RETENTION OR REEMPLOYMENT OF UNION MEMBERS

Dasal Caring Centers, Inc., d/b/a Lemay Caring Center and Dasal Caring Centers, Inc., d/b/a Walton Caring Center 280 NLRB No. 007
[successor E's refusal to hire majority of predecessor's Ees, assertedly because those hired were more qualified, violative, notwithstanding successor E hired some U members, since real reason was Ees' refusal to withdraw from U where supervisor of successor E told some Ees they would be guaranteed employment if they withdrew from U, successor did not articulate any definite standard by which Ees were evaluated for selection and E's refusal to comply with subpoena for employment records justified adverse inference that e had unlawful motive]

Steffer Brothers JD-269-86
[discharge of Ee not unlawful where Ees, whose U involvement was comparable to that of dischargee, were not discriminated against by E]

8380 SENIORITY

8380—Cont.

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[E's changing its 23-year policy for assigning work, including overtime, after strike, from work assignments on basis of seniority to rotation system of assigning work eliminating entirely factor of seniority, violative, since (new) policy in fact had predictable and actual effect of creating conditions after strike ended in which strikers would lose advantages in job assignments they had enjoyed under E's 23-year-old work assignment policy and strike replacements would be beneficiaries of those losses. Once strike ended, entire work force lost valuable rights]

Lone Star Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 078
[no universal theory that E must follow seniority in recall of economic strikers. GC must establish existence of seniority recall rights by reference to collective-bargaining agreement or binding established past practice. However, even assuming either of above conditions proved, there must be alleged Sec. 8(a)(5) charge; otherwise, E free to devise new recall procedure as long as it is applied consistently. Here, all 8(a)(5) charges (unilateral changes) withdrawn; therefore, E did not violate Sec. 8(a)(3) by failing to recall strikers by seniority]

Foote & Davies, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 012
[E's failure to recall sympathy striker to positions as they were vacated through attrition, assertedly because other Ees recalled had superior rights, violative, since real reason was Ee's engaging in sympathy strike where Ee made unconditional offer to return to work before vacancies occurred, Ee was not advised of openings even though he had more seniority than Ees recalled according to E's own seniority system and practice and E advanced no legitimate business reason for not recalling Ee]

Webb Furniture Enterprises, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 180
(E's contention it laid off Ee not for Ee's U activities, but rather because he was least senior Ee in his department, was originally hired as spare hand, and department's assistant foreman could readily assume his duties, accepted, and layoff held lawful, notwithstanding E's U animus and other ULPs)

C. M. Carpenter, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Carpenter Trucking 274 NLRB No. 046
(layoff of U adherent who was leader in organization drive and who was to be U steward, lawful, notwithstanding E's animus against U adherent, where at time he was laid off adherent had worked only 5 days in 2 weeks, there was lack of business, and in view of fact adherent was next to bottom of seniority list, and E's policy in case of layoff was that Ees last hired were first to go)

8384 UNION OR OTHER CONCERTED ACTIVITY, NO DEFENSE

8384-0100 Generally

Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 125
[discharge of U adherent, not unlawful, where pursuant to E's policy for receiving 3 written reprimands and other Ees had received reprimands for similar offenses. Ee is not immune from discipline because pro-U; such Ee may not be singled out for discipline, but he is not immune from discipline]

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. v. N.L.R.B. 803 F.2d 1333 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1986)
[mere exercise of protected rights does not immunize Ee from discharge and it is error to accord no weight to Ee's performance deficiencies]

8384-8300 Particular activities

8384-8337 Display or wearing of union insignia

Malta Construction Company 276 NLRB No. 171
(discharging Ee for refusing to remove U insignia from his company hard-hat, violative where E failed to establish any special circumstances based on legitimate production or safety reasons to justify prohibition)

8384-8375 Refusal to cross picket line

Dave Castellino & Sons 277 NLRB No. 050
(termination of Ee for refusal to work in response to demonstrators' picket line at E's jobsite, unlawful, where Ee made common cause with protected activity of demonstrators, herein found to be statutory Ees, protesting against E's alleged failure to comply with statutory duty and contractual commitment to provide work force composed of 50 percent of area residents, and fact that ee's action was motivated by fear of personal bodily injury was irrelevant)

Limpert Brothers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 037
(discharge of Ees for refusing to cross lawful picket line, violative, since picketing is protected concerted activity and refusal to cross picket line is also protected concerted activity, and question of motivation on part of Ees' refusal to cross picket line is irrelevant)

Arizona Public Company 273 NLRB No. 210
(issuing 3-day suspensions to 8 Ees because they refused to cross a stranger picket line thus refusing to perform assigned work of removing overhead lines at municipal building complex, not violative, since E's contract with U permitted E to discipline Ees who engage in any unauthorized stoppage, strike, intentional slowdown, or suspension of work, and U, by letter, stated that it had not authorized stoppage, strike, slowdown or suspension of work at involved work site. Absent extrinsic evidence that parties intended otherwise, and general no-strike clause waives the Ees' right to engage in sympathy strikes)

Indianapolis Power & Light Company 273 NLRB No. 211
(broad no-strike clause in bargaining agreement though not expresaly mentioning sympathy strikes nevertheless held to include sympathy strikes in its proscription, unless extrinsic evidence indicates parties intended otherwise, and suspension and threat of discharge made to sympathy striker, not violative)

Ralphs Grocery Company JD-(SF)-111-86
[E's layoff and refusal to reinstate Ees who refused to cross primary picket line established by U in course of dispute with E involving another bargaining unit, not unlawful, since not for Ees' protected activity, where work performed by laid off Ees was transferred to another location, fact transfer of work coincided with strike happenstance, and laid off Ees had no contractual right to work at other location which was in different unit, and absent evidence of unlawful motivation of E or deviation from its usual practices]

Electrical Workers, Local 387 v. N.L.R.B. (Arizona Public Service Co.) 788 F.2d 1412 (C.A. 9, May 1986)
[sympathy strikers' suspension lawful based on new Bd rule that, absent extrinsic evidence of contrary intent, general no-strike clause waived right to engage in such strikes, reversed and remanded, Bd treated rule as establishing irrebuttable presumption that broad no-strike clause barred such strike, rather than as shifting burden of proving whether clause was intended to encompass sympathy strikes. Bd relied on clause and U letter disavowing strike w/o discussing intent, prior rule's impact on contract's meaning, terms, or negotiations, and parties' conduct under it as rule required]

8387 UNSATISFACTORY BEHAVIOR OF EMPLOYEE

8387-0100 Generally

JMC Transport, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 776 F.2d 612 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1985)
[where Ee's extremely hostile and abusive outbursts while engaged in protesting E's change in pay policy clearly could be seen as unprotected in context in which discharge is based on specific allegedly unprotected conduct, ct held E's failure to fire Ee for his abusive conduct defeated E's contention that Ee's conduct was unprotected; in context in which E had not found conduct so disruptive as to justify discharge at the time, ct declined to impose post hoc classification of unprotected conduct]

JMC Transport, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 776 F.2d 612 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1985)
[ct rejected E's contention that when Ee is fired for misconduct only relevant issue is whether executive who makes firing decision has good faith belief that misconduct occurred; allowing E to assert good faith when one of its supervisors was primary actor in fabrication leading to discharge, as here, simply runs counter to any logical definition of good faith]

8387-0300 Absence from work or lateness

Link Manufacturing Co. 281 NLRB No. 028
[written warning given Ee for concededly poor attendance, not unlawful, notwithstanding warning issued after E's receipt of election ptn and unlawful conversion of other Ees' layoffs from temporary to permanent, where E had no specific knowledge of Ee's U activities or reason for focusing its anti-U animus on Ee]

Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 125
[discharge of U adherent for alleged insubordination when she failed to report to work as requested as soon as possible after doctor's appointment, or let E know when after appointment she locked her car keys in car, not unlawful, since E sustained burden of proving discharge would have taken place even absent Ee's U adherence]

Ro-Lab Rubber Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 057
[E proved it would have discharged Ee for multiple incidents of negligence and unexcused absence even if there had been neither U activities by Ees nor unlawful retaliatory general increase in discipline by E]

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154
[three-day suspension of U adherent, not violation, notwithstanding it was overdue and did not occur until Ee wore U T-shirt to work, where it was pursuant to E's attendance-control policy, which was nondiscriminatorily enforced, and Ee's U adherence was well known before he wore U T-shirt]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[discharge of U adherent lawful where he had poor attendance record]

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company — 277 NLRB No. 047
(no violation, since discharge was for Ee's absenteeism rather than for his U activities, where Ee's absenteeism was interfering with production and had been troubling E prior to U organizing campaign)

Southwire Company — 277 NLRB No. 043
(E's written warning to U adherent for excessive absenteeism, not violative, since E would have warned Ee even in absence of (Ee's) U activity, GC has not shown that Ee was subject to disparate treatment)

Superior Container, Inc. — 276 NLRB No. 056
(discharge of Ee, reinstated as consequence of prior ULP proceeding, assertedly for absenteeism and tardiness, not unlawful, where Ee, during prework conference with E, committed himself to understanding of E's rules and promised his attendance would not be problem in future; Ee's subsequent actions upon being unable to come to work evinced cavalier approach to E's absentee policy; E's reasons for discharge remained consistent and did not shift; no connection could be made between discharge and Ee's U activity; and there was no evidence of disparate treatment of Ee)

Confort & Company, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 082
(suspension of U supporter for excessive absenteeism and tardiness, justified and lawful)

Sur-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club — JD-(NY)-10-86
[suspending waiter two weeks for failure to appear at breakfast, lawful where Ee admittedly violated long standing company rule]

Norbar, Inc. — JD-302-85
(discharge of Ee allegedly for U activities, not unlawful, where Ee, absent from work due to work-related injury, failed to submit contractually required medical reports; E based discharge solely and exclusively on its belief, in absence of reports, that Ee had quit, and not on Ee's U activities and pursuit of workmen's compensation claim; and E would have taken same action, regardless of Ee's activities)

IBP, Inc. — JD-221-85
(discharge of Ee who was U adherent in U organizing campaign and election, not unlawful, since discharge was pursuant to lawful warnings under E's progressive disciplinary policy regarding tardiness and took place one month after U lost election, and absent U animus, commission of other ULPs by E or disparate treatment)

Burlington Industries, Inc. — JD-(ATL)-13-85
(reprimand of U advocate for taking excessive time off her job not violative where E fully demonstrated that it would have reprimanded her even in absence of her U activities)

8387-0350 Not real reason

Health Enterprises of America, Inc., d/b/a Miami Health Care Center — 282 NLRB No. 033
[notwithstanding U adherents violated no call/no show rule, discharges violative as real reasons were U activities, filing lawsuit against E and close proximity to election which discharges would serve as warning to other Ees]

Premier Maintenance, Inc. — 282 NLRB No. 003
[discharge of Ee, unlawful, since for his U activity, rather than for not calling in when he would be absent, where E did not advance Ee's absence as reason for refusal to reemploy him, but rather informed Ee that his charge before NLRB would have to be resolved before he could be rehired, and E in past had not discharged Ees for first failure to call in]

Baddour, Inc. — 281 NLRB No. 084
[giving U activist warning and placing him on probation because he could not get to work because of car trouble, rather than giving him day off w/o pay or vacation day as was customary, violation]

Link Manufacturing Co. — 281 NLRB No. 028
[suspension of Ee for failing to report for work, unlawful, where E knew or suspected Ee was leading U adherent whom E subjected to unlawful threats, interrogation, and promises; other Ees who missed work were not disciplined; E threatened and reproached Ee for defying E by voting in election; E's explanation that Ee's attitude changed considerably indicated discriminatory motive; and it was only after onset of U and Ee's voting in election that E found Ee's attendance record intolerable]

Sealectro Corporation — 280 NLRB No. 015
[discharge of Ee unlawful since for U adherence rather than for poor attendance and failure to notify E when he was not coming into work, in view of E's departure from usual discipline system, E's U animus, fact rule regarding reporting absences had not been consistently enforced, and that uncooperative attitude which was given as reason for discharge at hearing, but was not given at time of discharge, raises inference that real reason was pretext]

Woodcliff Lake Hilton Inn, Inc. — 279 NLRB No. 166
[E's suspending of known U supporter, assertedly for being late for work, violative where other Ees had not been suspended for some offense and E had not followed its own progressive disciplinary system]

Michiel's Inc., d/b/a Le Saint Jean Des Pres Restaurant — 279 NLRB No. 017
[discharge of Ee, assertedly because she did not show up for scheduled work, violative, since real reason was Ee's open and active U support where Ee's work schedule was changed in such a way so as to make it impossible for her to go to school, a schedule E had accomodated before her U activity, and E threatened to fire Ee if she couldn't work the new schedule regardless of the U]

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. — 277 NLRB No. 093
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of high absenteeism, violative, since real reason was Ee's support of rival U where Ee received many warnings only after Bd conducted election between competing Us, E's implementation of new warning system was violative of 8(a)(3) and warning system was applied in disparate manner)

Grunco, Inc., d/b/a Thriftway Supermarket; et al. — 276 NLRB No. 164
(discharge of active U adherent assertedly for not reporting for work for several days after he had been given permission to absent himself from work, unlawful, in view of extensive U activity known to E who strenuously opposed such activity, counterfeit defense giving rise to inference of unlawful motivation, and absence of any effort to seek explanation from Ee)

Ann's Laundry & Dry Cleaners, Inc. — 276 NLRB No. 026
(violation where E condoned absences and tardiness prior to Ee's U activities)

Webb Furniture Enterprises, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 180
(layoff of Ee who had singed U literature twice, unlawful, notwithstanding he was one among many Ees who signed U literature. E's contention layoff was because of his absenteeism, rejected, where another Ee who did not sign U literature and who had higher absenteeism record than Ee was retained, and in view of E's knowledge of Ee's U activities, and its U animus)

Webb Furniture Enterprises, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 180
(E's contention that layoff of Ee was for absenteeism and lack of versatility in job performance, rather than for his U activities, rejected, and layoff held unlawful, notwithstanding Ee had second worse absenteeism in his department, absent evidence retained Ees alleged to be more versatile than laid off Ee were in fact more versatile, or that E relied on their relative abilities in retaining them over Ee)

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of known U supporter assertedly because of tardiness and absenteeism, including gross patient neglect at E's nursing home, unlawful, where E had given Ee glowing evaluation at which time E must have been aware of any absenteeism or tardiness problem Ee may have had; E exhibited shifting defenses to discharge; and E departed from its own third-warning policy when effecting discharge, thereby demonstrating that defenses were pretextual)

Confort & Company, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 082
(discharge, after hearing, of U supporter, who was one of Ees who had filed charges against E and representative of charging party designated to be present throughout hearing, violative where E had condoned his absenteeism and tardiness until U campaign began, had wanted to promote him to lead position, had displayed anti-U campaign, had withdrawn its offer to solve Ee's tardiness problem by transferring him to another shift, and had concededly talked with him about his suspension and discharge in presence of E's comptroller in order to have a witness)

Confort & Company, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 082
(issuing written warnings to U supporter, allegedly for excessive absenteeism and tardiness, violative where E had issued him only two written warnings and delayed his pay increase only once for same behavior, had offered him promotion to night lead position, and had only begun to pay attention to his tardiness and absenteeism when U campaign was in full swing)

Cassidy Cleaning, Inc. — JD-239-86
[discharge of Ees assertedly for having poor attendance and punctuality records, unlawful where, while some Ees had such records, E tolerated over long period of time same kind of absenteeism and tardiness which it suddenly found unacceptable after Ees voted for U representation; such sudden shift in approach to Ees' faulty attendance demonstrated pretextual nature of asserted reason for discharges; and E admitted that at time of discharges it abandoned its Ee handbook policy of progressive system of discipline for attendance infractions]

Broadstreet Medical Nursing Center — JD-112-86
[discharge of leading U activist assertedly for having bad record of tardiness, unlawful, in view of E's departure from work rules pertaining to frequency of tardiness before effecting discharge; timing of such disparate treatment with Ee's U activity; alteration of Ee's personnel records to make them appear in conformity with rules; and E's offer to Ee, prior to election, of better paying supervisory job at another of E's facilities when such job was open at facility herein and was filled shortly after Ee was let go]

Sue-Gio Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86
[issuing written warning to Ee who publicized E's alleged ULPs and labor relations in newspaper article, violation where Ee had called in according to prior practice, had not been sufficiently late to have to be replaced]

United States Postal Service (North Jersey Facility) JD-(NY)-105-85

Fun-Sy Productions, Inc. JD-(NY)-49-85
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of lateness, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where discharge occurred shortly after E gained knowledge of U campaign, E tolerated Ee's lateness in past and discharge was made pursuant to unlawful new lateness rule promulgated by E in response to Ees' U activity)

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibralter Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(discharge of Ees, assertedly for stealing time; from E by coming in late twice weekly, unlawful, where E's officials were aware of Ees' employment with another E and supervisors arranged with Ees to put in full day's work; E had no reasonable belief Ees were stealing time nor said anything, at time of discharge, about juggling act with 2 jobs or about excessive absences, and such belated reasons for discharge demonstrated shifting and unreliable defense; and E conducted no investigation of Ees' actions nor requested explanation from them before discharging them)

N.L.R.B. v. J. Coty Messenger Service, Inc. ———F.2d——— (C.A. 2, May 1965)
[discharge of U adherent assertedly for poor attendance, unlawful, in light of E's demonstrated U animus, disparate treatment of discharged Ee, and pretextual reason given for discharge]

N.L.R.B. v. Bliss and Laughlin Steel Company, Inc. 754 F.2d 229 (C.A. 7, Feb. 1985)
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he was late for work, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where Ee was extremely active U organizer, Ee was in fact not late for work on day he was discharged and E's tardiness program was highly discretionary and applied to Ee in disparate manner)

8387-0400 Abuse of sick leave

8387-0450 Not real reason

La Reina, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 103
[conditioning U activist's return to work on supplying doctor's certificate and them discharging her, violation where E had been told that Ee had not seen a doctor while ill, and E had previously discriminatorily laid her off]

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[discharge of known U adherent assertedly because she abused sick leave, unlawful, where sudden urgency of E in wanting Ee on job w/o making any effort to contact Ee suggested that E did not care whether Ee had legitimate reason for reporting to work late or whether she was in fact abusing leave; and failure of E to conduct full and fair investigation of alleged Ee misconduct was evidence of discriminatory intent, which was especially true where E, as here, manifested U hostility]

N.L.R.B. v. Lancer Corporation 759 F.2d 458 (C.A. 5, May 1985)
(discharge of known U adherent for alleged fraudulent attempt to seek sick pay, because of discrepancy between doctor's certificate and Ee's absence report regarding excused time period, unlawful, where such discrepancy was used as excuse to get rid of U adherent, in view of E's perfunctory investigation of Ee's claim for sick pay and failure to consult supervisor who had granted Ee sick leave, and fact that Ee's failure at interview to refute E's claim of misuse of sick leave played no part in decision to discharge Ee since decision was made prior to interview)

8387-0500 Accidents

Gulf, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 127
[discharge of U activist after he was engaged in automobile accident involving 2 Ees on company property, not unlawful where, although nobody was injured by incident, it could not be characterized as a minor one since there was clearly potential for injury and possibility that situation might recur]

Alamo Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 034
(discharging Ee for fear he would cause another explosion and kill someone by continuing to follow the same faulty procedures he had followed when he caused an explosion lawful)

Mobile Concrete, Inc. JD-453-84
(discharge of U adherent, assertedly for his U activity, not violative where he was discharged for his negligence in causing accident which he failed to report to management)

8387-0550 Not real reason

Armco Company 279 NLRB No. 158 [discharge, unlawful]

United States Postal Service JD-203-86
[discharge of probationary Ee who slipped at work, hurt his back, and was unable to work for several days, unlawful, since for filing grievance over denial of light work after being cleared for such duty and after receiving conflicting information from E's Ee relations department which said there was no light duty available for probationary Ees but that compensation unit would pay him, and compensation unit informed him he would not be paid because cleared for light duty, where not policy of E to terminate probationary Ees who lost time due to injury, and E only discharged after giving notice U would be utilized to secure his rights]

Roberto Sanchez and Elva Rodriguez v. N.L.R.B. 785 F.2d 409 (C.A. 2, Mar. 1986)
[discharge of U steward allegedly for driving incident, rather than for U activities, unlawful, since U steward met his burden of proving under Wright Line that discharge was result of U animus]

N.L.R.B. v. Del Rey Tortilleria, Inc. 787 F.2d 1118 (C.A. 7, Apr. 1986)
[discharge of Ee who was active U supporter and member of U's organizing committee, assertedly for accidental breakage of E's merchandise in plant, unlawful, where E had never before nor thereafter fired someone for such breakage, and Ee offered to pay for merchandise, thus clearly showing that asserted reason for discharge was pretextual; moreover, during subsequent conversation with E, Ee was told that dismissal was because of U]

8387-0600 Overstaying vacation or leave

Volt Information Sciences, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 047
(discharging female Ee for overstaying agreed upon maternity leave, not violative)

8387-0650 Not real reason

Hoechton Garment Company, A Subsidiary of Spencer Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 081
[suspending Ee for abusing leave of absence granted to care for sick child, violation, notwithstanding Ee was seen across street from plant observing handbilling during leave, in view of E's knowledge of Ee's U support, lack of precedent for disciplining leave violation, E's failure to discipline Ee for violating leave to return to plant to pick up paycheck or to establish that Ee obtained leave by false pretenses or acted inconsistently with caring for sick child, and E's motivation to discipline Ee on basis of complaints voiced by anti-U Ees]

8387-0700 Slowdown

8387-0750 Not real reason

Maple Tree, Inc. JD-(ATL)-48-85
(discharge of U advocates, assertedly for deliberately slowing production, violative)

8387-0800 Accumulated objections or complaints regarding employee

McLean Trucking Company 279 NLRB No. 046
[Bd held that Ee would have been discharged even absent his U and other protected activities, in view of numerous suspensions he received for poor production and unacceptable behavior; further, E not aware at time Ee had decided to run for U steward at time scheduled discharge hearing]

Niagara Fiberglass, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 014

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 007
[three-day suspension of U activist for failing to complete assigned duties, not violation, where it was pursuant to E's threat to discipline Ee on receipt of fifth warning]

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. v. N.L.R.B. 803 F.2d 1333 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1986)
[refusal to reinstate striker whose prior work performance was deficient and included customer complaints, 16 reprimands, fights with other Ees, and ptn signed by 13 Ees following strike requesting that Ee not be reinstated, not unlawful, notwithstanding contention that E tolerated Ee's poor work performance in past and waited to discharge him until after his participation in strike, absent evidence of improper motive for refusal to reinstate where Ee's participation in strike was no more than other striking Ees and no other Ee engaging in same type or level of activity was discharged]

8387-0850 Not real reason

Studio S.J.T., Limited 277 NLRB No. 126
(discharge of U organizer assertedly for (1) poor job performance, (2) tardiness, (3) attitude, and (4) dissemination of proprietary information, violative)

8387-1200 Arrest or conviction

8387-1250 Not real reason

United States Postal Service (North Jersey Facility) JD-(NY)-105-85
(discharge of U activitist for prior conviction, unlawful where E's policy precluded consideration of expunged prior convictions, and E had stated absenteeism was reason for discharge)

8387-1300 Assault on fellow employee

8387-1350 Not real reason

Esco Elevators, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 138
(on ct remand, Bd held Ee's safety-related complaints constituted U endeavor and not personal undertaking, and his discharge purportedly because of fist fight with another Ee, unlawful, where Ee emphasized safety matters in campaign for U office before being elected U president; inspection of safety conditions at job sites was part of his role as U official; E was discharged by supervisor who had ascertained Ee was pressing safety conditions because he was U president; and other U officers were involved in attempting to resolve safety problem)

8387-1500 Coercion and intimidation of other employees

Chicago Metallic Corporation 273 NLRB No. 207
(no violation by discharging pro-U Ee for coercing and intimidating anti-U Ees by threatening that their heads would roll if U came in and other threats of violence)

8387-1550 Not real reason

Activ Industries, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 087
(E issuing disciplinary letter to Ee for allegedly harassing another Ee, unlawful, since E issued letter to discipline Ee for conversation solely because that conversation concerned unicnization, and notwithstanding letter issued to discipline Ee for single conversation, in which Ee alleged to have made obscene remarks, where Ee told he was being disciplined for several conversations with other Ee about U, none of which lost protected status)

8387-1700 Racial, sexual or religious conduct

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 277 NLRB No. 016
(discharge of U adherent, not unlawful, since for his sexual harassment of female Ees, and dischrge would have taken place absent U activity, where E's reliance on reports from Ees that they had been sexually harassed by Ee not incredible or unacceptable and E's investigation not biased, negligent or cursory)

Warehouse Supermarkets of Arizona, Inc., d/b/a Warehouse Foods JD-(SF)-101-86
[discharge of key U organizer assertedly for sexual harassment of female Ees, not unlawful since, assuming E had knowledge of Ee's U activities and even though E found such activities unwelcome, E nevertheless had right to manage his enterprise and to discipline Ee for misconduct even though he was protected under Act]

8387-1800 Damage to Employers' property or goods

Port East Transfer, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 125
[discharge of Ee unlawful, where for writing pro-U graffiti on E's restroom wall since such writing protected. Discharge was for content of writing, and not for defacing E's property, inasmuch as it was common for Ees to write graffiti on restroom walls, no other Ee had been disciplined, and writings of discharged E were not so malicious, defamatory, or insubordinate as to lose protection of the Act]

8387-1850 Not real reason

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[discharge assertedly for Ee's failure to comply with trucking company's rule requiring reporting of damage to vehicles due to accidents, unlawful, in view of timing of discharge w/i 2 weeks of strike settlement and U recognition agreement; E's animus toward U and its supporter's and awareness of Ee's U support and strike activity; abruptness of E's action w/o confronting Ee with vehicle's condition; deviation from customary policy of investigating accidents; shifting and mutually inconsistent reasons for discharge; and absence of similar treatment of other Ees]

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(failure to recall laid off Ee assertedly for variety of reasons, unlawful, where E perceived Ee to be prime instigator of U's organizing activity prior to layoff; E recalled other Ees with less experience and seniority in Ee's line of work; and E's reliance on damage to equipment purportedly caused by Ee was of doubtful validity in view of E's lack of reaction to alleged incident which belied importance E now attached thereto)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[discharge of known U adherent employed as waitress, assertedly for her attitude when she broke dish while waiting on tables, unlawful, where E's attitude of amusement resulted from interchange with patrons in connection with breakage incident, she was never advised that breakage was cause of discharge, such breakage was common occurrence for which no one was disciplined, and E pledged to rehire Ee after she made negative statements about U and informed E who U organizer were]

N.L.R.B. v. E. I. DuPont De Nemours 750 F.2d 524 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1984)
(discharge of U activist, allegedly because multiple positions on his machine broke simultaneously, violative where overhaul of his machine because of poor operation, which was due a month before, did not occur until after his discharge, and where other Ees who had also had simultaneous multiple breaks of positions on their machines had not even been reprimanded)

N.L.R.B. v. Del Rey Tortilleria, Inc. 787 F.2d 1118 (C.A. 7, Apr. 1986)
[discharge of Ee who was active U supporter and member of U's organizing committee, assertedly for accidental breakage of E's merchandise in plant, unlawful, where E had never before nor thereafter fired someone for such breakage, and Ee offered to pay for merchandise, thus clearly showing that asserted reason for discharge was pretextual; moreover, during subsequent conversation with E, Ee was told that dismissal was because of U]

8387-2000 Discourtesy to patrons

Sue-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86
[warning Ee about repeatedly asking guest to sign statement about waiter's service and conduct which resulted in guest's annoyance and E's loss of future business from guest, lawful, notwithstanding Ee was acting in capacity as U steward, since that protected U activity lost protection]

8387-2200 Customer complaints about work

Pierre's Vending Company, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 184
(notwithstanding that E's cessation of U activist's Saturday work was violative, warning notice, based on customer complaint concerning Ee's serving vending machine at customer's facility and later discharge for his sloppy work habits and misconduc., not violative, since Ee's work was not satisfactory and E showed that action of warning and subsequent discharge of Ee would have taken place even in absence of mechanic's U activity)

8387-2250 Not real reason

Health Enterprises of America, Inc., d/b/a Miami Health Care Center 282 NLRB No. 033
[notwithstanding U adherent violated rule against patient abuse, discharge violative as real reasons were U activities and filing lawsuit against E, in view of spurious investigation and disparate discipline accorded discriminatee for violating rule]

Raynor Motel Corporation d/b/a Holiday Inn East 281 NLRB No. 092
[discharge of U activist for alleged customer complaints about slow service, unlawful]

Trover Clinic 280 NLRB No. 002
[repremanding known U advocate and subsequently discharging her, assertedly because of complaint received concerning Ee's handling of patient's itemized account statement unlawful, where E departed from its customary manner of responding to patients' complaints concerning Ee behavior or work performance by failing to investigate matter and to seek explanation from Ee even though substantial confusion existed among Ees concerning procedure for production of itemized statements, and E did not follow its policy of counseling Ee and giving series of reprimands before reaching discharge stage]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[suspension and discharge of Ee-driver, assertedly for failure to make deliveries to customer who complained to E, and for Ee's attitude and intrusive behavior at customer's location, unlawful, where E was known outstanding U advocate and leader of Ees; asserted misconduct by Ee consisted of single day's conduct over 8-year exemplary work history; E was partly responsible for Ee's reaction at customer's location because of faulty loading and failure to support Ee at the time; and past discharges for misconduct required history of poor attitude or conduct of aggravated nature]

Lionel G. Sullivan and Ralph A. Fattore, A Partnership d/b/a Downtown Toyota 276 NLRB No. 106
(discharge of U activitist allegedly because of customer's complaints about salesman's misrepresenting equipment on new car resulting in state administrative investigation, violative)

United States Postal Service 275 NLRB No. 074
(discharge of Ee who was mail carrier, unlawful, since for his threat to file grievance, rather than for his failure to notify E on third day of absence from work whether he would be at work next day, or for his poor work performance and customers complaints regarding him, where no rule or policy required Ees absent for less than week to notify E if they succeeded in obtaining substitute, which Ee had done, thus E had no rational reason to expect Ee to call, and Ee had condoned Ee's work deficiencies for approximately two months prior to discharge)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[assigning known U adherent employed as bartender to less desirable banquet work, and later discharging him, assertedly because of complaints by waitresses and by customer, unlawful, where customer's reference to Ee was made in letter containing general complaint about service and other conditions at E's business; letter was dated 4 days after E was removed from work schedule as bartender; and E could not have been seriously concerned about oral complaints against Ee since E neither informed Ee of it nor warned him about it]

Stanley A. Dash, Jr. v. N.L.R.B. (Lawyers Co-Operative Publishing Co.) 793 F.2d 1062 (C.A. 9, July 1986)

[discharge of salesmen, unlawful, since motivated by his U organizing activities and not because of his swearing at another Ee, where E did not ask Ee for his version of incident; E's attempt to justify discharge with background evidence of customer complaints of excessive agressiveness against salesman, rejected, where he had been successful salesman and had never been disciplined prior to discharge, nor had any salesman who had been successful been disciplined for agressiveness]

8387-2300 Dishonesty

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 007

[discharging U activist for undercharging customer by falsifying meal ticket, not violation, since, even if U activities were a motive, E met its Wright Line burden where Ee failed to clarify any question about E's discontinuation of freebies, and supervisor making discharge decision lacked personal U animus, was not treating Ee disparately, as he was new on job, and was ignorant of Ee's identity when he started investigating matter]

Lionel G. Sullivan and Ralph A. Fattore, A Partnership d/b/a Downtown Toyota 276 NLRB No. 106

[discharge of U adherent for alleged insubordination when she failed to report to work as requested as soon as possible after doctor's appointment, or let E know when after appointment she locked her car keys in car, not unlawful, since E sustained burden of proving discharge would have taken place even absent Ee's U adherence]

Evans St. Clair, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 065
[discharging U leader for insubordination and threat of physical violence, not violation where threat was perceived as such by supervisor, relied on as discharge grounds, and was made w/o culpable provocation by supervisor, who had no obligation to withdraw from conversation with Ee about U meeting, and whose calling Ee boy was not so extreme as to excuse Ee's conduct]

Electronic Data Systems International Corporation 278 NLRB No. 014
[suspension and discharge of Ee who was major solicitor of U authorization cards, not unlawful, since for insubordination rather than for refusal to meet with supervisor w/o witness inasmuch as refusal was not protected under Weingarten where meeting was intended for purpose of informing Ee of disciplinary decision already made, and Ee had no reason to believe otherwise, there was no certified or recognized U, and discharge was not in retaliation for U activity where U activity not mentioned in relation to warning to be given at meeting or in connection with previous warnings]

Superior Container, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 056
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he did not want to work overtime, not unlawful, where discharge was not because of enforcement of unlawful mandatory overtime rule but because Ee challenged E's authority when he punched out even though admonished in nonthreatening or noncoercive way about doing so; it was not until he had already defied E's authority that he asked whether he should return to work the next day; and such events represented effort by Ee to virtually dare E to discipline him)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(suspension of Ee at end of meeting with E who had called Ee into his office for purpose of delivering disciplinary writeup concerning her poor attendance, not unlawful, where suspension was in response to Ee's insubordinate conduct during meeting, which led to E's exasperated decision to suspend Ee pending consultation with higher authority on what next step to take)

The Meadows East Inc. 275 NLRB No. 181
(no violation by suspending and discharging U activists for misconduct where, following their transfer from night to day shift for misconduct, they attempted to return to work on night shift and while trying to resolve matter with management over the telephone, they turned on loudspeaker attached to telephone and broadcast conversation to other Ees as they wanted everyone to know what was going on)

The Mead Corporation-Publishing Paper Division-Escanaba 275 NLRB No. 052
(3-day suspension of U steward for insubordination in refusing to comply with E's forceover order to continue working additional shift in order to make emergency repairs on machine, lawful, since, contrary to ALJ, Bd found his refusal to work overtime was unprotected insubordination legitimately subject to discipline; further, there was no proof of anti-U discrimination and E had legitimate need to force Ees to perform emergency repair work)

Arizona Public Company 273 NLRB No. 210

Baddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 084
[discharging Ee for alleged insubordination in remarking, when asked to work overtime, Fuck it. I am leaving. violation, where other Ees who used similar language in conversing with supervisors and were insubordinate merely received warnings]

Products Unlimited Corp. 280 NLRB No. 041
[discharge of U adherent, unlawful, since for her U activities rather than for initial refusal to turn off her radio when requested to do so by her supervisor, where E at first suspended Ee, then subsequently contrary to usual policy, discharged her with no investigation, Ees had previously been permitted to play radios if volume did not disturb other Ees and other Ees had radios on at time U adherent was requested to turn hers off]

Grand Rapids Die Casting Corp. 279 NLRB No. 093
[suspension and discharge of U steward, assertedly because of insubordination by refusing an order to return to work, violative, since real reason was her activity of grievance processing and threatening to file charges with Bd where Ee was threatened with discharge if she filed charges after Ee threatened to when E told her she was spending too much time on grievances, and E's manager continuously brought up fact Ee said she might file charges on day Ee was discharged]

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 134
[discharging U adherent, violation notwithstanding his insubordination and falsification of employment application, since Ee was good worker, falsification had nothing to do with his discharge, and E had previously violated 8(a)(1)]

Joseph A. Perry d/b/a Holiday Inn-Glendale 277 NLRB No. 145
(mass discharge of Ees, assertedly because of insubordination and because E received a bad hotel inspection, violative, since real reason was Ees' U activity where Ees were discharged w/i 2 days of E's knowledge thereof, E gave shifting reasons, threatened Ees with reprisals for U activity and unlawfully interrogated Ees)

Garland Coal & Mining Co. 276 NLRB No. 102
(discharge of chairman of grievance and safety committees for insubordination for refusing to sign E's memorandum threatening discharge if committees' members interfered in any activity outside their own unit, unlawful, where chairman's conduct did not remove him from protection of Act, since his refusal to sign did not impede or disrupt productivity in any way; refusal took place in private and not in front of other Ees; authority of supervisors involved was not publicly undermined; and there was no claim official's conduct exceeded acceptable bounds of conduct)

Pottsville Bleaching and Dyeing Company 275 NLRB No. 175
(discharging U activist for allegedly insubordinate reaction to being disciplined for talking on job, violative, since only U activist of three Ees involved was disciplined, and his reaction thereto, although not submissive, was not insubordinate)

E.I. Dupont De Nemours and Company JD-11-86
[refusal to hire applicant after layoff, assertedly because she was insubordinate at prior job with same E, violative, since real reason was Ee's persistent U activities and repeated filing of charges with the Bd at prior job where Ee's asserted act of insubordination in protesting overtime and refusing to train Ees was protected activity done in furtherance of her U duties, Ee had 19 years of high quality service with E, and E, in overlooking Ee for hire, hired Ees with little or no experience]

Onan Corporation, A Division of Onan Corporation JD-(ATL)-11-85
(suspension and discharge of Ee for refusing to comply with E's demand that he remove T-shirt with U insignia and other U paraphenalia from his work place, violative, since Ee's action was not insubordinate or proper basis for discipline in view of discrimination inherent in E's demand)

N.L.R.B. v. Del Rey Tortilleria, Inc. 787 F.2d 1118 (C.A. 7, Apr. 1986)
[discharge of Ee who was active U supporter and member of U's organizing committee, assertedly for insubordination for not complying with E's request to meet with E after end of Ee's shift, unlawful, where Ee told E she could not wait to meet with E who usually arrived 2 to 2-1/2 hours after Ee's shift ended; and during subsequent conversation with E, Ee was told that dismissal was because of U]

N.L.R.B. v. Bliss and Laughlin Steel Company, Inc. 754 F.2d 229 (C.A. 7, Feb. 1985)
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he refused to review and sign contract on behalf of E and thus was insubordinate, violative, since real reason was his U activity and testimony adverse to E at Bd hearing where E was trying to set up Ee by having him sign contract in an attempt to prove he was a supervisor and pretextual nature of E's action was shown by fact that after Ee refused to sign contract, E did not attempt to have any other company official act upon it)

(E's refusal to recall discriminatees, allegedly for overstaying lunch break and selling E's coal to others, during period it had hired several new Ees, violative where E had not rebutted GC's prima facie case by showing that newly hired Ees were more able or versatile to perform experienced Ees' mining duties and E's admission that he would not recall them because of their U activities)

Morning Star International, Inc. JD-209-86
[layoff of leading U proponents assertedly because of costly production error and suspected stealing, unlawful, in view of inherent improbabilities of production error defense, non-existence of theft defense, failure to include alleged defenses in decisional layoff process, and shifting nature of asserted defenses]

Warehouse Supermarkets of Arizona, Inc., d/b/a Warehouse Foods JD-(SF)-101-86
[discharge of cashiers at E's store, who were known or believed to be leaders in Ees' organizing efforts, assertedly because they were responsible for cash shortages at work, unlawful; absent direct evidence that Ees personally took funds, surrounding circumstances including E's anti-U animus, made inference appropriate that E's motivating factor was desire to eliminate U adherents]

Wells Fargo Armored Service Corp. JD-(SF)-19-86
[suspending Ee two business days after E received U request that Ees at location in question be considered accretion to existing unit and notice that Ee was U steward and U executive committee member, violation where E's contention that Ee misappropriated and copied three confidential company documents was unsupported by evidence; second suspension, immediately afterwards, for failure to comply with E's no-beard policy, violation where E had let Ee work for three months w/o complying]

8387-6000 Neglect of work

Arlington Hotel Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 007
[three-day suspension of U activist for failing to complete assigned duties, not violation, where it was pursuant to E's threat to discipline Ee on receipt of fifth warning]

PYA/Monarch, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 167
discharge of driver who was U adherent, not violative, since discharged would have taken place absent U activities as driver violated E's rules by not making scheduled delivery notwithstanding another Ee who was not disciplined failed to inform driver that customer was open and delivery should be made as it was still driver's responsibility to ascertain whether customer open; further, driver failed to clock out when he left his E's premises which was also contrary to E's rules)

8387-6050 Not real reason

Garrison Valley Center, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 164
(discharge of Ee who was most active Ee on behalf of U during U's organizing campaign allegedly because Ee left patient at E's nursing home unattended while performing other work, violative, since E failed to meet burden of establishing that E would have discharged Ee even in absence of her U activities. Record evidence demonstrated that E had tolerated brief absences for work-related reasons and would discharge an Ee only when serious injury or death resulted from Ee's conduct)

8387-6300 Negligence

Ro-Lab Rubber Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 057
[E proved it would have discharged Ee for multiple incidents of negligence and unexcused absence even if there had been neither U activities by Ees nor unlawful retaliatory general increase in discipline by E]

St. Paul's Church Home, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of known U supporter assertedly because of tardiness and absenteeism, including gross patient neglect at E's nursing home, unlawful, where E had given Ee glowing evaluation at which time E must have been aware of any absenteeism or tardiness problem Ee may have had; E exhibited shifting defenses to discharge; and E departed from its own third-warning policy when effecting discharge, thereby demonstrating that defenses were pretextual)

Kenner Printing Company, Inc. JD-(NY)-32-85
(suspension of known U activist, not violative notwithstanding his longtime employment with E w/o any warnings about his work, since Ee's negligence caused customer complaints resulting in E's redoing their orders and having its reputation diminished)

Mobile Concrete, Inc. JD-453-84
(discharge of U adherent, assertedly for his U activity, not violative where he was discharged for his negligence in causing accident which he failed to report to management)

8387-6350 Not real reason

Harold Weine; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013

8387-6500 Use of obscenity or profanity or engaging in other indecent conduct

United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 015
(E's discharge of U activist, based on good faith belief that he had engaged in unprotected act of defacing E's facility with obscene graffiti, not violative)

Hoboken Shipyards, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 212
(E's refusal to hire minority Ee formerly employed by prior owner, not violative where refusal was not due to Ee's filing EEO suit against former E but because Ee was hostile, difficult to supervise, and used vulgar language to supervisors because of drinking or drugs or for other reasons)

Sus-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86
[discharging Ee who directed stream of invective, profanity and abuse at E, lawful, notwithstanding E's prior unlawful threats and suspension for publicizing E's alleged ULPs and labor relations in newspaper article]

Stuart-McGuire Company Inc. JD-339-85
(discharge of U supporter for putting graffiti on bathroom walls, not unlawful, where Ee had engaged in prior misconduct for which she was warned)

8387-6550 Not real reason

Baddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 084
[discharging Ee for alleged insubordination in remarking, when asked to work overtime, Fuck it. I am leaving, violation, where other Ees who used similar language in conversing with supervisors and were insubordinate merely received warnings]

The Acme-Arsena Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 144
(profane and foul language or what is normally considered discourteous conduct while engaged in protected activity does not justify disciplining Ee acting in representative capacity)

The Acme-Arsena Co., Inc. 276 NLRB No. 144
(U steward's use of profane or obscene language while engaged in protected activity of complaining to E about work jurisdiction and safety matters did not amount to egregious conduct exceeding bounds of protected activity, where there was no evidence that steward engaged in unlawful and violent conduct in breach of conrtract, or in conduct demonstrating lack of loyalty to E)

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[discharge of Ee for use of profanity when he was asked to sign notice of his suspension and for refusal to sign notice, unlawful, where suspension was pursuant to unlawfully instituted progressive discipline rule in response to U activity, since E cannot lawfully discharge of Ee for mere use of profanity which was provoked by E's unlawful discrimination against him and absent evidence profanity was so gross as to remove Ee from protection of Act]

Murray Sandblast and Paint, Inc. JD-276-85
(discharge of U adherent because he complained to his fellow Ees about having his (time) card pulled for clocking in one minute late and during this incident calling management a perjorative term, violative, since Ee's initial complaint was (protected) concerted activity w/i meaning of Act. Using obscenity did not deprive Ee of right to relief)

New Galax Mirror Corporation JD-475-84
(warning leading U adherent and subsequently discharging him, assertedly for abusive statements made to another Ee in violation of company rules, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where warning was simply a pretext to coverup E's hostility towards a known U supporter and other Ees were not similarly disciplined for similar or worse conduct)

Stanley A. Dash, Jr. v. N.L.R.B. (Lawyers Co-Operative Publishing Co.) 793 F.2d 1062 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[discharge of salesmen, unlawful, since motivated by his U organizing activities and not because of his swearing at another Ee, where E did not ask Ee for his version of incident; E's attempt to justify discharge with background evidence of customer complaints of excessive agressiveness against salesman, rejected, where he had been successful salesman and had never been disciplined prior to discharge, nor had any salesman who had been successful been disciplined for agressiveness]

8387-6700 Refusal to accept job assignment or promotion

Teamsters, Local Union 138 (J. Fabian Trucking Corp.) JD-(NY)-97-86
[no unlawful discharge and refusal to reinstate Ee and conditioning of his reinstatement upon U's consent because of Ee's concerted activities where E terminated him for refusing to accept his assigned load, his sole pre-discharge activity was filing of EEOC charge, of which E was unaware, and his sole involvement with U dissident group was to ask for their help after discharge]

8387-6750 Not real reason

Jean Foust, Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Regency Manor Nursing Home 275 NLRB No. 171
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because she refused promotion to supervisor and thus had to be let go, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity, where E was engaged in scheme to coerce Ees into accepting supervisory positions in an effort to preclude pro-U Ees from voting; further, E's failure to rehire Ee some 9 months later because she was associated with the turmoil at E's premises, violative, since turmoil meant Ee's support of U)

Jefferson Electric Company, A Division of Litton Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 104
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of her refusal to work with cleaning fluid, violative, since real reason was her U activities where Ee had previously been excused from working with cleaning fluid because of her sensitivity to the fumes with no mention of disciplinary action, other Ees were allowed to transfer out of department where cleaning fluid was located because of allergic reactions w/o mention of discipline, and Ee was discharged subsequent to her U activities and w/i days after certification of election results, which U lost)

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)
[discharge of U activist, violation, notwithstanding claim of his poor performance and desire to do only one kind of work that would not justify full time employment, where evidence showed he performed other work, received no complaints or warnings about any aspect of his work, and was given pay raise and bonus three weeks before discharge]

Ballou Brick Company v. N.L.R.B. 798 F.2d 339 (C.A. 8, July 1986)
[U adherent did not refuse to perform the work but rather said he did not want to do it; layoff therefore because of U activities and violation]

8387-6800 Refusal to work overtime

Superior Container, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 056
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he did not want to work overtime, not unlawful, where discharge was not because of enforcement of unlawful mandatory overtime rule but because Ee challenged E's authority when he punched out even though admonished in nonthreatening or noncoercive way about doing so; it was not until he had already defied E's authority that he asked whether he should return to work the next day; and such events represented effort by Ee to virtually dare E to discipline him)

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(discharge of painter at apartment building, who was U adherent and filed charges, for failure to work, on usual day off in order to accomplish urgently needed painting, not violative, since discharge would have taken place absent protected activity, inasmuch as work on that day necessary and in view of previous poor quality and slowness of Ee's work)

8387-6850 Not real reason

Book Covers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 170
(discharge of Ee for refusing to work overtime as required by contract, violative, as practice was to excuse Ees from working assigned overtime if supervisor presented with reasonable excuse, and excuse which Ee gave, and which lay behind motivation to fire Ee, was that Ee was going to labor board to file charges against E; furthermore, no Ee ever disciplined beyond receiving oral warring before)

Hoboken Shipyards, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 212
(refusal to hire active shop steward, who had filed several grievances while employed by prior owner, allegedly for refusing to work day shift and refusing overtime work, violative where other Ees who had made such refusals were hired)

8387-6900 Poor attitude at work

Louis Pappas' Homosassa Springs Restaurant, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 213
(failure to hire U adherent allegedly because she was below average Ee who was argumentative and disruptive; had poor attitude and was unable to get along with her fellow Ees, not violative, since none of reasons were based on Ee's U activity)

Luther Martin and Minnie Martin, Co-Partners, d/b/a Martin's Leasing Company JD-83-86

[discharge of Ee not unlawful notwithstanding E's animus against U and against Ee whom E desired to be rid of because he had subjected E to unionization attempt, where Ee was not available, as required, for making delivery trip requiring strict time schedules under customer contract; E e knew he was to remain on-call satus for whenever delivery loads became available; Ee had reacted unfavorably upon receipt of prior reprimand for unavailability; and conduct revealed Ee's total lack of concern about his job or E's contract responsibilities]

8387-6950 Not real reason

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029

[suspension and discharge of Ee-driver, assertedly for failure to make deliveries to customer who complained to E, and for Ee's attitude and intrusive behavior at customer's location, unlawful, where E was known outstanding U advocate and leader of Ees; asserted misconduct by Ee consisted of single day's conduct over 8-year exemplary work history; E was partly responsible for Ee's reaction at customer's location because of faulty loading and failure to support Ee at the time; and past discharges for misconduct required history of poor attitude or conduct of aggravated nature]

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001

(failure to recall laid off Ee assertedly because of his bad attitude regarding his work and decrease in his production, unlawful, where Ee was perceived to be prime instigator of U's organizing campaign; personnel file document purportedly memorializing Ee's poor job performance was of after-the-fact origin manufactured to support E's claim that Ee was undesirable Ee; and E's rebuttal to prima facie case was entirely unconvincing)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86

[discharge of known U adherent employed as waitress, assertedly for her attitude when she broke dish while waiting on tables, unlawful, where E's attitude of amusement resulted from interchange with patrons in connection with breakage incident, she was never advised that breakage was cause of discharge, such breakage was common occurrence for which no one was disciplined, and E pledged to rehire Ee after she made negative statements about U and informed E who U organizer were]

Salem Leasing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 774 F.2d 85 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1985)

[ct affirmed Bd finding of violation where Ee was discharged allegedly for his bad attitude, poor work, and open criticism of E since record demonstrated Ee had good work record, successfully completed his required probationary period, was assigned additional responsibilities on such completion, and no disciplinary action against Ee was contemplated until after he made favorable comments about his former unionized E's working conditions and wages. E failed to shoulder burden of demonstrating Ee would have been fired regardless of his pro-U comments]

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)

[discharge of key figure in U discussions, unlawful]

8387-7000 Profanity or abusive language used against supervisor

8387-7050 Not real reason

Duroyd Manufacturing, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 025

(discharge of Ee, unlawful, since for his U activities, rather than for profanity against E's president and insubordination in view of E's U animus and its other violations, and fact prior use of profanity by Ee against E's president, use of profanity by other Ees had been previously tolerated and harassment of Ee by president)

Luther Martin and Minnie Martin, Co-Partners, d/b/a Martin's Leasing Company JD-83-86

[suspension of Ee assertedly for using profanity against supervisor, unlawful, where suspension occurred shortly after election which U lost, E had clearly made it known that Ee was undesirable because he had attempted to foist U on E's company, and mild profanity used by Ee was commonplace among Ees and used by supervisor]

Benson Associates JD-101-85

(supervisor's discharge of Ee perceived by supervisor to be in front of U organizing campaign, assertedly for Ee's use of curse words directed at supervisor, unlawful, where cursing by both Ees and supervisor was part of shop talk and had never been prohibited, supervisor considered U organizational attempt to be threat to his personal authority and reflection on job he was doing, and a ready object of his displeasure was Ee herein)

N.L.R.B. v. Vought Corporation - MLRS Systems Division 788 F.2d 1378 (C.A. 8, Apr. 1986)

[discharge of Ee who was chairman of inplant U organizing committee, handed out U literature and authorization cards, and wore U insignia, unlawful, since discharge for protected activity rather than for abusive profane language towards supervisor when given written warning, since Ee's conduct not so indefensible as to forfeit protection of Act and was justifiably provoked by E's repeated violatic .s of his rights]

8387-7100 Harassing, threatening, etc. of supervisors

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154

[terminating U adherent for physically pushing two supervisors and threatening them with a fight at annual company picnic, not violation]

Evans St. Clair, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 065

[discharging U leader for insubordination and threat of physical violence, not violation where threat was perceived as such by supervisor, relied on as discharge grounds, and was made w/o culpable provocation by supervisor, who had no obligation to withdraw from conversation with Ee about U meeting, and whose calling Ee boy was not so extreme as to excuse Ee's conduct]

8387-7150 Not real reason

Olympic Limousine Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 133

[Ee is entitled to reinstatement, notwithstanding he pled guilty to assault against supervisor at plant after he was unlawfully discharged, where assault was not pre-planned, action was provoked by supervisor screaming profanities at him and E had allowed other non-Ees to enter premises w/o questioning them and thus, conduct was not so egregious so as to deny him reinstatement]

Marion Steel Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 127

[discharging known in-plant leader of U drive for his bad attitude in verbally assaulting supervisor and management by asking supervisor if he wanted to sign U card and making vulgar comment about supervisor's going back to work if U came in, violation, since bad attitude was euphemism for pro-U activities in context of Ee's open pro-U activities in context of Ee's open pro-U activities, which had resulted in his being placed in isolated job under close supervision to prevent his discussing U with other Ees and being warned to stop his U activities]

8387-7200 Refusal to take polygraph test

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204

(discharge of Ees at store acquired by E from former owner in whose employ Ees had filed grievances and had refused to take polygraph tests concerning mishandling of E's funds, not unlawful where, although E must have considered Ees' refusals to take tests, E possessed substantial adverse information about Ees which alone justified discretionary business judgment not to retain them; and E's discharge decision was not motivated by anti-U animus or antipathy toward Ees' use of grievance procedure nor was it based on Ees' reliance on contract rights and procedures)

Lionel G. Sullivan and Ralph A. Fattore, A Partnership d/b/a Downtown Toyota 276 NLRB No. 106

Safety-Kleen Corp. JD-117-85

(written disciplinary notice to U activist for failure to meet quota lawful in absence of disparate treatment)

8387-7800 Sleeping on job

Mississippi Chemical Corporation 280 NLRB No. 046

[even in absence of specific written rules prohibiting it, Ee's sleeping on job when he would normally be expected to be awake normally constitutes offense warranting discharge; and where act of sleeping is established GC has heavy burden, frequently not carried, in establishing that discharge was nevertheless pretextual or disparate; however, violation may nevertheless be found if discipline imposed for offense is disparately applied]

The Meadows East Inc. 275 NLRB No. 181

(no violation by transferring Ees to day shift to provide closer supervision of their activities after investigation confirmed that they slept and played cards on night shift and otherwise contributed to shift's morale problems; E was not even aware of their U activities at that time)

8387-7850 Not real reason

Baddour, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 084
[discharge of U activist for allegedly sleeping on the job, unlawful]

The Standard Products Company, Rocky Mount Division 281 NLRB No. 018
[Ee's discharge for sleeping on job, unlawful, notwithstanding that Ee was marginal Ee briefly employed by E and was recipient of series of reprimands for tardiness, where E did not meet its Wright Line burden that it would have discharged Ee even absent his U activity, in view of supervisor's statement to Ee that he would not be fired if he would get back his U authorization card]

Mississippi Chemical Corporation 280 NLRB No. 046
[discharge of Ee for sleeping on job, unlawful, in view of Ee's known involvement in U activity, E's animus toward U organization, timing of discharge shortly after advent of U, E's toleration of similar offense by other Ees, and failure to establish that E had discharged any other Ee with unblemished work record like Ee's, which could be understood only as response to Ee's U activity]

8387-8100 Use of narcotics and drugs

Quality Inn-Lax 280 NLRB No. 145
discharge of U activist for breach of rule against use of drugs and alcohol by Ees while on duty, not violation where E had discharged Ees in past for breach of this rule and showed no U animus]

Sahara Datsun, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 148
[discharge of U activist for attempting to steal from E and to sell drugs to fellow Ees, not violation]

Budget Rent A Car of Washington, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 032

8387-8500 Troublemakers and agitators

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of Ees, who had been active in replacing U steward, for poor workmanship and because some of Ees were troublemakers, not unlawful, notwithstanding that layoff occurred after E's superintendent met with Ees, since each of critical aspects of meeting was susceptible to two different meanings, one lawful and other unlawful, and record taken as whole gave insufficient basis for Bd to choose unlawful meaning over lawful meaning)

8387-8550 Not real reason

United States Steel Corporation 279 NLRB No. 004
[E's refusal to hire Ee laid off from one of its facilities to work at another of its facilities, unlawful, since for his activities as U grievance chairman where his supervisor's referance to grievance chairman as troublemaker when speaking to foreman at facility to which he had applied for transfer connotated his activity of filing grievances, and this characterization was relied upon in rejecting Ees request for transfer. Use of word alone, not violative, but must look at context in which used]

8387-9100 Possibility of litigation against employer

La Reina, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 209
(violation, where Ee at tortilla maker, after testifying contrary to E's interests in Bd proceeding, was supervised more closely, warned about speaking with co-workers, reprimanded for picking dough off floor for reprocessing and quit when ordered to sign warning slip under threat of discharge, where picking up dough which had fallen on floor customary, and E's contention it reprimanded Ee because it believed she had deliberately placed rag in dough to cause E possible liability, rejected)

8387-9200 Unauthorized behavior on job

8387-9250 Not real reason

H. Treffinger Repair Services, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 085
[discharge of known U adherents assertedly because of threat made to, or because of engaging in fight or horseplay with, anti-U Ee, unlawful, where latter was not disciplined for engaging in purported fight; E admitted having U animus, made no investigation but relied on anti-U Ee's version of what happened, and took shifting positions in explaining discharges; and E effected discharges over shop supervisor's protests]

Woodcliff Lake Hilton Inn, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 146
[E's suspending U advocate for 1 day, assertedly for playing guitar on duty and being absent from work station violation where E had condoned guitar playing in past, Ee was absent from work station on legitimate business, and E had not followed its own progressive disciplinary system]

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for refusal to follow E's rule regarding telephone contact with E's suppliers, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where animus was shown by E's unilateral change in working conditions after U won election and E's refusal to meet with Ee as U steward, rule was not contained in E's Ee-handbook and E in fact had no blanket rule prohibiting Ee contacts with suppliers]

Park Manor Nursing Home, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 028
(E's discharge of U activist, assertedly for failing to obtain supervisory permision before leaving building, violative where real reason for discharge was her cooperation in investigation of U's charge in Bd case, her membership on U's negotiating committee, and her informing Bd that E was responsible for revocation ptn)

Pillod of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because she attempted to distribute U literature on work time, disrupted company meetings and falsified employment application violative, since real reason was her U activity where E enforced no-distribution rule in discriminatory manner, Ee was engaged in protected activity of supporting U at company meetings and E seized on false employment data as mere pretext to discharge as E did not act on information until after Ee defended U)

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[discharge of known U adherent, assertedly for entering and engaging in improper behavior in unauthorized area at E's facility, unlawful, where E told Ee he was being discharged for economic reasons, and then at hearing stipulated it did not discharge any Ees for economic reasons and asserted for first time that discharge was because of E's improper behavior]

Northline Bus Center, Inc. JD-(ATL)-41-85
(discharge of Ee driving passengers by bus from airport to downtown locations, assertedly for being off his assigned bus route, unlawful where, after E became aware of Ee's U activities it seized on off-route incident to discharge Ee because he was pro-U; change in routes was not unusual for E's bus drivers who would from time to time have to change their routes; and E, who had not reviewed Ee's work record until after discharge, itemized 10 specific work rule infractions by Ee and then relied on them as subterfuge in attempt to justify discharge)

8387-9300 Unsatisfactory work

Inner City Broadcasting Corporation 281 NLRB No. 162
[discharge of radio news announcer allegedly because she refused to sign Ee ptn which sought ouster of U, not unlawful, where discharge was part of E's response to decline in audience ratings, and E's discharge was for failure to improve her on-the-air performance]

H. Treffinger Repair Services, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 085
[discharge of Ee assertedly for repeated errors and poor workmanship, not unlawful, since E rebutted GC's prima facie case by showing that Ee would have been discharged even if he had not engaged in protected activity, where Ee's U activity was of limited nature consisting of signing U authorization card, Ee did not have good work record for which he received written warnings giving notice of possible suspension or dismissal for continued poor performance, and termination notice made reference to prior dismissal warning]

Heck's Inc. 280 NLRB No. 055
[issuing written warnings to U organizer for breaches of company policy, lawful, notwithstanding they followed unlawful transfer of organizer to different job for filing charges with Bd, since occurrence of unlawful transfer did not grant organizer immunity from discipline for failing properly to perform new job]

Stop N' Go Inc. 279 NLRB No. 052

Telford & Doolen, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of U steward and Ee and ultimate discharge of Ee, assertedly because they engaged in U activities and because they filed charges or gave testimony under Act, not unlawful, since E's motives were purely economic, coupled with dissatisfaction with Ee's job performance where, as result of its bad financial condition, E laid off its entire work force, recalling Ees only from time to time and ultimately closing department involved; and no replacements were ever hired for terminated Ees)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(discharge of probationary part-time Ee at store acquired by E from former owner, assertedly for limited availability for work and slow performance, not unlawful, where Ee's assertion of contractual rights to obtain additional hours from former E was no basis for imputing retaliatory motivation on E's actions some 3 months later, in view of absence of U animus or of wholesale termination of U members following change of ownership, removal of supervisor having fractious relationship with Ee from his evaluation, and other supervisors' unfavorable comments about Ee's performance)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(issuance of written reprimand admonishing Ee about her poor attitude and work habits, not unlawful, where warning was issued solely because of poor condition in which Ee left her work place when she left for the day and not because of unlawful retaliation for Ee's threat to seek U's assistance in her scehduling dispute with E)

Eagle Discount Supermarkets, Midwestern Food Division, Lucky Stores, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 204
(discharge of probationary Ee who had insisted upon right to U representation at disciplinary meeting with E and who had filed grievances concerning

her assignment dispute with E, not unlawful, since discharge was well-grounded in legitimate business interests where Ee had extreme-poor attendance record; Ee had repeated disagreements with work schedule because of restrictions on her availability, and she exhibited unacceptable work habits during short time she had been working for E)

Pullman Power Products Corporation 275 NLRB No. 112
(layoff of Ees, who had been active in replacing U steward, for poor workmanship and because some of Ees were troublemakers, not unlawful, notwithstanding that layoff occurred after E's superintendent met with Ees, since each of critical aspects of meeting was susceptible to two different meanings, one lawful and other unlawful, and record taken as whole gave insufficient basis for Bd to choose unlawful meaning over lawful meaning)

Volt Information Sciences, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 047
(discharging U adherents for frequent mistakes where their performances did not improve after warnings, not violative)

Kureka Stone Quarry, Inc. JD-23-86
[discharge of Ee and subsequent denial of reinstatement, assertedly because Ee sought assistance of U in getting insurance payment, not unlawful, where E and U repeatedly attempted to assist Ee; rather, Ee was terminated because of failure to perform assigned duties]

Safety-Kleen Corp. JD-117-85
(discharge of U activist lawful where Ee had failed to service two customers' machines causing E to lose business)

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(discharge of painter at apartment building, who was U adherent and filed charges, for failure to work, on usual day off in order to accomplish urgently needed painting, not violative, since discharge would have taken place absent protected activity, inasmuch as work on that day necessary and in view of previous poor quality and slowness of Ee's work)

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)
[discharge of U activist, not violation where as probationary Ee he had continuing unsatisfactory work performance]

8387-9350 Not real reason

J & B Smith Company, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 057
[transferring only Ee who was passing out U cards to most onerous job in plant, violation, notwithstanding allegations of poor performance]

The Well-Bred Loaf, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 036
[reinstatements shortly after discharges for alleged poor work contradicted alleged motivation]

Yaohan of California, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 032
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for poor performance, unlawful, where during his tenure of employment Ee was given wage increase and increased hours and responsibilities, and had never received any written warnings]

Yaohan of California, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 032
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for poor performance, unlawful, in view of E's U animus; discharge of Ee contrary to E's policy of first warning, rather than discharging, Ee, disparate treatement accorded Ee vis-a-vis treatment of another Ee; pretextual nature of reasons asserted for discharge which was summarily effected on day following Ee's attempted concealment of his U activities; and E's statement to fellow Ee linking Ee's discharge with U]

Distron, A Division of Burger King Corporation 279 NLRB No. 029
[suspension and discharge of Ee-driver, assertedly for failure to make deliveries to customer who complained to E, and for Ee's attitude and intrusive behavior at customer's location, unlawful, where E was known outstanding U advocate and leader of Ees; asserted misconduct by Ee consisted of single day's conduct over 8-year exemplary work history; E was partly responsible for Ee's reaction at customer's location because of faulty loading and failure to support Ee at the time; and past discharges for misconduct required history of poor attitude or conduct of aggravated nature]

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(failure to recall laid off Ee assertedly for variety of reasons, unlawful, where E perceived Ee to be prime instigator of U's organizing activity prior to layoff; E recalled other Ees with less experience and seniority in Ee's line of work; and E's reliance on damage to equipment purportedly caused by Ee was of doubtful validity in view of E's lack of reaction to alleged incident which belied importance E now attached thereto)

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001
(failure to recall laid off Ee assertedly because of his bad attitude regarding his work and decrease in his production, unlawful, where Ee was perceived to be prime instigator of U's organizing campaign; personnel file document purportedly memorializing Ee's poor job performance was of after-the-fact origin manufactured to support E's claim that Ee was undesirable Ee; and E's rebuttal to prima facie case was entirely unconvincing)

Grunco, Inc., d/b/a Thriftway Supermarket; et al. 276 NLRB No. 164
(discharge of Ee after he had been placed on probation assertedly for poor productivity, unlawful, in view of E's knowledge of Ee's leading role in U organizing, extent and severity of E's other ULPs, conceded hostility to U, implausibility of E's reasons for discharge, and fact that E seized upon disagreement with Ee about his production as opportunity to immediately accomplish Ee's separation which E had first tried to do by coercing Ee into quitting by placing him on probation)

Donald Dean d/b/a D.C. Construction Company 276 NLRB No. 097
(E unlawfully failed to reemploy Ee who was laid off job for nondiscriminatory reasons, where E conducted job under its own perception that U limitations blocked hire and continued employment of Ee; supervisor made statements which, on their face, were direct admissions that E withheld employment of Ee because of his lack of U membership; and E's claims that Ee was not rehired because his work was inadequate were shifting and implausible)

Bell Halter, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 136
(evaluation of Ee's job performance as being marginal rather than satisfactory, unlawful, where Ee was known active advocate of U to which E was strongly opposed; unfavorable evaluation after Ee engaged in U activity was substantial departure from prior favorable evaluation when he was not so engaged; downgrading of Ee because of attitude, in absence of other explanation, was synonymous with faulting Ee for supporting U; E failed to justify downgrading by specific instances; and supervisor making evaluation had doubtful opportunity to observe Ee whose immediate supervisor considered him satisfactory)

Tom Wignall, Jr. and Billie Williams d/b/a Lovilia Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 186
(discharge of Ees assertedly for deficiency in their work performance, unlawful, where E, who had knowledge of U organizing activity, demonstrated anti-U animus by many 8(a)(1) violations; discharges were timed during middle of U organizing campaign and were effected w/o warning and abruptly at beginning of shift; E failed to explain at time of discharges or at hearing what was wrong with Ees' work; and E made inexplicably evasive statements to Ees at time of discharges)

United Artists Eastern Theatres, Operating Valentine Theatre 275 NLRB No. 025
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of unsatisfactory work, violative, since real reason was Ee's participation in R proceeding and his U activity where Ee was told he would be promoted if he dropped the U and E gave inconsistent reasons to support discharge; further, E's contention that Ee's admission to accepting gratuities from patrons in violation of E's rules was conduct sufficient to deny reinstatement, rejected, since there was no evidence this was dischargeable offense and E was willing to overlook such behavior in exchange for Ee's forgoing U activity)

Morning Star International, Inc. JD-209-86
[layoff of leading U proponents assertedly because of costly production error and suspected stealing, unlawful, in view of inherent improbabilities of production error defense, non-existence of theft defense, failure to include alleged defenses in decisional layoff process, and shifting nature of asserted defenses]

Harry Rosenblatt & Sons JD-(SF)-50-85
(discharge of Ee who engaged in U organizing activities and prevailed upon management to meet with Ees at behest of aggrieved fellow Ees, allegedly for poor performance due to outside job, unlawful)

Salem Leasing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 774 F.2d 85 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1985)
[ct affirmed Bd finding of violation where Ee was discharged allegedly for his bad attitude, poor work, and open criticism of E since record demonstrated Ee had good work record, successfully completed his required probationary period, was assigned additional responsibilities on such completion, and no disciplinary action against Ee was contemplated until after he made favorable comments about his former unionized E's working conditions and wages. E failed to shoulder burden of demonstrating Ee would have been fired regardless of his pro-U comments]

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)
[discharge violation, since it was for U activities rather than poor work performance because Ee's difficulty in supervising second shift resulted from defective products, over which he had no control, and he was not warned of alleged poor quality and productivity of his work]

N.L.R.B. v. Health Care Logistics, Inc. 784 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1986)
[discharge of U activist, violation, notwithstanding claim of his poor performance and desire to do only one kind of work that would not justify full time employment, where evidence showed he performed other work, received no complaints or warnings about any aspect of his work, and was given pay raise and bonus three weeks before discharge]

8387-9950 Not real reason

Cauis Management Corp. 281 NLRB No. 174
[discharge of Ee serving as superintendent of E's apartment building, assertedly because Ee's wife operated sewing factory in their apartment, unlawful, where no warning or reason was given Ee for discharge; it was unlikely E would have summarily discharged Ee because of wife's sewing activity which E himself had taken advantage of and which E last discussed with Ee 3 months previously; and unconvincing nature of E's evidence of discrimination buttressed evidence of discrimination]

Marion Center Supply, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 026
(discharge of U activist assertedly for refusing to show truck lease at officer's request unlawful where Ee did not have the lease and had not stated that he did not feel like showing it)

8390 UNSATISFACTORY QUALIFICATIONS OR CHARACTERISTICS

8390-1700 Disease and physical incapacity

Plateau Coal Sales, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 156
[E's telling one of job applicants who was one of the applicants who allegedly had failed his required physical exam that he and others selected from panel (of applicants) need not be re-examined if they agreed to work non U, violative, since re-examination of job applicants would further delay (E's) dealing with U]

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154
[no unlawful discharge of U adherents where they were placed on leave of absence status due to injury pursuant to E's policy, their jobs were not filled during their absence, and they were recalled when E's business picked up in same manner as non-U supporters]

Evans St. Clair, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 065
[placing U leader on involuntary medical leave, not violation where he was found unconscious on platform near his machine, had fallen off platform previously, doctor's note indicated that Ee should not work around machinery, and E suspected that Ee had recurring medical condition that might imperil E's safety record]

[E's refusal to allow U adherent to perform light work while Ee was injured, not unlawful, since E's policy was that injured Ees must perform light duty w/i their usual work functions, and Ee could not thus perform while on crutches, Ee did not inform E when he discontinued use of crutches, and when he reported to work w/o crutches, he was returned to work]

Ducane Heating Corporation 273 NLRB No. 175
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because of inability or refusal to do work because of back pain, not violative, where E had created light duty work for Ee on doctor's orders and only returned Ee to regular job when it received medical certification Ee could work w/o limitations and consistent with E's past practice, it was only after Ee said he could not perform regular job, that E decided to discharge him)

8393-0100 Generally

8393-0122 Existence of rule not established

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for refusal to follow E's rule regarding telephone contact with E's suppliers, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where animus was shown by E's unilateral change in working conditions after U won election and E's refusal to meet with Ee as U steward, rule was not contained in E's Ee-handbook and E in fact had no blanket rule prohibiting Ee contacts with suppliers]

F & C Transfer Co., Inc. 277 NLRB No. 071
(discharge of Ee, unlawful, since for U activities rather than for carrying unauthorized passenger in E's truck or for involvement in auto accident which E contended impacted its insurance coverage, where Ee had been threatened previously with discharge if he joined U and discharge took place after E had received checkoff authorization, in view of E's expressed anti-U sentiments, no written rule against unauthorized passengers, fact no other Ees disciplined for carrying unauthorized passengers, accident occured one and half year previously and Ee was cleared of any wrong doing)

Technicolor Government Services, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 041
(discharging U steward for distributing to E's Ees application forms for employment with another E, who was bidder in competition for E's position as service contractor found unlawful where activity was concerted, protected U activity that was not disruptive and did not breach any existing rule of E)

8393-0144 Rule commonly violated and not similarly punished

La Reina, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 103
[strictly enforcing clothing rule and issuing written reprimand and one-day suspension for failure to comply on day after election, violation where rule had formerly been leniently enforced]

La Reina, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 209
(violation, where Ee at tortilla maker, after testifying contrary to E's interests in Bd proceeding, was supervised more closely, warned about speaking with co-workers, reprimanded for picking dough off floor for reprocessing and quit when ordered to sign warning slip under threat of discharge, where picking up dough which had fallen on floor customary, and E's contention it reprimanded Ee because it believed she had deliberately placed rag in dough to cause E possible liability, rejected)

Pilled of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he took company property home w/o authorization, violative, since real reason was his U activity where other Ees regularly took home company property w/o discipline and E knew Ee was active U supporter)

8393-0155 Rule discriminatorily or arbitrarily applied

Garrison Valley Center, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 164
(discharge of Ee who was most active Ee on behalf of U during U's organizing campaign allegedly because Ee left patient at E's nursing home unattended while performing other work, violative, since E failed to meet burden of establishing that E would have discharged Ee even in absence of her U activities. Record evidence demonstrated that E had tolerated brief absences for work-related reasons and would discharge an Ee only when serious injury or death resulted from Ee's conduct)

8393-0166 Rule invalid

Radisson Muehlebach Hotel 273 NLRB No. 183
(where U supporter Ee was discharged for allegedly violating rule which prohibited false, vicious or malicious statements against E by asking supervisors if they had seen newspaper article stating that E had not remitted any money to U for past three months, rule itself found violative and therefore no defense to discharge, since rule prohibited not only statements that were merely false, which constitute U or concerted protected activity, as well as statements that were knowingly false and therefore malicious, which were not, and E, in attempting to rely on rule failed to show that Ee's statements were the latter)

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[discharge of Ee for use of profanity when he was asked to sign notice of his suspension and for refusal to sign notice, unlawful, where suspension was pursuant to unlawfully instituted progressive discipline rule in response to U activity, since E cannot lawfully discharge of Ee for mere use of profanity which was provoked by E's unlawful discrimination against him and absent evidence profanity was so gross as to remove Ee from protection of Act]

8393-0177 Rule not communicated to employees

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for refusal to follow E's rule regarding telephone contact with E's suppliers, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where animus was shown by E's unilateral change in working conditions after U won election and E's refusal to meet with Ee as U steward, rule was not contained in E's Ee-handbook and E in fact had no blanket rule prohibiting Ee contacts with suppliers]

8393-5000 Types of rules

8393-5027 No-solicitation and/or no-distribution and/or no-access rule

Premier Maintenance, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 003
[promulgation of rule prohibiting solicitation of U cards in working areas and on working time, violative of Section 8(a)3), since applied only to U solicitation, absent evidence of interference with production and in view of U animus]

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154
[written warning for attempting to get two Ees to sign U authorization cards while at their work stations, not violation where no-solicitation rule was uniformly enforced, notwithstanding E's use of supervisors to pass out anti-U campaign literature, since no-solicitation rule does not encompass E's situation]

Harry M. Stevens, Inc., A/K/A Harry M. Stevens Services, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 031
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he solicited U cards on working time, violative, where Ee had not yet commenced his assigned work, he was discharged in the absence of a valid no-solicitation/no-distribution rule and E made no showing that Ee had interfered with production)

Pilled of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117
(warning Ee pursuant to E's no-distribution rule who handed out U literature after he clocked in but before his actual starting time, violative)

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, where there was no disparate application of concededly valid rule; and there were no other indicia of discriminatory intent)

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, where there was no disparate application of valid rule even though Ee had solicited for Ee dinner while on working time in sight of E's managers' where dinner was isolated event sponsored

The Broadway a Division of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc. JD-(SF)-082-85
(issuance of written warning to Ee engaged in U organizing activity at E's store and his subsequent discharge for violating E's rule against solicitation during working time, not unlawful, not withstanding contention that, if GC was permitted to demonstrate that management officials had themselves at various times used working time to distribute pro-company literature, such showing would entitle U's adherents to equal time, since Bd cases do not demonstrate existence of rule favoring or enforcing doctrine of equal time for U's)

Southern Maryland Hospital Center v. N.L.R.B. 801 F.2d 666 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1986)
[discipline for violation of E's (Hospital's) no solicitation rule not an ULP, where E undisputedly showed (1) violation of rule, (2) failed attempt to resolve dispute and possibly, withdraw discipline, and (3) final disciplinary actions in proportion to conduct involved, even though E had allowed some innocuous activity, such as sale of some raffle tickets, Girl Scout cookies and cosmetics by Ees w/o reprisal under E's rule]

8393-5031 Lunch period rules

Advance Development & Manufacturing Corporation 275 NLRB No. 036
(discharge of Ees, assertedly for their lunch break practices, violative, where E discharged Ees in reaction to receipt of U letter demanding recognition and in order to frustrate U's efforts to achieve recognition)

8393-5040 Time-card rules

PYA/Monarch, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 167
discharge of driver who was U adherent, not violative, since discharged would have taken place absent U activities as driver violated E's rules by not making scheduled delivery notwithstanding another Ee who was not disciplined failed to inform driver that customer was open and delivery should be made as it was still driver's responsibility to ascertain whether customer open; further, driver failed to clock out when he left his E's premises which was also contrary to E's rules)

Stewart-Warner Corporation/Thor Power Tool Company JD-(ATL)-62-86
[even if GC had established prima facie case of discrimination, discharge of active U adherent not unlawful, where E demonstrated legitimate permissible reasons for discharge by showing that Ee falsified work records in violation of E's rule, accurate labor reporting was critical to E's operation, and there had never been incident where Ee falsified company document w/ o being terminated; and GC's asserted instances of disparate treatment of Ees either had not occurred or differed from Ee's situation]

8393-5043 Reporting absences

Health Enterprises of America, Inc., d/b/a Miami Health Care Center 282 NLRB No. 033
[notwithstanding U adherents violated no call/no show rule, discharges violative as real reasons were U activities, filing lawsuit against E and close proximity to election which discharges would serve as warning to other Ees]

Benmit Division, U.S. Tubular, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 083
[discharging U supporter for failure to call in that he would be absent but not even disciplining non-U supporter for poor absenteeism record, disparate]

Soulnactro Corporation 280 NLRB No. 015
[discharge of Ee unlawful since for U adherence rather than for poor attendance and failure to notify E when he was not coming into work, in view of E's departure from usual discipline system, E's U animus, fact rule regarding reporting absences had not been consistently enforced, and that uncooperative attitude which was given as reason for discharge at hearing, but was not given at time of discharge, raises inference that real reason was pretext]

United States Postal Service 275 NLRB No. 074
(discharge of Ee who was mail carrier, unlawful, since for his threat to file grievance, rather than for his failure to notify E on third day of absence from work whether he would be at work next day, or for his poor work performance and customers complaints regarding him, where no rule or policy required Ees absent for less than week to notify E if they succeeded in obtaining substitute, which Ee had done, thus E had no rational reason to expect Ee to call, and Ee had condoned Ee's work deficiencies for approximately two months prior to discharge)

Sue-Glo Realty Corp. d/b/a Granit Hotel and Country Club JD-(NY)-10-86
[suspending waiter two weeks for failure to appear at breakfast, lawful where Ee admittedly violated long standing company rule]

Norbar, Inc. JD-302-85
(discharge of Ee allegedly for U activities, not unlawful, where Ee, absent from work due to work-related injury, failed to submit contractually required medical reports; E based discharge solely and exclusively on its belief, in absence of reports, that Ee had quit, and not on Ee's U activities and pursuit of workmen's compensation claim; and E would have taken same action, regardless of Ee's activities)

8393-5046 Rule against making false, vicious, or malicious statements concerning employees, employer, or its product

Bell Halter, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 136
(U adherent's discharge for stating in presence of other Ees that he had been beaten up by company goons not unlawful, where Ee violated known company rule relating to making false, vicious or malicious statements against E, violation of which was not trivial; discharge was not overreaction establishing pretext; Ee's failure to acknowledge making accusations against E, much less to claim he was joking, made reasonable E's presumption that statements were not only knowingly false, but also willful and malicious which, in connection with U activity, are not protected)

8393-5047 Leave of absence rules

East Central Communications, Inc. JD-116-86
[discharge of Ee, assertedly for abuse of paid sick leave rule, unlawful, in view of E's knowledge of Ee's vigorous U activity, timing of discharge shortly before election, E's failure to follow own 3-warning rule in disciplining Ee or to credibly explain why it had failed to do so, and fact that, if it had followed its rules, maximum discipline would have been issuance of warning for first offense; and E thereby seized upon infraction as excuse to mask discharge of Ee because of his U activity and to discourage similar activity among its Ees]

8393-5050 Safety rules

The Kent Corporation 275 NLRB No. 023
(depriving U advocate of overtime, assertedly for his lack of regard for safety rules, violative, where actual motive was Ee's U activities including his testimony before Bd 6 days before date of disciplinary action)

Kansas City Terminal Elevator Company 274 NLRB No. 010
(E's imposing 3-day suspension on its Ee, U activist and shop steward, because Ee had been playing cards during scheduled working time, but during lull in production process, violative, since suspension letter received by Ee indicated that conduct for which Ee was suspended was first offense-Ee had been guilty of safety related offense but E did not consider card playing in same category-which according to E's progressive disciplinary system should have been cause only for written disciplinary warning)

8393-5051 Rule providing for dismissal following customer complaints

Health Enterprises of America, Inc., d/b/a Miami Health Care Center 282 NLRB No. 033
[notwithstanding U adherent violated rule against patient abuse, discharge violative as real reasons were U activities and filing lawsuit against E, in view of spurious investigation and disparate discipline accorded discriminatee for violating rule]

8393-5065 Rule concerning employees' personal use of company material

Pillod of Mississippi, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 117
(discharge of Ee, assertedly because he took company property home w/o authorization, violative, since real reason was his U activity where other Ees regularly took home company property w/o discipline and E knew Ee was active U supporter)

8393-5070 Rule against drinking of alcoholic beverages on job

Quality Inn-Lax 280 NLRB No. 145
discharge of U activist for breach of rule against use of drugs and alcohol by Ees while on duty, not violation where E had discharged Ees in past for breach of this rule and showed no U animus]

Riverview 5 P's, Inc., t/a Riverview Inn JD-54-86
[discharge of Ee employed as bartender, assertedly for violating E's no-drinking rule, unlawful, where E knew of Ee's desire for U in E's facility; rule applied to drinking alcoholic, and not nonalcoholic beverages, and E admitted that Ee was not drinking intoxicants on observed occasions for which no write-up was issued to Ee; however, Ee was given written warning when Ees commenced organizing activities; and E's latently contended reason for Ee's drinking soda was pretextual, particularly in view of E's other extensive unlawful conduct (Robertson)]

JMC Transport, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 776 F.2d 612 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1985)
[discharge of Ee, engaged in protected concerted activity of protesting E's change in pay policy, assertedly for violating E's alcoholic beverage policy, unlawful, where supervisor had earlier suggested that Ee would be fired if he continued raising such a hassle about the pay; there was proximity in time between protected activity and discharge; and significant factor in management's decision to terminate Ee was supervisor's corroboration of fabricated

episode relating to Ee's possession of alcoholic beverage, and therefore supervisor's anti-labor motivation in making false report must be imputed]

N.L.R.B. v. Del Rey Tortilleria, Inc. 787 F.2d 1118 (C.A. 7, Apr. 1986)

[discharge of Ees, assertedly for violating E's no drinking rule, unlawful, where other Ees, including Ees herein, previously found drinking on job, were warned but retained; initial suspension of Ees was changed to discharge after they admitted U involvement; discharges occurred 1 day after E received U's notice of organizing drive; at Ee meeting E promised raise if Ees forgot about U and told Ees that discharge depended on whether or not they were for U; and E's asserted reason for discharge was not proven]

8393-5072 Rule against wearing union insignia

N.L.R.B. v. Malta Construction Company 806 F.2d 1009 (C.A. 11, Dec. 1986)

[discharge of Ee for deliberate interference with production and refusing work assignment, followinstructions during U campaign when Ee refused to remove U sticker from his E supplied hard hat when Ee was on his water break assisting fellow Ee who had a stuck front-end loader, held violative, since GC proved existence of presumptively invalid rule banning U insignia on hard hats and E did not prove any special circumstance to justify its rule. Ee had never been warned or disciplined for his behavior prior to his taking about U]

8393-5078 Rule against nepotism

Uniglass Industries, Div. United Merchants & Mfrs. 276 NLRB No. 035

(reimposition of anti-nepotism policy and applying it retroactively in order to avoid family disputes over union issues, violative, as it resulted in failure to rehire former Ees because of their U activities)

Robins Federal Credit Union 273 NLRB No. 165

(discharge of Ee acting as loan supervisor at E-credit U for violating E's policy prohibiting issuance of loans to loan officer's relatives, not unlawful, notwithstanding summary dismissal of Ee on eve of U election where, assuming GC, contrary to finding herein established prima facie case, E rebutted such case in view of all facts and circumstances herein; no finding was made as to whether loan made by Ee to husband of cousin was correct interpretation of relative under E's policy, rather, finding was that E's perceived violation of policy was motivating factor in Ee's dismissal)

Robins Federal Credit Union 273 NLRB No. 165

(in finding discharge of Ee acting as loan officer at E-credit union for violating E's written policy prohibiting issuance of loans to loan officer's relatives not unlawful, ALJ relied on fact that Ee's transaction was highly irregular and placed E in vulnerable position with unprotected security, length of time taken by E to investigate matter was not unreasonable, and Ee's U activities were not known prior to manager's recommendation to terminate Ee)

Robins Federal Credit Union 273 NLRB No. 165

(in finding discharge of Ee acting as loan officer at E-credit union for violating E's written policy prohibiting issuance of loans to loan officer's relatives not unlawful, ALJ held unlawful interrogation by single supervisor of a fellow Ee following Ee's discharge, unaccompanied by threats, not sufficient to prove animus toward U by E)

Robins Federal Credit Union 273 NLRB No. 165

(in finding discharge of Ee acting as loan officer at E-credit union for violating E's written policy prohibiting issuance of loans to loan officer's relatives not unlawful, ALJ held that, assuming relevance of disparate treatment of supervisor, who resigned after being afforded opportunity to do so at her request, was of questionable relevance as it occurred substantially after Ee's discharge; but assuming its relevance, it was supportive of E's position that it regarded violation of its policy as dischargeable offense)

Food and Commercial Workers, Local 152 v. N.L.R.B. 768 F.2d 1463 (C.A. D.C., July 1985)

(successor E's failure to hire Ees of predecessor, unlawful, since substantial evidence discriminatorily motivated where criteria established by E for hiring i.e. discipline, health, absenteeism and safety record, applied more strictly to Ees of predecessor E than to other applicants, rule against neopotism impacted disparately against Ees of predecessor E, and only 1/6-1/5 of individuals hired by successor E were Ees of predecessor)

8393-5083 Rule concerning work assignments

Northline Bus Center, Inc. JD-(ATL)-41-85

(discharge of Ee driving passengers by bus from airport to downtown locations, assertedly for being off his assigned bus route, unlawful where, after E became aware of Ee's U activities it seized on off-route incident to discharge Ee because he was pro-U; change in routes was not unusual for E's bus drivers who would from time to time have to change their routes; and E, who had not reviewed Ee's work record until after discharge, itemized 10 specific work rule infractions by Ee and then relied on them as subterfuge in attempt to justify discharge)

8393-5086 Rule against use of profanity or improper behavior

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019

(issuance of verbal and written warnings to U's chief steward who was also prominently involved in U matters, for violating work rules prohibiting profane language and sexual and/or racial harassment of other Ees, not unlawful, since incident did not involve common shop talk but was offensive remark directed at person of Ee in manner that violated work rules; U prominence did not isolate steward from discipline for sufficient cause; and warnings were issued after due investigation by E)

New Galax Mirror Corporation JD-475-84

(warning leading U adherent and subsequently discharging him, assertedly for abusive statements made to another Ee in violation of company rules, violative, since real reason was Ee's U activity where warning was simply a pretext to coverup E's hostility towards a known U supporter and other Ees were not similarly disciplined for similar or worse conduct)

8393-5088 Rules concerning company vehicles or equipment

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091

[discharge assertedly for Ee's failure to comply with trucking company's rule requiring reporting of damage to vehicles due to accidents, unlawful, in view of timing of discharge w/i 2 weeks of strike settlement and U recognition agreement; E's animus toward U and its supporter's and awareness of Ee's U support and strike activity; abruptness of E's action w/o confronting Ee with vehicle's condition; deviation from customary policy of investigating accidents; shifting and mutually inconsistent reasons for discharge; and absence of similar treatment of other Ees]

F & C Transfer Co., Inc. 277 NLRB No. 071

(discharge of Ee, unlawful, since for U activities rather than for carrying unauthorized passenger in E's truck or for involvement in auto accident which E contended impacted its insurance coverage, where Ee had been threatened previously with discharge if he joined U and discharge took place after E had received checkoff authorization, in view of E's expressed anti-U sentiments, no written rule against unauthorized passengers, fact no other Ees disciplined for carrying unauthorized passengers, accident occured one and half year previously and Ee was cleared of any wrong doing)

8393-5095 Rules regarding appearance or attire

Marin Operating, Inc. d/b/a The Clarion Hotel-Marin; Colorado Marin Associates, A Joint Venture; and Preferred Properties Fund 82, A Limited Partnership 279 NLRB No. 070

[issuing warnings to Ees because they picketed in company uniforms, violative, where E never before restricted what Ees could do in uniforms until they picketed in uniform]

Wells Fargo Armored Service Corp. JD-(SF)-19-86

[suspending Ee two business days after E received U request that Ees at location in question be considered accretion to existing unit and notice that Ee was U steward and U executive committee member, violation where E's contention that Ee misappropriated and copied three confidential company documents was unsupported by evidence; second suspension, immediately afterwards, for failure to comply with E's no-beard policy, violation where E had let Ee work for three months w/o complying]

8396 VOLUNTARY QUIT OR LAYOFF

Polymer Prints Ltd. Formerly Known as Subliflex, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 068

[Ee who signed agreement resigning as Ee in exchange for cash severance payment held not to have voluntarily quit but to have been constructively discharged, where material reduction in his work hours was intended by E to force Ee to quit, and such reduction was in retaliation against Ee for having appeared to testify as GC's witness at hearing in instant case]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056

[U supporter on sick leave w/o E's objection not voluntary quit where she was negotiating with E for protection against fellow Ee when permanently laid off by E; also, E had previously constructively discharged her by subjecting her to intolerable working conditions where a fellow Ee had so threatened her that she had to call security guard and police]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056

[no resignation where, notwithstanding U supporter went to E's office to resign, he never communicated desire to do so to E, because latter was not available and did not telephone Ee as requested]

Atlas Trucking, Inc. d/b/a Atlas Truck Rental & Leasing 280 NLRB No. 006

[accepting known U organizer's alleged quit, violation where Ee did not quit but called in to say he would not come in unless needed due to car trouble and mentioned that he had interviewed for lesser-paying job]

The Gateway Theatre Corporation d/b/a Senator Theatre, Capitol Hill Cinemas 277 NLRB No. 186

[Ee voluntarily quit, rather than was unlawfully discharged, where he left E's employ for temporary position with another E and U planned to refer him back to E; E's lawful termination of its relationship with U and unlawful discharge of other Ees who had been referred by U did not constitute discrimination against Ee]

8396—Cont.

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143
(no unlawful discharge where Ees chose to leave rather than work under terms of E's final offer, lawfully implemented after impasse, which changed their terms and conditions of employment)

Jones Plumbing Co., Inc.; et al. d/b/a Instant Plumbing Company 277 NLRB No. 047
(layoff of Ee unlawful and held to be constructive discharge, since for U activites, where E after the fact attempted to capitalize on Ee's wife's illness to state on layoff slip voluntary quit to care for wife, in order to preclude any obligation to recall Ee, E had previously made disparaging remarks about U and hired new Ees rather than recall Ee)

Kenneth L. Hand Sr. d/b/a Neighborhood Roofing and Contracting, and Kenneth L. Hand Jr. and Sylvia Hand d/b/a Farrand Park Services 276 NLRB No. 081
(E's failure to recall Ees following most recent layoff allegedly because there was no available work, violative where E's reason was false and each of these Ees had either sought U's assistance and representation, or had insisted he receive contractual wage rates and benefits to which he was entitled)

Chaim Babad, et al., A Co-Partnership, d/b/a Tilden Arms Management Co. and Toby Estates, Inc., a Single Employer 276 NLRB No. 117
(successor E's bribing predecessor's Ees to quit and refusing to rehire them so as to eliminate U majority and bargaining obligation, violative)

South Nassau Communities Hospital 274 NLRB No. 179
(no unlawful constructive discharge of U adherent but rather she resigned rather than be transferred after receiving unlawful warning, since transfer was due to personality conflict with supervisor and did not violate Act, nor did unlawful warning she received make circumstances so difficult as to force her resign)

Bronal Electric, Inc. JD-(NY)-21-84
[Ees discharged rather than quit, where they were informed by E after U's demand for recognition if they wanted to put him out of business they had succeeded, that he was closing his doors, but that Ees could stay until Friday, and after hearing these statements one Ee turned in his beeper and keys and walked out and other Ees followed; Ees could reasonably believe that they were discharged, especially where Ee who turned in beeper and keys had previously been asked by E to turn in tools and keys]

Hinz Store Fixtures & Construction Co., Inc. JD-(SF)-191-85
[E's trying to force Ee to accept its position that he voluntarily quit, and discharging him for trying to secure E's compliance with bargaining agreement, violation]

David Warren & Son, Inc. JD-(ATL)-31-85
(discharge of leading U adherent, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention that Ee quit because of his coworkers' animosity towards him, since circumstances raised inference that Ee was discharged, where E harbored U animus, told Ees he would shut down operation if Ees selected U, seized upon events resulting from his misinterpretation of U's letter demanding recognition that U already represented them thereby arousing animosity among Ee's coworkers towards Ee, and subsequently E purposely did nothing to dispel suspected violence)

Embossing Printers, Inc. JD-19-85
(economic strikers rejection of unconditional offer of reinstatement (offer held unconditional notwithstanding it included strikers accepting unilateral changes to their health benefits as these changes were found to be lawful) converted their status to voluntary quits)

Kenneth MacGillivray and Joan MacGillivray, Co-Partners d/b/a Williams Street Company, A Limited Partnership d/b/a Tower Plaza JD-(ATL)-87-84
(individual who performed trash removal at apartment building in partial payment for rent, quit, rather than unlawfully discharged, when he moved from building, informed E he didn't think he was wanted by E and was leaving, and further informed another ee that he was giving 30 days notice, notwithstanding contention residence in building not requirement for employment and individual returned after he moved to perform trash removal)

8398 STRIKE SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

Texaco, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 164
(RD erred in refusing to permit withdrawal of charge alleging E unlawfully withheld accident and sick benefits from Ees who were receiving such benefits prior to economic strike, where parties had reached strike settlement agreement under which U agreed to end strike, withdraw charges, and each Ee was to receive at least $150 in settlement of outstanding contractual claims, since benefits withheld no more than contractual term subsequently negotiated away in good faith, no other ULPs extant and no Ee objected; primary interest served by continual rights of a few Ees rather than public rights)

8399 GRIEVANCE/ARBITRATION PROCEEDINGS AND/OR AWARD

Alpha Beta Company 273 NLRB No. 194
(deferral to grievance settlement agreement over issue of discharge of sympathy strikers, appropriate, where proceedings fair and regular, all parties agreed to be bound, including Ees, and though themselves not involved in negotiations, Ees authorized Us to accept settlement on their behalf knowing it contained no backpay, settlement not palpably wrong under law, particularly since it resulted from negotiations, U could waive Ees statutory rights here, and result not repugnant to Act notwithstanding Ees authorized acceptance of settlement solely because they wished to pursue backpay issue before Bd)

530 EMPLOYER OBLIGATION TO BARGAIN

0100 GENERALLY

2000 CONDITIONS PRECEDENT TO OBLIGATION TO BARGAIN

2025 REQUEST FOR RECOGNITION AND BARGAINING

2025-0100 Generally

Unifirst Corporation 280 NLRB No. 008

[where E's answer in summary judgment proceeding admitted it refused to bargain only from date Bd denied its mtn for reconsideration, Bd held E's bargaining obligation attached upon U's certification even when, as here, E was testing U's certification; Bd's R/R Sec. 102.65(e)(3) provides that motion for reconsideration does not operate to stay effectiveness of Bd action; consequently, E's refusal to bargain commenced on date that U, as admitted by E, requested to bargain]

2025-0183 Request not necessary where futile

United States Aviex Company 279 NLRB No. 110

[U held not to have made effective demand for recognition and bargaining, notwithstanding GC's contention that U obtained constructive service of demand when E refused delivery of U's demand letter, and that further effort to deliver demand would have been futile, where Ee who delivered letter to E's office failed to accept E's invitation to speak personally with E, and there was no showing that any of the handbills, subsequently distributed to Ees and to which demand letter was attached, were ever given to any responsible E official]

2025-0190 Failure to request

United States Aviex Company 279 NLRB No. 110

[U held not to have made effective demand for recognition and bargaining, notwithstanding GC's contention that U obtained constructive service of demand when E refused delivery of U's demand letter, and that further effort to deliver demand would have been futile, where Ee who delivered letter to E's office failed to accept E's invitation to speak personally with E, and there was no showing that any of the handbills, subsequently distributed to Ees and to which demand letter was attached, were ever given to any responsible E official]

Dukes Industries JD-167-85

(no violation where E decided to shut down operations and communicated decision to Ees prior to having any knowledge of U activity. Furthermore, U waived its perogative to bargain with E where, other than delivering its demand letter, it has made absolutely no attempt to meet and negotiate over effects of closing)

2025-3300 Elements of request

2025-3317 Implied request to bargain

2025-3317-2500 Demand for recognition

Matlack, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 036

[U made adequate demand for recognition where it sufficiently manifested its desire to represent and negotiate on behalf of Ees by repeated requests by U representatives, to which E responded that it had no intention of negotiating with U because of its contract with another U; U herein unquestionably represented overwhelming majority of Ees; and E reasonably understood that U wanted to represent Ees]

2025-5000 Forms of request

Armour and Company 280 NLRB No. 096

[U made sufficiently clear request for bargaining to give rise to E's duty to bargain regarding E's option to allocate severance and vacation pay to Ees being terminated to specific periods, where U asked E what position it was going to take as to allocation? since while request to bargain is prerequisite to E's duty to bargain, request need take no special form, so long as clear communication of meaning]

2025-6700 Continuing request

N.L.R.B. v. Fall River Dyeing & Finishing Corp. 775 F.2d 425 (C.A. 1, Oct. 1985)

[successor E obligated to bargain with U that had represented Ees of predecessor when it had employed substantial and representative complement i.e. had hired at least 50% of those it would ultimately employ in majority of Ees it would eventually employ when it reached full complement, notwithstanding at time of original demand for recognition representative complement not employed, since demand continuing and no need to renew later]

2025-8400 Absence of request

Armour and Company 280 NLRB No. 096

[U made sufficiently clear request for bargaining to give rise to E's duty to bargain regarding E's option to allocate severance and vacation pay to Ees being terminated to specific periods, where U asked E what position it was going to take as to allocation? since while request to bargain is prerequisite to E's duty to bargain, request need take no special form, so long as clear communication of meaning]

2050 Majority status of representative

Matlack, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 036

[E unlawfully refused to bargain with U representing majority of its Ees, rendered unlawful assistance to another U not having such representation, and discriminated in hire and tenure of Ees by entering into and maintaining U security contract with other U and by requiring Ees to join latter U and pay specified initiation fees and dues]

2050-1200 Majority status as prerequisite

Ednor Home Care, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 042

(E did not unlawfully withdraw recognition since E never recognized U, where upon being presented with authorization cards by U's business representative, E's owner never acknowledged, nor did U representative claim U represented majority of Ees. U's contention that there was initial discussion regarding terms of proposed contract delivered with economic terms left blank, and absent evidence of any statement by E connoting recognition, or explicit testimony of U representative concerning plans for negotiating meetings, nor was U representative's behavior consistent with belief U was recognized)

1115, Nursing Home and Hospital Employees Union, A Division of 1115 Joint Board 275 NLRB No. 045

(E does not violate Section 8(a)(5) of Act by refusing to recognize U which bases its majority on tainted cards)

2050-2500 Determination of status

Wayside Realty Group, Inc. and Georgetown Hotel 281 NLRB No. 045

[E unlawfully withdrew recognition from U by failing to sign recognition agreement and by insisting upon Bd election, where E agreed to recognize U upon verifying U's majority status from authorization cards submitted by U, and E thereupon made such verification; although e and U subsequently agreed to private election as another means for determining U's majority support, E's decision not to proceed with private election made it a nullity and left E with obligation, according to earlier agreement, to voluntarily recognize U on basis of card majority]

Stop N' Go Inc. 279 NLRB No. 052

[majority status in 69-Ee unit not established where, of alleged 41-card majority, 27 cards were only authenticated by U representatives who neither witnessed signing nor received cards from signers]

Crest Industries Corp. 276 NLRB No. 067

(E's refusal to bargain with U, and comply with U's demand for recognition, violative where E, by polling its Ees, had determined that majority of Ees wished to be represented by U)

Louis Pappas' Homosassa Springs Restaurant, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 213

(unit size based upon member of Ees employed for greater part of year, not during peak season when (employment) roles are inflated)

2050-2500—Cont.

N.L.R.B. v. L & B Cooling, Inc. 757 F.2d 236 (C.A. 10, Mar. 1985)

(majority status (of Ee bargaining representative) can be established by means other than NLRB-conducted election such as informal-election in instant case where with E present and consent, Ees secretly marked ballot yes or no and put ballot in hat)

2050-5000 Exclusive power of Board to determine

N.L.R.B. v. L & B Cooling, Inc. 757 F.2d 236 (C.A. 10, Mar. 1985)

(majority status (of Ee bargaining representative) can be established by means other than NLRB-conducted election such as informal-election in instant case where with E present and consent, Ees secretly marked ballot yes or no and put ballot in hat)

2050-5067 May be determined in ULP proceeding

Bay Breeze Industries, Inc., d/b/a Lloyd Flanders 280 NLRB No. 133

[U, which has been representing unit Ees at predecessor E's plant for over 40 years, is to be recognized as ongoing representative for unit Ees where successor E has advanced no good-faith doubt about U no longer representing unit Ees, and there is not enough difference between predecessor E and successor E to overcome presumption that —Ees' desires concerning unionization are unchanged (successor Ees performed esentially same work, in same plant, with same equipment as before)]

2075 PROOF OF DESIGNATION

2075-0100 Generally

2075-0125 Formal designation not required

N.L.R.B. v. L & B Cooling, Inc. 757 F.2d 236 (C.A. 10, Mar. 1985)

(majority status (of Ee bargaining representative) can be established by means other than NLRB-conducted election such as informal-election in instant case where with E present and consent, Ees secretly marked ballot yes or no and put ballot in hat)

2075-0175 Testimony of employees or union representative

Stop N' Go Inc. 279 NLRB No. 052

[majority status in 69-Ee unit not established where, of alleged 41-card majority, 27 cards were only authenticated by U representatives who neither witnessed signing nor received cards from signers]

2075-6700 Authorization cards

2075-6717 Form of card

2075-6733 Proof of validity

2075-6733-2000 Method of authentication

2075-6733-2014 Testimony of solicitor

Limpert Brothers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 037

(solicitor of a card who testifies he or she witnessed signing of card and identifies the signature of signer, is sufficient to satisfy authentication and validity of the card and signator need not appear and testify)

2075-6733-2056 Testimony of witness to signing

Stop N' Go Inc. 279 NLRB No. 052

[majority status in 69-Ee unit not established where, of alleged 41-card majority, 27 cards were only authenticated by U representatives who neither witnessed signing nor received cards from signers]

2075-6733-2070 Signature comparisons

Wayside Realty Group, Inc. and Georgetown Hotel 281 NLRB No. 045

[E unlawfully withdrew recognition from U by failing to sign recognition agreement and by insisting upon Bd election, where E agreed to recognize U upon verifying U's majority status from authorization cards submitted by U, and E thereupon made such verification; although e and U subsequently agreed to private election as another means for determining U's majority support, E's decision not to proceed with private election made it a nullity and left E with obligation, according to earlier agreement, to voluntarily recognize U on basis of card majority]

2075-6733-2084 Due course delivery of card to union

Stop N' Go Inc. 279 NLRB No. 052

[majority status in 69-Ee unit not established where, of alleged 41-card majority, 27 cards were only authenticated by U representatives who neither witnessed signing nor received cards from signers]

2075-6733-4000 Adequacy of card on its face

2075-6733-4025 Signed by other than employee

Limpert Brothers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 037

(fact that Ee had a friend read card to her and sign it for her does not invalidate card since Ee may authorize another person to sign his or her name on authorization card)

2075-6733-4050 Undated or misdated cards

Reeves Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 153

[cards either left undated or only partially dated by Ees whose signatures they bore held valid where there was no doubt that cards were signed prior to date of U's demand for recognition]

Morning Star International, Inc. JD-209-86

[E's contention that U authorization cards should be treated as void or revocable at will because they were undated pursuant to U policy, rejected, where contention was based on language contained in card which was part of checkoff authorization and referred to revocation of authorization, rather than part of application for membership; any ambiguity in revocation of checkoff authorization was matter between Ee and U and did not arise in context of contest over designation of representative]

2075-6733-4067 Language of card

Limpert Brothers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 037

(card which was printed in Spanish held valid since signator was literate in Spanish and it is presumed he knew and understood contents and purpose of card)

2075-6733-4083 Other

Steffer Brothers JD-269-86

[date-stamp to show receipt of U authorization card by Bd's regional office held not relevant to authenticity or efficiency of card]

2075-6733-9500 Untimely revocation/withdrawal of card

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001

(Ee's asserted revocation of validly signed U authorization card held ineffective, where E engaged in widespread and pervasive unlawful acts in effort to destroy Ees' support for U, which was well under way when Ee attempted to revoke card; under such circumstances, Bd presumes that Ee revocations of authorization cards are direct result of E's unlawful conduct)

Apple Glass Company JD-89-86

[card valid, notwithstanding signer's testimony that he did not want his card turned in to U or wanted it back, where he had all unit cards in his locker all day and did not remove his card]

2075-6767 Circumstances impeaching validity of cards

2075-6767-0100 Generally

The Well-Bred Loaf, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 036

[solicitor's representation may limit and cancel language of otherwise valid card and invalidate it for purpose of determining majority status when, if effect, he directs signer to disregard card's language]

Reeves Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 153

[cards held invalid, where they were directly solicited by Ees' immediate supervisor or where supervisors were present when Ees signed cards]

2075-6767-0150 Testimony of employees as to subjective intent of own designation not admissible

Morning Star International, Inc. JD-209-86

2075-6767-0800 Misrepresentation in solicitation

2075-6767-0814 For election only

The Well-Bred Loaf, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 036

[Bd found cards valid on basis of appropriate card language and solicitors' testimony that they had made no misrepresentations as to cards' purpose where solicitor told card signer we would have elections after we get 50% of the cards and that to join U Ee would have to sign the card]

The Well-Bred Loaf, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 036

[card found invalid, since there was question whether representation to card signer canceled valid language of card where signer testified that solicitor had told her signing cards would enable us to have a vote to bring the Union in, but it was just to vote, since this did not amount to valid designation of U as bargaining representative]

Reeves Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 153

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001

(U authorization cards assertedly signed because of representation that only purpose for which cards would be used was to secure election held valid, where before signing Ees read card themselves or had card read to them by solicitors who told them U wanted to represent Ees, and solicitors made no statements to Ees to disregard langauge on card; nor did solicitors make any representation that only purpose for which cards would be used was to secure election)

Tri-State Culvert Manufacturing, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 087
[in finding that Ees' U authorizations cards should be included in count determining U majority because soliciting Ee did not induce Ees to sign cards by telling them everyone else had signed, ALJ held that, assuming such false representation did induce Ees to sign, he would reach same conclusion since, under Bd law, such misrepresentations are deemed to constitute mere puffing and/or sales talk which should be recognized as such by Ees]

Churchill's Catering Corporation d/b/a Churchill's Restaurant 276 NLRB No. 087
(U card invalid since Ee signed card for purpose other than wanting U to represent him, where Ee read card hurriedly during press of duties, and he had been informed earlier by fellow Ee that only purpose of card was to arrange meeting between Ees and U representative)

Churchill's Catering Corporation d/b/a Churchill's Restaurant 276 NLRB No. 087
(U card invalid where Ee, who had limited education, very little English ability, and menial job, was hurriedly instructed by solicitor to sign what he placed in front of Ee, and Ee's own testimony showed he did not know what card represented)

Morning Star International, Inc. JD-209-86

(U cards written in English and some in Spanish, distributed amonge Ees who could understand English and some who could not held valid, where Ees read the cards or cards were translated to them; they understood what cards said; and they voluntarily signed them)

Superior Container, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 055
(authorization card printed in English and signed by Ee who was literate in Spanish only, invalid, since whatever facial presumption of validity which might otherwise attach to signed card if card itself is unambiguous was rebutted by evidence that Ee was unable to read card because he could not read language in which it was printed and it could not underclosed it because was not otherwise explained to him in language he could understand)

Limpert Brothers, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 037

Reeves Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 153
[cards held invalid, where they were directly solicited by Ees' immediate supervisor or where supervisors were present when Ees signed cards]

Reeves Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 153
[E's contention that participation of its supervisory leadmen in U's organizational and card signing drive tainted cards and rendered them invalid, rejected, notwithstanding extensive participation of leadmen in soliciting card signatures, handbilling and other significant U activities, where supervisory participants directed work of only small groups of maintenance Ees and were not in position to affect working lives of vast majority of production Ees]

Kona 60 Minute Photo 277 NLRB No. 092
(Ee majority freely designated U as their representative where supervisor was a passive presence when his Ee-wife solicited and secured signatures of majority of Ees to U authorization cards; supervisor made no effort to persuade any Ee to sign card; in response to Ee questions, he repeatedly advised them to decide for themselves if they wanted U; and supervisor neither misled Ees into believing E favored U nor gave them any cause to fear economic retaliation from supervisor if they refused to sign card)

4001 GENERALLY

4001-4700 Time runs from Board order or settlement

VIP Limousine, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 089

4020-2000 Presumption of continued majority

4020-2033 Irrebuttably presumed for 1 year

Herbert Halperin distributing Corporation 281 NLRB No. 001
[mtn for summary judgment granted, notwithstanding E's contention that it is entitled to a hearing to determine if U still retains majority support due to lapse of time and alleged high turnover rate among unit Ees, since U's continued majority status is presumed to exist for one-year certification period, and neither Ee turnover lapse of time justifies E's refusal to bargain]

Southern Lumber Company, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 027
[violation, where E's refusals to bargain took place w/i one year following U's since U at such times enjoyed irrebuttable presumption of majority status; fact that E offered to bargain on one condition of employment, layoff procedure, was no defense that it refused to bargain over other mandatory subjects of bargaining]

Ben Franklin National Bank 278 NLRB No. 136
[E's refusal to sign bargaining agreement unlawful, since obligated to sign where meeting of minds reached during certification year inasmuch as Ee's ratification of E's final offer and dispatch of U's telegraphic acceptance both transpired w/i certification year and before E posted letter withdrawing its last offer; notwithstanding receipt by E during certification year of ptn signed by majority of Ees stating they no longer wished to be represented by U, and prior reservation of right of E's president and Board of Directors to approve and ratify any tentative agreement, since e's president had apparent authority to bind E]

N.L.R.B. v. Jarm Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Blu-Fountain Manor 785 F.2d 195 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)
[successor E's contention that it should not be ordered to bargain with U since predecessor's strike replacements should not be presumed to support U, rejected, since one year had not elapsed since U was certified and successor itself was responsible for not reinstating strikers, which itself was a ULP and thus, it cannot rely on that to support U's loss of majority status]

[move of medical packaging division to same facility where regular packaging products manufactured w/i certification year not such changed circumstances that would justify E's refusal to bargain with U certified as representative of medical packaging Ees prior to move, where only upper echelons of management consolidated, almost all job descriptions remained intact, working conditions, skills, and functions, with exception of two maintenance Ees, separate and distinct, no interchange of Ees; contention relocated Ees accretion to Ees in other division at same facility and represented by another U, rejected]

4020-2033-5000 Where certification enforced in ULP proceeding, year dates from time employer commences bargaining

Accurate Web, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 030

[E's withdrawal of recognition from U during certification year as extended, violative, since U and E entered into settlement agreement extending certification year, committing E to bargain with U, resulting in U's withdrawing ULP charges against E]

Accurate Web, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 030

[certification year for U extended, (where U not accorded full certification year) to embrace that time in which the E has engaged in its unlawful refusal to bargain, inasmuch as there should have been bargaining since certified U requested same w/i certification year]

N.L.R.B. v. Best Products Co., Inc. 765 F.2d 983 (C.A. 9, July 1985)

(defense of U's alleged loss of majority support due to Ee turnover, rejected in view of irrebuttable presumption of continuing majority status for one year running from date of certification, which in instant case has been ordered to run from date that E begins good faith bargaining)

4020-2067 Rebuttably presumed after 1 year

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143

(withdrawal of recognition after contract expired, violation, since presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by E's contention that its change to distributor dealerships converted Ees to independent contractors in view of E's retention of right of control and fact that nine out of twelve Ees were new hires which did not establish loss of majority support, as turnover alone cannot do so)

J. L. Davidson Company JD-(SF)-186-85

[E's refusal to execute contract, not violation, since during interim between E's offer and U's acceptance, U's majority status was unequivocally rebutted by Ees' show of hands withdrawing U's authority to represent them]

Abramo Fish Co. Ltd. JD-222-85

(purchaser's refusal to recognize and bargain with U representing seller's Ees, not unlawful where, even assuming U had been certified to represent seller's Ees, U possessed only a rebuttable presumption of its majority status since alleged refusal to recognize U occurred more than 2 years after effective date of most recent contract, and U did not in fact have majority status)

Whiger Soft Milk, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 754 F.2d 1381 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1984)

(at expiration of certification year, the presumption of majority status becomes rebuttable, and an E may rebut that presumption so as to withdraw recognition by presenting evidence of sufficient objective basis for a reasonable doubt of the U's majority status at the time E refused to bargain; however, such objective evidence must be clear, cogent and convincing)

4020-2067-5000 Free of unfair labor practices

Johns-Manville Sales Corporation 282 NLRB No. 040

[E possessed good-faith doubt of U majority based on ptn signed by majority of Ees requesting decert election when it withdrew recognition from certified U, notwithstanding E committed ULP when it laid off Ees w/o following seniority where ULP committed 8 months before withdrawal, involved only 3 Ees, E advanced legitimate business reason for not following seniority and E continued to bargain with U until withdrawal

N.L.R.B. v. Jarm Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Blu-Fountain Manor 785 F.2d 195 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[successor E's contention that it should not be ordered to bargain with U since predecessor's strike replacements should not be presumed to support U, rejected, since one year had not elapsed since U was certified and successor itself was responsible for not reinstating strikers, which itself was a ULP and thus, it cannot rely on that to support U's loss of majority status]

4020-4000 Certification by Board

Unifirst Corporation 280 NLRB No. 008

[where E's answer in summary judgment proceeding admitted it refused to bargain only from date Bd denied its mtn for reconsideration, Bd held E's bargaining obligation attached upon U's certification even when, as here, E was testing U's certification; Bd's R/R Sec. 102.65(e)(3) provides that motion for reconsideration does not operate to stay effectiveness of Bd action; consequently, E's refusal to bargain commenced on date that U, as admitted by E, requested to bargain]

Watson-Rummell Electric Co. 277 NLRB No. 162

[E's failure to bargain with U following expiration of contract of multi-E association from which E had timely withdrawn, unlawful, where E failed to bargain on individual basis]

4025-2500 Majority status irrebuttably presumed during term of contract

BASF-Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 068

(E's withdrawal of recognition during term of contract, on grounds that majority of Ees had signed ptn repudiating U and it had been presented with letter of disclaimer signed by members of local U's Executive Committee, violative, since majority status of U is irrebuttably presumed during term of contract and further, contract was signed and administered by both the local and International U and International had in no way disclaimed its bargaining rights and after learning of actions by its local, International informed E that local was in receivership and it would continue servicing the contract)

4025-5000 After expiration of contract

Architectural Woodwork Corporation 280 NLRB No. 108

[unilateral change in overtime payment policy, violation, notwithstanding expiration of contract, where presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by good faith doubt based on decertification ptn that was unlawfully induced by E]

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation 278 NLRB No. 118

[contract provision stating that U warrants, represents and agrees that it represented a majority of unit Ees not clear and unmistakable waiver of U's right to benefit from presumption of majority status after expiration of contract]

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation 278 NLRB No. 118

[U's continued majority status presumed after expiration of contract, despite E's claim that U failed to fairly represent unit Ees' interests, where there was no ambiguity in unit description, no evidence of U-E understanding negating intent to enter into collective-bargaining relationship, and no evidence of existence of relationship inimical to Act's fundamental policy or standard; insofar as facts may have shown inept, ineffective or unfair representation, Ees may assert their interests through intra-U, Bd or other legal procedures, but E may not defend refusal to bargain on these grounds]

American Fluorescent Corp. 275 NLRB No. 154

(documentary evidence supporting U's theory that recognition clause of expired (labor) contract survived the whole contract, disregarded as irrelevant, since U's theory would perpetuate irrebuttable presumption of majority status conflicting with concept of contract bar interwoven in GC's theory)

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191

The Typographers, Inc. JD-22-86

[rebuttable presumption of majority U support survives E's withdrawal from multiE unit]

Alpine Vending, Inc. JD-(SF)-99-85

(E's failure to apply provisions of bargaining agreement to all Ees of unit, and after expiration of contract unilaterally changing contract rate of pay, and failing to make contributions to health, welfare, and pension trust funds, unlawful, where E did not during term of contract give notice and obtain consent of U for deviations as required by Section 8(d) of Act, and after contract expired did not bargain to impasse with U)

Hotel & Restaurant Employees, Local 50 (Plaza Inn Associates d/b/a Plaza International Inn) JD-(SF)-87-85

(signatory to memorandum agreement gave proper notice of termination of agreement and agreement terminated at expiration date of agreement notwithstanding U and E association prematurely negotiated new contract prior to time that proper notice could be sent (60 days), since signatories could not be bound to mid-term modification as it is wording of memorandum agreement rather than contract incorporated by reference that controls termination dates)

4025-7500 Contract of predecessor employer

Louis Pappas' Homosassa Springs Restaurant, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 213

(in absence of any unusual circumstances, such as accretion to unit by agreement of parties w/o participation of affected Ees, presumption of majority status continues after takeover by Respondent (successor). No significance that U may not have been recently certified)

4040 VOLUNTARILY RECOGNIZED REPRESENTATIVES

4040-5000 Presumption of majority status

The Typographers, Inc. JD-22-86
[rebuttable presumption of majority U support survives E's withdrawal from multiE unit]

4040-5025 Voluntary recognition raises presumption of regularity that their representative had majority status

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104
(E's withdrawal of recongition from U when Ees went out on economic strike because E and U were unable to reach full agreement on terms of collective-bargaining agreement, violative and strike, subsequently was ULP strike, since E foreclosed possibility of entering into collective-bargaining agreement)

4040-5037 Contract creates irrebuttable presumption of continuing majority status of union

Bay Breeze Industries, Inc., d/b/a Lloyd Flanders 280 NLRB No. 133
[so long as predecessor Ees at alleged successor's plant are majority of Ees in successor unit, alleged successor may properly be considered to be successor E]

4040-5042 Presumption resulting from long bargaining history

Bay Breeze Industries, Inc., d/b/a Lloyd Flanders 280 NLRB No. 133
[U, which has been representing unit Ees at predecessor E's plant for over 40 years, is to be recognized as ongoing representative for unit Ees where successor E has advanced no good-faith doubt about U no longer representing unit Ees, and there is not enough difference between predecessor E and successor E to overcome presumption that ---Ees' desires concerning unionization are unchanged (successor Ees performed essentially same work, in same plant, with same equipment as before)]

4040-5090 Withdrawal from multiemployer bargaining unit

Elevator Sales and Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 094
[refusal of E and its alter ego to recognize U and honor contracts, violation, where E failed to effectively withdraw from multi-E bargaining association]

Cascade Painting Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 103
(in adopting ALJ's finding that Es, as purported non-U Es in single-E units following withdrawal from multi-E bargaining after expiration of contract, did not rebut presumption of U's continuing majority status, Bd found it unnecessary to rely on principle enunciated in Golden State Habilitation Convalescent Center, 224 NLRB 1618, that new Ees support U in same ratio as those whom they have replaced)

Cascade Painting Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 103
(Es unlawfully withdrew recognition from U where Es failed to rebut presumption of U's continued representation of Ee majorities in single-E units following withdrawal from multi-E bargaining; Es informed their Ees of intention to become non-U Es which, however, was choice open only to Ees, not Es; and after expiration of contract and w/o advising U or federal or state agencies, Es ceased making payments to U trust funds, stopped paying contract wages, and negotiated with Ees regarding wages and other terms and conditions of employment)

4050 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT WITH BARGAINING PROVISION

Accurate Web, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 030
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U during certification year as extended, violative, since U and E entered into settlement agreement extending certification year, committing E to bargain with U, resulting in U's withdrawing ULP charges against E]

VIP Limousine, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 089
(E's withdrawal of recognition from U and refusal to bargain, violative since E was obligated to bargain with U pursuant to non-Bd settlement reached by parties, no reasonable period for bargaining had elapsed, and thus E was not privileged to question U's majority status)

4055 REPRESENTATIVE SUBJECT TO BARGAINING ORDER IN LITIGATION

Gentzler Tool & Die Corp. 275 NLRB No. 124
(notwithstanding Bd has pending ptn for enforcement of its Order requiring execution of contract, retroactive application of contract and that E c/d from dealing directly with Ees, Bd issued another D/O arising from subsequent C finding E violations for refusal to bargain and withdrawal of recognition which are different violations than those found in first decision, and therefore, Order in first decision would not remedy those violations found in second decision; hence, need for another Order)

4070 TERMINATION BY LOSS OF VIABLE RELATIONSHIP

The Gateway Theatre Corporation d/b/a Senator Threatre, Capitol Hill Cinemas 277 NLRB No. 186
[termination of oral agreement whereby U referred Ees to E, E would refer personnel problems to U, and E would pay agreed upon wages, and E unilaterally reducing wages, not unlawful, since termination took place after agreed upon duration of contract]

4075 TERMINATION BY WITHDRAWAL OF RECOGNITION

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010
[E's refusal to bargain with U in which E's letter purported not to withdraw recognition unconditionally, but only to suspend negotiations pending a final determination as to whether or not your labor organization represents a majority of nurses at our hospital not untimely refusal, since, notwithstanding E's letter was over 6-months before any ULP charge as a refusal to bargain which is contingent on other occurrences does not start statute of limitations running]

General Hugh Mercer Corp., d/b/a Princeton Holiday Inn 282 NLRB No. 004
[E's withdrawal of recognition before one year period following Bd certification, violative since there is conclusive presumption of continued majority status in U during full one year period following Bd certification]

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[E unlawfully withdrew recognition from U where, in prior case, Bd ordered E to give retroactive effect to contract reached by E and U, thereby giving rise to presumption that E's majority status was in effect at time E withdrew recognition; E's defense that U had lost, or E had good faith doubt of, U's majority status, predicated solely on Ee ptn assertedly showing Ees' disaffection with U, rejected, where circumstances surrounding solicitation of ptn signatures and ptn's language indicated ptn was meant to precipitate Ee ratification vote on E's proposed contract]

Aqueslide 'N' Dive Corporation 281 NLRB No. 034
[withdrawal of U recognition, unlawful, where withdrawal occurred in atmosphere of ULPs; showing that portion of unit Ees no longer desired U representation was insufficient to justify withdrawal; other Ees in layoff status either had been recalled or had reasonable expectation of recall and were eligible for inclusion in unit since they were on payroll at time of withdrawal and had not been terminated nor advised there was no chance of recall; and following filing of bankruptcy ptn, E expressed hope of resuming normal production]

Tri-State Culvert Manufacturing, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 087
[E held entitled to withdraw recognition from U where U lacked majority support of Ees at time E voluntarily recognized U as Ee representative, and there was no evidence that U thereafter obtained majority status prior to withdrawal of recognition]

Accurate Web, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 030
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U during certification year as extended, violative, since U and E entered into settlement agreement extending certification year, committing E to bargain with U, resulting in U's withdrawing ULP charges against E]

Taylor Hospital 279 NLRB No. 006
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U based on ptn signed by majority of unit Ees, violative, where E's withdrawal of recognition was at a time when there remained an unremedied unlawful discharge of a long-time leading U supporter and member of U's bargaining team at the outset of long-delayed negotiations; because of the serious ULP of discharge, E is precluded from effectively relying on its asserted doubt of U's majority status]

Central Washington Health Services Association d/b/a Central Washing Hospital 279 NLRB No. 011
[anti U ptns signed by Ees not basis for good faith doubt of U's continuing majority, where signatures not obtained in atmosphere free of ULPs and so did not justify E's withdrawal of recognition]

Central Washington Health Services Association d/b/a Central Washing Hospital 279 NLRB No. 011
[filing of RM ptn supported by ptns signed by Ees not basis for good faith doubt of U's continuing majority, and did not justify withdrawal of recognition by E, since filing of RM ptn to question majority of previously certified U must itself be supported by objective considerations indicating loss of majority, and herein E's unlawful involvement in ptns, unlawful interrogations and promise of benefits tainted ptns in such a way E cannot rely on them]

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation 278 NLRB No. 118
[withdrawal of recognition without good faith doubt of U majority status based on objective considerations, violation where E unilaterally ceased fund contributions before concluding U did not represent majority, told Ee it was not going to renew contract before all but two alleged Ee expressions of dissatisfaction with U, interrogated Ees as to what transpired at U meetings, solicited Ee to keep E informed as to future U meetings, threatened to discharge Ee for supporting the U and offered to reimburse Ee for U initiation fee]

The Gateway Theatre Corporation d/b/a Senator Threatre, Capitol Hill Cinemas 277 NLRB No. 186
[termination of oral agreement whereby U referred Ees to E, E would refer personnel problems to U, and E would pay agreed upon wages, and E unilaterally reducing wages, not unlawful, since termination took place after agreed upon duration of contract]

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143
(withdrawal of recognition after contract expired, violation, since presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by E's contention that its change to distributor dealerships converted Ees to independent contractors in view of E's retention of right of control and fact that nine out of twelve Ees were new hires which did not establish loss of majority support, as turnover alone cannot do so)

Cascade Painting Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 103
(Es unlawfully withdrew recognition from U where Es failed to rebut presumption of U's continued representation of Ee majorities in single-E units following withdrawal from multi-E bargaining; Es informed their Ees of intention to become non-U Es which, however, was choice open only to Ees, not Es; and after expiration of contract and w/o advising U or federal or state agencies, Es ceased making payments to U trust funds, stopped paying contract wages, and negotiated with Ees regarding wages and other terms and conditions of employment)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 175
(E's withdrawal of recognition from U, not violative where E had reasonably grounded good faith doubt as to continued majority status of U; E announced its withdrawal of recognition on date and time of expiration of bargaining agreement following its receipt of cards from majority of Ees stating they no longer wished U representation; withdrawal was lawful notwithstanding E's ULPs since they were not sufficiently serious ...that they possessed an inherent tendency to ...(contribute) to the union's loss of majority status)

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104
(E's withdrawal of recongition from U when Ees went out on economic strike because E and U were unable to reach full agreement on terms of collective-bargaining agreement, violative and strike, subsequently was ULP strike, since E foreclosed possibility of entering into collective-bargaining agreement)

Indiana Cabinet Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 169
(no violation)

Railway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer 274 NLRB No. 198
(E's written memo to U representative stating that E would no longer be bound by terms of expired contract and would demand that Ees vote on designation of their representative before negotiations could be resumed held to constitute unlawful implied threat of withdrawal of recognition and refusal to negotiate contract with U)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(withdrawal of recognition from U based solely on ptn circulated by cousin of E's antiU president, violative where only three ptn signers could claim any connection with ten-man unit represented by U)

Abbott-Northwestern Hospital 274 NLRB No. 162
(withdrawing recognition as to, and unilaterally changing working conditions of, 9 represented psychiatric assistants after transfer to same facility of 63 historically unrepresented psychiatric assistants, not violative, since consolidation obliterated unit of 9 represented Ees and unit of only part of group of Ees in same classification was inappropriate; unrepresented Ees were not accreted to former unit of represented Ees, parties had agreed that U would not represent previously unrepresented Ees, and U had reserved its representative position only as to previously represented Ees and complaint alleged violations only as to them)

Weiser Optical Company 274 NLRB No. 143
(supervisor's telling Ee that it was getting close to this time referring to Bd's open period when decertification ptn can be filed, telling Ee that E's president was trying to get things started and informing Ees during a meeting that he thought Ees were mature enough to work out differences w/o a third party, held unlawful encouragement of decertification ptn and withdrawal of recognition based on ptn violative; E's unsolicited involvement with ptn was far more than ministerial aid since idea of ptn was implanted in Ees' mind by E, thus tainting ptn and E's good-faith doubt of U's majority status)

Choctawhatchee Electric Cooperative, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 084
(withdrawal of recognition on basis of decertification ptn, violative where ptn was tainted by E's ULPs)

The Cooper Union For The Advancement of Science and Art 273 NLRB No. 214
(professional educational institution's withdrawal of recognition from and refusal to bargain with U representing faculty members, unlawful, where members were found not managerial but Ees entitled to protection of Act)

Victor Wooten, d/b/a Diablo Paving JD-(SF)-90-86
[E's repudiation of contract during its term by notifying U of its termination held unlawful mid-term withdrawal of recognition from U]

Duct-O-Wire Company JD-(ATL)-3-86
[E's withdrawal of recognition, based on decertification ptn signed by majority of unit Ees, not violative where E rebutted presumption of majority status by demonstrating on date of withdrawal, and in context free of ULPs, U 1) in fact had lost its majority status and 2) that withdrawal was predicated on reasonable doubt, based on objective considerations, of U's majority status]

White-Rodgers, Division of Emerson Electric Company JD-(ATL)-4-86
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U, assertedly because it had been presented ptn signed by majority of Ees renouncing U which established its good faith doubt, violative, since ptn was tainted by E's ULPs where E impliedly promised two Ees improvements in wages and pensions and threatened to freeze wages and benefits if they didn't support ptn and those two Ees then signed ptn which gave E a bare majroity to rely on in withdrawing recognition]

Alpine Vending, Inc. JD-(SF)-99-85
(no unlawful withdrawal of recognition where E never formally expressed intention to cease recognizing U, and absent evidence U admitted it did not represent majority of Ees, E's failure to reply to U's requests for clarifications regarding its intentions concerning processing of grievance seems more in nature of continuing failure to bargain in good faith than evidence supporting full repudiation of bargaining claim)

Bertolucci's Fender and Body Shop, Inc. JD-(SF)-143-85
(E's withdrawal of proposal after it was accepted by the U not found to be unlawful withdrawal of recognition as alleged)

Frederick Davidowitz, D.D.S. Professional Corporation and Martin Goldberg, D.D.S. Professional Corporation, a Partnership d/b/a Union Health Services JD-(SF)-112-85
(withdrawal of recognition based on decertification ptn signed by substantial majority of unit Ees, lawful where there was no evidence of E's involvement with ptn, nor were Ees coerced in signing ptn by E's prior ULP's then pending before Bd, and Ees stated that they were not affected by pending charges but by U's failure to win contract from E)

Hotel & Restaurant Employees, Local 50 (Plaza Inn Associates d/b/a Plaza International Inn) JD-(SF)-87-85
(signatory to memorandum agreement gave proper notice of termination of agreement and agreement terminated at expiration date of agreement notwithstanding U and E association prematurely negotiated new contract prior to time that proper notice could be sent (60 days), since signatories could not be bound to mid-term modification as it is wording of memorandum agreement rather than contract incorporated by reference that controls termination dates)

N.L.R.B. v. The Cooper Union For The Advancement of Science and Art 783 F.2d 29 (C.A. 2, Jan. 1986)
[withdrawal of recognition from unit of full-time faculty members, violation, where advanced educational institution's faculty members forming unit were Ees, rather than managers of supervisors]

Truck Drivers Local Union No. 807, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. (Wells Fargo Armored Service Corp.) 755 F.2d 5 (C.A. 2, Feb. 1985)
(where local U representing only E's guards and other guards in armored car industry was merged into local U representing guards and nonguards, and E voluntarily recognized latter U, E's withdrawing recognition after contract had expired and U had rejected E's final offer, not violative; Sec. 9(b)(3) language and legislative history provide sufficient support for Bd's conclusion that Congress knowingly decreased stability of bargaining relationships involving such Us to protect guards from potential for division of loyalty between E and fellow U members)

Landmark International Trucks, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 775 F.2d 148 (C.A. 6, Oct. 1985)
[successor E's withdrawing recognition from U, not violation, notwithstanding Bd's finding that E's letter requesting Ees to advise E of resignation from U provided no reasonable basis for E's decision that U had lost majority status, where there was abundant evidence, known to E at time of decision, of U's loss of majority status, including uncontradicted testimony that Bd had not considered because Bd found it hearsay]

Whisper Soft Mills, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 754 F.2d 1381 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1984)
(E's withdrawal of recognition at end of certification year on grounds that substantial majority of unit was comprised of Ees who crossed picket line, not violative, since Ee turnover may be considered in determining E's good faith doubt where a demand for reinstatement by striking Ees at time E withdrew recognition would result in loss of employment for majority of striking Ees; and further, presumption that strike replacements support U in same ratio as strikers, rejected)

4080 TERMINATION OF OBLIGATION BY EMPLOYER BECAUSE OF REPRESENTATIVE'S LOSS OF MAJORITY STATUS

4080-0100 Generally

4080-0112 Loss of majority in recognized unit

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 152
(E's withdrawal of recognition based on U's loss of majority status, unlawful, where proximate cause of loss was E's ULPs including threats, loss of benefits, and direct dealings with Ees which caused at least one Ee to sign statement repudiating U and w/o this Ee's signature less than half of unit Ees would have signed ptn)

J. L. Davidson Company JD-(SF)-186-85
[E's refusal to execute contract, not violation where E was aware that Ees withdrew U's authority to represent them]

4080-0125 Belief in loss of majority must be based upon objective consideration

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division 281 NLRB No. 113
[E may not lawfully withdraw recognition from an incumbent U because of asserted doubt of U's majority status unless such doubt is based on objective considerations sufficient to afford E a reasonable ground for believing that its Ees no longer desire to be represented by the U; the asserted doubt, however, may not be raised in the context of any E activities aimed at causing Ee disaffection with the U]

Ashe Brick Company 280 NLRB No. 162
[E's doubt of U's majority status not based on objective considerations and did not justify withdrawal of recognition, where doubt based on fact it did not hear from U for over 3 months and that support for on going strike had dwindled, since U did contact mediators, and strikers who cross picket line are not presumed to have withdrawn support from U, and absent other evidence strikers no longer desired U to represent them]

Bay Breeze Industries, Inc., d/b/a Lloyd Flanders 280 NLRB No. 133
[U, which has been representing unit Ees at predecessor E's plant for over 40 years, is to be recognized as ongoing representative for unit Ees where successor E has advanced no good-faith doubt about U no longer representing unit Ees, and there is not enough difference between predecessor E and successor E to overcome presumption that —Ees' desires concerning unionization are unchanged (successor Ees performed essentially same work, in same plant, with same equipment as before)]

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital 280 NLRB No. 011
[testimony of only 4 Ees out of complement of approximately 100 Ees sufficient to carry burden that supervisor's conduct was unlawful. Nor does it satisfy E's burden of establishing that its asserted objective considerations arose in atmosphere free from coercion in support of its affirmative defense of good-faith doubt of U's majority support]

Bryan Memorial Hospital 279 NLRB No. 039
[withdrawal of recognition unlawful notwithstanding decert ptn filed and E furnished with 11 affidavits from unit members stating they no longer wanted U to represent them and that these 11 affiants knew that majority of unit members did not want U to represent them any longer but would not furnish their names as they requested anonymity, since E's receipt of Ees' unverified assertions that majority of Ees no longer support their U representative, is insufficient to create reasonable based doubt that claimed desire of those Ees is factual]

Hydro Conduit Corporation 278 NLRB No. 164
[E's refusal to bargain with U, assertedly because of good faith doubt of U's majority status, violative, since on basis of recently expired contract, U is presumed to represent majority of Ees which presumption was not rebutted where E's doubt was based on generalized belief that Ees would not want U, a decline in checkoff authorizations and fact that Ees decided to return to work the day after voting to strike, all factors not rebutting U's presumption of majority status]

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation 278 NLRB No. 118
[E's alleged doubt of U majority status not based on objective considerations, where only credited evidence of asserted Ee dissatisfaction was hearsay testimony that two Ees' in eleven-person unit stated that U had done nothing for them and that most Ees felt same way; complaining Ees later attended U meeting and paid dues, demonstrating that harbering negative feelings toward U is not inconsistent with desire for continued representation]

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation 278 NLRB No. 119
[withdrawal of recognition without good faith doubt of U majority status based on objective considerations, violation where E unilaterally ceased fund contributions before concluding U did not represent majority, told Ee it was not going to renew contract before all but two alleged Ee expressions of dissatisfaction with U, interrogated Ees as to what transpired at U meetings, solicited Ee to keep E informed as to future U meetings, threatened to discharge Ee for supporting the U and offered to reimburse Ee for U initiation fee]

Steven Muss, Cynthia Muss Lawrence and Debbie Muss Kenken, A Copartnership, d/b/a Alexander Muss & Sons 274 NLRB No. 193
(E's recognition and execution of contract with one U and its withdrawal of recognition from another U which was striking E over failure of contract negotiations, not violative, since no R ptn had been filed with Bd thus raising qcr, and E had objective considerations for doubting striking U's majority status where striking Ees had been on strike for over a year, all strikers had been permanently replaced and 13 of 17 current Ees had freely signed cards authorizing new U to represent them, giving no indication of support for striking U)

4080-0150 Belief must be held in good faith and not advanced to gain time to undermine union

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital 280 NLRB No. 011
[E's withdrawal of recognition of U, unlawful, since its assertion of doubt of U's majority not made in context free of ULPs of type aimed at causing disaffection from U where supervisor had unlawfully solicited resignations from U from striking Ees]

American Fluorescent Corp. 275 NLRB No. 154
(withdrawal of recognition of U as exclusive Ee bargaining agent, not violative where there is no evidence that E took any action to inhibit transfer of former bargaining unit members, and no evidence to refute evidence of proferred assistance by E. BASF-Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 068
(E's withdrawal of recognition during term of contract, on grounds that majority of Ees had signed ptn repudiating U and it had been presented with letter of disclaimer signed by members of local U's Executive Committee, violative, since majority status of U is irrebuttably presumed during term of contract and further, contract was signed and administered by both the local and International U and International had in no way disclaimed its bargaining rights and after learning of actions by its local, International informed E that local was in receivership and it would continue servicing the contract)

Duroyd Manufacturing, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 025
(E's refusal to bargain with U, unlawful, since recognition agreement had been validly executed by agent of E with apparent authority who concluded after authorization card check that U represented majority of Ees, and further, E's president subsequently retained labor counsel and attended two negotiating sessions before withdrawing recognition)

burden of proving ptn was understood by all Ees where there was unrebutted testimony that ptn was explained to all ees in their foreign language]

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1–17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[E unlawfully withdrew recognition from U where, in prior case, Bd ordered E to give retroactive effect to contract reached by E and U, thereby giving rise to presumption that E's majority status was in effect at time E withdrew recognition; E's defense that U had lost, or E had good faith doubt of, U's majority status, predicated solely on Ee ptn assertedly showing Ees' disaffectionwith U, rejected, where circumstances surrounding solicitation of ptn signatures and ptn's language indicated ptn was meant to precipitate Ee ratification vote on E's proposed contract]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[E's withdrawal of recognition on basis of ptn signed by 34 out of 63 Ees in unit, unlawful, where E has engaged in numerous unremedied ULPs which probably contributed to Ees' dissatisfaction with U]

Boaz Carpet Yarns, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 004
[E's withdrawal of recognition, not violation where Ees' ptn expressing disaffection with U provided objective evidence pursuant to which E had filed election ptn, which E had filed election ptn, which was blocked by U's filing of ULP charges, but E had verified Ees' dissafection with U by fairly conducted poll by secret ballot]

Central Washington Health Services Association d/b/a Central Washing Hospital 279 NLRB No. 011
[anti U ptns signed by Ees not basis for good faith doubt of U's continuing majority, where signatures not obtained in atmosphere free of ULPs and so did not justify E's withdrawal of recognition]

American Mirror Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 179
[withdrawal of recognition from U following poll of Ees conducted by town mayor after management officials left polling area, not unlawful, since poll which showed majority of Ees no longer supported U was lawful because E had reasonably grounded doubt about U's continued majority status]

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 152
(U's loss of majority status and signing of ptn by half of unit Ees repudiating U tainted by E's ULPs where E dealt directly with Ees, threatened Ees that, if U did not accept E's contract proposals, but at same time promising that if Ees went non-U E would increase wages, grant health and welfare benefits as good or better than U plan, and offer financial assistance to Ees who wished to purchase own trucks and work for E as owner-operators; some of Ees were present when statements were made, and there was short time between statement and signing of ptn, supporting inference that statements were proximate cause of at least one Ee signing ptn)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(withdrawal of recognition from U based solely on ptn circulated by cousin of E's antiU president, violative where only three ptn signers could claim any connection with ten-man unit represented by U)

American Threat Company 274 NLRB No. 164
(E's withdrawal of recognition upon receipt of cards from majority of unit Ees that they did not wish to be represented by U, not unlawful, absent ULPs)

Norsk Hydro Aluminum, Inc. JD-(ATL)-14-86
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U, not violative, where E received ptn signed by majority of Ees signifying they no longer wished representation by U, majority of Ees had voiced dissatisfaction with U to E, U president resigned from U in middle of negotiations and there was a lack of observable U activity w/i the plant]

The Cincinnati Enquirer, Inc. JD-171-85
(document received by E after expiration of contract signed by bare majority of Ees, not objective basis for doubt of U's majority, and did not rebut presumption of U's continuing majority after expiration of contract, where document was untitled, ambiguous paper with columns headed yes and no with signatures under yes, evidence did not establish Ees who signed no longer wished to represented by U)

4080-5018 Employee support or lack thereof of incumbent's strike

Ashe Brick Company 280 NLRB No. 162
[E's doubt of U's majority status not based on objective considerations and did not justify withdrawal of recognition, where doubt based on fact it did not hear from U for over 3 months and that support for on going strike had dwindled, since U did contact mediators, and strikers who cross picket line are not presumed to have withdrawn support from U, and absent other evidence strikers no longer desired U to represent them]

Hydro Conduit Corporation 278 NLRB No. 164
[E's refusal to bargain with U, assertedly because of good faith doubt of U's majority status, violative, since on basis of recently expired contract, U is presumed to represent majority of Ees which presumption was not rebutted where E's doubt was based on generalized belief that Ees would not want U, a decline in checkoff authorizations and fact that Ees decided to return to work the day after voting to strike, all factors not rebutting U's presumption of majority status]

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104
(while normally incumbent U enjoys presumption of majority support, in construction industry certain contracts are lawful even in absence of majority support; therefore, presumption of continued majority does not always apply)

4080-5024 Checkoff authorizations

4080-5024-6700 Decrease in authorizations

Hydro Conduit Corporation 278 NLRB No. 164
[E's refusal to bargain with U, assertedly because of good faith doubt of U's majority status, violative, since on basis of recently expired contract, U is presumed to represent majority of Ees which presumption was not rebutted where E's doubt was based on generalized belief that Ees would not want U, a decline in checkoff authorizations and fact that Ees decided to return to work the day after voting to strike, all factors not rebutting U's presumption of majority status]

ACL Corporation d/b/a Atlanta Hilton & Towers 278 NLRB No. 076
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U and refusal to bargain assertedly based on good faith doubt of U's majority status because checkoffs had decreased, Ees told E they didn't want the U and E had experienced high turnovers, violative, since absence of majority of Ees from checkoff does not establish lack of majority support, Ee statements were no more than general criticism and dissatisfaction and turnover was amongst only a small minority of overall unit which did not rebut presumption that new Ees support U in proportion to Ees with more seniority]

Healthcare International, Inc. and Healthcare Colorado Springs, Inc. d/b/a Cedar Springs Psychiatric Hospital JD-(SF)-134-85
(E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U as successor E, not violative, since at time U demanded recognition E had good faith doubt of U's majority status where many Ees in unit told E's supervisors at Ee meetings that they disapproved of the U, at time of U demand Ees having dues deducted had declined to only 6 out of 100 Ees and E's doubt was reinforced by fact that U was taking its own written poll to determine support among unit Ees)

4080-5030 Internal union activities as evidence of lack of support

4080-5030-5000 Nonmembership in Union

Best Cast, Inc. JD-(NY)-1-86
[Ee rejection of U membership or dues obligation rather than U representation not evidence of dissatisfaction with U]

4080-5030-5500 Resignations from union

Norsk Hydro Aluminum, Inc. JD-(ATL)-14-86
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U, not violative, where E received ptn signed by majority of Ees signifying they no longer wished representation by U, majority of Ees had voiced dissatisfaction with U to E, U president resigned from U in middle of negotiations and there was a lack of observable U activity w/i the plant]

Jackie Lee Enterprise, Inc. and Jackie Lee, Limited, Inc. JD-246-85
(no unlawful refusal to bargain by purchaser with U which represented Ees of seller E whom it was hiring, even assuming successor E, since E had objective basis for good faith doubt of U's majority prior to setting initial terms and conditions of employment, where all unit Ees informing E that they no longer desired U representation, but wanted to cut their own deal, notwithstanding Ees' retention of U membership to retain pension rights and other benefits, since their request for withdrawal cards after executing private employment agreement with E showed Ees had no desire to retain U as bargaining agent)

4080-5036 Inactivity by union

4080-5036-2500 Lack of communication with employer

Ashe Brick Company 280 NLRB No. 162
[E's doubt of U's majority status not based on objective considerations and did not justify withdrawal of recognition, where doubt based on fact it did not hear from U for over 3 months and that support for on going strike had dwindled, since U did contact mediators, and strikers who cross picket line are not presumed to have withdrawn support from U, and absent other evidence strikers no longer desired U to represent them]

Royal Vending Services, Ltd. 275 NLRB No. 173
(successor's contention that U had lost majority status based on information from predecessor that U had not been active in enforcing old contract or negotiating new one rejected in view of predecessor's transmission of dues to U for six out of eight unit Ees)

4080-5036-7500 Failure to file grievances

Cowles Publishing Company 280 NLRB No. 105
[E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to execute contract and furnish information to U on unit Ees, on grounds U had abandoned unit thus giving E good faith doubt, violative, since U had not abandoned unit where, although U had experienced some turnover in its representatives, this had happened only once, U did continue to process grievances and had U steward present at E's plant and fact that U's negotiator told E once during negotiations that contract w/o U security was not worth the paper it was written on, and U failed to secure this demand, was not evidence of abandonment]

4080-5039 Conduct of union during negotiations

Cowles Publishing Company 280 NLRB No. 105
[E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to execute contract and furnish information to U on unit Ees, on grounds U had abandoned unit thus giving E good faith doubt, violative, since U had not abandoned unit where, although U had experienced some turnover in its representatives, this had happened only once, U did continue to process grievances and had U steward present at E's plant and fact that U's negotiator told E once during negotiations that contract w/o U security was not worth the paper it was written on, and U failed to secure this demand, was not evidence of abandonment]

4080-5042 Union animus

4080-5042-3300 Employer's ULP as affecting asserted reasonable grounds

Johns-Manville Sales Corporation 282 NLRB No. 040
[E possessed good-faith doubt of U majority based on ptn signed by majority of Ees requesting decert election when it withdrew recognition from certified U, notwithstanding E committed ULP when it laid off Ees w/o following seniority where ULP committed 8 months before withdrawal, involved only 3 Ees, E advanced legitimate business reason for not following seniority and E continued to bargain with U until withdrawal

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division 281 NLRB No. 113
[E was precluded from relying on Ee-ptns repudiating U and E's withdrawal of recognition violative, where E engaged in numerous violations of 8(a)(1) prior to and simultaneous with circulation of ptns by soliciting Ee repudiation of U, interrogating Ees about U sympathies, promising Ees better benefits w/o U and urging Ees to persuade coworkers to withdraw support from U; E may not rely on defense that some Ees were unaware of E's unlawful conduct where E's activity was aimed specifically at causing Ee disaffection from U since such conduct bars any reliance on disaffection]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[E's withdrawal of recognition on basis of ptn signed by 34 out of 63 Ees in unit, unlawful, where E has engaged in numerous unremedied ULPs which probably contributed to Ees' dissatisfaction with U]

Taylor Hospital 279 NLRB No. 006
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U based on ptn signed by majority of unit Ees, violative, where E's withdrawal of recognition was at a time when there remained an unremedied unlawful discharge of a long-time leading U supporter and member of U's bargaining team at the outset of long-delayed negotiations; because of the serious ULP of discharge, E is precluded from effectively relying on its asserted doubt of U's majority status]

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 152
(U's loss of majority status and signing of ptn by half of unit Ees repudiating U tainted by E's ULPs where E dealt directly with Ees, threatened Ees that, if U did not accept E's contract proposals, but at same time promising that if Ees went non-U E would increase wages, grant health and welfare benefits as good or better than U plan, and offer financial assistance to Ees who wished to purchase own trucks and work for E as owner-operators; some of Ees were present when statements were made, and there was short time between statement and signing of ptn, supporting inference that statements were proximate cause of at least one Ee signing ptn)

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(E's withdrawal of recognition of U at expiration of contract, unlawful, notwithstanding its contention that U had lost majority status, and any ULPs designed to undermine U were committed after ptn, as decertification ptn on which E relied as basis for loss of majority did not constitute valid basis for good faith doubt of majority status, since only 1 out of 3 Ees in unit had signed ptn and ULPs committed after ptn were such that it may have been reason Ee refused to support U)

White-Rodgers, Division of Emerson Electric Company JD-(ATL)-4-86
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U, assertedly because it had been presented ptn signed by majority of Ees renouncing U which established its good faith doubt, violative, since ptn was tainted by E's ULPs where E impliedly promised two Ees improvements in wages and pensions and threatened to freeze wages and benefits if they didn't support ptn and those two Ees then signed ptn which gave E a bare majroity to rely on in withdrawing recognition]

4080-5066 Change in unit composition

4080-5066-2500 Economic turnover

Allis Chalmers Corporation 278 NLRB No. 082
[Ee turnover does not support finding U has lost its majority because it is assumed absent contrary evidence, that new Ees will be U supporters in same ratio as those they replace]

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143
(withdrawal of recognition after contract expired, violation, since presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by E's contention that its change to distributor dealerships converted Ees to independent contractors in view of E's retention of right of control and fact that nine out of twelve Ees were new hires which did not establish loss of majority support, as turnover alone cannot do so)

Cascade Painting Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 103
(in adopting ALJ's finding that Es, as purported non-U Es in single-E units following withdrawal from multi-E bargaining after expiration of contract, did not rebut presumption of U's continuing majority status, Bd found it unnecessary to rely on principle enunciated in Golden State Habilitation Convalescent Center, 224 NLRB 1618, that new Ees support U in same ratio as those whom they have replaced)

4080-5066-3700 Change in Operations

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143
(withdrawal of recognition after contract expired, violation, since presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by E's contention that its change to distributor dealerships converted Ees to independent contractors in view of E's retention of right of control and fact that nine out of twelve Ees were new hires which did not establish loss of majority support, as turnover alone cannot do so)

American Fluorescent Corp. 275 NLRB No. 154
(withdrawal of recognition of U as exclusive Ee bargaining agent, not violative where there is no evidence that E took any action to inhibit transfer of former bargaining unit members, and no evidence to refute evidence of proferred assistance by E. E terminated its operations in one city and resumed operations in another 35 miles north of first city in another county where U did not represent majority of E's work force)

4080-5066-5000 Substantial reduction in work force

Molded Acoustical Products, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 163
[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U w/i certification year after E relocated its operations, violative notwithstanding reduction in work force from 130 to 118, turnover in Ees, and E's reliance on statements from some Ees that they would not support strike and wanted to resign their U membership]

Bay Breeze Industries, Inc., d/b/a Lloyd Flanders 280 NLRB No. 133
[in finding successor, Bd did not consider material factor the fact that successor employed only half the number of supervisors that predecessor employed or that only one of the employed supervisors came from predecessor, or that job classifications substantially reduced, in light of same products produced in same plant with same equipment even though on much reduced scale]

4080-5072 Replacement of economic strikers

Service Electric Company 281 NLRB No. 107
[E did not violate Act by refusing, after U gave notice that strike over, U's demand that employment terms for replacements be restored to levels prevailing prior to commencement of strike, where economic strikers failed to offer to return to work, coupled with absence of any evidence that Ees had abaondoned future employment with E]

Service Electric Company 281 NLRB No. 107
[E under no obligation to bargain over employment terms of strike replacements, whether terms better or worse than preexisting terms before strike, whether strike has ended, or not, where no resolution of underlying dispute because no agreement on contract, and there are unreinstated strikers who have not abandoned future employment with E but whose jobs continued to be filled by replacements]

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104
(computatioon to determine majority status of U must include both strikers and strike replacements at time of withdrawal of recognition)

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104
(proof that economic strikers permanently severed their employment relationship or abandoned their strikers' status must be unequivocal in relation to time of withdrawal or recognition)

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104
(presumption rebutted where there is conflict of interest between strikers and their replacements (lawfully discharged strikers and their replacements))

Whisper Soft Mills, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 754 F.2d 1381 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1984)
(E's withdrawal of recogntion at end of certification year on grounds that substantial majority of unit was comprised of Ees who crossed picket line, not violative, since Ee turnover may be considered in determining E's good faith doubt where a demand for reinstatement by striking Ees at time E withdrew recognition would result in loss of employment for majority of striking Ees; and further, presumption that strike replacements support U in same ratio as strikers, rejected)

4080-5084 Decertification movement

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010

[filing of decertification ptn, standing alone, does not permit E to make unilateral changes]

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division 281 NLRB No. 113

[E was precluded from relying on Ee-ptns repudiating U and E's withdrawal of recognition violative, where E engaged in numerous violations of 8(a)(1) prior to and simultaneous with circulation of ptns by soliciting Ee repudiation of U, interrogating Ees about U sympathies, promising Ees better benefits w/o U and urging Ees to persuade coworkers to withdraw support from U; E may not rely on defense that some Ees were unaware of E's unlawful conduct where E's activity was aimed specifically at causing Ee disaffection from U since such conduct bars any reliance on disaffection]

Architectural Woodwork Corporation 280 NLRB No. 108

[unilateral change in overtime payment policy, violation, notwithstanding expiration of contract, where presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by good faith doubt based on decertification ptn that was unlawfully induced by E]

Hennessy Products, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 190

(in agreeing with ALJ that no violation existed under Telautograph Corp., Bd noted that, while overruling Telautograph in Dresser Industries, it decided to apply Dresser prospectively and would not find unlawful actions taken while Telautograph was law; accordingly, E's refusal, because of decertification ptn filed during strike, to furnish U Ees' names, addresses, work classifications and wage rates and information concerning status of laid off strikers was not unlawful, specifically because of unusual factual matrix herein and lack of any pending grievance or existence of current or recently expired contract)

Spring Valley Farms, Inc. JD-(ATL)-54-86

[filing of decertification ptn w/i certification year did not serve to remove E's legal obligation to sign agreement reached, where agreement reached w/i certification year]

4080-5084-5000 Decertification petition majority support

Johns-Manville Sales Corporation 282 NLRB No. 040

[E possessed good-faith doubt of U majority based on ptn signed by majority of Ees requesting decert election when it withdrew recognition from certified U, notwithstanding E committed ULP when it laid off Ees w/o following seniority where ULP committed 8 months before withdrawal, involved only 3 Ees, E advanced legitimate business reason for not following seniority and E continued to bargain with U until withdrawal

Beverly Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Parkview Gardens Care Center 280 NLRB No. 005

[U decertification ptn tainted and E's withdrawal of recognition and unilateral changes in conditions of employment in reliance thereon, unlawful, where e had made statements informing Ees that in order to keep working during anticipated strike they would have to resign from U, and in view of small majority of Ees who signed decertification ptn]

Bryan Memorial Hospital 279 NLRB No. 039

[withdrawal of recognition unlawful notwithstanding decert ptn filed and E furnished with 11 affidavits from unit members stating they no longer wanted U to represent them and that these 11 affiants knew that majority of unit members did not want U to represent them any longer but would not furnish their names as they requested anonymity, since E's receipt of Ees' unverified assertions that majority of Ees no longer support their U representative, is insufficient to create reasonable based doubt that claimed desire of those Ees is factual]

Central Washington Health Services Association d/b/a Central Washing Hospital 279 NLRB No. 011

[anti U ptns signed by Ees not basis for good faith doubt of U's continuing majority, where signatures not obtained in atmosphere free of ULPs and so did not justify E's withdrawal of recognition]

National Council of Young Israel d/b/a Shalom Nursing Home 276 NLRB No. 118

(under Telautograph, 199 NLRB 892, the law at time Judge's decision issued (since overruled by Dresser Industries, 264 NLRB 1088 but Bd refrained from giving its new rule retroactive effect) E did not unlawfully refuse to bargain or unlawfully withdraw recognition when it ceased negotiating with U after decertification ptn filed)

Indiana Cabinet Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 169

(E's refusal to bargain over contract renewal based on good faith doubt of U's majority support, not violative where anti-U ptn which was source of E's good-faith doubt was unblemished by any ULP and contained signatures of majority of Ees)

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191

(E's withdrawal of recognition of U at expiration of contract, unlawful, notwithstanding its contention that U had lost majority status, and any ULPs designed to undermine U were committed after ptn, as decertification ptn on which E relied as basis for loss of majority did not constitute valid basis for good faith doubt of majority status, since only 1 out of 3 Ees in unit had signed ptn and ULPs committed after ptn were such that it may have been reason Ee refused to support U)

Harley-Davidson Transportation Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 192

]successor lawfully withdrew from bargaining after 3 sessions and of voluntarily recognizing U that had been certified over year during predecessor's time on basis of good faith doubt evidenced by ptn signed by majority of Ees stating they no longer wanted U to be its representative. Change of ownership not treated as equivalent of certification or voluntary recognition of U following organizational drive since relationship between U and Ees not disturbed so all U has is presumption of majority status that may be rebutted at anytime w/o waiting reasonable period. Signatures on ptn need not be authenticated)

Duct-O-Wire Company JD-(ATL)-3-86

[E's withdrawal of recognition, based on decertification ptn signed by majority of unit Ees, not violative where E rebutted presumption of majority status by demonstrating on date of withdrawal, and in context free of ULPs, U 1) in fact had lost its majority status and 2) that withdrawal was predicated on reasonable doubt, based on objective considerations, of U's majority status]

White-Rodgers, Division of Emerson Electric Company JD-(ATL)-4-86

[E's withdrawal of recognition from U, assertedly because it had been presented ptn signed by majority of Ees renouncing U which established its good faith doubt, violative, since ptn was tainted by E's ULPs where E impliedly promised two Ees improvements in wages and pensions and threatened to freeze wages and benefits if they didn't support ptn and those two Ees then signed ptn which gave E a bare majroity to rely on in withdrawing recognition]

Benjamin Pontiac Inc. JD-(NY)-82-85

(U's contention that E's refusal to bargain based on filing of decertification ptn signed by majority of unit Ees not valid basis for E's good faith doubt of U's majority, because signatures on ptn were obtained with promises of improved pension benefits by one of E's car salesmen allegedly cloaked by E with authority to act in E's interest, rejected, where salesman's only duty beyond that of other salesmen was purely clerical and ministerial function of filling out salesmen's commission statements)

Frederick Davidowitz, D.D.S. Professional Corporation and Martin Goldberg, D.D.S. Professional Corporation, a Partnership d/b/a Union Health Services JD-(SF)-112-85

(withdrawal of recognition based on decertification ptn signed by substantial majority of unit Ees, lawful where there was no evidence of E's involvement with ptn, nor were Ees coerced in signing ptn by E's prior ULP's then pending before Bd, and Ees stated that they were not affected by pending charges but by U's failure to win contract from E)

Western Medical Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a ARA Living Center, Verdugo Vista Convalescent Hospital JD-(SF)-54-85

(E's withdrawal of recognition based on ptn signed by majority of Ees indicating they no longer supported incumbent U, not violative, notwithstanding one of E's supervisors had written withdrawal language on 1 of 3 pages of ptn, where this was the only evidence of E's involvement with ptn, ptn was initiated by Ees alone and E held meeting with department heads and told them to remain neutral in regard to ptn, not get involved with it, give advice or answer questions)

N.L.R.B. v. Auto Fast Freight, Inc. 793 F.2d 1126 (C.A. 9, July 1986)

[decertification ptn no defense to E's unilateral changes where it was filed after unlawful cessation of health and welfare fund payments, institution of new medical plan, reduction in wages, and constructive discharges of Ees for refusing to resign from U]

4080-5087 Incumbent union's organizational efforts

Tooling and Equipment International Corporation, Successor to Automotive Pattern Company JD-334-85

(E's refusal to bargain with U as successor E, not violative, since U did not enjoy majority support at time it demanded recognition, notwithstanding E had no knowledge of this fact, where most of the U member Ees attempted to withdraw from U prior to time U demanded recognition, Ees refused, upon request from U, to organize E and there was no evidence that E caused the Ee disaffection)

4080-5080 Loss of election

Angelica Corporation 276 NLRB No. 038
(unilaterally promulgating and implementing improvements in wages and working conditions, violative where done prior to issuance of certification of results of decertification election that U lost)

4080-5093 Filing of petition for election by employer

Central Washington Health Services Association d/b/a Central Washing Hospital 279 NLRB No. 011
[filing of RM ptn supported by ptns signed by Ees not basis for good faith doubt of U's continuing majority, and did not justify withdrawal of recognition by E, since filing of RM ptn to question majority of previously certified U must itself be supported by objective considerations indicating loss of majority, and herein E's unlawful involvement in ptns, unlawful interrogations and promise of benefits tainted ptns in such a way E cannot rely on them]

Hydro Conduit Corporation 278 NLRB No. 164
[Bd has consistently refused to allow litigation of RD's administrative determination as to objective considerations in support of RM ptn on grounds that this protects confidentiality of data submitted in support of ptn and permits expeditious resolution of issues concerning Ee choice of representative; however, an administrative determination that objective considerations support RM ptn is not determinative of E's obligation to engage in further bargaining]

Hydro Conduit Corporation 278 NLRB No. 164
[RD's decision in RM case, finding that qcr exists and election should be held, cannot control whether E also had objective considerations for refusing to bargain with U in subsequent ULP case, notwithstanding U did not appeal RD's decision, since to hold otherwise would result in a denial of due process; while administrative determination of objective considerations is proper in R case since no violation of law is at issue, it is not proper in ULP case since parties must be afforded opportunity to fully litigate all relevant issues]

4090 TERMINATION OF OBLIGATION BY EMPLOYER BY CHANGED CIRCUMSTANCES

4090-3000 Affiliation change

Canterbury Villa of Waterford, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 072
[on withdrawal of case from CA, E's refusal to bargain, unlawful, notwithstanding nonmembers' inability to vote on U's change in affiliation, since affiliation is internal U matter with which Bd is precluded from interfering; moreover, there was substantial continuity between pre-and-post disaffiliation U, and due process was safeguarded by U members' voting on, and district ct's approval of settlement agreement providing for, change in affiliation]

Eastern Connecticut Health Services, Inc. d/b/a New London Convalescent Home 281 NLRB No. 120
[E's refusal to bargain with certified local, whose parent organization had disaffiliated with another U and then affiliated directly with AFL-CIO, violative, where there was substantial continuity in operations of certified local, as prescribed in Seattle-First National Bank 106 S.Ct 1007, (1986), notwithstanding E's contention that disaffiliation caused disruption of existing intra-U relationship and financial instability in parent organization]

N.L.R.B. v. Insulfab Plastics, Inc., New England Division 789 F.2d 961 (C.A. 1, Apr. 1986)
[E unlawfully refused to bargain with independent U after it affiliated with international where conditions requiring E to continue bargaining with U were met, since (1) unit Ees had fair opportunity, with adequate due process safeguards, to approve of organizational change, and (2) there was substantial continuity between pre-and post-affiliation U; consequently, results of election, which favored affiliation, were valid]

N.L.R.B. v. Insulfab Plastics, Inc., New England Division 789 F.2d 961 (C.A. 1, Apr. 1986)
[E unlawfully refused to bargain with independent U after it affiliated with international, since affiliation did not significantly change U's identity where bargaining unit and officers, as well as those responsible for negotiating and processing grievances, remained the same; retention of such key personnel was important since continuity is then likely to be preserved; and U stated that it will honor any existing contractual commitments to E and that its activities will continue to be governed for most part by its own constitution and by-laws]

N.L.R.B. v. Insulfab Plastics, Inc., New England Division 789 F.2d 961 (C.A. 1, Apr. 1986)
[E unlawfully refused to bargain with independent U after it affiliated with international, where Bd's finding of substantial continuity was adequately sustained, notwithstanding E's contention that continuity was based on ALJ's mistaken assumption that U had already affiliated when in fact it had not, pending resolution of instant case; even if such misapprehension existed, ALJ considered effects of affiliation on U and articulated grounds to sustain Bd's finding of continuity]

N.L.R.B. v. Insulfab Plastics, Inc., New England Division 789 F.2d 961 (C.A. 1, Apr. 1986)
[E unlawfully refused to bargain with independent U after it a/w international, notwithstanding E's contention that changes due to affiliation were so great as to create new bargaining entity, with international's constitution significantly affecting autonomy of U as independent; while constitution placed certain obligations on U, its autonomy was not significantly curtailed, since U retained control over negotiating and administering contracts, processing grievances, and calling str'es; and money in U's treasury was to be spent for U's own purposes and at its sole discretion]

N.L.R.B. v. Insulfab Plastics, Inc., New England Division 789 F.2d 961 (C.A. 1, Apr. 1986)
[E unlawfully refused to bargain with independent U after it a/w international, notwithstanding E's contention that affiliation of small independent U with much larger U creates substantially different bargaining entity; ct distg cases relied on by E on ground such cases either involved international constitution substantially limiting U's autonomy, irregularities in affiliation procedure, loss of control over U's affairs, use of affiliation as a stratagem, or Bd determination that Ees had choice between different and distinct bargaining representatives or none]

N.L.R.B. v. Insulfab Plastics, Inc., New England Division 789 F.2d 961 (C.A. 1, Apr. 1986)
[in finding that E unlawfully refused to bargain with independent U after it a/w international, ct held that determination of whether continuity exists is fact-specific determination to be made by Bd in first instance after considering particular effect of orgnizational change; and S.Ct has explicitly rejected argument that affiliation by itself necessarily changes U's identity and results in Ees being represented by different organization; rather, S.Ct asserted that unless qcr is raised affiliation vote is purely internal U affair]

N.L.R.B. v. Insulfab Plastics, Inc., New England Division 789 F.2d 961 (C.A. 1, Apr. 1986)
[in finding that E unlawfully refused to bargain with independent U after it a/w international, ct held Bd's judgment that small independent U's affiliation with large international did not raise qcr, particularly where membership freely chose to continue its support of its bargaining agent, is consistent with both policy against unnecessary outside interference with U decision-making and policy in favor of maintaining stability in bargaining representative]

4090-4000 Change in collective bargaining representative

IMS Manufacturing Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 079
[successor E's refusal to bargain with U on grounds that bargaining demand was made by International U when local U was certified as bargaining representative in prior decertification election held at predecessor E, violative, since there was no indication E was misled, E did not seek clarification of demand from U or Bd and U in any event amended charge to allege E refused to bargain with both the International and local U]

Samaritan Health Center, Dusconess Hospital Unit, A Division of The Sisters of Mercy Health Corporation, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 139
(E's refusal to recognize and bargain with local U during term of contract, not violative, since, before contract had expired, local U unequivocally disclaimed any interest in representing unit Ees where it informed E that, consistent with Ee wishes, International U had approved administrative transfer of bargaining unit to another local U and that local U would be servicing unit Ees and U did not thereafter engage in any action inconsistent with disclaimer for 2 months, thus E was not obligated to recognize or reinstitute its bargaining relationship)

4090-5000 Change in unit

Herbert Halperin distributing Corporation 281 NLRB No. 001
[mtn for summary judgment granted, notwithstanding E's contention that it is entitled to a hearing to determine if U still retains majority support due to lapse of time and alleged high turnover rate among unit Ees, since U's continued majority status is presumed to exist for one-year certification period, and neither Ee turnover lapse of time justifies E's refusal to bargain]

Computer Sciences Corporation 280 NLRB No. 001
[E held successor E and obligated to bargain with U which had represented unit of its commercial, as opposed to scientific programmers (nonunit), under previous E, since performed same work at same location and majority of its commercial programmers had been Ees of former E, notwithstanding contention no obligation to bargain where after takeover commercial programmers in paper reorganization were sprinkled throughout organization, and cross training program set up with scientific programmers, inasmuch as neither work nor working conditions changed after takeover]

ACL Corporation d/b/a Atlanta Hilton & Towers 278 NLRB No. 076
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U and refusal to bargain, on grounds unit was inappropriate because it contained Ees employed as guards, violative, where Ees in dispute were in no way entrusted with the protection of E's premises or safety of persons; further, if E believes certain individuals should be excluded from unit because of guard status, proper procedure is unit clarification, not withdrawal of recognition. See Bd's R/R's 102.60(b) and 102.61(d)]

N.L.R.B. v. Paper Manufacturers Company, et al. 786 F.2d 163 (C.A. 3, Mar. 1986)
[move of medical packaging division to same facility where regular packaging products manufactured w/i certification year not such changed circumstances that would justify E's refusal to bargain with U certified as representative of medical packaging Ees prior to move, where only upper echelons of management consolidated, almost all job descriptions remained intact, working conditions, skills, and functions, with exception of two maintenance Ees, separate and distinct, no interchange of Ees; contention relocated Ees accretion to Ees in other division at same facility and represented by another U, rejected]

4090-6000 Merger of unions

American National Insurance Company 281 NLRB No. 105
[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with newly merged U violative, notwithstanding U's disenfranchisement of 2400 nonmember Ees in 3000 Ee unit in affiliation election, since S.Ct in N.L.R.B. v. Financial Institution Employees, 106 S.Ct 1007 (1985) held that Act does not require that nonmembers be permitted to vote in U affiliation elections, there was continuity of identity between original U and postmerger bargaining representative and original U provided U members fair and meaningful opportunity to become informed about proposed merger and to cast informed vote]

Hydrotherm, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 167
[refusing to bargain with local U that was certified under unamended premerger title, violation, notwithstanding that U merged with another local prior to election that resulted in change of name to one different from that of certified U, where U retained same character and relationship to Ees, had same international constitution, bylaws, officers, stewards, grievance procedure, methods of servincing contracts, assessing dues, making fund payments, place of business, and way of conducting affairs]

The Cincinnati Enquirer, Inc. JD-171-85
(merger of local Us valid and U resulting from merger held successor since adequate notice given of meetings at which merger votes were to take place, voting was by secret ballot in each local, and there was sufficient continuity of representation for premerger Ees since merger did not result in complete loss of identity of pre-merger groups inasmuch as each local U continued to negotiate separate bargaining agreements and each local's officers would continue to serve on joint governing board)

Truck Drivers Local Union No. 807, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. (Wells Fargo Armored Service Corp.) 755 F.2d 5 (C.A. 2, Feb. 1985)
(where local U representing only E's guards and other guards in armored car industry was merged into local U representing guards and nonguards, and E voluntarily recognized latter U, E's withdrawing recognition after contract had expired and U had rejected E's final offer, not violative; Sec. 9(b)(3) language and legislative history provide sufficient support for Bd's conclusion that Congress knowingly decreased stability of bargaining relationships involving such Us to protect guards from potential for division of loyalty between E and fellow U members)

United Retail Workers Union Local 881, chartered by Food & Commercial Workers v. N.L.R.B. (May Department Stores Co. et al.) 797 F.2d 421 (C.A. 7, July 1986)
[applying principles laid down by the S.Ct in Financial Institution, ct held that Bd cannot require U to allow non-U Ees to vote in merger elections and remanded case to Bd to consider any remaining issues involved in the merger]

4090-7500 Relocation of plant or certain operations

Central Soya Company, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 173
[E's consolidation/relocation of facilities to a different part of town, withdrawal of recognition from U at new location once Ees at old locations had been transferred to new location and refusal to bargain with U over effects of decision to consolidate/relocate, violative, where there was no substantial change in operations following the consolidation/relocation and once Ees were transferred to new location with other unrepresented Ees, those transferred constituted a majority of Ees who still desired U representation]

Molded Acoustical Products, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 163
[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U during certification year relocated operations on ground unit was limited to old operations, violative where new plant was continuation of same operation]

Drummond Coal Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 177
[E's transfer of repair work caused primarily by fundamental change in nature and direction of E's operations and not costs from city to onsite location at mine and closing city repair shop w/o notice to or bargaining with U over decision and its effects, not violative]

Safelite, Division of Lear Siegler, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 080
(new plant opened by E assertedly for operational efficiency which replaced old plant and was located only a few miles therefrom, held to be accretion of old plant and E's withdrawal of recognition from U at old plant and failure to bargain over effects of opening new plant violative, where Ees at new plant performed work identical to old plant, supervisors at both plants reported to the same management and two plants were only 20 minutes away from each other; further, E's asserted good faith doubt of U's majority status at new plant was groundless since E hired majority of Ees from old plant to staff new plant)

Hydro-Air Equipment, Inc. d/b/a Lanco 277 NLRB No. 012
(E's recognition of and signing contract with U as representative of Ees at new location, unlawful, since it was under continuing obligation to recognize and bargain with another U which had represented Ees at previous location, inasmuch as relocation took place during certification year, at time of recognition of other U majority of unit consisted of Ees who had transferred from old location, and only significant change in operations was geographic)

Suburban Transit Corp. and Suburban Trails, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 005
(no violation when E relocated unit work (single E) and thereby brought unit Ees under different bargaining agreement which was less favorable to these Ees, since contract covering original workstation did not contain any provisions preventing E from making such relocation w/o first obtaining consent of U and E bargained in good faith over decision to relocate)

American Fluorescent Corp. 275 NLRB No. 154
(withdrawal of recognition of U as exclusive Ee bargaining agent, not violative where there is no evidence that E took any action to inhibit transfer of former bargaining unit members, and no evidence to refute evidence of proferred assistance by E. E terminated its operations in one city and resumed operations in another 35 miles north of first city in another county where U did not represent majority of E's work force)

Paper Manufacturers Company 274 NLRB No. 070
(E's refusal to bargain with U upon its transfer of Ees to new location during certification year, on grounds that transfer involved acquisition of new equipment and an increase in Ee complement, thus constituting unusual circumstances warranting its refusal to bargain, violative, where there was no hiatus when Ees were transferred, Ees received same wages, benefits and performed same jobs before and after transfer and transferred Ees remained an identifiable entity separate from Ees at new location; further, fact that transferred unit increased in size was inconsequential since addition of new Ees occurred gradually over a period of 11 months)

Patrick Cadillac Company; Hanley Dawson BMW, d/b/a Patrick BMW SAAB; et al. JD-156-86
[E's refusal to bargain with U and apply extant contract to relocated bodyshop operations, not violative, since new bodyshop did not have substantially same equipment or utilize substantially same operations where new bodyshop was five times the size of old bodyshop and performed work old bodyshop was incapable of handling and new operation employed many more Ees]

Patrick Cadillac Company; Hanley Dawson BMW, d/b/a Patrick BMW SAAB; et al. JD-156-86
[existing agreement remains in effect following relocation providing operations and equipment remain substantially same at new location and substantial percentage (approximately 40% or more) of Ees at old plant have transferred to new location by time relocation substantially completed]

N.L.R.B. v. Paper Manufacturers Company, et al. 786 F.2d 163 (C.A. 3, Mar. 1986)
[move of medical packaging division to same facility where regular packaging products manufactured w/i certification year not such changed circumstances that would justify E's refusal to bargain with U certified as representative of medical packaging Ees prior to move, where only upper echelons of management consolidated, almost all job descriptions remained intact, working conditions, skills, and functions, with exception of two maintenance Ees, separate and distinct, no interchange of Ees; contention relocated Ees accretion to Ees in other division at same facility and represented by another U, rejected]

4800 EFFECT UPON OBLIGATION OF CHANGE IN IDENTITY OF EMPLOYER

4825 OBLIGATION TO RECOGNIZE AND BARGAIN

Sewell-Allen Big Star, Inc., No. 3 d/b/a Sewell-Allen Big Star No. 52 280 NLRB No. 137
[alleged refusal by E to hire majority of seller's Ees in order to avoid successorship status, and E's resulting refusal to recognize and bargain with U, not unlawful, where E did not hire Ees either because of reasons related to their work, including negative recommendations it received from others, or because Ees did not apply for and seek work with E]

4825-3300 Alter ego of employer

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073
[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U which represented Ees of which it was held alter ego, unlawful, notwithstanding E of which it was held alter ego had timely and effectively withdrawn from multi-E bargaining unit]

Gilroy Sheet Metal, Inc. and Billie Hanoum, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Gilroy Heating & Air Conditioning 280 NLRB No. 121
[new e held not to be disguised continuance and alter ego of old E, notwithstanding there was shift in ownership among close family members (husband and wife), where new E was owned exclusively by husband, his wife having then been separated from him at time new business was formed, evidence did not show any U hostility as motive for forming new business but rather decision was based on matters relating to personal health, financial and marital difficulties and new business did not take over any work of old business]

Elevator Sales and Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 094
[refusal of E and its alter ego to recognize U and honor contracts, violation, where E failed to effectively withdraw from multi-E bargaining association]

McAllister Brothers Inc. and Outreach Marine Corporation, Alter Egos 278 NLRB No. 091
[two Es held single E and alter egos and withdrawal of recognition from U violative, since E which ostensibly bought business was nothing but disguised continuance of old business where evidence showed old E transferred operations to new E to evade bargaining obligations, new E existed almost exclusively to service old E's customers, new E was essentially precluded from performing its own business nor could it set its own rates and old E required all customers to deal with it rather than new E]

Mar-Kay Cartage, Inc. and Contemporary Delivery Systems, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 152
(company's refusal to bargain with U which had bargaining agreement with company to which it was held alter ego, unlawful)

Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc., Leslie Volkswagen, Inc., and Dupage Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 148
(E's refusal to bargain with U, violative where E was bound by bargaining agreement entered into between U and E's alter ego and E was part of single E with its alter ego and third E)

Contee Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(violation where two companies found successor to, single E with, and alter egos of E which had contract with U herein refused to recognize and bargain with U)

Edward Cooper Painting, and Cooper and Cooper Painting, An Alter Ego 273 NLRB No. 224
(partnership being continuation of corporate painting contractor (alter ego), for labor relations purposes, legally obligated to same extent as the Corporation, including proscriptions of Sec. 8(a)(1), (3) and (5) of Act)

David A. Morrow & Associates, Inc. and Ryan Electric, Inc., Alter Ego and/or Single Employer JD-380-85
[where existing unionized company and newly formed non-U company constituted single integrated E, and non-U company was alter ego and disguised continuance of old company, ALJ held that old company's duty to bargain with U and its duty to honor existing U contract were binding on new company; and both companies violated 8(a)(5) by failing and refusing to recognize and bargain with U, by rejecting U contract, by changing contractual pay rates and fringe benefits, and by ending fringe benefit contributions]

Thomas Sheet Metal Co., Inc.; et al. JD-(ATL)-86-84
(where bankrupt E originally petitioned for recognization but later, as debtor-in-possession, opted to liquidate entirely thereby evading its obligation to recognize and bargain with U, alter ego of bankrupt E held obligated to recognize and bargain with U, where corporate principals of bankrupt E, all members of same family, chose not to consider effects of reorganization and liquidation, liquidated original corporation, and then established another in its place constituting its alter ego)

4825-5000 Joint or single employer

Gilroy Sheet Metal, Inc. and Billie Hanoum, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Gilroy Heating & Air Conditioning 280 NLRB No. 121
[new business held not to be single E with old business where new business commenced operations only after old business ceased operations; Bd normally applies the term single employer to situations in which ongoing, nominally distinct businesses, are alleged to be one and the same in terms of common control over labor relations, integration of operations, common management, and common ownership]

McAllister Brothers Inc. and Outreach Marine Corporation, Alter Egos 278 NLRB No. 091
[two Es held single E and alter egos and withdrawal of recognition from U violative, since E which ostensibly bought business was nothing but disguised continuance of old business where evidence showed old E transferred operations to new E to evade bargaining obligations, new E existed almost exclusively to service old E's customers, new E was essentially precluded from performing its own business nor could it set its own rates and old E required all customers to deal with it rather than new E]

Leeds Cablevision, Inc. and Cablevision Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 014
(although joint E met with U on five occasions in order to negotiate contract for E's Ees, Bd found that joint E failed to bargain in good faith with U, since: (1) E failed to respond to U's first two requests for bargaining; (2) as soon as U requested bargaining E proposed closing one of its facilities; (3) E informed U it was not willing to discuss wages until ALJ issued his decision in prior Bd C case involving one of joint Es and same Ees; and (4) other expressions of joint Es' U animus which frustrated bargaining process)

Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc., Leslie Volkswagen, Inc., and Dupage Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 148
(E's refusal to bargain with U, violative where E was bound by bargaining agreement entered into between U and E's alter ego and E was part of single E with its alter ego and third E)

Contee Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(violation where two companies found successor to, single E with, and alter egos of E which had contract with U herein refused to recognize and bargain with U)

David A. Morrow & Associates, Inc. and Ryan Electric, Inc., Alter Ego and/or Single Employer JD-380-85
[where existing unionized company and newly formed non-U company constituted single integrated E, and non-U company was alter ego and disguised continuance of old company, ALJ held that old company's duty to bargain with U and its duty to honor existing U contract were binding on new company; and both companies violated 8(a)(5) by failing and refusing to recognize and bargain with U, by rejecting U contract, by changing contractual pay rates and fringe benefits, and by ending fringe benefit contributions]

Quality Plastic Molds, Inc., and Titan Enterprises, Corp. JD-(NY)-143-84
(violation by failing to recognize and bargain with U which represented unionized company's Ees as representative also of nonU company's Ees who were found to be included in unionized company's Ees' bargaining unit where companies were found single E herein)

Clinton's Ditch Cooperative Co., Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 778 F.2d 132 (C.A. 2, Dec. 1985)
[U's contention that E was joint-E with subcontractor who took over E's trucking operations and E had duty to bargain when it chose another subcontractor, rejected and E's unilateral decision to change subcontractors not violative, since E did not have sufficient control over Ees of first subcontractor where E did not continue to play any role in hiring or firing, E did not directly administer discipline to drivers, subcontractor provided almost all benefits to drivers and E had only indirect, limited connection to problems of pay and other aspects of labor relations]

4825-6700 Successor employer

Cencom of Missouri 282 NLRB No. 037
[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U on behalf of predecessor E's Ees, violation where prior to requests successor E commenced operations with work force consisting entirely of its predecessor's Ees]

Cal-Am Partners d/b/a Amscot Coal 281 NLRB No. 027
[successor E's failure to reply to U's request for recognition and bargaining, violation]

Springfield Transit Management, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 017
[successor E's refusing to bargain, bypassing U to deal directly with Ees, and offering them unilateral reduction in wages from those paid by predecessor, violations]

Big R Distributors, Inc. d/b/a Shoppers Choice 280 NLRB No. 148
[purchaser of inventory and fixtures of store held successor and obligated to recognize and bargain with U, where it continued in same business, employed same manager and assistant manager, Ee complement performed same functions and 3 out of 5 Ees hired by purchaser when it took over operations were represented by U when Ees of seller, notwithstanding 2 out of 3 of those hired were in layoff status from seller, where they had reasonable expectation of recall]

Bay Breeze Industries, Inc., d/b/a Lloyd Flanders 280 NLRB No. 133
[U, which has been representing unit Ees at predecessor E's plant for over 40 years, is to be recognized as ongoing representative for unit Ees where successor E has advanced no good-faith doubt about U no longer representing unit Ees, and there is not enough difference between predecessor E and successor E to overcome presumption that —Ees' desires concerning unionization are unchanged (successor Ees performed essentially same work, in same plant, with same equipment as before)]

Aquabrom, Division of Great Lakes Chemical Corp., as Successor to Bromine Division, Drug Research, Inc.; Tesco Chemicals, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 066

[on ct remand, Bd held that E was successor where changes in E's operations had no effect on Ees' job classifications, skills, or duties except in one minor respect involving 6 Ees; moreover, other long term changes, establishing absence of successorship status, occurred well after E hired representative complement of Ees]

Mangold Markets, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 090

[refusal to bargain as successor E, on grounds store it took over was reopened as single store as opposed to multistore chain and Ees of predecessor were not employed at store E took over, violative, where store remained a retail store, Ees performed identical work, E did not show that change in store's operation changed Ees' working conditions and, although Ees were not employed at store E took over, did work for predecessor whose operation was highly integrated with substantial interchange between stores, thus Ees could be assumed to still desire U representation]

American Stevedoring Company 280 NLRB No. 088

[E which contracted to perform delivery services for retailer held successor to E which had previously furnished service to stores, and obligated to bargain with U which had represented Ees of predecessor, since making same deliveries, using same trucks which retailer's parent company had brought from previous contractor, notwithstanding predecessor was licensed carrier that supplied full carier service and owned vehicles that were making deliveries while successor had contract only to supply drivers for one E's trucks and was not carrier, and that successor hired no Ees of predecessor, since refusal to hire was because of Ees' U membership]

American Stevedoring Company 280 NLRB No. 088

[E which contracted to perform delivery service for retailer held successor to E which had previously furnished service to stores, and obligated to bargain with U which had represented Ees of predecessor, notwithstanding no Ees of successor had been Ees of predecessor, where successor did not inform Ees of predecessor it was hiring Ees to perform their former jobs and sought applicants through newspaper ad which concealed E's identity, thus out of successor's initial work force of 21 only 9 Ees of predecessor applied, and none were hired inasmuch as E specifically refused to hire because of U membership]

Ryder System, Inc.; Ryder Distribution Systems, Inc.; and DPD, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 118

[successor E's refusal to bargain with U, on grounds U did not enjoy majority support, violative, notwithstanding U did not have actual majority support of Ees hired where, but for E's discrimminatory refusal to hire predecessor's Ees, U would have enjoyed majority support; U's majority support in such instance is presumed as a matter of law]

American Press, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 109

[where E-purchaser discriminatorily refused to hire most of seller's Ees and, but for such unlawful conduct, majority of work force would have been composed of seller's Ees, Bd held E unlawfully refused to bargain with U representing seller's Ees since, but for unlawful considerations, continuity of seller's Ee complement would have been maintained, and other requisite elements for finding successorship were present; and rule is that new owner's failure to hire predecessor's Ees will not defeat claim of successorship if such failure is shown to have been motivated by former Ees' U affiliation]

American Press, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 109

[successor E is ordinarily free to set initial hiring terms w/o preliminary bargaining with incumbent U; however, where it is clear new E plans to retain all of unit Ees, it must consult U before altering existing terms and conditions of employment]

American Press, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 109

[successor E held not entitled to set initial terms of employment w/o consulting incumbent U, since any uncertainty as to what E, who refused to hire predecessor's Ees because of their U affiliation, would have done absent its unlawful purpose must be resolved against E who cannot be permitted to benefit from its unlawful conduct; and since E discriminated in hiring, it can be inferred that substantially all former Ees would have been retained absent unlawful discrimination]

Armco, Inc., Eastern Steel Division, Ashland Works 279 NLRB No. 143

[E found successor E and obligated to bargain with incumbent U at new plant, notwithstanding contention Ees in new plant were accretion and thus E had no duty to recognize U at new plant but could recognize U it had historically dealt with at its other plants, since Ees at new plant could still be considered a separate appropriate unit where interchange between plants was minimal, Ees at new plant had been represented by incumbent U for 30 years and Ees at new plant had not been so integrated with E's other Ees so as to negate their separate identity]

Armco, Inc., Eastern Steel Division, Ashland Works 279 NLRB No. 143

[successor E's contention that incumbent U at new plant had waived right to represent Ees by yielding representational rights to a rival U and failing to request bargaining, rejected, and E's refusal to bargain with incumbent U, unilateral changes in terms and conditions of employment, recognition of rival U and enforcing U security, violative, since bargaining request would have been futile i.e., E had already granted recognition to rival U, Ees at new plant had not been accreted and incumbent U had in no way clearly and unmistakeably waived right to represent Ees]

Dasal Caring Centers, Inc., d/b/a Lemay Caring Center and Dasal Caring Centers, Inc., d/b/a Walton Caring Center 280 NLRB No. 007

[successor E's refusal to bargain with U, on grounds that certain operational procedures had changed so as to fundamentally change employing enterprise, violative, where there was no hiatus in operations, E provided care to same patients at same facility and utilized basically the same procedures as predecessor]

Plateau Coal Sales, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 156

[employing industry not substantially same notwithstanding new E engaged in same business, at same facility, with essentially same equipment, Ees have requisite skills to perform work of new E, 1 supervisor from old hired as superintendent of new operation, and new E committee itself to hire from pool of Ees of old E since new E did not operate preparation plant which was 90% of primary operation of old E, new E set up to handle output of owners' mines only, 1 shift instead of 2 formerly, no contractual arrangement between Es (new E acquired lease from 3rd party) and hiatus of 2-1/2 months from shutdown of old to startup of new operation]

H.H.H. Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Stephenson Haus 279 NLRB No. 139

[purchaser who assumed operation of restaurant w/o hiatus and w/o charge of name until some months later held successor E, and obligated to bargain with U, which represented Ees of predecessor E where upon assumption of operation, it hired all Ees of predecessor E w/o change of working conditions]

Mediterranean Diner, Inc., t/a Bay Diner, Inc., and New Bay Diner, Inc., t/a Mediterranean Lounge 279 NLRB No. 077

[successor E's refusal to bargain, violative, notwithstanding U did not enjoy irrebuttable presumption of majority status, where predecessor, both before and during certification year, committed numerous ULPs which were of such character as to affect U's status and to cause Ee disaffection; because of unremedied ULPs, predecessor, at time of successor's take over, was foreclosed from challenging U's majority status and remained obligated to bargain with U]

Mediterranean Diner, Inc., t/a Bay Diner, Inc., and New Bay Diner, Inc., t/a Mediterranean Lounge 279 NLRB No. 077

[successor E's ignoring U's bargaining demand, violative, notwithstanding successor had dispelled lingering effects of earlier ULPs, where bargaining relationship was thereafter entitled to reasonable period, during which U made its demand]

Marin Operating, Inc. d/b/a The Clarion Hotel-Marin; Colorado Marin Associates, A Joint Venture; and Preferred Properties Fund 82, A Limited Partnership 279 NLRB No. 070

[successor E's refusal to bargain on grounds predecessor E unlawfully recognized U in separate units of Ees, violative, since, even though predecessor E's recognition of U in separate units may have been improper in view of that certified by Bd, successor E is barred by 10(b) from challenging that recognition; to allow successor E to challenge that recognition would upset successful 12-year bargaining relationship and revive problems long ago put to rest]

E G & G Florida, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 065

[successor E's unilateral decisions to eliminate positions and not to hire Ees, not violative]

E G & G Florida, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 065

[successor E's unilateral changes of Ees' terms and conditions of employment once they had been hired, violative, where successor E made it perfectly clear that it intended to hire predecessor's Ees, w/o indicating that their terms and conditions of employment would be altered]

Beck Corporation, d/b/a Jessie Beck's Riverside Hotel and Casino 279 NLRB No. 061

[purchaser held successor-E to seller and obligated to bargain with U to remedy seller's refusal, which was held unlawful in prior case, to bargain with U as representative of unit as certified where majority of Ees in unit at time U demanded bargaining with successor were Ees of predecessor, notwithstanding constituted majority for only short period after take over due to departure of Ees caused by situation in labor market and industry at time. Successor-E's contention it had insufficient knowledge of predecessor's ULPs, rejected]

Beck Corporation, d/b/a Jessie Beck's Riverside Hotel and Casino 279 NLRB No. 061
[successor-E obligated to bargain with U which represented Ees of predecessor, where successor E had hired full complement, and majority of Ees in unit at successor were Ees of predecessor. Process of identifying full complement will vary from case to case. I would be ludicrous to postpone defining full complement until small enterprise reached status of international corporation, but it would also be inappropriate to point to full complement as existing at moment successor assumes operation of moribund corporation]

Elal Realty Management Inc. 279 NLRB No. 002
[discharge of Ees and refusal to rehire them by successor E, violative, since reason was Ees' U membership and E's desire to work with non-U Ees where E gave patently false reasons for discharge which justified inference of anti-U motive; further, bargaining order is appropriate for successor E since U made demand to bargain and all Ees are ordered reinstated, thus, successor E employs majority of prior workforce]

Myers Custom Products Inc., A Wholly Owned Subsidiary of Myers Electric Products, Inc., d/b/a Gibbons Enclosures, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 092
[E's refusal to bargain with U as successor E, not violative, since on date U demanded recognition, E had not yet hired substantial and representative work force for purpose of determining U's majority status where, prior to purchasing business, E planned, with a reasonable degree of certainty, a substantial increase in number of unit Ees w/i a relatively short time, therefore, it was appropriate to delay determination of bargaining obligation for short duration of planned work force expansion, a date U did not enjoy majority status]

Cutter Dodge, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 083
[purchaser of auto dealership held successor of seller and obligated to recognize U which had represented Ees of seller since at time U requested recognition buyer had employed substantial and representative complement of its work force, majority of which had previously worked for respondent E's predecessor in appropriate unit notwithstanding E's contention that determination of its majority status should be delayed because it had not yet commenced its own new car preparation operation nor hired Ees to operate it]

IMS Manufacturing Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 079
[E held successor E and obligated to bargain with U upon demand, where E operated plant for same purpose as predecessor, purchased 80% of predecessor's equipment, utilized same manufacturing procedures, albeit with minor modifications, served essentially same customers as predecessor, hired majority of predecessor's Ees and there was only 11 day hiatus in operations]

Martin J. Barry Company 278 NLRB No. 056
[proper remedial obligations for Golden State successor involving predecessor's unlawful refusal to execute and implement contract with U was to make Ees whole for predecessor's ULP up to time predecessor ceased business and then, bargain in good faith with U for contract, since such remedy is sufficient to convince unit Ees that employing enterprise intends to comply with the Act and strikes a balance between interests of successor, the public and the affected Ees]

Martin J. Barry Company 278 NLRB No. 056
[E's contention that it was not Golden State successor and liable for predecessor's ULPs because it had no contractual relationship with predecessor nor did it purchase predecessor's assets, rejected, since E agreed to substantially reduce management fees charged to predecessor (who remained a customer of E) and such arrangement effectively constituted payment for predecessor's business]

Matlack, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 036
[E unlawfully refused to bargain with U representing separate unit of predecessor's Ees since latter Ees were not accretion to successor E's unit, because predecessor's Ees had not lost their separate identity and had not been incorporated into existing larger unit with required community of interest among entire group; under circumstances herein, to apply accretion principles would deny accreted Ees a vote on their choice of bargaining representative]

Taylor Stone d/b/a Eastone of Ohio, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 187
[E held successor and obligated to bargain with U which had represented Ees of another E, in view of substantial continuity of employing enterprise, where, at time U requested recognition, all of its unit Ees had been employed by other company, it was engaged in same busiess at same plant, using same equipment and methods of production to manufacture same product, and majority of its suppliers and customers were same as those of other company, notwithstanding U's failure to negotiate contract with predecessor E, subsequent 2 month strike and 6 month close of plant]

Shoreline South Intermediate Care, Inc.; Inland Pacific, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 095
(E who took over financially distressed facility whose Ees were represented by U held not to have unlawfully refused to bargain with U, notwithstanding fact that E did not want U, where E's hiring practices with respect to former E's Ees were not unlawful; substantial business reasons existed for thorough shakeup of acquired facility; GC did not meet burden of establishing that U affiliation, and not E's business judgment, motivated Ee changes; and U never requested E to bargain, but assumed E was obligated to hire former Ees)

Chaim Babad, et al., A Co-Partnership, d/b/a Tilden Arms Management Co. and Toby Estates, Inc., a Single Employer 276 NLRB No. 117
(successor E's refusal to bargain, violative, notwithstanding lack of same work force, where successor E bribed some of predecessor's Ees to quit and unlawfully refused to rehire them, so that U would lose majority status and successor would have no duty to bargain)

Trucking Water Air Corporation 276 NLRB No. 158
(successor E's reply to U agent's request to meet and discuss the situation that E was a nonunion company constituted unlawful refusal to bargain where E was aware that predecessor was unionized)

Louis Pappas' Homosassa Springs Restaurant, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 213
(in absence of any unusual circumstances, such as accretion to unit by agreement of parties w/o participation of affected Ees, presumption of majority status continues after takeover by Respondent (successor). No significance that U may not have been recently certified)

Louis Pappas' Homosassa Springs Restaurant, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 213
(burden of proof upon Respondent (successor E in instant proceeding) to prove good faith doubt of (U's) majority status)

Royal Vending Services, Ltd. 275 NLRB No. 173
(successor's response to U's notice of termination of contract and request to negotiate new one that it was not party to a contract with the U and refusal to reply to subsequent letters from U, violative)

Inland Container Corporation 275 NLRB No. 60
(E held successor notwithstanding 2 1/2 month hiatus between closing of predecessor and commencement of successor E's operations, where hiatus may have been necessary at least inpart because of E's discriminatory hiring policies and plant renovations; however, renovations E made were insufficient to negotiate substantial continuity of employing enterprise as new machinery was introduced and work done did not alter machinery's fundamental character but was in nature of long overdue repairs)

Contee Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(violation where two companies found successor to, single E with, and alter egos of E which had contract with U herein refused to recognize and bargain with U)

Sun Coast Foods, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 203
(successor E's refusal to bargain with U which had represented Ees of predecessor E, not unlawful, where E did engage in dilatory tactics upon receipt of demand for bargaining, but was subsequently presented with ptn signed by majority of Ees expressing desire not to be represented by U, and was found by Bd not to have committed any ULPs)

Harley-Davidson Transportation Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 192
]successor lawfully withdrew from bargaining after 3 sessions and of voluntarily recognizing U that had been certified over year during predecessor's time on basis of good faith doubt evidenced by ptn signed by majority of Ees stating they no longer wanted U to be its representative. Change of ownership not treated as equivalent of certification or voluntary recognition of U following organizational drive since relationship between U and Ees not disturbed so all U has is presumption of majority status that may be rebutted at anytime w/o waiting reasonable period. Signatures on ptn need not be authenticated)

Chaim Babad, Bernard Steinmetz and Emanuel Steinmetz, A Co-Partnership d/b/a J.R.R. Realty Co. 273 NLRB No. 189

Best Cast, Inc. JD-(NY)-1-86
[admitted successor E's failure to answer U's request for bargaining, violation where E failed to prove alleged doubt of U majority status]

Tooling and Equipment International Corporation, Successor to Automotive Pattern Company JD-334-85
(E's refusal to bargain with U as successor E, not violative, since U did not enjoy majority support at time it demanded recognition, notwithstanding E had no knowledge of this fact, where most of the U member Ees attempted to withdraw from U prior to time U demanded recognition, Ees refused, upon request from U, to organize E and there was no evidence that E caused the Ee disaffection)

Jackie Lee Enterprise, Inc. and Jackie Lee, Limited, Inc. JD-246-85
(no unlawful refusal to bargain by purchaser with U which represented Ees of seller E whom it was hiring, even assuming successor E, since E had objective basis for good faith doubt of U's majority prior to setting initial terms and conditions of employment, where all unit Ees informing E that they no longer desired U representation, but wanted to cut their own deal, notwithstanding Ees' retention of U membership to retain pension rights and other benefits, since their request for withdrawal cards after executing private employment agreement with E showed Ees had no desire to retain U as bargaining agent)

Healthcare International, Inc. and Healthcare Colorado Springs, Inc. d/b/a Cedar Springs Psychiatric Hospital JD-(SF)-134-85

(E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U as successor E, not violative, since at time U demanded recognition E had good faith doubt of U's majority status where many Ees in unit told E's supervisors at Ee meetings that they disapproved of the U, at time of U demand Ees having dues deducted had declined to only 6 out of 100 Ees and E's doubt was reinforced by fact that U was taking its own written poll to determine support among unit Ees)

Abramo Fish Co. Ltd. JD-222-85

(in case involving purchaser's alleged refusal to recognize and bargain with U representing seller's Ees, date when purchaser took effective control of business, rather than date of formal title transfer almost a month later, was date on which successorship, if any, should be based)

Abramo Fish Co. Ltd. JD-222-85

(purchaser not obligated to assume seller's contract and permitted to raise good-faith doubt of U's majority status where, although purchaser committed himself to retain all of seller's Ees, nothing in written agreements between it and seller revealed agreement to assume contract between seller and U)

Abramo Fish Co. Ltd. JD-222-85

(purchaser's asserted good-faith doubt of U's majority status justified its refusal to recognize and bargain with U representing seller's Ees; although unsuccessful attempts by 5 of 9 unit Ees to withdraw from U was not sufficient by itself to support claim of good-faith doubt, Ees' dissatisfaction with U was further signified when attempted withhdrawals are considered in context of pre-hire conversation with E which provided reasonable basis for concluding withdrawals expressed Ees' agreement with E's stated desire to operate non-U, which was fortified when Ees told E of their attempted withdrawals)

A & L Investment Corporation JD-(SF)-108-85

(successor E's refusal to bargain with U on grounds that 20 months had passed since Ees elected U at predecessor E and Ee turnover since that time required new election, violative, since Ee turnover was irrelevant on question of Ee sentiment where certification year was still in effect at successor E (it being extended because of predecessor E's refusal to bargain) and thus, U enjoyed irrebutable presumption of majority status)

Flexible Foam Products, Inc. JD-100-85

(purchaser of E's equipment for producing one product which leased 10% of E's space and hired a very few of E's Ees, not successor to E where, despite similarities of work force, location, supervision and product, there was no continuity of employing industry in view of four-month hiatus between operations, Ees' lack of expectations of employment with purchaser, substantial difference in scope of operations in areas affecting Ees' desires about U representation, namely size of work force, working conditions, and nature of jobs)

Great Plains Furniture Industries, Inc. JD-14-85

]when business changes hands and there is substantial continuity in employing enterprise, Act requires successor E to bargain with labor organization which represented Ees of its predecessor. This successorship doctrine is based on rationale that mere change of ownership, w/o any essential change in working conditions, would not be likely to change Ee attitudes toward representation)

Great Plains Furniture Industries, Inc. JD-14-85

(purchaser held successor E and obligated to bargain with U which represented Ees of seller, notwithstanding purchaser had begun to derive income from distributing other products which it did not manufacture, changed quality and cost of its product line, as well as suppliers, where at time of bargaining demand majority of purchaser's Ees had been employed by seller, Ees were doing same work in virtually same job classifications, using same equipment and machinery in same plant under same working conditions and suprvision, in order to make same product)

Great Plains Furniture Industries, Inc. JD-14-85

(unilateral grant of wage increases by purchaser-successor after bargaining obligation attached, not unlawful, since successor had promised wage increases at time he set initial terms and conditions of employment and at that time no bargaining obligation had ripened; therefore, successor was free to set whatever terms he wished and so long as unilateral changes implemented were encompassed w/i initial terms of employment, no violation arises)

Szabo Food Service, Inc. JD-434-84

(E's failure to recognize U and bargain with it after E received written demand for recognition from U and E's unilaterally implementing new wages and employment conditions, violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Fall River Dyeing & Finishing Corp. 775 F.2d 425 (C.A. 1, Oct. 1985)

[in successorship situation, bargaining obligation can normally be determined at time of transfer or when operations begin. In other instances, however, such as when E is rebuilding collapsed business or is operating at substantially reduced capacity, delay in making determination may be appropriate. As S.Ct has noted, determination regarding successor's obligation to bargain may have to wait until successor E has hired full complement of Ees since it will not be evident until then that bargaining representative represents majority of complementing unit required by Sec. 9(a) of Act]

N.L.R.B. v. Fall River Dyeing & Finishing Corp. 775 F.2d 425 (C.A. 1, Oct. 1985)

[full complement principle has been interpreted to require that examination of workforce composition be postponed until business is operating at its maximum capacity or until E has completed hiring all of its bargaining unit Ees fixing appropriate date at which bargaining obligation arises involves balancing objective of ensuring maximum Ee participation in selection of bargaining agent against goal of permitting Ees to be represented as quickly as possible Bd has reconciled these interests by applying substantial and representative complement standard]

N.L.R.B. v. Fall River Dyeing & Finishing Corp. 775 F.2d 425 (C.A. 1, Oct. 1985)

[successor E obligated to bargain with U that had represented Ees of predecessor when it had employed substantial and representative complement i.e. had hired at least 50% of those it would ultimately employ in majority of Ees it would eventually employ when it reached full complement, notwithstanding at time of original demand for recognition representative complement not employed, since demand continuing and no need to renew later]

N.L.R.B. v. Fall River Dyeing & Finishing Corp. 775 F.2d 425 (C.A. 1, Oct. 1985)

[so long as predecessor Ees at alleged successor's plant are majority of Ees in successor unit, alleged successor may properly be considered to be successor E]

Bay Breeze Industries, Inc., d/b/a Lloyd Flanders 280 NLRB No. 133
[U, which has been representing unit Ees at predecessor E's plant for over 40 years, is to be recognized as ongoing representative for unit Ees where successor E has advanced no good-faith doubt about U no longer representing unit Ees, and there is not enough difference between predecessor E and successor E to overcome presumption that —Ees' desires concerning unionization are unchanged (successor Ees performed essentially same work, in same plant, with same equipment as before)]

Bay Breeze Industries, Inc., d/b/a Lloyd Flanders 280 NLRB No. 133
[in finding successor, Bd did not consider material factor the fact that successor employed only half the number of supervisors that predecessor employed or that only one of the employed supervisors came from predecessor, or that job classifications substantially reduced, in light of same products produced in same plant with same equipment even though on much reduced scale]

American Press, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 109
[successor E is ordinarily free to set initial hiring terms w/o preliminary bargaining with incumbent U; however, where it is clear new E plans to retain all of unit Ees, it must consult U before altering existing terms and conditions of employment]

Amateyus, Ltd., d/b/a Volk & Huxley, and Vulcan Typography Co. 280 NLRB No. 021
[E held successor to company whose assets it purchased and obligated to honor contract predecessor had with U, where there was continuity of operation with same Ees and working conditions, and purchaser made contributions to U's benefit and productivity funds, and while it complained about what it believed to be onerous provisions of contract, never indicated it would not abide by contract]

Martin J. Barry Company 278 NLRB No. 056
[order directing E, who was admitted Burns successor, to execute and implement contract agreed to by predecessor and make Ees whole for failure to so implement, contravened 10(c) of the Act and Bd was w/o remedial autority to so order, since, under principles of H.K. Porter, 397 U.S. 99 (1970), Bd lacks remedial authority to impose contractual terms involuntarily on either party to a collective bargaining agreement]

Martin J. Barry Company 278 NLRB No. 056
[proper remedial obligations for Golden State successor involving predecessor's unlawful refusal to execute and implement contract with U was to make Ees whole for predecessor's ULP up to time predecessor ceased business and then, bargain in good faith with U for contract, since such remedy is sufficient to convince unit Ees that employing enterprise intends to comply with the Act and strikes a balance between interests of successor, the public and the affected Ees]

Prime Time Post, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 218
(successor E held not obligated to contribute to international's health and welfare fund pursuant to U's agreement with predecessor E and cessation of contributions not violative, where successor E at no time assumed obligations of predecessor E and entered into contract with local U of international which did not require it to make contributions to the fund; further, international waived right to bargain over fund contributions when it never requested successor E to bargain and was aware that local U was bargaining with E and entered into contract which did not provide for fund contributions)

Contee Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(violation where two spinoff companies, to which E had transferred operations for purpose of avoiding its debt burden, including its debt to U funds, and which were founds successors to, single E with, and alter egos of transferring E herein, refused to honor U's contract with transferring E by making contributions to U funds, checking off and remitting U dues, and adhering to contract terms regarding job rotation and overtime, holiday, and vacation pay)

Chaim Babad, Bernard Steinmetz and Emanuel Steinmetz, A Co-Partnership d/b/a J.R.R. Realty Co. 273 NLRB No. 189
(E's failure to assume all obligations under bargaining agreement, violative where E assumed such obligations when it purchased apartment building from predecessor)

N.L.R.B. v. Chaim Babad, Bernard Steinmetz and Emanuel Steinmetz, A Co-Partnership d/b/a J.R.R. Realty Co. 785 F.2d 46 (C.A. 2, Mar. 1986)
[purchaser's failure to recognize and bargain and honor contract with U, violation, since it was found successor and it assumed predecessor's U contract, as shown by sale contract provision that seller's U contract was permitted encumbrance, assignment of sale and U contract and deed to purchaser by its nominee, and purchaser's awareness of contractual obligation manifested by its offering predecessor's Ees money to give up their jobs]

4850-7500 Joint or single employer

Alabama Metal Products, Inc., and Its Alter Ego Delta Laminating, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 123
[manufacturing company's refusal to extend contract to newly formed and separately located company providing products for use by manufacturer, to bargain with U with regard to effects of movement of unit work to newly formed company, and to process grievances with regard to movement of such work, not unlawful, where factors establishing single E or alter ego status were either absent or insufficient for finding that either of such relationships existed]

McAllister Brothers Inc. and Outreach Marine Corporation, Alter Egos 278 NLRB No. 091
[two Es held single E and alter egos and withdrawal of recognition from U violative, since E which ostensibly bought business was nothing but disguised continuance of old business where evidence showed old E transferred operations to new E to evade bargaining obligations, new E existed almost exclusively to service old E's customers, new E was essentially precluded from performing its own business nor could it set its own rates and old E required all customers to deal with it rather than new E]

Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc., Leslie Volkswagen, Inc., and Dupage Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 148
(E's unilateral changes in wage rates and fringe benefits in contract, violative where E was bound by bargaining agreement entered into between U and E's alter ego with which E and third E constituted single E)

O. Voorhees Painting Co. and O.V. International, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 114
(joint Es' failing to properly pay unit Ees and make fringe benefit contributions pursuant to bargaining agreement between one of joint Es and U, violative)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(unilateral changes in terms and conditions of employment for Ees transferred from corporation to sole proprietorship, violative, since transfer did not relieve either E from duty of complying with contract covering transferred Ees where Es were found single E and alter egos of each other)

Contee Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(violation where two spinoff companies, to which E had transferred operations for purpose of avoiding its debt burden, including its debt to U funds, and which were founds successors to, single E with, and alter egos of transferring E herein, refused to honor U's contract with transferring E by making contributions to U funds, checking off and remitting U dues, and adhering to contract terms regarding job rotation and overtime, holiday, and vacation pay)

David A. Morrow & Associates, Inc. and Ryan Electric, Inc., Alter Ego and/or Single Employer JD-300-85
[where existing unionized company and newly formed non-U company constituted single integrated E, and non-U company was alter ego and disguised continuance of old company, ALJ held that old company's duty to bargain with U and its duty to honor existing U contract were binding on new company; and both companies violated 8(a)(5) by failing and refusing to recognize and bargain with U, by rejecting U contract, by changing contractual pay rates and fringe benefits, and by ending fringe benefit contributions]

Quality Plastic Molds, Inc., and Titan Enterprises, Corp. JD-(NY)-143-84
(violation by failing to apply unionized company's contract to nonU company's Ees who were found to be member of unionized company's Ees' bargaining unit where companies were found single E herein)

4850-7550 Double-breasted operations

McAllister Brothers Inc. and Outreach Marine Corporation, Alter Egos 278 NLRB No. 091
[E's contention that its alleged double breasted operation allowed it to transfer unit work from one business to the other, rejected, since Es were found to be single E and alter egos and thus, work was never transferred out of bargaining unit]

4850-8700 Bankruptcy trustee or debtor-in-possession

(U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)
[Bd is precluded from, in effect, enforcing terms of collective-bargaining agreement by filing ULP charges against debtor-in-possession for violating Sec. 8(d) of NLRA by modifying or terminating unexpired labor agreement. Though Bd's action is nominally one to enforce Sec. 8(d), practical effect of enforcement action would be to require adherence to terms of agreement, but filing of ptn in bankruptcy means that agreement is no longer enforceable. Consequently, Bd enforcement under these circumstances would run directly counter to express provisions of Bankruptcy Code]

(U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)
[debtor-in-possession does not commit ULP when, after filing bankruptcy ptn but before Bankruptcy Ct approved rejection of bargaining agreement, it unilaterally modifies or terminates one or more provisions of contract, notwithstanding contract provided that it was binding on parties or successors even though bankruptcy should supervene]

N.L.R.B. v. Bildisco & Bildisco, Debtor-in-Possession, et al. ———U.S.———
(U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)
[debtor-in-possession is E under NLRA and is obligated to bargain collectively with certified representative over terms of new contract pending rejection of existing contract or following formal approval of rejection by Bankruptcy Ct, but no ULP by unilaterally breaching contract before formal Bankruptcy Ct action]

Otten Truck Line; United Star Express, Inc.; and Claude Hayes, an Individual 282 NLRB No. 073
[E who was held alter ego successor to debtor-in-possession violated Act by dealing directly with Ees and instituting unilateral changes notwithstanding debtor-in-possession repudiated contract. (Modifications of Bildisco contained in Bankruptcy Amendments and Federal Judgeship Act of 1984 not applicable to instant case)]

Hiyoto Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[E's unilateral change in contract terms, prior to institution of bankruptcy proceeding, by failing to make required payments to U health and retirement trust funds, unlawful; inability to make payments, claimed but not proved by E, was no defense; however, any finding of violation against E as debtor-in-possession for failing to comply with contract after filing of bankruptcy ptn was barred by S.Ct's Bildisco decision (104 S.Ct 1188)]

Hiyoto Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[alleged refusal by E to bargain with U, not unlawful, where E who, as debtor-in-possession having continuing obligation to bargain over terms of new contract, sought to do so both before and after bankruptcy ct approved rejection of old contract; U made no request to bargain during that period; and it was not E's fault U failed to follow up on his bargaining request]

Hiyoto Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[direct dealing with Ees concerning terms and conditions of employment, not unlawful, where E, as debtor-in-possession, rightfully sought unilateral substitution of modified terms and conditions of employment and had proposed to U same terms subsequently offered to Ees; U's refusal to negotiate until its erroneous belief that E was bound by contract, abrogated by bankruptcy ct, was disproved or substantiated was in essence waiver of U's right to object to imposition of new terms and conditions of employment; and E was under severe time constraints to resume operations]

Dunmyre Motor Express, Inc. and/or Dunmyre Motor Express, Inc., Debtor-In-Possession 275 NLRB No. 044
(E's post bankruptcy ptn conduct consisting of implementation of unilateral changes in bargaining agreement, layoff of seven Ees, and subcontracting of unit work, not violative in light of S.Ct's decision in Bildisco)

Edwin Odum d/b/a The Phoenix Company 274 NLRB No. 146
(Congress nullified Bildisco, 104 S.Ct 1188, which held that filing Chapter 11 ptn renders collective-bargaining agreement unenforceable by enacting the Bankruptcy Amendments and Federal Judgeship Act of 1984, Publ. L. 98-353, July 10, 1984)

Lake Castings, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 040
(mtn for summary judgment granted, in view of E's trustee in bankruptcy failure to file answer, insofar as complaint alleged violation of Sections 8(a)(5) and (1) by failing to make premium payments for medical insurance for unit Ees prior to filing of bankruptcy ptn; however, mtn denied and that portion of complaint remanded to RD which alleged violation by failure to make insurance premium payments on or after date of filing bankruptcy ptn in view of Bildisco 104 S.Ct 1188, which held debtor-in-possession does not committ ULP when it unilaterally rejects or modifies bargaining agreement before bankruptcy ct approves formal rejection)

San Juan Hotel Corporation d/b/a El San Juan Hotel 274 NLRB No. 003
(E's discontinuance of contributions to Ees' pension fund required by contract, not unlawful, since contract was unenforceable during relevant period oftime as result of E's filing of bankruptcy ptn where, by operation of law, upon conversion of case from Chapter 11 reogranization to Chapter 7 liquidation proceeding, contract was automatically rejected 60 days after conversion)

Nicholas, Inc. and Nicholas, Inc., Debtor in Possession JD-(NY)-31-86
[in cases arising before 10 July 1984, trustee (in bankruptcy), subject to court approval, may assume or reject any executory, contract such as an unexpired collective-bargaining agreement. Debtor in possession under Chapter 11 (Bankruptcy Code) may unilaterally reject or modify agreement until formal rejection is approved or denied by ct. See NLRB v. Bildisco & Bildisco 104 S.Ct 1188 (1984), 115 LRRM 2805]

Nicholas, Inc. and Nicholas, Inc., Debtor in Possession JD-(NY)-31-86
[in cases arising before amendments to Bankruptcy Act effective, E, debtor-in-possession, lawfully discharged Ees for striking in violation of no-strike provision in contract where strike occurred during interim period of E petitioning court approval to reject contract and prior to court granting petition, and E continued to abide by terms of contract during this period, thus affirming contract]

Mark Manufacturing Corp. JD-373-85
[E's failure to give pay raises and checkoff U dues, on grounds that pending bankruptcy litigation and NLRB v. Bildisco, 104 S.Ct. 1188 allowed its actions, violative, since E abrogated bargaining agreement before bankruptcy ptn was filed and did not submit any proposal to the U, after filing ptn, to modify bargaining agreement, as required by Bankruptcy Amendments of 1984]

Metro Force Security, Ltd.; and Metro Force Security, Ltd., Debtor in Possession JD-(NY)-130-85
[violation, where debtor-in-possession failed to comply with bargaining agreement provisions as to wages, contributions to welfare fund, payment for sick days, and remission of U dues and initiation fees deducted from Ees' wages, since default occurred after passage of 1984 Bankruptcy Amendments, PL 98-353, which provides that debtor-in-possession may not unilaterally alter bargaining agreement, but must first comply with notice and other requirements set forth therein]

Ambassador Convalescent Center, Inc. Debtor-In-Possession In Bankruptcy JD-319-85
(refusing to grant wage increase as required by executed agreement, violative, notwithstanding E's argument that agreement was void because E, debtor-in-possession, did not seek or obtain approval of bankruptcy ct where ct was not required to approve agreement)

Wolverine Porcelain Enameling Company and Gregory Crumpton, Its Trustee in Bankruptcy Under Chapter 7 of The Bankruptcy Act JD-299-85
(trustee in bankruptcy is successor to bankrupt E, and bound to honor latter's bargaining obligations)

U. S. Truck Company, Inc. JD-111-85
(unilateral changes by E, who was debtor-in-possession, after effective date of bankruptcy ct order authorizing rejection of bargaining agreement, not unlawful, under NLRB v. Bildisco and Bildisco, 104 S.Ct 1188. However, E had obligation to bargain regarding new contract)

5400 EFFECT UPON OBLIGATION OF CHANGE IN IDENTITY OF EMPLOYEE REPRESENTATIVE

Canterbury Villa of Waterford, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 072
[on withdrawal of case from CA, E's refusal to bargain, unlawful, notwithstanding nonmembers' inability to vote on U's change in affiliation, since affiliation is internal U matter with which Bd is precluded from interfering; moreover, there was substantial continuity between pre-and-post disaffiliation U, and due process was safeguarded by U members' voting on, and district ct's approval of settlement agreement providing for, change in affiliation]

Hydrotherm, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 167
[refusing to bargain with local U that was certified under unamended pre-merger title, violation, notwithstanding that U merged with another local prior to election that resulted in change of name to one different from that of certified U, where U retained same character and relationship to Ees, had same international constitution, bylaws, officers, stewards, grievance procedure, methods of servincing contracts, assessing dues, making fund payments, place of business, and way of conducting affairs]

Prime Time Post, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 218
(successor E held not obligated to contribute to international's health and welfare fund pursuant to U's agreement with predecessor E and cessation of contributions not violative, where successor E at no time assumed obligations of predecessor E and entered into contract with local U of international which did not require it to make contributions to the fund; further, international waived right to bargain over fund contributions when it never requested successor E to bargain and was aware that local U was bargaining with E and entered into contract which did not provide for fund contributions)

5714 INTENT OF EMPLOYERS

Edward Cooper Painting, and Cooper and Cooper Painting, An Alter Ego 273 NLRB No. 224
(right to withdraw from E group bargaining with U is limited by reasonable controls as to time and manner of withdrawal. Intention to withdraw must be unequivocal, and exercised at an appropriate time, apparent willingness of secretary and principal official of E collective bargaining group to allow E to drop out of E bargaining group, absence of any pending negotiations at time of withdrawal as well as its timely letter to group, non-payment of dues to group, expressed intent to operate non-U shop and unequivocal withdrawal (by letter) from E bargaining group was valid withdrawal)

Kroll Furniture JD-(SF)-75-86
[E's refusal to sign bargaining agreement allegedly reached in concert with multi-E bargaining group, not violative where there was no requisite intent on part of E necessary to finding that E was part of group]

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[E's contention that there was no case authority for holding E to intention to be bound by multi-E bargaining arising from E's prior bargaining authorization and that such intention was controlling, rejected, where facts showed both an express and continuing unconditional bargaining authorization by E in first instance followed by 2 contracts including E in their terms thereafter, in contrast to dissimilar circumstances in cases relied on by E which were clearly inapposite]

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[while Bd does examine into E's intent to be bound by multi-E bargaining before finding E bound thereby, once Bd finds consensual involvement therein, E's right to withdraw and avoid contractual obligations is dependent not on unfettered desire or intention, expressed at will, but by timely and unequivocal notice of withdrawal]

(E's repudiation of bargaining agreements reached through multi-E bargaining, violative notwithstanding E's contention that negotiations were entered and agreements reached w/o E's real or apparent authority, where E allowed its managers to sign authorizations for association to bargain on E's behalf over three-year period, observed terms of agreements negotiated by association, and used lawyer recommended by association to negotiate settlement agreement with U)

5742 AUTHORITY OF ASSOCIATION

Arden Electric, et al. 275 NLRB No. 095
(U's ptns seeking single-E units of Es who had participated in multi-E unit represented by E association held not proper for dismissal, where E-members and E association intended to limit latter's authority so as to bargain only with IBEW or other Us as determined by board of directors and, upon accepting petitioner's disclaimer and thereby agreeing to dissolution of multi-E unit, E association could not bind Es to multi-E bargaining relationship with substitute for petitioner)

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[E association's negotiators had both actual or express authority to bargain on behalf of E members, based upon E-members' earlier powers of attorney which were not shown to have been withdrawn by probative evidence, as well as implied authority based upon open past practice on part of association's officials whose conduct and apparent authority in such respects was not shown to have been disaffirmed by any E-members]

drawn from association, violative, where E's attempted withdrawal occurred after negotiations on agreement had begun, tentative agreement was reached with U and association and agreement had been ratified by a majority of association's members)

Pleasanton Plastics, Inc. JD-(SF)-15-85
(E had timely withdrawn from multi-E bargaining where it gave unequivocal notice of withdrawal prior to commencement of bargaining for new agreement; contention that meetings prior to notice constituted negotiations, and hence notice untimely, rejected, since meetings merely exploratory exchange of ideas outside formal negotiation channels, not did letter written in response to U request that Es put their concerns in writing commence negotiations)

5770-2583 Absent unusual circumstances

Watson-Rummell Electric Co. 277 NLRB No. 162
[unusual circumstances permitting untimely withdrawal limited to economic circumstances, such as imminent bankruptcy, and dissipation of multi-E association unit to point where it is no longer a viable bargaining entity]

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[in finding no unusual circumstances permitting E to withdraw from multi-E bargaining due to economic hardship or E's filing of ptn in bankruptcy, ALJ held E could not plead economic distress where E chose to shut off its income by transferring all work to alter ego company which E created in effort to escape its contractual obligations]

Greater Detroit Heating and Cooling, Inc. JD-116-85
(E's late withdrawal from group bargaining and repudiation of negotiated contract, violative where it did not show unusual circumstances to justify its refusal to accept and comply with contract)

Thermo Heating, Inc. JD-(SF)-16-85
(E's refusal to abide by terms of Extension of Agreement negotiated on its behalf by multi-E association which had effect of decreasing wages and extending duration of current contract, on grounds that extreme financial conditions permitted untimely withdrawal from association, violative, where, although E could show it was experiencing financial losses, E did not show that adherence to negotiated agreement would worsen its financial condition or that it was in no position to adhere to agreement)

N.L.R.B. v. Jack E. Hartman, a Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Dependable Tile Company 774 F.2d 1376 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1985)
[E did not effectively withdraw from multi-E bargaining, hence its failure to honor agreement reached, unlawful, notwithstanding its initial timely withdrawal, since E's subsequent participation in negotiations up to effective date of withdrawal, with no indication E negotiating as independent, was inconsistent with attempt to abandon group bargaining, notwithstanding E's nonparticipation after date of stated withdrawal; nor did U consent to withdrawal, and E's contention unusual circumstances of unit fragmentation justified withdrawal, rejected]

5770-3100 Unusual circumstances permitting untimely withdrawal

American Bank Note Company 281 NLRB No. 099
[decline in business, even to point where volume of business is 1/4 of its previous level does not constitute unusual circumstances which would relieve E of consequences of its failure to give timely notice (of withdrawal from multiE bargaining)]

N.L.R.B. v. Jack E. Hartman, a Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Dependable Tile Company 774 F.2d 1376 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1985)
[fragmentation of multi-E bargaining unit is unusual circumstance that justifies E's unilateral withdrawal from unit during negotiations. Unit fragmentation occurs if, after negotiations have begun, substantial proportion of members of bargaining unit properly withdraw from it]

N.L.R.B. v. Jack E. Hartman, a Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Dependable Tile Company 774 F.2d 1376 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1985)
[signing of interim bargaining agreement by less than all members of multi-E association not such fragmentation of multi-E unit that would constitute unusual circumstances justifying E withdrawal from multi-E bargaining]

N.L.R.B. v. Jack E. Hartman, a Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Dependable Tile Company 774 F.2d 1376 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1985)
[signing of bargaining agreement with U by members of E association located in one city separate from agreement signed by E members in another city not fragmentation of multi-E unit that would constitute unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal of E from multi-E unit, since Es which signed such separate agreement represented less that 7 per cent of Ees bound by negotiations, notwithstanding constituted third of Ees bound by negotiations]

5770-3700 Consent to untimely withdrawal

5770-3733 Consent of union

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[E, bound by extension agreement negotiated by multi-E association, unlawfully refused to execute it and to abide by its terms, where E continued its business under guise of alter ego company, had never communicated written notice of withdrawal from E association or multi-E bargaining and had not revoked its prior written letter of assent to association of bargaining authority and U never agreed to E's withdrawal whether based upon alleged or unsupported manifestation of intent by E or circumstances surrounding bargaining sessions]

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[E, bound by extension agreement negotiated by multi-E association, unlawfully refused to execute it and to abide by its terms, where E continued its business under guise of alter ego company, since there were no unusual circumstances permitting E to withdraw from multi-E bargaining due to economic hardship or E's filing in bankruptcy, and E made no such argument on behalf of its alter ego which continued operation in post-extension agreement period; financial inability to meet contract wage rates, here unproven, is no grounds for permitting untimely withdrawal]

N.L.R.B. v. Jack E. Hartman, a Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Dependable Tile Company 774 F.2d 1376 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1985)
[U did not consent to E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining by failing to object to omission of E's name from list of E association members, where U announced it considered purported withdrawals mere bargaining tactics, absent affirmative actions antithetical to claim no withdrawal had occured, notwithstanding U's attempt to get E to sign interim agreement, and U's continuation of strike against E]

N.L.R.B. v. Jack E. Hartman, a Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Dependable Tile Company 774 F.2d 1376 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1985)
[E did not effectively withdraw from multi-E bargaining, hence its failure to honor agreement reached, unlawful, notwithstanding its initial timely withdrawal, since E's subsequent participation in negotiations up to effective date of withdrawal, with no indication E negotiating as independent, was inconsistent with attempt to abandon group bargaining, notwithstanding E's nonparticipation after date of stated withdrawal; nor did U consent to withdrawal, and E's contention unusual circumstances of unit fragmentation justified withdrawal, rejected]

5770-5000 Interim agreements

Thermo Heating, Inc. JD-(SF)-16-85
(E's refusal to abide by terms of Extension of Agreement negotiated on its behalf by multi-E association which had effect of decreasing wages and extending duration of current contract, on grounds that E had timely withdrawn from association, violative, where E's attempted withdrawal occurred after negotiations on agreement had begun, tentative agreement was reached with U and association and agreement had been ratified by a majority of association's members)

5784 WITHDRAWAL OF UNION FROM MULTIEMPLOYER BARGAINING

5784-3300 Timely

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073
[E's midterm withdrawal from multi-E bargaining timely and effective, since justified by unusual circumstances, where E's economic situation was such that it faced closure, and in view of U's intransigence in regard to contractual payments to health and welfare]

Arden Electric, et al. 275 NLRB No. 095
(U's ptns seeking single-E units of Es who had participated in multi-E unit represented by E association held not proper for dismissal, where E-members and E association intended to limit latter's authority so as to bargain only with IBEW or other Us as determined by board of directors and, upon accepting petitioner's disclaimer and thereby agreeing to dissolution of multi-E unit, E association could not bind Es to multi-E bargaining relationship with substitute for petitioner)

5784-6700 Untimely where negotiations begun

5784-6767 Absent unusual circumstances

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073
[E's midterm withdrawal from multi-E bargaining timely and effective, since justified by unusual circumstances, where E's economic situation was such that it faced closure, and in view of U's intransigence in regard to contractual payments to health and welfare]

5791 INDIVIDUAL BARGAINING WITH UNION DURING MULTIEMPLOYER NEGOTIATIONS

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86

[fact that U sent negotiated contract separately to E members of E association for their signatures following signing by E association held no grounds, in fact or law, to sustain view advanced by E that such U conduct supported view that U agreed to E's bargaining singly, since U took such action to be on safe side to nail down those Es who intended to abide by law as viewed by U, and those who did not do so and would therefore be subject to legal action]

5800 MULTIUNION BARGAINING

6000 NATURE AND EXTENT OF OBLIGATION AND DUTY TO BARGAIN

6001 GENERALLY

6001-2500 Effect of 8(f) prehire agreement

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104

(while normally incumbent U enjoys presumption of majority support, in construction industry certain contracts are lawful even in absence of majority support; therefore, presumption of continued majority does not always apply)

6001-5000 Scope of section 8(d)

Phillip A. Hunt Corporation JD-14-86

[E's decision to relocate certain work performed by unit Ees at plant represented by U to new non-U plant, excluded from limited scope of 8(d) where decision to relocate was not based upon labor costs but instead was based upon change in direction and nature of its business]

6001-5017 Obligation to meet with object of reaching understanding on wages, hours, and other terms and conditons of employment

Mack Trucks, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 084

(alleged failure of E to bargain with U over effects of its decision to close one plant and transfer work of truck assembling to another facility, not violative, since record fails to show E refused to bargain over effects of E's decision to close its facility. Local and international U's as well as E's proposals were discussed at numerous negotiating sessions. Record warrants determination that E was willing to discuss closure and transfer problems with U representatives w/i framework of E and U's master agreement)

6001-5025 Continuation of existing terms and conditions pending bargaining

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185

(unilateral changes violative, since E was still bound by expired contract where it had notified U of intention to terminate contract but had not offered to negotiatea new one or notified U of intention to change terms and conditions of employment existing at time of expiration of old contract)

Alpine Vending, Inc. JD-(SF)-99-85

(E's failure to apply provisions of bargaining agreement to all Ees of unit, and after expiration of contract unilaterally changing contract rate of pay, and failing to make contributions to health, welfare, and pension trust funds, unlawful, where E did not during term of contract give notice and obtain consent of U for deviations as required by Section 8(d) of Act, and after contract expired did not bargain to impasse with U)

6001-5028 Applicability during bankruptcy proceeding

(U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)

[Bd is precluded from, in effect, enforcing terms of collective-bargaining agreement by filing ULP charges against debtor-in-possession for violating Sec. 8(d) of NLRA by modifying or terminating unexpired labor agreement. Though Bd's action is nominally one to enforce Sec. 8(d), practical effect of enforcement action would be to require adherence to terms of agreement, but filing of ptn in bankruptcy means that agreement is no longer enforceable. Consequently, Bd enforcement under these circumstances would run directly counter to express provisions of Bankruptcy Code]

(U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)

[debtor-in-possession does not need to comply with mid-term contract modification procedures set forth in Sec. 8(d) because bargaining agreement is not enforceable contract w/i meaning of 8(d); therefore, because modification accomplished by operation of law (Bankuptcy Code) and not by unilateral action of E, it follows that debtor-in-possession need not comply with provisions of Sec. 8(d) prior to seeking Bankruptcy Ct's permission to reject agreement]

N.L.R.B. v. Bildisco & Bildisco, Debtor-in-Possession, et al. ——U.S.——

(U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)

[debtor-in-possession is E under NLRA and is obligated to bargain collectively with certified representative over terms of new contract pending rejection of existing contract or following formal approval of rejection by Bankruptcy Ct, but no ULP by unilaterally breaching contract before formal Bankruptcy Ct action]

Mark Manufacturing Corp. JD-373-85

[E's failure to give pay raises and checkoff U dues, on grounds that pending bankruptcy litigation and NLRB v. Bildisco, 104 S.Ct. 1188 allowed its actions, violative, since E abrogated bargaining agreement before bankruptcy ptn was filed and did not submit any proposal to the U, after filing ptn, to modify bargaining agreement, as required by Bankruptcy Amendments of 1984]

N.L.R.B. v. Superior Fowarding, Inc. 762 F.2d 695 (C.A. 8, May 1985)

(ct should deny debtor's mtn to enjoin Bd proceedings on charge if ULP charge stems from debtor's failure to bargain in good faith over terms and conditions of new contract)

N.L.R.B. v. Superior Fowarding, Inc. 762 F.2d 695 (C.A. 8, May 1985)

(bankruptcy ct may, upon mtn by debtor, enjoin Bd from proceeding with hearings on ULP charges which arise from debtor's unilateral modification or rejection of collective-bargaining agreement, when those proceedings would threaten assets of debtor's estate)

6001-5083 Duty to bargain as to matters not covered by agreement

Armour and Company 280 NLRB No. 096

[contention that since allocation of severance and vacation payments to Ees being terminated upon closing of plant to specific periods was bargained for between parties, and was matter which bargaining agreement controlled, neither party had further obligation to bargain during term of bargaining agreement, rejected, since U is not seeking to discuss any modification of terms or conditions of contract and contract silent on issue, notwithstanding parties reached agreement on other matters concerning closing of plant, where no zipper clause, no clear and unmistakable waiver of matter, and absent evidence issue was subject of prior bargaining]

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061

[obligation to bargain over wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment, as well as any mid-term changes therein, covers multitude of specific items where terms, conditions of employment, and mid-term changes have effect of cutting wages, decreasing (Ee) take functions and content of (an Ee's) job an asserted waiver of bargaining obligation involves exaimnation of meaning of contract provisions and does not oust Bd of jurisdiction to make that examination]

Electrical Workers Local 1466 v. N.L.R.B. (Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.) 795 F.2d 150

[no unilateral change in wages and no requirement that E must bargain when E discontinued its past practice of 40 years of paying Christmas bonus where contract contained zipper clause that stated... contract...shall be the sole source of all rights or claims which may be asserted in arbitration hereunder or otherwise.... and contract silent as to Christmas bonus]

6017 EMPLOYEE PRESENTATION OF OWN GRIEVANCE: 9(a) PROVISO

6017-5000 Union must be given opportunity to be present

United States Postal Service 281 NLRB No. 138

[E's settling EEO precomplaint at meeting with Ee, w/o notification to or participation by U, violated Sec. 9(a)'s guarantee of U's right to be present at E's and Ee's adjustment of grievances, where subject matter of EEO precomplaint and grievance which U was responsible for processing were the same]

United States Postal Service 281 NLRB No. 139

[E's settling EEO claim with Ee w/o affording U opportunity to be present, violation where EEO claim and contract grievance involved same subject matter, for reasons stated in United Postal Service, 281 NLRB No. 138]

Wedgewood Nursing Home 273 NLRB No. 216

(E did not unlawfully adjust grievances at Ee council meetings by not allowing U opportunity to be present at such time as required by Sec. 9(a), where shop stewards were in attendance at council meetings at which it was alleged grievances were discussed and adjusted; E is not required under second proviso of Section 9(a) to notify particular U officials in addition to U stewards, or similar in plant U representatives before holding meetings at which Ees could air grievances)

6033 MECHANICS OF BARGAINING

6033-0700 Participation in bargaining session

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097

[failure of E, present at bargaining sessions with U, to testify in support of its consultant engaged in negotiating with U held not to have adversely affected E's case, where E was not active participant in bargaining and much of the time was present pro forma; consequently, E's failure to testify in support of consultant's testimony merely represented gaps in E's awareness of what occurred at bargaining sessions]

Mack Trucks, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 084

(alleged failure of E to bargain with U over effects of its decision to close one plant and transfer work of truck assembling to another facility, not violative, since record fails to show E refused to bargain over effects of E's decision to close its facility. Local and international U's as well as E's proposals were discussed at numerous negotiating sessions. Record warrants determination that E was willing to discuss closure and transfer problems with U representatives w/i framework of E and U's master agreement)

6033-1400 Time and place of meeting

6033-1475 Situs of bargaining sessions

N.L.R.B. v. Platte Valley Plumbing & Heating 748 F.2d 445 (C.A. 8, Nov. 1984)

(E's refusal to negotiate with U at U hall rather than E's premises, as had been done in prior sessions, violative, since place of conducting negotiations is mere protocol and does not constitute a matter of substance concerning the duty to bargain)

6033-2000 Authority of representative

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 175

(E's distribution of information to Ees on salaried benefits not unlawful where E was given authorization by U representatives to distribute information)

Spring Valley Farms, Inc. JD-(ATL)-54-86

[When agent is appointed to negotiate collective bargaining agreement, that agent is deemed to have apparent authority to bind his principal, absent clear notice to contrary. Where there is such notice, condition on agreement is imposed]

Ambassador Convalescent Center, Inc. Debtor-In-Possession In Bankruptcy JD-319-85

(agent appointed to negotiate bargaining agreement, is deemed to have apparent authority to bind his principal in absence of clear notice to contrary)

6033-2850 Must have sufficient authority and knowledge to negotiate effectively

Hyatt Regency New Orleans 281 NLRB No. 042

[asserted lack of authority on part of E's negotiator held not to indicate bad faith bargaining, since agent is not required to have plenary authority; it is sufficient that he has enough authority to engage in meaningful negotiations]

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198

(although E not required to be represented by individual possessing final authority to enter into agreement, this is subject to limitation that it does not inhibit progress of negotiations. Degree of authority possessed by negotiator is factor which may be considered in determining good-faith bargaining)

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84

(E's failure to send representative to bargaining table who had authority and knowledge to bargain in good faith, unlawful, where representative's power to negotiate was limited to securing U's acceptance of changes previously instituted by E, such limited power was a hindrance to good-faith bargaining, and it was evident that representative did not understand extent of proposals he was making on behalf of E)

Whisper Soft Mills, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 754 F.2d 1381 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1984)

(E had no duty to bargain with District Council of local U (the latter being the certified representative), notwithstanding local U's contention it had delegated authority to District Council to bargain on its behalf, since District Council did not consent to local U's grant of authority where District Council claimed throughout negtotiations with E that local U did not want to be a party to any agreement and such statement was in effect a claim by District Council not to be an agent of local U)

6033-4300 Composition of bargaining committee

6033-4320 Representative may designate composition of bargaining representative

U.S. Postal Service 280 NLRB No. 080

[choice of representatives (for U) is solely internal affair for U and choice of those agents must be free from E influence. E may not permit his supervisors, even low level supervisors, to participate as U representatives in collective-bargaining process]

Whisper Soft Mills, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 754 F.2d 1381 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1984)

(an international U is not barred from delegating bargaining authority to members of a local U and in general, a U may select whomever it wants, including officers and members of other Us, as representatives in dealing with Es)

6033-4340 Employer may not refuse to meet with designated representative absent special circumstances

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050

[E's refusal to recognize Ee as U's designated shop steward and refusing to meet with him to discuss grievances, violative, notwithstanding E was under no contractual obligation to do so]

Sahara Datsun, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 148

[U officer not entitled to act as U representative in negotiations where, by informing bank through which E obtained financing for its customers that E was submitting falsified customer credit applications and by publishing, in newsletter mailed to Ees, accusations that E's owners were involved with prostitutes and use and sale of cocaine, he created such atmosphere of ill will that good faith bargaining would be futile, if not impossible, were E required to deal with him as U representative; allegations were unsubstantiated and directed against members of management who would negotiate with U]

Southern California Edison Company 274 NLRB No. 167

(E's refusal to conduct grievance meetings with Ees or U officials who wore Stick Your Retro button concerning retroactive pay raise during contract negotiations between E and U, violative, since wearing of button protected, and no matter what buttons were being worn, E was not privileged to refuse to meet and deal with U on matters being pursued through grievance arbitration process, at least so long as they did not cause unreasonable disruption (of process))

6033-4370 Representative delegation of bargaining authority to another union

Whisper Soft Mills, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 754 F.2d 1381 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1984)

(an international U is not barred from delegating bargaining authority to members of a local U and in general, a U may select whomever it wants, including officers and members of other Us, as representatives in dealing with Es)

6033-4380 Presence of persons other than conferees at bargaining session

N.L.R.B. v. Platte Valley Plumbing & Heating 748 F.2d 445 (C.A. 8, Nov. 1984)

(E's refusal to reply to U's letters requesting further negotiations on grounds that U was asking E to meet in presence of other Es with whom U had been negotiating violative, since fact that other Es were to be present did not defeat fonafides of U's request to resume bargaining)

6033-4380-1300 Stenographers or court reporters

Nassau Insurance Company 280 NLRB No. 103

[U's insistence on having stenographer present at negotiating session justified E's subsequent refusal to bargain, since presence of stenographer non-mandatory subject of bargaining; U's contention stenographer was present only to record E's final offer, and was justified by E's pre-settlement withdrawal of proposals, rejected]

6033-5600 Counterproposals

6033-5650 Obligation to make after proposals

Hyatt Regency New Orleans 281 NLRB No. 042

[E's counteroffer held not evidence of bad faith bargaining even though it was made 4-1/2 months after preceding proposal had been withdrawn and it represented more demanding bargaining position than withdrawn proposal; party which withdraws proposal is under no obligation to offer another proposal; and justification for more demanding offer was not so illogical in view of waning support for U and its desire to sign contract at earliest possible moment]

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85

[insisting to impasse on sole control of wages, not violation where U failed to make counterproposal it had indicated it intended to make]

6033-6000 Withdrawal of agreed-upon contract proposals

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abbot Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091

[violation, where E withdrew its agreements and offers as done for retaliation after U had filed new ULP charges against it]

Luther Manor Nursing Home 277 NLRB No. 007

(E's unilateral withdrawal of previously offered wage proposal which Bd, in prior case, found had been agreed to and accepted by U, resulting in total effective agreement, unlawful)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(agreements reached on individual items during (contract) negotiations are not necessarily final and binding)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(contention that E's sending different final offer letters to Ees prior to economic strike against E was attempt to bypass U and direct dealing with Ees, rejected, since sending and distributing such letter in no way disparaged U or Ees' bargaining representative, was not coercive and amounted to no more than a legitimate tactic of urging the ees to communicate with their representative, to persuade them to tell their negotiators they wanted them to accept the company's newest offer)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(nonagreement is not to be equated to bad faith; change of circumstance (U's strike in instant case) can make withdrawal of offers lawful)

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84
(E's withdrawal of its offer after it had been accepted by U, unlawful; offer is not automatically terminated by other party's rejection or counter proposal, but it can be accepted w/i reasonable time; accordingly, while E's position that it was not obligted to keep offer available for a year in face of U's rejection of it is reasonable, there is nothing that prohibits E from keeping offer available if it decides to do so)

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84
(E demonstrated lack of good-faith bargaining and that it did not come to bargaining table with desire to reach agreement as shown by withdrawing earlier proposal accepted by U, presenting regressive proposals w/o adequate justification for its action, and doing so in course of committing ULPs)

6033-7000 Impasse

6033-7001 Generally

The Idaho Statesman 281 NLRB No. 041
[insisting to impasse on permissive bargaining subjects of changing scope of unit by changing U's jurisdiction over mailroom work and attempting to restrict or expand unit, violations]

Lou Stecher's Super Markets 275 NLRB No. 071
(while temporary lapse in communications is not necessarily indicative of impasse, it assumes significance herein in light of E's and U's statements regarding futility of bargaining and their initial commitment to meet every day; further, when U and E finally did meet, it was so U could confirm rumor that E was implementing contract proposal)

Lou Stecher's Super Markets 275 NLRB No. 071
(finding of impasse not precluded by U's stated intention to get back to E after assembling independent package, since U did not get back to E except to confirm rumor about implementation of E's contract proposal, and U's failure to get back to E is evidence that U resigned itself to futility of bargaining)

Lou Stecher's Super Markets 275 NLRB No. 071
(finding of impasse is consistent with U's statement that it would get something together for negotiations where statement occurred in conversation in which E confirmed he would begin implementing contract proposal, and U was simply trying to dissuade E from implementing contract proposal rather than stating belief that progress could be made through further negotiations)

Lou Stecher's Super Markets 275 NLRB No. 071
(finding of impasse is not precluded by fact that parties met on only three occasions, since Bd does not apply rigid formula in determining whether length of negotiations is indicative of impasse; here, abbreviated nature of negotiations is consistent with parties' recognition of futility of further bargaining)

N.L.R.B. v. Auto Fast Freight, Inc. 793 F.2d 1126 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[exception to bargaining to impasse rule is that E may unilaterally implement proposals w/o first bargaining to impasse where, upon expiration of contract, U has avoided or delayed bargaining, and E has given U notice of specific proposals it intends to implement]

6033-7001-5000 No obligation to continue negotiations after impasse

Bloomsburg Craftsmen, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 043
(E's refusal to meet with U to discuss demands for written job descriptions, not violative where E's duty to meet in good faith was suspended by bona fide impasse; futility of further negotiations was as much fault of U as E where, having declared its position, U at no time following deadlock communicated any changes in its proposal)

Allbritton Communications Co., The News Printing Co., Inc. and The Hudson Dispatch v. N.L.R.B. 766 F.2d 812 (C.A. 3, July 1985)
(E's unilateral wage reduction, not violative, since parties were at impasse where E bargained in good faith for wage concessions for 2 months and had presented its bottom line proposal to U at least 3 weeks before implementation and U gave no indication it would agree to any wage concession)

6033-7008 What constitutes

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E's unilateral implementation of its flat rate wage with incentive proposal after expiration of bargaining agreement, and rejection by Ees of E's final proposal, not unlawful, since impasse existed where there had been 7 negotiating meetings during which there had been in depth discussions, positions on issues were advanced in good faith, but parties positions on flat rate wage remained unalterably opposite; fact concessions made on other matters did not preclude finding of impasse on flat rate since that issue was of overriding importance and parties were still not close to reaching agreement]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097
[no impasse existed where E, in response to U's initial proposal that E pay all of forthcoming increase in Ees' insurance coverage, stated that it sought to cease making such contributions in its entirety; such matter was not pursued any further during course of negotiations; E proposed and bargained for number of changes in parts of contract relating to insurance coverage; inherent in such proposals was continuation and not termination of insurance coverage; and to U's claim of ratification of contract by Ees, E responded that no contract existed for Ees to ratify]

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143
(E had bargained to impasse over conversion of its driver Ees to independent contractors where U made no concessions, notwithstanding E notified it a month before contract expired of E's intent, offered alternatively during negotiations to retain drivers as Ees in exchange for economic concessions, advised U of its economic problems, and offered to let U substantiate them by examining E's records)

Browning-Ferris Industries of Pennsylvania, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 021
(impasse reached where E entered negotiations determined to leave negotiations with ability to employ fewer drivers at lower rate of pay while U never retreated from position of insisting on 4-day work week and some wage increase; on gut issue of overtime, E proposed incentive plan instead of time and one-half for overtime on which U insisted for the entirety of bargaining; and while E did attempt to displace U through decertification, other factors did not show that E was bargaining in bad faith)

Long Island University JD-263-86
[no impasse where U did not reject offer of E nor announce strike; rather U announced they would probably recommend rejection and probably recommend strike, but did not recommend rejection. Bd has never found, absent rigid time constraints, that failure to respond to E's final offer w/i 5 day period constitutes rejection which would have brought parties to impasse; therefore, unilateral implementation of wage proposals, violative]

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibralter Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(E held not privileged to institute wage incentive plan on ground that, while there was no overall bargaining impasse at time plan was implemented, impasse existed on when implementation should be accomplished; bargaining does not contemplate piecemeal implementation of each item, and impasse contemplates deadlock in negotiations over prospects of concluding complete agreement; assuming impasse existed over plan's implementation, no finding could be made that such issue had crippled prospects for reaching agreement or was sole impediment thereto; and here parties continued to negotiate over other items)

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84
(no impasse existed and E unlawfully unilaterally implemented its prior contract proposals, where e had not bargained in good faith, had not exhausted prospects of reaching agreement, and had committed ULPs during course of bargaining)

6033-7014 Agreement need not be reached

Hamady Bros. Food Markets, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 183
(E's unilaterally implementing its proposals, not violative where E had bargained in good faith to impasse; although parties met only 5 times, finding of impasse not precluded where parties engaged in good-faith bargaining; further, E's repeated requests for cost reductions and U's insistence on restoration of benefits were issues of central importance to both parties; after both parties reasserted their respective positions, E announced it would implement its final proposal and received no response from U)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(E's seeking to change discharge and suspension language during contract negotiations with U so that it could exercise the prerogatives of management, because of backpay E was required to pay certain discriminatees not bad faith bargaining, since E had discussed various proposals (with U) and made concessions and/or agreements on number of issues concerning Ees' conditions of employment)

6033-7028 Concessions indicate lack of impasse

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E's unilateral implementation of its flat rate wage with incentive proposal after expiration of bargaining agreement, and rejection by Ees of E's final proposal, not unlawful, since impasse existed where there had been 7 negotiating meetings during which there had been in depth discussions, positions on issues were advanced in good faith, but parties positions on flat rate wage remained unalterably opposite; fact concessions made on other matters did not preclude finding of impasse on flat rate since that issue was of overriding importance and parties were still not close to reaching agreement]

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143
(E had bargained to impasse over conversion of its driver Ees to independent contractors where U made no concessions, notwithstanding E notified it a month before contract expired of E's intent, offered alternatively during negotiations to rettain drivers as Ees in exchange for economic concessions, advied U of its economic problems, and offered to let U subetantiate them by examining E's records)

SGS Control Services, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 137
(significant concessions of both parties late in bargaining sessions, especially of U, indicated lack of impasse)

Robinson Construction Co., Inc. JD-(SF)-7-85
(E's unilateral changes in wages and fringe benefits, on grounds that impasse had been reached, violative, since no impasse existed where only 2 real bargaining sessions had taken place, U and E both had made changes in their negotiating positions and E declared impasse w/o giving U time to present E's final proposal to its committee for vote)

6033-7056 No impasse

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040
[no impasse regarding insurance benefits where parties met for only two sessions, E agreed to provide U with information on basis of which U would make proposals, parties agreed to meet again before E's stated deadline for expiration of benefits, and E provided no information but sent U notice of impasse instead]

Long Island University JD-263-86
[no impasse where U did not reject offer of E nor announce strike; rather U announced they would probably recommend rejection and probably recommend strike, but did not recommend rejection. Bd has never found, absent rigid time constraints, that failure to respond to E's final offer w/i 5 day period constitutes rejection which would have brought parties to impasse; therefore, unilateral implementation of wage proposals, violative]

N.L.R.B. v. Henry Miller Spring & Manufacturing Company, Inc. ———F.2d——— (C.A. 3, June 1986)
[implementation of last contract offer, unlawful, where bargaining history did not support E's claim of impasse]

N.L.R.B. v. Henry Miller Spring & Manufacturing Company, Inc. ——— F.2d ——— (C.A. 3, June 1986)
[implementation of last contract offer, unlawful, where bargaining history did not support E's claim of impasse]

N.L.R.B. v. Auto Fast Freight, Inc. 793 F.2d 1126 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[exception to bargaining to impasse rule is that E may unilaterally implement proposals w/o first bargaining to impasse where, upon expiration of contract, U has avoided or delayed bargaining, and E has given U notice of specific proposals it intends to implement]

6033-7056-5000 Surface bargaining

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[E engaged in bad faith surface bargaining where, prior to U election, E told unit Ees he wouldn't give those bastards anything during negotiations, E's proposals at table were not merely tough but sought to ensure U no voice in Ees' terms and conditions of employment i.e., management rights clause gave E absolute authority over all terms and conditions of employment, U was excluded from grievance and seniority provisions and was not permitted to grieve E's wage decisions; further, U demonstrated flexibility in important areas while E was unyielding on all major points]

6033-7056-8400 Existence of possibility of agreement

Rogers Cleaning Contractors, Inc. and Its Alter Ego, Olmsted Cleaning Contractors, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 053
(no impasse found in view of few negotiating sessions, agreement on most issues, and lack of evidence of uncompromising positions or feelings of futility of parties)

Dependable Building Maintenance Company; et al. 276 NLRB No. 007
(Es' initial implementation of their final offer, violative, since there was no impasse where they implemented their offer too soon after complying with U's request for information to test U's alleged rigidity anad determine whether the U would use the information to modify its position; Es' subsequent implementations of their final offer seven and twelve months later, respectively, however, not violative, since there was enough evidence of continued disagreement to support finding of impasse where U made no economic concessions)

SGS Control Services, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 137
(lack of impasse indicated where U still believed parties' differences could be resolved after E's submission of its final offer and at time of E's implementation thereof, and E was not justified in assuming that further bargaining would have been futile)

John's Lumber & Hardware Company JD-199-86
[no impasse after E's unlawful unilateral changes and bargaining directly with Ees, even if no unremedied ULPs existed, in view of resolution of difficult noneconomic issues and continuing bargaining over economic issues, E's economic package on table while E refused to allow U audit of its books, discussion of possible settlement of instant case and of backpay]

Robinson Construction Co., Inc. JD-(SF)-7-85
(E's unilateral changes in wages and fringe benefits, on grounds that impasse had been reached, violative, since no impasse existed where only 2 real bargaining sessions had taken place, U and E both had made changes in their negotiating positions and E declared impasse w/o giving U time to present E's final proposal to its committee for vote)

6033-7056-9500 Refusal to provide financial records

Cowin & Co., Inc. 277 NLRB No. 082
(E's refusal to provide U with requested financial information during bargaining, violative, since E's statements to U in course of bargaining amounted to claim of inability to pay where at outset of negotiations E advised U that there was real question whether E would be in business at termination of contract and E raised as justification for wage reduction proposals its financial losses for previous 3 years; further, because of this finding, E's claim of impasse rejected and its unilateral wage reduction and change in work rules, violative)

United Sheetmetal of Arizona, Inc. JD-(SF)-97-85
(E refusing to supply U with information during bargaining to support insistence on regressive wage proposals, violative and no impasse reached, where E repeatedly bemoaned fact during negotiations that it could not compete with non-U contractors and thus was making a poverty plea and its refusal to provide data to U in response to U request for supporting data not only is unlawful but prevents finding of bonafide impasse subsequent to U's request for information)

N.L.R.B. v. Harvstone Manufacturing Corp., Duray Fluorescent Manufacturing Co., American Fluorescent Corp. and House-O-Lite Corp. 785 F.2d 570 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)
[although Es acknowledged, in response to U inquiries, that they could lose money and eventually go out of business if their competitive position did not improve, they never communicated to U that they were unable to pay U's proposed demands and there was no substantial evidence to support Bd's conclusion that Es bargained in bad faith by refusing to provide substantiating financial data after pleading inability to pay]

6033-7070 Resumption of bargaining required

Accurate Web, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 030
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U during certification year as extended, violative, since U and E entered into settlement agreement extending certification year, committing E to bargain with U, resulting in U's withdrawing ULP charges against E]

6033-7084 Unilateral action may be justified by impasse

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E's unilateral implementation of its flat rate wage with incentive proposal after expiration of bargaining agreement, and rejection by Ees of E's final proposal, not unlawful, since impasse existed where there had been 7 negotiating meetings during which there had been in depth discussions, positions on issues were advanced in good faith, but parties positions on flat rate wage remained unalterably opposite; fact concessions made on other matters did not preclude finding of impasse on flat rate since that issue was of overriding importance and parties were still not close to reaching agreement]

Walter A. Ziegar, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 149
[implementation of final offer reducing wages after impasse, not violation]

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040
[unilaterally discontinuing contractual insurance benefits for laid-off Ees, violation in absence of impasse]

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143
(E's unilateral implementation of its final offer involving conversion of its driver Ees to independent contractors, not violation where parties had bargained to impasse)

Koenig Iron Works, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 083
(where party, in bargaining sessions ...insists on continually avoiding or delaying bargaining...)

SGS Control Services, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 137
(E's implementation of its final offer in absence of impasse, violative)

Lou Stecher's Super Markets 275 NLRB No. 071
(E's unilateral introduction of prepared product contrary to U's desires, not violative where, notwithstanding parties had met only three times, they reached impasse over subject as shown by U president's comment that parties were far apart and could not get together, their subsequent lapse in communication broken only by U president's wish to confirm rumor that E was going to introduce the product, and his statement, following such confirmation, that they U would get something together, which was attempt to dissuade E from introducing product rather than affirmation of belief that progress could be made)

Taft Broadcasting Company, WBRC--TV 274 NLRB No. 038
(E did not unlawfully insist to impasse on nonmandatory subject of bargaining where GC failed to satisfy his burden of proof that E conditioned any agreement to mandatory subject on acceptance of its nonmandatory jurisdictional unit proposal; rather such proposal was simply one of several unresolved issues when parties reached impasse generally on mandatory subjects of bargaining)

E. F. Mitchler Co., d/b/a Lodi Ready Mix JD-(SF)-91-86
[E's unilateral implementation of new wage rates and vacation benefits, failure to remit contributions to pension fund, and alteration of seniority system after expiration of contract, unlawful, notwithstanding existence of impasse, since changes varied from E's final offer; E's contention that in view of U's rejection of its final offer, it would have been futile to offer less advantageous conditions which it implemented, rejected, inasmuch as had E announced its intent to implement proposals, impasse might have been broken and bargaining continued]

Allbritton Communications Co., The News Printing Co., Inc. and The Hudson Dispatch v. N.L.R.B. 766 F.2d 812 (C.A. 3, July 1985)
(E's unilateral wage reduction, not violative, since parties were at impasse where E bargained in good faith for wage concessions for 2 months and had presented its bottom line proposal to U at least 3 weeks before implementation and U gave no indication it would agree to any wage concession)

6033-8400 Failure to sign or reduce agreement to writing

General Hugh Mercer Corp., d/b/a Princeton Holiday Inn 282 NLRB No. 004
[E's refusal to sign agreed-upon contract, violative]

Georjan, Inc. and/or Fort Mason Enterprises, Inc. and/or Latrobe Speedway 281 NLRB No. 129
[E's refusal to execute contract, assertedly because there were major areas of disagreement, violative, since the areas of disagreement were only in the talking stages during negotiations and at the final negotiation session where there was agreement, E raised these other areas of disagreement only to impede formation of a contract he now found too expensive]

E.B. Manning & Son, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 152
[E's refusal to sign contract and to provide health and welfare benefits, unlawful, where complete agreement was reached on all contract terms, obligating E to sign contract and to provide contractual benefits; E's mailing of contract draft to U did not relieve E of its obligations since E and U agreed it was E's responsibility to prepare written contract, and E made no attempt to contact U after U indicated it had not received contract which differed in some respects from agreed upon terms]

Springfield Transit Management, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 124
[E's failure to execute contract after impasse and issuance of state ct-ordered arbitration award, unlawful, where E and U reached agreement consisting of old contract, pre-arbitration agreements, and arbitration award, all of which E's prepared document accurately reflected, and U requested that document be signed; E's defense that its pre-arbitration agreements required approval of state authority which retained control over its bargaining process, rejected, since failure by E and authority, which were ordered by ct to submit unresolved issues to arbitration, to submit previously negotiated contract terms constituted approval of agreements

Inner City Broadcasting Corporation 281 NLRB No. 162
[E held not to have unlawfully refused to execute contract with U, since there was no acceptance of E's final offer and therefore no agreement, where E's offer was conditioned upon U's acceptance by specified time, which U failed to meet; and even if E's offer was unconditional, contract drafts previously tendered by U differed from E's offer as to duration and effective dates, and therefore did not express agreement of parties]

Ashe Brick Company 280 NLRB No. 162
[enforceable contract formed and E obligated to execute and abide by contract, where U accepted unequivocally w/o modification E's complete contract package since E's proposals were still on bargaining table, notwithstanding U had rejected some proposals and made some counter proposals, and that U's acceptance was over 3 months after last bargaining session, absent evidence E had withdrawn proposals prior to U's acceptance, and where U's mention of certain terms in telegram of acceptance were merely mention of certain terms already reached and not offer of new terms]

Cowles Publishing Company 280 NLRB No. 105
[E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to execute contract and furnish information to U on unit Ees, on grounds U had abandoned unit thus giving E good faith doubt, violative, since U had not abandoned unit where, although U had experienced some turnover in its representatives, this had happened only once, U did continue to process grievances and had U steward present at E's plant and fact that U's negotiator told E once during negotiations that contract w/o U security was not worth the paper it was written on, and U failed to secure this demand, was not evidence of abandonment]

Newtown Corporation 280 NLRB No. 038
[E's refusal to execute written agreement with U on ground that U's constitution and bylaws prohibited entering into binding agreement absent majority vote of U membership, unlawful, where U accepted E's contract offer by informing E that unit ratified contract by vote of 5 for and 5 against; since internal U matters cannot effect validity of bargaining agreements, E's argument based on U's constitution and bylaws was incorrect as matter of law; and, thus, E had no standing to question validity of U's internal procedures in ratifying agreement]

John Wanamaker Philadelphia 279 NLRB No. 140
[E's refusal to execute contract with U, assertedly after U had conformed agreement to all of E's objections, not violative, where, in final meeting with U, E had not told U of all its objections to agreement before it abruptly terminated meeting, thus, there was no meeting of minds on all provisions of contract]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097
[E did not violate Act by refusing to execute draft contract, where lack of agreement about anyone of submitted contract proposals would have been complete defense to claim that E was obligated to execute contract; and, in any event, there was a number of outstanding issues on which no agreement was reached]

Fashion Furniture Mfg., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 095
[E's refusal to sign completed written bargaining agreement, unlawful, notwithstanding asserted condition precedent of inclusion of provision regarding E's average in health and welfare and pension payments, where U informed E that it did not wish to include average provision in new contract, and there was no evidence that E indicated agreement was conditioned on inclusion]

Fashion Furniture Mfg., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 095
[E's refusal to execute written contract, violative where E's refusal was based on U's denial of E's additional and belated demand for concessions regarding deferral of benefit payments after agreement had been reached and ratified]

Hilton Inn North 279 NLRB No. 009
[E's refusal to sign contract on which final agreement reached, unlawful. E's contention its final offer was withdrawn and never reinstated, rejected, and E's owner's review of contract language did not constitute right to veto agreements reached]

R.E.C. Corporation 277 NLRB No. 120
(E's refusal to sign bargaining agreement until U's long time shop chairman fulfills his promise to sign letter resigning from E's employ, unlawful, absent express agreement that conditioned E's signing of agreement on resignation letter; E's contention agreement to sign retirement letter was side agreement and integral part of renewal contract, thus refusal to execute letter abrogated entire agreement, barred by parol evidence rule in that E thereby would seek to change term of contract)

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 277 NLRB No. 078
(E's failure to execute contract setting forth its final offer that U accepted, violation, since offer contained all essential terms, including health and welfare plan and pension benefit levels, the only omission being administrative details that did not affect U; deferring such identified issues does not preclude finding that parties agreed on a contract, and E showed its belief that offer could result in enforceable contract by presenting an offer w/o contingencies and by its letter to Ees)

Luther Manor Nursing Home 277 NLRB No. 007
(E unlawfully refused to execute written contract embodying terms of complete bargaining agreement which parties had reached and effective dates of which were determined by parties' practice of using wage offers' effective dates to determine duration of contract)

Round Hill Foods, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 114
(E's refusal to execute agreed upon contract with U, assertedly because it had good faith doubt of U's majority status as E had learned that Ee attendance at U meetings was very low and only 13 out of 227 unit Ees had attended a U meeting to ratify contract, violative, since such matters are purely intra-U matters and cannot be relied upon in asserting good faith doubt of U's majority status)

Georgia Pacific Corporation 275 NLRB No. 017
(E's refusal to reduce to writing agreement regarding change from 3 shifts a day to 4 shift program, effect of which was that each Ee worked 7 days and then had 2 days off, where E and U had negotiated change, plan had been agreed to by majority of members of U, and implemented, and when parties agree on a mandatory subject of bargaining Sec. 8(d) requires execution of written agreement; E's contention it had right under management rights clause to make change unilaterally, rejected, since no clear and unmistakable waiver of right to bargain regarding change in shifts)

Felbro, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 186
(E's refusal to abide by contract, on grounds that it revoked its offer before it was notified of contract's ratification by membership, violative, where E and U had agreed on all terms of contract and Ees ratified contract; further, fact that E was not notified of ratification was immaterial to its attempt to revoke offer)

Arno Moccasin Company 274 NLRB No. 222
(E's failure and refusal to sign, upon request, complete agreement of parties, violative where U timely accepted E's complete contract offer, and complete agreement on wages, hours, and working conditions had been reached by parties)

Amer-Cal Industries, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 148
(E's refusal to sign contract on grounds that execution of parties' agreement was contingent upon outcome of decertification proceeding, not violative, notwithstanding contingency was nonmandatory subject of bargaining where U failed to object to E's proposal regarding contingency during negotiations)

Interprint Co. 273 NLRB No. 222
(E's refusal to execute allegedly agreed-upon contract on grounds that there was no meeting of the minds, not violative, where draft of contract submitted by U to E did not contain commencement or termination dates and no dates were agreed upon by parties during negotiations, several clauses in draft were omitted or altered by U to make contract more acceptable to U, and ALJ, during the hearing, added or omitted terms to contract which in fact the parties had never agreed to, and in effect wrote the contract for the parties, contrary to Bd's remedial powers as interpreted in H.K. Porter)

Kelly Broadcasting Company d/b/a DCRA–TV 273 NLRB No. 206
(notwithstanding that under Dresser, 264 NLRB 1088, E and incumbent U required to bargain and execute any agreed upon contract even though decertification ptn filed, E and U may by mutual agreement defer effective and execution date of any contract reached until decertification ptn is resolved, and refusal of E to sign this contract with incumbent U until such resulution, not violative)

Stablex of South Carolina, Inc. JD-(ATL)-64-86
[E did not unlawfully refuse to execute agreement to which ratification by Ees or U members was condition precedent, where Ees initially rejected contract by written vote, but then assertedly accepted contract by showing of hands after they were told it was necessary to either vote to strike or accept contract, since, notwithstanding contract ratification procedure does not need to be written and is generally considered internal U matter not subject to question by E, once having followed procedure, U is not free to ignore results and adopt different procedure]

Norsk Hydro Aluminum, Inc. JD-(ATL)-14-86
[E's refusal to execute contract, not violative, since there was no meeting of the minds on major issue of wages where although e had made offer on wages, offer was withdrawn before acceptance by U]

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[E, bound by extension agreement negotiated by multi-E association, unlawfully refused to execute it and to abide by its terms, where E continued its business under guise of alter ego company, had never communicated written notice of withdrawal from E association or multi-E bargaining and had not revoked its prior written letter of assent to association of bargaining authority and U never agreed to E's withdrawal whether based upon alleged or unsupported manifestation of intent by E or circumstances surrounding bargaining sessions]

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[E, bound by extension agreement negotiated by multi-E association, unlawfully refused to execute it and to abide by its terms, where E continued its business under guise of alter ego company, since there were no unusual circumstances permitting E to withdraw from multi-E bargaining due to economic hardship or E's filing in bankruptcy, and E made no such argument on behalf of its alter ego which continued operation in post-extension agreement period; financial inability to meet contract wage rates, here unproven, is no grounds for permitting untimely withdrawal]

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[E-member of multi-E association unlawfully refused to execute extension agreement negotiated by E association where E was included on list of E-members when parties reached agreement, E was covered by 2 preceeding contracts pursuant to earlier specific authorizations by E who had never withdrawn from multi-E bargaining nor given any notice, oral or written that it had withdrawn therefrom; and despite E's failure to respond to U's letter requesting his signature to negotiated agreement, it was found E received such request but failed to execute agreement]

Coos-Bend, Inc., d/b/a The Sawmill Restaurant & Lounge JD-(SF)-156-85
(E's refusal to execute written bargaining agreement containing terms verbally agreed to, violative)

Bertolucci's Fender and Body Shop, Inc. JD-(SF)-143-85
(no unlawful refusal to execute contract where parties had not agreed on length of probationary period, U security, and incentive plan)

Murphy Fabrication and Erection Co. JD-146-85
(E did not unlawfully refuse to execute written contract where there was no agreement to extend expiring contract for another year; even if E had agreed to extension, no binding agreement on terms of extension had been reached since newly-appointed U negotiators were unaware of settlement agreement reached with E in prior ULP case or of wage concessions granted by U during term of contract and there was no discussion between parties concerning those matters)

Flechtner Packing Company JD-135-85
(E's refusal to execute and abide by terms of bargaining agreement, on grounds that it never reached agreement with U on eye care plan, violative, since full agreement was reached where E's written proposal on eye care was clear and unambiguous, accepted and ratified by U; further, E's contention that after it made proposal on eye care, it was informed by insurance carrier that there was less costly plan available, and thus there was mutual mistake, rejected, since the mistake was solely on E's part)

N.L.R.B. v. Gentzler Tool and Die Company 778 F.2d 1211 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1985)
[Bd's order that E sign bargaining agreement and give retroactive effect to its terms, enforced; E's contention that it is in compliance with Bd's order since it had compensated Ees for any losses and restored benefits, and that U had failed to comply with order by declining to correct contract, rejected]

Local 512, Warehouse and Office Workers' Union, Ladies Garment Workers v. N.L.R.B. 795 F.2d 705 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[E's refusal to execute agreed upon contract upon ratification by Ees, which was only condition to execution of contract agreed to, unlawful; E's contention that it have effectively revoked offer by its mailgram sent to U prior to U's mailing notification of ratification vote, rejected, since ratification, not notification of vote, was critical act]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097
[while lack of agreement about effective date of proposed contract in some circumstances can be complete defense to claim that E or U is unwarrantedly refusing to execute written contract, such is not the case herein where effective date, selected by U, was w/o significance in terms of its impact on E, assuming agreement on other terms of draft contract]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097
[if variations between draft contract written by one of the parties and parties' agreement are only minor deviations or inadvertent errors, party that has been asked to execute contract must do so after elimination of deviations or errors; however, such principle did not apply herein where U included terms regarding overtime in its written draft that U knew had not been agreed upon; and additional terms imposed duties on E beyond anything parties had previously discussed]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097
[while fact that agreement is product of one party's mistake does not entitle that party to refuse to sign contract embodying such agreement where mistake is part of written agreement or even part of fully discussed oral understanding, such requirement is not to be imposed where, as here, E's

alleged agreement would have had to have been product of momentary inattention or confusion, and U made no effort to confirm that parties really had reached agreement]

Hydro Conduit Corporation 278 NLRB No. 164
[mere filing and service of ULP charge alleging E refused to execute an agreement does not constitute notice of acceptance of an offer in collective bargaining negotiations between private parties so as to make E's failure to execute agreement, when there has otherwise not been a valid acceptance, a violation of Section 8(a)(5)]

Ben Franklin National Bank 278 NLRB No. 136
[E's refusal to sign bargaining agreement unlawful, since obligated to sign where meeting of minds reached during certification year inasmuch as Ee's ratification of E's final offer and dispatch of U's telegraphic acceptance both transpired w/i certification year and before E posted letter withdrawing its last offer; notwithstanding receipt by E during certification year of ptn signed by majority of Ees stating they no longer wished to be represented by U, and prior reservation of right of E's president and Board of Directors to approve and ratify any tentative agreement, since e's president had apparent authority to bind E]

Ben Franklin National Bank 278 NLRB No. 136
[E's contention that under technical rules of contract law it was not obligated to execute contract, since U's acceptance of E's offer was not effective until U's mailgram of acceptance was received, which was after expiration of certification year, rejected, since technical rules of contract law do not control collective bargaining, and further, assuming arguendo applicability of technical contract rules, U's acceptance was operative when its mailgram of acceptance was dispatched]

Lithochrome Corporation 276 NLRB No. 132
(E's refusal to execute contract, not unlawful, since no agreement reached where E waid for U to contact him when U finished negotiating with major Es in industry in same city, and when U subsequently transmitted copies of contract with another E to E it was accompanied by a note requesting E contact U regarding any changes, and in ptn to ct to compel arbitration under provisions of expired contract, U did not allege parties had reached agreement)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198

Spring Valley Farms, Inc. JD-(ATL)-54-86
[E obligated to sign agreement reached notwithstanding allegations of rejection by U membership, no meeting of minds over checkoff provision, length of contract and its effective date, where, in fact, ratification by membership not required, agreement, in fact, reached over checkoff and term of contract, and though effective date of contract left blank and parties had not discussed a date for signing, parties were in agreement contract would be effective on signing and so ALJ set effective date 1 week after U's notification to E of its acceptance]

6033-9200 Ratification by employees

Newtown Corporation 280 NLRB No. 038
[E's refusal to execute written agreement with U on ground that U's constitution and bylaws prohibited entering into binding agreement absent majority vote of U membership, unlawful, where U accepted E's contract offer by informing E that unit ratified contract by vote of 5 for and 5 against; since internal U matters cannot effect validity of bargaining agreements, E's argument based on U's constitution and bylaws was incorrect as matter of law; and, thus, E had no standing to question validity of U's internal procedures in ratifying agreement]

Freedom WLNE-TV, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 167
[E's conditioning further movement in negotiations upon U's conducting ratification vote, violative]

Childers Products Company 276 NLRB No. 074
(E's refusal to execute and to give effect to contract, conditioning acceptance on ratification by Ees when, in fact, ratification was effected by U's executive board, unlawful, since condition precedent of ratification meant ratification as defined by U in its internal procedures, and during negotiations parties had not established any understanding what U meant by ratification; consequently, method of ratification was w/i U's exclusive control and U reasonably interpreted its constitution and by-laws concerning ratification and acted in accordance therewith by having board ratify contract)

Childers Products Company 276 NLRB No. 074
(in finding that E unlawfully refused to execute and to give effect to contract, conditioning acceptance on ratification by Ees when, in fact, ratification was effected by U's executive board, Bd held it was for U, not E, to construe and apply U's internal procedures relating to what would be sufficient to amount to ratification and, therefore, E had no standing to question procedure of ratification which was w/i U's exclusive domain and control)

Felbro, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 186
(E's refusal to abide by contract, on grounds that it revoked its offer before it was notified of contract's ratification by membership, violative, where E and U had agreed on all terms of contract and Ees ratified contract; further, fact that E was not notified of ratification was immaterial to its attempt to revoke offer)

Stubler of South Carolina, Inc. JD-(ATL)-64-86
[E did not unlawfully refuse to execute agreement to which ratification by Ees or U members was condition precedent, where Ees initially rejected contract by written vote, but then assertedly accepted contract by showing of hands after they were told it was necessary to either vote to strike or accept contract, since, notwithstanding contract ratification procedure does not need to be written and is generally considered internal U matter not subject to question by E, once having followed procedure, U is not free to ignore results and adopt different procedure]

Spring Valley Farms, Inc. JD-(ATL)-54-86
[Bd requires specific proof of agreement to make ratification condition precedent to bargaining agreement]

Spring Valley Farms, Inc. JD-(ATL)-54-86
[ratification by Ees not condition precedent to agreement, since statement by U representative that merely announced intention, consistent with U's practice, to submit final agreement to membership for ratification did not constitute proposal, nor did any party seek to include ratification as term of agreement; U's decision to take final proposal to membership for ratification did not in itself make acceptance of proposal contingent upon ratification]

J. L. Davidson Company JD-(SF)-186-85
[E's refusal to execute contract, not violation where E was aware that Ees had refused to ratify contract and had withdrawn U's authority to represent them]

Local 512, Warehouse and Office Workers' Union, Ladies Garment Workers v. N.L.R.B. 795 F.2d 705 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[E's refusal to execute agreed upon contract upon ratification by Ees, which was only condition to execution of contract agreed to, unlawful; E's contention that it have effectively revoked offer by its mailgram sent to U prior to U's mailing notification of ratification vote, rejected, since ratification, not notification of vote, was critical act]

6033-9300 Ratification by employer

Ben Franklin National Bank 278 NLRB No. 136
[E's refusal to sign bargaining agreement unlawful, since obligated to sign where meeting of minds reached during certification year inasmuch as Ee's ratification of E's final offer and dispatch of U's telegraphic acceptance both transpired w/i certification year and before E posted letter withdrawing its last offer; notwithstanding receipt by E during certification year of ptn signed by majority of Ees stating they no longer wished to be represented by U, and prior reservation of right of E's president and Board of Directors to approve and ratify any tentative agreement, since e's president had apparent authority to bind E]

Ben Franklin National Bank 278 NLRB No. 136
[E's contention that it had no obligation to sign agreement reached between U and its negotiators since subsequent ratification by its Board of Directors required, rejected, where E's final offer was communicated as final offer embodying complete contract rather than as routine bargaining offer by E's president who was also member of Board of Directors, nor did letter submitting offer contain any caveat that further action by Board of Directors was essential to meeting of minds]

6033-9640 Repudiation of contract

NDK Corporation 278 NLRB No. 151
[E unlawfully repudiated contract with U in midterm, where E's admissions provided requisite proof to establish GC's prima facie case, and E was not permitted to escape liability under federal labor policy and conventional common law principles on ground that E's consent to execution of contract was unlawfully induced by U official's false representation that contract would not be enforced]

Ben Franklin National Bank 278 NLRB No. 136
[bargaining contract offer is not automatically terminated upon rejection by other party to bargaining process, and, in absence of prior withdrawal of proposal, either expressly, or through operation of changed circumstances giving rise to reasonably based conclusion that offer has been withdrawn, rejecting party may supercede its previous action and accept proposal, giving rise to legal imperative on part of offer or to abide by mandate of Section 8(d) of Act]

Felbro, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 186

EPE, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 169
(E's re-opening contract for purpose of obtaining U's agreement to raising insurance premiums and granting wage increase and then unilaterally repudiating contract when U did not agree to its proposals, violative, where E's action in re-opening contract was attempt to coerce U into accepting proposals which had been found violative in prior Bd hearing and further, because of E's bad faith in re-opening contract, it could not rely on provision allowing for repudiation of contract if no agreement was reached during re-opener negotiations as grounds for repudiating contract)

Alamo Cement Company 281 NLRB No. 110
[E's unilateral 25-cent increase in rental fees charged by third-party supplier for uniforms furnished to Ees who opted to wear uniforms but were not required to do so, not unlawful since, assuming matter was mandatory subject of bargaining, increase did not constitute material, substantial, and significant change in terms and conditions of employment]

ABS Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 145
[unilateral decision to close plant and relocate remaining work, not violation, as there was no duty to bargain where decision was nonmandatory bargaining subject in view of fact it turned, not on reduction of labor costs but on restructuring of company due to heavy losses and requirements of lenders]

Pan American Grain Company, Inc. and Bulk Terminal Operations, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 019
[decision to subcontract stevedoring work found mandatory subject of bargaining where U could have made concessions that would have affected decision to subcontract]

Armour and Company 280 NLRB No. 096
[whether severance and vacation pay paid to Ees being terminated is to be allocated to specific periods held mandatory subject of bargaining, since effects real value of bargaining agreement and economic well being of Ees, where under state statute E has option to allocate payments to specific periods, and if allocated, rather than lump sum payments, payments will be deemed wages and effect Ees' eligibility for unemployment compensation]

Borden, Inc., Chemical Division Thermoplastic Products 279 NLRB No. 089
[insisting to impasse on permissive bargaining subject by demanding that receipt of severance pay by Ees whose jobs had been terminated be conditioned on their execution of general release of Ees' civil and statutory health and safety complaints, violation, where there was insufficient nexus between permissive subject of general releases and mandatory subject of severance pay to inextricably intertwine the two subjects of bargaining]

[decision to relocate operations not manadatory bargaining subject where it did not turn on labor costs]

Getty Refining and Marketing Co. 279 NLRB No. 126
[Ee recreation fund partially supporting social events and group recreational activities held existing employment condition subject to mandatory bargaining since fund amounted to significant economic benefit to individual Ees, and substantial sum which constituted integral part of total economic package available to Ees and was, in effect, wage enhancement feature that was part of E's compensation structure]

Getty Refining and Marketing Co. 279 NLRB No. 126
[Ee recreation fund partially supporting social events and group recreational activities held existing employment condition subject to mandatory bargaining; while E established fund unilaterally, it was not simply gift or gratuity since Ee benefit that E initiates voluntarily may become employment condition over which E must bargain; here, fund existed for almost 30 years, E incorporated fund policy into Ee relations manual, and E thereby gave Ees some expectation that fund benefit will remain available in connection with their employment; Benchmark Industries, 270 NLRB 22, distg.]

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 163
(mandatory subjects include only those matters that materially or significantly affect unit Ees' terms and conditions of employment and the phrase terms and conditions of employment is to be construed in a limited sense and does not include all subjects that may merely be of interest or concern to the parties)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147
(privileges granted to U, i.e. permitting local U chairman to spend 4 hours of paid time each working day conducting U business including grievance processing, use of office, telephoae and duplicating machine, held mandatory, rather than illegal subjects of bargaining which were violative of Sections 302 and 8(a) of LMRA)

Gar Wood-Detroit Truck Equipment, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 023
(failure of E, which was engaged in installation of equipment and accessories on trucks and also selling parts, to bargain over its decision to subcontract its service work, not unlawful, since no specific term of contract was identified as having been modified and decision to subcontract not subject to mandatory bargaining since decision turned not merely on labor costs but on significant change in nature and direction of enterprise with E's essential purpose being to not only reduce overhead costs such as rent and utilities but to also get out of service and installation business and just sell parts)

Gar Wood-Detroit Truck Equipment, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 023
(as stated in Otis Elevator 269 NLRB No. 162, critical factor in determining whether specific management decision is subject to mandatory bargaining is essence of decision itself, i.e. whether it turns upon change in nature or direction of business or turns on labor costs; not its effect on Ees nor U's ability to offer alternatives. Further, in Otis Elevator Bd specifically stated that Fibreboard subcontracting is subject to mandatory bargaining not because decision is labeled subcontracting but because decision turns on reduction of labor costs)

Assable Communications, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 166

(no violation when E relocated unit work (single E) and thereby brought unit Ees under different bargaining agreement which was less favorable to these Ees, since contract covering original workstation did not contain any provisions preventing E from making such relocation w/o first obtaining consent of U and E bargained in good faith over decision to relocate)

Everett Yacht Club JD-(SF)-115-85
(E's failure to bargain with U over effects of its decision to subcontract its bar and restaurant operations, violative, since U could have accomplished positive and favorable considerations for unit Ees if U had learned of E's intent to subcontract prior to its being put into effect)

6050-0830 Work functions

The Idaho Statesman 281 NLRB No. 041
[attempt to change mailroom work to work physically done in the mailroom itself relates to description or scope of unit and is therefore permissive bargaining subject]

The Idaho Statesman 281 NLRB No. 041
[insisting to impasse on permissive bargaining subjects of changing scope of unit by changing U's jurisdiction over mailroom work and attempting to restrict or expand unit, violations]

Taft Broadcasting Company, WBRC–TV 274 NLRB No. 038
(E did not unlawfully insist to impasse on nonmandatory subject of bargaining where GC failed to satisfy his burden of proof that E conditioned any agreement to mandatory subject on acceptance of its nonmandatory jurisdictional unit proposal; rather such proposal was simply one of several unresolved issues when parties reached impasse generally on mandatory subjects of bargaining)

6050-0875 Composition of unit

Hyatt Regency New Orleans 281 NLRB No. 042
[repeated expressions of displeasure by E during negotiations over composition of bargaining unit held not to indicate bad faith bargaining, where E never discontinued negotiations nor demanded change in composition of unit, and E's complaints about unit did not impede negotiations in any way]

The Idaho Statesman 281 NLRB No. 041
[proposal to consolidate A and B trainee classifications into helper classification found attempt to change scope of unit by withdrawing recognition from

The Idaho Statesman 281 NLRB No. 041
[insisting to impasse on permissive bargaining subjects of changing scope of unit by changing U's jurisdiction over mailroom work and attempting to restrict or expand unit, violations]

Bozzuto's, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 100
(insisting to impasse on changing unit scope to eliminate Ees working less than 32 hours a week, a nonmandatory bargaining subject, as condition for new contract, violation)

Kohler Company 273 NLRB No. 195
(violation by unilaterally removing stock clerk position from bargaining unit; E admitted that it redefined stock clerk position for this purpose, an action which was not a right granted E by contractual management rights clause)

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(E not free to alter composition of bargaining unit under guise of transfer of unit work after impasse on transfer of unit work to Ees outside unit, a mandatory subject of bargaining on which impasse is allowed)

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(E's advising U during negotiations that E controlled matter of split in certified unit, when in actuality split was army decision who had contracted work out to E, violative, since E's advice was conscious course of action intending to deceive U; such conduct (of E) was deceptive bargaining with tendency to inhibit process of collective bargaining)

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
]transfer of unit work, lawful)

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(alteration of composition of (certified) bargaining unit prima facie unlawful)

6050-0900 Employees outside the unit

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 163
(mandatory subjects of bargaining include only those issues that settle an aspect of relationship between E and Ees and while matters affecting individuals outside bargaing unit are not automatically excluded, the touchstone is whether such matters vitally affect terms and conditions of unit Ees; an indirect or incidental impact on unit Ees is not sufficient to establish matter as a mandatory subject)

6050-1600 Remuneration and benefits

6050-1612 Wages

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061
[obligation to bargain over wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment, as well as any mid-term changes therein, covers multitude of specific items where terms, conditions of employment, and mid-term changes have effect of cutting wages, decreasing (Ee) take-hom pay or changes in functions and content of (an Ee's) job an asserted waiver of bargaining obligation involves examination of meaning of contract provisions and does not oust Bd of jurisdiction to make that examination]

6050-1612-5800 Indirect wages

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85
[refusing to bargain about issuance of parking stickers to unit Ees, violation where stickers were indirect remuneration for services and mandatory bargaining subject]

6050-1612-7100 Fringe benefit payments

Greater Detroit Heating and Cooling, Inc. JD-116-85
(E's refusal to make required payments of fringe benefits in compliance with either expired contract or newly negotiated agreement, violative)

6050-1612-8700 Remuneration for time spent in bargaining negotiations or presentation of grievances

N.L.R.B. v. BASF Wyandotte Corp. 798 F.2d 849 (C.A. 5, Sept. 1986)
[paid time to U stewards for performance of U duties is mandatory subject of bargaining]

6050-1625 Bonuses

Freedom WLNE-TV, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 167
[conditioning payment of profit sharing and Christmas bonus upon contract ratification, violative]

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019
(discontinuing payment of year-end bonus, not unlawful, where E negotiated with U concerning bonus and did not engage in fait accompli bargaining, E had economic justification because of low level of business for not paying bonus, and parties deadlocked and were at impasse after full discussion of mutual positions)

Electrical Workers Local 1466 v. N.L.R.B. (Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.) 795 F.2d 150
[no unilateral change in wages and no requirement that E must bargain when E discontinued its past practice of 40 years of paying Christmas bonus where contract contained zipper clause that stated... contract...shall be the sole source of all rights or claims which may be asserted in arbitration hereunder or otherwise.... and contract silent as to Christmas bonus]

6050-1645 Savings plan

American Model & Pattern, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 018
(E's unilateral discontinuance of end of year IRA payments to Ees, asserted-ly because such payments were wholly discretionary and hence not a subject of bargaining, violative, where such payments were routine and regarded by Ees as a regular company benefit)

6050-1662 Pensions and group insurance

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040
[benefits for laid off Ees mandatory bargaining subject where they were not inextricably entwined in contract with nonmandatory subject of benefits for pensioners and surviving spouses]

6050-1667 Profit-sharing plans

Freedom WLNE-TV, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 167
[withholding profit sharing payment until bargaining agreement was ratified, violative]

6050-1668 Benefits for retired employees

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040
[benefits for laid off Ees mandatory bargaining subject where they were not inextricably entwined in contract with nonmandatory subject of benefits for pensioners and surviving spouses]

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040
[benefits for laid off Ees mandatory bargaining subject where they were not inextricably entwined in contract with nonmandatory subject of benefits for pensioners and surviving spouses]

6050-2500 Tenure and Seniority

6050-2501 Generally

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061
[obligation to bargain over wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment, as well as any mid-term changes therein, covers multitude of specific items where terms, conditions of employment, and mid-term changes have effect of cutting wages, decreasing (Ee) take-hom pay or changes in functions and content of (an Ee's) job an asserted waiver of bargaining obligation involves examination of meaning of contract provisions and does not oust Bd of jurisdiction to make that examination]

6050-2512 Hiring practices

Southwestern Steel & Supply, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 1111 (C.A. D.C., Dec. 1986)
[use of hiring hall mandatory subject of bargaining[

6050-2515 Severance pay

Armour and Company 280 NLRB No. 096
[whether severance and vacation pay paid to Ees being terminated is to be allocated to specific periods held mandatory subject of bargaining, since effects real value of bargaining agreement and economic well being of Ees, where under state statute E has option to allocate payments to specific periods, and if allocated, rather than lump sum payments, payments will be deemed wages and effect Ees' eligibility for unemployment compensation]

Borden, Inc., Chemical Division Thermoplastic Products 279 NLRB No. 059
[insisting to impasse on permissive bargaining subject by demanding that receipt of severance pay by Ees whose jobs had been terminated be conditioned on their execution of general release of Ees' civil and statutory health and safety complaints, violation, where there was insufficient nexus between permissive subject of general releases and mandatory subject of severance pay to inextricably intertwine the two subjects of bargaining]

6050-2528 Seniority

6050-2528-7500 Contractually rather than statutorily based

Brown Company; Brown Company, Livingston-Graham Division; et al. 278 NLRB No. 113

6050-2579 Reinstatement rights of economic strikers

Gaso Pumps, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 076
(E's insisting to impasse on, and subsequently unilaterally implementing, strike settlement proposal limiting reinstatement rights of striking Ees to 6 months after termination of strike, violative, where U had never agreed to settlement agreement during negotiations and E had not shown that legitimate and substantial business justifications existed for its limitations on strikers' reinstatement rights; Ees may not be deprived of statutory rights in the absence of a clear and unmistakable waiver of those rights)

6050-2528 Seniority

6050-2528-7500 Contractually rather than statutorily based

Brown Company; Brown Company, Livingston-Graham Division; et al. — 278 NLRB No. 113

6050-2579 Reinstatement rights of economic strikers

Gaso Pumps, Inc. — 274 NLRB No. 076

(E's insisting to impasse on, and subsequently unilaterally implementing, strike settlement proposal limiting reinstatement rights of striking Ees to 6 months after termination of strike, violative, where U had never agreed to settlement agreement during negotiations and E had not shown that legitimate and substantial business justifications existed for its limitations on strikers' reinstatement rights; Ees may not be deprived of statutory rights in the absence of a clear and unmistakable waiver of those rights)

N.L.R.B. v. Jarm Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Blu-Fountain Manor — 785 F.2d 195 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[successor E's refusal to reinstate striking Ees of predecessor E who had been replaced, violative, and successor held liable for predecessor's ULP which converted strike to ULP strike, since successor purchased business with knowledge of predecessor's ULP; further, successor's contention that ULP charge against predecessor had originally been dismissed and thus it had no notice of potential reinstatement liability, rejected, since it assumed the risk that the actions may later be found unlawful]

6050-3300 Working conditions

Westinghouse Electric Corporation — 278 NLRB No. 061

[obligation to bargain over wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment, as well as any mid-term changes therein, covers multitude of specific items where terms, conditions of employment, and mid-term changes have effect of cutting wages, decreasing (Ee) take-home pay or changes in functions and content of (an Ee's) job an asserted waiver of bargaining obligation involves examination of meaning of contract provisions and does not oust Bd of jurisdiction to make that examination]

6050-3340 Work schedules

Georgia Pacific Corporation — 275 NLRB No. 017

(work shifts, held mandatory subject of bargaining)

6050-3360 Coffeebreaks

United States Postal Service — 275 NLRB No. 057

(reducing break periods from 15 to 10 minutes on one of its shifts to conform with its established policy--contract silent on issue--w/o bargaining with U, not violative, as all Ees aware of 10 minute break policy and notwithstanding that on this shift, as opposed to other shifts, extended break standard for 15 years except for 2 short periods as Bd considered this partial breach of otherwise uniformly applied work rule inadequate basis from denying E right to uniformly apply work rule to all its Ees)

6050-3380 Health and safety rules

BASF Wyandotte Corporation — 278 NLRB No. 028

[unilateral implementation of respirator seal rule that had effect of prohibiting wearing of facial hair by Ees whose jobs necessitated their wearing respiratory protective equipment, not violation where U waived right to bargain over rule by agreeing to management rights clause allowing E to make and enforce rules deemed necessary or proper for conduct of Ees and operation of plant]

6050-4100 Grievance and dispute resolving procedures

N.L.R.B. v. Pennsylvania Telephone Guild — 799 F.2d 84 (C.A. 3, Aug. 1986)

[U insisting to impasse that it be allowed to tape record all of grievance meeting, a nonmandatory subject of bargaining, violative, as grievance meeting substantially similar to bargaining negotiations and insistence on tape recorder at latter was held unlawful as it could inhibit free and open discussions]

6050-4133 Grievances

6050-4133-3700 Refusal to process or delay in processing (See also 530-6067-2080-6900)

Airport Distributors, Inc. — 280 NLRB No. 091

[E's refusal to recognize U-designated Ee as steward and to accept steward's proffered grievances unlawful; while E's conduct, in absence of other unlawful acts, might be dismissed as temporary release of pent-up emotional frustration in having to deal with U, E's conduct constituted breach of its bargaining obligation in view of E's extensive coercive and retaliatory conduct against Ees, including discrimination against U steward]

Stovall Manufacturing Company, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 039

(E's refusal to discuss and process Ees' grievances concerning disciplinary action until parties had negotiated a contract, violative, since E is obligated to discuss and process grievances and absence of contract incorporating grievance procedure does not relieve E of such obligation)

6050-4133-8700 Presence of union representative at grievance meeting

Arizona Portland Cement Company, A Division of California Portland Cement Company, A Division of Calmat — 281 NLRB No. 030

[refusing to meet and bargain with international U's representative designated as U's representative for processing grievances at grievance step 2 meeting, violation]

Ground Breakers, Inc. — 280 NLRB No. 014

[E's refusal to allow grievants right to have present at grievance meeting non-Ee representative of U, unlawful, where contract language, relied on by E, was not clear and unmistakable waiver of U's right to designate its representatives for processing grievances, nor did contract specifically limit presence of non-Ee U representative at grievance meeting]

Ground Breakers, Inc. — 280 NLRB No. 014

[no clear and unmistakable waiver of U's right to designate its representative at grievance processing meeting existed since, by naming grievance committee in contract, parties did not necessarily mean to exclude all others, including non-Ee U representative; issue is not so much matter of contract interpretation as matter of Ees' statutory rights; and Ee's right to be represented by representative of his own choosing should not be lightly denied]

Union Carbide Corporation, Nuclear Division — 275 NLRB No. 037

(E soliciting and resolving grievances through ad hoc committee formed to review problems in a section of E's plant w/o providing U opportunity to be present at such adjustment violative; further, E's contention that U was present because committee included U's alternate shop steward, rejected, where steward was appointed in capacity of Ee and not as U representative, he was not told he was representing U and steward did not even report what was transpiring at committee meetings to any U official)

Union Carbide Corporation, Nuclear Division — 275 NLRB No. 037

(E's contention that U waived right to be present at adjustment of grievances by ad hoc committee formed to review problems in a section of E's plant because E told U official that committee was being formed to look into the general situation, rejected, where E did not tell U that committee would include unit Ees or that committee would interview unit Ees and E did not offer U opportunity to participate on committee; U cannot be said to have received actual notice of committee's planned membership or operations)

6050-4500 Plant relocation

Metropolitan Teletronics Corp. — 279 NLRB No. 134

[decision to relocate operations not manadatory bargaining subject where it did not turn on labor costs]

Phillip A. Hunt Corporation — JD-14-86

[E's decision to relocate certain work performed by unit Ees at plant represented by U to new non-U plant, excluded from limited scope of 8(d) where decision to relocate was not based upon labor costs but instead was based upon change in direction and nature of its business]

6050-5700 Interest arbitration clause

Sheetmetal Workers, Local Union No. 263 v. N.L.R.B. — ——— F.2d ———

(DC N.D. IA, Mar. 1984)

[mtn by Bd and E association to dismiss plaintiff U's action seeking order enforcing arbitration award in attempt to enforce interest arbitration clause, granted since under FRCP 12(b)(6) mtn to dismiss should not be granted unless it appears that plaintiff is entitled to no relief under any set of circumstances which could be proved in support of claim; for purposes of mtn, C must be construed in light most favorable to pleader and its allegations taken as true; and interest arbitration clause is unenforceable insofar as it applies, as here, to inclusion of similar clause in new contract]

Sheetmetal Workers, Local Union No. 263 v. N.L.R.B. — ——— F.2d ———

(DC N.D. IA, Mar. 1984)

[in granting mtn to dismiss U's action seeking order enforcing arbitration award in attempt to enforce interest arbitration clause in current contract to compel inclusion of similar contract in new contract, ct held it was not necessary to vacate interest arbitration provision of arbitrator's award since no action will lie to enforce it]

6050-5800 Management prerogatives

6050-5825 Promulgation of disciplinary rules

Continental Telephone Company of California — 274 NLRB No. 210

(E's unilaterally instituting new Positive Discipline program to deal with Ees' infractionsof its rules, including attendance rules, not violative where U waived its right to bargain concerning such policy through management-rights clause in parties' contract; neither U nor its representatives contested E's right to issue unilaterally new rules nor did they request bargaining)

6050-5850 Duties and functions of management personnel

U.S. Postal Service — 280 NLRB No. 080

[choice of representatives (for U) is solely internal affair for U and choice of those agents must be free from E influence. E may not permit his supervisors, even low level supervisors, to participate as U representatives in collective-bargaining process]

6050-5875 Management rights clause

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 073

(E's seeking waiver of Ees' right to engage in ULP strikes, as part of no-strike clause, and right to seek redress from Bd or other tribunal for discipline imposed under clause on replaced strikers, not unlawful, since Act does not prohibit Us from waiving Ees' right to strike over ULPs; and proposed waiver of replaced strikers right to Bd's processes, absent other evidence, read as permitting only non-discriminatory application, and does not extend to appeals to Bd on other matters; since this waiver merely derivative of waiver of right to strike a mandatory subject of bargaining, it too is mandatory, thus E could insist to impasse on dual waiver)

6050-6600 Internal union matters

6050-6625 Ratification of contract by employees

Stablex of South Carolina, Inc. JD-(ATL)-64-86

[E did not unlawfully refuse to execute agreement to which ratification by Ees or U members was condition precedent, where Ees initially rejected contract by written vote, but then assertedly accepted contract by showing of hands after they were told it was necessary to either vote to strike or accept contract, since, notwithstanding contract ratification procedure does not need to be written and is generally considered internal U matter not subject to question by E, once having followed procedure, U is not free to ignore results and adopt different procedure]

6050-7000 Matters relating to nonunit employees

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 163

(E's refusal to bargain over a summer help program not violative, since program was not mandatory subject of bargaining where it did not vitally affect unit Ees (there was no claim that unit Ees were laid off or denied overtime because of program) and any benefit unit Ees may have claimed by E's employment of their offspring was at most indirect and remote; any change in program by E or even its total elimination would be solely w/i control of E)

6050-7900 Support of union activities (paid time off, clerical support, space, etc.)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028

[U time clause mandatory bargaining subject]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147

(privileges granted to U, i.e. permitting local U chairman to spend 4 hours of paid time each working day conducting U business including grievance processing, use of office, telephone and duplicating machine, held mandatory, rather than illegal subjects of bargaining which were violative of Sections 302 and 8(a) of LMRA)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147

(E's grant of privileges to U chairman which included 4 hours of paid time each workday for conducting U business including processing of grievances, use of office, telephone and copying machine, not violative of Section 302 of LMRA, thus not illegal subject of bargaining justifying unilateral withdrawal of privileges since w/i exception set forth in Section 302 (c)(1) in that privileges were granted by reason of chairman's service as Ee of E, nor did such grant of privileges amount to bribery of Ees' representatives at which Section 302 was aimed)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147

(E's contention that its granting of privileges to U i.e. permitting U chairman to spend 4 hours of paid time each workday conducting U business including grievance processing, use of office, telephone, and copying machine, violated Section 8(a)(2) as unlawful support of U, and thus justified unilateral withdrawal of privileges as illegal rather than mandatory subject of bargaining, rejected, since grant of time and property not violative of Section 8(a)(2) where U had been recognized and dealt with at arms length, but merely friendly cooperation of amiable labor management relationship, absent deeper E involvement or intrusion into U affairs)

6050-8400 Work functions

Sonat Marine, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 016

[E's offer to U to meet and discuss the legal basis upon which E decided certain Ees were supervisors and why E was refusing to bargain concerning those Ees, after U had formally requested E provide it with factual basis for conclusion, was not an offer to provide U with requested information, since E was not offering to provide U with any information but rather was simply adhering to its previously stated view on the matter]

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85

(E not free to alter composition of bargaining unit under guise of transfer of unit work after impasse on transfer of unit work to Ees outside unit, a mandatory subject of bargaining on which impasse is allowed)

6050-9000 Most favored nations clause

Food & Commercial Workers, Local 274 (Millco, Inc.) 279 NLRB No. 026

[E's contention that U bargained in bad faith by not including most-favored-nations clause in final ratified contract, rejected and U's refusal to include such clause not violative, where such clause was never part of E's last and final offer to U, which was accepted, and issue of clause came up only after E realized that U had negotiated lower wages with a competitor, a fact not indicating mistake or fraud]

6067 ACTS CONSTITUTING REFUSAL TO BARGAIN OR INDICATING BAD FAITH

Midwestern Mining & Reclamation, Inc., A Subsidiary of Midwestern Fuels Systems, Inc., etc. 277 NLRB No. 001

(E did not unlawfully refuse to recognize U nor unlawfully withdraw recognition from U, where E's statements at meeting with U did not commit E to accord recognition to U; rather, E conditioned recognition by explicitly telling U representatives that he would have to take document back to E's board of directors for approval; at the time parties were not seeking to negotiate substantive terms of agreement but were merely negotiating regarding recognition of U and providing U with means of monitoring E's financial status to determine when substantive negotiations would become feasible)

6067-0100 Generally

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093

(in determining whether a party is bargaining in bad faith, Bd looks to totality of circumstances in which bargaining took place. Thus, Bd looks not only at parties' behavior at the bargaining table, but also to conduct away from the table that may affect negotiations)

6067-0150 Good faith is question of fact for Board to determine

6067-0150-8300 Union animus not prerequisite to finding of lack of good faith

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061

[fact E's unilateral mid-term changes in Ees' terms and conditions of employment were prompted by economic rather than discriminatory considerations is immaterial if E did not bargain about those changes. Defense that refusal to bargain did not take place in context of overall subjective, bad faith may be available when charge is violation of Section 8(a)(3) of Act, but it is no defense to 8(a)(5) allegation]

6067-2000 Actions taken to avoid reaching agreement

Landmark Industries, Inc. JD-(SF)-109-85

6067-2010 Response to bargaining request

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056

[E's reply to U demand letter asserting doubt of U's majority status, unlawful refusal to recognize and bargain where U had presented letters signed by seven out of eight unit Ees, the authority of which E did not question]

B & P Trucking, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 092

[failing to reply to U request for recognition and committing hallmark ULPs including discriminatory shutdown of part of operations and discharge of its Ees, violation]

Watson-Rummell Electric Co. 277 NLRB No. 162

[E's failure to bargain with U following expiration of contract of multi-E association from which E had timely withdrawn, unlawful, where E failed to bargain on individual basis]

Trucking Water Air Corporation 276 NLRB No. 158

(successor E's reply to U agent's request to meet and discuss the situation that E was a nonunion company constituted unlawful refusal to bargain where E was aware that predecessor was unionized)

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85

[refusing to bargain about issuance of parking stickers to unit Ees, violation where stickers were indirect remuneration for services and mandatory bargaining subject]

6067-2020 Surface bargaining

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050

[E engaged in bad faith surface bargaining where, prior to U election, E told unit Ees he wouldn't give those bastards anything during negotiations, E's proposals at table were not merely tough but sought to ensure U no voice in Ees' terms and conditions of employment i.e., management rights clause gave E absolute authority over all terms and conditions of employment, U was excluded from grievance and seniority provisions and was not permitted to grieve E's wage decisions; further, U demonstrated flexibility in important areas while E was unyielding on all major points]

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 073

(E's insistence on broad management rights and no strike clauses with restrictive grievance provision did not evidence intent to frustrate bargaining process or constitute surface bargaining, but rather lawful hard bargaining, in view of totality of E's conduct where it was willing to meet and bargain with U, attended all scheduled meetings, fulfilled procedural obligations, exchanged proposals and made concessions; nor were away-from-the-table statements by supervisors not involved in negotiations regarding futility of bargaining, all but one of which occured outside of Sec. 10(b) period, sufficient to prove E intent to frustrate bargaining process)

G. Zaffino and Sons, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 067
(no unlawful surface bargaining, where E made various complete contract offers during negotiations, which included wage increases, U security, grievance arbitration procedures, greater health and welfare benefits, notwithstanding contention E's insistence on provision allowing it to subcontract evidenced intention to avoid reaching agreement since subcontracting mandatory subject of bargaining and E may refuse to agree to subcontracting restrictions or insist on right to subcontract)

Roman Iron Works, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 066
(E did not engage in surface bargaining, notwithstanding GC presented some evidence which, in another context, might give rise to prima facie inference of surface bargaining where E was engaged in bargaining consistent with its relative strength vis a vis U)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 163
(E did not engage in surface bargaining, notwithstanding it had adopted unlawful restriction on distribution of literature and refused to provide U with information relevant to collective bargaining, where totality of E's conduct evidenced an intent to reach a mutually satisfactory base for agreement and E's conduct was no more than hard bargaining permitted by the Act)

Rescar, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 001
(E's seeking broad management rights and no-strike clauses and restricted grievance arbitration clause provision, not surface or bad faith bargaining, since E may lawfully seek favorable terms, and Bd's duty is to oversee bargaining process, not judge substance of terms offered; nor was failure to include contractual Ees in profit-sharing plan done in bad faith but in exchange for other terms U desired; finally, E's reducing offer in context of changes in the economy of the industry and parties' relative strengths was merely lawfully taking advantage of E's position)

United Sheetmetal of Arizona, Inc. JD-(SF)-97-85
(E conduct during bargaining of referring to many of U's proposals as illegal, i.e., non-mandatory, refusing to discuss U's proposals when indeed some of them were mandatory subjects and offering overly regressive proposals than previously offered to U in areas such as wages and benefits when there had been no change in E's business to justify the regressive proposals, not violative, where U insisted during negotiations of inclusion of non-mandatory subjects in any final contract, i.e., interest arbitration and supervisory work, thus warranting conclusion that U also bargained in bad faith)

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84
(E's conduct both at bargaining table and away from it demonstrated that E did not desire to enter into bargaining agreement and its actions were designed to frustrate bargaining process by engaging in surface bargaining, where E made misleading proposals, sought to secure U's acceptance of what it had instituted unilaterally, made untrue statements about its financial condition, withdrew prior offer w/o any legitimate reason for doing so, and made proposal substantially reducing benefits which Ees had gained by U representation)

Achilles Construction Co. JD-(NY)-9-85
(E's conduct found not to be w/o intention of reaching agreement, as alleged; E's delay in furnishing U with Ees' addresses was not related to bargaining obligation; its unilateral wage increase was found independent violation; its insistence on right to subcontract was permissible, as subcontracting was a mandatory bargaining subject; and E's request for significant give-backs from last contract, which had expired seven years before, and rejection of U's offers did not show bad faith)

N.L.R.B. v. Pratt & Whitney Air Craft Division, United Technologies Corporation (Machinist, District 91) 789 F.2d 121 (C.A. 2, Apr. 1986)
[E did not engage in surface bargaining where E's challenged actions did not point to bad faith, E did not adopt one bargaining position, and E properly did not bargain to impasse, but instead later formulated two-year offer whose terms were w/i reopener's scope; offer was also modified in attempt to reach agreement and such efforts constitute meaningful bargaining]

6067-2030 Dilatory and evasive tactics

6067-2030-0100 Generally

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(E's advising U during negotiations that E controlled matter of split in certified unit, when in actuality split was army decision who had contracted work out to E, violative, since E's advice was conscious course of action intending to deceive U; such conduct (of E) was deceptive bargaining with tendency to inhibit process of collective bargaining)

6067-2030-1200 Failure to reply, or delay in replying to request to bargain

Leeds Cablevision, Inc. and Cablevision Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 014
(although joint E met with U on five occasions in order to negotiate contract for E's Ees, Bd found that joint E failed to bargain in good faith with U, since: (1) E failed to respond to U's first two requests for bargaining; (2) as soon as U requested bargaining E proposed closing one of its facilities; (3) E informed U it was not willing to discuss wages until ALJ issued his decision in prior Bd C case involving one of joint Es and same Ees; and (4) other expressions of joint Es' U animus which frustrated bargaining process)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185

Best Cast, Inc. JD-(NY)-1-86
[admitted successor E's failure to answer U's request for bargaining, violation where E failed to prove alleged doubt of U majority status]

Alpine Vending, Inc. JD-(SF)-99-85
(E unlawfully refused to bargain regarding processing of grievance since it failed for 5 months to get down to business of selecting arbitrator, failed to respond to U's request for information relevant to grievance, raised spurious defense that U did not represent majority of Ees; nor was problem limited, as E contended, to deadlock over E's suggestion of bifurcating hearing of grievance (first to determine applicability of contractual time bar; next to hear merits), inasmuch as U was willing to have issue of bifurcation decided by any arbitrator selected; E cited no authority suggesting duty to arbitrate could be conditioned on certain arbitration procedure)

6067-2030-1900 Failure to delegate sufficient authority to bargaining representative

Atlas Signs, Inc. JD-476-84
(E's utilizing negotiator who lacked authority to negotiate agreement and failing to disclose to U that its negotiator had only limited authority to do so, unlawful, where E not only failed to clearly communicate to U negotiator's lack of authority or limits on his authority, but also represented to U that he had such authority including authority to sign contract; moreover, E thereafter permitted negotiator to negotiate w/o independent authority in 7 face-to-face negotiations over period of 4-7 months)

6067-2030-2500 Change in position

Arrow Sash and Door Company 281 NLRB No. 149
[E's withdrawal from tentative agreements and concessions previously reached during negotiations, assertedly because it believed U had sanctioned or condoned sick out engaged in by some Ees thus breaching no strike agreement, unlawful. Under totality of circumstances test in Farm Boy Restaurants, 279 NLRB No. 13, where, despite apparent progress in negotiations, E not only withdrew from all agreements and prior concessions, but also cancelled next bargaining session, and extension of bargaining agreement, ceased payments to benefit funds, and implemented new health plan; issue is not whether E acted in good faith, but whether E had good cause]

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077
[E's statement to Ees and U negotiators that it would retract its last contract offer and substitute less desirable one if ees rejected offer and struck was not economic forecast. Rather, it was threat of retaliation conditioned on Ees exercising their right to strike and would reasonably tend to interfere with free exercise of Ee rights]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[violation, where E withdrew its agreements and offers as done for retaliation after U had filed new ULP charges against it]

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(nonagreement is not to be equated to bad faith; change of circumstance (U's strike in instant case) can make withdrawal of offers lawful)

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[withdrawing from almost every agreement reached including agreements set forth in typewritten document which E had given to U, including agreements as to obligations in case of sale, transfer or merger of facilities, overtime, length of work day and work week, meal and rest periods, paydays, other days off when holidays fall on Sunday, receipt of emergency telephone calls, unalwful]

6067-2030-5000 Behavior in negotiations

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[negotiating by drafting final offers capped by final/final offers which contained less favorable terms than in final offer, or issuing proposals not characterized as final but setting short deadlines for their acceptance and in each case E stated that if offer or final offer, whichever it was, was not accepted then E would impose final/final offer, or less beneficial terms, not good faith bargaining as tactic leaves little room for debate and no room for counteroffers]

Fox-Art Theatres, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 115
[E not bargaining in good faith where it flippantly responded to U's offer to reduce its wage demands by a dollar per hour per year by offering to raise its proposal by only a nickel and pattern of unlawful conduct]

Unique Knitting, Inc. JD-(NY)-20-86
[E unlawfully sought to frustrate negotiations where, despite U's requests, E never submitted any counterproposal to revised draft contract submitted by U, and displayed lack of intent to reach contract by failing to meet as scheduled, refusing to submit any counterproposal to U's rejection of particular paragraph proposed by E, and by making new proposals after full agreement appeared imminent]

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(E's advising U during negotiations that E controlled matter of split in certified unit, when in actuality split was army decision who had contracted work out to E, violative, since E's advice was conscious course of action intending to deceive U; such conduct (of E) was deceptive bargaining with tendency to inhibit process of collective bargaining)

United Sheetmetal of Arizona, Inc. JD-(SF)-97-85
(E conduct during bargaining of referring to many of U's proposals as illegal, i.e., non-mandatory, refusing to discuss U's proposals when indeed some of them were mandatory subjects and offering overly regressive proposals than previously offered to U in areas such as wages and benefits when there had been no change in E's business to justify the regressive proposals, not violative, where U insisted during negotiations of inclusion of non-mandatory subjects in any final contract, i.e., interest arbitration and supervisory work, thus warranting conclusion that U also bargained in bad faith)

6067-2030-5050 Away from bargaining table

Hyatt Regency New Orleans 281 NLRB No. 042
[fact that during course of negotiations with U E met with Ees at their request and made erroneous statement concerning ratification of contract held not to raise inference of bad faith bargaining in view of E's remedial efforts correcting such error]

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[E engaged in bad faith surface bargaining where, prior to U election, E told unit Ees he wouldn't give those bastards anything during negotiations, E's proposals at table were not merely tough but sought to ensure U no voice in Ees' terms and conditions of employment i.e., management rights clause gave E absolute authority over all terms and conditions of employment, U was excluded from grievance and seniority provisions and was not permitted to grieve E's wage decisions; further, U demonstrated flexibility in important areas while E was unyielding on all major points]

Sonat Marine, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 016
[E's proposing to meet with U outside of bargaining negotiations to provide U with information relating to supervisory status of contested unit Ees, held inadequate to satisfy E's obligation to provide U with information, since, by refusing to discuss subject during actual negotiations, E effectively precluded U from having opportunity to bargain over disputed job classifications]

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(in determining whether a party is bargaining in bad faith, Bd looks to totality of circumstances in which bargaining took place. Thus, Bd looks not only at parties' behavior at the bargaining table, but also to conduct away from the table that may affect negotiations)

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 073
(E's insistence on broad management rights and no strike clauses with restrictive grievance provision did not evidence intent to frustrate bargaining process or constitute surface bargaining, but rather lawful hard bargaining, in view of totality of E's conduct where it was willing to meet and bargain with U, attended all scheduled meetings, fulfilled procedural obligations, exchanged proposals and made concessions; nor were away-from-the-table statements by supervisors not involved in negotiations regarding futility of bargaining, all but one of which occured outside of Sec. 10(b) period, sufficient to prove E intent to frustrate bargaining process)

SCA Services of Georgia, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 120
(E's statements away from bargaining table, although violative of 8(a)(1), found insufficient alone to support finding of bad faith)

Landmark Industries, Inc. JD-(SF)-109-85
(in absence of any evidence of bad faith bargaining, or ambiguous conduct at bargaining table, generally conduct away from bargaining table will not convert otherwise lawful conduct into an 8(a)(5) violation)

6067-2030-7500 Failure to make or keep bargaining conference appointments

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[E cancelling 5 bargaining sessions constituted lack of good faith bargaining]

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[E's refusal to meet except on date (religious holiday) unacceptable to U's representative and refusal to meet on at least 20 other dates listed as acceptable by U]

6067-2030-8100 Failure to meet at reasonable times and/or places

SCA Services of Georgia, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 120
(cancellation of one negotiating session in context of numerous other bargaining sessions insufficient to prove failure to meet at reasonable times)

Storall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(E's agreeing to meet only after delay of seven weeks between meetings and then meeting only one day because of its representative's busy schedule and breaking off negotiations w/o justification against background of ULPs, violative)

Dane County Dairy, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 209
(refusal to agree to a date for further negotiations, violative; unwillingness to negotiate under compulsion of pending ULP proceeding no defense)

Unique Knitting, Inc. JD-(NY)-20-86
[E unlawfully sought to frustrate negotiations where, despite U's requests, E never submitted any counterproposal to revised draft contract submitted by U, and displayed lack of intent to reach contract by failing to meet as scheduled, refusing to submit any counterproposal to U's rejection of particular paragraph proposed by E, and by making new proposals after full agreement appeared imminent]

6067-2040 Bypassing or otherwise undermining representative

The Setterlin Company JD-56-86
[E's status reports describing current status of bargaining listing contract provisions standing in way of agreement, and supporting E's bargaining position, not violation but privileged under 8(c)]

6067-2040-1000 Employer not precluded from noncoercive communication to employees

Putnam Buick, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 101
[in finding that E did not unlawfully attempt to deal directly with unit Ees concerning changes in terms and conditions of employment, Bd held E's communications with Ees during negotiations with U concerning its proposals to U were noncoercive and privileged under Sec. 8(c) for reasons set forth in United Technologies Corp. cases (274 NLRB 163 and 274 NLRB No. 87)]

Putnam Buick, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 101
[Act does not countenance negotiating with individuals when they have bargaining representatives; however, under Sec. 8(c), E is entitled to communicate noncoercively with its unit Ees during negotiations since Ees ought to be fully informed as to all issues relevant to negotiations and parties' positions as to those issues, and Ees are fully capable of evaluating relative merits of those positions for themselves; nonetheless, 8(a)(5) violations will be found if E communications are coercive or invite direct bargaining]

Putnam Buick, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 101
[E's communications with Ees during contract negotiations held not unlawful direct dealing with Ees nor tend to undermine E's representative status, since E acted reasonably in reporting status of negotiations to Ees where, in view of partial Ee strike vote on proposals by already struck members of E association, and in order to avoid confusion and misunderstanding of proposals Ees would be voting on, E informed Ees of specific content of proposals it had already presented to U; and U representative conceded that E was not trying to bargain with Ees]

Putnam Buick, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 101
[E's communications with Ees during contract negotiations held not unlawful direct dealing with Ees nor tend to undermine U's representative status where E's statement, made in context of ongoing negotiations, concerning E contributions to IRA funds for each Ee instead of to U pension fund was implicit suggestion that Ees inform U if they wanted IRA; E was merely giving Ees more detailed explanation of IRA proposal already presented to U; and E's statement concerning strike if his proposals were not accepted acknowledged realistic possibility in view of earlier strike vote by Ees]

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(E's remarks to Ees before bargaining that E would close rather than deal with U, that it would not sign a contract and that it was better for Ees to work w/o U because they would get same benefits but would not get a raise, reflect an unwillingness to engage in serious collective bargaining and imply that E alone would determine terms and conditions of employment)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 163
(E's numerous communications with Ees concerning reopener negotiations which compared E's wages and benefits with those of local competitors, informed Ees of E's bargaining proposals and criticized U's proposals as unrealistic, held not direct dealing and such communications were protected by 8(c); U initially rejected E's proposal to refrain from publicity and at no time did E disseminate proposals or ideas that were not first submitted to U at bargaining table, further, E has a fundamental right protected by 8(c) to communicate with its Ees concerning its position during bargaining negotiations)

Weisser Optical Company 274 NLRB No. 143
(supervisor's telling Ees during meeting that E could look into several different pension and health plans in the event of decertification, not violative, since Ees were never promised increased benefits where Ees were told there were no guarantees in life and E was merely informing Ees of alternatives available to it in event of decertification w/o making reference to the level of benefits under alternative plans; further, such statements did not amount to soliciting Ees to bypass U or individual bargaining since statements were all in reference to what may occur subsequently in the absence of U representation)

Southwestern Electric Cooperative, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 135
(letter to Ees for their information that no progress is being made to resolve their grievance because U refused to put grievance in writing - oral grievances were permitted under contract - not unlawful attempt to bypass representative by having Ees put pressure on U to put grievance in writing as letter not coercive, did not suggest Ees take any action, or attempt to make separate deal with Ees)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 087
(E's communications to Ees publicizing terms of contract offer and stating E's preference of contract options, not violative where E's efforts were undertaken in noncoercive manner, publicity fully acknowledged U's rightful role as Ees' statutory bargaining representative, and E did not seek to achieve elimination of U or otherwise alter bargaining relationship)

Hawthorn Mellody, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 055
(no unlawful bypassing of U and dealing directly with Ees where E met with Ees for purpose of getting acquainted with E's new general manager and only after Ee raised issue of overtime did E discuss it)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(contention that E's sending different final offer letters to Ees prior to economic strike against E was attempt to bypass U and direct dealing with Ees, rejected, since sending and distributing such letter in no way disparaged U or Ees' bargaining representative, was not coercive and amounted to no more than a legitimate tactic of urging the ees to communicate with their representative, to persuade them to tell their negotiators they wanted them to accept the company's newest offer)

N.L.R.B. v. Pratt & Whitney Air Craft Division, United Technologies Corporation (Machinist, District 91) 789 F.2d 121 (C.A. 2, Apr. 1986)
[E's communications with Ees held not direct dealing where information was first given to U, language was non-coercive, and U was consistently acknowledged as legitimate bargaining representative; existing ULPs found herein did not so limit U's bargaining power or coerce workers to abandon U in favor of E as to support finding of direct dealing]

N.L.R.B. v. Pratt & Whitney Air Craft Division, United Technologies Corporation (Machinist, District 91) 789 F.2d 121 (C.A. 2, Apr. 1986)
[E's proposal of 3 year contract held not direct dealing where offer was made first to U and then presented to Ees in factually correct, non-coercive language]

6067-2040-2067 Employee initiated

Hyatt Regency New Orleans 281 NLRB No. 042
[fact that during course of negotiations with U E met with Ees at their request and made erroneous statement concerning ratification of contract held not to raise inference of bad faith bargaining in view of E's remedial efforts correcting such error]

6067-2040-4000 Bargaining With Individuals or Offers Thereof

United States Postal Service 281 NLRB No. 138
[E's settling EEO precomplaint at meeting with Ee. w/o notification to or participation by U, violated Sec. 9(a)'s guarantee of U's right to be present at E's and Ee's adjustment of grievances, where subject matter of EEO precomplaint and grievance which U was responsible for processing were the same]

United States Postal Service 281 NLRB No. 139
[E's settling EEO claim with Ee w/o affording U opportunity to be present, violation where EEO claim and contract grievance involved same subject matter, for reasons stated in United Postal Service, 281 NLRB No. 138]

Five M Coal Corporation d/b/a Two M 281 NLRB No. 078
[offering Ees individual contracts while contract with U in force, violative]

Springfield Transit Management, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 017
[successor E's refusing to bargain, bypassing U to deal directly with Ees, and offering them unilateral reduction in wages from those paid by predecessor, violations]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[E suggesting to Ee that if Ees forfeited coverage under U health and welfare programs, E would open IRAs, unlawful, since amounted to attempt to deal directly with Ees, thereby bypassing U, even if it did not constitute unlawful promise of benefit]

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073
[violation, where purchaser held alter ego of seller E which had timely withdrawn from multi-E bargaining by offering Ees different terms and conditions of employment from those in bargaining agreement w/o bargaining with U, since still bound by agreement in effect and even if not bound by agreement, E must bargain with U rather than directly with Ees]

Ne Di Construction Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 071
[offering individual wage increases outside scope of contract wages, violation]

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(E's remarks to Ees before bargaining that E would close rather than deal with U, that it would not sign a contract and that it was better for Ees to work w/o U because they would get same benefits but would not get a raise, reflect an unwillingness to engage in serious collective bargaining and imply that E alone would determine terms and conditions of employment)

Rogers Cleaning Contractors, Inc. and Its Alter Ego, Olmsted Cleaning Contractors, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 053
(E's bypassing U and dealing directly with Ees of its alter ego E by offering them employment with different wages and terms and conditions of employment than alter ego E's contract with U, violation)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(dealing with Ee spokesman who was member of U bargaining committee rather than U where Ees requested change in shift starting time, violative)

Weldment Corporation and/or R. C. White Co., and/or Ralph C. White Jr., d/b/a Yankee Roller Guide 275 NLRB No. 200
(offering to transfer Ees to non-U shop)

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 152
(E informing Ees that E was suffering from serious financial problems, asking Ees for suggestions as to how E could save money, urging Ees to persuade U to move off a dime on E's bargaining proposals, and informed Ees that if Ees went non-U E would give pay increases, equal or better health benefits than U offering, financial assistance to Ees who wished to purchase own trucks, but if U refused to accept E's proposals, E would operate non-U, unlawful; statements not predictions of economic consequences protected by Sec. 8(c) inasmuch as E did not substantiate financial losses and in view of other contemporaneous illegal statements)

Forest Grove Lumber Company 275 NLRB No. 144
(vice-president informing strikers they ought to listen to company, not just to U, stating that company needed economic concessions, and asking strikers what it would take to get contract signed, unlawful, notwithstanding there were no threats or promises of benefits)

Kansas National Education Association 275 NLRB No. 092
(E's direct negotiation with individual Ee regarding exchange of positions with another Ee, and its conditioning exchange upon Ee's acceptance of probationary status, not unlawful, where such action was privileged under contract's specific provision addressing Ees' exchange of positions and stating that such exchange is contingent upon E's approval)

Kansas National Education Association 275 NLRB No. 092
(E's implementing position transfer agreement with individual Ee, which allegedly was contrary to U contract, not unlawful, since U acquesced in transfer as evidenced by U's receipt of notice of proposed transfer agreement approximately month before it became effective, U's actions in promoting transfer, and its failure to request bargaining on issue until month after agreement was implemented)

Kansas National Education Association 275 NLRB No. 092
(E's dealing directly with individual Ee in negotiating position transfer agreement with Ee, unlawful; U's failure to timely request bargaining with E over issue did not excuse such direct dealing with Ee which involves lack of consent by bargaining representative to E's contacts with Ees and, here, U had no knowledge of E's contacts with Ee until after they were made)

Bozzuto's, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 056
(bypassing U, dealing directly with Ees, and unilaterally changing payment structure for Ees assigned weekend overtime work, w/o giving U prior notice and affording it opportunity to bargain, violative)

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(E's president informing Ees he would be willing to subcontract with them if U were decertified, showing Ee decertification ptn and seeking to induce Ee to decertify U, unlawful, notwithstanding Ee originated idea of subcontracting)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 163
(E's conducting a wage and benefit survey prior to wage reopener negotiations w/o notice to or bargaining with U and refusing to permit U to attend survey interviews, held not bypassing or direct dealing, since purpose of survey was merely to determine whether E personnel policies and benefit programs were being properly communicated to Ees where Ees were asked if they were aware of how benefits were calculated, if they felt they were properly compensated and on the whole, questions merely solicited Ee sentiment on benefits outside the scope of upcoming reopener negotiations; hence, E did not seek to arm itself for upcoming negotiations)

Weisser Optical Company 274 NLRB No. 143
(supervisor's telling Ees during meeting that E could look into several different pension and health plans in the event of decertification, not violative, since Ees were never promised increased benefits where Ees were told there were no guarantees in life and E was merely informing Ees of alternatives available to it in event of decertification w/o making reference to the level of benefits under alternative plans; further, such statements did not amount to soliciting Ees to bypass U or individual bargaining since statements were all in reference to what may occur subsequently in the absence of U representation)

Hawthorn Mellody, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 055
(no unlawful bypassing of U and dealing directly with Ees where E met with Ees for purpose of getting acquainted with E's new general manager and only after Ee raised issue of overtime did E discuss it)

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85
[directly advising Ees of change in merit award criteria before consulting with U, violation]

American Federation of State, County & Municipal Employees JD-131-85
(violation where E bypassed U and dealt directly with two grievants to circumvent arbitrator's award by offering one grievant a guarantee of relief from whatever had caused her to bid on the position and the other grievant promotion to a better-paid job in his career path and to secure their written bid waiver as to computer operator position; grievants' bid waiver and alleged accord and satisfaction of grievance thereby, no defense)

M.F. Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Gopher Restaurant JD-417-84
(E proposing to Ees that they enter into collective bargaining agreement with E, apart from U representation, unlawful)

Ace Hardware Corporation JD-(SF)-218-84
(violation, where supervisors at E's request asked Ees how they felt towards concessions in regard to wages and benefits, and indicated concessions were necessary if E were to remain open, rather than dealing with U)

N.L.R.B. v. Chaim Babad, Bernard Steinmetz and Emanuel Steinmetz, A Co-Partnership d/b/a J.R.R. Realty Co. 785 F.2d 46 (C.A. 2, Mar. 1986)
[successor E's bypassing U and bargaining individually with predecessor's Ees by offering them money to quit their jobs, violation]

6067-2040-5000 Bargain with local where international certified or constitutes duly selected representative

The Rath Packing Company 275 NLRB No. 042
(bypassing international U as exclusive bargaining representative of its unit Ees and dealing directly with its Ees and local U, violative as International revoked any authority local may have had to bargain with E. Assuming, arguendo, local had limited authority to bargain, it exceeded its authority by agreeing to larger deferrals than original contract called for)

6067-2040-7000 Recognition of minority union

Roundup Company d/b/a Meyer's Cafe & Konditorei, A Wholly Owned Subsidiary of Fred Meyer, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 001
[refusal to recognize incumbent U as representative of newly hired Ees, violation where Ees were accreted to existing unit, incumbent U was only U interested in representing Ees in light of disclaimer of interest by assisted U that GC had recognized]

6067-2040-8000 Undermining authority of representative

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(E's president stating he would not sign new contract with U since could not then compete with non-U manufacturers, and if he signed U contract result would be closing plant doors, unlawful, since comments not limited to consequences of agreeing to any particular contract or contract language, rather in context of bypassing U, he implied that any agreement with U would cause him to close business)

M.F. Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Gopher Restaurant JD-417-84
(E offering to pay Ees exactly same as what they were receiving plus amount equal to health and welfare and pension fund payments required by bargaining contract, unlawful)

6067-2040-8012 Implementing terms of contract other than that of bargaining representative

Koenig Iron Works, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 083
(implementing unilateral wage increase called for under terms of contract that Bd had abrogated as violative of Sec. 8(a)(2), unlawful, as Bd will not allow E to resurrect unlawful contract since this would frustrate prior Bd order and would undermine Ees' right to be represented by present bargaining representative)

6067-2040-8025 Refusal to recognize employee representative of union

Opelika Foundry 281 NLRB No. 121
[E's refusal to meet with grievance committee which included individual as member, and subsequently discharging individual allegedly because of his U activity, not unlawful, since individual held to be supervisor]

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[E's refusal to recognize U-designated Ee as steward and to accept steward's proffered grievances unlawful; while E's conduct, in absence of other unlawful acts, might be dismissed as temporary release of pent-up emotional frustration in having to deal with U, E's conduct constituted breach of its bargaining obligation in view of E's extensive coercive and retaliatory conduct against Ees, including discrimination against U steward]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[E suggesting to Ee that if Ees forfeited coverage under U health and welfare programs, E would open IRAs, unlawful, since amounted to attempt to deal directly with Ees, thereby bypassing U, even if it did not constitute unlawful promise of benefit]

6067-2040-8029 Bargaining directly with employees, or insistence on same

Otten Truck Line; United Star Express, Inc.; and Claude Hayes, an Individual 282 NLRB No. 073
[E who was held alter ego successor to debtor-in-possession violated Act by dealing directly with Ees and instituting unilateral changes notwithstanding debtor-in-possession repudiated contract. (Modifications of Bildisco contained in Bankruptcy Amendments and Federal Judgeship Act of 1984 not applicable to instant case)]

Transport Service Company 282 NLRB No. 011
[E's meeting directly with its Ees w/o notice to U to convince unit members to accept mid-term concessions under contract, violation]

United States Postal Service 281 NLRB No. 138
[E's settling EEO precomplaint at meeting with Ee, w/o notification to or participation by U, violated Sec. 9(a)'s guarantee of U's right to be present at E's and Ee's adjustment of grievances, where subject matter of EEO precomplaint and grievance which U was responsible for processing were the same]

United States Postal Service 281 NLRB No. 139
[E's settling EEO claim with Ee w/o affording U opportunity to be present, violation where EEO claim and contract grievance involved same subject matter, for reasons stated in United Postal Service, 281 NLRB No. 138]

United States Postal Service 281 NLRB No. 032
[bypassing U and dealing directly with Ee by unilaterally adjusting Ee's grievance concerning proposed dismissal of Ee, unlawful, where at time E resolved grievance, while ignoring Ee's request to be accompanied by U representative, E knew that Ee's grievance was pending and that Ee wanted U agent to be present; and Veterans' Preference Act, permitting what would be ULP under Act by giving Ee right to meet with E for discussing problem before being dismissed, did not prevail over Ee's rights under Act]

Hiynota Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 009
[direct dealing with Ees concerning terms and conditions of employment, not unlawful, where E, as debtor-in-possession, rightfully sought unilateral substitution of modified terms and conditions of employment and had proposed to U same terms subsequently offered to Ees; U's refusal to negotiate until its erroneous belief that E was bound by contract, abrogated by bankruptcy ct, was disproved or substantiated was in essence waiver of U's right to object to imposition of new terms and conditions of employment; and E was under severe time constraints to resume operations]

Putnam Buick, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 101
[in finding that E did not unlawfully attempt to deal directly with unit Ees concerning changes in terms and conditions of employment, Bd held E's communications with Ees during negotiations with U concerning its proposals to U were noncoercive and privileged under Sec. 8(c) for reasons set forth in United Technologies Corp. cases (274 NLRB 163 and 274 NLRB No. 87)]

Putnam Buick, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 101
[Act does not countenance negotiating with individuals when they have bargaining representatives; however, under Sec. 8(c), E is entitled to communicate noncoercively with its unit Ees during negotiations since Ees ought to be fully informed as to all issues relevant to negotiations and parties' positions as to those issues, and Ees are fully capable of evaluating relative merits of those positions for themselves; nonetheless, 8(a)(5) violations will be found if E communications are coercive or invite direct bargaining]

Putnam Buick, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 101
[E's communications with Ees during contract negotiations held not unlawful direct dealing with Ees nor tend to undermine E's representative status, since E acted reasonably in reporting status of negotiations to Ees where, in view of partial Ee strike vote on proposals by already struck members of E association, and in order to avoid confusion and misunderstanding of proposals Ees would be voting on, E informed Ees of specific content of proposals it had already presented to U; and U representative conceded that E was not trying to bargain with Ees]

Putnam Buick, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 101
[E's communications with Ees during contract negotiations held not unlawful direct dealing with Ees nor tend to undermine U's representative status where E's statement, made in context of ongoing negotiations concerning E contributions to IRA funds for each Ee instead of to U pension fund was implicit suggestion that Ees inform U if they wanted IRA, E was merely giving Ees more detailed explanation of IRA proposal already presented to U; and E's statement concerning strike if his proposals were not accepted acknowledged resalistic possibility in view of earlier strike vote by Ees]

Earl C. Smith, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 100
[bypassing U to deal directly with Ees at meeting E called and U refused to attend, violation]

Chaim Babad, Bernard Steinmetz and Emanuel Steinmetz, A Co-Partnership d/b/a J.R.R. Realty Co. 273 NLRB No. 189
(successor E's dealing with Ees by communicating offers of settlement of their status as Ees, negotiating severance pay, and ultimately reaching agreements with all Ees, attempting to make deal with agent who was member of bargaining unit, violative where E did not notify U or obtain any authorization from U to do so)

Phillip A. Hunt Corporation JD-14-86
[bypassing U and dealing directly with unit Ees at new plant by negotiating with them terms and conditions of employment, not violative where U was not exclusive bargaining representative of Ees at new plant]

Bronal Electric, Inc. JD-(NY)-21-84
[violation, where E after receiving U's demand for recognition and bargaining, asked Ees what they wanted, solicited grievances, promised Ees substantial improvements in working conditions, including wage increases and insurance, if they would withdraw support from U, then threatened to close rather than deal with U]

Bowen Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Indiana Shop 'N Save JD-275-85
[E unlawfully bypassed and undermined U's authority by dealing directly with Ees at meetings at which E presented new proposal not offered to U, notwithstanding E's contention that either U representatives or Ee committee members were present at respective meetings, where E, rather than negotiating with U representatives or committee, presented proposal to all Ees; at claimed meeting with committee E had invited all Ees, and not just committee, to be present; and in any event, U informed both E and committee that latter was not authorized to negotiate on behalf of Ees]

Bowen Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Indiana Shop 'N Save JD-275-85
[E unlawfully bypassed and undermined U's authority by dealing directly with Ees at meetings at which E presented new proposals embodying more favorable terms and conditions than those offered to U, where E scheduled meetings in order to put pressure upon U, asked Ees to vote on proposals, and told them it was their decision and not U's; and despite E's disclaimer of any interest in direct bargaining with Ees, E admittedly presented and explained new proposals to Ees, which actions are very substance of collective bargaining]

Gallati Cartage of Michigan, Inc. JD-311-85
(demanding Ees' consent to reductions in wages, rates of pay and benefit levels w/o prior notice to or good faith bargaining with U, violative)

Greater Detroit Heating and Cooling, Inc. JD-116-85
(bypassing U and dealing directly with Ees, violative)

6067-2040-8037 Refusal to recognize individual designated as representative of union

Arizona Portland Cement Company, A Division of California Portland Cement Company, A Division of Calmat 281 NLRB No. 030
[refusing to meet and bargain with international U's representative designated as U's representative for processing grievances at grievance step 2 meeting, violation]

6067-2040-8044 Use nonbargaining unit independent contractors

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(E's president informing Ees he would be willing to subcontract with them if U were decerrtified, showing Ee decertification ptn and seeking to induce Ee to decertify U, unlawful, notwithstanding Ee originated idea of subcontracting)

6067-2040-8050 Promotion of repudiation

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 152
(E informing Ees that E was suffering from serious financial problems, asking Ees for suggestions as to how E could save money, urging Ees to persuade U to move off a dime on E's bargaining proposals, and informed Ees that if Ees went non-U E would give pay increases, equal or better health benefits than U offering, financial assistance to Ees who wished to purchase own trucks, but if U refused to accept E's proposals, E would operate non-U, unlawful; statements not predictions of economic consequences protected by Sec. 8(c) inasmuch as E did not substantiate financial losses and in view of other contemporaneous illegal statements)

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(E's president stating he would not sign new contract with U since could not then compete with non-U manufacturers, and if he signed U contract result would be closing plant doors, unlawful, since comments not limited to consequences of agreeing to any particular contract or contract language, rather in context of bypassing U, he implied that any agreement with U would cause him to close business)

Weisser Optical Company 274 NLRB No. 143
(E's refusal to provide U with relevant and necessary information, assertedly because of good-faith doubt of U's majority status, violative, where E unlawfully encouraged Ees to sponsor decertification ptn thus tainting ptn and E's good-faith doubt)

Southwestern Electric Cooperative, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 135
(letter to Ees for their information that no progress is being made to resolve their grievance because U refused to put grievance in writing - oral grievances were permitted under contract - not unlawful attempt to bypass representative by having Ees put pressure on U to put grievance in writing as letter not coercive, did not suggest Ees take any action, or attempt to make separate deal with Ees)

M.F. Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Gopher Restaurant JD-417-84
(E proposing to Ees that they enter into collective bargaining agreement with E, apart from U representation, unlawful)

6067-2040-8067 Restricting bargaining representative's access to employees

Fashion Furniture Mfg., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 093
[E's denying U access to E's facility for purposes of policing contract matters and investigation of grievances, violative]

6067-2040-8075 Denying bargaining representative access to employer's premises

NDK Corporation 278 NLRB No. 151
[E's ejection from its facility of U agents whose access was specifically guaranteed by contract, assertedly because of U's own breach in authorizing unlawful strike, violative, where there was insufficient evidence to establish any unlawful activity by U, and even assuming credibility of testimony adverse to U, business agent's isolated remark to single Ee did not begin to prove that U attempted to instigate unlawful work stoppage]

National Broadcasting Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 017
(applying balancing test enunciated in Holyoke Water Power Co. case, Bd held that E's effective denial of access to non-Ee U representative at E's remote facility engaged in broadcasting golf tournament was unlawful, where U needed access to E's facility in order to observe operations for purpose of policing and enforcing its bargaining agreement with E; providing such access would not result in any interference with E's operations; and, on balance, representational interests of Ees outweighed E's property rights which must yield to extent necessary to accomodate such interests)

N.L.R.B. v. National Broadcasting Company, Inc. (Directors Guild of America, Inc.) 798 F.2d 75 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1986)
[denying U access to remote broadcasting facilities at reasonable time and places, violation where grant of access was past practice, and U's search for information as to whether non-unit Ees were doing unit work was relevant to pending arbitration and continued contract enforcement, and firsthand observation of crew at work was only alternative sufficient to serve U's legitimate purpose; Bd's application of test balancing E's property right against Ees' representational right was rationally connected with NLRA and resolved parties' competing interests]

6067-2050 Commission of ULP

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(bargaining for change in scope of unit is nonmandatory subject of bargaining; and insistence to bargaining impasse on modification in scope of bargaining unit, whether established by Bd certification or by voluntary recognition, violative)

6067-2050-0700 ULP having only minimal impact on board's election machinery

Uniontown Hospital Association 277 NLRB No. 144
(contrary to ALJ, E's failure to respond to U's request for recognition and its unilateral change not found violations where E's ULPs were found herein not to preclude fair election)

6067-2050-1000 Assisting favored union

Roundup Company d/b/a Meyer's Cafe & Konditorei, A Wholly Owned Subsidiary of Fred Meyer, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 001
[refusal to recognize incumbent U as representative of newly hired Ees, violation where Ees were accreted to existing unit, incumbent U was only U interested in representing Ees in light of disclaimer of interest by assisted U that GC had recognized]

Koenig Iron Works, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 083
(implementing unilateral wage increase called for under terms of contract that Bd had abrogated as violative of Sec. 8(a)(2), unlawful, as Bd will not allow E to resurrect unlawful contract since this would frustrate prior Bd order and would undermine Ees' right to be represented by present bargaining representative)

6067-2050-1400 Antiunion campaign or actions precluding fair election

B & P Trucking, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 092
[failing to reply to U request for recognition and committing hallmark ULPs including discriminatory shutdown of part of operations and discharge of its Ees, violation]

Robert W. Wise, d/b/a Robert W. Wise Cabinetry JD-(SF)-157-85

6067-2050-3500 Bargaining directly with employees

Transport Service Company 282 NLRB No. 011
[E's meeting directly with its Ees w/o notice to U to convince unit members to accept mid-term concessions under contract, violation]

Cascade Painting Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 103

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 152
(E informing Ees that E was suffering from serious financial problems, asking Ees for suggestions as to how E could save money, urging Ees to persuade U to move off a dime on E's bargaining proposals, and informed Ees that if Ees went non-U E would give pay increases, equal or better health benefits than U offering, financial assistance to Ees who wished to purchase own trucks, but if U refused to accept E's proposals, E would operate non-U, unlawful; statements not predictions of economic consequences protected by Sec. 8(c) inasmuch as E did not substantiate financial losses and in view of other contemporaneous illegal statements)

Bozzuto's, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 056
(bypassing U, dealing directly with Ees, and unilaterally changing payment structure for Ees assigned weekend overtime work, w/o giving U prior notice and affording it opportunity to bargain, violative)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(contention that E's sending different final offer letters to Ees prior to economic strike against E was attempt to bypass U and direct dealing with Ees, rejected, since sending and distributing such letter in no way disparaged U or Ees' bargaining representative, was not coercive and amounted to no more than a legitimate tactic of urging the ees to communicate with their representative, to persuade them to tell their negotiators they wanted them to accept the company's newest offer)

Long Island University JD-263-86
[no direct dealing with Ees where E implemented wage proposals agreed to by U]

Valley Parcel Service Inc. and Valley Parcel Service, Inc., Debtor In Possession JD-(SF)-74-85

Gallati Cartage of Michigan, Inc. JD-311-85
(demanding Ees' consent to reductions in wages, rates of pay and benefit levels w/o prior notice to or good faith bargaining with U, violative)

6067-2050-4200 Discrimination or threat thereof

Johns-Manville Sales Corporation 282 NLRB No. 040
[E possessed good-faith doubt of U majority based on ptn signed by majority of Ees requesting decert election when it withdrew recognition from certified U, notwithstanding E committed ULP when it laid off Ees w/o following seniority where ULP committed 8 months before withdrawal, involved only 3 Ees, E advanced legitimate business reason for not following seniority and E continued to bargain with U until withdrawal

6067-2050-4900 Statements

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(E's remarks to Ees before bargaining that E would close rather than deal with U, that it would not sign a contract and that it was better for Ees to work w/o U because they would get same benefits but would not get a raise, reflect an unwillingness to engage in serious collective bargaining and imply that E alone would determine terms and conditions of employment)

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(totality of E's conduct demonstrated it bargained in bad faith with U where E made statements to Ees before negotiations violative of 8(a)(1) reflecting an unwillingness to engage in serious collective bargaining, E's proposals to U to freeze or reduce wages was consistent with statements to Ees that, if they rejected U, benefits would be the same and implying a reduction otherwise, E made no counterproposals except to eliminate all vacations and most holidays and did not move from position until final negotiating session and E unilaterally eliminated holidays before impasse which conduct clearly indicated bad faith)

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 073
(E's insistence on broad management rights and no strike clauses with restrictive grievance provision did not evidence intent to frustrate bargaining process or constitute surface bargaining, but rather lawful hard bargaining, in view of totality of E's conduct where it was willing to meet and bargain with U, attended all scheduled meetings, fulfilled procedural obligations, exchanged proposals and made concessions; nor were away-from-the-table statements by supervisors not involved in negotiations regarding futility of bargaining, all but one of which occured outside of Sec. 10(b) period, sufficient to prove E intent to frustrate bargaining process)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(statements of E's president that he intended to go nonU and that he would meet with U representatives but would not sign a contract showed closed mind precluding good faith bargaining)

6067-2050-7000 Lockout or threat thereof

Union Boiler Company 281 NLRB No. 148
[E's insistence that U allow it to work Ees 10 hours a day w/o overtime as was contractually mandated, and refusing to employ Ees when they refused to work under those conditions, violative and such conduct was an illegal lockout of Ees]

6067-2060 Proposals and demands

6067-2060-1200 Made without adequate explanation or justification

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85
[refusing to agree to U's proposal that Ees keep same benefits as previously, because Ees had rejected these benefits by voting U in, violation]

United Sheetmetal of Arizona, Inc. JD-(SF)-97-85
(E refusing to supply U with information during bargaining to support insistence on regressive wage proposals, violative and no impasse reached, where E repeatedly bemoaned fact during negotiations that it could not compete with non-U contractors and thus was making a poverty plea and its refusal to provide data to U in response to U request for supporting data not only is unlawful but prevents finding of bonafide impasse subsequent to U's request for information)

6067-2060-1600 Less favorable working conditions

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84
(E's contract proposals assertedly made because of adverse economic conditions held regressive and unlawful, where E's proposals in many areas reduced provisions of preceding contract and prior proposals during contract negotiations, and E admitted that it was now in better financial condition than it had been before)

6067-2060-1700 Less favorable wages and benefits

Walter A. Zlogar, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 149
[base wage rate proposed in E's last offer not so low as to be meaningless and perhaps above rate U allowed competitor operating outside city to pay; nor did E's proposed dispute settlement provision exclude wage determinations from settlement procedure]

Walter A. Zlogar, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 149
[E's proposed refusal to pay benefits, not manifestation of bad faith]

Fox-Art Theatres, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 115
[E not bargaining in good faith where it flippantly responded to U's offer to reduce its wage demands by a dollar per hour per year by offering to raise its proposal by only a nickel and pattern of unlawful conduct]

Landmark Industries, Inc. JD-(SF)-109-85
(mere fact that proposal (E's modification of peicework provision during contract neogitations) is unacceptable to U is insufficient to establish bad faith if E's insistence is genuinely and sincerely held. Piecework rate change was of prime importance to E and U made not even slightest concession on this issue and any concessions U made on other issues was attempt to avoid modifications to piecework rate)

Ace Hardware Corporation JD-(SF)-218-84
(violation, where supervisors at E's request asked Ees how they felt towards concessions in regard to wages and benefits, and indicated concessions were necessary if E were to remain open, rather than dealing with U)

Local 259, Auto Workers v. N.L.R.B. 776 F.2d 23 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1985)
[Bd well w/i its power in finding no unlawful refusal to bargain when E's conduct viewed in its totality, demonstrated substantial evidence that (E's) wage offers to replacement workers were not substantially different from, or greater than, those which E had propsed during its negotiations with U]

6067-2060-1800 Less favorable proposals than previously offered

Hyatt Regency New Orleans 281 NLRB No. 042
[E's counteroffer held not evidence of bad faith bargaining even though it was made 4-1/2 months after preceding proposal had been withdrawn and it represented more demanding bargaining position than withdrawn proposal;

party which withdraws proposal is under no obligation to offer another proposal; and justification for more demanding offer was not so illogical in view of waning support for U and its desire to sign contract at earliest possible moment]

Richmond Recording Corporation d/b/a PRC Recording Company 280 NLRB No. 077

[E's statement to Ees and U negotiators that it would retract its last contract offer and substitute less desirable one if ees rejected offer and struck was not economic forecast. Rather, it was threat of retaliation conditioned on Ees exercising their right to strike and would reasonably tend to interfere with free exercise of Ee rights]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093

[negotiating by drafting final offers capped by final/final offers which contained less favorable terms than in final offer, or issuing proposals not characterized as final but setting short deadlines for their acceptance and in each case E stated that if offer or final offer, whichever it was, was not accepted then E would impose final/final offer, or less beneficial terms, not good faith bargaining as tactic leaves little room for debate and no room for counteroffers]

Rescar, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 001

(E's seeking broad management rights and no-strike clauses and restricted grievance arbitration clause provision, not surface or bad faith bargaining, since E may lawfully seek favorable terms, and Bd's duty is to oversee bargaining process, not judge substance of terms offered; nor was failure to include contractual Ees in profit-sharing plan done in bad faith but in exchange for other terms U desired; finally, E's reducing offer in context of changes in the economy of the industry and parties' relative strengths was merely lawfully taking advantage of E's position)

United Sheetmetal of Arizona, Inc. JD-(SF)-97-85

(E conduct during bargaining of referring to many of U's proposals as illegal, i.e., non-mandatory, refusing to discuss U's proposals when indeed some of them were mandatory subjects and offering overly regressive proposals than previously offered to U in areas such as wages and benefits when there had been no change in E's business to justify the regressive proposals, not violative, where U insisted during negotiations of inclusion of non-mandatory subjects in any final contract, i.e., interest arbitration and supervisory work, thus warranting conclusion that U also bargained in bad faith)

6067-2060-2700 Initial and final proposals essentially the same

Schaeff Namco, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 150

[E did not fail to bargain in good faith during 14 day wage reopener period, notwithstanding parties had only two short negotiating sessions during period, and E failed to modify its proposals, where E offered to extend negotiations and consider wage build back should its wage cut proposal be implemented, and insistence on bargaining position is not itself refusal to bargain in good faith]

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050

[E engaged in bad faith surface bargaining where, prior to U election, E told unit Ees he wouldn't give those bastards anything during negotiations, E's proposals at table were not merely tough but sought to ensure U no voice in Ees' terms and conditions of employment i.e., management rights clause gave E absolute authority over all terms and conditions of employment, U was excluded from grievance and seniority provisions and was not permitted to grieve E's wage decisions; further, U demonstrated flexibility in important areas while E was unyielding on all major points]

SCA Services of Georgia, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 120

(E's presentation of its final position on wages early in negotiations, especially position for wage increase, not proof of bad faith)

6067-2060-3300 Insistence on illegal or unreasonable provisions

Landmark Industries, Inc. JD-(SF)-109-85

6067-2060-3315 Refusing to discuss economic issues until noneconomic issues resolved

John Wanamaker Philadelphia 279 NLRB No. 140

[E's refusing to discuss economic matters with U until all noneconomic matters were resolved, on grounds U had agreed to this in ground rules, violative and such conduct amounted to bad faith bargaining which had effect of unlawfully fragmenting negotiations, where parties had agreed in ground rules stage to attempt to settle noneconomic matters before moving on to economic matters]

6067-2060-3317 Discriminatory seniority clause

Boaz Carpet Yarns, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 004

[E's proposal that eligibility for layoffs, recalls, promotions, transfers, and job bidding be governed, not by strict seniority, but by such criteria as skill and experience, not indicative of bad faith bargaining where U admitted criteria were pertinent considerations]

6067-2060-3322 Prohibition against filing unfair labor practice charges

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 073

(E's seeking waiver of Ees' right to engage in ULP strikes, as part of no-strike clause, and right to seek redress from Bd or other tribunal for discipline imposed under clause on replaced strikers, not unlawful, since Act does not prohibit Us from waiving Ees' right to strike over ULPs; and proposed waiver of replaced strikers right to Bd's processes, absent other evidence, read as permitting only non-discriminatory application, and does not extend to appeals to Bd on other matters; since this waiver merely derivative of waiver of right to strike a mandatory subject of bargaining, it too is mandatory, thus E could insist to impasse on dual waiver)

6067-2060-3331 Job posting and bidding procedures

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84

6067-2060-3365 Right of exclusive hiring hall

Walter A. Zlogar, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 149

[alleged proposed elimination of referral clause, not violation, since refusal to include referral clause is not unlawful, and E had always had complete freedom to hire whomever he wanted]

6067-2060-3375 Union security provisions

Boaz Carpet Yarns, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 004

[E's stand on check-off provision, not indicative of bad faith bargaining where E would allow U access to plant to collect dues but opposed any provision not allowing Ees' revocation of checkoff at any time, and where U had negotiated similar term in contract with predecessor]

American Threat Company 274 NLRB No. 164

(no violation, where E during negotiations for new contract insisted to impasse that dues check off provision be deleted from bargaining agreement to preclude E knowledge of Ees' U membership in view of large number of grievances filed by Ees alleging discrimination against U members, since E could not be forced to yield to particular provision advanced by U, and E's refusal to agree to provision did not breach duty to bargain, nor did E condition agreement to continuation of checkoff provision on guarantee protected activities would cease; Markle Mfg. Co 239 NLRB 1353, revised in part)

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84

(E's contract proposal to eliminate or substantially modify U security clause held predictably unacceptable; cts and Bd have held that they will consider reasonableness of proposal made by E in course of bargaining, and that they will not be blinded by surface motions of bargaining)

6067-2060-3385 Right of union access to plant

Landhill Press, Inc., and Rotary Business Systems, Inc., its Alter Ego and Successor 282 NLRB No. 058

[E's refusal to allow U representatives to speak to Ees in plant, violative, notwithstanding representatives were allowed to speak to Ees individually in owner's office]

Holyoke Water Power Company 273 NLRB No. 168

(Bd will no longer treat request for access as request for information, but instead, will balance E's property rights against Ees' right to proper representation in reaching decision of allowing access and when access granted, it will be limited to reasonable periods so that U can fulfill its representation duties w/o unwarranted interruption of E's operations)

6067-2060-3392 Work jurisdiction clause

Walter A. Zlogar, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 149

[E's demand that it be able to assign work w/o jurisdictional lines on $250,000 contract, insufficient to show bad faith]

6067-2060-4700 Change status of employees to those of independent contractors

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191

(E's president informing Ees he would be willing to subcontract with them if U were decertified, showing Ee decertification ptn and seeking to induce Ee to decertify U, unlawful, notwithstanding Ee originated idea of subcontracting)

6067-2060-5500 Unacceptable proposal to place the onus of rupture on union

Seng Crane & Excavating, Inc. JD-111-86

[E's demanding as condition to any further bargaining that evening that U, which had agreed to do so, pay up its prorata share for rent of room used for negotiating sessions, unlawful, since e took approach to frustrate bargaining process where E took position during evening bargaining session that it U did not pay up their share of rent it would have to forego further negotiations that evening knowing U could not come up with payment that evening inasmuch as it would be unable to check with its headquarters after business hours as to the status of payments]

6067-2060-6600 Illegal or unreasonable demands

Public Service Electric and Gas Company 280 NLRB No. 048

[violation where E sought to modify retroactivity clause of old contract by refusing to agree to pay wage increase in new contract effective on expiration date of old contract unless Ees ratified new contract by expiration date and, as part of its final offer, conditioned agreement to new contract on U's consent to abrogation of retroactivity clause; U's urging Ees to ratify new contract not voluntary consent to modification where U advised Ees at same time that it had filed charge with Bd]

John Wanamaker Philadelphia 279 NLRB No. 140
[E's refusing to discuss economic matters with U until all noneconomic matters were resolved, on grounds U had agreed to this in ground rules, violative and such conduct amounted to bad faith bargaining which had effect of unlawfully fragmenting negotiations, where parties had agreed in ground rules stage to attempt to settle noneconomic matters before moving on to economic matters]

6067-2060-7700 Right of unilateral modification reserved by employer

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010
[E's altering job qualifications for unit positions in education instructor job classification, (E required these Ees to possess a Master's Degree rather than Bachelor of Science in Nursing which had previously been required) not violative, since E was priviledged to make such change unilaterally, by terms of Management Rights clause in expired agreement]

6067-2060-8400 Insistence on management rights clause

Bou; Carpet Yarns, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 004
[E's adherence to demand for broad management-rights clause, not evidence of bad faith bargaining in view of its rejection of compulsory arbitration, checkoff and strikt seniority clauses, as contended, where E explained that clause was broadly drafted to avoid appearance of waiver; further, U did not make counter-proposal until thirteenth bargaining session, and E did not propose no-strike or zipper clause]

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[E engaged in bad faith surface bargaining where, prior to U election, E told unit Ees he wouldn't give those bastards anything during negotiations, E's proposals at table were not merely tough but sought to ensure U no voice in Ees' terms and conditions of employment i.e., management rights clause gave E absolute authority over all terms and conditions of employment, U was excluded from grievance and seniority provisions and was not permitted to grieve E's wage decisions; further, U demonstrated flexibility in important areas while E was unyielding on all major points]

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 073
(E's insistence on broad management rights and no strike clauses with restrictive grievance provision did not evidence intent to frustrate bargaining process or constitute surface bargaining, but rather lawful hard bargaining, in view of totality of E's conduct where it was willing to meet and bargain with U, attended all scheduled meetings, fulfilled procedural obligations, exchanged proposals and made concessions; nor were away-from-the-table statements by supervisors not involved in negotiations regarding futility of bargaining, all but one of which occured outside of Sec. 10(b) period, sufficient to prove E intent to frustrate bargaining process)

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85
[insisting to impasse on sole control of wages, not violation where U failed to make counterproposal it had indicated it intended to make]

6067-2060-8800 Insistence on no-strike clause

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 073
(E's insistence on broad management rights and no strike clauses with restrictive grievance provision did not evidence intent to frustrate bargaining process or constitute surface bargaining, but rather lawful hard bargaining, in view of totality of E's conduct where it was willing to meet and bargain with U, attended all scheduled meetings, fulfilled procedural obligations, exchanged proposals and made concessions; nor were away-from-the-table statements by supervisors not involved in negotiations regarding futility of bargaining, all but one of which occured outside of Sec. 10(b) period, sufficient to prove E intent to frustrate bargaining process)

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 073
(E's seeking waiver of Ees' right to engage in ULP strikes, as part of no-strike clause, and right to seek redress from Bd or other tribunal for discipline imposed under clause on replaced strikers, not unlawful, since Act does not prohibit Us from waiving Ees' right to strike over ULPs; and proposed waiver of replaced strikers right to Bd's processes, absent other evidence, read as permitting only non-discriminatory application, and does not extend to appeals to Bd on other matters; since this waiver merely derivative of waiver of right to strike a mandatory subject of bargaining, it too is mandatory, thus E could insist to impasse on dual waiver)

6067-2060-9400 Withdrawal of proposals

Arrow Sash and Door Company 281 NLRB No. 149
[E's withdrawal from tentative agreements and concessions previously reached during negotiations, assertedly because it believed U had sanctioned or condoned sick out engaged in by some Ees thus breaching no strike agreement, unlawful. Under totality of circumstances test in Farm Boy Restaurants, 279 NLRB No. 13, where, despite apparent progress in negotiations, E not only withdrew from all agreements and prior concessions, but also cancelled next bargaining session, and extension of bargaining agreement, ceased payments to benefit funds, and implemented new health plan; issue is not whether E acted in good faith, but whether E had good cause]

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[post strike efforts by U to accept offer made by E on condition there would be no strike were nullity as no offer outstanding upon commencement of strike]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[violation, where E withdrew its agreements and offers as done for retaliation after U had filed new ULP charges against it]

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E, after U lost strike, withdrawing its previous final proposal and seeking to gain even more favorable terms in agreement, not unlawful, since modifications sought in security provision, health and welfare benefits, and giving management discretion to establish work week and hours, not so regressive as to be sign of bad faith bargaining; further, once U has lost strike during negotiations for bargaining agreement E can capitalize on its new-found economic strength to retreive some of economic benefits lost in prior contracts w/o violating good faith bargaining provisions of Act]

Merrell M. Williams; Boy's Restaurant, Inc.; Girl's Restaurant; Jumbo's d/b/a Farm Boy Restaurant; Farm Boy Restaurants Nos. 2 and 3 279 NLRB No. 013
[on reconsideration of its earlier decision reported in 265 NLRB 506, Bd found no violation since no intent to frustrate bargaining process or avoid who had ostentsible authority reaching contract, where E's negotiator made offer to U believing he had authority to do so, but subsequently withdrew offer when it became clear E would not approve proposals, gave reason for doing so, offered to open E's books to U to substantiate reasons, and offered to resume bargaining]

Merrell M. Williams; Boy's Restaurant, Inc.; Girl's Restaurant; Jumbo's d/b/a Farm Boy Restaurant; Farm Boy Restaurants Nos. 2 and 3 279 NLRB No. 013
[In ruling on allegation that party has failed to bargain in good faith, it is well established that Bd looks to totality of circumstances reflecting party's bargaining frame of mind. Unlike refusal to execute agreed upon contract which is per se violation of Section 8(a)(5) of Act because it demonstrates refusal to acknowledge and abide by fruits of bargaining, withdrawal of tentative agreements reached prior to formation of legally enforceable contract represents only one factor to be considered in determining good faith bargaining]

Luther Manor Nursing Home 277 NLRB No. 007
(E's unilateral withdrawal of previously offered wage proposal which Bd, in prior case, found had been agreed to and accepted by U, resulting in total effective agreement, unlawful)

Luther Manor Nursing Home 277 NLRB No. 007
(where E had unlawfully withdrawn its wage proposal and thereafter had refused to execute agreed-upon contract with U, E's continuing wage and other proposals, which varied from terms and conditions of employment in agreement, unlawful)

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[withdrawing from almost every agreement reached including agreements set forth in typewritten document which E had given to U, including agreements as to obligations in case of sale, transfer or merger of facilities, overtime, length of work day and work week, meal and rest periods, paydays, other days off when holidays fall on Sunday, receipt of emergency telephone calls, unalwful]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc. JD-(NY)-141-84
(withdrawal of proposals and previously made agreements in retaliation for U's filing new charges, violative)

6067-2070 Imposing conditions

6067-2070-3300 As to bargaining committee

Southern California Edison Company 274 NLRB No. 167
(E's refusal to conduct grievance meetings with Ees or U officials who wore Stick Your Retro button concerning retroactive pay raise during contract negotiations between E and U, violative, since wearing of button protected, and no matter what buttons were being worn, E was not privileged to refuse to meet and deal with U on matters being pursued through grievance arbitration process, at least so long as they did not cause unreasonable disruption (of process))

6067-2070-5000 As to procedure in bargaining sessions

Hutchinson Fruit Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 054
(use of tape recorder at grievance meeting held not mandatory subject of bargaining and refusal of E to hold grievance meeting unless tape recorder on, violative. Bd held grievance meeting are similar to contract negotiations in both character and methodology and duty to bargain in good faith applies to both types of meetings)

6067-2070-6700 Conditions outside area of mandatory bargaining

6067-2070-6715 Withdrawal of unfair labor practice charge

John Wanamaker Philadelphia 279 NLRB No. 140
[E's refusing to sign any agreement with U until U withdrew ULP charges, violative; further, E's informing Ees it would not sign a contract with U until ULP charges were withdrawn, violative]

6067-2070-6730 Employee ratification

Public Service Electric and Gas Company 280 NLRB No. 048
[violation where E sought to modify retroactivity clause of old contract by refusing to agree to pay wage increase in new contract effective on expiration date of old contract unless Ees ratified new contract by expiration date and, as part of its final offer, conditioned agreement to new contract on U's consent to abrogation of retroactivity clause; U's urging Ees to ratify new contract not voluntary consent to modification where U advised Ees at same time that it had filed charge with Bd]

6067-2070-6760 Waiver of rights under Act

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 073
(E's seeking waiver of Ees' right to engage in ULP strikes, as part of no-strike clause, and right to seek redress from Bd or other tribunal for discipline imposed under clause on replaced strikers, not unlawful, since Act does not prohibit Us from waiving Ees' right to strike over ULPs; and proposed waiver of replaced strikers right to Bd's processes, absent other evidence, read as permitting only non-discriminatory application, and does not extend to appeals to Bd on other matters; since this waiver merely derivative of waiver of right to strike a mandatory subject of bargaining, it too is mandatory, thus E could insist to impasse on dual waiver)

Gaso Pumps, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 076
(E's insisting to impasse on, and subsequently unilaterally implementing, strike settlement proposal limiting reinstatement rights of striking Ees to 6 months after termination of strike, violative, where U had never agreed to settlement agreement during negotiations and E had not shown that legitimate and substantial business justifications existed for its limitations on strikers' reinstatement rights; Ees may not be deprived of statutory rights in the absence of a clear and unmistakable waiver of those rights)

6067-2070-6770 Appropriate unit

Syncor International Corporation 282 NLRB No. 063
[scope of established bargaining unit is non-mandatory. However, party may lawfully propose change in scope of unit and parties may in certain circumstances agree to change or change can be accomplished by Bd proceedings, but never by unilateral action by party]

Bozzuto's, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 100
(insisting to impasse on changing unit scope to eliminate Ees working less than 32 hours a week, a nonmandatory bargaining subject, as condition for new contract, violation)

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(bargaining for change in scope of unit is nonmandatory subject of bargaining; and insistence to bargaining impasse on modification in scope of bargaining unit, whether established by Bd certification or by voluntary recognition, violative)

6067-2070-6780 Insistence upon stenographic transcript of negotiations

Hutchinson Fruit Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 054
(use of tape recorder at grievance meeting held not mandatory subject of bargaining and refusal of E to hold grievance meeting unless tape recorder on, violative. Bd held grievance meeting are similar to contract negotiations in both character and methodology and duty to bargain in good faith applies to both types of meetings)

6067-2070-6795 Payment for strike damages

Ashe Brick Company 280 NLRB No. 162
[E conditioning signing of agreement on U's payment of compensation for damages to E's property, unlawful, since matter is permissive non-mandatory subject of bargaining]

Song Crane & Excavating, Inc. JD-111-86
[E demanding as condition of further bargaining that U agree to pay for alleged damage to E's property occuring during past strike, unlawful, since insistence on nonmandatory subject of bargaining, no relationship to terms and conditions of employment, where demand not mere proposal and E could not demonstrate U was responsible for damages; further, in making demand condition precedent for bargaining, notwithstanding permissible rejection by U, amounted to refusal to bargain regarding mandatory subject]

6067-2070-6799 Other

Borden, Inc., Chemical Division Thermoplastic Products 279 NLRB No. 059
[insisting to impasse on permissive bargaining subject by demanding that receipt of severance pay by Ees whose jobs had been terminated be conditioned on their execution of general release of Ees' civil and statutory health and safety complaints, violation, where there was insufficient nexus between permissive subject of general releases and mandatory subject of severance pay to inextricably intertwine the two subjects of bargaining]

Lenfs Cablevision, Inc. and Cablevision Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 014
(although joint E met with U on five occasions in order to negotiate contract for E's Ees, Bd found that joint E failed to bargain in good faith with U, since: (1) E failed to respond to U's first two requests for bargaining; (2) as soon as U requested bargaining E proposed closing one of its facilities; (3) E informed U it was not willing to discuss wages until ALJ issued his decision in prior Bd C case involving one of joint Es and same Ees; and (4) other expressions of joint Es' U animus which frustrated bargaining process)

6067-2080 Uncompromising attitude or refusal to make concessions

6067-2080-0100 Generally

Schaeff Namco, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 150
[E did not fail to bargain in good faith during 14 day wage reopener period, notwithstanding parties had only two short negotiating sessions during period, and E failed to modify its proposals, where E offered to extend negotiations and consider wage build back should its wage cut proposal be implemented, and insistence on bargaining position is not itself refusal to bargain in good faith]

6067-2080-1200 Intransigence

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[E engaged in bad faith surface bargaining where, prior to U election, E told unit Ees he wouldn't give those bastards anything during negotiations, E's proposals at table were not merely tough but sought to ensure U no voice in Ees' terms and conditions of employment i.e., management rights clause gave E absolute authority over all terms and conditions of employment, U was excluded from grievance and seniority provisions and was not permitted to grieve E's wage decisions; further, U demonstrated flexibility in important areas while E was unyielding on all major points]

Landmark Industries, Inc. JD-(SF)-109-85
(mere fact that proposal (E's modification of peicework provision during contract neogitations) is unacceptable to U is insufficient to establish bad faith if E's insistence is genuinely and sincerely held. Piecework rate change was of prime importance to E and U made not even slightest concession on this issue and any concessions U made on other issues was attempt to avoid modifications to piecework rate)

6067-2080-2500 Nominal or illusory concessions do not establish good faith

Fox-Art Theatres, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 115
[E not bargaining in good faith where it flippantly responded to U's offer to reduce its wage demands by a dollar per hour per year by offering to raise its proposal by only a nickel and pattern of unlawful conduct]

6067-2080-3100 Refusal to continue predecessor contract until completion of new contract

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010
[contract provision providing that E furnish new Ees with copy of bargaining agreement survives expiration of contract]

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010
[implementing budget days whereby Ees worked reduced work weeks was priviledged under expired contracts' management rights clause]

6067-2080-3700 Wage increases and other unilateral changes in employment terms

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(totality of E's conduct demonstrated it bargained in bad faith with U where E made statements to Ees before negotiations violative of 8(a)(1) reflecting an unwillingness to engage in serious collective bargaining, E's proposals to U to freeze or reduce wages was consistent with statements to Ees that, if they rejected U, benefits would be the same and implying a reduction otherwise, E made no counterproposals except to eliminate all vacations and most holidays and did not move from position until final negotiating session and E unilaterally eliminated holidays before impasse which conduct clearly indicated bad faith)

6067-2080-4000 Strict seniority clause

Boaz Carpet Yarns, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 004
[E's proposal that eligibility for layoffs, recalls, promotions, transfers, and job bidding be governed, not by strict seniority, but by such criteria as skill and experience, not indicative of bad faith bargaining where U admitted criteria were pertinent considerations]

6067-2080-4300 Union-security provisions

Boaz Carpet Yarns, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 004
[E's stand on check-off provision, not indicative of bad faith bargaining where E would allow U access to plant to collect dues but opposed any provision not allowing Ees' revocation of checkoff at any time, and where U had negotiated similar term in contract with predecessor]

American Throat Company 274 NLRB No. 164
(no violation, where E during negotiations for new contract insisted to impasse that dues check off provision be deleted from bargaining agreement to preclude E knowledge of Ees' U membership in view of large number of grievances filed by Ees alleging discrimination against U members, since E could not be forced to yield to particular provision advanced by U, and E's refusal to agree to provision did not breach duty to bargain, nor did E condition agreement to continuation of checkoff provision on guarantee protected activities would cease; Markle Mfg. Co 239 NLRB 1353, revised in part)

6067-2080-5000 Failure to give reasons for rejecting proposals

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185

6067-2080-5600 Failure to make counter-proposals

Hedaya Brothers, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 093
(totality of E's conduct demonstrated it bargained in bad faith with U where E made statements to Ees before negotiations violative of 8(a)(1) reflecting an unwillingness to engage in serious collective bargaining, E's proposals to U to freeze or reduce wages was consistent with statements to Ees that, if they rejected U, benefits would be the same and implying a reduction otherwise, E made no counterproposals except to eliminate all vacations and most holidays and did not move from position until final negotiating session and E unilaterally eliminated holidays before impasse which conduct clearly indicated bad faith)

Excelsior Pet Products Inc. 276 NLRB No. 085
(E bargained in bad faith where, although E sincerely believed that if it made contract with U there would be no possibility that its business would survive due to its economic plight, E simply rejected U's proposals w/o offering any other alternatives other than contract which would not cost it a dime; E's bargaining intentions were that it would not sign contract so long as company was unprofitable; and E's intentions regarding making of new contract were revealed by its breach of old contract in substantial respects)

6067-2080-5900 Final offer claim

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[negotiating by drafting final offers capped by final/final offers which contained less favorable terms than in final offer, or issuing proposals not characterized as final but setting short deadlines for their acceptance and in each case E stated that if offer or final offer, whichever it was, was not accepted then E would impose final/final offer, or less beneficial terms, not good faith bargaining as tactic leaves little room for debate and no room for counteroffers]

Public Service Electric and Gas Company 280 NLRB No. 048
[violation where E sought to modify retroactivity clause of old contract by refusing to agree to pay wage increase in new contract effective on expiration date of old contract unless Ees ratified new contract by expiration date and, as part of its final offer, conditioned agreement to new contract on U's consent to abrogation of retroactivity clause; U's urging Ees to ratify new contract not voluntary consent to modification where U advised Ees at same time that it had filed charge with Bd]

(E's insistence on broad management rights and no strike clauses with restrictive grievance provision did not evidence intent to frustrate bargaining process or constitute surface bargaining, but rather lawful hard bargaining, in view of totality of E's conduct where it was willing to meet and bargain with U, attended all scheduled meetings, fulfilled procedural obligations, exchanged proposals and made concessions; nor were sway-from-the-table statements by supervisors not involved in negotiations regarding futility of bargaining, all but one of which occured outside of Sec. 10(b) period, sufficient to prove E intent to frustrate bargaining process)

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(E's seeking to change discharge and suspension language during contract negotiations with U so that it could exercise the prerogatives of management, because of backpay E was required to pay certain discriminatees not bad faith bargaining, since E had discussed various proposals (with U) and made concessions and/or agreements on number of issues concerning Ees' conditions of employment)

6067-2080-6900 Refusal to arbitrate, grievance or interference with arbitration machinery

Arizona Portland Cement Company, A Division of California Portland Cement Company, A Division of Calmat 281 NLRB No. 030
[refusing to meet and bargain with international U's representative designated as U's representative for processing grievances at grievance step 2 meeting, violation]

Boaz Carpet Yarns, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 004
[E's rejection of compulsory arbitration as expensive, litigious, and not in reality final, not indicative of bad faith bargaining where E was willing to consider voluntary arbitration and, in return for lack of compulsory arbitration, was willing to forego no-strike clause]

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[E's refusal to recognize Ee as U's designated shop steward and refusing to meet with him to discuss grievances, violative, notwithstanding E was under no contractual obligation to do so]

Hutchinson Fruit Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 054
(use of tape recorder at grievance meeting held not mandatory subject of bargaining and refusal of E to hold grievance meeting unless tape recorder on, violative. Bd held grievance meeting are similar to contract negotiations in both character and methodology and duty to bargain in good faith applies to both types of meetings)

Redway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer 274 NLRB No. 198
(E's failure and refusal to process Ees' grievances in violation of contract, unlawful)

Southern California Edison Company 274 NLRB No. 167
(E's refusal to conduct grievance meetings with Ees or U officials who wore Stick Your Retro button concerning retroactive pay raise during contract negotiations between E and U, violative, since wearing of button protected, and no matter what buttons were being worn, E was not privileged to refuse to meet and deal with U on matters being pursued through grievance arbitration process, at least so long as they did not cause unreasonable disruption (of process))

Southwestern Electric Cooperative, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 135
(E's refusal to arbitrate grievances unless U put them in writing, violative, since contract permitted U to file grievances orally. U and E representatives credibly testified that they had never processed written grievances)

Pittsburgh Penn Oil Company, Inc. JD-44-86
[E's refusal to follow contractual grievance procedure by refusing to meet with U and refusing to arbitrate grievances, violative]

Alpine Vending, Inc. JD-(SF)-99-85
(E unlawfully refused to bargain regarding processing of grievance since it failed for 5 months to get down to business of selecting arbitrator, failed to respond to U's request for information relevant to grievance, raised spurious defense that U did not represent majority of Ees; nor was problem limited, as E contended, to deadlock over E's suggestion of bifurcating hearing of grievance (first to determine applicability of contractual time bar; next to hear merits), inasmuch as U was willing to have issue of bifurcation decided by any arbitrator selected; E cited no authority suggesting duty to arbitrate could be conditioned on certain arbitration procedure)

6067-2080-7500 Refusal to enter into partial agreement

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(agreements reached on individual items during (contract) negotiations are not necessarily final and binding)

6067-2080-8100 Willingness to continue bargaining

Schaeff Namco, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 150

Robinson Construction Co., Inc. JD-(SF)-7-85
(E's unilateral changes in wages and fringe benefits, on grounds that impasse had been reached, violative, since no impasse existed where only 2 real bargaining sessions had taken place, U and E both had made changes in their negotiating positions and E declared impasse w/o giving U time to present E's final proposal to its committee for vote)

6067-2090 Totality of conduct

Hyatt Regency New Orleans 281 NLRB No. 042
[totality of E's conduct in negotiating with U, not unlawful, where E's declaration of impasse, asserted lack of authority on part of E's negotiator and his expressed dissatisfaction with unit composition, E's comments to Ees and counteroffer made to U failed to show bad faith bargaining on part of E who exhibited willingness to meet with U, offered several proposals, made concessions to U, seriously considered U's proposals, and remained willing to negotiate with U]

Boaz Carpet Yarns, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 004
[E's bargaining not in bad faith, notwithstanding rejection of compulsory arbitration, checkoff, and strict seniority clauses and insistence on broad management rights clause, where its reasons were not disingenuous or insincere, it did not insist on no-strike or zipper clause, it cooperatively provided timely information and counter-proposals and imposed no unilateral changes during negotiations]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[E's entire course of action was lacking in good faith desire to arrive at final agreement with U, where E failed to provide requested information relevant to bargaining, cancelled five negotiating sessions which had been previously scheduled, withdrew all bargaining proposals and agreements when U filed ULP charges]

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050

Coastside Scavenger Company 273 NLRB No. 198
(although E not required to be represented by individual possessing final authority to enter into agreement, this is subject to limitation that it does not inhibit progress of negotiations. Degree of authority possessed by negotiator is factor which may be considered in determining good-faith bargaining)

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
totality of E's conduct including E giving U list of 50 work rules, many of which were new, which E stated it would put into effect next day, refusing to hold negotiating session at U's office, or to share cost of neutral accomodations, and stating U would have to pay E rent if they met on E's premises, unlawful]

Modern Manufacturing Company, Inc. JD-376-85
[E's bad faith bargaining, in context of hostility and U animus, shown by total conduct, including refusal to agree to arbitrator's right to award backpay, illusory concessions, intransigence, unreasonable no-strike clause, unreasonable insistence on E's right to control wages and terms and conditions of employment]

Local 259, Auto Workers v. N.L.R.B. 776 F.2d 23 (C.A. 2, Oct. 1985)
[Bd well w/i its power in finding no unlawful refusal to bargain when E's conduct viewed in its totality, demonstrated substantial evidence that (E's) wage offers to replacement workers were not substantially different from, or greater than, those which E had propsed during its negotiations with U]

(changes in certain working conditions of Ees, not unlawful where, although 2 of 4 necessary elements of prima facie case were present in that conditions were mandatory bargaining subjects and changes were made w/o consulting with U, remaining 2 elements, majority status of U and its request to bargain, were not supported by evidence)

6067-4001-1700 What constitutes change

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010
[E's altering job qualifications for unit positions in education instructor job classification, (E required these Ees to possess a Master's Degree rather than Bachelor of Science in Nursing which had previously been required) not violative, since E was priviledged to make such change unilaterally, by terms of Management Rights clause in expired agreement]

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[institution shortly before end of strike of restrictions on smoking and drinking soft drinks and coffee during reporting time at medical facility, i.e. time during which patients' charts and medical records turned over from outgoing to incoming shifts, not violative, since change was not material, substantial change in practice inasmuch as applied only to overlap of shifts, had existed at times in past, and was justified by business reasons]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally restricting known U supporters' running of football pools to prework, lunch, and break times while continuing to allow non-U supporters to run pools during working hours, violation but not unlawful unilateral change where it only affected two Ees]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[unilateral change in attendance policy, not violation, since it was not material, substantial, or significant where it was change in procedure, rather than policy, and neither more stringent nor significantly altered but of increased orderliness]

Alamo Cement company 277 NLRB No. 108
(unilateral change not violation where it is not material, substantial and significant)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilateral promulgation of call-out schedules at new plant, violative where it implied that, contrary to past practice, designated on-call Ees had to be at home and available according to the schedule)

Watson-Rummell Electric Co. 277 NLRB No. 162
[E's failure to honor contract, unlawful, where E failed to submit timely and unequivocal withdrawal to U as required by contract]

Victor Block, Inc. and Syracuse Sand and Gravel, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 070
(E's recompensing second company's Ees whom it was temporarily employing according to second company's contract with the U rather than E's own

contract with the U that called for higher wages and greater fund contributions, violative, since, while working for E, Ees were part of unit covered by E's contract with U)

A & W Foods, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 020
(E's failure to implement wage increase provision in contract negotiated to become effective at future date, unlawful, since U did not agree to reopen contract, notwithstanding its agreement to discuss E's proposed midterm modification and agreeing to take proposal to membership, which rejected it)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(unilateral changes in terms and conditions of employment for Ees transferred from corporation to sole proprietorship, violative, since transfer did not relieve either E from duty of complying with contract covering transferred Ees where Es were found single E and alter egos of each other)

Spears-Guthnecht Enterprises, Inc. JD-(ATL)-62-85
(failure of E to hire through U's exclusive hiring hall as set forth in contract, violative)

Greater Detroit Heating and Cooling, Inc. JD-116-85
(E's failure to abide by terms of E association's bargaining agreement with U and unilaterally changing terms and coaditions of employment, violative)

N.L.R.B. v. BASF Wyandotte Corp. 798 F.2d 849 (C.A. 5, Sept. 1986)
[E's contention that its unilateral discontinuance, arguably against bargaining agreement, allowing U steward reasonable time in which conduct U business, of allowing U steward 4 hours per day of paid time in which to conduct U business, was only contract violation, not ULP, rejected, since contract violation which is also unilateral change in working conditions subject to mandatory bargaining, is both contract violation and violation of Section 8(a)(5) of Act]

N.L.R.B. v. Ford Brothers, Inc. 786 F.2d 232 (C.A. 6, Mar. 1986)
[E unlawfully made unilateral changes by not complying with existing agreement requiring certain wage and cost of living increases and established 48-hour workweek, where E, through membership in E association, was bound by contract and was required to observe its terms; result here is not altered by fact that E obtained approval of Ee majority for its proposed modifications, since E never reached agreement with Us on any changes, nor had it been authorized by U's joint area committee to implement those changes w/o prior approval]

6067-4001-2500 Changes greater than offered union

Service Electric Company 281 NLRB No. 107
[E under no obligation to bargain over employment terms of strike replacements, whether terms better or worse than preexisting terms before strike, whether strike has ended, or not, where no resolution of underlying dispute because no agreement on contract, and there are unreinstated strikers who have not abandoned future employment with E but whose jobs continued to be filled by replacements]

Southwest Forest Industries, Inc., Los Angeles Container Division 278 NLRB No. 031
[E's unilateral implementation of various changes in working conditions and wages different than those in final contract proposal, on grounds U had notice of changes and would have refused to bargain under any circumstances, violative, since U did not have notice where prior to implementation E advised U only that there would be other changes, E's changes were in no way a new contract proposal and there was no evidence that U's steadfast refusal to bargain with E was in any way improper]

Forest Grove Lumber Company 275 NLRB No. 144

Brady-Stannard Motor Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 178
(Bd found that after impasse wages paid to striker replacements was consistent with E's final offer to U to continue expired contract for 1 year where Bd looked at actual earnings received by replacements over 6 month period and it showed they were equal to or lower than what strikers earned in similar period in prior year notwithstanding wage package of replacements different from strikers. Therefore, no violation by offering replacements higher wage formula but where actual wages same, because it was, in effect, offering same contract to replacements as one that expired and which was offered to U)

6067-4001-3300 Effect of announcement or offer of change

Great Plains Furniture Industries, Inc. JD-14-85
(unilateral grant of wage increases by purchaser-successor after bargaining obligation attached, not unlawful, since successor had promised wage increases at time he set initial terms and conditions of employment and at that time no bargaining obligation had ripened; therefore, successor was free to set whatever terms he wished and so long as unilateral changes implemented were encompassed w/i initial terms of employment, no violation arises)

6067-4001-3700 Adequacy of notice of change to permit bargaining

Whirlpool Corporation 281 NLRB No. 007
[U waives right to oppose unilateral change where it is aware of projected change in sufficient time to bargain before change is implemented and fails to request bargaining; U must prosecute its right, not merely protest the change or file ULP charge]

T. Marshall Corp., t/a/ Cliffside Health Care Center 279 NLRB No. 166
[two-day advance notice insufficient]

Metropolitan Teletronics Corp. 279 NLRB No. 134
[E's concealing its decision to relocate operations until after it began to vacate existing facility, violation where E failed to provide U with timely notice, a part of meaningful bargaining, and thus denied it opportunity to bargain at time when it retained some bargaining power as representative of Ees; earlier references to E's financial plight and possible plant closing did not constitute notice, and E gave no reason for concealment, such as emergency, which would have justified late notice]

Metropolitan Teletronics Corp. 279 NLRB No. 134
[timely notice to U of E's decision to relocate is meaningful element of bargaining over effects; rule requiring timely notice is not per se rule, since E may escape liability by demonstrating that emergency circumstances justified late notice, but after-the-fact conjecture that E's conduct reaped no significant gains will not excuse late notice]

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilaterally hiring new Ees for positions at new plant which, according to E, unit Ees could not fill, and transferring unit Ees from existing plant to new one, violative where E's letter announcing these actions did not state when they would occur or indicate necessity for U to immediately request bargaining, and E's withdrawal of recognition precluded U action; E's assurances during negotiations the transferring the unit Ees would not cause them harm found no defense, and E's failure to bargain about the effects of the transfers and new hires since they occurred found violative)

John's Lumber & Hardware Company JD-199-86
[E's unilateral implementation of reduced wage rate and its failure to make contribution to pension plan after expiration of contract, unlawful, since implementation was w/o giving U reasonable opportunity to bargain, where E did not make any explicit request to bargain of U, which had many agreements expiring during period, until 9 days prior to expiration of agreement that it would implement its 60 page proposal, since no E and U had agreed to bargain after expiration of agreement, U's acquiesence or waiver of its right to bargain]

Indianhead Truck Line, Inc. JD-271-85
(E's failure to notify Us of its decision to terminate its freight operations until after implementation of decision, thus denying Us opportunity to bargain over effects of its decision, unlawful; E's contention its failure to give timely notice was justified by fear of theft and its financial situation, rejected)

6067-4001-4100 Union request for bargaining

Whirlpool Corporation 281 NLRB No. 007
[U waives right to oppose unilateral change where it is aware of projected change in sufficient time to bargain before change is implemented and fails to request bargaining; U must prosecute its right, not merely protest the change or file ULP charge]

Continental Telephone Company of California 274 NLRB No. 210
(E's unilaterally instituting new Positive Discipline program to deal with Ees' infractionsof its rules, including attendance rules, not violative where U waived its right to bargain concerning such policy through management-rights clause in parties' contract; neither U nor its representatives contested E's right to issue unilaterally new rules nor did they request bargaining)

Indianhead Truck Line, Inc. JD-271-85
(E unlawfully refused to bargain over effects of closure of its freight operations where U's secretary-treasurer stated to E we have to sit down and work out a closing agreement, and E replied that agreement had to be worked out by bankruptcy ct, since E is not relieved of its obligation to bargain over effects of its decision because it has become debtor-in-possession under Bankruptcy Act and believes it would be unable to meet U's financial demands; E's subsequent invitation to U to bargain did not bar finding of violation and ordering remedy for prior violation)

6067-4001-6700 Unfavorable to employees

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[auto dealer's unilateral implementation of its final offer, not unlawful since E was privileged to implement changes pursuant to most favored nation provision of multi-dealer bargaining agreement in effect, which provided that any more favorable terms agreed to by U with any dealer would automatically become part of agreement; however, elimination of Sunday pay which was not consistent with terms of agreement with other dealer which triggered most favored nation provision, unlawful, notwithstanding if all changes, considered as a whole, were equivalent to those granted by other dealer]

E G & G Florida, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 065
[successor E's unilateral decisions to eliminate positions and not to hire Ees, not violative]

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(E's advising U during negotiations that E controlled matter of split in certified unit, when in actuality split was army decision who had contracted work out to E, violative, since E's advice was conscious course of action intending to deceive U; such conduct (of E) was deceptive bargaining with tendency to inhibit process of collective bargaining)

Great Plains Furniture Industries, Inc. JD-14-85
(unilateral grant of wage increases by purchaser-successor after bargaining obligation attached, not unlawful, since successor had promised wage increases at time he set initial terms and conditions of employment and at that time no bargaining obligation had ripened; therefore, successor was free to set whatever terms he wished and so long as unilateral changes implemented were encompassed w/i initial terms of employment, no violation arises)

6067-4001-8500 Changes before impasse

Schaeff Namco, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 150
[E's unilateral implementation of reduction in wages after wage reopener period passed, lawful, even absent impasse, since E had contract specifically left open wages for third year of contract and provided for specified period to negotiate wage rates and provided that E shall implement its wage offer if parties failed to reach agreement w/i specified period; nor was unilateral implementation violative Section 8(d) since 8(d) did not apply as no modification of contract rather action in accord with contract]

M & C Vending Co., Inc. and Its Wholly Owned Subsidiary Ada Automatic Sales Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 047

Dependable Building Maintenance Company; et al. 276 NLRB No. 007
(Es' initial implementation of their final offer, violative, since there was no impasse where they implemented their offer too soon after complying with U's request for information to test U's alleged rigidity anad determine whether the U would use the information to modify its position; Es' subsequent implementations of their final offer seven and twelve months later, respectively, however, not violative, since there was enough evidence of continued disagreement to support finding of impasse where U made no economic concessions)

SGS Control Services, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 137

Dependable Building Maintenance Company; et al. 274 NLRB No. 037
(Es' implementation of their final offers violative, where impasse had not occurred, information U had been requesting from Es was relevant to negotiations and U did not have information for sufficient period of time before Es implemented their final offers)

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E's unilateral implementation of its flat rate wage with incentive proposal after expiration of bargaining agreement, and rejection by Ees of E's final proposal, not unlawful, since impasse existed where there had been 7 negotiating meetings during which there had been in depth discussions, positions on issues were advanced in good faith, but parties positions on flat rate wage remained unalterably opposite; fact concessions made on other matters did not preclude finding of impasse on flat rate since that issue was of overriding importance and parties were still not close to reaching agreement]

Dependable Building Maintenance Company; et al. 276 NLRB No. 007
(Es' initial implementation of their final offer, violative, since there was no impasse where they implemented their offer too soon after complying with U's request for information to test U's alleged rigidity anad determine whether the U would use the information to modify its position; Es' subsequent implementations of their final offer seven and twelve months later, respectively, however, not violative, since there was enough evidence of continued disagreement to support finding of impasse where U made no economic concessions)

Hamady Bros. Food Markets, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 183
(E's unilaterally implementing its proposals, not violative where E had bargained in good faith to impasse; although parties met only 5 times, finding of impasse not precluded where parties engaged in good-faith bargaining; further, E's repeated requests for cost reductions and U's insistence on restoration of benefits were issues of central importance to both parties; after both parties reasserted their respective positions, E announced it would implement its final proposal and received no response from U)

Taft Broadcasting Company, WBRC–TV 274 NLRB No. 038
(E did not unlawfully insist to impasse on nonmandatory subject of bargaining where GC failed to satisfy his burden of proof that E conditioned any agreement to mandatory subject on acceptance of its nonmandatory jurisdictional unit proposal; rather such proposal was simply one of several unresolved issues when parties reached impasse generally on mandatory subjects of bargaining)

E. F. Mitchler Co., d/b/a Lodi Ready Mix JD(SF)-91-86
[E's unilateral implementation of new wage rates and vacation benefits, failure to remit contributions to pension fund, and alteration of seniority system after expiration of contract, unlawful, notwithstanding existence of impasse, since changes varied from E's final offer; E's contention that in view of U's rejection of its final offer, it would have been futile to offer less advantageous conditions which it implemented, rejected, inasmuch as had E announced its intent to implement proposals, impasse might have been broken and bargaining continued]

N.L.R.B. v. Bildisco & Bildisco, Debtor-in-Possession, et al. ———U.S.——— (U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)
[Bd is precluded from, in effect, enforcing terms of collective-bargaining agreement by filing ULP charges against debtor-in-possession for violating Sec. 8(d) of NLRA by modifying or terminating unexpired labor agreement. Though Bd's action is nominally one to enforce Sec. 8(d), practical effect of enforcement action would be to require adherence to terms of agreement, but filing of ptn in bankruptcy means that agreement is no longer enforcesble. Consequently, Bd enforcement under these circumstances would run directly counter to express provisions of Bankruptcy Code]

Hysots Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[E's unilateral change in contract terms, prior to institution of bankruptcy proceeding, by failing to make required payments to U health and retirement trust funds, unlawful; inability to make payments, claimed but not proved by E, was no defense; however, any finding of violation against E as debtor-in-possession for failing to comply with contract after filing of bankruptcy ptn was barred by S.Ct's Bildisco decision (104 S.Ct 1188)]

Hysots Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[alleged refusal by E to bargain with U, not unlawful, where E who, as debtor-in-possession having continuing obligation to bargain over terms of new contract, sought to do so both before and after bankruptcy ct approved rejection of old contract; U made no request to bargain during that period; and it was not E's fault U failed to follow up on his bargaining request]

Hysots Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[direct dealing with Ees concerning terms and conditions of employment, not unlawful, where E, as debtor-in-possession, rightfully sought unilateral substitution of modified terms and conditions of employment and had proposed to U same terms subsequently offered to Ees; U's refusal to negotiate until its erroneous belief that E was bound by contract, abrogated by bankruptcy ct, was disproved or substantiated was in essence waiver of U's right to object to imposition of new terms and conditions of employment; and E was under severe time constraints to resume operations]

Thomas Sheet Metal Co., Inc.; et al. JD-(ATL)-86-84
(E as debtor-in-possession did not unlawfully make unilateral changes in Ees' terms and conditions of employment since, under S.Ct's Bildisco decision, debtor-in-possession, while obligated to bargain with U for new contract, is free to make unilateral changes; although E and U had no contract but only bargaining relationship when bankruptcy ptn was filed, thus arguably making Bildisco inapplicable, it would be totally incongruous and illogical to find an E with contract free to make unilateral changes while finding E herein to have unlawfully taken similar unilateral action)

Thomas Sheet Metal Co., Inc.; et al. JD-(ATL)-86-84
(new corporation, herein found to constitute alter ego of bankrupt E, held to have been formed at least in part to avoid latter's bargaining relationship with U and to evade responsibilities under Act to recognize and bargain with U concerning unilateral changes, where bankrupt E had been embroiled in dispute with U for some time over U benefits and means by which E could lower its benefits costs; and before bankruptcy ptn was filed and at time relatively close to formation of new corporation, principals of E were considering going non-U)

(E's implementing its final contract offer w/o giving mediation services notice of dispute with local Us, not violative, since local Us were the parties initiating contractual modification under Sec. 8(d)(1), and they, according to the statute's language and legislative history, had the exclusive responsibility for notification of the mediation services; Hooker Chemicals Corp. and Peoria Painting Contractors overruled)

John's Lumber & Hardware Company JD-199-86
[E's unilateral implementation of reduced wage rate and its failure to make contribution to pension plan after expiration of contract, unlawful, since implementation was w/o giving U reasonable opportunity to bargain, where E did not make any explicit request to bargain of U, which had many agreements expiring during period, until 9 days prior to expiration of agreement that it would implement its 60 page proposal, since no E and U had agreed to bargain after expiration of agreement, U's acquiesence or waiver of its right to bargain]

E. F. Mitchler Co., d/b/a Lodi Ready Mix JD-(SF)-91-86
[E's unilateral implementation of new wage rates and vacation benefits, failure to remit contributions to pension fund, and alteration of seniority system after expiration of contract, unlawful, notwithstanding existence of impasse, since changes varied from E's final offer; E's contention that in view of U's rejection of its final offer, it would have been futile to offer less advantageous conditions which it implemented, rejected, inasmuch as had E announced its intent to implement proposals, impasse might have been broken and bargaining continued]

N.L.R.B. v. General Tire and Rubber Company 795 F.2d 585 (C.A. 6, July 1986)
[E's unilateral discontinuance of benefits, following expiration of 90-day period after contract's termination during which benefits were to be continued, unlawful, where contract was silent on treatment of benefits after 90-day period, and neither contractual language nor prior conduct of parties demonstrated clear and unmistakable intent to waive U's right to bargain over payment of benefits]

Southwestern Steel & Supply, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 1111 (C.A. D.C., Dec. 1986)
[E's unilateral change in terms and conditions of employment, so called mandatory subjects of bargaining, made after expiration of bargaining agreement, but before E had bargained to impasse with U circumvents duty to bargain]

Southwestern Steel & Supply, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 1111 (C.A. D.C., Dec. 1986)
[E's unilateral refusal to continue to use U hiring hall after expiration of contract, unlawful; E's contention that hiring hall provision did not survive contract, rejected]

6067-4001-9500 During pendency of postelection objections

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[absent compelling economic reasons, E makes unilateral changes while objections to election are pending at his peril]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilateral change not excused by fact it was made before certification]

Kentucky Fried Chicken of the Virgin Islands, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 086
[unilaterally modifying pracatices regarding food privileges; unilaterally implementing use of new Ee manual; unilaterally implementing new policy holding all packers accountable for chicken shortages; and unilaterally instituting new insurance and health plan during pendency of post-election objections, violative]

6067-4001-9800 Prior to certification

Local 512, Warehouse and Office Workers' Union, Ladies Garment Workers v. N.L.R.B. 795 F.2d 705 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[unilateral layoff violates 8(a)(5) even when it occurs before U's certification by NLRB]

6067-4011 Failure to bargain before making economically motivated operating decision which has effect on unit

6067-4011-0100 Generally

6067-4011-0133 Nondestructive effect on unit

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[institution shortly before end of strike of restrictions on smoking and drinking soft drinks and coffee during reporting time at medical facility, i.e. time during which patients' charts and medical records turned over from outgoing to incoming shifts, not violative, since change was not material, substantial change in practice inasmuch as applied only to overlap of shifts, had existed at times in past, and was justified by business reasons]

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilateral subcontracting of unit work not violative in absence of showing harm to unit Ees' wages and working conditions)

6067-4011-0167 Destructive effect on unit

Alamo Cement company 277 NLRB No. 108
(unilaterally hiring new Ee as temporary laborer and utliziaing supervisors to operate certain equipment when it was again put into use, violations)

Alamo Cement company 277 NLRB No. 108
(unilaterally using a supervisor to operate a crane and establishing a regular schedule for him to do so eight hours a week, not violations where no contractual provisions prohibited such assignment, and supervisors had performed crane operations before)

6067-4011-0183 Actions taken during strike or lockout

Brady-Stannard Motor Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 178
(Bd found that after impasse wages paid to striker replacements was consistent with E's final offer to U to continue expired contract for 1 year where Bd looked at actual earnings received by replacements over 6 month period and it showed they were equal to or lower than what strikers earned in similar period in prior year notwithstanding wage package of replacements different from strikers. Therefore, no violation by offering replacements higher wage formula but where actual wages same, because it was, in effect, offering same contract to replacements as one that expired and which was offered to U)

6067-4011-1100 Subcontracting unit work

Pan American Grain Company, Inc. and Bulk Terminal Operations, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 019
[unilaterally subcontracting stevedoring to avoid employing larger U gang as required by contract, violation where decision did not involve change in nature or direction of operations and was amenable to resolution by collective bargaining in view of U control over size of gang]

Amateyus, Ltd., d/b/a Volk & Huxley, and Vulcan Typography Co. 280 NLRB No. 021
[E's unilateral suddeny increase in subcontracting of unit work, unlawful, where increase resulted from E's unlawful layoff of Ees in preparation for organization of company, held to be alter ego, in order to reduce labor costs by avoiding obligations of collective bargaining agreement]

Mar-Kay Cartage, Inc. and Contemporary Delivery Systems, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 152
(violation, where trucking company which was held alter ego to another company subcontracted driving positions by entering into contract with labor broker to provide it with drivers w/o bargaining with U which had represented driver Ees of its alter ego)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilateral subcontracting of unit work not violative in absence of showing harm to unit Ees' wages and working conditions)

Handy Andy Associates, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 029
(E's decision to subcontract warehouse and delivery operations not violative where decision was permitted by bargaining agreement containing subcontracting clause specifying in part that in event dispute went to arbitration, E agreed not to contract out said work until award was received; both parties agreed to be bound by arbitrator's decision which was intended to resolve contractual dispute over subcontracting and was fair and regular)

Teledyne Wisconsin Motor, A Division of Teledyne Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 076
(no violation by e's unilateral subcontracting piston production for engines where U contractually waived its right to bargain over E's decision to contract out production work when doing the work on E's premises cost substantially more than having an outside contractor do it, as here)

Griffith-Hope Company 275 NLRB No. 073
(subcontracting unit work w/o notifying or bargaining with U about either decision to subcontract or its effects, unlawful, since decision to subcontract turned upon labor costs w/i meaning of Otis Elevator, 269 NLRB 891; such decision concerned mandatory subject of bargaining; and E viewed subcontracting program as temporary one that did not effec fundamental change in nature of its operation)

Storall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(unilaterally subcontracting night shift work and using temporary Ees supplied by an employment agency rather than recalling former night shift workers on layoff, violative)

Pennsylvania Energy Corporation 274 NLRB No. 174
(E's concealment from U of nature and extent of its subcontracting arrangement, violative where E deprived U of opportunity to bargain about decision to subcontract work or effects of such decision on bargaining unit Ees)

Clinton's Ditch Cooperative Co., Inc. 274 NLRB No. 103
(E's unilateral decision to subcontract its trucking operations, a decision reached after it was unable to reach agreement with its joint E who was supplying those trucking operations over an increase in labor costs, w/o notice to or bargaining with U, violative, since E's decision turned on labor costs and did not turn upon a change in the nature or direction of the business and was mandatory subject of bargaining where correspondence between E and new subcontractor indicated E was looking for decreased labor costs and E still used the same equipment and leased drivers as it had done with its former joint E)

Gar Wood-Detroit Truck Equipment, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 023
(failure of E, which was engaged in installation of equipment and accessories on trucks and also selling parts, to bargain over its decision to subcontract its service work, not unlawful, since no specific term of contract was identified as having been modified and decision to subcontract not subject to mandatory bargaining since decision turned not merely on labor costs but on significant change in nature and direction of enterprise with E's essential purpose being to not only reduce overhead costs such as rent and utilities but to also get out of service and installation business and just sell parts)

Kohler Company 273 NLRB No. 195
(no violation by E's unilaterally contracting out janitorial work in view of broad management rights clause)

Ausable Communications, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 166
(cable TV company's unilateral subcontracting installation work, not unlawful, since installations occurred as result of installation of satellite disc which enabled company to offer customers additional channels, thus subcontracting was decision as to handling of increased workload which affected scope of business and thus was not bargainable)

Ingersoll-Rand Company JD-(NY)-48-85
(E's subcontracting unit work w/o bargaining with U, not violative, since U clearly and unmistakably waived right to object where contract specifically provided that E could unilaterally subcontract unit work, E had past practice of subcontracting unit work and U president acknowledged there was nothing U could do about E's decision)

R.L. Polk & Co. JD-5-85
(subcontracting work by print shop to which additional work had previously been lawfully transferred from another of E's print shops, not unlawful, even if transfer of work caused overload which necessitated subcontracting)

Clinton's Ditch Cooperative Co., Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 778 F.2d 132 (C.A. 2, Dec. 1985)
[U's contention that E was joint-E with subcontractor who took over E's trucking operations and E had duty to bargain when it chose another subcontractor, rejected and E's unilateral decision to change subcontractors not violative, since E did not have sufficient control over Ees of first subcontractor where E did not continue to play any role in hiring or firing, E did not directly administer discipline to drivers, subcontractor provided almost all benefits to drivers and E had only indirect, limited connection to problems of pay and other aspects of labor relations]

6067-4011-2200 Change to reliance on independent contractors or franchisors

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(violation, where E unilaterally changed Ee's status from Ee to independent contractor, ceased making payments to pension trust fund, and changed work duties of Ees w/i classification, after it had unlawfully withdrawn recognition from U upon expiration of contract)

6067-4011-4200 Spinoff or transfer of operations

Oak Rubber Company 277 NLRB No. 148
(E's refusal to bargain over decision to relocate part of its operations and the effects of that decision, violative, where just at time U was offering concessions in an attempt to meet E's expressed financial needs over labor costs, E closed the door to further negotiations before impasse by announcing that it had finalized plans to relocate; further, E is under obligation to do more than present U with list of predetermined effects of relocation and ask U for comments)

Hawthorn Mellody, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 055
(E had no duty to bargain with U over its decision to close plant and transfer production to plant 90 miles away as decision turned upon change in nature or operation of business percipitated by loss of contract with major customer who provided 50-70% of business. Labor costs was one motivating factor, but decision did not turn upon it)

6067-4011-4400 Partial termination of operation

Desota, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 114
[E's unilaterally closing plant and transferring work to its other facilities, not violation, where contractual labor costs were not a factor in decision, which was based on economy and effeciency of closing one plant and reallocating work to plants with unused production capacity, and decision was thus not amenable to bargaining]

6067-4011-4600 Transferring work

ABS Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 145
[unilateral decision to close plant and relocate remaining work, not violation, as there was no duty to bargain where decision was nonmandatory bargaining subject in view of fact it turned, not on reduction of labor costs but on restructuring of company due to heavy losses and requirements of lenders]

Morco Industries, Inc. And All Southern Fabricators, A division of Morco Industries, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 100
[E's transferring work from one plant to another w/o bargaining with U about transfer, not violative where decision turned entirely on need to expand E's metal fabrication facilities, which involved change in nature and scope of facet of enterprise; E did not seek to undermine status of U or escape labor costs embodied in contract]

Brown Company; Brown Company, Livingston-Graham Division; et al. 278 NLRB No. 113
[E's unilateral midterm transfer of unit work to wholly owned subsidiary in violation of work preservation clause, unlawful, since transfer of work was motivated by desire to reduce labor costs, hence mandatory subject of bargaining]

Desota, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 114
[E's unilaterally closing plant and transferring work to its other facilities, not violation, where contractual labor costs were not a factor in decision, which was based on economy and effeciency of closing one plant and reallocating work to plants with unused production capacity, and decision was thus not amenable to bargaining]

McAllister Brothers Inc. and Outreach Marine Corporation, Alter Egos 278 NLRB No. 091
[E's contention that its alleged double breasted operation allowed it to transfer unit work from one business to the other, rejected, since Es were found to be single E and alter egos and thus, work was never transferred out of bargaining unit]

Nurminco, Inc. d/b/a University Health Care Center 274 NLRB No. 112
(E's refusal to bargain with U about layoff of Ees, as well as its distribution of their work to nonunit bargaining Ees, violative)

Road Sprinkler Fitters Local Union No. 669, Plumbers v. N.L.R.B. 789 F.2d 9 (C.A. D.C., Apr. 1986)
[owner of a unionized and a nonunionized facility violated Act by diverting work from former to latter facility w/o giving U opportunity to bargain]

6067-4011-5500 Termination of operations

ABS Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 145
[unilateral decision to close plant and relocate remaining work, not violation, as there was no duty to bargain where decision was nonmandatory bargaining subject in view of fact it turned, not on reduction of labor costs but on restructuring of company due to heavy losses and requirements of lenders]

Amateyus, Ltd., d/b/a Volk & Huxley, and Vulcan Typography Co. 280 NLRB No. 021
[E's layoff of Ees from business it was terminating unlawful where it immediately began new business, held to be alter ego of teminated business, and induced laid off Ees to become Ees of new company under non-U conditions]

6067-4011-6200 Layoffs and discharges

Aquaslide 'N' Dive Corporation 281 NLRB No. 034
[E's delay in notifying U prior to layoffs and subsequent recalls, not unlawful, since necessity for layoffs was clear where, as result of E's filing of ptn in bankruptcy, its assets were frozen thereby causing layoffs, and there was no showing how prior notice could have influenced layoffs or recalls]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[unilateral layoff of eight announcers purportedly because of automation of radio station, violation]

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(failure to bargain over layoffs, unlawful, notwithstanding E's defense of economic necessity)

American Model & Pattern, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 018
(in absence of contract provision E's unilateral layoff of Ees w/o notifying or bargaining with U, violative; E's bargaining duty includes both the criteria for selection and the application of such criteria to particular Ees)

Nurminco, Inc. d/b/a University Health Care Center 274 NLRB No. 112
(E's refusal to bargain with U about layoff of Ees, as well as its distribution of their work to nonunit bargaining Ees, violative)

Rockne L. Alexander, Rockne Alexander, II, Debrah Nelson, Douglas Nelson and Tami DeGeorgis, d/b/a Alexander Packaging Co. JD-(SF)-5-86
[E's unilateral actions regarding changes in working conditions, job discipline and termination, occurring at time when E was obligated to notify and bargain with U concerning effects of such actions, violative]

6067-4011-6600 Introduction of automated methods

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[unilateral layoff of eight announcers purportedly because of automation of radio station, violation]

6067-4011-6900 Change in manner of operation

City Cab Company of Orlando, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Yellow Cab Company and Dixie Cab Company 273 NLRB No. 131
(taxi company's unilateral changes in various charges, surcharges, late penalties drivers were required to pay, in bidding procedure and in minimum number of shifts required unlawful, where company had not committed itself to any fixed practice; company's contention U had failed to protest changes for inordinate amount of time, rejected, since U had alleged unlawful unilateral changed in first charge, and since Region was attempting to get company to comply with its promise not to engage in any further changes, it would have been useless for U to protest each change)

6067-4011-7700 Relocation of operations

Central Soya Company, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 173
[E's consolidation/relocation of facilities to a different part of town, withdrawal of recognition from U at new location once Ees at old locations had been transferred to new location and refusal to bargain with U over effects of decision to consolidate/relocate, violative, where there was no substantial change in operations following the consolidation/relocation and once Ees were transferred to new location with other unrepresented Ees, those transferred constituted a majority of Ees who still desired U representation]

ABS Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 145
[unilateral decision to close plant and relocate remaining work, not violation, as there was no duty to bargain where decision was nonmandatory bargaining subject in view of fact it turned, not on reduction of labor costs but on restructuring of company due to heavy losses and requirements of lenders]

Metropolitan Teletronics Corp. 279 NLRB No. 134
[failure to bargain over decision to close operation in one city and relocate to another, not violation where motivated by foreclosure action on building in which operations were located, new facility's lower mortgage interest rate and more spacious quarters, and prospect of state assistance through issuance of tax-exempt developement bonds; decision did not turn on labor costs at facility that was closed and thus was not mandatory bargaining subject]

Safelite, Division of Lear Siegler, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 080
(new plant opened by E assertedly for operational efficiency which replaced old plant and was located only a few miles therefrom, held to be accretion of old plant and E's withdrawal of recognition from U at old plant and failure to bargain over effects of opening new plant violative, where Ees at new plant performed work identical to old plant, supervisors at both plants reported to the same management and two plants were only 20 minutes away from each other; further, E's asserted good faith doubt of U's majority status at new plant was groundless since E hired majority of Ees from old plant to staff new plant)

National Metalcrafters, Inc. and National Lock Corp. and Keystone Consolidated Industries, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 014
(E's refusal to bargain with U over decision to relocate department not violative where bargaining history and contractual provisions evidenced that parties intended for clause to mean what it said—that E had obligation to discuss with U contemplated relocation but not to bargain over that decision)

American Fluorescent Corp. 275 NLRB No. 154
(withdrawal of recognition of U as exclusive Ee bargaining agent, not violative where there is no evidence that E took any action to inhibit transfer of former bargaining unit members, and no evidence to refute evidence of proferred assistance by E. E terminated its operations in one city and resumed operations in another 35 miles north of first city in another county where U did not represent majority of E's work force)

Inland Steel Container Company 275 NLRB No. 129
(E's failure to bargain over its decision to relocate its steel drum plant, not violative, since labor costs were not sole or predominate motivating factor in its decision, but rather E was primarily motivated by cost of operations, along with low volume and limitations of plant and facilities, notwithstanding contractual labor costs precipitating factor in E's search for new facility, in view of smallness of building, non-availability of land surrounding plant, and flooding of plant which necessiated use of oiled rather than dry steel to protect against rust)

Hawthorn Mellody, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 055
(E had no duty to bargain with U over its decision to close plant and transfer production to plant 90 miles away as decision turned upon change in nature or operation of business percipitated by loss of contract with major customer who provided 50-70% of business. Labor costs was one motivating factor, but decision did not turn upon it)

R.L. Polk & Co. JD-5-85
(E's failure to bargain regarding transfer of machinery and unit work from one of its print shops to another of its print shops, not unlawful, since while labor costs were a factor, decision did not turn on labor costs, but upon change in nature and direction of business, where decision precipitated by increasingly automated procedures requiring less space and fewer Ees and plants, thus transfer not w/i ambit of mandatory bargaining; notwithstanding remarks by E that move and consolidation motivated by desire to rid itself of labor costs incurred under contract with U representing Ees at plant from which transferred)

Automobile Workers, Local 449 v. N.L.R.B. (National Lock Corp., et al.) 802 F.2d 969 (C.A. 7, Oct. 1986)
[ct held Bd improperly found that E did not unlawfully refuse to bargain over relocation of operations because U waived its statutory right to bargain over move, since Bd incorrectly assumed that contractual relocation provision supplanted statutory right to bargain over relocation decision based at least in part on labor costs; Bd omitted mention of traditionally stringent test for waiver of statutory right, and disregarded evidence pertinent to construing wording of applicable contract provision; and Bd failed to consider parol evidence rule and evidence favoring its own position]

Automobile Workers, Local 449 v. N.L.R.B. (National Lock Corp., et al.) 802 F.2d 969 (C.A. 7, Oct. 1986)
[E must bargain if decision to relocate is significantly motivated by concern over labor costs, though not if it is based mainly on factors other than labor, such as desire to economize on shipping costs]

6067-4011-8800 Reallocation or consolidation of operations

Central Soya Company, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 173
[E's consolidation/relocation of facilities to a different part of town, withdrawal of recognition from U at new location once Ees at old locations had been transferred to new location and refusal to bargain with U over effects of decision to consolidate/relocate, violative, where there was no substantial change in operations following the consolidation/relocation and once Ees were transferred to new location with other unrepresented Ees, those transferred constituted a majority of Ees who still desired U representation]

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 087
(E's unilaterally splitting department into 3 separate departments, not violative where bargaining agreement reserved to E exclusive right to determine manner, means and processes of manufacturing which encompassed right to establish or rearrange its own organizational structure and to change and rearrange its manufacturing departments as it saw fit; when E split department, it was w/i its contractual rights to do so and U waived any right it might otherwise have had to bargain over that subject matter; moreover, there was bargaining over effects of decision on Ees)

R.L. Polk & Co. JD-5-85
(E's failure to bargain regarding transfer of machinery and unit work from one of its print shops to another of its print shops, not unlawful, since while labor costs were a factor, decision did not turn on labor costs, but upon change in nature and direction of business, where decision precipitated by increasingly automated procedures requiring less space and fewer Ees and plants, thus transfer not w/i ambit of mandatory bargaining; notwithstanding remarks by E that move and consolidation motivated by desire to rid itself of labor costs incurred under contract with U representing Ees at plant from which transferred)

6067-4022 Failure to bargain over effect on unit of economically motivated operational decisions

6067-4022-0100 Generally

6067-4022-0133 Nondestructive effect on unit

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(notwithstanding E's deceptive course in negotiations prevented U from finding out until tenth negotiating session that unit was split w/o any unlawful action on part of E, E did not need to bargain over effects of decision to split since early on parties were bargaining over split unit and E supplied U with all information about new unit (wages, hours and conditions of employment) so that U was not inhibited in its bargaining)

6067-4022-0183 Actions taken during strike or lockout

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[lockout of Ees in order to further E's bargaining position after reaching impasse in contract negotiations with U held not equivalent to layoff and, consequently, denial of pension withdrawal benefits to Ees throughout lockout period held not unlawful, since retirement plan, providing for pension withdrawal rights to Ees laid off temporarily for lack of work, did not include locked out Ees]

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[denial of pension withdrawal benefits during period of scheduled 2-week holiday layoff which was cancelled because lockout occurred contemporaneously with scheduled layoff, not unlawful, where E viewed lockout from its inception as being of indefinite duration; and timing of lockout first working day after U rejected E's latest contract proposal raised inference that purpose of lockout was to place economic pressure on U to accept E's bargaining position and not to overlap with prescheduled layoff so as to deprive Ees of benefits to which they otherwise would have been entitled]

6067-4022-1100 Subcontracting unit work

Airport Distributors, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 091
[unilateral subcontracting of unit work while failing to recall from layoff unit Ees to perform such work, unlawful, notwithstanding E's claim that decision to subcontract was entrepreneurial; while S.Ct has exempted certain bona fide decisions of Es from bargaining obligation, discriminatorily motivated subcontracting, coupled with refusal to bargain, is unlawful]

Harold Weine; et al., A Co-Partnership d/b/a Sands Motel and AMM, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 013
[subject of discriminatorily motivated contracting was specifically excluded from sweep of Otis Elevator Co. 269 NLRB 891, 892 where contracting out held permissable under certain circumstances. Further, such contracting decision for admitted purpose of reducing labor costs constitutes mandatory subject of bargaining]

Handy Spot, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 177
[E's failure to bargain with U over effects of its decision to subcontract its delivery routes in metropolitan area to independent contractors resulting in layoff or termination of its Ees unlawful notwithstanding E's contention that U waived its right to bargain, where E never advised U of sale of any of E's routes until well after sales had taken place]

Griffith-Hope Company 275 NLRB No. 073
(subcontracting unit work w/o notifying or bargaining with U about either decision to subcontract or its effects, unlawful, since decision to subcontract turned upon labor costs w/i meaning of Otis Elevator, 269 NLRB 891; such decision concerned mandatory subject of bargaining; and E viewed subcontracting program as temporary one that did not effec fundamental change in nature of its operation)

Pennsylvania Energy Corporation 274 NLRB No. 174
(E's concealment from U of nature and extent of its subcontracting arrangement, violative where E deprived U of opportunity to bargain about decision to subcontract work or effects of such decision on bargaining unit Ees)

Clinton's Ditch Cooperative Co., Inc. 274 NLRB No. 103
(E's unilateral decision to subcontract its trucking operations, a decision reached after it was unable to reach agreement with its joint E who was supplying those trucking operations over an increase in labor costs, w/o notice to or bargaining with U, viclative, since E's decision turned on labor costs and did not turn upon a change in the nature or direction of the business and was mandatory subject of bargaining where correspondence between E and new subcontractor indicated E was looking for decreased labor costs and E still used the same equipment and leased drivers as it had done with its former joint E)

Gar Wood-Detroit Truck Equipment, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 023
(violation, where E which was engaged in installing equipment and accessories on trucks failed to bargain regarding effects of subcontracting on unit Ees since E only informed U of its decision to subcontract after it executed subcontracting agreement)

Everett Yacht Club JD-(SF)-115-85
(E's failure to bargain with U over effects of its decision to subcontract its bar and restaurant operations, violative, since U could have accomplished positive and favorable considerations for unit Ees if U had learned of E's intent to subcontract prior to its being put into effect)

6067-4022-4200 Spinoff or transfer of operations

Drummond Coal Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 177
[E's transfer of repair work caused primarily by fundamental change in nature and direction of E's operations and not costs from city to onsite location at mine and closing city repair shop w/o notice to or bargaining with U over decision and its effects, not violative]

Oak Rubber Company 277 NLRB No. 148
(E's refusal to bargain over decision to relocation part of its operations and the effects of that decision, violative, where just at time U was offering concessions in an attempt to meet E's expressed financial needs over labor costs, E closed the door to further negotiations before impasse by announcing that it had finalized plans to relocate; further, E is under obligation to do more than present U with list of predetermined effects of relocation and ask U for comments)

Mack Trucks, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 084
(E's decision to transfer and consolidate work being performed at truck assembly facility to another facility not mandatory bargaining subject, since E's decision did not turn on bargaining unit labor costs, but on serious losses for year 1980 and projected future losses because of E's excess productive capacity which led E to believe E had over invested in capital assets and such transfer to larger and more modern facility would cut freight and overhead costs)

Mack Trucks, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 084
(alleged failure of E to bargain with U over effects of its decision to close one plant and transfer work of truck assembling to another facility, not violative, since record fails to show E refused to bargain over effects of E's decision to close its facility. Local and international U's as well as E's proposals were discussed at numerous negotiating sessions. Record warrants determination that E was willing to discuss closure and transfer problems with U representatives w/i framework of E and U's master agreement)

Hawthorn Mellody, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 055
(E did not unlawfully refuse to bargain over effects of its decision to close facility and transfer production to plant 90 miles away. While no formal notice given to U, U had substantial information from which it must inevitably have been aware of E's intentions but never requested bargaining over effects of its decision, thereby waiving its right to do so)

6067-4022-4400 Partial termination of operation

Desota, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 114
[no violation by refusing to bargain about effects of plant closing and transfer of work to E's other facilities where E adequately bargained about effects and remained willing to discuss them but U chose to discuss decision to close, rather than effects, and was therefore responsible for lack of more extensive effects bargaining]

6067-4022-4800 Transfer of work

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002

Desota, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 114
[no violation by refusing to bargain about effects of plant closing and transfer of work to E's other facilities where E adequately bargained about effects and remained willing to discuss them but U chose to discuss decision to close, rather than effects, and was therefore responsible for lack of more extensive effects bargaining]

Mack Trucks, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 084
(E's decision to transfer and consolidate work being performed at truck assembly facility to another facility not mandatory bargaining subject, since E's decision did not turn on bargaining unit labor costs, but on serious losses for year 1980 and projected future losses because of E's excess productive capacity which led E to believe E had over invested in capital assets and such transfer to larger and more modern facility would cut freight and overhead costs)

Mack Trucks, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 084
(alleged failure of E to bargain with U over effects of its decision to close one plant and transfer work of truck assembling to another facility, not violative, since record fails to show E refused to bargain over effects of E's decision to close its facility. Local and international U's as well as E's proposals were discussed at numerous negotiating sessions. Record warrants determination that E was willing to discuss closure and transfer problems with U representatives w/i framework of E and U's master agreement)

Suburban Transit Corp. and Suburban Trails, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 005
(no violation when E relocated unit work (single E) and thereby brought unit Ees under different bargaining agreement which was less favorable to these Ees, since contract covering original workstation did not contain any provisions preventing E from making such relocation w/o first obtaining consent of U and E bargained in good faith over decision to relocate)

Jaydon, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 199
(transfer of unit work to new location allegedly contrary to terms of existing contract and w/o U's prior consent in order to avoid paying contract wage rates and in retaliation for U's refusal to make or accept mid-term contract modifications, not unlawful, in view of rule, estabflished by Milwaukee II and retroactively applied therein, that relocations such as that herein are not unlawful in absence of contract language expressly forbidding such moves)

Indianhead Truck Line, Inc. JD-271-85

(E unlawfully refused to bargain over effects of closure of its freight operations where U's secretary-treasurer stated to E we have to sit down and work out a closing agreement, and E replied that agreement had to be worked out by bankruptcy ct, since E is not relieved of its obligation to bargain over effects of its decision because it has become debtor-in-possession under Bankruptcy Act and believes it would be unable to meet U's financial demands; E's subsequent invitation to U to bargain did not bar finding of violation and ordering remedy for prior violation)

6067-4022-7700 Relocation of operations

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002

[E unlawfully refused to bargain over effects of interplant transfer of unit work, where E's actions went beyond merely reducing workforce and, instead, involved far-reaching consequences not covered by parties' contract, thereby obligating E to bargain with U over collateral effects of its decision to relocate unit work; contract's management rights clause did not constitute waiver of U's right to bargain over consequences resulting from work transfer, and zipper clause likewise did not preclude effects bargaining]

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002

[management rights clause, authorizing E to relocate work from one plant to another at will, held not waiver of U's right to bargain about consequences resulting from such work transfer; while management rights clause conferred upon E exclusive decision-making authority regarding relocation of unit work, contract was silent over consequences of such decision; and contract's broad management rights clause, in absence of specific waiver language, did not waive U's right to bargain over effects of E's relocation decision]

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002

[zipper clause held not to constitute clear and unmistakeable waiver of U's right to bargain over effects of E's interplant transfer of unit work since, unlike case in which zipper clause constituted waiver of U's right to bargain over new benefit for non-bargaining unit personnel, leaving unit Ees unaffected, no such waiver could be read into parties' zipper clause herein, since transfer of work struck directly at one of the most critical of Ee concerns--availability of jobs elsewhere when unit work had been lost]

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002

[absent express language in contract waiving parties' bargaining obligations, Bd examines totality of circumstances surrounding making of contract, including prior bargaining history, to determine whether waiver may be implied; here, parties engaged in no discussion bearing on effects of relocation of unit work, and U's silence may not be construed as waiver; in absence of express language or unambiguous bargaining history, forfeiture of important right, such as bargaining over effects of decision to relocate Ees' work, will not be implied]

[E's concealing its decision to relocate operations until after it began to vacate existing facility, violation where E failed to provide U with timely notice, a part of meaningful bargaining, and thus denied it opportunity to bargain at time when it retained some bargaining power as representative of Ees; earlier references to E's financial plight and possible plant closing did not constitute notice, and E gave no reason for concealment, such as emergency, which would have justified late notice]

[violation, where when time came to make pension contributions per agreement E unilaterally reduced wages by amount of pension contributions, seeking by this means to pass cost of pension contributions on to Ees; E's contention U was privileged to reduce wages since reduction in effect cancellation of prior unlawful wage increases, rejected]

Southwest Forest Industries, Inc., Los Angeles Container Division 278 NLRB No. 031
[E's unilateral implementation of various changes in working conditions and wages different than those in final contract proposal, on grounds U had notice of changes and would have refused to bargain under any circumstances, violative, since U did not have notice where prior to implementation E advised U only that there would be other changes, E's changes were in no way a new contract proposal and there was no evidence that U's steadfast refusal to bargain with E was in any way improper]

Rogers Cleaning Contractors, Inc. and Its Alter Ego, Olmsted Cleaning Contractors, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 053

Victor Block, Inc. and Syracuse Sand and Gravel, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 070
(E's recompensing second company's Ees whom it was temporarily employing according to second company's contract with the U rather than E's own contract with the U that called for higher wages and greater fund contributions, violative, since, while working for E, Ees were part of unit covered by E's contract with U)

The Rath Packing Company 275 NLRB No. 042
(bypassing international U as exclusive bargaining representative of its unit Ees and dealing directly with its Ees and local U, violative as International revoked any authority local may have had to bargain with E. Assuming, arguendo, local had limited authority to bargain, it exceeded its authority by agreeing to larger deferrals than original contract called for)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(unilaterally changing contract by paying starting unit Ees at less than contractual wage rates, violative, since E was still obligated to comply with terms of expired contract where it had notified U of intention to terminate contract w/o offering to negotiate new one or notifying U of intention to modify contract's specific terms)

Dane County Dairy, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 209

Vincent Bach Division of The Selmer Company JD-237-86
[E's unilaterally modifying bargaining agreement at midterm by reducing wage rates of certain Ees, violative]

Armored Transport of California, Inc. JD-(SF)-132-86
[unilaterally reducing existing wages, violation]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation JD-(NY)-91-86
[unilaterally reducing wage rates of probationary Ees, violative]

John's Lumber & Hardware Company JD-199-86
[E's unilateral implementation of reduced wage rate and its failure to make contribution to pension plan after expiration of contract, unlawful, since implementation was w/o giving U reasonable opportunity to bargain, where E did not make any explicit request to bargain of U, which had many agreements expiring during period, until 9 days prior to expiration of agreement that it would implement its 60 page proposal, since no E and U had agreed to bargain after expiration of agreement, U's acquiesence or waiver of its right to bargain]

Valley Parcel Service, Inc. and Valley Parcel Service, Inc., Debtor In Possession JD-(SF)-74-86

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[E's unilateral change in working conditions by rearranging operations and lowering Ees' wage and fringe benefits, unlawful, where E continued his enterprise through another company, which was E's own business creation, because E desired to escape from his lawful obligations under multi-E agreement, and there was no significant hiatus between alleged cessation in E's work and that done by created company which was E's alter ego and disguised continuance of E's operation]

Gallati Cartage of Michigan, Inc. JD-311-85
(reducing wages, rates of pay and medical insurance benefits w/o prior notice to or bargaining in good faith with U, violative)

LeRic Floor Covering, Inc., and Richard E. Fackler d/b/a REF Carpet Service and Installation Alter Egos JD-79-85
(no unlawful failure of unionized E to pay contractual wage rates and benefit contributions for part of Ees' hours of work for non-U E, where Es were neither alter egos nor joint Es, and Ees' work for non-U E was not a disguise for portion of work for unionized E)

N.L.R.B. v. Auto Fast Freight, Inc. 793 F.2d 1126 (C.A. 9, July 1986)

6067-4033-2900 Per diem and travel expenses or subsistence payments

Hydro-Air Equipment, Inc. d/b/a Lanco 277 NLRB No. 012
(E unilaterally instituting payment of commuting expenses to new location upon relocation of plant, unlawful)

6067-4033-3100 Overtime pay

Architectural Woodwork Corporation 280 NLRB No. 108
[unilateral change in overtime payment policy, violation, notwithstanding expiration of contract, where presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by good faith doubt based on decertification ptn that was unlawfully induced by E]

Alamo Cement company 277 NLRB No. 108
(unilaterally changing manner of paying overtime to certain Ees by eliminating regular time and using only straight time, violation)

O. Voorhees Painting Co. and O.V. International, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 114
(concealment of overtime hours worked and straight time payments made to Ees for overtime work for purpose of avoiding one of joint E's bargaining agreement with U through use of joint E arrangement, violative)

Bozzuto's, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 056
(bypassing U, dealing directly with Ees, and unilaterally changing payment structure for Ees' assigned weekend overtime work, w/o giving U prior notice and affording it opportunity to bargain, violative)

Conte Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(unilateral failure of Es to adhere to overtime pay terms of contract for which they were found liable herein as successors to, single E with, and alter egos of E which had contract with U)

6067-4033-4100 Cost of living raises

Burroughs Interstate Services Credit Union 280 NLRB No. 034
[E's unilateral modification of current agreement by eliminating certain cost of living adjustments (COLAS) that had been incorporated into Ees' rates of pay and failing to pay any unit Ees COLA due them on certain date, violative]

Earl C. Smith, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 100
[unilaterally failing to pay cost-of-living increase pursuant to contract, violation notwithstanding increase was not due to take effect until day after contract was due to expire]

American Stores Packing Company, A Division of Acme Markets, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 190
[unilaterally withholding cost of living adjustment (COLA), violative since such conduct constituted repudiation of bargaining agreement and under 8(d) E is not permitted to make such contract modifications absent consent of U]

N.L.R.B. v. Harrstone Manufacturing Corp., Duray Fluorescent Manufacturing Co., American Fluorescent Corp. and House-O-Lite Corp. 785 F.2d 570 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)
[Es not required to pay cost-of-living adjustment provided for in contract where date increase was to take effect occurred after expiration of contracts and adjustment in question never became effective]

6067-4033-4400 Holiday pay

Transport Service Company 282 NLRB No. 011
[E's refusal to pay premium pay for holiday and Sunday work pursuant to contract, violation]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally changing customary effective date of annual increase with resulting lack of traditional increase in hourly workers' holiday pay due to Ees' U activity, violation]

T. Marshall Corp., t/a/ Cliffside Health Care Center 279 NLRB No. 166
[unilateral grant of wage increase and new holiday, violation where U received only two days advance notice]

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(unilaterally reducing number of paid holidays, violative, since E was still obligated to comply with expired contract where it had notified U of intention to terminate contract w/o offering to negotiate new one or notifying U of intention to modify specific terms of contract)

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's converting 2-day Ee holiday to single-day holiday with additional day of personal leave, not violative, where E's actions conformed to its stated practice prior to instance where Ees were granted 2-day holidays during one holiday season; furthermore, E's actions did not result in loss of holiday time by Ees)

Custer Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(E's unilateral failure to adhere to holiday pay terms of contract for which Ees were found liable herein as successors to, single E with, and alter egos of E which had contract with U)

6067-4033-5000 Bonus

Cal-Am Partners d/b/a Amscot Coal 281 NLRB No. 027
[successor E's unilaterally implementing cash bonus incentive system, violation]

Specialty Steel Treating, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 067
[unilaterally granting discretionary, rather than regularly scheduled, wage increases and bonuses while objections to election were pending, violation]

Freedom WLNE-TV, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 167
[E's practice of providing Ees with Christmas bonus was mandatory subject of bargaining where: (1) E maintained practice, for 3 years preceding sale of E, of making cash Christmas bonus payments; (2) Christmas bonus was made pursuant to formula inextricably tied to Ee's wages and seniority; (3) Christmas bonus was negotiated between E and U, resulting in contractual obligation; (4) instant E contractually assumed terms of bargaining agreement upon its purchase of E; (5) E acknowledged its contractual commitment to pay Christmas bonus by its memorandum that advised Ees payments would be made]

Sahara Datsun, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 148
[unilaterally discontinuing variable weekly incentive bonuses for three weeks in retaliation for representation ptn, violation]

Radio Electric Service Company 278 NLRB No. 078
[unilaterally discontinuing longstanding practice of granting Ees Christmas bonus unlawful, since there was little, if any, bargaining on part of parties, and such bargaining was insufficient to conclude that they bargained to impasse on discontinuance of bonus]

Stovall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(unilaterally denying Ees their usual Christmas bonus because of their U activities, violative)

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019
(E's payment of year-end bonus, assertedly unlawfully discontinued, held to constitute wages and terms and conditions of employment, notwithstanding absence of formula for determining bonus amount or of prior formal pronouncement or fact that amounts varied, where bonus was uninterruptedly paid for 30 years; Ees considered bonus as established benefit and had continued expectation of receiving it; and nonpayment of bonus in proceeding year did not establish that bonus constituted discretionary gift)

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019
(while payment of year-end bonus, assertedly unlawfully discontinued, was established condition of employment, it id not constitute accrued bonus, where Ees qualified for its payment if employed at time of distribution, there was no past practice of set time for its distribution, and no Ee leaving employment prior to distribution period had received bonus as earned for work previously performed)

Electrical Workers Local 1466 v. N.L.R.B. (Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.) 795 F.2d 150
[no unilateral change in wages and no requirement that E must bargain when E discontinued its past practice of 40 years of paying Christmas bonus where contract contained zipper clause that stated... contract...shall be the sole source of all rights or claims which may be asserted in arbitration hereunder or otherwise.... and contract silent as to Christmas bonus]

6067-4033-5500 Sick leave pay

Hamady Bros. Food Markets, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 183
(E's asserted failure to restore benefits agreed to by E and U in prior letter of understanding, not violative where, because of nature of benefits, there was no way to accurately test whether E failed to restore benefits and there was no evidence that Ees were denied any of benefits)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(unilaterally reducing paid sick leave allowances, violative, since E was still obligated to comply with expired contract where it had notified U of intention to terminate contract w/o offering to negotiate new one or notifying U of intention to modify specific terms of contract)

6067-4033-5600 Severance pay

6067-4033-5600 Severance pay

Inner City Broadcasting Corporation 281 NLRB No. 162
[E's failure to apply, and unilateral termination of, severance pay terms of contract upon its expiration, unlawful, where E did so w/o having first bargained about such changes with U]

6067-4033-5900 Vacation scheduling and pay

Government Employees (Office Employees, Local No. 2) 278 NLRB No. 085
[U-E's discriminatory and unilateral withholding of scheduled annual leave from Ees participating in strike, violation, since inherently destructive of significant employee rights]

Railway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer 274 NLRB No. 190
(E's failure and refusal to grant vacation time pay in violation of contract, unlawful)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(unilaterally modifying vacation pay policy, violative, since E was still obligated to comply with expired contract where it had notified U of intention to terminate contract w/o offering to negotiate new one or notifying U of intention to modify specific terms of contract)

American Threat Company 274 NLRB No. 164
(E's unilateral changes in grievance procedure, insurance and vacation benefits, not unlawful, where E had lawfully withdrawn recognition upon receipt of notice from majority of Ees that they no longer wished to be represented by U)

Custer Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(E's unilateral failure to adhere to vacation pay terms of contract for which they were found liable herein as successors to, single E with, and alter egos of E which had contract with U)

Dane County Dairy, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 209
(unilaterally discontinuing long-established system of vacation pay, violative)

6067-4033-6700 Merit wage increase

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally changing customary effective date of annual increase with resulting lack of traditional increase in hourly workers' holiday pay due to Ees' U activity, violation]

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85
[unilaterally changing criteria for merit awards, violation]

6067-4033-7100 Incentive wage plans

Cal-Am Partners d/b/a Amscot Coal 281 NLRB No. 027
[successor E's unilaterally implementing cash bonus incentive system, violation]

Salinas Valley Ford Sales, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Town & Country Olds/Cadillac/Honda 279 NLRB No. 089
[E's unilateral implementation of its flat rate wage with incentive proposal after expiration of bargaining agreement, and rejection by Ees of E's final proposal, not unlawful, since impasse existed where there had been 7 negotiating meetings during which there had been in depth discussions, positions on issues were advanced in good faith, but parties positions on flat rate wage remained unalterably opposite; fact concessions made on other matters did not preclude finding of impasse on flat rate since that issue was of overriding importance and parties were still not close to reaching agreement]

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibraltar Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(E held not privileged to institute wage incentive plan on ground that U agreed thereto, since U representative's offhand remark during negotiations about inclusion of plan in contract if contract rate was not violated cannot reasonably be construed as consent to E's implementation of plan, absent overall contract agreement; and U opposed such action on ground it was unlawful unilateral change and took further action by filing charge)

Carbo Fuel Oil; Gibraltar Heat Corp.; Concord Oil Corp. JD-(NY)-24-85
(E held not privileged to institute wage incentive plan on ground that, while there was no overall bargaining impasse at time plan was implemented, impasse existed on when implementation should be accomplished; bargaining does not contemplate piecemeal implementation of each item, and impasse contemplates deadlock in negotiations over prospects of concluding complete agreement; assuming impasse existed over plan's implementation, no finding could be made that such issue had crippled prospects for reaching agreement or was sole impediment thereto; and here parties continued to negotiate over other items)

6067-4033-7600 Tips arrangement

H.H.H. Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Stephenson Haus 279 NLRB No. 139
[successor E's unilateral change in policy regarding division of banquet tips between bartenders and waitresses by successor E, unlawful, where successor had hired all Ees of predecessor and initially continued existing policy]

6067-4033-8600 Dues

Duramyre Motor Express, Inc. and/or Duramyre Motor Express, Inc., Debtor-In-Possession 275 NLRB No. 044
(withholding U dues from wages of all Ees in bargaining unit but not remitting dues to U w/o bargaining, violative where change was made during term of valid bargaining agreement, but before date E filed ptn in bankruptcy)

Railway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer 274 NLRB No. 198
(E's failure and refusal to forward dues withheld from Ee pay checks to U in violation of contract, unlawful)

6067-4033-8800 Free food, beverages or food, beverages at reduced cost

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's unilaterally posting notice telling Ees that from that time on kitchen facilities and food products in freezer stored there could no longer be used by Ees for their lunch, violative, since they had always been allowed to do so before)

6067-4033-9100 Pensions and group benefits

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[lockout of Ees in order to further E's bargaining position after reaching impasse in contract negotiations with U held not equivalent to layoff and, consequently, denial of pension withdrawal benefits to Ees throughout lockout period held not unlawful, since retirement plan, providing for pension withdrawal rights to Ees laid off temporarily for lack of work, did not include locked out Ees]

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[denial of pension withdrawal benefits during period of scheduled 2-week holiday layoff which was cancelled because lockout occurred contemporaneously with scheduled layoff, not unlawful, where E viewed lockout from its inception as being of indefinite duration; and timing of lockout first working day after U rejected E's latest contract proposal raised inference that purpose of lockout was to place economic pressure on U to accept E's bargaining position and not to overlap with prescheduled layoff so as to deprive Ees of benefits to which they otherwise would have been entitled]

Arrow Sash and Door Company 281 NLRB No. 149
[E's refusal to make contributions to pension and health funds after it withdrew from all tentative agreements reached and concessions made during negotiations, and broke off negotiations, assertedly because of sick out by some Ees in violation of no strike agreement, unlawful, since E's actions not justified in totality of circumstances as evidence failed to establish that Us either sanctioned, condoned, or in any other way encouraged Ees to engage in sickout]

International Distribution Centers, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 111
[E's failure to remit pursuant to checkoff deducted dues and contributions to health and welfare fund, unlawful, inasmuch as E's alleged poor financial condition rejected as defense]

Rappazzo Electric Co., Inc. 281 NLRB No. 075
[E's unilaterally discontinuing payment of pension and other fringe benefits and lowering Ee wages w/o negotiating changes with U, violative notwithstanding E's assertion that parties bargained to impasse, since E never provided U with opportunity to bargain regarding changes prior to implementing them]

Little Mining, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 073
[refusing to pay minimum daily wages in contract and to pay premiums for individual E's benefit plan, unlawful, notwithstanding dissenting Bd member's argument that ULP charge was nothing more than attempt to have Bd enforce contract and collect delinquent wages and benefits]

Hinote Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[in finding unlawful E's unilateral change in contract terms by failing to make required payments to U health and retirement trust funds, Bd held there was no basis for finding violation unwarranted because E's unilateral action assertedly represented only delinquency or temporary failure to make timely payments where, following settlement of grievance and agreement to make back payments, E never resumed payments; there was nothing temporary about E's failure to honor contract nor any support for finding E merely delinquent when in fact payments were never made]

Hinote Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[E's unilateral change in contract terms, prior to institution of bankruptcy proceeding, by failing to make required payments to U health and retirement trust funds, unlawful; inability to make payments, claimed but not proved by E, was no defense; however, any finding of violation against E as debtor-in-possession for failing to comply with contract after filing of bankruptcy ptn was barred by S.Ct's Bildisco decision (104 S.Ct 1188)]

American Press, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 109
[successor E's departure from rates of pay and benefits w/o prior bargaining with incumbent U, unlawful, where E unlawfully discriminated against predecessor's former Ees by refusing to hire them because of their U affiliation; and absent its unlawful purpose, E would have retained substantially all of these Ees and therefore E was not entitled to set initial terms of employment unilaterally]

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital 280 NLRB No. 011
[E's unilateral changes including wage increase, health, pension and benefit fund contributions, and grievance procedure, unlawful since based on unlawful withdrawal of recognition which was preceeded by E solicitation of resignations from U]

Imperial House Condominium, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 154
[ceasing contributions to Ees' health benefit fund and unilaterally initiating new benefit fund, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention that letter it received from U concerning fund was not invitation to bargain but was instead unilateral modification of benefit plan, since ultimate characterization of letter was not dispositive factor, where gravamen of E's unlawful act was its cessation of contribution to benefit plan w/o providing U with opportunity to bargain, nor could E cease contributions and establish entirely new plan w/o providing U opportunity to bargain over modification in Ees' terms and conditions of employment]

EPI Corporation d/b/a Rockford Manor Intermediate Care Facility 279 NLRB No. 170
[U waived its interest in bargaining with respect to carrier induced changes in health benefit plan, notwithstanding parties did not specifically address issue of mid-term adjustment in health program during their contract deliberations where it was clear that they negotiated complete agreement, and it was also clear that parties desired to commit unresolved issues to management prerogatives as they existed upon entry of agreement]

Fashion Furniture Mfg., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 095
[E's failure to implement increases in health and welfare payments required under contract which it unlawfully refused to sign, violative]

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073
[E's failure to make health and welfare contributions, and instituting unilateral changes in wages and other conditions of employment, unlawful, notwithstanding its alter ego's midterm withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit timely and effective, since alter ego E still bound by agreement executed prior to alter ego's withdrawal and still in effect; further, even if not bound by terms of agreement, its failure to bargain regarding mandatory subjects of bargaining, prior to change, unlawful]

Ne Di Construction Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 071
[unilaterally ceasing to make health and welfare contributions, instituting new and lower wage rate for new hires, and ceasing to abide by obligation to use U as source for Ees, violation where E was still bound by expired master contract, pursuant to its automatic renewal term, and then by new contract, notwithstanding E's alleged notice of termination, since notice was untimely, and U had not waived it as requirement]

Beckley Belt Service, Inc., d/b/a Beckley Belt Services & Roofing Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 066
[unilateral failure to make pension fund contributions, violation]

NDK Corporation 278 NLRB No. 151
[E's unilateral refusal to contribute to fringe benefit funds and to make its payroll records available for audit by trustees of funds, unlawful, where E's admissions provided proof requisite to establish GC's prima facie case, and E was not permitted to escape liability, under federal labor law and conventional common law principles, on ground that its consent to execution of contract was unlawfully induced by U official's false representation that contract would not be enforced]

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation 278 NLRB No. 118
[unilateral cessation of pension and welfare fund contributions violation, notwithstanding contract expiration and E's reliance on provision in Trust Fund agreement stating that E should continue to pay fund contributions as long as E was obligated pursuant to collective bargaining agreement, where provision was not clear and unmistakable waiver of Ees' right to receive contributions and U's right to bargain over E's ceasing to make them on expiration of contract, since section did not deal with termination of E's obligation to contribute, and under Bd law E's obligation survived contract]

M & C Vending Co., Inc. and Its Wholly Owned Subsidiary Ada Automatic Sales Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 047
[notwithstanding settlement whereby U agreed to look to E for prospective future payments into U's pension plan, the breach and subsequent withdrawal of settlement agreement allowed C to allege failure to make payments into pension plan going back to period covered in original charge that led to settlement agreement]

Watson-Rummell Electric Co. 277 NLRB No. 162
[unilateral discontinuation of pension, vacation, health and welfare, and other trust fund contributions contained in multi-E association contract, violation where E's notice of withdrawal from multi-E association was untimely]

Telford & Doolen, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(E held not to have unlawfully refused to consent to audit of its fringe benefit fund payments under contract, where E eventually complied fully with its contractual commitments by paying amounts determined to be due, thereby indicating that E did not unilaterally change terms and conditions of contract; fact that E did not act as rapidly as it should have is no basis for finding violation, since contract did not set forth time limits for audit, and lack of urgency on part of fund contributed to delay)

Cascade Painting Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 103
(Es who withdrew from multi-E bargaining following expiration of contract held to have unlawfully made unilateral changes in existing wages and in discontinuing contributions to fringe benefit funds under contract, since Es were required to maintain status quo upon expiration of contract; contract pension, health and welfare plans survived expiration of contract and could not be altered w/o bargaining; and Es were duty bound to bargain with U while continuing in effect all terms and conditions of expired contract until new agreement was negotiated or true bargaining impasse was reached)

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1–17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 277 NLRB No. 078
(unilaterally introducing new dental and vision plans, violations)

Rogers Cleaning Contractors, Inc. and Its Alter Ego, Olmsted Cleaning Contractors, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 053
(unilateral elimination of benefits and failure to make pension and health and welfare contributions required by expired U contract of E's alter ego E, violation)

San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 036
(changing health and medical benefits, violative)

American Model & Pattern, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 018
(E's unilateral discontinuance of end of year IRA payments to Ees, assertedly because such payments were wholly discretionary and hence not a subject of bargaining, violative, where such payments were routine and regarded by Ees as a regular company benefit)

Southwestern Steel & Supply, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 174
(E violated Act by paying sums directly to Ees those that he should have paid to U's trust funds under expired contract where E did not possess good faith doubt as to U's majority and no impasse in bargaining)

Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc., Leslie Volkswagen, Inc., and Dupage Leslie Oldsmobile, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 148
(E's unilateral changes in wage rates and fringe benefits in contract, violative where E was bound by bargaining agreement entered into between U and E's alter ego with which E and third E constituted single E)

Victor Block, Inc. and Syracuse Sand and Gravel, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 070
(E's recompensing second company's Ees whom it was temporarily employing according to second company's contract with the U rather than E's own contract with the U that called for higher wages and greater fund contributions, violative, since, while working for E, Ees were part of unit covered by E's contract with U)

Dunmyre Motor Express, Inc. and/or Dunmyre Motor Express, Inc., Debtor-In-Possession 275 NLRB No. 044
(E's failure to remit pension fund contribution as required by bargaining agreement, w/o bargaining, violative where change was made during term of valid bargaining agreement, but before date E filed ptn in bankruptcy)

Tucson Yellow Cab, Inc., A Debtor In Possession 275 NLRB No. 032
(no violation, where E unilaterally failed to make payments into U's pension trust fund after it had filed ptn in bankruptcy, in view of NLRB v. Bildisco and Bildisco 104 S.Ct 1188, 115 LRRM 2805)

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(violation, where E unilaterally changed Ee's status from Ee to independent contractor, ceased making payments to pension trust fund, and changed work duties of Ees w/i classification, after it had unlawfully withdrawn recognition from U upon expiration of contract)

Prime Time Post, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 218
(successor E held not obligated to contribute to international's health and welfare fund pursuant to U's agreement with predecessor E and cessation of contributions not violative, where successor E at no time assumed obligations of predecessor E and entered into contract with local U of international which did not require it to make contributions to the fund; further, international waived right to bargain over fund contributions when it never requested successor E to bargain and was aware that local U was bargaining with E and entered into contract which did not provide for fund contributions)

Railway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer 274 NLRB No. 198
(E's failure and refusal to make pension plan contributions in violation of contract, unlawful)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(unilateral discontinuance of contributions to pension, health and welfare, and other trust funds, violative, since E was still obligated to follow terms of expired contract where it had notified U of intention to terminate contract w/o offering to negotiate new one w/o notifying U of intention to change conditions of employment)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(unilaterally discontinuing health insurance and pension fund contributions for Ees transferred to another E, violative, since Es were not relieved of duty to comply with contract where they were found single E and alter egos of each other)

Conte Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(E's unilateral failure to contribute to U funds as they were found liable to do herein as successors to, single E with, and alter egos of E which had contract with U)

San Juan Hotel Corporation d/b/a El San Juan Hotel 274 NLRB No. 083
(E's discontinuance of contributions to Ees' pension fund required by contract, not unlawful, since contract was unenforceable during relevant period of time as result of E's filing of bankruptcy ptn where, by operation of law, upon conversion of case from Chapter 11 reogranization to Chapter 7 liquidation proceeding, contract was automatically rejected 60 days after conversion)

Dane County Dairy, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 209
(unilateral cessation of contributions to health and welfare and pension funds, violative)

Mead Packaging 273 NLRB No. 181
(E's unilateral discontinuance of insurance and pension benefits to U officers on leaves of absence for purpose of holding U office, not violative; granting such benefits to U officers alone under provision of contract would violate 8(a)(3) and 8(b)(2), since granting such benefits to U officers did not further effective administration of E's bargaining agreement where U officers were on U's payroll and acted as representatives of Ees at other Es premises, engaging in engotiations and arbitrations, and generally monitored compliance with U's bargaining agreements and further, granting of such benefits was not available to other Ees on an equal basis)

Victor Wooten, d/b/a Diablo Paving JD-(SF)-90-86
[construction subcontractor's failure to make contributions to U's various benefit funds pursuant to 8(f) contract held unlawful unilateral change in terms and conditions of employment where, shortly after E signed pre-hire agreement with U which incorporated master agreement containing U security provision, U achieved majority status among Ees at project; and after completion of work thereat, E followed pattern of Ee carryover from job to job, thereby establishing permanent and stable work force of unit Ees during contract term]

R. M. Eyre & Associates, Inc. JD-(SF)-79-86
[E's refusal to pay fringe benefit contributions, on behalf of its Ees who were represented by U, to various contractually established fringe benefits trust funds after expiration of its bargaining agreement with U, violative where not only did E's duty to bargain with U survive expiration of agreement but its obligation to continue making payments to fringe benefit funds continued]

The Setterlin Company JD-56-86
[E's unilateral cessation of contributions to U's health and welfare and pension funds and implementation of contributions to alternate plans, lawful where E had lawfully and timely withdrawn from multi-E association; negotiations with U had reached impasse; E, fearing continued contributions to U funds would be evidence of assent to be bound by multi-E association contract, had notified U of intent to implement new benefit plans if impasse continued; and U had not only failed to request bargaining but avoided it in attempt to bind E to multi-E association contract]

Richard Burgett, A Sole Proprietor, d/b/a Burgett & Son Masonry and its Alter Ego Consumers Energy Savings System, Inc. JD-25-86
[E's unilateral change in working conditions by rearranging operations and lowering Ees' wage and fringe benefits, unlawful, where E continued his enterprise through another company, which was E's own business creation, because E desired to escape from his lawful obligations under multi-E agreement, and there was no significant hiatus between alleged cessation in E's work and that done by created company which was E's alter ego and disguised continuance of E's operation]

Stroman Construction Company JD-367-85
[failure to timely pay fringe benefits, to timely file proper fringe benefit reports, to pay liquidated damages for delay in payment, and to provide proper books and records for audit, as required by contract, violation and unilateral mid-term modification of contract]

Coos-Bend, Inc., d/b/a The Sawmill Restaurant & Lounge JD-(SF)-156-85
(unilaterally ceasing to make contributions to trust for compensable hours worked by unit Ees, violative)

Bertolucci's Fender and Body Shop, Inc. JD-(SF)-143-85

LaRic Floor Covering, Inc., and Richard E. Fackler d/b/a REF Carpet Service and Installation Alter Egos JD-79-85
(no unlawful failure of unionized E to pay contractual wage rates and benefit contributions for part of Ees' hours of work for non-U E, where Es were neither alter egos nor joint Es, and Ees' work for non-U E was not a disguise for portion of work for unionized E)

Tax Manshack, Inc. JD-(SF)-64-85
(unilateral failure to make accurate reports and required payments to contractual pension, health and welfare and other trust funds, violative)

My Buddy Products, A Division of S&T Industries, Inc. JD-114-85
(E's unilaterally passing on increased health insurance premiums to its Ees, violative)

Melcolunity, Inc., and Melvin Collings and Ed Collins, a partnership t/a Collins & Collins Associates JD-(NY)-111-83
(violation for refusing to furnish U with information and to remit dues and fringe benefits payable under contract signed by E in construction industry and who, with consent of U, signed in name of defunct entity and not name of entity U was certified for, thereby, giving rise to inference that contract applied to members working at specific jobsite and no other)

N.L.R.B. v. General Tire and Rubber Company 795 F.2d 585 (C.A. 6, July 1986)
[E's unilateral discontinuance of benefits, following expiration of 90-day period after contract's termination during which benefits were to be continued, unlawful, where contract was silent on treatment of benefits after 90-day period, and neither contractual language nor prior conduct of parties demonstrated clear and unmistakable intent to waive U's right to bargain over payment of benefits]

N.L.R.B. v. General Tire and Rubber Company 795 F.2d 585 (C.A. 6, July 1986)
[E's unilateral discontinuance of benefits, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention that U waived its right to bargain over benefits by failing to demand bargaining on issue following E's announcement of its intent to terminate benefits, where E did not raise waiver issue until it moved for reconsideration by Bd, which Bd properly denied since E improperly attempted to rely on new theory and on asserted facts not in stipulation entered into by parties]

Southwestern Steel & Supply, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 1111 (C.A. D.C., Dec. 1986)
[E's unilateral termination of payments to welfare plan and pension trust after expiration of bargaining agreement, unlawful; E's contention U waived right to bargain over such payments by provision in payment agreement between E and fund trustees prescribing how and when revocation was permissible between E and trustees, rejected]

[E's unilateral termination of Ees' group insurance coverage, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention that U waived its right to bargain on ground no U representative ever requested E to bargain over the matter, where U did not learn of insurance coverage change until after it occurred; and U business agent, upon learning of the change, immediatelv protested to E]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097
[E violated Act by unilaterally terminating Ees' group insurance coverage, where U did not waive its right to bargain about coverage; parties had not reached impasse in bargaining; and E was not excused, on ground it would have been futile to notify U of termination, from not giving U advance notice thereof, since E had no way of knowing whether U would in fact have refused to bargain about ending insurance, E owed U reasonable notice of proposed change in insurance, and E made no claim that any emergency compelled it to end insurance suddenly]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097
[E's unilateral reinstitution of Ees' group insurance coverage, following its unlawful termination unilaterally by E, unlawful, where reinstituted insurance was markedly different from old insurance since carrier was different, benefits were changed and, most importantly, only small percentage of unit Ees were covered]

Buckley Belt Service, Inc., d/b/a Buckley Belt Services & Roofing Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 066

United Technologies Corporation 278 NLRB No. 041
[E's unilateral implementation of 1-year program]Correct-A-Bill) to reward its Ees for detecting health care overcharges, not violative, since any change in benefits implemented by E must be substantial material, and significant affecting terms and conditions of employment of bargaining unit Ees. E's implementation of program did not amount to such change in terms and conditions of employment of unit Ees, thus E not obligated to bargain with U. Program merely provided Ees with incentive to review their hospital or surgical center bills to detect overbilling]

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040
[unilaterally discontinuing contractual insurance benefits for laid-off Ees, violation in absence of impasse]

Suffolk Child Development Center, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 158
(unilaterally reducing Ee benefits under health insurance plan, violation, where E alone decided how to meet increased cost of plan, contract's lack of specificity as to plan did not indicate E's right to unilaterally change it or U's consent thereto, statute not contract governs duty to bargain over mandatory subjects, change had vital effect on Ees and U did not waive right to bargain by failing to have plan specified in contract or object to prior changes or by agreeing to management rights clause or zipper clause)

Garrett Flexible Products, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 073
(E's unilaterally passing on increase in insurance premiums to unit Ees w/o notice to or bargaining with newly certified U, on grounds that U had not yet requested bargaining with E, violative, where E had no past practice of passing on increases in premiums and retained complete discretion in allocating costs of insurance and E was well aware U was certified and could easily have ascertained who from U to contact concerning bargaining)

Angelica Corporation 276 NLRB No. 038
(E's directly announcing to Ees that it would soon implement life insurance program for Ees during decertification election campaign, violative)

Excelsior Pet Products Inc. 276 NLRB No. 085
(E's refusal to make payments to Blue Cross-Blue Shield, as required by U contract, unlawful, where cancellation of policy by carrier, which offered to help E in straightening out the problem, was viewed by E as being a blessing in disguise, and he admittedly had no intention of working out the problem or of resuming medical coverage for his Ees)

Arno Moccasin Company 274 NLRB No. 222
(E's unilateral termination of health and life insurance coverage which E had pursuant to expired contract and substitution of significantly different policy w/o notice and w/o offering U opportunity to bargain, violative)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185
(unilaterally discontinuing health insurance and pension fund contributions for Ees transferred to another E, violative, since Es were not relieved of duty to comply with contract where they were found single E and alter egos of each other)

American Thread Company 274 NLRB No. 164
(E's unilateral changes in grievance procedure, insurance and vacation benefits, not unlawful, where E had lawfully withdrawn recognition upon receipt of notice from majority of Ees that they no longer wished to be represented by U)

Lake Castings, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 040
(mtn for summary judgment granted, in view of E's trustee in bankruptcy failure to file answer, insofar as complaint alleged violation of Sections 8(a)(5) and (1) by failing to make premium payments for medical insurance for unit Ees prior to filing of bankruptcy ptn; however, mtn denied and that portion of complaint remanded to RD which alleged violation by failure to make insurance premium payments on or after date of filing bankruptcy ptn in view of Bildisco 104 S.Ct 1188, which held debtor-in-possession does not committ ULP when it unilaterally rejects or modifies bargaining agreement before bankruptcy ct approves formal rejection)

6067-4044-2300 Recall

Barnett Supply Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 146
[E's failure to recall Ees according to predecessor E's seniority list, unlawful, since husband of E's president adoption of seniority list was imputed to E where E held him out as agent and his actions were ratified by president/wife]

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061
[recall of laid off Ees to lower classified positions w/o bargaining with representative, not violative unless contract provision provides that Ee has right to be recalled to grade he vacated as recall to work cannot be considered reclassification over which bargaining must ensure]

Telford & Dooley, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(failure to recall laid-off Ee pursuant to seniority provisions of expired contract, unlawful, since E thereby unilaterally changed term or condition of employment w/o bargaining with U

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(E's refusal to recall Ee from layoff under provisions of expired contract, unlawful unilateral change, where refusal after E's unlawful withdrawal of recognition, notwithstanding layoff was lawful and failure to recall was not unlawfully motivated, since Ee would have received seniority rights and been recalled pursuant to those seniority rights under expired contract)

6067-4044-4000 Discharge

Alamo Cement Company 281 NLRB No. 110
[unilaterally granting wage increase and refusing to bargain about discharge of Ee, unlawful]

Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Company 278 NLRB No. 006
[discharge of Ees pursuant to policy of testing Ees for medical fitness for particular job assignments, assertedly because OSHA required such medical tests, violative, where Bd had rejected this defense in previous ULP case involving same parties and E had expressly agreed by contract that such testing would not adversely affect Ees' employment]

Telford & Dooley, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(discharge of Ee assertedly w/o following seniority provisions of expired contract, thereby unilaterally changing terms and conditions of employment w/o bargaining with U, not unlawful, where reprimands to Ee supported E's explanation that discharge was for cause, thus making seniority provisions inapplicable; and 3-month delay between last reprimand and Ee's discharge did not evidence attempt to avoid impact of seniority provisions, nor constitute toleration of poor worker, since Ee, laid off and not working, could not jeopardize E's operations with poor work performance)

Rogers Cleaning Contractors, Inc. and Its Alter Ego, Olmsted Cleaning Contractors, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 053
(unilaterally changing alter ego E's work rule resulting in Ee discharge for failing to report for work on first day of E's operations, unlawful where, for purposes of the Act, Ee was deemed employed by E because of prior employment with alter ego E, and alter ego E had never terminated Ee for missing work w/o reporting off)

Redway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer 274 NLRB No. 198

6067-4055-0100 Generally

The Seven-Up/Canada Dry Bottling Company of Pittsburgh, A Division of Beverage Management, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 128
[E's refusal to recognize U as representative of driver-salesmen, repudiation of contract and unilateral changes, following operational change in which E had eliminated job category's duties into new driver-salesman category, unlawful, notwithstanding E contention that creation of new category created qcr, where change was not technological and required no major hiring, job was similar to former category, no other U claimed to represent the E's, and Ees from old category substantially outnumbered additional driver-salesmen, who are viewed as accretion to old unit]

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061
[fact E's unilateral mid-term changes in Ees' terms and conditions of employment were prompted by economic rather than discriminatory considerations is immaterial if E did not bargain about those changes. Defense that refusal to bargain did not take place in context of overall subjective, bad faith may be available when charge is violation of Section 8(a)(3) of Act, but it is no defense to 8(a)(5) allegation]

6067-4055-1500 Cleanup time

6067-4055-2700 Holidays

Hamady Bros. Food Markets, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 183
(E's asserted failure to restore benefits agreed to by E and U in prior letter of understanding, not violative where, because of nature of benefits, there was no way to accurately test whether E failed to restore benefits and there was no evidence that Ees were denied any of benefits)

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's converting 2-day Ee holiday to single-day holiday with additional day of personal leave, not violative, where E's actions conformed to its stated practice prior to instance where Ees were granted 2-day holidays during one holiday season; furthermore, E's actions did not result in loss of holiday time by Ees)

GTE Sylvania, Inc./GTE Products Corp. JD-480-84
(E's announcement of new Administrative Guidelines for E-plan which allowed certain Ees to take extended sick leave and personal holidays violative, where, although U did not contest E's right to administer plan, instant guidelines had effect of decreasing current benefits under existing plan rather than dealing solely with administrative matters)

6067-4055-3000 Hours worked

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010

[ostentsibly non-U E, held to be alter ego of unionized E, unilaterally changing hours, wages, work rules, job classifications, unlawful]

Alamo Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 034
(unilaterally implementing new second shift and new rotating shift and changing another shift, violative)

San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 036
(unilaterally eliminating a swing shift, violative)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(fact E unilaterally changed shift starting time at Ees' request, no defense to failure to bargain solely with its Ees' statutory representative and no other person or group)

Stovall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(reduction in work hours to make good prior warning that E would make it rough on Ees if U came in, violative)

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's prohibiting Ees from leaving work unless they had completed their jobs or obtained permission of their supervisors, not violative, since E's action did not change established term and condition of employment since record will not support finding that E applied new policy as to overtime, and accordingly, E was not obligated to bargain with U)

6067-4055-3300 Break periods

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally discontinuing practice of letting Ees take breaks and lunch periods in loading dock area in retaliation for U support, violation]

United States Postal Service 275 NLRB No. 057
(reducing break periods from 15 to 10 minutes on one of its shifts to conform with its established policy--contract silent on issue--w/o bargaining with U, not violative, as all Ees aware of 10 minute break policy and notwithstanding that on this shift, as opposed to other shifts, extended break standard for 15 years except for 2 short periods as Bd considered this partial breach of otherwise uniformly applied work rule inadequate basis from denying E right to uniformly apply work rule to all its Ees)

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's institution of rule requiring that Ees clock out when use of restroom would involve in excess of 2 or 3 minutes not violative where Ees had always been required to clock in and out for numerous breaks)

6067-4055-3500 Assignment of work

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County--- ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[E's unilateral reassignment of duty of recording patients temperatures, pulse rates and respirations from unit secretaries to nurses aides upon onset of strike and continuing policy after end of strike, violative of Section 8(a)(5), where E was not compelled to make the substantial and material change]

H.H.H. Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Stephenson Haus 279 NLRB No. 139
[successor E's unilateral change in policy regarding assigning Ees to serving banquets, unlawful, successor had hired all Ees of predecessor and initially continued existing policy]

San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 036
(unilaterally transferring certain Ees and assigning them different functions resulting in change of duties and reassignment of other Ees to lower paying classifications, violative)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilateral assignment of job duties of unilaterally eliminated unit job classification to other job classifications, violative)

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191
(violation, where E unilaterally changed Ee's status from Ee to independent contractor, ceased making payments to pension trust fund, and changed work duties of Ees w/i classification, after it had unlawfully withdrawn recognition from U upon expiration of contract)

6067-4055-3600 Performance of unit work by supervisor

The Cincinnati Enquirer, Inc., A Division of Gannat, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 149
[unilaterally assigning unit work to newly-created supervisory position, violation]

Telford & Doolen, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 112
(E did not unilaterally change terms and conditions of expired contract by assigning unit work to department supervisor, where all Ees in department had been laid off; and contract provision relating to unit work did not specifically address situation arising herein, nor did parties in negotiating provision contemplate such situation; consequently, it is not clear that provision prohibited E from utilizing supervisor to do incidental unit work that needed to be done, rather than closing department when work level dropped below that warranting retention of at least 1 Ee)

Maintenance Service Corporation 275 NLRB No. 198
(no agreement reached where parties could not agree on effect of dropping side bar agreement, that was part of expired agreement from new agreement, in regard to whether foremen could perform unit work, a mandatory subject of bargaining)

6067-4055-3700 Job classification

H.H.H. Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Stephenson Haus 279 NLRB No. 139
[successor E's unilateral institution of new job classification and wage scale, unlawful, where successor had hired all Ees of predecessor and initially had adhered to prior conditions and terms of employment]

Alamo Cement company 277 NLRB No. 108
(unilateral change in Ee's job classification not violation, where Ee was not made a supervisor and had same duties as before except that he also sporadically substituted for the supervisor in latter's absence, assisted the supervisor with a monthly report, and received a slight wage increase; change in classification was thus not material, substantial, and significant change in term or condition of employment)

Alamo Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 034
(unilateral transfer and reclassification of Ee, violative)

Alamo Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 034
(unilaterally changing job classification title from operator to supervisor, violative)

San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 036
(unilaterally eliminating certain job classifications resulting in transferring some Ees to lower paying job classifications, eliminating one job, and relcassifying Ee to lower paying job, all violative)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilateral elimination of certain unit job classifications and addition of others, violative)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 175
(E's making workers in its new automated steamroom facility salaried utility technicians rather than hourly boiler operators, thereby removing those workers from bargaining unit, not violative)

Armored Transport of California, Inc. JD-(SF)-132-86
[unilaterally withholding or delaying promotion of certain Ees into new job classifications, violation]

6067-4055-3800 Transfer

Alamo Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 034
(unilateral transfer and reclassification of Ee, violative)

San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 036
(unilaterally transferring certain Ees and assigning them different functions resulting in change of duties and reassignment of other Ees to lower paying classifications, violative)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilaterally hiring new Ees for positions at new plant which, according to E, unit Ees could not fill, and transferring unit Ees from existing plant to new one, violative where E's letter announcing these actions did not state when they would occur or indicate necessity for U to immediately request bargaining, and E's withdrawal of recognition precluded U action; E's assurances during negotiations the transferring the unit Ees would not cause them harm found no defense, and E's failure to bargain about the effects of the transfers and new hires since they occurred found violative)

6067-4055-3900 Absentee rules (See also 530-4055-5000)

Rogers Cleaning Contractors, Inc. and Its Alter Ego, Olmsted Cleaning Contractors, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 053
(unilaterally changing alter ego E's work rule resulting in Ee discharge for failing to report for work on first day of E's operations, unlawful where, for purposes of the Act, Ee was deemed employed by E because of prior employment with alter ego E, and alter ego E had never terminated Ee for missing work w/o reporting off)

6067-4055-4000 Working rules or schedules

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010
[implementing budget days whereby Ees worked reduced work weeks was priviledged under expired contracts' management rights clause]

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[institution shortly before end of strike of restrictions on smoking and drinking soft drinks and coffee during reporting time at medical facility, i.e. time during which patients' charts and medical records turned over from outgoing to incoming shifts, not violative, since change was not material, substantial change in practice inasmuch as applied only to overlap of shifts, had existed at times in past, and was justified by business reasons]

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[E's unilateral change from permanent assignment of nurses aides and unit secretaries to certain wing of facility to rotating assignments from one wing to another during strike at E's alcohol and drug treatment center, and continuing policy after strike, violative of Section 8(a)(5), since E obligated to bargain about this substantial and material change]

Goren Printing Co., Inc. 280 NLRB No. 064
[E's unilaterally requiring all finished work to be signed by supervisor, not violative, since such decision was management's right to control the quality of its work product under E's management rights clause]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[unilaterally introducing requirement that Ees provide E with details on hours worked each day, violation]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[unilaterally limiting certain work to specified hours of the day, violation]

Amatyus, Ltd., d/b/a Volk & Huxley, and Vulcan Typography Co. 280 NLRB No. 021
[ostentaibly non-U E, held to be alter ego of unionized E, unilaterally changing hours, wages, work rules, job classifications, unlawful]

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1–17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 277 NLRB No. 078
(unilaterally changing work rules so as to deny Ees working a 4-day week the right to bump less senior Ees for a fifth day of work and so as to require Ees to remain at work performing other tasks during machine breakdowns instead of allowing them the option of going home or remaining at work, violations)

Alamo Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 034
(unilaterally posting and implementing new hourly work and shift schedules, violative)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilateral change from oral to written method of communicating work schedules not unlawful change in schedules but in method of communicating them)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilateral promulgation of call-out schedules at new plant, violative where it implied that, contrary to past practice, designated on-call Ees had to be at home and available according to the schedule)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(unilateral promulgation of work rules at new plant, violative where none had previously existed)

City Cab Company of Orlanda, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Yellow Cab Company and Dixie Cab Company 273 NLRB No. 131
(taxi company's unilateral changes in various charges, surcharges, late penalities drivers were required to pay, in bidding procedure and in minimum number of shifts required unlawful, where company had not committed itself to any fixed practice; company's contention U had failed to protest changes for inordinate amount of time, rejected, since U had alleged unlawful unilateral changed in first charge, and since Region was attempting to get company to comply with its promise not to engage in any further changes, it would have been useless for U to protest each change)

6067-4055-4100 Maternity or other leaves of absence

BASF Wyandotte Corporation JD-(NY)-91-86
[unilaterally making changes in personal leave policies, violative]

6067-4055-4200 Removing work from unit or relocating unit work

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[E's unilateral change from permanent assignment of nurses aides and unit secretaries to certain wing of facility to rotating assignments from one wing to another during strike at E's alcohol and drug treatment center, and continuing policy after strike, violative of Section 8(a)(5), since E obligated to bargain about this substantial and material change]

Griffith-Hope Company 275 NLRB No. 073
(subcontracting unit work w/o notifying or bargaining with U about either decision to subcontract or its effects, unlawful, since decision to subcontract turned upon labor costs w/i meaning of Otis Elevator, 269 NLRB 891; such decision concerned mandatory subject of bargaining; and E viewed subcontracting program as temporary one that did not effec fundamental change in nature of its operation)

Road Sprinkler Fitters Local Union No. 669, Plumbers v. N.L.R.B. 789 F.2d 9 (C.A. D.C., Apr. 1986)
[owner of a unionized and a nonunionized facility violated Act by diverting work from former to latter facility w/o giving U opportunity to bargain]

6067-4055-4300 Job requirements

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010
[E's altering job qualifications for unit positions in education instructor job classification, (E required these Ees to possess a Master's Degree rather than Bachelor of Science in Nursing which had previously been required) not violative, since E was priviledged to make such change unilaterally, by terms of Management Rights clause in expired agreement]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[unilaterally instituting new job requirements and duties, violation]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[unilaterally changing method whereby work was to be accomplished, by substituting pushing of buttons to play prerecorded tapes for live on-air announcing]

The Cincinnati Enquirer, Inc., A Division of Gannet, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 149

Alamo Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 034
(unilaterally transferring certain job duties from one job classification to another, violative)

Alamo Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 035
(unilateral and permanent addition of new duties to Ees' existing duties, violative; unilateral change in duties w/o change in job classification or pay rate, lawful, however in absence of showing of material and substantial change from past practice)

6067-4055-4700 Rules governing entering, leaving, and movement within plant

Goren Printing Co., Inc. 280 NLRB No. 064
[E's requiring Ees to give their supervisor a written note if they were leaving work early when past practice was only to have Ees orally inform supervisors, not violative, since rule itself remained intach and procedural change had only an inconsequential impact on Ees]

6067-4055-5000 Rules governing absenteeism and tardiness

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally instituting more restrictive tardiness policy as result of Ees' support of U, violation]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally instituting new rules as to Ees' taking time-off for personal reasons to penalize Ees for choosing U, violation]

Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 154
[unilateral implementation of new leave policy, not violation where E had no bargaining obligation at that time, because, although U had card majority, E's ULPs did not preclude fair election]

Clark Equipment Company 278 NLRB No. 085
[unilateral change in attendance policy, not violation, since it was not material, substantial, or significant where it was change in procedure, rather than policy, and neither more stringent nor significantly altered but of increased orderliness]

Continental Telephone Company of California 274 NLRB No. 210
(E's unilaterally instituting new Positive Discipline program to deal with Ees' infractionsof its rules, including attendance rules, not violative where U waived its right to bargain concerning such policy through management-rights clause in parties' contract; neither U nor its representatives contested E's right to issue unilaterally new rules nor did they request bargaining)

Fontaine Truck Equipment Company JD-160-85
(E's unilateral implementation of attendance policy governing discipline for unexcused tardiness and absences and subsequent revision of policy, both violative)

6067-4055-6000 Lunch period

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally discontinuing practice of letting Ees take breaks and lunch periods in loading dock area in retaliation for U support, violation]

6067-4055-6300 Physical examinations

Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Company 278 NLRB No. 006
[discharge of Ees pursuant to policy of testing Ees for medical fitness for particular job assignments, assertedly because OSHA required such medical tests, violative, where Bd had rejected this defense in previous ULP case involving same parties and E had expressly agreed by contract that such testing would not adversely affect Ees' employment]

6067-4055-6500 Medical services

United Technologies Corporation 278 NLRB No. 041
[E's unilateral implementation of 1-year program]Correct-A-Bill) to reward its Ees for detecting health care overcharges, not violative, since any change in benefits implemented by E must be substantial material, and significant affecting terms and conditions of employment of bargaining unit Ees. E's implementation of program did not amount to such change in terms and conditions of employment of unit Ees, thus E not obligated to bargain with U. Program merely provided Ees with incentive to review their hospital or surgical center bills to detect overbilling]

6067-4055-6700 Paid sick leave

GTE Sylvania, Inc./GTE Products Corp. JD-486-84
(E's announcement of new Administrative Guidelines for E-plan which allowed certain Ees to take extended sick leave and personal holidays violative, where, although U did not contest E's right to administer plan, instant guidelines had effect of decreasing current benefits under existing plan rather than dealing solely with administrative matters)

6067-4055-7000 Vending machines and cafeteria services

Bazzuto's, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 100
(unilaterally instituting hot-lunch program, violation)

Americana Healthcare Center 273 NLRB No. 213
(unilaterally terminating sick leave program, unlawful, where parties had agreed to sick leave provision and had further agreed that it was to be incorporated into written agreement, but by mutual mistake of parties provision was not included in agreement)

6067-4055-7500 Privileges

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[institution shortly before end of strike of restrictions on smoking and drinking soft drinks and coffee during reporting time at medical facility, i.e. time during which patients' charts and medical records turned over from outgoing to incoming shifts, not violative, since change was not material, substantial change in practice inasmuch as applied only to overlap of shifts, had existed at times in past, and was justified by business reasons]

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[barring leading U activists from parking in front row of parking lot in retaliation for U activities, violation in context of other ULPs harassing them, but insufficient to reach level of unilateral change about which E was obligated to bargain]

Valley Parcel Service, Inc. and Valley Parcel Service, Inc., Debtor In Possession JD-(SF)-74-86
[E's unilaterally ceasing its prior practice of providing credit cards to Ees for purchase of gasoline, violative]

6067-4055-7700 Change in personnel practices and procedures

BASF Wyandotte Corporation JD-(NY)-91-86
[E's unilaterally making changes in bid card system for filling job positions, violative]

6067-4055-8000 Telephones, radios, etc.

Advertiser's Manufacturing Company 280 NLRB No. 128
[unilaterally ceasing practice of letting Ees make free local telephone calls and receive telephone calls during working hours, violation]

Port Plastics, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 050
[E's implementation of change in telephone procedures by no longer permitting Ees to answer personal telephone calls, immediately after U won election, violative]

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's issuing notice which informed Ees that they could make and receive telephone calls only during their work breaks and restricted their incoming calls during work to emergencies, not violative where outgoing calls had been restricted previously)

6067-4055-8200 Safety rules

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[unilateral implementation of respirator seal rule that had effect of prohibiting wearing of facial hair by Ees whose jobs necessitated their wearing respiratory protective equipment, not violation where U waived right to bargain over rule by agreeing to management rights clause allowing E to make and enforce rules deemed necessary or proper for conduct of Ees and operation of plant]

6067-4055-8500 Disciplinary system

Whirlpool Corporation 281 NLRB No. 007
[E's failure to produce confidential police informant at suspension hearing as accusing witness as requested, not unilateral change in suspension hearing procedure where it was not established practice for E to produce accuser-eyewitness on U demand]

Sahara Datsun, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 148
[unilaterally instituting, one week after receipt of U ptn, system of written warnings that could be placed in Ees' files for rule infractions rather than oral ones]

Continental Telephone Company of California 274 NLRB No. 210
(E's unilaterally instituting new Positive Discipline program to deal with Ees' infractionsof its rules, including attendance rules, not violative where U waived its right to bargain concerning such policy through management-rights clause in parties' contract; neither U nor its representatives contested E's right to issue unilaterally new rules nor did they request bargaining)

Quality Rolls, Inc. JD-189-86
[E's unilateral change in eliminating progressive system of discipline, not unlawful, where U was not misinformed as to specifics of contemplated change, and its impact upon Ees was clearly conveyed and readily perceptible; accordingly, notification of change afforded by E to U was in accord with good faith bargaining, and U's failure to respond imposed no further obligations upon E; moreover, notice afforded U was not too short--11 days--to preclude bargaining on U's part]

Italo II Casa Romana Restaurant, Inc. JD-(SF)-50-86

Rockne L. Alexander, Rockne Alexander, II, Debrah Nelson, Douglas Nelson and Tami DeGeorgia, d/b/a Alexander Packaging Co. JD-(SF)-5-86
[E's unilateral actions regarding changes in working conditions, job discipline and termination, occurring at time when E was obligated to notify and bargain with U concerning effects of such actions, violative]

6067-4055-8900 Overtime

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010
[E's unilateral implementation of new overtime guidelines for its nurses not violative, since action was effort to improve efficiency which did not conflict with any established practices or published rules and standards w/i management's prerogative, policy was expressly privileged by terms of management, rights clause and E's direction that nurses advise their supervisors of need for overtime imposed no substantial burden on them]

Union Boiler Company 281 NLRB No. 148
[E's insistence that U allow it to work Ees 10 hours a day w/o overtime as was contractually mandated, and refusing to employ Ees when they refused to work under those conditions, violative and such conduct was an illegal lockout of Ees]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056
[unilaterally requiring prior management clearance of overtime work, violation]

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's unilateral implementation of new rule requiring night-shift Ees to submit memoranda justifying necessity for overtime, violative, where prior to new rule Ees worked overtime as required by job with no explanation required, and such change constitutes change in wages, hours and terms and other conditions of employment as defined by Sec. 8(d))

Chef's Pantry, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 117
(E's prohibiting Ees from leaving work unless they had completed their jobs or obtained permission of their supervisors, not violative, since E's action did not change established term and condition of employment since record will not support finding that E applied new policy as to overtime, and accordingly, E was not obligated to bargain with U)

6067-4060 Restrictions on plant access by nonemployee representative

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1--17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117
[unilateral sever restriction of U agent's access to plant by implementing previously unenforced requirement that he obtain pass, unlawful since, while restriction was in accord with wording of expired contract, it was change from existing practice, as recognized by E in its letter to U detailing agent's new access right]

G.M. Trimming, Inc., et al., Debtor-In-Possession, and George Marks 279 NLRB No. 121
[E's refusal to admit U representative to plant and on another occasion ordering her off premises and following her around plant and making abusive remarks, unlawful]

Asarco, Incorporated, Tennessee Mines Division 276 NLRB No. 155
(denial of mine access to U's industrial hygienist for purpose of investigating fatal accident to Ee, unlawful under Holyoke test, since access to accident site by experienced investigator is fundamental to compiling complete report and is critical in absence of witnesses as here; local U's representatives who examined accident site had no accident investigation experience; while other sources enabled hygienist to make report with recommendations, visual observation of site was essential; and safety concerns over conditions resulting in accident are as compelling as those which present only potential hazard)

National Broadcasting Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 017
(denial of access to non-Ee U representative at E's remote facility engaged in broadcasting golf tournament held not unlawful unilateral change where E had no practice of permitting U representative unlimited access to remote facilities; the few occasions in past when U representative visited remote facility merely after obtaining credentials to enter property on which sports event was located was insufficient to establish longstanding practice, particularly since U representative was limited by E to 10 minutes during live broadcast at golf course)

National Broadcasting Company, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 017
(applying balancing test enunciated in Holyoke Water Power Co. case, Bd held that E's effective denial of access to non-Ee U representative at E's remote facility engaged in broadcasting golf tournament was unlawful, where U needed access to E's facility in order to observe operations for purpose of policing and enforcing its bargaining agreement with E; providing such access would not result in any interference with E's operations; and, on balance, representational interests of Ees outweighed E's property rights which must yield to extent necessary to accomodate such interests)

Holyoke Water Power Company 273 NLRB No. 168
(E's denial of access to fan room by U's hygienist to test noise level, violative, notwithstanding E provided U with information it possessed on subject and had allowed business agent access to fan room since here, in balancing property right versus Ees' right to proper representation, Bd found that health and safety conditions are terms of employment which E must bargain about on request)

Holyoke Water Power Company 273 NLRB No. 168
(Bd will no longer treat request for access as request for information, but instead, will balance E's property rights against Ees' right to proper representation in reaching decision of allowing access and when access granted, it will be limited to reasonable periods so that U can fulfill its representation duties w/o unwarranted interruption of E's operations)

Frontier Linen Supply, Inc., Debtor in Possession and Raymond Foley, Its Alter Ego JD-(NY)-4-86
[upon reconsideration in light of NLRB v. Bildisco, 459 U.S. 1145, debtor-in-possession unilateral changes in provisions regarding U's access to plant and wages and benefits prior to expiration of contract, and prior to filing of bankruptcy ptn, unlawful, since debtor in possession assumed contract post ptn]

N.L.R.B. v. National Broadcasting Company, Inc. (Directors Guild of America, Inc.) 798 F.2d 75 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1986)
[denying U access to remote broadcasting facilities at reasonable time and places, violation where grant of access was past practice, and U's search for information as to whether non-unit Ees were doing unit work was relevant to pending arbitration and continued contract enforcement, and firsthand observation of crew at work was only alternative sufficient to serve U's legitimate purpose; Bd's application of test balancing E's property right against Ees' representational right was rationally connected with NLRA and resolved parties' competing interests]

6067-4066 Unilateral change in grievance and dispute resolving procedures (See also 530-6050- 4100)

Kolman Division of Athey Products Corporation 282 NLRB No. 029
[violation where E refused to have arbitrator selected from panel of 5 names furnished by FMCS pursuant to contract because some of the potential arbitrators had belonged to a U]

Kolman Division of Athey Products Corporation 282 NLRB No. 029
[violation where E refused to accept grievances for processing because contract called for president of U to bring grievance to attention of U and vice president acting as president pursuant to U's bylaws which called for VP to assume the presidency when president became incapacitated]

Appalachian Power Company John E. Amos Plant 282 NLRB No. 036
[no violation over failure to processing grievances where Bd order required E to process grievances accumulated between time of certification and time of execution of contract in accordance with procedures in Ee personnel manual, but U failed to follow time requirements contained therein]

Whirlpool Corporation 281 NLRB No. 007
[E's failure to produce confidential police informant at suspension hearing as accusing witness as requested, not unilateral change in suspension hearing procedure where it was not established practice for E to produce accuser-eyewitness on U demand]

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital 280 NLRB No. 011
[E's unilateral changes including wage increase, health, pension and benefit fund contributions, and grievance procedure, unlawful since based on unlawful withdrawal of recognition which was preceeded by E solicitation of resignations from U]

Buckley Belt Service, Inc., d/b/a Buckley Belt Services & Roofing Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 066
[refusing to accept, sign and process grievance pursuant to contract, violation]

Asociacion Hospital Del Maestro, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 063

Hutchinson Fruit Company, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 054
(use of tape recorder at grievance meeting held not mandatory subject of bargaining and refusal of E to hold grievance meeting unless tape recorder on, violative. Bd held grievance meeting are similar to contract negotiations in both character and methodology and duty to bargain in good faith applies to both types of meetings)

Sorrell Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(E's refusal to discuss and process Ees' grievances concerning disciplinary action until parties had negotiated a contract, violative, since E is obligated to discuss and process grievances and absence of contract incorporating grievance procedure does not relieve E of such obligation)

Union Carbide Corporation, Nuclear Division 275 NLRB No. 037
(E soliciting and resolving grievances through ad hoc committee formed to review problems in a section of E's plant w/o providing U opportunity to be present at such adjustment violative; further, E's contention that U was present because committee included U's alternate shop steward, rejected, where steward was appointed in capacity of Ee and not as U representative, he was not told he was representing U and steward did not even report what was transpiring at committee meetings to any U official)

Redway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer 274 NLRB No. 198
(E's refusal to confer with U concerning complaints about Ee wages and working conditions, although not presented in form of contractual grievances, unlawful)

Southern California Edison Company 274 NLRB No. 167
(E's refusal to conduct grievance meetings with Ees or U officials who wore Stick Your Retro button concerning retroactive pay raise during contract negotiations between E and U, violative, since wearing of button protected, and no matter what buttons were being worn, E was not privileged to refuse to meet and deal with U on matters being pursued through grievance arbitration process, at least so long as they did not cause unreasonable disruption (of process))

American Thread Company 274 NLRB No. 164
(E's unilateral changes in grievance procedure, insurance and vacation benefits, not unlawful, where E had lawfully withdrawn recognition upon receipt of notice from majority of Ees that they no longer wished to be represented by U)

Southwestern Electric Cooperative, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 135
(E's refusal to arbitrate grievances unless U put them in writing, violative, since contract permitted U to file grievances orally. U and E representatives credibly testified that they had never processed written grievances)

Hawthorn Mellody, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 055
(E's failure to process grievances filed by Us regarding layoffs, vacation pay, performance of unit work by supervisor, which occurred prior to expiration of bargaining contract, not violative, where E's failure to answer greivances not contrary to contractual grievance procedure or otherwise unusual, U did not proceed to next step of grievance procedure and contention exhaustion of grievance procedure would be futile, and that E had repudiated bargaining agreement by unlawful refusal to bargain, rejected)

Pittsburgh Penn Oil Company, Inc. JD-44-86
[E's refusal to follow contractual grievance procedure by refusing to meet with U and refusing to arbitrate grievances, violative]

N.L.R.B. v. Pennsylvania Telephone Guild 799 F.2d 84 (C.A. 3, Aug. 1986)
[U insisting to impasse that it be allowed to tape record all of grievance meeting, a nonmandatory subject of bargaining, violative, as grievance meeting substantially similar to bargaining negotiations and insistence on tape recorder at latter was held unlawful as it could inhibit free and open discussions]

N.L.R.B v. Southwestern Electric Cooperative, Inc. 794 F.2d 276 (C.A. 7, June 1986)
[E unlawfully modified contract's grievance-arbitration terms unilaterally by refusing to process grievances until U put them in writing, where there was no express contractual requirement that grievances be put in writing; contract's terms on their face contemplated that prior to arbitration parties' disagreements will be resolved orally and informally; parties' long and consistent interpretations of contract showed that right to file oral grievances was contained in contract; and common practice and common grievance arbitration procedures must operate flexibly to foster prompt dispute resolution]

N.L.R.B v. Southwestern Electric Cooperative, Inc. 794 F.2d 276 (C.A. 7, June 1986)
[in finding that E unlawfully refused unilaterally to process grievances until U put them in writing, ct held E had no statutory right under Sec. 8(d) to impose such requirement, since right to information does not include right to dictate form that information comes in; there is no obligation to furnish relevant information in exact form requested; and it is sufficient if information is made available in manner not so burdensome or time-consuming, as to impede bargaining process]

6067-4066-5000 Restrictions on employee representative in preparation of grievances

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[unilaterally restricting U representatives to cafeteria, rather than allowing them to walk around plant, and prohibiting them from talking to supervisors during U time, not violation, where alleged past practice of walking about plant was not proved, nor was it controlling where there was complete agreement clause that abolished past practices, and restrictions did not have substantial impact on U representatives' ability to investigate grievances or represent Ees]

N.L.R.B. v. BASF Wyandotte Corp. 798 F.2d 849 (C.A. 5, Sept. 1986)
[E's unilateral discontinuance of allowing U steward 4 hours per day of paid company time, office and telephone in order to conduct U business, unlawful, since grant of company time and facilities to U mandatory subject of bargaining and bargaining agreement provided for reasonable amount of paid time for U business and practice over last 5 years had been to grant above priviledges to steward; E's contentions that privileges were personal to predecessor steward, that contract provision illegal under Sec. 302 of LMRA and Sec. 8(a)(2) of NLRA, and that at any rate, there was only contract violation, rejected]

6067-4077 Unilateral change in union-security and checkoff (See also 530-6050-5000)

International Distribution Centers, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 111
[E's failure to remit pursuant to checkoff deducted dues and contributions to health and welfare fund, unlawful, inasmuch as E's alleged poor financial condition rejected as defense]

Fashion Furniture Mfg., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 095
[E's failure to withhold and remit dues to U as required under contract that it unlawfully refused to sign, violative]

Barnett Supply Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 146
[E's failure to remit checked off dues to U, unlawful, since signing agreement with checkoff provision by husband of E's president imputed to E where E held him out as agent and his actions were ratified by president/wife]

Watson-Rummell Electric Co. 277 NLRB No. 162
[E's unilaterally discontinuing dues checkoff provision of contract after expiration date, not violation]

M.F. Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Gopher Restaurant JD-417-84
(E's failing to deduct U dues and forward to U, unlawful)

6067-4088 Unilateral change in hiring policies

Ne Di Construction Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 071
[unilaterally ceasing to make health and welfare contributions, instituting new and lower wage rate for new hires, and ceasing to abide by obligation to use U as source for Ees, violation where E was still bound by expired master contract, pursuant to its automatic renewal term, and then by new contract, notwithstanding E's alleged notice of termination, since notice was untimely, and U had not waived it as requirement]

Southwestern Steel & Supply, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 1111 (C.A. D.C., Dec. 1986)
[E's unilateral refusal to continue to use U hiring hall after expiration of contract, unlawful; E's contention that hiring hall provision did not survive contract, rejected]

6067-4090 Unilateral changes to support of union activities (paid time off, clerical support, space, etc.)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[E's unilateral elimination of and refusal to honor U time clause in contract allowing payment to U president and secretary for four hours daily spent on U business, violation]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 175
(E's unilaterally deciding to discontinue paying U committeeman for release time spent administering bargaining agreement, violative)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147
(E's unilateral withdrawal of privileges granted to U; i.e., permitting local U chairman to spend 4 hours of paid time each work day conducting U business including processing of grievances, use of office, telephone, and copying machine and requiring permission of E before engaging in U busines, unlawful; E's contention unilateral withdrawal not unlawful since grnating of privileges was violative of Sections 302 and 8(a)(2) of LMRA, thus illegal rather than mandatory subjects of bargaining, rejected, as grant was to U chairman as Ee of E to U which had been recognized and dealt with at arms length)

U.S. Postal Service 280 NLRB No. 080
[E's refusal to furnish information requested by U concerning names of U's officers and stewards who requested supervisory positions with E, violative, since information sought relates to U's role as Ees' exclusive bargaining representative. U merely prescribing qualifications or limitations of those who will be its agents, and felt it would be conflict of interest if its negotiators were also applying for supervisory positions]

Sandpiper Convalescent Center and Sandpiper Village 279 NLRB No. 147
[E's refusal to furnish U with names of unit Ees, hire date or seniority dates, Ees' earnings for past year including amount of overtime paid, hourly pay rates, ages, telephone numbers, complete list of Ee benefits including medical plan description and retirement plan, unlawful, since information necessary and relevant to U's performance of its function as bargaining representative in preparing for negotiations]

Sonat Marine, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 016

American Stores Packing Company, A Division of Acme Markets, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 190
[refusal to provide U with information requested for bargaining about E's decision to close plant and subcontract unit work, not violative where U had waived right to bargain over such decision; U also had no right to requested information for bargaining about new contract or about effects of decision to close plant because once E had decided to close plant and lay off all unit Ees, E had no further duty to bargain about new contract and U never stated that it was requesting information for effects bargaining]

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143
(E's refusal to grant U's dilatory request to examine its books, not violation where U had rejected E's prior offer to let U examine its books to substantiate E's claims of economic problems, and parties had reached impasse due to U's refusal to make any concessions)

Indiana Cabinet Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 169
(E's failure to timely respond to U's request for information solely in preparation for negotiations over contract renewal, violative)

Hawaiian Flour Mill, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 161

6067-6001-3730 Relevance to finding of race or sex discrimination

Fairfield Publishing Company d/b/a Fairfield Daily Republic 275 NLRB No. 002
(no summary judgment where mtn relates to U requests for nonunit Ees' data and discrimination complaints, since such information is not presumptively relevant and, on state of record before Bd, GC has not established requisite relevancy to entitle U to such information. Portion of instant case relating to U's request for nonunit Ees data and discrimination remanded for further processing of C, including evidentiary hearing before ALJ concerning exact scope of information request and relevancy issues with regard to nonunit Ees' data and discrimination C's, if GC wishes to further proceed on these matters)

6067-6001-3740 Relevance to policing agreement

Pence Construction Corporation 281 NLRB No. 049
[information concerning double-breasted or alter ego operation not presumptively relevant; rather, U must show existence of enough facts to give rise to reasonable belief that two companies were single E, but need not show requested information would establish existence of double-breasted or alter ego operation and a contract violation; E must supply information relevant to informed administration of contract, and U is entitled to information to determine whether to file a grievance or bargain about a dispute]

Boise Cascade Corp., Paper Group 279 NLRB No. 074
[E's refusal to furnish U with surveys used to formulate maintenance improvement program at one of its facilities, which would combine some duties to be performed by Ees, reduce craft classifications, change wage structure, projected savings and efficiency calculations, and any survey comparing maintenance efficiency and cost at facility at which program to be instituted with E's other facilities, unlawful, since relevant to bargaining, grievance and possible arbitration; however, portions of study alluding to how E would carry out its supervisory responsibilities or constituting legal opinion protected from disclosure]

Ben Franklin National Bank 278 NLRB No. 136
[E's refusal to furnish U with names, addresses, wage rates, and classifications of unit Ees, unlawful, where E and U had reached agreement on contract terms w/i certification year prior to any rebutting of U's majority status; E thus was obligated to sign agreement, and information requested was relevant to U's duty to represent Ees under bargaining agreement]

Elevator Sales and Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 094
[Es' refusal to furnish on request information concerning E's relationship with alter ego, violative where U showed probable relevance of information to possible circumvention of contract]

Boyd-Mulford Construction Co. 277 NLRB No. 180
[requested information relevant to policing contract with E to ascertain E whether was evading agreement by double-breasting]

The E. W. Buschman Company 277 NLRB No. 021
(refusal to supply financial and production information requested by U in order to process grievance over E's cancellation of Christmas bonus due to alleged lack of cash flow, violative where U could not adequately represent Ees at arbitration of grievance w/o introducing the information)

Clinchfield Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 189
(E's refusal to provide, pursuant to U's request, information regarding contracting out of maintenance and repair work relevant to policing contractual provisions on work jurisdiction and subcontracting and processing grievances as to contractual jurisdiction over such work, violative)

Kansas National Education Association 275 NLRB No. 092
(E's failure to comply promptly with U's request for information in form of documents memorializing extra-contractual agreements with individual Ees, unlawful, since information, which concerned transfer of unit Ees to other positions, was presumptively relevant to and necessary for U's performance of its representative duties; and E's contentions that it was not obligated to release management-related information to U because U believed it was significant, and that matter was moot inasmuch as information had since been provided, rejected)

N.L.R.B. v. National Broadcasting Company, Inc. (Directors Guild of America, Inc.) 798 F.2d 75 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1986)
[denying U access to remote broadcasting facilities at reasonable time and places, violation where grant of access was past practice, and U's search for information as to whether non-unit Ees were doing unit work was relevant to pending arbitration and continued contract enforcement, and firsthand observation of crew at work was only alternative sufficient to serve U's legitimate purpose; Bd's application of test balancing E's property right against Ees' representational right was rationally connected with NLRA and resolved parties' competing interests]

6067-6001-3745 Relevance to layoff and/or recall policies

Aquaslide 'N' Dive Corporation 281 NLRB No. 034
[E's delay in notifying U prior to layoffs and subsequent recalls, not unlawful, since necessity for layoffs was clear where, as result of E's filing of ptn in bankruptcy, its assets were frozen thereby causing layoffs, and there was no showing how prior notice could have influenced layoffs or recalls]

6067-6001-3750 Relevance to processing grievances

Whirlpool Corporation 281 NLRB No. 007
[E's failure to produce confidential police informant as accusing witness at suspension hearing pursuant to U request, not unlawful failure to provide grievance-related information, since E was not bound by past practice to produce the accusing witness at such hearing, general obligation to provide requested information does not include statements of witnesses, and producing a witness to make a written or oral statement is parallel to and covered by witness statements exception]

Boise Cascade Corp., Paper Group 279 NLRB No. 074

United States Postal Service 276 NLRB No. 143
(E has duty to provide, upon request, information relevant in carrying out its statutory responsibilities. Whether requested information is relevant and necessary is determined by factual circumstances on case by case basis. Information need not be dispotive of issue between parties it need only have some bearing on it)

United States Postal Service 276 NLRB No. 143
(violation, where E failed to timely furnish U with time and attendance information for purpose of establishing whether E had scheduled Ees to work overtime in violation of contract and to process grievance in that regard. E's contention no factual dispute regarding contractual provision for assignment of overtime and thus no need for information, because it agreed with U's contractual interpretation, rejected, inasmuch as U had right to evaluate specific information sought to determine its position for further processing of grievance already filed, nor was E's failure justified by steward's inexperience in framing request)

Clinchfield Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 189
(E's refusal to provide, pursuant to U's request, information regarding contracting out of maintenance and repair work relevant to policing contractual provisions on work jurisdiction and subcontracting and processing grievances as to contractual jurisdicition over such work, violative)

O. Voorhees Painting Co. and O.V. International, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 114
(joint Es' refusal to furnish U relevant information, violative where information was necessary to process grievance, to enable U to verify whether proper contributions were made to pension and welfare plan, and information was relevant to allegations of failure to pay contractual wages and contributions)

Conoco Chemicals Company, Division of Conoco, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 009
(prearbitration disclosure of witness statements not required)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 072
(E's refusal to provide U with Ee promotion and production records relevant to processing two grievances over E's promotion, transfer and award policies, on grounds that dispute was not arbitrable violative; before a U is put to the effort of arbitrating even the question of arbitrability, it has a statutory right to potentially relevant information necessary to allow it to decide if the underlying grievance has merit)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 072
(test for relevancy is whether information assists in evaluating the merits of the grievance and the propriety of pursuing the grievance to arbitration, and U's defenses on behalf of a grievant do not constitute a waiver of the right to information)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 072
(U did not waive its right to information, which included supervisor audit reports, audit departmental procedures and investigations of an Ee, by narrowing its defense of Ee's suspension and discharge before arbitration, to issue of improper supervision rather than Ee's actual guilt, since, regardless of U's defenses, it is still permitted to ascertain if disciplinary action complied with applicable contractual standards)

United States Steel Corporation JD-189-85
(E's refusal to supply information requested by U for purpose of processing grievances covering reassignment of personnel and contracting out, not violative, as request made for information regarding reassignment grievance had to do with subcontracting and U failed to show relevancy of data requested to process grievance concerning reassignment; as to relevance of information for processing contracting out grievance, there is none either, as E's intent is not in issue but admitted to be department closure, and no issue as to availability of work or Ees ability to perform. The real issue is department closure which E claims management right to do so)

Roadway Express, Inc. JD-(SF)-78-85
(E's failure to provide U with photocopies of supervisory report and of other records relevant to U's pending grievances, violative since it is generally established that, at least where, as here, U will stand costs of copying, and production of copies will not itself pose undue burden on E, U is entitled upon request to retain photocopies of company records otherwise relevant to pending grievances)

N.L.R.B. v. National Broadcasting Company, Inc. (Directors Guild of America, Inc.) 798 F.2d 75 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1986)

Sandpiper Convalescent Center and Sandpiper Village 279 NLRB No. 147

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[E's failure to provide U complete information regarding unit Ees' names, addresses, date of hire, classification, job descriptions, wages, and benefits including vacations, holidays, medical coverage, pensions, and sick leave, unlawful, since presumptively relevant for bargaining and notwithstanding some partial information was supplied]

Boise Cascade Corp., Paper Group 279 NLRB No. 074
[where information sought covers terms and conditions of employment pertaining to Ees w/i bargaining unit, information is presumptively relevant and no specific showing of relevance normally required. Where request is for information with respect to matters outside unit, standard is narrower and U must demonstrate somewhat more precisely that information is relevant]

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. 276 NLRB No. 040
(some information is presumed relevant such as information concerning the terms and conditions of employment of Ees represented by the U, however, this presumption of relevance does not apply to information concerning financial data and the relevance of that type of information must be established by the U)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 163
(E's refusal to provide U upon request with a copy of results of wage and benefit survey conducted with its Ees prior to reopener negotiations violative; such information is presumptively relevant to collective bargaining)

Health Care Service-California d/b/a Valley Oaks Health Care Center JD-(SF)-198-85
[U is presumptively entitled to payroll records and work schedules of unit Ees; further, U's claim that information will help determine whether there are supervisors in unit reinforces relevance]

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85
[refusal to supply information, including wages, concerning disputed job classifications, violation, since information was presumptively relevant and would permit resolution of unit placement issue of whether individuals were Ees or supervisors]

Embossing Printers, Inc. JD-19-85
(11-month delay in response to U's request for names, addresses and job classifications of unit Ees, as well as 3 month lapse in response to U request for wage data concerning unit Ees, violative, since these delays unquestionably impeded and frustrated bargaining process. U needed wage information so that it could intelligently and informedly respond to E's wage proposal during contract negotiations)

N.L.R.B. v. Pratt & Whitney Air Craft Division, United Technologies Corporation (Machinist, District 91) 789 F.2d 121 (C.A. 2, Apr. 1986)
[E's refusal to disclose to U upon request results of wage and benefit survey conducted with its Ees prior to reopener negotiations, violative since such information is presumptively relevant to U's duties as exclusive bargaining agent; E's contention that it could not reveal survey results because it told Ees that responses would be confidential, rejected where E could not identify any substantial reason why information should remain confidential]

(where E had transferred parts of its operations to spinoff companies, and U had filed grievance about E's cessation of contributions to U funds, U's requests for information were reasonable, since circumstances indicated that spinoff companies were successors to E and possibly single E with, and alter egos of E liable for the contributions which were the subject of the grievance)

Walter N. Yoder & Sons, Inc. 754 F.2d 531 (C.A. 4, Feb. 1985)
(U need only make formal request based on reasonable belief that information is necessary and show that it is relevant in order to trigger E's obligation to give information; U need not be satisfied with E's assurances that there is no violation once duty to provide information has been triggered; reasonableness of U's belief in making request may not be called into question in light of post hoc information provided by E outside confines of formal response to request; therefore ALJ properly excluded cross examination of U president of what he knew about relationship between 2 entities (alter ego) or could easily have determined)

6067-6001-3790 Relevancy of wage and fringe benefits of employees outside bargaining unit must be demonstrated

United Graphics, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 070
[E's refusal to supply information requested by U about temporary workers' names, addresses, wages, and fringe benefits, violative]

Boise Cascade Corp., Paper Group 279 NLRB No. 074
[where information sought covers terms and conditions of employment pertaining to Ees w/i bargaining unit, information is presumptively relevant and no specific showing of relevance normally required. Where request is for information with respect to matters outside unit, standard is narrower and U must demonstrate somewhat more precisely that information is relevant]

Fairfield Publishing Company d/b/a Fairfield Daily Republic 275 NLRB No. 002
(no summary judgment where mtn relates to U requests for nonunit Ees' data and discrimination complaints, since such information is not presumptively relevant and, on state of record before Bd, GC has not established requisite relevancy to entitle U to such information. Portion of instant case relating to U's request for nonunit Ees data and discrimination remanded for further processing of C, including evidentiary hearing before ALJ concerning exact scope of information request and relevancy issues with regard to nonunit Ees' data and discrimination C's, if GC wishes to further proceed on these matters)

Health Care Service-California d/b/a Valley Oaks Health Care Center JD-(SF)-198-85
[E's refusal to provide U with payroll records and work schedules of nonunit Ees, violative, where U did not know whether Ees were employed by E or what their work duties were]

N.L.R.B. v. Electrical Workers, Local 309 (Pfizer, Inc.) ———F.2d——— (C.A. 7, June 1985)
[U's claim that information it requested concerning discharge grievance about Ee outside of bargaining unit was relevant, accepted where U met burden of showing relevance]

6067-6001-8000 Alternative methods available to obtain requested information

Sonat Marine, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 016
[information relating to supervisory status of Ees U had traditionally represented but whom E was now refusing to bargain over, was not protected from disclosure by attorney-client or attorney work-product privilege; further, U's ability to receive information through its own sources does not defeat its right to receive information from E]

United States Postal Service 276 NLRB No. 143
]E's obligation to furnish information upon request, absent special circumstances, is not relieved merely because U may have access to information from other sources. Herein, U adequately demonstrated copies of desired information needed for process of grievances beyond local level, notwithstanding U had access to information which was posted on bulletin board)

N.L.R.B. v. Holyoke Water Power Company 778 F.2d 49 (C.A. 1, Nov. 1985)
[E's refusal to grant U's industrial hygenist access to room in plant to conduct noise study, on grounds that information was irrelevant since Ees had not complained to E, E had provided U with copies of its own study and U must attempt to pursue other means of obtaining information, violative, since information was clearly relevant to health and safety of unit Ees, Ees had complained to U, E's study could be inherently subjective thus justifying U's need for its own study and information not readily obtainable from any other source]

6067-6033 Form and circumstances in which information supplied

6067-6033-2500 Adequacy

Ne Di Construction Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 071
[no unlawful refusal to furnish requested information where E promptly attempted to comply by forwarding information it had compiled, quickly reviewed its records when U alleged some information was missing and offered to do so again but received no further request from U]

Sonat Marine, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 016
[E's proposing to meet with U outside of bargaining negotiations to provide U with information relating to supervisory status of contested unit Ees, held inadequate to satisfy E's obligation to provide U with information, since, by refusing to discuss subject during actual negotiations, E effectively precluded U from having opportunity to bargain over disputed job classifications]

Sonat Marine, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 016
[ALJ's conclusion that remedial order was unwarranted for E's refusal to provide U with requested information, since much of what U sought was presented in evidence at ULP hearing over E's failure to provide information, rejected, since this in no way excuses E's unlawful conduct nor does it constitute an adequate substitute, in law or fact, for direct and prompt compliance with proper request for information]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc. JD-(NY)-141-84
(E found to have unlawfully refused to provide U with requested information where it provided incomplete information, some of which was later changed, and sent the information to the Bd with indication that a copy was sent to U's attorney, which copy was not shown to have been received by U's attorney or the U)

N.L.R.B v. Southwestern Electric Cooperative, Inc. 794 F.2d 276 (C.A. 7, June 1986)
[in finding that E unlawfully refused unilaterally to process grievances until U put them in writing, ct held E had no statutory right under Sec. 8(d) to impose such requirement, since right to information does not include right to dictate form that information comes in; there is no obligation to furnish relevant information in exact form requested; and it is sufficient if information is made available in manner not so burdensome or time-consuming as to impede bargaining process]

6067-6033-4000 Inspection of document

Roadway Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 156
(E's refusal to furnish requesting U a photocopy of customer's letter that was basis for Ee's discharge (for being discourteous and abusive to E's customers) and was relevant to processing of grievance Ee filed over his discharge, not violative, since it is sufficient if the information is made available in a manner not so burdensome or time-consuming as to impede - process of bargaining: here, E permitted on-premise exam and note-taking of single-page letter)

6067-6033-5000 Oral information insufficient

Sonat Marine, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 016
[E's offer to U to meet and discuss the legal basis upon which E decided certain Ees were supervisors and why E was refusing to bargain concerning those Ees, after U had formally requested E provide it with factual basis for conclusion, was not an offer to provide U with requested information, since E was not offering to provide U with any information but rather was simply adhering to its previously stated view on the matter]

6067-6033-6000 Copy of document

Roadway Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 156
(E's refusal to furnish requesting U a photocopy of customer's letter that was basis for Ee's discharge (for being discourteous and abusive to E's customers) and was relevant to processing of grievance Ee filed over his discharge, not violative, since it is sufficient if the information is made available in a manner not so burdensome or time-consuming as to impede - process of bargaining: here, E permitted on-premise exam and note-taking of single-page letter)

Roadway Express, Inc. JD-(SF)-78-85
(E's failure to provide U with photocopies of supervisory report and of other records relevant to U's pending grievances, violative since it is generally established that, at least where, as here, U will stand costs of copying, and production of copies will not itself pose undue burden on E, U is entitled upon request to retain photocopies of company records otherwise relevant to pending grievances)

6067-6033-7500 Plant access

Hercules Incorporated 281 NLRB No. 130
[refusing to allow U industrial hygienist access to plant to investigate industrial accident and conduct health and safety inspection and tests for toxic or hazardous fumes, violation where information was not obtainable through alternative means, hygienist could execute trade secret agreement like other non-Ees allowed access, and his presence would not disrupt production or discipline or substantially interfere with normal operations]

Hercules Incorporated 281 NLRB No. 130
[Bd balances E's property right against U's right to information in determining whether U should be granted access to E's property to gather information on health and safety matters and evaluates availability of alternative means, nature of E's operation, impact on production and discipline, extent to which other, non-Ees are granted access to E's property, nature of information sought, and the particular location on the E's property to which access is sought]

N.L.R.B. v. Holyoke Water Power Company 778 F.2d 49 (C.A. 1, Nov. 1985)
[E's refusal to grant U's industrial hygenist access to room in plant to conduct noise study, on grounds that information was irrelevant since Ees had not complained to E, E had provided U with copies of its own study and U must attempt to pursue other means of obtaining information, violative, since information was clearly relevant to health and safety of unit Ees, Ees had complained to U, E's study could be inherently subjective thus justifying U's need for its own study and information not readily obtainable from any other source]

N.L.R.B. v. Holyoke Water Power Company 778 F.2d 49 (C.A. 1, Nov. 1985)
[safety and health conditions are conditions of employment about which Es must bargain upon request; however, U is not invariably entitled to enter E's plant to obtain information and when the E presents a legitimate, good faith objection on grounds of burdensomeness and offers to cooperate with U in reaching acceptable accommodation, U must compromise with E as to form, extent or timing of disclosure]

6067-6033-8000 Delay in furnishing information

Stovall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(violation where E delayed supplying U with contract for subcontracting its reinstituted night-shift work, asserting that it was merely oral contract, and then finally supplying written document that was slightly different from executed contract)

Union Carbide Corporation, Nuclear Division 275 NLRB No. 037
(E's delay of 10-1/2 months in responding to U's request for information not violative, where w/i 10 days of receiving request E commenced what ultimately proved to be difficult, time-consuming and expensive task of gathering requested data, i.e. response included some 250,000 pages, response involved comprehensive review of proprietary information and there was no showing that E was dilatory in its actual handling of request)

6067-6050 Availability of Information Sought

Asarco, Incorporated, Tennessee Mines Division 276 NLRB No. 155
(denial of U's request for copies of photographs of site of fatal accident to Ee in E's mine, which U sought for full investigation of accident and prevention of recurrences, unlawful, where photographs were relevant and necessary to an understanding of accident and its possible causes; and availability of photographs from federal mine safety agency was no defense)

6067-6062 Qualifications of individual to receive information

N.L.R.B. v. St. Joseph's Hospital 755 F.2d 260 (C.A. 2, Feb. 1985)
(hospital refusing to allow CPA selected by U to examine its books in order to substantiate hospital's claim of inability to pay wage increase, but rather insisting that CPA who examined books have familiarity with state reimbursement procedure, since hospital's fear that mistaken audit might adversely affect bargaining process was reasonable, and U never accepted hospital's offer to discuss any objectionable criteria for CPA selection)

6067-6067 Nature of information to be supplied

6067-6067-2000 Financial data substantiating claim of economic hardship

The Nielsen Lithographing Co. 279 NLRB No. 118
[E telling U that jobs would be lost and that E would go out of business unless economic concessions were made (by U) triggers duty to disclose financial information because by its words and conduct E conveyed to U an inability to pay w/i meaning of Atlanta Hilton & Tower 271 NLRB 1600 (1984) and not just mere unwillingness to continue to pay cost of its collective bargaining agreement]

The Nielsen Lithographing Co. 279 NLRB No. 118
[if E claims poverty or inability to pay then, upon request from U, E is required to produce or disclose financial data to support its claim of poverty or inability to pay]

Fox-Art Theatres, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 115
[E's refusal to furnish financial records to substantiate financial hardship justifying wage reduction in new contract, unlawful]

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143
(E's refusal to grant U's dilatory request to examine its books, not violative where U had rejected E's prior offer to let U examine its books to substantiate E's claims of economic problems, and parties had reached impasse due to U's refusal to make any concessions)

Cowin & Co., Inc. 277 NLRB No. 082
(E's refusal to provide U with requested financial information during bargaining, violative, since E's statements to U in course of bargaining amounted to claim of inability to pay where at outset of negotiations E advised U that there was real question whether E would be in business at termination of contract and E raised as justification for wage reduction proposals its financial losses for previous 3 years; further, because of this finding, E's claim of impasse rejected and its unilateral wage reduction and change in work rules, violative)

American Model & Pattern, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 010
(E's refusal to disclose financial data to U and allow a U audit of relevant financial information, violative, where E announced at bargaining table it was discontinuing some Ee benefits because of its bad financial condition and was proposing across the board pay cuts to remain competitive, and thus was making a claim of inability to pay)

The E. W. Buschman Company 277 NLRB No. 021
(refusal to supply requested financial information concerning cancellation of Christmas bonus for lack of cash flow that was necessary in processing grievance, violative)

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. 276 NLRB No. 040
(some information is presumed relevant such as information concerning the terms and conditions of employment of Ees represented by the U, however, this presumption of relevance does not apply to information concerning financial data and the relevance of that type of information must be established by the U)

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. 276 NLRB No. 040
(Es' refusal to provide U with financial information based on U's claim that E was pleading poverty, not violative, where at no time during bargaining did Es assert they were unable to pay but rather consistently maintained they wanted to obtain a more competitive position in the industry and thus were conveying a simple unwillingness to pay which cannot be viewed as an inability to do so)

E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company 276 NLRB No. 034
(E's failure to supply U with data on production costs on per unit basis at plant, plus known comparative per unit costs at other plants operated by both E and its competitors, violative notwithstanding E did not claim economic hardship, where such information was otherwise relevant to bargaining over job restructure proposal)

E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company 276 NLRB No. 034
(E's failure to supply U with income statements and supporting schedules showing E's labor costs, violative notwithstanding E did not claim economic hardship, where information was otherwise relevant to bargaining over job restructure proposal)

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019

(in. Atlanta Hilton, 271 NLRB No. 214, Bd observed that in determining whether E, under S.Ct's Truit Mfg. Co. decision, is obligated to provide information pertaining to its financial condition, critical distinction must be made between E's expressed inability and mere unwillingness to do so; only E's expressed inability to pay gives rise to duty to provide financial information; and although no magic words are required to express inability to pay, words and conduct must be specific enough to convey such meaning)

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019

(refusal to supply U's requested financial information justifying E's nonpayment of bonus, not unlawful, where E expressly and unequivocally disavowed any plea of financial inability to pay but simply expressed unwillingness rather than inability to pay; in addition to its level of business justification, E provided several other related reasons demonstrating managerial unwillingness rather than economic inability to pay bonus; and no meaningful distinction existed between E's level of business reference and vague references in Atlanta Hilton, 271 NLRB No. 214, to occupancy rate and economy in general)

Dane County Dairy, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 209

(refusal to supply requested information about E's costs for Ees' sick leave, jury-duty leave, and funderal leave and data concerning E's plea of poverty with confirmatory audit access to E's books and records as explicity promised, and as needed by U, violative)

United Shortmetal of Arizona, Inc. JD-(SF)-97-85

(E refusing to supply U with information during bargaining to support insistence on regressive wage proposals, violative and no impasse reached, where E repeatedly bemoaned fact during negotiations that it could not compete with non-U contractors and thus was making a poverty plea and its refusal to provide data to U in response to U request for supporting data not only is unlawful but prevents finding of bonafide impasse subsequent to U's request for information)

N.L.R.B. v. St. Joseph's Hospital 755 F.2d 260 (C.A. 2, Feb. 1985)

]U is not automatically entitled to substantiating information in exact manner requested in every case where E claims inability to pay wage increase. Inquiry must always be whether or not under circumstances of particular case statutory obligation to bargain has been met. Neither cts nor NLRB have ever ruled E is under obligation to bare his books to U)

N.L.R.B. v. St. Joseph's Hospital 755 F.2d 260 (C.A. 2, Feb. 1985)

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete et al. v. N.L.R.B. 803 F.2d 1333 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1986)

[Es' refusal to furnish U financial information requested by U to justify Es' requests for give-backs during negotiations for new agreement, not unlawful, since E's assertions that they were operating at competitive disadvantage viz-a-viz non-U Es did not constitute claim of inability to pay which would require furnishing U substantiating documentation]

N.L.R.B. v. Harvstone Manufacturing Corp., Duray Fluorescent Manufacturing Co., American Fluorescent Corp. and House-O-Lite Corp. 785 F.2d 570 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[only in situation where E communicated that it could not rather than would not pay Ees' proposed demands, has it made claim of inability to pay]

N.L.R.B. v. Harvstone Manufacturing Corp., Duray Fluorescent Manufacturing Co., American Fluorescent Corp. and House-O-Lite Corp. 785 F.2d 570 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[although Es acknowledged, in response to U inquiries, that they could lose money and eventually go out of business if their competitive position did not improve, they never communicated to U that they were unable to pay U's proposed demands and there was no substantial evidence to support Bd's conclusion that Es bargained in bad faith by refusing to provide substantiating financial data after pleading inability to pay]

N.L.R.B. v. Harvstone Manufacturing Corp., Duray Fluorescent Manufacturing Co., American Fluorescent Corp. and House-O-Lite Corp. 785 F.2d 570 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[U's oral request, show us your books held adequate to give rise to E's disclosure obligation]

N.L.R.B. v. Harvstone Manufacturing Corp., Duray Fluorescent Manufacturing Co., American Fluorescent Corp. and House-O-Lite Corp. 785 F.2d 570 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[general consensus today is that for all practical purposes refusal to disclose alone constitutes failure to bargain in good faith; accordingly, there was substantial evidence to support Bd's conclusion that E's refusal to disclose its financial records was violative]

N.L.R.B. v. Harvstone Manufacturing Corp., Duray Fluorescent Manufacturing Co., American Fluorescent Corp. and House-O-Lite Corp. 785 F.2d 570 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[E pleaded inability to pay by conceding point in answer to Bd's C]

6067-6067-2300 Internally prepared report

Boise Cascade Corp., Paper Group 279 NLRB No. 074

[E's refusal to furnish U with surveys used to formulate maintenance improvement program at one of its facilities, which would combine some duties to be performed by Ees, reduce craft classifications, change wage structure, projected savings and efficiency calculations, and any survey comparing maintenance efficiency and cost at facility at which program to be instituted with E's other facilities, unlawful, since relevant to bargaining, grievance and possible arbitration; however, portions of study alluding to how E would carry out its supervisory responsibilities or constituting legal opinion protected from disclosure]

Mack Trucks, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 084

(denial of request of E for supportive documentation, related to E's plant closure decision, not violative, since documentation lacked relevance to any subject with respect to which E could legitimately, be considered required to bargain as decision did not turn on labor costs)

6067-6067-2500 Financial data to justify modification of contract

Schaeff Namco, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 150

[E's failure to furnish U financial information to aid in U's consideration of E's wage reduction offer made during negotiations pursuant to wage reopener provision, not unlawful, since request received after reopener period had ended, bargaining had ceased, and E was obligated under terms of reopener provision to implement its wage offer where parties had not reached agreement or instituted action]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 175

(E's distribution of information to Ees on salaried benefits not unlawful where E was given authorization by U representatives to distribute information)

Valley Parcel Service, Inc. and Valley Parcel Service, Inc., Debtor In Possession JD-(SF)-74-86

6067-6067-2800 Audit of financial records

NDK Corporation 278 NLRB No. 151

[E's unilateral refusal to contribute to fringe benefit funds and to make its payroll records available for audit by trustees of funds, unlawful, where E's admissions provided proof requisite to establish GC's prima facie case, and E was not permitted to escape liability, under federal labor law and conventional common law principles, on ground that its consent to execution of contract was unlawfully induced by U official's false representation that contract would not be enforced]

American Model & Pattern, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 018

(E's refusal to disclose financial data to U and allow a U audit of relevant financial information, violative, where E announced at bargaining table it was discontinuing some Ee benefits because of its bad financial condition and was proposing across the board pay cuts to remain competitive, and thus was making a claim of inability to pay)

N.L.R.B. v. St. Joseph's Hospital 755 F.2d 260 (C.A. 2, Feb. 1985)

(hospital refusing to allow CPA selected by U to examine its books in order to substantiate hospital's claim of inability to pay wage increase, but rather insisting that CPA who examined books have familiarity with state reimbursement procedure, since hospital's fear that mistaken audit might adversely affect bargaining process was reasonable, and U never accepted hospital's offer to discuss any objectionable criteria for CPA selection)

6067-6067-2900 Data concerning transferred work

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[while E had no obligation to furnish U information concerning its decision to relocate unit work to another plant, E's failure to furnish U requested information bearing on effects of E's decision to do so held unlawful]

Davis Acoustical Co., Inc. 280 NLRB No. 168
[E's refusal to furnish U information regarding its relationship with another E unlawful, since request met test of relevance, where U had reasonable grounds to believe through job site visits that diversion of unit work to other E had occurred, U had received information from state Secretary of State that formed reasonable basis for believing that other E was corporate fiction, that E might be conducting double breasted operation, and in its request U cited parts of contract it believed to have been violated and basis for its concern, but E answered in conclusionary terms, refusing to show U support for its statements until U withdrew charge]

United States Steel Corporation JD-176-85
(E's refusal to disclose to U, information regarding its purchase of semi-finished steel from another company, not violative where U failed to establish potential relevance of information since no reasonable factual basis supported its suspicions that E's representations as to nature of purchase were false)

6067-6067-3000 Data concerning contracted out work

Davis Acoustical Co., Inc. 280 NLRB No. 168
[E's refusal to furnish U information regarding its relationship with another E unlawful, since request met test of relevance, where U had reasonable grounds to believe through job site visits that diversion of unit work to other E had occurred, U had received information from state Secretary of State that formed reasonable basis for believing that other E was corporate fiction, that E might be conducting double breasted operation, and in its request U cited parts of contract it believed to have been violated and basis for its concern, but E answered in conclusionary terms, refusing to show U support for its statements until U withdrew charge]

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040

American Stores Packing Company, A Division of Acme Markets, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 190
[refusal to provide U with information requested for bargaining about E's decision to close plant and subcontract unit work, not violative where U had waived right to bargain over such decision; U also had no right to requested information for bargaining about new contract or about effects of decision to close plant because once E had decided to close plant and lay off all unit Ees, E had no further duty to bargain about new contract and U never stated that it was requesting information for effects bargaining]

Clinchfield Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 189
(E's refusal to provide, pursuant to U's request, information regarding contracting out of maintenance and repair work relevant to policing contractual provisions on work jurisdiction and subcontracting and processing grievances as to contractual jurisdicition over such work, violative)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(violation where E failed to provide requested information as to work actually contracted out – as well as notice of work planned to be contracted out –, reasons why there was an emergency necessitating contracting out, and documentation to enable U to verify E's representations)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(E's failure to provide U with requested information as to identity of subcontractors on a specific job so as to enable U to verify E's representations as to the number of Ees involved and E's compliance with subcontracting notice requirements, violative)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(E's failure to provide U with requested information as to the actual commencement date of work that was contracted out, as well as the intended date, so as to enable U to verify E's notification to U of duration of work contracted out as required by the contract, violative)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(E's failure to provide U with requested information as to equipment needed for work that was being subcontracted, violative where the information would enable the U to determine whether equipment that was in storage could be used instead)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(E's failure to provide U with requested information as to identity of subcontractors on a specific job so as to enable U to verify E's representations as to number of Ees involved and E's compliance with subcontracting notice requirements, violative)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(E's failure to provide U with requested information as to what special skills were required to perform work that was being contracted out, violative)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(E's failure to provide documentation to verify the fact that work being contracted out was warranty work not done by unit Ees and show its scope, limitations and duration, violative)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(E's failure to provide more than limited and sporadic requested information as to its use of unit Ees during period when it was contracting out work to be done by outside Ees, violative)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(E's failure to provide requested documentation involved in contracting out work so as to enable U to verify correctness of its suspicions that, contrary to E's assertions, cost was motivating factor in E's contracting-out decision, to propose alternatives, and to evaluate feasibility of and assist in grieving, violative)

United States Steel Corporation JD-223-85
(E's failure to provide requested authoritative, reliable, and definitive information as to unit Ees on layoff or reduced work schedule who were potentially affected by E's subcontracting out of work so as to enable U to verify E's representations and assist in grieving, violation; U's request was not made in bad faith where there was evidence to support its suspicion that E was violating the contract pursuant to an economically motivated policy of contracting out unit work)

United States Steel Corporation JD-189-85
(E's refusal to supply information requested by U for purpose of processing grievances covering reassignment of personnel and contracting out, not violative, as request made for information regarding reassignment grievance had to do with subcontracting and U failed to show relevancy of data requested to process grievance concerning reassignment; as to relevance of information for processing contracting out grievance, there is none either, as E's intent is not in issue but admitted to be department closure, and no issue as to availability of work or Ees ability to perform. The real issue is department closure which E claims management right to do so)

United States Steel Corporation JD-176-85
(E's refusal to supply U with items of information on contracting out of maintenance work that was involved in number of grievances, violative)

6067-6067-3100 Information concerning employer's relationship with other companies

Cal-Am Partners d/b/a Amscot Coal 281 NLRB No. 027
[refusing U's request for information concerning ownership, supervision, equipment, operation and service of E to determine E's possible relationship with former owner as successor or alter ego and consequent bargaining obligation, violation]

Elevator Sales and Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 094
[Es' refusal to furnish on request information concerning E's relationship with alter ego, violative where U showed probable relevance of information to possible circumvention of contract]

Corson and Gruman Company 278 NLRB No. 048
[E's refusal to furnish U information pertaining to its relationship with other companies, violative where requested information was clearly relevant to single E and alter ego issues raised by U and U had reasonable basis for suspecting that contract violation had occurred]

Boyd-Mulford Construction Co. 277 NLRB No. 180
[refusal to supply information pertinent to E with whom E had contract and related companies that U believed constituted single E and precise nature of work performed by related companies, violation where U had legimate purpose in requesting information in policing its agreement with E]

Conte Sand and Gravel Company, Inc. and its alter egos Calan Concrete Corp. and Tycon, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 082
(violation where E which had transferred parts of its operations to spinoff companies refused to supply U with requested information concerning its possible successorship, single E, and alter ego relationship with those companies)

Walter N. Yoder & Sons, Inc. 754 F.2d 531 (C.A. 4, Feb. 1985)
(U need only make formal request based on reasonable belief that information is necessary and show that it is relevant in order to trigger E's obligation to give information; U need not be satisfied with E's assurances that there is no violation once duty to provide information has been triggered; reasonableness of U's belief in making request may not be called into question in light of post hoc information provided by E outside confines of formal response to request; therefore ALJ properly excluded cross examination of U president of what he knew about relationship between 2 entities (alter ego) or could easily have determined)

Walter N. Yoder & Sons, Inc. 754 F.2d 531 (C.A. 4, Feb. 1985)
(substantial evidence supported Bd's finding on critical facts establishing that U sought relevant information from double-breasted E upon having received confirmed reports that Ees of unionized E had worked at non-U shop, leading president of local U to gather information which pointed to single E or alter ego and gave rise to reasonable belief that contract might well be applied to non-U Ees)

6067-6067-3200 Data concerning double-breasted operations

Peace Construction Corporation 281 NLRB No. 049
[refusing to supply requested information regarding business relationship of E and affiliate, violation where U established reasonable objective basis for believing E was operating double-breasted or alter ego operation in derogation of U contract based on E's threat that, if U's carpenters did not preduce, non-U affiliate E would be brought in; E's use of job materials labeled for affiliate; fact affiliate was fully owned subsidiary of E and shared its address and one officer; report that E and affiliate had been jointly awarded a job; and fact E's jobs in area ceased, and affiliate was to do work thereafter]

Peace Construction Corporation 281 NLRB No. 049
[information concerning double-breasted or alter ego operation not presumptively relevant; rather, U must show existence of enough facts to give rise to reasonable belief that two companies were single E, but need not show requested information would establish existence of double-breasted or alter ego operation and a contract violation; E must supply information relevant to informed administration of contract, and U is entitled to information to determine whether to file a grievance or bargain about a dispute]

Davis Acoustical Co., Inc. 280 NLRB No. 168
[E's refusal to furnish U information regarding its relationship with another E unlawful, since request met test of relevance, where U had reasonable grounds to believe through job site visits that diversion of unit work to other E had occurred, U had received information from state Secretary of State that formed reasonable basis for believing that other E was corporate fiction, that E might be conducting double breasted operation, and in its request U cited parts of contract it believed to have been violated and basis for its concern, but E answered in conclusionary terms, refusing to show U support for its statements until U withdrew charge]

Proctor Mechanical Corporation 279 NLRB No. 033
[E unlawfully refused to give U requested information pertaining to alleged double-breasted operation of U-E, where issue was not whether E was engaging in such operation but whether U had actual cause for asking relevant questions; and U had factual basis, and not suspicion, for belief that U-E was simultaneously engaged in non-U operation with which E shared offices, equipment, supplies, and bidding information; and since U attempted to implement grievance under contract, it had right to request information both as to U and non-U operations]

Proctor Mechanical Corporation 279 NLRB No. 033
[in finding that E unlawfully refused to give U requested information pertaining to alleged double-breasted operation of E, ALJ held E's asserted defenses dealt with existence or nonexistence of such operation which was not in issue; rather, sole issues were whether U had reasonable belief such operations were being conducted and whether information bought was relevant thereto; and since it was found in the affirmative to both issues, E's defenses did not relieve it from granting U requested information]

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040
[refusal to provide identity of Ees performing unit work at non-U operations]

Boyd-Mulford Construction Co. 277 NLRB No. 180
[refusal to supply information pertinent to E with whom E had contract and related companies that U believed constituted single E and precise nature of work performed by related companies, violation where U had legimate purpose in requesting information in policing its agreement with E]

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. 276 NLRB No. 040
(Es' refusal to provide U with information concerning any possible double-breasted operations, violative, where Es took the position during concession bargaining that non-U contractors were cutting into their business and U had received reports from various U members that indicated Es themselves were responsible for some of the non-U competition, thus establishing relevancy)

Washington Materials, Inc., t/a Buffalo Concrete; et al. v. N.L.R.B. 803 F.2d 1333 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1986)
[Es' refusal during negotiations for new contract to furnish information requested by U regarding possible double breasted operations was sufficient to trigger Es' duty to disclose relevant data where Ees of unionized Es had reported working on same jobs with Ees of non-U E whom they believed to be controlled by unionized Es; issue of double-breasted operations was discussed through out negotiations and U's requests made well in advance of subsequent strike provided adequate notice to Es that such information was being sought]

6067-6067-3300 Documents in personnel file

U.S. Postal Service 280 NLRB No. 080
[E's refusal to furnish information requested by U concerning names of U's officers and stewards who requested supervisory positions with E, violative, since information sought relates to U's role as Ees' exclusive bargaining representative. U merely prescribing qualifications or limitations of those who will be its agents, and felt it would be conflict of interest if its negotiators were also applying for supervisory positions]

Bloomsburg Craftsmen, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 043
(E's refusal to provide U with discharged Ee's personnel file which was relevant to pending grievance, violative)

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[E's failure to furnish U information regarding its proposed insurance program, updated list of Ees' name, job classifications, pay and piece rates, hire date, and fringe benefits, and list of all Ees who been disciplined as result of implementation by E of certain rules, unlawful]

6067-6067-3400 Witness's statement

Whirlpool Corporation 281 NLRB No. 007
[E's failure to produce confidential police informant as accusing witness at suspension hearing pursuant to U request, not unlawful failure to provide grievance-related information, since E was not bound by past practice to produce the accusing witness at such hearing, general obligation to provide requested information does not include statements of witnesses, and producing a witness to make a written or oral statement is parallel to and covered by witness statements exception]

Conoco Chemicals Company, Division of Conoco, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 009
(prearbitration disclosure of witness statements not required)

Ralph's Grocery Company JD-(SF)-144-85
(E's refusal to provide U with security reports and other statements which led to discharge of Ees where U requested information to decide whether or not to grieve those discharges, violative; however, E's refusal to provide witness statements, not violative)

6067-6067-3700 Results of employee survey

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 163
(E's refusal to provide U upon request with a copy of results of wage and benefit survey conducted with its Ees prior to reopener negotiations violative; such information is presumptively relevant to collective bargaining)

N.L.R.B. v. Pratt & Whitney Air Craft Division, United Technologies Corporation (Machinist, District 91) 789 F.2d 121 (C.A. 2, Apr. 1986)
[E's refusal to disclose to U upon request results of wage and benefit survey conducted with its Ees prior to reopener negotiations, violative since such information is presumptively relevant to U's duties as exclusive bargaining agent; E's contention that it could not reveal survey results because it told Ees that responses would be confidential, rejected where E could not identify any substantial reason why information should remain confidential]

6067-6067-4000 Production and/or sales data

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040

The E. W. Buschman Company 277 NLRB No. 021
(refusal to supply requested production records for U to assess E's claim that Christmas bonus was cancelled due to lack of cash flow, relevant and necessary to processing grievance, violative)

E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company 276 NLRB No. 034
(E's failure to supply U with data on production costs on per unit basis at plant, plus known comperative per unit costs at other plants operated by both E and its competitors, violative notwithstanding E did not claim economic hardship, where such information was otherwise relevant to bargaining over job restructure proposal)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 072
(E's refusal to provide U with Ee promotion and production records relevant to processing two grievances over E's promotion, transfer and award policies, on grounds that dispute was not arbitrable violative; before a U is put to the effort of arbitrating even the question of arbitrability, it has a statutory right to potentially relevant information necessary to allow it to decide if the underlying grievance has merit)

6067-6067-4200 Substances used in manufacturing process

Hercules Incorporated 281 NLRB No. 130
[refusing to allow U industrial hygienist access to plant to investigate industrial accident and conduct health and safety inspection and tests for toxic or hazardous fumes, violation where information was not obtainable through alternative means, hygienist could execute trade secret agreement like other non-Ees allowed access, and his presence would not disrupt production or discipline or substantially interfere with normal operations]

6067-6067-4500 Wage and/or employment data

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory 279 NLRB No. 173
[mtn for summary judgment granted since no material issues of fact existed where E refused to provide U with requested Ees' wage and employment information which was presumptively relevant for bargaining purposes and must be furnished on request, and E failed to rebut relevance of such information]

Sandpiper Convalescent Center and Sandpiper Village 279 NLRB No. 147
[E's refusal to furnish U with names of unit Ees, hire date or seniority dates, Ees' earnings for past year including amount of overtime paid, hourly pay

rates, ages, telephone numbers, complete list of Ee benefits including medical plan description and retirement plan, unlawful, since information necessary and relevant to U's performance of its function as bargaining representative in preparing for negotiations]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[E's failure to provide U complete information regarding unit Ees' names, addresses, date of hire, classification, job descriptions, wages, and benefits including vacations, holidays, medical coverage, pensions, and sick leave, unlawful, since presumptively relevant for bargaining and notwithstanding some partial information was supplied]

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040

Alamo Cement company 277 NLRB No. 108
(refusal to supply requested information as to Ees' wage classifications, violation)

E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company 276 NLRB No. 034
(E's failure to supply U with feasibility studies, surveys or reports performed internally or commissioned to outside consultants and inter- and intra-company memoranda, reports, communications, votes or records related to E's proposal to restructure unit jobs, violative notwithstanding E did not claim economic hardship, where such information was otherwise relevant to bargaining)

E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company 276 NLRB No. 034
(E's failure to supply U with income statements and supporting schedules showing E's labor costs, violative notwithstanding E did not claim economic hardship, where information was otherwise relevant to bargaining over job restructure proposal)

Hennessy Products, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 190
(in agreeing with ALJ that no violation existed under Telautograph Corp., Bd noted that, while overruling Telautograph in Dresser Industries, it decided to apply Dresser prospectively and would not find unlawful actions taken while Telautograph was law; accordingly, E's refusal, because of decertification ptn filed during strike, to furnish U Ees' names, addresses, work classifications and wage rates and information concerning status of laid off strikers was not unlawful, specifically because of unusual factual matrix herein and lack of any pending grievance or existence of current or recently expired contract)

Health Care Service-California d/b/a Valley Oaks Health Care Center JD-(SF)-198-85
[U is presumptively entitled to payroll records and work schedules of unit Ees; further, U's claim that information will help determine whether there are supervisors in unit reinforces relevance]

Southern Indiana Gas & Electric Company JD-300-85
(refusal to provide U with internal documents prepared for supervisors concerning overtime policies violative, notwithstanding E's claim that information was confidential, since requested information related to mandatory subject of bargaining)

Columbus Maintenance and Service Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 758 F.2d 1125 (C.A. 6, Apr. 1985)

6067-6067-4900 Plant closing or relocation

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[while E had no obligation to furnish U information concerning its decision to relocate unit work to another plant, E's failure to furnish U requested information bearing on effects of E's decision to do so held unlawful]

American Stores Packing Company, A Division of Acme Markets, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 190
[refusal to provide U with information requested for bargaining about E's decision to close plant and subcontract unit work, not violative where U had waived right to bargain over such decision; U also had no right to requested information for bargaining about new contract or about effects of decision to close plant because once E had decided to close plant and lay off all unit Ees, E had no further duty to bargain about new contract and U never stated that it was requesting information for effects bargaining]

6067-6067-5200 Confidential nature of information

Asarco, Incorporated, Tennessee Mines Division 276 NLRB No. 155
(refusal to provide U with E's internal report concerning fatal accident to Ee, sought by U for full investigation of accident and prevention of recurrences, on grounds report was prepared in anticipation of litigation and disclosure would have harmful impact upon future candor of E's reporting processes, unlawful, where no litigation was pending at time of U's request, and it was not shown that report would not have been prepared even in complete absence of some liability on E's part for accident; consequently. E's interest in maintaining confidentiality of report did not outweigh U's right to relevant information in report)

N.L.R.B. v. Pratt & Whitney Air Craft Division, United Technologies Corporation (Machinist, District 91) 789 F.2d 121 (C.A. 2, Apr. 1986)
[E's refusal to disclose to U upon request results of wage and benefit survey conducted with its Ees prior to reopener negotiations, violative since such information is presumptively relevant to U's duties as exclusive bargaining agent; E's contention that it could not reveal survey results because it told Ees that responses would be confidential, rejected where E could not identify any substantial reason why information should remain confidential]

6067-6067-5201 Generally

U.S. Postal Service 280 NLRB No. 080
[information in E's records (in instant case) may be disclosed under NLRA, to U as a routine use exception to Privacy Act in view of E's own acknowledged, published routine use exception under Privacy Act and its (E's) specific warning to applicants]

E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company 276 NLRB No. 034
(where E contended that supplying bargaining agent with requested information would compromise confidentiality of proprietary information, Bd ordered E to furnish requested information subject to bargaining in good faith regarding conditions under which information would be furnished, so that access would be provided in manner consistent with monitoring appropriate safeguards protective of E's confidentiality concerns)

6067-6067-5233 Trade secret

Hercules Incorporated 281 NLRB No. 130
[refusing to allow U industrial hygienist access to plant to investigate industrial accident and conduct health and safety inspection and tests for toxic or hazardous fumes, violation where information was not obtainable through alternative means, hygienist could execute trade secret agreement like other non-Ees allowed access, and his presence would not disrupt production or discipline or substantially interfere with normal operations]

6067-6067-5283 Study prepared in contemplation of litigation

Ralph's Grocery Company JD-(SF)-144-85

6067-6067-5300 Payment of bonus

Advertisers Manufacturing Company 275 NLRB No. 019
(refusal to supply U's requested financial information justifying E's nonpayment of bonus, not unlawful, where E expressly and unequivocally disavowed any plea of financial inability to pay but simply expressed unwillingness rather than inability to pay; in addition to its level of business justification, E provided several other related reasons demonstrating managerial unwillingness rather than economic inability to pay bonus; and no meaningful distinction existed between E's level of business reference and vague references in Atlanta Hilton, 271 NLRB No. 214, to occupancy rate and economy in general)

6067-6067-5400 Insurance plans

Sandpiper Convalescent Center and Sandpiper Village 279 NLRB No. 147
[E's refusal to furnish U with names of unit Ees, hire date or seniority dates, Ees' earnings for past year including amount of overtime paid, hourly pay rates, ages, telephone numbers, complete list of Ee benefits including medical plan description and retirement plan, unlawful, since information necessary and relevant to U's performance of its function as bargaining representative in preparing for negotiations]

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040

General Electric Company JD-188-86
[U's blanket request for information relating to reasonable, necessary and customary medical charges, held not relevant and E's refusal to provide such information not violative, where U's request was inconsistent with benefit package in contract, E was unable to comply since information was under insurance carrier's control who was not agent of E and E had agreed to provide U with information on case-by-case basis rather than in blanket form]

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[E's failure to furnish U information regarding its proposed insurance program, updated list of Ees' name, job classifications, pay and piece rates, hire date, and fringe benefits, and list of all Ees who been disciplined as result of implementation by E of certain rules, unlawful]

6067-6067-6000 Specific individual wage and/or employment data

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[E's failure to provide U complete information regarding unit Ees' names, addresses, date of hire, classification, job descriptions, wages, and benefits including vacations, holidays, medical coverage, pensions, and sick leave, unlawful, since presumptively relevant for bargaining and notwithstanding some partial information was supplied]

Ben Franklin National Bank 278 NLRB No. 136
[E's refusal to furnish U with names, addresses, wage rates, and classifications of unit Ees, unlawful, where E and U had reached agreement on

contract terms w/i certification year prior to any rebutting of U's majority status; E thus was obligated to sign agreement, and information requested was relevant to U's duty to represent Ees under bargaining agreement]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation JD-(NY)-91-86
[E's refusal to furnish U with probationary Ee information, violative]

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85
[refusal to supply names of persons issued parking stickers, violation where stickers were indirect remuneration for services and mandatory bargaining subject]

David Clements Co., Inc. JD-388-85
[E's failure to furnish U information regarding its proposed insurance program, updated list of Ees' name, job classifications, pay and piece rates, hire date, and fringe benefits, and list of all Ees who been disciplined as result of implementation by E of certain rules, unlawful]

6067-6067-6017 Non-unit employees or supervisors

Sonat Marine, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 016
[E's refusal to provide U with information concerning its conclusion that certain Ees in bargaining unit were supervisory and E was refusing to bargain over those Ees, violative, where U had represented contested Ees for years and had formally requested E's factual basis for its conclusion; further, nowhere does the Act require that the U must accept w/o any verification an E's claim that bargaining unit Ees are now out of the bargaining unit]

6067-6067-6033 Confidential nature of information

U.S. Postal Service 280 NLRB No. 080
[rule in NLRB v. Detroit Edison Co. 440 U.S. 301 (1979), where E promised Ees that information requested would remain private, not applicable to instant case where both on weighing basis and on failure of record to demonstrate E assurance of, or Ee request for, confidentiality, requested information was not considered confidential w/i meaning of Section 8(a)(5) of Act]

Sonat Marine, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 016
[information relating to supervisory status of Ees U had traditionally represented but whom E was now refusing to bargain over, was not protected from disclosure by attorney-client or attorney work-product privilege; further, U's ability to receive information through its own sources does not defeat its right to receive information from E]

Southern Indiana Gas & Electric Company JD-300-85
(refusal to provide U with internal documents prepared for supervisors concerning overtime policies violative, notwithstanding E's claim that information was confidential, since requested information related to mandatory subject of bargaining)

Salt River Valley Water Users' Association v. N.L.R.B. 769 F.2d 639 (C.A. 9, Aug. 1985)
(ct rejected privacy defense and ordered E to turn over to U Ees' disciplinary records and evaluations for grievance processing. Boston Edison 440 U.S. 301, distinguished by: 1) information here did not bear on basic competence of Ees; 2) Ees did not expect records to remain confidential under such circumstances since E made no pledge of confidentiality; 3) employment records, unlike aptitude tests, are frequently introduced as evidence in grievance proceedings; and 4) E made use of Ee files in defending its actions in this grievance proceeding)

6067-6067-6067 Confidential privilege to refuse disclosure on behalf of employees

U.S. Postal Service 280 NLRB No. 080
[rule in NLRB v. Detroit Edison Co. 440 U.S. 301 (1979), where E promised Ees that information requested would remain private, not applicable to instant case where both on weighing basis and on failure of record to demonstrate E assurance of, or Ee request for, confidentiality, requested information was not considered confidential w/i meaning of Section 8(a)(5) of Act]

U.S. Postal Service 280 NLRB No. 080
[information in E's records (in instant case) may be disclosed under NLRA, to U as a routine use exception to Privacy Act in view of E's own acknowledged, published routine use exception under Privacy Act and its (E's) specific warning to applicants]

6067-6067-6100 Extra-contractual agreement with individual employees

Kansas National Education Association 275 NLRB No. 092
(E's failure to comply promptly with U's request for information in form of documents memorializing extra-contractual agreements with individual Ees, unlawful, since information, which concerned transfer of unit Ees to other positions, was presumptively relevant to and necessary for U's performance of its representative duties; and E's contentions that it was not obligated to release management-related information to U because U believed it was significant, and that matter was moot inasmuch as information had since been provided, rejected)

6067-6067-6500 Attendance records of employees

United States Postal Service 276 NLRB No. 143
(violation, where E failed to timely furnish U with time and attendance information for purpose of establishing whether E had scheduled Ees to work overtime in violation of contract and to process grievance in that regard. E's contention no factual dispute regarding contractual provision for assignment of overtime and thus no need for information, because it agreed with U's contractual interpretation, rejected, inasmuch as U had right to evaluate specific information sought to determine its position for further processing of grievance already filed, nor was E's failure justified by steward's inexperience in framing request)

6067-6067-7100 Employee misconduct and/or disciplinary actions taken

Roadway Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 156
(E's refusal to furnish requesting U a photocopy of customer's letter that was basis for Ee's discharge (for being discourteous and abusive to E's customers) and was relevant to processing of grievance Ee filed over his discharge, not violative, since it is sufficient if the information is made available in a manner not so burdensome or time-consuming as to impede - process of bargaining; here, E permitted on-premise exam and note-taking of single-page letter)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 072
(U clearly and unmistakably waived its statutory right to a letter between supervisors assessing an Ee's attitude, performance and which discussed Ee's immediate supervisor's version of incident giving rise to a disciplinary warning, notwithstanding U anticipated filing grievance over that disciplinary warning, where letter of understanding supplementing partys' bargaining agreement gave U the right to certain records w/o prior advance requests (which did not include written communications between supervisors) and in exchange for this information, U relinquished its right to all other information with certain exceptions not herein relevant)

Southern Indiana Gas & Electric Company JD-300-85
(refusal to provide U with copies of all discipline issued to unit Ees for failing to work mandatory overtime violative, notwithstanding E's contention that withheld materials were irrelevant to U in preparing to arbitrate grievance that did not refer to discipline, where U needed relevant disciplinary records showing whether E was uniformly effectuating its overtime enforcement procedures)

Salt River Valley Water Users' Association v. N.L.R.B. 769 F.2d 639 (C.A. 9, Aug. 1985)
(ct rejected privacy defense and ordered E to turn over to U Ees' disciplinary records and evaluations for grievance processing. Boston Edison 440 U.S. 301, distinguished by: 1) information here did not bear on basic competence of Ees; 2) Ees did not expect records to remain confidential under such circumstances since E made no pledge of confidentiality; 3) employment records, unlike aptitude tests, are frequently introduced as evidence in grievance proceedings; and 4) E made use of Ee files in defending its actions in this grievance proceeding)

6067-6067-7200 Efficiency ratings of employees and/or standards

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 072
(U clearly and unmistakably waived its statutory right to a letter between supervisors assessing an Ee's attitude, performance and which discussed Ee's immediate supervisor's version of incident giving rise to a disciplinary warning, notwithstanding U anticipated filing grievance over that disciplinary warning, where letter of understanding supplementing partys' bargaining agreement gave U the right to certain records w/o prior advance requests (which did not include written communications between supervisors) and in exchange for this information, U relinquished its right to all other information with certain exceptions not herein relevant)

Salt River Valley Water Users' Association v. N.L.R.B. 769 F.2d 639 (C.A. 9, Aug. 1985)

6067-6067-7500 Pension plan and funding

Super Valu Stores, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 005
[where E, after purchase of facility, exercised its option under purchase agreement to require seller to repurchase facility, ALJ held E's refusal to permit U to ascertain which E was liable for unfunded liability due to multi-E pension fund unlawful since, among other reasons, pension rights related directly to terms and conditions of employment of Ees who sought to ascertain what they were entitled to receive as result of participation of both Es in pension fund, and information was relevant to U's obligation to assure that E or Es made required pension contributions]

Super Valu Stores, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 005
[where E, after purchase of facility, exercised its option under purchase agreement to require seller to repurchase facility, ALJ held E's refusal to permit U to ascertain which E was liable for unfunded liability due to multi-E pension fund unlawful since, among other reasons, failure of individual Es to make required contributions would affect all fund beneficiaries, and E failed to demonstrate legitimate business reason for its refusal]

NDK Corporation 278 NLRB No. 151
[E's unilateral refusal to contribute to fringe benefit funds and to make its payroll records available for audit by trustees of funds, unlawful, where E's admissions provided proof requisite to establish GC's prima facie case, and E was not permitted to escape liability, under federal labor law and conventional common law principles, on ground that its consent to execution of contract was unlawfully induced by U official's false representation that contract would not be enforced]

M & C Vending Co., Inc. and Its Wholly Owned Subsidiary Ada Automatic Sales Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 047
[E's refusal to furnish U copy of pension plan, unlawful, since required by U in order for U to perform its representation functions]

Hercules Incorporated 281 NLRB No. 130
[refusing to allow U industrial hygienist access to plant to investigate industrial accident and conduct health and safety inspection and tests for toxic or hazardous fumes, violation where information was not obtainable through alternative means, hygienist could execute trade secret agreement like other non-Ees allowed access, and his presence would not disrupt production or discipline or substantially interfere with normal operations]

Hercules Incorporated 281 NLRB No. 130
[Bd balances E's property right against U's right to information in determining whether U should be granted access to E's property to gather information on health and safety matters and evaluates availability of alternative means, nature of E's operation, impact on production and discipline, extent to which other, non-Ees are granted access to E's property, nature of information sought, and the particular location on the E's property to which access is sought]

Asarco, Incorporated, Tennessee Mines Division 276 NLRB No. 155
(denial of U's request for copies of photographs of site of fatal accident to Ee in E's mine, which U sought for full investigation of accident and prevention of recurrences, unlawful, where photographs were relevant and necessary to an understanding of accident and its possible causes; and availability of photographs from federal mine safety agency was no defense)

Asarco, Incorporated, Tennessee Mines Division 276 NLRB No. 155
(refusal to provide U with E's internal report concerning fatal accident to Ee, sought by U for further investigation of accident and prevention of recurrences, unlawful, where report, not prepared by attorney or with attorney's assistance, did not qualify for exemption from disclosure on basis of attorney-client privilege or attorney work product)

Asarco, Incorporated, Tennessee Mines Division 276 NLRB No. 155
(refusal to provide U with E's internal report concerning fatal accident to Ee, sought by U for full investigation of accident and prevention of recurrences, on grounds report was prepared in anticipation of litigation and disclosure would have harmful impact upon future candor of E's reporting processes, unlawful, where no litigation was pending at time of U's request, and it was not shown that report would not have been prepared even in complete absence of some liability on E's part for accident; consequently, E's interest in maintaining confidentiality of report did not outweigh U's right to relevant information in report)

Holyoke Water Power Company 273 NLRB No. 168
(E's denial of access to fan room by U's hygienist to test noise level, violative, notwithstanding E provided U with information it possessed on subject and had allowed business agent access to fan room since here, in balancing property right versus Ees' right to proper representation, Bd found that health and safety conditions are terms of employment which E must bargain about on request)

N.L.R.B. v. Holyoke Water Power Company 778 F.2d 49 (C.A. 1, Nov. 1985)
[E's refusal to grant U's industrial hygenist access to room in plant to conduct noise study, on grounds that information was irrelevant since Ees had not complained to E, E had provided U with copies of its own study and U must attempt to pursue other means of obtaining information, violative, since information was clearly relevant to health and safety of unit Ees, Ees had complained to U, E's study could be inherently subjective thus justifying U's need for its own study and information not readily obtainable from any other source]

N.L.R.B. v. Holyoke Water Power Company 778 F.2d 49 (C.A. 1, Nov. 1985)
[safety and health conditions are conditions of employment about which Es must bargain upon request; however, U is not invariably entitled to enter E's plant to obtain information and when the E presents a legitimate, good faith objection on grounds of burdensomeness and offers to cooperate with U in reaching acceptable accommodation, U must compromise with E as to form, extent or timing of disclosure]

6067-6067-7700 Severance plans

Super Valu Stores, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 005
[E's refusal to give U Ee manual which defined E's relationship with its non-U Ees, not unlawful, where nothing in record showed that U requested that E supply it with such manufal; even assuming such request was made, U's announced reason for request, that it wanted to know how E was treating non-U Ees on termination, was insufficient to establish that Ee manual was relevant to U's performance of its bargaining function; and U did obtain manual prior to hearing]

6067-6067-7800 Names of employer-association members

Southern Nevada Home Builders Association, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 048
(E association's refusal to furnish U names and addresses of remaining builder members who were not bound by master or memorandum agreement negoitated by association, not violative, since U did not sustain burden of demonstrating probability that roster of all builder members is relavent and of use in fulfilling U's statutory duties. Surmise and suspicion not enough. No record evidence or allegation that any builder member engaged in, or was encouraged by Respondent to engage in, alter ego or double-breasted operations or that builder members were not making trust fund contributionsrequired by master or memorandum agreement)

6067-6067-8000 Names, addresses and/or telephone numbers, of employees or former employees

Landhill Press, Inc., and Rotary Business Systems, Inc., its Alter Ego and Successor 282 NLRB No. 058
[E's refusal to furnish U with names and addresses of unit Ees, unlawful]

Sandpiper Convalescent Center and Sandpiper Village 279 NLRB No. 147
[E's refusal to furnish U with names of unit Ees, hire date or seniority dates, Ees' earnings for past year including amount of overtime paid, hourly pay rates, ages, telephone numbers, complete list of Ee benefits including medical plan description and retirement plan, unlawful, since information necessary and relevant to U's performance of its function as bargaining representative in preparing for negotiations]

15th Avenue Iron Works, Inc., and Abitat Builders and Management Corp. 279 NLRB No. 091
[E's failure to provide U complete information regarding unit Ees' names, addresses, date of hire, classification, job descriptions, wages, and benefits including vacations, holidays, medical coverage, pensions, and sick leave, unlawful, since presumptively relevant for bargaining and notwithstanding some partial information was supplied]

Ben Franklin National Bank 278 NLRB No. 136
[E's refusal to furnish U with names, addresses, wage rates, and classifications of unit Ees, unlawful, where E and U had reached agreement on contract terms w/i certification year prior to any rebutting of U's majority status; E thus was obligated to sign agreement, and information requested was relevant to U's duty to represent Ees under bargaining agreement]

Alamo Cement company 277 NLRB No. 108
(refusal to supply requested names, addresses and telephone numbers of Ees, violation)

Bozzuto's, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 056
(E's failure to provide U with list of unit members' addresses violative where contract did not clearly and unmistakably waive U's right to such list)

Storall Manufacturing Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 039
(refusal to supply U with requested information as to names and addresses of all Ees hired since E had terminated its night shift and laid off night-shift Ees, and addresses of all current temporary Ees whom E had unlawfully hired when it reinstituted night-shift and supcontracted that work using temporary Ees, unlawful)

Hennessy Products, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 190
(in agreeing with ALJ that no violation existed under Telautograph Corp., Bd noted that, while overruling Telautograph in Dresser Industries, it decided to apply Dresser prospectively and would not find unlawful actions taken while Telautograph was law; accordingly, E's refusal, because of decertification ptn filed during strike, to furnish U Ees' names, addresses, work classifications and wage rates and information concerning status of laid off strikers was not unlawful, specifically because of unusual factual matrix herein and lack of any pending grievance or existence of current or recently expired contract)

Columbus Maintenance and Service Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 758 F.2d 1125 (C.A. 6, Apr. 1985)

6067-6067-8100 Grievances

Whirlpool Corporation 281 NLRB No. 007
[E's failure to produce confidential police informant as accusing witness at suspension hearing pursuant to U request, not unlawful failure to provide grievance-related information, since E was not bound by past practice to produce the accusing witness at such hearing, general obligation to provide requested information does not include statements of witnesses, and producing a witness to make a written or oral statement is parallel to and covered by witness statements exception]

Ground Breakers, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 014
[E's refusal, after expiration of contract, to furnish U requested information pertaining to processing of grievances, unlawful, since matter clearly fell w/i parameter of Bd's analysis in United Technologies Corp., 274 NLRB No. 72, and while, on merits, grievance may have been untimely as claimed by E, such outcome is irrelevant to issue of whether E is required to furnish information so that U can represent Ees filing grievances, since E's duty under Act is not relieved by showing, after the fact, that U might not have prevailed had it been given information in timely manner]

United Technologies Corporation 277 NLRB No. 070
(refusal to furnish U requested reports pertaining to grievance arising from discharge of Ee assertedly for gross negligence in reviewing x-ray films for defects in engine parts, unlawful, where reports were not witnesses' statements shielded from discharge under Anheuser-Busch; even if they were, identity of persons was known and disclosure could not result in recantation or modification of facts stated in them by intimidation of investigators who furnished them or anyone named in them, since film, and not incidents, had been investigated and intimidation could not change contents of film)

United Technologies Corporation 277 NLRB No. 070
(refusal to furnish U requested reports pertaining to grievance arising from discharge of Ee assertedly for gross negligence in reviewing x-ray films for defects in engine parts, unlawful; unlike Anheuser-Busch, in which disclosure of information was shielded, E impeded U's investigation by making available only small part of film Ee had worked on and refused to furnish complete reports of investigators concerning all of Ee's film; moreover, E's failure to assert any reasonable need to keep reports confidential left it w/o any reasonable rationale for its refusal)

Southern Indiana Gas & Electric Company JD-300-85
(refusal to provide U with copies of all discipline issued to unit Ees for failing to work mandatory overtime violative, notwithstanding E's contention that withheld materials were irrelevant to U in preparing to arbitrate grievance that did not refer to discipline, where U needed relevant disciplinary records showing whether E was uniformly effectuating its overtime enforcement procedures)

N.L.R.B. v. National Broadcasting Company, Inc. (Directors Guild of America, Inc.) 798 F.2d 75 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1986)
[denying U access to remote broadcasting facilities at reasonable time and places, violation where grant of access was past practice, and U's search for information as to whether non-unit Ees were doing unit work was relevant to pending arbitration and continued contract enforcement, and firsthand observation of crew at work was only alternative sufficient to serve U's legitimate purpose; Bd's application of test balancing E's property right against Ees' representational right was rationally connected with NLRA and resolved parties' competing interests]

N.L.R.B. v. Electrical Workers, Local 309 (Pfizer, Inc.) ———F.2d——— (C.A. 7, June 1985)
[refusal to supply information relevant to processing grievance, unlawful, notwithstanding U's contention that information pertaining to Ees outside of bargaining unit was irrelevant and information from Ee personnel files was confidential]

Salt River Valley Water Users' Association v. N.L.R.B. 769 F.2d 639 (C.A. 9, Aug. 1985)
(under Sections 8(a)(1) and 8(a)(5), failure of either E or U to give other information necessary to enable requesting party intelligently to evaluate grievances filed may constitute ULP)

6067-6067-8150 Confidential nature of information

The E. W. Buschman Company 277 NLRB No. 021
(defense of confidential nature of requested financial and production data rejected where E produced no evidence thereof and made no distinction between the kinds of information requested when refusing the requests)

N.L.R.B. v. Electrical Workers, Local 309 (Pfizer, Inc.) ———F.2d——— (C.A. 7, June 1985)
[E's defense of confidentiality to its refusal to provide Ee personnel file, rejected where E did not attempt to make any showing that personnel file, or any part of it, contained sensitive information, or that it treated information in file as confidential]

6067-6067-8200 Discipline

Salt River Valley Water Users' Association v. N.L.R.B. 769 F.2d 639 (C.A. 9, Aug. 1985)
(ct rejected privacy defense and ordered E to turn over to U Ees' disciplinary records and evaluations for grievance processing. Boston Edison 440 U.S. 301, distinguished by: 1) information here did not bear on basic competence of Ees; 2) Ees did not expect records to remain confidential under such circumstances since E made no pledge of confidentiality; 3) employment records, unlike aptitude tests, are frequently introduced as evidence in grievance proceedings; and 4) E made use of Ee files in defending its actions in this grievance proceeding)

6067-6067-8900 Information concerning laid-off employees

Hennessy Products, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 190
(in agreeing with ALJ that no violation existed under Telautograph Corp., Bd noted that, while overruling Telautograph in Dresser Industries, it decided to apply Dresser prospectively and would not find unlawful actions taken while Telautograph was law; accordingly, E's refusal, because of decertification ptn filed during strike, to furnish U Ees' names, addresses, work classifications and wage rates and information concerning status of laid off strikers was not unlawful, specifically because of unusual factual matrix herein and lack of any pending grievance or existence of current or recently expired contract)

6067-6067-9000 Seniority, layoff, and/or recall

6067-6067-9000 Seniority, layoff, and/or recall

Aquaslide 'N' Dive Corporation 281 NLRB No. 034
[failure to provide U requested seniority list, unlawful, where no explanation was offered by E why list was not provided before E filed bankruptcy ptn; although matters became hectic after E filed ptn, E continued to hold out to U that list would be provided and never advised U that it was unable to do so; and U's use of previously supplied list, as suggested by E, would not show up-to-date personnel actions taken by E]

Sandpiper Convalescent Center and Sandpiper Village 279 NLRB No. 147
[E's refusal to furnish U with names of unit Ees, hire date or seniority dates, Ees' earnings for past year including amount of overtime paid, hourly pay rates, ages, telephone numbers, complete list of Ee benefits including medical plan description and retirement plan, unlawful, since information necessary and relevant to U's performance of its function as bargaining representative in preparing for negotiations]

Super Valu Stores, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 005
[where E, after purchase of facility, exercised its option under purchase agreement to require seller to repurchase facility whose operations were then terminated, ALJ held E's refusal to permit U to ascertain seniority, layoff, and recall rights not unlawful, since all of E's Ees were terminated, and U was aware that repurchaser had no intention of reopening facility and rehiring E's Ees; hence, Ees had no seniority, layoff, or recall rights]

Alamo Cement company 277 NLRB No. 108
(refusal to supply requested information as to Ees' seniority, violation)

6067-6067-9100 Promotion data

U.S. Postal Service 280 NLRB No. 080
[E's refusal to furnish information requested by U concerning names of U's officers and stewards who requested supervisory positions with E, violative, since information sought relates to U's role as Ees' exclusive bargaining representative. U merely prescribing qualifications or limitations of those who will be its agents, and felt it would be conflict of interest if its negotiators were also applying for supervisory positions]

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 072
(E's refusal to provide U with Ee promotion and production records relevant to processing two grievances over E's promotion, transfer and award policies, on grounds that dispute was not arbitrable violative; before a U is put to the effort of arbitrating even the question of arbitrability, it has a statutory right to potentially relevant information necessary to allow it to decide if the underlying grievance has merit)

6067-6067-9500 Copies of contract or correspondence between employer and third parties

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010
[contract provision providing that E furnish new Ees with copy of bargaining agreement survives expiration of contract]

6067-6067-9600 Changes in working conditions

Boise Cascade Corp., Paper Group 279 NLRB No. 074
[E's refusal to furnish U with surveys used to formulate maintenance improvement program at one of its facilities, which would combine some duties to be performed by Ees, reduce craft classifications, change wage structure, projected savings and efficiency calculations, and any survey comparing maintenance efficiency and cost at facility at which program to be instituted with E's other facilities, unlawful, since relevant to bargaining, grievance and possible arbitration; however, portions of study alluding to how E would carry out its supervisory responsibilities or constituting legal opinion protected from disclosure]

6067-6067-9800 Job vacancies

BASF Wyandotte Corporation JD-(NY)-91-86
[E's refusal to furnish U with requested information regarding Ee bid card system for filling vacant job positions, violative]

6067-6067-9900 Sale of business

Super Valu Stores, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 005
[where E, after purchase of facility, exercised its option under purchase agreement to require seller to repurchase facility whose operations were then terminated, ALJ held E's refusal to comply with U's request for copies of both purchase agreements to permit U to more effectively represent Ees in effects bargaining not unlawful, since U's stated reason, standing alone, was inadequate; U's theory of relevance must be reasonably specific, and general avowals of reliance, such as to bargain intelligently and similar boilerplate, are insufficient]

Super Valu Stores, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 005
[where E, after purchase of facility, exercised its option under purchase agreement to require seller to repurchase facility, ALJ held E's refusal to permit U to ascertain which E was liable for unfunded liability due to multi-E pension fund unlawful since, among other reasons, pension rights related directly to terms and conditions of employment of Ees who sought to ascertain what they were entitled to receive as result of participation of both Es in pension fund, and information was relevant to U's obligation to assure that E or Es made required pension contributions]

Super Valu Stores, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 005
[where E, after purchase of facility, exercised its option under purchase agreement to require seller to repurchase facility, ALJ held E's refusal to permit U to ascertain which E was liable for unfunded liability due to multi-E pension fund unlawful since, among other reasons, failure of individual Es to make required contributions would affect all fund beneficiaries, and E failed to demonstrate legitimate business reason for its refusal]

Coalite, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 040

6067-7000 Repudiation of contract

D & D Development Co., Inc. d/b/a Anaheim Town and Country Inn 282 NLRB No. 034
[E's refusal to honor contract, not unlawful, since U did not represent uncoerced majority at time recognition was granted and contract was executed, where U authorization cards were tainted by company manager's conduct in going well beyond any ministerial help to U or any benign cooperation in U effort by participating in organizational drive from start to finish and engaging in such conduct as calling in U, promising benefits if Ees joined, U coercively interrogating whether Ees signed cards, using supervisors to check cards, and precipitously executing contract]

The Seven-Up/Canada Dry Bottling Company of Pittsburgh, A Division of Beverage Management, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 128
[E's refusal to recognize U as representative of driver-salesmen, repudiation of contract and unilateral changes, following operational change in which E had eliminated job category's duties into new driver-salesman category, unlawful, notwithstanding E contention that creation of new category created qcr, where change was not technological and required no major hiring, job was similar to former category, no other U claimed to represent the E's, and Ees from old category substantially outnumbered additional driver-salesmen, who are viewed as accretion to old unit]

Public Service Electric and Gas Company 280 NLRB No. 048
[violation where E sought to modify retroactivity clause of old contract by refusing to agree to pay wage increase in new contract effective on expiration date of old contract unless Ees ratified new contract by expiration date and, as part of its final offer, conditioned agreement to new contract on U's consent to abrogation of retroactivity clause; U's urging Ees to ratify new contract not voluntary consent to modification where U advised Ees at same time that it had filed charge with Bd]

Beckley Belt Service, Inc., d/b/a Beckley Belt Services & Roofing Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 066
[unilateral change in contract wage rate to that comparable to practice in trade, as well as otherwise refusing to comply with contract wage rate by paying recalled Ee wages higher than contract rate but w/o fringe benefits, violation]

EPE, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 169
(E's re-opening contract for purpose of obtaining U's agreement to raising insurance premiums and granting wage increase and then unilaterally repudiating contract when U did not agree to its proposals, violative, where E's action in re-opening contract was attempt to coerce U into accepting proposals which had been found violative in prior Bd hearing and further, because of E's bad faith in re-opening contract, it could not rely on provision allowing for repudiation of contract if no agreement was reached during re-opener negotiations as grounds for repudiating contract)

St. Charles Interiors Inc.; d/b/a GML Drywall, etc. JD-447-84
(E held to have unlawfully repudiated U contract where E decided to pay some Ees in bargaining unit on piece-rate basis rather than contractual rate and not to make fringe benefit contributions; and to extent such was considered subcontracting, it was likewise prohibited by contract)

Sam Bennion and Earl Garr d/b/a Hillsdale Inn, a partnership v. N.L.R.B. (Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union, Local 340) 764 F.2d 739 (C.A. 10, June 1985)
(E's repudiation of bargaining agreements reached through multi-E bargaining, violative notwithstanding E's contention that negotiations were entered and agreements reached w/o E's real or apparent authority, where E allowed its managers to sign authorizations for association to bargain on E's behalf over three-year period, observed terms of agreements negotiated by association, and used lawyer recommended by association to negotiate settlement agreement with U)

6083 REQUIREMENTS FOR TERMINATION OR MODIFICATION OF CONTRACTS - 8(d) PROVISO

6083-0100 Generally

6083-0125 No obligation to discuss or agree to modification during fixed contract term

Armour and Company 280 NLRB No. 096
[contention that since allocation of severance and vacation payments to Ees being terminated upon closing of plant to specific periods was bargained for between parties, and was matter which bargaining agreement controlled, neither party had further obligation to bargain during term of bargaining agreement, rejected, since U is not seeking to discuss any modification of terms or conditions of contract and contract silent on issue, notwithstanding parties reached agreement on other matters concerning closing of plant, where no zipper clause, no clear and unmistakable waiver of matter, and absent evidence issue was subject of prior bargaining]

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061
[fact E's unilateral mid-term changes in Ees' terms and conditions of employment were prompted by economic rather than discriminatory considerations is immaterial if E did not bargain about those changes. Defense that refusal to bargain did not take place in context of overall subjective, bad faith may be available when charge is violation of Section 8(a)(3) of Act, but it is no defense to 8(a)(5) allegation]

Suburban Transit Corp. and Suburban Trails, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 005
(no violation when E relocated unit work (single E) and thereby brought unit Ees under different bargaining agreement which was less favorable to these Ees, since contract covering original workstation did not contain any provisions preventing E from making such relocation w/o first obtaining consent of U and E bargained in good faith over decision to relocate)

6083-0150 Obligation to refrain from termination or modification without notice and bargaining

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061
[obligation to bargain over wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment, as well as any mid-term changes therein, covers multitude of specific items where terms, conditions of employment, and mid-term changes have effect of cutting wages, decreasing (Ee) take-home pay or changes in functions and content of (an Ee's) job an asserted waiver of bargaining obligation involves examination of meaning of contract provisions and does not oust Bd of jurisdiction to make that examination]

Italo II Casa Romana Restaurant, Inc. JD-(SF)-50-86
[E's ignoring contract and unilaterally modifying its provisions or scope of its coverage except with respect to few Ees who were U members, violative]

6083-0150-2500 Operates independently of any contractual notice requirements

Hotel & Restaurant Employees, Local 50 (Plaza Inn Associates d/b/a Plaza International Inn) JD-(SF)-87-85

(signatory to memorandum agreement gave proper notice of termination of agreement and agreement terminated at expiration date of agreement notwithstanding U and E association prematurely negotiated new contract prior to time that proper notice could be sent (60 days), since signatories could not be bound to mid-term modification as it is wording of memorandum agreement rather than contract incorporated by reference that controls termination dates)

6083-0150-5000 Modification of terms without bargaining

The Seven-Up/Canada Dry Bottling Company of Pittsburgh, A Division of Beverage Management, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 128

[E's refusal to recognize U as representative of driver-salesmen, repudiation of contract and unilateral changes, following operational change in which E had eliminated job category's duties into new driver-salesman category, unlawful, notwithstanding E contention that creation of new category created qcr, where change was not technological and required no major hiring, job was similar to former category, no other U claimed to represent the E's, and Ees from old category substantially outnumbered additional driver-salesmen, who are viewed as accretion to old unit]

The Seven-Up/Canada Dry Bottling Company of Pittsburgh, A Division of Beverage Management, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 128

Desota, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 114

[E's closing plant and transferring work to its other facilities, not 8(d) contract modification where action did not constitute relocation of plant prohibited by contract, and transferring work to other plants was consistent with contract]

A & W Foods, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 020

(E's failure to implement wage increase provision in contract negotiated to become effective at future date, unlawful, since U did not agree to reopen contract, notwithstanding its agreement to discuss E's proposed midterm modification and agreeing to take proposal to membership, which rejected it)

Crest Floors & Plastics, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 185

(unilateral changes violative, since E was still bound by expired contract where it had notified U of intention to terminate contract but had not offered to negotiatea new one or notified U of intention to change terms and conditions of employment existing at time of expiration of old contract)

Stroman Construction Company JD-367-85

[failure to timely pay fringe benefits, to timely file proper fringe benefit reports, to pay liquidated damages for delay in payment, and to provide proper books and records for audit, as required by contract, violation and unilateral mid-term modification of contract]

Everett Yacht Club JD-(SF)-115-85

(E's failure to bargain with U over effects of its decision to subcontract its bar and restaurant operations, violative, since U could have accomplished positive and favorable considerations for unit Ees if U had learned of E's intent to subcontract prior to its being put into effect)

Hotel & Restaurant Employees, Local 50 (Plaza Inn Associates d/b/a Plaza International Inn) JD-(SF)-87-85

(signatory to memorandum agreement gave proper notice of termination of agreement and agreement terminated at expiration date of agreement notwithstanding U and E association prematurely negotiated new contract prior to time that proper notice could be sent (60 days), since signatories could not be bound to mid-term modification as it is wording of memorandum agreement rather than contract incorporated by reference that controls termination dates)

LeRic Floor Covering, Inc., and Richard E. Fackler d/b/a REF Carpet Service and Installation Alter Egos JD-79-85

(no unlawful failure of unionized E to pay contractual wage rates and benefit contributions for part of Ees' hours of work for non-U E, where Es were neither alter egos nor joint Es, and Ees' work for non-U E was not a disguise for portion of work for unionized E)

N.L.R.B. v. BASF Wyandotte Corp. 798 F.2d 849 (C.A. 5, Sept. 1986)

[fact dispute over E's discontinuance of allowing U steward 4 hours of paid company time per day in which to conduct U business plus use of office and telephone, and over legality of steward's privileges, arose during term of bargaining agreement that provided that steward be granted reasonable time to conduct U business, did not bar E's obligation regarding grant of time and facilities to U; Sec. 8(d) of Act provides that E must bargain in good faith with respect to questions arising under existing agreements and questions of contract interpretation, as well as requested modification of bargaining agreement]

6083-0150-6700 Cancellation of contract

NDK Corporation 278 NLRB No. 151

[E unlawfully repudiated contract with U in midterm, where E's admissions provided requisite proof to establish GC's prima facie case, and E was not permitted to escape liability under federal labor policy and conventional common law principles on ground that E's consent to execution of contract was unlawfully induced by U official's false representation that contract would not be enforced]

6083-0175 Obligation to bargain regarding interpretation of terms

N.L.R.B. v. Bildisco & Bildisco, Debtor-in-Possession, et al.

U.S.——(U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)

[Bd is precluded from, in effect, enforcing terms of collective-bargaining agreement by filing ULP charges against debtor-in-possession for violating Sec. 8(d) of NLRA by modifying or terminating unexpired labor agreement. Though Bd's action is nominally one to enforce Sec. 8(d), practical effect of enforcement action would be to require adherence to terms of agreement, but filing of ptn in bankruptcy means that agreement is no longer enforceable. Consequently, Bd enforcement under these circumstances would run directly counter to express provisions of Bankruptcy Code]

N.L.R.B. v. Bildisco & Bildisco, Debtor-in-Possession, et al.

——U.S.——(U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)

[debtor-in-possession does not need to comply with mid-term contract modification procedures set forth in Sec. 8(d) because bargaining agreement is not enforceable contract w/i meaning of 8(d); therefore, because modification accomplished by operation of law (Bankuptcy Code) and not by unilateral action of E, it follows that debtor-in-possession need not comply with provisions of Sec. 8(d) prior to seeking Bankruptcy Ct's permission to reject agreement]

N.L.R.B. v. Bildisco & Bildisco, Debtor-in-Possession, et al.

——U.S.——(U.S. S.Ct, Feb. 1984)

[debtor-in-possession does not commit ULP when, after filing bankruptcy ptn but before Bankruptcy Ct approved rejection of bargaining agreement, it unilaterally modifies or terminates one or more provisions of contract, notwithstanding contract provided that it was binding on parties or successors even though bankruptcy should supervene]

Dunmyre Motor Express, Inc. and/or Dunmyre Motor Express, Inc., Debtor-In-Possession 275 NLRB No. 044

GMW, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 214

(summary judgment was inappropriate in C proceeding alleging E violated 8(a)(1), (5) and 8(d) of Act, notwithstanding E failed to file ans but rather informed GC it had filed for bankruptcy under Chapter 7, where nothing in record showed when E filed for bankruptcy, whether alleged violations occurred before or after filing date, whether trustee formally assumed or rejected contract and whether Bankruptcy Court permitted rejection of contract; such information is critical in deciding whether E violated Act)

Thomas Sheet Metal Co., Inc.; et al. JD-(ATL)-86-84

(E as debtor-in-possession did not unlawfully make unilateral changes in Ees' terms and conditions of employment since, under S.Ct's Bildisco decision, debtor-in-possession, while obligated to bargain with U for new contract, is free to make unilateral changes; although E and U had no contract but only bargaining relationship when bankruptcy ptn was filed, thus arguably making Bildisco inapplicable, it would be totally incongruous and illogical to find an E with contract free to make unilateral changes while finding E herein to have unlawfully taken similar unilateral action)

Thomas Sheet Metal Co., Inc.; et al. JD-(ATL)-86-84

(while requiring, as part of remedy, alter ego to abide by contract between bankrupt predecessor acting as debtor-in-possession and U seems incongruous in light of S.Ct's Bildisco decision, which provides that once bankruptcy ptn is filed contract is not enforceable, S.Ct, however, recognized in Bildisco that debtor-in-possession is required to recognize and bargain with U)

N.L.R.B. v. Superior Fowarding, Inc. 762 F.2d 695 (C.A. 8, May 1985)

(bankruptcy ct can enjoin Bd from filing or processing ULP charges arising from modification of contract since, if Bd can neither file charges against nor find debtor-in-possession guilty of ULP for unilaterally rejecting or modifying contract, certainly it cannot proceed with hearings on ULP charges arising under that contract)

N.L.R.B. v. Superior Fowarding, Inc. 762 F.2d 695 (C.A. 8, May 1985)

(ct should deny debtor's mtn to enjoin Bd proceedings on charge if ULP charge stems from debtor's failure to bargain in good faith over terms and conditions of new contract)

N.L.R.B. v. Superior Fowarding, Inc. 762 F.2d 695 (C.A. 8, May 1985)

(bankruptcy ct may, upon mtn by debtor, enjoin Bd from proceeding with hearings on ULP charges which arise from debtor's unilateral modification or rejection of collective-bargaining agreement, when those proceedings would threaten assets of debtor's estate)

8004 SUBSEQUENT PERFORMANCE OF OBLIGATION

Indianhead Truck Line, Inc. JD-271-85

(E unlawfully refused to bargain over effects of closure of its freight operations where U's secretary-treasurer stated to E we have to sit down and work out a closing agreement, and E replied that agreement had to be worked out by bankruptcy ct, since E is not relieved of its obligation to bargain over effects of its decision because it has become debtor-in-possession under Bankruptcy Act and believes it would be unable to meet U's financial demands; E's subsequent invitation to U to bargain did not bar finding of violation and ordering remedy for prior violation)

8005 DOUBT OF BOARD'S JURISDICTION

8005-5000 No defense where Board has jurisdiction

Volunteers of America-Minnesota-Bar None Boys Ranch v. N.L.R.B. 752 F.2d 345 (C.A. 8, Jan. 1985)

(Bd properly asserted jurisdiction over religiously affiliated residential treatment center for children since treatment center essentially secular and differed significantly from parochial schools over which Bd has refused to assert jurisdiction, inasmuch as it had as its primary purpose care of children rather than parochial school's purpose of propagation of faith; nor did E demonstrate that its commitment to serving as many children as possible would bring it into conflict with U, or that its secular objectives would be impaired by U representation)

8007 LACK OF KNOWLEDGE OF UNION'S MAJORITY STATUS

Ednor Home Care, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 042

(E did not unlawfully withdraw recognition since E never recognized U, where upon being presented with authorization cards by U's business representative, E's owner never acknowledged, nor did U representative claim U represented majority of Ees. U's contention that there was initial discussion regarding terms of proposed contract delivered with economic terms left blank, and absent evidence of any statement by E connoting recognition, or explicit testimony of U representative concerning plans for negotiating meetings, nor was U representative's behavior consistent with belief U was recognized)

Crest Industries Corp. 276 NLRB No. 067

(E's refusal to bargain with U, and comply with U's demand for recognition, violative where E, by polling its Ees, had determined that majority of Ees wished to be represented by U)

Dukes Industries JD-167-85

(no violation where E decided to shut down operations and communicated decision to Ees prior to having any knowledge of U activity. Furthermore, U waived its perogative to bargain with E where, other than delivering its demand letter, it has made absolutely no attempt to meet and negotiate over effects of closing)

8009 DOUBT AS TO UNION'S MAJORITY STATUS (SEE ALSO 530-4080-5000)

8009-0100 Generally

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division 281 NLRB No. 113

[E may not lawfully withdraw recognition from an incumbent U because of asserted doubt of U's majority status unless such doubt is based on objective considerations sufficient to afford E a reasonable ground for believing that its Ees no longer desire to be represented by the U; the asserted doubt, however, may not be raised in the context of any E activities aimed at causing Ee disaffection with the U]

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104

(computatioon to determine majority status of U must include both strikers and strike replacements at time of withdrawal of recognition)

8009-1100 Good-faith doubt of majority status justifies refusal to recognize

Stop N' Go Inc. 279 NLRB No. 052

[8(a)(5) violation finding and bargaining order inappropriate, notwithstanding E's numerous ULPs, where 27 cards of alleged 41-card majority in 69-Ee unit were not properly authenticated]

Bryan Memorial Hospital 279 NLRB No. 039

[withdrawal of recognition unlawful notwithstanding decert ptn filed and E furnished with 11 affidavits from unit members stating they no longer wanted U to represent them and that these 11 affiants knew that majority of unit members did not want U to represent them any longer but would not furnish their names as they requested anonymity, since E's receipt of Ees' unverified assertions that majority of Ees no longer support their U representative, is insufficient to create reasonable based doubt that claimed desire of those Ees is factual]

Cuello Industries, Inc., d/b/a Scroll Casual A Wholly Owned Subsidiary of Sunline Industries, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 005

[successor E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U unlawful, notwithstanding assertion of doubt of majority status because U's demand allegedly predated hire of representative complement of Ees where from start of operations all skills and work functions were in place, all anticipated production departments active and manned w/i two weeks, at time of demand and refusal to bargain U had presumption of continuing majority status in work force that remained relatively stable to date of ULP hearing, and prospect of real augmentation of workforce was mere speculation]

Redok Enterprises, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 101

(E receipt of Ee's unverified assertions that majority of Ees no longer support their U representative is insufficient to create reasonably based conviction that the claimed desire of those Ees to be rid of U is factual)

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104

(while normally incumbent U enjoys presumption of majority support, in construction industry certain contracts are lawful even in absence of majority support; therefore, presumption of continued majority does not always apply)

Wilder Construction 276 NLRB No. 104

(presumption rebutted where there is conflict of interest between strikers and their replacements (lawfully discharged strikers and their replacements))

Indiana Cabinet Company, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 169

(E's refusal to bargain over contract renewal based on good faith doubt of U's majority support, not violative where anti-U ptn which was source of E's good-faith doubt was unblemished by any ULP and contained signatures of majority of Ees)

Jackie Lee Enterprise, Inc. and Jackie Lee, Limited, Inc. JD-246-85

(no unlawful refusal to bargain by purchaser with U which represented Ees of seller E whom it was hiring, even assuming successor E, since E had objective basis for good faith doubt of U's majority prior to setting initial terms and conditions of employment, where all unit Ees informing E that they no longer desired U representation, but wanted to cut their own deal, notwithstanding Ees' retention of U membership to retain pension rights and other benefits, since their request for withdrawal cards after executing private employment agreement with E showed Ees had no desire to retain U as bargaining agent)

Abramo Fish Co. Ltd. JD-222-85

(purchaser not obligated to assume seller's contract and permitted to raise good-faith doubt of U's majority status where, although purchaser committed himself to retain all of seller's Ees, nothing in written agreements between it and seller revealed agreement to assume contract between seller and U)

Abramo Fish Co. Ltd. JD-222-85

(purchaser's asserted good-faith doubt of U's majority status justified its refusal to recognize and bargain with U representing seller's Ees; although unsuccessful attempts by 5 of 9 unit Ees to withdraw from U was not sufficient by itself to support claim of good-faith doubt, Ees' dissatisfaction with U was further signified when attempted withhdrawals are considered in context of pre-hire conversation with E which provided reasonable basis for concluding withdrawals expressed Ees' agreement with E's stated desire to operate non-U, which was fortified when Ees told E of their attempted withdrawals)

Save Mart of Modesto, Inc. JD-(SF)-25-85

(E did not unlawfully refuse to recognize U at new store notwithstanding after-acquired stores clause in labor contract and that all unit Ees in meat department were U members because evidence showed that unit Ees did not wish U to represent them, E told them before they transferred that department would be non-U to start out with and still they volunteered to go and these Ees resigned from U)

8009-1500 Good-faith doubt of majority status justifies refusal to bargain after certification year

Harley-Davidson Transportation Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 192

[successor lawfully withdrew from bargaining after 3 sessions and of voluntarily recognizing U that had been certified over year during predecessor's time on basis of good faith doubt evidenced by ptn signed by majority of Ees stating they no longer wanted U to be its representative. Change of ownership not treated as equivalent of certification or voluntary recognition of U following organizational drive since relationship between U and Ees not disturbed so all U has is presumption of majority status that may be rebutted at anytime w/o waiting reasonable period. Signatures on ptn need not be authenticated)

J. L. Davidson Company JD-(SF)-186-85

[E's refusal to execute contract, not violation where E was aware that Ees withdrew U's authority to represent them]

Landmark International Trucks, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 775 F.2d 148 (C.A. 6, Oct. 1985)

[successor E's withdrawing recognition from U, not violation, notwithstanding Bd's finding that E's letter requesting Ees to advise E of resignation from U provided no reasonable basis for E's decision that U had lost majority status, where there was abundant evidence, known to E at time of decision, of U's loss of majority status, including uncontradicted testimony that Bd had not considered because Bd found it hearsay]

8009-1550 Doubt not defense within certification year

Molded Acoustical Products, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 163

[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U w/i certification year after E relocated its operations, violative notwithstanding reduction in work force from 130 to 118, turnover in Ees, and E's reliance on statements from some Ees that they would not support strike and wanted to resign their U membership]

IMS Manufacturing Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 079

[successor E's refusal to bargain with U on grounds U had not made prompt demand (10 months later) and in any event E had good faith doubt of U's majority status, violative, since U demanded recognition during recertification year after winning decertification election at predecessor E and thus enjoyed irrebuttable presumption of majority status and E's alleged good faith doubt was based only on subjective beliefs and hearsay from unit Ees and a ptn purportedly signed by Ees denouncing U which E received after refusing to bargain with U]

N.L.R.B. v. Jarm Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Blu-Fountain Manor 785 F.2d 195 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[successor E's contention that it should not be ordered to bargain with U since predecessor's strike replacements should not be presumed to support U, rejected, since one year had not elapsed since U was certified and successor itself was responsible for not reinstating strikers, which itself was a ULP and thus, it cannot rely on that to support U's loss of majority status]

N.L.R.B. v. Best Products Co., Inc. 765 F.2d 903 (C.A. 9, July 1985)

(defense of U's alleged loss of majority support due to Ee turnover, rejected in view of irrebuttable presumption of continuing majority status for one year running from date of certification, which in instant case has been ordered to run from date that E begins good faith bargaining)

8009-2200 Doubt not defense if in fact refusal otherwise motivated

The Cincinnati Enquirer, Inc. JD-171-85

(E did not act in good faith where it withdrew recognition from U based on purported anti-U ptn, since it did not investigate or verify Ee signatures on untitled, obscure document, ignored Ee protests of its actions, soliciting authorization cards, and unilaterally implemented wage increases and other benefits)

8009-2700 Doubt no defense where employer has knowledge of union majority

Without Reservation 280 NLRB No. 165

[refusing to bargain with U pursuant to agreement to be bound by card count, which showed U represented majority of Ees, violation where E, by avoiding completion of verification of signatures procedures, sought to repudiate previously agreed on method of determining whether U majority existed]

Central Broadcast Company 280 NLRB No. 056

[E's reply to U demand letter asserting doubt of U's majority status, unlawful refusal to recognize and bargain where U had presented letters signed by seven out of eight unit Ees, the authority of which E did not question]

Crest Industries Corp. 276 NLRB No. 067

(E's refusal to bargain with U, and comply with U's demand for recognition, violative where E, by polling its Ees, had determined that majority of Ees wished to be represented by U)

Royal Vending Services, Ltd. 275 NLRB No. 173

(successor's contention of doubt of U's majority status rejected where successor knew at time it took over business that predecessor had been transmitting dues to U for six of eight Ees in unit)

White-Rodgers, Division of Emerson Electric Company JD-(ATL)-4-86

[E's withdrawal of recognition from U, assertedly because it had been presented ptn signed by majority of Ees renouncing U which established its good faith doubt, violative, since ptn was tainted by E's ULPs where E impliedly promised two Ees improvements in wages and pensions and threatened to freeze wages and benefits if they didn't support ptn and those two Ees then signed ptn which gave E a bare majroity to rely on in withdrawing recognition]

United Sheetmetal of Arizona, Inc. JD-(SF)-97-85

(E's contention that U did not enjoy majority support because U did not show that 8(f) status had transformed to that of 9(a) representative since no authorization cards had ever been presented and thus it had no duty to bargain, rejected, where E employed at all relevant times a core group of Ees so as to constitute a permanent and stable workforce as well as 28 other Ees throughout the season; further, all Ees were U members and E knew that none of its Ees would work with non-U Ees; fact that all Ees at all relevant times were U members is sufficient indicia of majority U support)

8009-4400 Filing of representation or decertification petition

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010

[filing of decertification ptn, standing alone, does not permit E to make unilateral changes]

Architectural Woodwork Corporation 280 NLRB No. 108

[unilateral change in overtime payment policy, violation, notwithstanding expiration of contract, where presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by good faith doubt based on decertification ptn that was unlawfully induced by E]

Hydro Conduit Corporation 278 NLRB No. 164

[Bd has consistently refused to allow litigation of RD's administrative determination as to objective considerations in support of RM ptn on grounds that this protects confidentiality of data submitted in support of ptn and permits expeditious resolution of issues concerning Ee choice of representative; however, an administrative determination that objective considerations support RM ptn is not determinative of E's obligation to engage in further bargaining]

Engineered Control Systems, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 191

(E's withdrawal of recognition of U at expiration of contract, unlawful, notwithstanding its contention that U had lost majority status, and any ULPs designed to undermine U were committed after ptn, as decertification ptn on which E relied as basis for loss of majority did not constitute valid basis for good faith doubt of majority status, since only 1 out of 3 Ees in unit had signed ptn and ULPs committed after ptn were such that it may have been reason Ee refused to support U)

Weiser Optical Company — 274 NLRB No. 143
(E's refusal to provide U with relevant and necessary information, assertedly because of good-faith doubt of U's majority status, violative, where E unlawfully encouraged Ees to sponsor decertification ptn thus tainting ptn and E's good-faith doubt)

Rescar, Inc. — 274 NLRB No. 001
(E's advising U that a decertification ptn had been filed and that it would not bargain further until that qcr was resolved, not violative under Telautograph rule, which was not overruled by Dresser Industries until after E's refusal to bargain in instant case, since Dresser was not applied retroactively)

Kelly Broadcasting Company d/b/a DCRA--TV — 273 NLRB No. 206
(notwithstanding that under Dresser, 264 NLRB 1088, E and incumbent U required to bargain and execute any agreed upon contract even though decertification ptn filed, E and U may by mutual agreement defer effective and execution date of any contract reached until decertification ptn is resolved, and refusal of E to sign this contract with incumbent U until such resulution, not violative)

Hennessy Products, Inc. — 273 NLRB No. 190
(in agreeing with ALJ that no violation existed under Telautograph Corp., Bd noted that, while overruling Telautograph in Dresser Industries, it decided to apply Dresser prospectively and would not find unlawful actions taken while Telautograph was law; accordingly, E's refusal, because of decertification ptn filed during strike, to furnish U Ees' names, addresses, work classifications and wage rates and information concerning status of laid off strikers was not unlawful, specifically because of unusual factual matrix herein and lack of any pending grievance or existence of current or recently expired contract)

Radisson Muehlebach Hotel — 273 NLRB No. 183
(fact certification of results of decertification election was pending before Bd at time E refused to process grievances through arbitration found no defense to refusal, since, under Telautograph Corporation, which governs this case, E could cease to bargain until decertification matter was resolved, but must permit U to continue to administer its contract and process grievances)

Spring Valley Farms, Inc. — JD-(ATL)-54-86
[filing of decertification ptn w/i certification year did not serve to remove E's legal obligation to sign agreement reached, where agreement reached w/ i certification year]

Benjamin Pontiac Inc. — JD-(NY)-82-85
(U's contention that E's refusal to bargain based on filing of decertification ptn signed by majority of unit Ees not valid basis for E's good faith doubt of U's majority, because signatures on ptn were obtained with promises of improved pension benefits by one of E's car salesmen allegedly cloaked by E with authority to act in E's interest, rejected, where salesman's only duty beyond that of other salesmen was purely clerical and ministerial function of filling out salesmen's commission statements)

N.L.R.B. v. Auto Fast Freight, Inc. — 793 F.2d 1126 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[decertification ptn no defense to E's unilateral changes where it was filed after unlawful cessation of health and welfare fund payments, institution of new medical plan, reduction in wages, and constructive discharges of Ees for refusing to resign from U]

8009-5300 Indicia of bad faith in asserting doubt

8009-5517 Antiunion conduct

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital — 280 NLRB No. 011
[E's withdrawal of recognition of U, unlawful, since its assertion of doubt of U's majority not made in context free of ULPs of type aimed at causing disaffection from U where supervisor had unlawfully solicited resignations from U from striking Ees]

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 152
(U's loss of majority status and signing of ptn by half of unit Ees repudiating U tainted by E's ULPs where E dealt directly with Ees, threatened Ees that, if U did not accept E's contract proposals, but at same time promising that if Ees went non-U E would increase wages, grant health and welfare benefits as good or better than U plan, and offer financial assistance to Ees who wished to purchase own trucks and work for E as owner-operators; some of Ees were present when statements were made, and there was short time between statement and signing of ptn, supporting inference that statements were proximate cause of at least one Ee signing ptn)

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. — 275 NLRB No. 152
(E's unlawful threat of loss of jobs if E's contract proposals were not accepted did not taint U's loss of majority, as evidenced by ptn repudiating U signed by 7 out of 14 unit members, where threat took place 4 months prior to signing of ptn and did not involve any Ees who signed ptn)

8009-5525 Unfair labor practices

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division — 281 NLRB No. 113
[E was precluded from relying on Ee-ptns repudiating U and E's withdrawal of recognition violative, where E engaged in numerous violations of 8(a)(1) prior to and simultaneous with circulation of ptns by soliciting Ee repudiation of U, interrogating Ees about U sympathies, promising Ees better benefits w/o U and urging Ees to persuade coworkers to withdraw support from U; E may not rely on defense that some Ees were unaware of E's unlawful conduct where E's activity was aimed specifically at causing Ee disaffection from U since such conduct bars any reliance on disaffection]

Ryder System, Inc.; Ryder Distribution Systems, Inc.; and DPD, Inc. — 280 NLRB No. 118
[successor E's refusal to bargain with U, on grounds U did not enjoy majority support, violative, notwithstanding U did not have actual majority support of Ees hired where, but for E's discrimminatory refusal to hire predecessor's Ees, U would have enjoyed majority support; U's majority support in such instance is presumed as a matter of law]

Toyota of San Francisco — 280 NLRB No. 093
[E's withdrawal of recognition on basis of ptn signed by 34 out of 63 Ees in unit, unlawful, where E has engaged in numerous unremedied ULPs which probably contributed to Ees' dissatisfaction with U]

Architectural Woodwork Corporation — 280 NLRB No. 108
[unilateral change in overtime payment policy, violation, notwithstanding expiration of contract, where presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by good faith doubt based on decertification ptn that was unlawfully induced by E]

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital — 280 NLRB No. 011
[E's withdrawal of recognition of U, unlawful, since its assertion of doubt of U's majority not made in context free of ULPs of type aimed at causing disaffection from U where supervisor had unlawfully solicited resignations from U from striking Ees]

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital — 280 NLRB No. 011
[testimony of only 4 Ees out of complement of approximately 100 Ees sufficient to carry burden that supervisor's conduct was unlawful. Nor does it satisfy E's burden of establishing that its asserted objective considerations arose in atmosphere free from coercion in support of its affirmative defense of good-faith doubt of U's majority support]

American Fluorescent Corp. — 275 NLRB No. 154
(Bd has indicated that it is necessary to evaluate totality of circumstances including nature of ULPs committed (by parties) and that commission of prior ULPs (by same parties) does not per se preclude good-faith doubt)

White-Rodgers, Division of Emerson Electric Company — JD-(ATL)-4-86
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U, assertedly because it had been presented ptn signed by majority of Ees renouncing U which established its good faith doubt, violative, since ptn was tainted by E's ULPs where E impliedly promised two Ees improvements in wages and pensions and threatened to freeze wages and benefits if they didn't support ptn and those two Ees then signed ptn which gave E a bare majroity to rely on in withdrawing recognition]

N.L.R.B. v. Auto Fast Freight, Inc. — 793 F.2d 1126 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[decertification ptn no defense to E's unilateral changes where it was filed after unlawful cessation of health and welfare fund payments, institution of new medical plan, reduction in wages, and constructive discharges of Ees for refusing to resign from U]

8009-7700 Employer may require proof of majority

8009-7750 But employer may not reject reasonable mode of proof

Without Reservation — 280 NLRB No. 165
[refusing to bargain with U pursuant to agreement to be bound by card count, which showed U represented majority of Ees, violation where E, by avoiding completion of verification of signatures procedures, sought to repudiate previously agreed on method of determining whether U majority existed]

8009-8800 Fluctuation in employment does not support asserted doubt

ACL Corporation d/b/a Atlanta Hilton & Towers — 278 NLRB No. 076
[E's withdrawal of recognition from U and refusal to bargain assertedly based on good faith doubt of U's majority status because checkoffs had decreased, Ees told E they didn't want the U and E had experienced high turnovers, violative, since absence of majority of Ees from checkoff does not establish lack of majority support, Ee statements were no more than general criticism and dissatisfaction and turnover was amongst only a small minority of overall unit which did not rebut presumption that new Ees support U in proportion to Ees with more seniority]

[E unlawfully withdrew recognition from U where, in prior case, Bd ordered E to give retroactive effect to contract reached by E and U, thereby giving rise to presumption that E's majority status was in effect at time E withdrew recognition; E's defense that U had lost, or E had good faith doubt of, U's majority status, predicated solely on Ee ptn assertedly showing Ees' disaffectionwith U, rejected, where circumstances surrounding solicitation of ptn signatures and ptn's language indicated ptn was meant to precipitate Ee ratification vote on E's proposed contract]

Molded Acoustical Products, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 163
[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U w/i certification year after E relocated its operations, violative notwithstanding reduction in work force from 130 to 118, turnover in Ees, and E's reliance on statements from some Ees that they would not support strike and wanted to resign their U membership]

Round Hill Foods, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 114
(E's refusal to execute agreed upon contract with U, assertedly because it had good faith doubt of U's majority status as E had learned that Ee attendance at U meetings was very low and only 13 out of 227 unit Ees had attended a U meeting to ratify contract, violative, since such matters are purely intra-U matters and cannot be relied upon in asserting good faith doubt of U's majority status)

American Threat Company 274 NLRB No. 164

Tooling and Equipment International Corporation, Successor to Automotive Pattern Company JD-334-85
(E's refusal to bargain with U as successor E, not violative, since U did not enjoy majority support at time it demanded recognition, notwithstanding E had no knowledge of this fact, where most of the U member Ees attempted to withdraw from U prior to time U demanded recognition, Ees refused, upon request from U, to organize E and there was no evidence that E caused the Ee disaffection)

Jackie Lee Enterprise, Inc. and Jackie Lee, Limited, Inc. JD-246-85

[E's consolidation/relocation of facilities to a different part of town, withdrawal of recognition from U at new location once Ees at old locations had been transferred to new location and refusal to bargain with U over effects of decision to consolidate/relocate, violative, where there was no substantial change in operations following the consolidation/relocation and once Ees were transferred to new location with other unrepresented Ees, those transferred constituted a majority of Ees who still desired U representation]

Molded Acoustical Products, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 163
[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U w/i certification year after E relocated its operations, violative notwithstanding reduction in work force from 130 to 118, turnover in Ees, and E's reliance on statements from some Ees that they would not support strike and wanted to resign their U membership]

Harte & Company, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 128

Existing contract will remain in effect after relocation if operations are substantially same and if Ees from old plant constitute approximately 40% or more of new Ee complement. In relocation situations determining whether U should continue to represent Ees at new location involves balancing of newly hired Ees' interest in choosing whether or not to have U representation against transferees' interest in retaining fruits of their collective activity]

Phillip A. Hunt Corporation JD-14-86
[E's refusal to bargain with U and to recognize new plant as accretion to existing unit or to recognize U as exclusive bargaining representative of new plant's Ees, or by failing to apply bargaining agreement to those plant Ees, not violative, since new plant was found not to be accretion to existing unit]

Eastern Connecticut Health Services, Inc. d/b/a New London Convalescent Home 274 NLRB No. 204
(E's defense to refusal to bargain that it was not obligated to do so because of fact that, after certification, U disaffiliated with one national U and reaffiliated with another w/o notifying unit members of, or giving them an opportunity to vote on, reaffiliation raised material issues of fact and law such that Bd ordered hearing limited to issue of whether U's reaffiliation comported with Amoco Production Co. due process standards and whether E was obligated to bargain with reaffiliated U)

The Cincinnati Enquirer, Inc. JD-171-85

[successor E's refusal to bargain on grounds predecessor E unlawfully recognized U in separate units of Ees, violative, since, even though predecessor E's recognition of U in separate units may have been improper in view of that certified by Bd, successor E is barred by 10(b) from challenging that recognition; to allow successor E to challenge that recognition would upset successful 12-year bargaining relationship and revive problems long ago put to rest]

8020-6000 Demand for bargaining in unit other than certified or recognized

Syncor International Corporation 282 NLRB No. 063
[scope of established bargaining unit is non-mandatory. However, party may lawfully propose change in scope of unit and parties may in certain circumstances agree to change or change can be accomplished by Bd proceedings, but never by unilateral action by party]

G.M. Trimming, Inc., et al., Debtor-In-Possession, and George Marks 279 NLRB No. 121
[bargaining agreement between U and 1 company, deemed part of single integrated enterprise with other companies, did not extend to Ees of other companies in enterprise which were also held to be alter ego of individual in whom ownership of all companies ultimately vested, and E not obligated to make payments into benefit and pension funds on those Ees behalf, since U acquiesced in Ees' exclusion where U aware of woner's propensity for securing corporate insulation against indebtedness by operating through as many distinct and separate business entities as his needs required]

Ida Lace, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 035

[GC's mtn for summary judgment in refusal to bargain case granted and E's contention that summary judgment was inappropriate since U's bargaining demand was invalid in that it requested bargaining for unit different than that certified by Bd, rejected; although U's demand neglected to include one group of Ees certified, request clearly referred to certified unit in R case and E admitted U made request to bargain]

8020-7500 Bargaining in unit not certifiable by Board

ACL Corporation d/b/a Atlanta Hilton & Towers 278 NLRB No. 076

[E's withdrawal of recognition from U and refusal to bargain, on grounds unit was inappropriate because it contained Ees employed as guards, violative, where Ees in dispute were in no way entrusted with the protection of E's premises or safety of persons; further, if E believes certain individuals should be excluded from unit because of guard status, proper procedure is unit clarification, not withdrawal of recognition. See Bd's R/R's 102.60(b) and 102.61(d)]

8023 NOT BOUND BY MULTIEMPLOYER BARGAINING

8023-0100 Generally

Sam Bennion and Earl Garr d/b/a Hillsdale Inn, a partnership v. N.L.R.B. (Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union, Local 340) 764 F.2d 739 (C.A. 10, June 1985)

(test to determine multi-E unit's apparent authority to negotiate bargaining agreement is whether employer has indicated from outset unequivocal intention to be bound by group action and whether U has been notified of existence of group and delegation of bargaining authority to it and has asserted to and entered upon negotiations with group's representative)

8023-2500 Withdrawal timely

American Bank Note Company 281 NLRB No. 099

[E can withdraw from multi-E bargaining upon written notice made prior to date set by contract for modification of existing contract or prior to agreed upon date to begin negotiations, see Retail Associates, Inc. 120 NLRB 388 (1958)]

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073

[E's failure to make health and welfare contributions, and instituting unilateral changes in wages and other conditions of employment, unlawful, notwithstanding its alter ego's midterm withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit timely and effective, since alter ego E still bound by agreement executed prior to alter ego's withdrawal and still in effect; further, even if not bound by terms of agreement, its failure to bargain regarding mandatory subjects of bargaining, prior to change, unalwful]

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073

[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U which represented Ees of which it was held alter ego, unlawful, notwithstanding E of which it was held alter ego had timely and effectively withdrawn from multi-E bargaining unit]

The Setterlin Company JD-56-86

[unilateral changes lawful after timely and lawful withdrawal from multi-E association and impasse in bargaining separately with U]

Pleasanton Plastics, Inc. JD-(SF)-15-85

(E had timely withdrawn from multi-E bargaining where it gave unequivocal notice of withdrawal prior to commencement of bargaining for new agreement; contention that meetings prior to notice constituted negotiations, and hence notice untimely, rejected, since meetings merely exploratory exchange of ideas outside formal negotiation channels, not did letter written in response to U request that Es put their concerns in writing commence negotiations)

8023-3700 Withdrawal unequivocal

American Bank Note Company 281 NLRB No. 099

[E can withdraw from multi-E bargaining upon written notice made prior to date set by contract for modification of existing contract or prior to agreed upon date to begin negotiations, see Retail Associates, Inc. 120 NLRB 388 (1958)]

Edward Cooper Painting, and Cooper and Cooper Painting, An Alter Ego 273 NLRB No. 224

Intention to withdraw must be unequivocal, and exercised at an appropriate time, apparent willingness of secretary and principal official of E collective bargaining group to allow E to drop out of E bargaining group, absence of any pending negotiations at time of withdrawal as well as its timely letter to group, non-payment of dues to group, expressed intent to operate non-U shop and unequivocal withdrawal (by letter) from E bargaining group was valid withdrawal)

The Setterlin Company JD-56-86

[unilateral changes lawful after timely and lawful withdrawal from multi-E association and impasse in bargaining separately with U]

Sam Bennion and Earl Garr d/b/a Hillsdale Inn, a partnership v. N.L.R.B. (Bartenders and Culinary Workers Union, Local 340) 764 F.2d 739 (C.A. 10, June 1985)

(E's repudiation of bargaining agreements reached through multi-E bargaining, violative notwithstanding E's contention that negotiations were entered and agreements reached w/o E's real or apparent authority, where E allowed its managers to sign authorizations for association to bargain on E's behalf over three-year period, observed terms of agreements negotiated by association, and used lawyer recommended by association to negotiate settlement agreement with U)

8023-5600 Withdrawal untimely

Elevator Sales and Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 094

[E's withdrawal from E-association held untimely, where written notice was not sent to either international U or local U prior to parties' commencement of negotiations]

8023-6700 Unusual circumstances in untimely withdrawal

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073

[E's failure to make health and welfare contributions, and instituting unilateral changes in wages and other conditions of employment, unlawful, notwithstanding its alter ego's midterm withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit timely and effective, since alter ego E still bound by agreement executed prior to alter ego's withdrawal and still in effect; further, even if not bound by terms of agreement, its failure to bargain regarding mandatory subjects of bargaining, prior to change, unalwful]

Jo-Vin Dress Company, Inc. and Villa Fashions, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 073

[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U which represented Ees of which it was held alter ego, unlawful, notwithstanding E of which it was held alter ego had timely and effectively withdrawn from multi-E bargaining unit]

Thermo Heating, Inc. JD-(SF)-16-85

(E's refusal to abide by terms of Extension of Agreement negotiated on its behalf by multi-E association which had effect of decreasing wages and extending duration of current contract, on grounds that extreme financial conditions permitted untimely withdrawal from association, violative, where, although E could show it was experiencing financial losses, E did not show that adherence to negotiated agreement would worsen its financial condition or that it was in no position to adhere to agreement)

N.L.R.B. v. Jack E. Hartman, a Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Dependable Tile Company 774 F.2d 1376 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1985)

N.L.R.B. v. Jack E. Hartman, a Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Dependable Tile Company 774 F.2d 1376 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1985)

[signing of bargaining agreement with U by members of E association located in one city separate from agreement signed by E members in another city not fragmentation of multi-E unit that would constitute unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal of E from multi-E unit, since Es which signed such separate agreement represented less that 7 per cent of Ees bound by negotiations, notwithstanding constituted third of Ees bound by negotiations]

8023-6800 No unit employees or one-man unit

American Bank Note Company 281 NLRB No. 099

[E's untimely effort to withdraw from multi-E association and withdrawal of recognition from bargaining representative, violative, notwithstanding E had one-man unit. While E could have withdrawn from bargaining unit in timely fashion, its failure to avail itself of this procedure now precludes legal withdrawal. Further, while one-man unit is grounds for refusal to bargain, if E voluntarily recognizes unit representative, which E did by being member of association, then one-man unit is valid]

N.L.R.B. v. Jack E. Hartman, a Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Dependable Tile Company 774 F.2d 1376 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1985)

[U did not consent to E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining by failing to object to omission of E's name from list of E association members, where U announced it considered purported withdrawals mere bargaining tactics, absent affirmative actions antithetical to claim no withdrawal had occured, notwithstanding U's attempt to get E to sign interim agreement, and U's continuation of strike against E]

8023-9700 Effect of Section 10(b) 6-month limitation

Elevator Sales and Service, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 094

[E's contention that C allegations that E repudiated bargaining agreement were time-barred by virtue of 10(b), rejected, notwithstanding E's assertion that E withdrew from multi-E bargaining association more than 6 months before charges were filed and that U knew of existence of E's alter ego for more than 6 months before it filed charges, since refusal to execute and apply agreement triggered 10(b) period, which did not begin to run until U learned that work was being performed contrary to terms of agreement]

8027 LOSS OF MAJORITY (SEE ALSO 530-4080-5000)

8027-0400 No defense where raised after commission of ULP

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division 281 NLRB No. 113

[E may not lawfully withdraw recognition from an incumbent U because of asserted doubt of U's majority status unless such doubt is based on objective considerations sufficient to afford E a reasonable ground for believing that its Ees no longer desire to be represented by the U; the asserted doubt, however, may not be raised in the context of any E activities aimed at causing Ee disaffection with the U]

Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital 280 NLRB No. 011

[E's withdrawal of recognition of U, unlawful, since its assertion of doubt of U's majority not made in context free of ULPs of type aimed at causing disaffection from U where supervisor had unlawfully solicited resignations from U from striking Ees]

Taylor Hospital 279 NLRB No. 006

[E's withdrawal of recognition from U based on ptn signed by majority of unit Ees, violative, where E's withdrawal of recognition was at a time when there remained an unremedied unlawful discharge of a long-time leading U supporter and member of U's bargaining team at the outset of long-delayed negotiations; because of the serious ULP of discharge, E is precluded from effectively relying on its asserted doubt of U's majority status]

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 152

(E's withdrawal of recognition based on U's loss of majority status, unlawful, where proximate cause of loss was E's ULPs including threats, loss of benefits, and direct dealings with Ees which caused at least one Ee to sign statement repudiating U and w/o this Ee's signature less than half of unit Ees would have signed ptn)

N.L.R.B. v. Jarm Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Blu-Fountain Manor 785 F.2d 195 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[successor E's contention that it should not be ordered to bargain with U since predecessor's strike replacements should not be presumed to support U, rejected, since one year had not elapsed since U was certified and successor itself was responsible for not reinstating strikers, which itself was a ULP and thus, it cannot rely on that to support U's loss of majority status]

N.L.R.B. v. Auto Fast Freight, Inc. 793 F.2d 1126 (C.A. 9, July 1986)

[decertification ptn no defense to E's unilateral changes where it was filed after unlawful cessation of health and welfare fund payments, institution of new medical plan, reduction in wages, and constructive discharges of Ees for refusing to resign from U]

8027-0900 Employee turnover

Molded Acoustical Products, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 163

[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U w/i certification year after E relocated its operations, violative notwithstanding reduction in work force from 130 to 118, turnover in Ees, and E's reliance on statements from some Ees that they would not support strike and wanted to resign their U membership]

Mid-State Distributing Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 175

[E answer to technical 8(a)(5) C raises no litigable issues, where certain matters were litigated in representation proceeding and other assertedly previously unavailable evidence of post-election turnover and addition of new Ees to unit through acquisition of another distributorship did not constitute unusual circumstances sufficient to relieve E of duty to bargain]

Allis Chalmers Corporation 278 NLRB No. 082

[Ee turnover does not support finding U has lost its majority because it is assumed absent contrary evidence, that new Ees will be U supporters in same ratio as those they replace]

H & H Pretzel Company 277 NLRB No. 143

(withdrawal of recognition after contract expired, violation, since presumption of continued majority status was not rebutted by E's contention that its change to distributor dealerships converted Ees to independent contractors in view of E's retention of right of control and fact that nine out of twelve Ees were new hires which did not establish loss of majority support, as turnover alone cannot do so)

Royal Vending Services, Ltd. 275 NLRB No. 173

(Ee turnover not valid basis of assertion of doubt of U majority status by successor E where it admitted that it did not consider this factor in determining Ees' support for U)

A & L Investment Corporation JD-(SF)-108-85

(successor E's refusal to bargain with U on grounds that 20 months had passed since Ees elected U at predecessor E and Ee turnover since that time required new election, violative, since Ee turnover was irrelevant on question of Ee sentiment where certification year was still in effect at successor E (it being extended because of predecessor E's refusal to bargain) and thus, U enjoyed irrebutable presumption of majority status)

8027-1900 Failure of employees to join strike

Ashe Brick Company 280 NLRB No. 162

[E's doubt of U's majority status not based on objective considerations and did not justify withdrawal of recognition, where doubt based on fact it did not hear from U for over 3 months and that support for on going strike had dwindled, since U did contact mediators, and strikers who cross picket line are not presumed to have withdrawn support from U, and absent other evidence strikers no longer desired U to represent them]

Molded Acoustical Products, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 163

[E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U w/i certification year after E relocated its operations, violative notwithstanding reduction in work force from 130 to 118, turnover in Ees, and E's reliance on statements from some Ees that they would not support strike and wanted to resign their U membership]

8027-2700 Replacement of ULP strikers

N.L.R.B. v. Jarm Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Blu-Fountain Manor 785 F.2d 195 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[successor E's contention that it should not be ordered to bargain with U since predecessor's strike replacements should not be presumed to support U, rejected, since one year had not elapsed since U was certified and successor itself was responsible for not reinstating strikers, which itself was a ULP and thus, it cannot rely on that to support U's loss of majority status]

8027-3600 Not defense where employer is responsible for loss

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division 281 NLRB No. 113

[E was precluded from relying on Ee-ptns repudiating U and E's withdrawal of recognition violative, where E engaged in numerous violations of 8(a)(1) prior to and simultaneous with circulation of ptns by soliciting Ee repudiation of U, interrogating Ees about U sympathies, promising Ees better benefits w/o U and urging Ees to persuade coworkers to withdraw support from U; E may not rely on defense that some Ees were unaware of E's unlawful conduct where E's activity was aimed specifically at causing Ee disaffection from U since such conduct bars any reliance on disaffection]

Ryder System, Inc.; Ryder Distribution Systems, Inc.; and DPD, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 110

[successor E's refusal to bargain with U, on grounds U did not enjoy majority support, violative, notwithstanding U did not have actual majority support of Ees hired where, but for E's discriminatory refusal to hire predecessor's Ees, U would have enjoyed majority support; U's majority support in such instance is presumed as a matter of law]

Chaim Bahad, et al., A Co-Partnership, d/b/a Tilden Arms Management Co. and Toby Estates, Inc., a Single Employer 276 NLRB No. 117

(successor E's refusal to bargain, violative, notwithstanding lack of same work force, where successor E bribed some of predecessor's Ees to quit and unlawfully refused to rehire them, so that U would lose majority status and successor would have no duty to bargain)

8027-4800 Change in unit

Bay Breeze Industries, Inc., d/b/a Lloyd Flanders 280 NLRB No. 133

8027-5400 Plant relocation

Central Soya Company, Inc. 231 NLRB No. 173

[E's consolidation/relocation of facilities to a different part of town, withdrawal of recognition from U at new location once Ees at old locations had been transferred to new location and refusal to bargain with U over effects of decision to consolidate/relocate, violative, where there was no substantial change in operations following the consolidation/relocation and once Ees were transferred to new location with other unrepresented Ees, those transferred constituted a majority of Ees who still desired U representation]

8027-7200 Replacement of non-ULP strikers

Whisper Soft Mills, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 754 F.2d 1381 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1984)

(E's withdrawal of recogntion at end of certification year on grounds that substantial majority of unit was comprised of Ees who crossed picket line, not violative, since Ee turnover may be considered in determining E's good faith doubt where a demand for reinstatement by striking Ees at time E withdrew recognition would result in loss of employment for majority of striking Ees; and further, presumption that strike replacements support U in same ratio as strikers, rejected)

8027-7500 Lack of activity on part of bargaining representative

Cowles Publishing Company 280 NLRB No. 105

[E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to execute contract and furnish information to U on unit Ees, on grounds U had abandoned unit thus giving E good faith doubt, violative, since U had not abandoned unit where, although U had experienced some turnover in its representatives, this had happened only once, U did continue to process grievances and had U steward present at E's plant and fact that U's negotiator told E once during negotiations that contract w/o U security was not worth the paper it was written on, and U failed to secure this demand, was not evidence of abandonment]

IMS Manufacturing Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 079

[successor E's refusal to bargain with U on grounds U had not made prompt demand (10 months later) and in any event E had good faith doubt of U's majority status, violative, since U demanded recognition during recertification year after winning decertification election at predecessor E and thus enjoyed irrebuttable presumption of majority status and E's alleged good faith doubt was based only on subjective beliefs and hearsay from unit Ees and a ptn purportedly signed by Ees denouncing U which E received after refusing to bargain with U]

Norsk Hydro Aluminum, Inc. JD-(ATL)-14-86

[E's withdrawal of recognition from U, not violative, where E received ptn signed by majority of Ees signifying they no longer wished representation by U, majority of Ees had voiced dissatisfaction with U to E, U president resigned from U in middle of negotiations and there was a lack of observable U activity w/i the plant]

8027-8300 Disinterest of unit members

Round Hill Foods, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 114

(E's refusal to execute agreed upon contract with U, assertedly because it had good faith doubt of U's majority status as E had learned that Ee attendance at U meetings was very low and only 13 out of 227 unit Ees had attended a U meeting to ratify contract, violative, since such matters are purely intra-U matters and cannot be relied upon in asserting good faith doubt of U's majority status)

Bertolucci's Fender and Body Shop, Inc. JD-(SF)-143-85

(Ees' failure to attend ratification meeting no defense to E's prior unilateral changes)

8027-9000 Employee petition repudiating bargaining representative

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital 282 NLRB No. 010

[filing of decertification ptn, standing alone, does not permit E to make unilateral changes]

The Hearst Corporation, San Antonio Light Division 281 NLRB No. 113

[E was precluded from relying on Ee-ptns repudiating U and E's withdrawal of recognition violative, where E engaged in numerous violations of 8(a)(1) prior to and simultaneous with circulation of ptns by soliciting Ee repudiation of U, interrogating Ees about U sympathies, promising Ees better benefits w/o U and urging Ees to persuade coworkers to withdraw support from U; E may not rely on defense that some Ees were unaware of E's unlawful conduct where E's activity was aimed specifically at causing Ee disaffection from U since such conduct bars any reliance on disaffection]

Rockwood & Company and W. H. Gonyea Trust No. 1–17 d/b/a Timber Products Co. 281 NLRB No. 117

[E unlawfully withdrew recognition from U where, in prior case, Bd ordered E to give retroactive effect to contract reached by E and U, thereby giving rise to presumption that E's majority status was in effect at time E withdrew recognition; E's defense that U had lost, or E had good faith doubt of, U's majority status, predicated solely on Ee ptn asseretedly showing Ees' disaffectionwith U, rejected, where circumstances surrounding solicitation of ptn signatures and ptn's language indicated ptn was meant to precipitate Ee ratification vote on E's proposed contract]

Beverly Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Parkview Gardens Care Center 280 NLRB No. 005

[notwithstanding E's no solicitation rule, rule not applied disparately by allowing decertification ptn to circulate as E also allowed solicitations among Ees for charitable and private business purposes. Further, ptn not tainted either as E did not assist in formulation and circulation of ptn]

Beverly Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Parkview Gardens Care Center 280 NLRB No. 005

[U decertification ptn tainted and E's withdrawal of recognition and unilateral changes in conditions of employment in reliance thereon, unlawful, where e had made statements informing Ees that in order to keep working during anticipated strike they would have to resign from U, and in view of small majority of Ees who signed decertification ptn]

Boaz Carpet Yarns, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 004

[E's withdrawal of recognition, not violation where Ees' ptn expressing disaffection with U provided objective evidence pursuant to which E had filed election ptn, which E had filed election ptn, which was blocked by U's filing of ULP charges, but E had verified Ees' dissafection with U by fairly conducted poll by secret ballot]

IMS Manufacturing Company, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 079

[successor E's refusal to bargain with U on grounds U had not made prompt demand (10 months later) and in any event E had good faith doubt of U's majority status, violative, since U demanded recognition during recertification year after winning decertification election at predecessor E and thus enjoyed irrebuttable presumption of majority status and E's alleged good faith doubt was based only on subjective beliefs and hearsay from unit Ees and a ptn purportedly signed by Ees denouncing U which E received after refusing to bargain with U]

BASF-Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 068

(E's withdrawal of recognition during term of contract, on grounds that majority of Ees had signed ptn repudiating U and it had been presented with letter of disclaimer signed by members of local U's Executive Committee, violative, since majority status of U is irrebuttably presumed during term of contract and further, contract was signed and administered by both the local and International U and International had in no way disclaimed its bargaining rights and after learning of actions by its local, International informed E that local was in receivership and it would continue servicing the contract)

Bay Area-Los Angeles Express, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 152

(E's withdrawal of recognition based on U's loss of majority status, unlawful, where proximate cause of loss was E's ULPs including threats, loss of benefits, and direct dealings with Ees which caused at least one Ee to sign statement repudiating U and w/o this Ee's signature less than half of unit Ees would have signed ptn)

Weiner Optical Company 274 NLRB No. 143

(E's refusal to provide U with relevant and necessary information, assertedly because of good-faith doubt of U's majority status, violative, where E unlawfully encouraged Ees to sponsor decertification ptn thus tainting ptn and E's good-faith doubt)

Sun Coast Foods, Inc. 273 NLRB No. 203

(successor E's refusal to bargain with U which had represented Ees of predecessor E, not unlawful, where E did engage in dilatory tactics upon receipt of demand for bargaining, but was subsequently presented with ptn signed by majority of Ees expressing desire not to be represented by U, and was found by Bd not to have committed any ULPs)

Harley-Davidson Transportation Co., Inc. 273 NLRB No. 192

]successor lawfully withdrew from bargaining after 3 sessions and of voluntarily recognizing U that had been certified over year during predecessor's time on basis of good faith doubt evidenced by ptn signed by majority of Ees stating they no longer wanted U to be its representative. Change of ownership not treated as equivalent of certification or voluntary recognition of U following organizational drive since relationship between U and Ees not disturbed so all U has is presumption of majority status that may be rebutted at anytime w/o waiting reasonable period. Signatures on ptn need not be authenticated)

Duct-O-Wire Company JD-(ATL)-3-86

[E's withdrawal of recognition, based on decertification ptn signed by majority of unit Ees, not violative where E rebutted presumption of majority status by demonstrating on date of withdrawal, and in context free of ULPs, U 1) in fact had lost its majority status and 2) that withdrawal was predicated on reasonable doubt, based on objective considerations, of U's majority status]

8027-9000—Cont.

Bartolucci's Fender and Body Shop, Inc. JD-(SF)-143-85

8027-9800 Checkoff authorizations

Imperial House Condominium, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 154
[presumption of U's continued majority status not rebutted on ground U lost Ee support as shown by withdrawal of Ee authorizations for dues deductions, since decline in dues authorizations in right-to-work state, as here, lends very little support to doubt of majority status inasmuch as other possible explanations may exist for worker not to pay dues even though he still favors U representation; here, most Ees withdrew authorizations for financial reasons or simply because fellow Ees did so, and they unambiguously expressed intention that U continue to represent them]

8031 EMPLOYER MAY NOT RELY ON EMPLOYEE'S RIGHTS IN REFUSAL TO RECOGNIZE OR BARGAIN

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation 278 NLRB No. 118
[U's continued majority status presumed after expiration of contract, despite E's claim that U failed to fairly represent unit Ees' interests, where there was no ambiguity in unit description, no evidence of U-E understanding negating intent to enter into collective-bargaining relationship, and no evidence of existence of relationship inimical to Act's fundamental policy or standard; insofar as facts may have shown inept, ineffective or unfair representation, Ees may assert their interests through intra-U, Bd or other legal procedures, but E may not defend refusal to bargain on these grounds]

8031-8000 Lack of employee ratification of contract

Stoblex of South Carolina, Inc. JD-(ATL)-64-86
[E did not unlawfully refuse to execute agreement to which ratification by Ees or U members was condition precedent, where Ees initially rejected contract by written vote, but then assertedly accepted contract by showing of hands after they were told it was necessary to either vote to strike or accept contract, since, notwithstanding contract ratification procedure does not need to be written and is generally considered internal U matter not subject to question by E, once having followed procedure, U is not free to ignore results and adopt different procedure]

8032 BAD FAITH ON PART OF UNION

United Sheetmetal of Arizona, Inc. JD-(SF)-97-85
(E conduct during bargaining of referring to many of U's proposals as illegal, i.e., non-mandatory, refusing to discuss U's proposals when indeed some of them were mandatory subjects and offering overly regressive proposals than previously offered to U in areas such as wages and benefits when there had been no change in E's business to justify the regressive proposals, not violative, where U insisted during negotiations of inclusion of non-mandatory subjects in any final contract, i.e., interest arbitration and supervisory work, thus warranting conclusion that U also bargained in bad faith)

8033 UNION POSITION INCONSISTENT WITH ITS OBLIGATION TO REPRESENT EMPLOYEES

G.M. Trimming, Inc., et al., Debtor-In-Possession, and George Marks 279 NLRB No. 121
[bargaining agreement between U and 1 company, deemed part of single integrated enterprise with other companies, did not extend to Ees of other companies in enterprise which were also held to be alter ego of individual in whom ownership of all companies ultimately vested, and E not obligated to make payments into benefit and pension funds on those Ees behalf, since U acquiesced in Ees' exclusion where U aware of woner's propensity for securing corporate insulation against indebtedness by operating through as many distinct and separate business entities as his needs required]

Ida Lace, Inc. 278 NLRB No. 035
[GC's mtn for summary judgment in refusal to bargain case granted and E's contention that summary judgment was inappropriate since U's bargaining demand was invalid in that it requested bargaining for unit different than that certified by Bd, rejected; although U's demand neglected to include one group of Ees certified, request clearly referred to certified unit in R case and E admitted U made request to bargain]

Samaritan Health Center, Deaconess Hospital Unit, A Division of The Sisters of Mercy Health Corporation, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 159
(E's refusal to recognize and bargain with local U during term of contract, not violative, since, before contract had expired, local U unequivocally disclaimed any interest in representing unit Ees where it informed E that, consistent with Ee wishes, International U had approved administrative transfer of bargaining unit to another local U and that local U would be servicing unit Ees and U did not thereafter engage in any action inconsistent with disclaimer for 2 months, thus E was not obligated to recognize or reinstitute its bargaining relationship)

8034 ABANDONMENT OF EMPLOYEES BY UNION

Imperial House Condominium, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 154
[E failed to rebut presumption of U's continued majority status by claiming U abandonment of Ees, since 1 month's absence of business agent because of illness cannot be equated with abandonment; E's claim that U representative was not seen for period of time at E's large establishment having various Ee areas did not mean that representative did not visit Ees; and during period in question E representatives attempted to arrange bargaining session w/o success, E complied with all terms and conditions of expired contract, and E subsequently proposed bargaining with U]

Samaritan Health Center, Deaconess Hospital Unit, A Division of The Sisters of Mercy Health Corporation, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 159
(E's refusal to recognize and bargain with local U during term of contract, not violative, since, before contract had expired, local U unequivocally disclaimed any interest in representing unit Ees where it informed E that, consistent with Ee wishes, International U had approved administrative transfer of bargaining unit to another local U and that local U would be servicing unit Ees and U did not thereafter engage in any action inconsistent with disclaimer for 2 months, thus E was not obligated to recognize or reinstitute its bargaining relationship)

BASF-Wyandotte Corporation 276 NLRB No. 068
(E's withdrawal of recognition during term of contract, on grounds that majority of Ees had signed ptn repudiating U and it had been presented with letter of disclaimer signed by members of local U's Executive Committee, violative, since majority status of U is irrebuttably presumed during term of contract and further, contract was signed and administered by both the local and International U and International had in no way disclaimed its bargaining rights and after learning of actions by its local, International informed E that local was in receivership and it would continue servicing the contract)

Melcolunity, Inc., and Melvin Collings and Ed Collins, a partnership t/a Collins & Collins Associates JD-(NY)-111-83
(U did not abandon Ees notwithstanding passage of 3 years from time last negotiating session for new contract until U and E met again in light of U's prompt action in making E sign contract for job site upon learning of E's operation and legal presumption of continued majority status arising out of certification)

8034-6700 Failure to process grievances

Cowles Publishing Company 280 NLRB No. 105
[E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to execute contract and furnish information to U on unit Ees, on grounds U had abandoned unit thus giving E good faith doubt, violative, since U had not abandoned unit where, although U had experienced some turnover in its representatives, this had happened only once, U did continue to process grievances and had U steward present at E's plant and fact that U's negotiator told E once during negotiations that contract w/o U security was not worth the paper it was written on, and U failed to secure this demand, was not evidence of abandonment]

8036 CONDUCT OF UNION REPRESENTATIVE DURING BARGAINING

8036-0100 Generally

N.L.R.B. v. Auto Fast Freight, Inc. 793 F.2d 1126 (C.A. 9, July 1986)
[E's unilateral actions not justified by fact parties did not meet until nine days after contract expired or by E's alleged confusion over which branch of U to bargain with (local U or national committee), since, notwithstanding Us were not well coordinated and possibly were uncertain of their administrative responsibilities, inability to make earlier meeting arrangements was due to both parties equally, and E's confusion over which U branch to bargain with was insufficient to excuse failure to bargain with any branch prior to unilateral actions]

8036-1000 Conduct during negotiations indicating futility of further negotiations

Cowles Publishing Company 280 NLRB No. 105
[E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to execute contract and furnish information to U on unit Ees, on grounds U had abandoned unit thus giving E good faith doubt, violative, since U had not abandoned unit where, although U had experienced some turnover in its representatives, this had happened only once, U did continue to process grievances and had U steward present at E's plant and fact that U's negotiator told E once during negotiations that contract w/o U security was not worth the paper it was written on, and U failed to secure this demand, was not evidence of abandonment]

8036-1000—Cont.

Nassau Insurance Company 280 NLRB No. 103
[E's refusal to bargain, not unlawful, where U which was bound by settlement agreement to bargain in good faith, came to negotiating session stating that its only purpose in attending meeting was to receive E's final offer, and when E attempted to negotiate merely reiterated its demand]

Hiysote Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[direct dealing with Ees concerning terms and conditions of employment, not unlawful, where E, as debtor-in-possession, rightfully sought unilateral substitution of modified terms and conditions of employment and had proposed to U same terms subsequently offered to Ees; U's refusal to negotiate until its erroneous belief that E was bound by contract, abrogated by bankruptcy ct, was disproved or substantiated was in essence waiver of U's right to object to imposition of new terms and conditions of employment; and E was under severe time constraints to resume operations]

8036-1500 Misrepresentations

NDK Corporation 278 NLRB No. 151
[E's defense to its repudiation of contract and other related unlawful conduct on ground U official made fraudulent misrepresentation to E by promising that U would not demand contract compliance, rejected; E's defense was not established since U official did not meet requirement for fraudulent misrepresentation that he knew statement was false and was intended to deceive, where U's contract compliance efforts did not begin until year later; and party in pari delicto has no justifiable right to rely on promise having illegal purpose, especially when made with intent to undermine rights of third parties]

NDK Corporation 278 NLRB No. 151
[E's defense to its repudiation of contract and related conduct, herein found unlawful under federal labor policy, had no greater merit even if judged against more stringent common law principles, where contract was valid on its face, but E's admitted collateral understanding with U that contract would not be enforced was admission that E shared in pari delicto relationship with U officials, and under contract law no in pari delicto party may obtain legal redress, and law will not aid wrongdoer even if equally guilty offender escapes punishment]

8036-1900 Hostility towards employer

St. John's General Hospital of Allegheny County—ADR Center 281 NLRB No. 157
[no Bd authority for proposition that U has duty not to disparage E whose Ees it represents, and that breach of such duty may justify U forfeiting its right to represent Ees; where health care facility refuses to honor Bd certification of U, thereby precipitating peaceful strike in protest; doctrine of Laura Modes, 144 NLRB 1592, should not be extended to disqualify U as Ee representative on grounds that U and its pickets in course of strike disparaged quality of care in facility]

8036-2000 Attempts to harass employer

Arizona Portland Cement Company, A Division of California Portland Cement Company, A Division of Calmat 281 NLRB No. 030
[contention that U was exercising countering tactic of harassing E by filing innumerable grievances, rejected on ground of insufficient materiality to key issue of who may be U representative at grievance meeting, since E's position would be subject to same test regardless of number of grievances filed where statutory right was involved]

8036-5500 Attacking preconditions to bargaining

Nassau Insurance Company 280 NLRB No. 103
[U's insistence on having stenographer present at negotiating session justified E's subsequent refusal to bargain, since presence of stenographer non-mandatory subject of bargaining; U's contention stenographer was present only to record E's final offer, and was justified by E's pre-settlement withdrawal of proposals, rejected]

8036-6000 Lack of diligence in pursuing bargaining objectives

Ednor Home Care, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 042
(E did not unlawfully withdraw recognition since E never recognized U, where upon being presented with authorization cards by U's business representative, E's owner never acknowledged, nor did U representative claim U represented majority of Ees. U's contention that there was initial discussion regarding terms of proposed contract delivered with economic terms left blank, and absent evidence of any statement by E connoting recognition, or explicit testimony of U representative concerning plans for negotiating meetings, nor was U representative's behavior consistent with belief U was recognized)

Dukes Industries JD-167-85
(no violation where E decided to shut down operations and communicated decision to Ees prior to having any knowledge of U activity. Furthermore, U waived its perogative to bargain with E where, other than delivering its demand letter, it has made absolutely no attempt to meet and negotiate over effects of closing)

Melcolunity, Inc., and Melvin Collings and Ed Collins, a partnership t/a Collins & Collins Associates JD-(NY)-111-83
(U did not abandon Ees notwithstanding passage of 3 years from time last negotiating session for new contract until U and E met again in light of U's prompt action in making E sign contract for job site upon learning of E's operation and legal presumption of continued majority status arising out of certification)

8036-6500 Failure to make timely response to proposal

Hiysote Fuel Co., Inc., Debtor-In-Possession, et al. 280 NLRB No. 089
[alleged refusal by E to bargain with U, not unlawful, where E who, as debtor-in-possession having continuing obligation to bargain over terms of new contract, sought to do so both before and after bankruptcy ct approved rejection of old contract; U made no request to bargain during that period; and it was not E's fault U failed to follow up on his bargaining request]

The Hampton Roads Newspaper Guild, Local 219, The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, CLC JD-288-85
[insisting to impasse on sole control of wages, not violation where U failed to make counterproposal it had indicated it intended to make]

Embossing Printers, Inc. JD-19-85
(E's duty to bargain over health insurance changes (non-contributory to contributory), suspended, where U explicitly rejected opportunity to seek bargaining over changes after receiving adequate notice that changes contemplated (6 months) and also waited 11 months to either request bargaining or protect changes)

8036-9500 Acceptance of employer's proposal

Public Service Electric and Gas Company 280 NLRB No. 048
[violation where E sought to modify retroactivity clause of old contract by refusing to agree to pay wage increase in new contract effective on expiration date of old contract unless Ees ratified new contract by expiration date and, as part of its final offer, conditioned agreement to new contract on U's consent to abrogation of retroactivity clause; U's urging Ees to ratify new contract not voluntary consent to modification where U advised Ees at same time that it had filed charge with Bd]

8040 CONDUCT OF EMPLOYER DURING BARGAINING

Hyatt Regency New Orleans 281 NLRB No. 042
[repeated expressions of displeasure by E during negotiations over composition of bargaining unit held not to indicate bad faith bargaining, where E never discontinued negotiations nor demanded change in composition of unit, and E's complaints about unit did not impede negotiations in any way]

Southern California Edison Company 274 NLRB No. 167
(E's refusal to conduct grievance meetings with Ees or U officials who wore Stick Your Retro button concerning retroactive pay raise during contract negotiations between E and U, violative, since wearing of button protected, and no matter what buttons were being worn, E was not privileged to refuse to meet and deal with U on matters being pursued through grievance arbitration process, at least so long as they did not cause unreasonable disruption (of process))

8040-0100 Generally

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(E's advising U during negotiations that E controlled matter of split in certified unit, when in actuality split was army decision who had contracted work out to E, violative, since E's advice was conscious course of action intending to deceive U; such conduct (of E) was deceptive bargaining with tendency to inhibit process of collective bargaining)

8042 EXISTENCE OF BINDING AGREEMENT

Inner City Broadcasting Corporation 281 NLRB No. 162
[E held not to have unlawfully refused to execute contract with U, since there was no acceptance of E's final offer and therefore no agreement, where E's offer was conditioned upon U's acceptance by specified time, which U failed to meet; and even if E's offer was unconditional, contract drafts previously tendered by U differed from E's offer as to duration and effective dates, and therefore did not express agreement of parties]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097
[E's negotiators did not agree with U's position on E's contract proposals by assertedly shaking their heads since, while shake of head could, under some circumstances, bind headshaker to terms of contract, headshaking must, in the very least, be in response to specific proposal or counter-proposal, which was not the case herein]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables 279 NLRB No. 097
[while fact that agreement is product of one party's mistake does not entitle that party to refuse to sign contract embodying such agreement where mistake is part of written agreement or even part of fully discussed oral understanding, such requirement is not to be imposed where, as here, E's

8042—Cont.

alleged agreement would have had to have been product of momentary inattention or confusion, and U made no effort to confirm that parties really had reached agreement]

Jack Nykiel, A Sole Proprietorship, d/b/a Joey's Stables — 279 NLRB No. 097

[GC's contention that U's testimony about E's failure to respond and E's agreement with U's arguments on withdrawal of E's management rights proposal showed means by which E would indicate agreement on other contract items by means other than using words I agree, rejected, since E's withdrawal of its proposal and U's testimony concerning withdrawal signified nothing about E's actions in respect to other contract proposals]

Spring Valley Farms, Inc. — JD-(ATL)-54-86

[When agent is appointed to negotiate collective bargaining agreement, that agent is deemed to have apparent authority to bind his principal, absent clear notice to contrary. Where there is such notice, condition on agreement is imposed]

Walter N. Yoder & Sons, Inc. — 754 F.2d 531 (C.A. 4, Feb. 1985)

(E's argument that omission from record of contract in effect at time of U's request for information was fatal to Bd's finding that E committed ULP, rejected, where parties agreed that there was contract in effect at time of request for information, inquiry concerned only whether there was agreement to enforce, not whether some particular provision had been violated, and record revealed that E was signatory to agreement at all times relevant to action)

8045 DEFENSES BASED UPON CONTRACT CONSIDERATIONS

8045-0100 Generally

NDK Corporation — 278 NLRB No. 151

[upon execution of written contract, Act precludes E's reliance upon prior or contemporaneous oral agreement upon which its defense to alleged 8(a)(5) violation is based, and defenses based upon fraudulent misrepresentation concerning contract, whether innocent or fraudulent, cannot be relied upon to alter obligation of written bargaining agreement]

8045-1200 Actions permissible in absence of contract

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation — 278 NLRB No. 118

[unilateral cessation of pension and welfare fund contributions violation, notwithstanding contract expiration and E's reliance on provision in Trust Fund agreement stating that E should continue to pay fund contributions as long as E was obligated pursuant to collective bargaining agreement, where provision was not clear and unmistakable waiver of Ees' right to receive contributions and U's right to bargain over E's ceasing to make them on expiration of contract, since section did not deal with termination of E's obligation to contribute, and under Bd law E's obligation survived contract]

Westinghouse Electric Corporation — 278 NLRB No. 061

[recall of laid off Ees to lower classified positions w/o bargaining with representative, not violative unless contract provision provides that Ee has right to be recalled to grade he vacated as recall to work cannot be considered reclassification over which bargaining must ensure]

Lithochrome Corporation — 276 NLRB No. 132

(E's refusal to process grievance, not unlawful, where language of arbitration clause in expired contract indicated parties did not intend arbitration clause to survive contract, and no agreement had been reached on new contract)

Norsk Hydro Aluminum, Inc. — JD-(ATL)-14-86

[E's refusal to execute contract, not violative, since there was no meeting of the minds on major issue of wages where although e had made offer on wages, offer was withdrawn before acceptance by U]

8045-2500 Actions permissible during hiatus between contracts

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital — 282 NLRB No. 010

[implementing budget days whereby Ees worked reduced work weeks was priviledged under expired contracts' management rights clause]

N.L.R.B. v. Harvstone Manufacturing Corp., Duray Fluorescent Manufacturing Co., American Fluorescent Corp. and House-O-Lite Corp. — 785 F.2d 570 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)

[Es not required to pay cost-of-living adjustment provided for in contract where date increase was to take effect occurred after expiration of contracts and adjustment in question never became effective]

8045-2900 Invalid contract

D & D Development Co., Inc. d/b/a Anaheim Town and Country Inn — 282 NLRB No. 034

[E's refusal to honor contract, not unlawful, since U did not represent uncoerced majority at time recognition was granted and contract was executed, where U authorization cards were tainted by company manager's conduct in going well beyond any ministerial help to U or any benign cooperation in U effort by participating in organizational drive from start to finish and engaging in such conduct as calling in U, promising benefits if Ees joined, U coercively interrogating whether Ees signed cards, using supervisors to check cards, and precipitously executing contract]

8045-3300 Incomplete contract

Interprint Co. — 273 NLRB No. 223

(E's refusal to execute allegedly agreed-upon contract on grounds that there was no meeting of the minds, not violative, where draft of contract submitted by U to E did not contain commencement or termination dates and no dates were agreed upon by parties during negotiations, several clauses in draft were omitted or altered by U to make contract more acceptable to U, and ALJ, during the hearing, added or omitted terms to contract which in fact the parties had never agreed to, and in effect wrote the contract for the parties, contrary to Bd's remedial powers as interpreted in H.K. Porter)

Spring Valley Farms, Inc. — JD-(ATL)-54-86

[E obligated to sign agreement reached notwithstanding allegations of rejection by U membership, no meeting of minds over checkoff provision, length of contract and its effective date, where, in fact, ratification by membership not required, agreement, in fact, reached over checkoff and term of contract, and though effective date of contract left blank and parties had not discussed a date for signing, parties were in agreement contract would be effective on signing and so ALJ set effective date 1 week after U's notification to E of its acceptance]

Flechtner Packing Company — JD-135-85

(E's refusal to execute and abide by terms of bargaining agreement, on grounds that it never reached agreement with U on eye care plan, violative, since full agreement was reached where E's written proposal on eye care was clear and unambiguous, accepted and ratified by U; further, E's contention that after it made proposal on eye care, it was informed by insurance carrier that there was less costly plan available, and thus there was mutual mistake, rejected, since the mistake was solely on E's part)

8045-3500 Effect of 'after acquired' clause

Save Mart of Modesto, Inc. — JD-(SF)-25-85

(E did not unlawfully refuse to recognize U at new store notwithstanding after-acquired stores clause in labor contract and that all unit Ees in meat department were U members because evidence showed that unit Ees did not wish U to represent them, E told them before they transferred that department would be non-U to start out with and still they volunteered to go and these Ees resigned from U)

8045-3600 Contract provision prohibits action

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation — 278 NLRB No. 118

[unilateral cessation of pension and welfare fund contributions violation, notwithstanding contract expiration and E's reliance on provision in Trust Fund agreement stating that E should continue to pay fund contributions as long as E was obligated pursuant to collective bargaining agreement, where provision was not clear and unmistakable waiver of Ees' right to receive contributions and U's right to bargain over E's ceasing to make them on expiration of contract, since section did not deal with termination of E's obligation to contribute, and under Bd law E's obligation survived contract]

8045-3700 Contract provisions expressly authorize actions

Schaeff Namco, Inc. — 280 NLRB No. 150

[E's unilateral implementation of reduction in wages after wage reopener period passed, lawful, even absent impasse, since E had contract specifically left open wages for third year of contract and provided for specified period to negotiate wage rates and provided that E shall implement its wage offer if parties failed to reach agreement w/i specified period; nor was unilateral implementation violative Section 8(d) since 8(d) did not apply as no modification of contract rather action in accord with contract]

Redway Carriers, Inc./Cardinal Leasing, Inc., A Joint Employer — 274 NLRB No. 198

(Ee's discharge grievance held not aribtrable because it was not signed by Ee as required by contract)

8045-3725 Management rights clause

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital — 282 NLRB No. 010

[E's altering job qualifications for unit positions in education instructor job classification, (E required these Ees to possess a Master's Degree rather than Bachelor of Science in Nursing which had previously been required) not violative, since E was priviledged to make such change unilaterally, by terms of Management Rights clause in expired agreement]

Nazareth Literary & Benevolent Institute, Inc., d/b/a Saints Mary and Elizabeth Hospital — 282 NLRB No. 010

[E's unilateral implementation of new overtime guidelines for its nurses not violative, since action was effort to improve efficiency which did not conflict with any established practices or published rules and standards w/i management's prerogative, policy was expresly privileged by terms of management, rights clause and E's direction that nurses advise their supervisors of need for overtime imposed no substantial burden on them]

Goren Printing Co., Inc. 280 NLRB No. 064
[E's unilaterally requiring all finished work to be signed by supervisor, not violative, since such decision was management's right to control the quality of its work product under E's management rights clause]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[unilateral implementation of respirator seal rule that had effect of prohibiting wearing of facial hair by Ees whose jobs necessitated their wearing respiratory protective equipment, not violation where U waived right to bargain over rule by agreeing to management rights clause allowing E to make and enforce rules deemed necessary or proper for conduct of Ees and operation of plant]

Suffolk Child Development Center, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 158
(no waiver of right to bargain over change in health insurance plan by U's agreeing to management rights clause, which did not mention plan)

Kansas National Education Association 275 NLRB No. 092
(contract's management-rights provision standing alone held at best vague and as such insufficient to meet standard of clear and unmistakable waiver of U's right to be consulted about Ee transfer arrangements and did not privilege E to negotiate directly with Ee or to enter into transfer agreement with Ee; transfer rights were not necessarily contemplated by provision's broad reference to ordinary and customary functions of management nor was implementation of transfer agreement encompassed by provision's granting E right to adopt unspecified policies in furtherance of management functions)

Georgia Pacific Corporation 275 NLRB No. 017
(E's refusal to reduce to writing agreement regarding change from 3 shifts a day to 4 shift program, effect of which was that each Ee worked 7 days and then had 2 days off, where E and U had negotiated change, plan had been agreed to by majority of members of U, and implemented, and when parties agree on a mandatory subject of bargaining Sec. 8(d) requires execution of written agreement; E's contention it had right under management rights clause to make change unilaterally, rejected, since no clear and unmistakable waiver of right to bargain regarding change in shifts)

Continental Telephone Company of California 274 NLRB No. 210
(E's unilaterally instituting new Positive Discipline program to deal with Ees' infractionsof its rules, including attendance rules, not violative where U waived its right to bargain concerning such policy through management-rights clause in parties' contract; neither U nor its representatives contested E's right to issue unilaterally new rules nor did they request bargaining)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 087
(E's unilaterally splitting department into 3 separate departments, not violative where bargaining agreement reserved to E exclusive right to determine manner, means and processes of manufacturing which encompassed right to establish or rearrange its own organizational structure and to change and rearrange its manufacturing departments as it saw fit; when E split department, it was w/i its contractual rights to do so and U waived any right it might otherwise have had to bargain over that subject matter; moreover, there was bargaining over effects of decision on Ees)

Kohler Company 273 NLRB No. 195
(no violation by E's unilaterally contracting out janitorial work in view of broad management rights clause)

Kobell v. Thorsen Tool Co.
F.Supp.————(DC M.D. PA, Dec. 1982)
[management rights clause that stated company retains sole right to manage its business including but not limited to right to decide on method and place of manufacturing did not constitute waiver by U of right to bargain regarding transfer of work, and preclude finding of reasonable cause to believe Act violated and issuance of Section 10(j) inj when E unilaterally decided to transfer work since clause might not be interpreted as waiver by Bd, where clause does not specifically reserve to E right to move part of operation to another facility in order to avoid high labor costs imposed by agreement]

8045-3775 Favored-nation clause

Toyota of San Francisco 280 NLRB No. 093
[auto dealer's unilateral implementation of its final offer, not unlawful since E was privileged to implement changes pursuant to most favored nation provision of multi-dealer bargaining agreement in effect, which provided that any more favorable terms agreed to by U with any dealer would automatically become part of agreement; however, elimination of Sunday pay which was not consistent with terms of agreement with other dealer which triggered most favored nation provision, unlawful, notwithstanding if all changes, considered as a whole, were equivalent to those granted by other dealer]

8045-5000 Contract provisions impliedly authorizes action

Armour and Company 280 NLRB No. 096
[contention that since allocation of severance and vacation payments to Ees being terminated upon closing of plant to specific periods was bargained for between parties, and was matter which bargaining agreement controlled, neither party had further obligation to bargain during term of bargaining agreement, rejected, since U is not seeking to discuss any modification of terms or conditions of contract and contract silent on issue, notwithstanding parties reached agreement on other matters concerning closing of plant, where no zipper clause, no clear and unmistakable waiver of matter, and absent evidence issue was subject of prior bargaining]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[unilaterally restricting U representatives to cafeteria, rather than allowing them to walk around plant, and prohibiting them from talking to supervisors during U time, not violation, where alleged past practice of walking about plant was not proved, nor was it controlling where there was complete agreement clause that abolished past practices, and restrictions did not have substantial impact on U representatives' ability to investigate grievances or represent Ees]

Suburban Transit Corp. and Suburban Trails, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 005
(no violation when E relocated unit work (single E) and thereby brought unit Ees under different bargaining agreement which was less favorable to these Ees, since contract covering original workstation did not contain any provisions preventing E from making such relocation w/o first obtaining consent of U and E bargained in good faith over decision to relocate)

Kobell v. Thorsen Tool Co.
F.Supp.————(DC M.D. PA, Dec. 1982)
[bargaining agreement provision that laid off Ees would have right of preferential hiring if E moved any or all work at specified plant did not constitute clear and unequivocal waiver of U's right to object to E's unilateral relocation of unit work]

8045-5600 Contract terms affected by government policy or regulations

ICI Americas, Inc. JD-328-85
(E's advising U during negotiations that E controlled matter of split in certified unit, when in actuality split was army decision who had contracted work out to E, violative, since E's advice was conscious course of action intending to deceive U; such conduct (of E) was deceptive bargaining with tendency to inhibit process of collective bargaining)

N.L.R.B. v. BASF Wyandotte Corp. 798 F.2d 849 (C.A. 5, Sept. 1986)
[E's unilateral discontinuance of allowing U steward 4 hours per day of paid company time, office and telephone in order to conduct U business, unlawful, since grant of company time and facilities to U mandatory subject of bargaining and bargaining agreement provided for reasonable amount of paid time for U business and practice over last 5 years had been to grant above priviledges to steward; E's contentions that privileges were personal to predecessor steward, that contract provision illegal under Sec. 302 of LMRA and Sec. 8(a)(2) of NLRA, and that at any rate, there was only contract violation, rejected]

8045-5700 Contract terms affected by union's constitution or bylaws

Kolman Division of Athey Products Corporation 282 NLRB No. 029
[violation where E refused to accept grievances for processing because contract called for president of U to bring grievance to attention of U and vice president acting as president pursuant to U's bylaws which called for VP to assume the presidency when president became incapacitated]

8045-5800 Contract as bar to election

N.L.R.B. v. Mississippi Power & Light Company 769 F.2d 276 (C.A. 5, July 1985)
(E's refusal to bargain with U as representative of storeroom and warehouse Ees, violation, notwithstanding E's contention that U was invalidly certified because election was barred by existing contract between E and U as representative of service and maintenance Ees; Bd's contract bar rule applies only to Ees covered by contract and not to unrepresented Ees; nor was unit clarification procedure appropriate for Ees historically and intentionally excluded from bargaining unit)

8045-6000 Illegal execution of contract

D & D Development Co., Inc. d/b/a Anaheim Town and Country Inn 282 NLRB No. 034
[E's refusal to honor contract, not unlawful, since U did not represent uncoerced majority at time recognition was granted and contract was executed, where U authorization cards were tainted by company manager's conduct in going well beyond any ministerial help to U or any benign cooperation in U effort by participating in organizational drive from start to finish and engaging in such conduct as calling in U, promising benefits if Ees joined, U coercively interrogating whether Ees signed cards, using supervisors to check cards, and precipitously executing contract]

Victor Wooten, d/b/a Diablo Paving JD-(SF)-90-86
[E executed binding 8(f) agreement with U and was not misled by U agents into thinking agreement was limited to only single construction project,

where agreement was clear on its face and contained nothing to indicate it was limited to single project; it explicitly incorporated master agreement by reference, including its duration; U agents did not seek to convey impression to E, either by conduct or statements, that document was anything other than standard shortform U agreement; and E, who had agreement in his possession discussed matter with his company manager]

8045-6200 Breach of contract

8045-6201 Generally

8045-6201-8000 Jurisdiction of Board to remedy breach

Little Mining, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 073
[refusing to pay minimum daily wages in contract and to pay premiums for individual E's benefit plan, unlawful, notwithstanding dissenting Bd member's argument that ULP charge was nothing more than attempt to have Bd enforce contract and collect delinquent wages and benefits]

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061
[obligation to bargain over wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment, as well as any mid-term changes therein, covers multitude of specific items where terms, conditions of employment, and mid-term changes have effect of cutting wages, decreasing (Ee) take-home pay or changes in functions and content of (an Ee's) job an asserted waiver of bargaining obligation involves examination of meaning of contract provisions and does not oust Bd of jurisdiction to make that examination]

8045-6240 Grievance and arbitration provisions

Kolman Division of Athey Products Corporation 282 NLRB No. 029
[violation where E refused to have arbitrator selected from panel of 5 names furnished by FMCS pursuant to contract because some of the potential arbitrators had belonged to a U]

Kolman Division of Athey Products Corporation 282 NLRB No. 029
[violation where E refused to accept grievances for processing because contract called for president of U to bring grievance to attention of U and vice president acting as president pursuant to U's bylaws which called for VP to assume the presidency when president became incapacitated]

Boyd-Mulford Construction Co. 277 NLRB No. 180
[U's failure to file grievance over whether 2 related companies were single E with E with whom U had contract, no defense where E refused to supply requested relevant information about possible double-breasted operation, and E had indicated unequivocally what result of grievance would be]

Lithochrome Corporation 276 NLRB No. 132
(E's refusal to process grievance, not unlawful, where language of arbitration clause in expired contract indicated parties did not intend arbitration clause to survive contract, and no agreement had been reached on new contract)

Southwestern Electric Cooperative, Inc. 274 NLRB No. 135
(E's refusal to arbitrate grievances unless U put them in writing, violative, since contract permitted U to file grievances orally. U and E representatives credibly testified that they had never processed written grievances)

8045-6700 Unlawful provision

M. J. Santulli Mail Services, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 170
[E's defense to alleged unlawful refusal to bargain with U on ground U security clause was unlawful because new hires were denied statutory right to have 30 days in which to decide to join U, rejected, where E's argument was totally specious in that it omitted reference in U security clause to words whichever is later with respect to beginning of employment or effective date of contract, which established validity of clause]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147
(E's grant of privileges to U chairman which included 4 hours of paid time each workday for conducting U business including processing of grievances, use of office, telephone and copying machine, not violative of Section 302 of LMRA, thus not illegal subject of bargaining justifying unilateral withdrawal of privileges since w/i exception set forth in Section 302 (c)(1) in that privileges were granted by reason of chairman's service as Ee of E, nor did such grant of privileges amount to bribery of Ees' representatives at which Section 302 was aimed)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147
(E's contention that its granting of privileges to U i.e. permitting U chairman to spend 4 hours of paid time each workday conducting U business including grievance processing, use of office, telephone, and copying machine, violated Section 8(a)(2) as unlawful support of U, and thus justified unilateral withdrawal of privileges as illegal rather than mandatory subject of bargaining, rejected, since grant of time and property not violative of Section 8(a)(2) where U had been recognized and dealt with at arms length, but merely friendly cooperation of amiable labor management relationship, absent deeper E involvement or intrusion into U affairs)

8045-9100 Execution of contract clause illegal under state or federal law

N.L.R.B. v. BASF Wyandotte Corp. 798 F.2d 849 (C.A. 5, Sept. 1986)
[E need not bargain over or engage in illegal activity, even if necessary to comply with terms of bargaining agreement]

8045-9500 Termination of contract

Victor Block, Inc. and Syracuse Sand and Gravel, Inc. 276 NLRB No. 070
(E's contention that renegotiation of new contract by E association and U had terminated prior contract, which E had signed as non-member of association, rejected, since that contract had automatic renewal clause which came into effect before renegotiation, and U's request that E sign the new contract was too late to operate as notice of proposed contractual change and forestall automatic renewal of prior contract binding E)

8049 DEFENSES BASED UPON PAST PRACTICES

Suffolk Child Development Center, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 158
(no waiver of right to bargain over change in health insurance plan by U's failure to object to prior changes)

United States Postal Service 275 NLRB No. 057
(reducing break periods from 15 to 10 minutes on one of its shifts to conform with its established policy–contract silent on issue–w/o bargaining with U, not violative, as all Ees aware of 10 minute break policy and notwithstanding that on this shift, as opposed to other shifts, extended break standard for 15 years except for 2 short periods as Bd considered this partial breach of otherwise uniformily applied work rule inadequate basis from denying E right to uniformily applying work rule to all its Ees)

8050 DEFENSE BASED UPON STATUTORY PROSCRIPTION OR ABRIDGEMENT OF CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS

The Big East Conference 282 NLRB No. 050
[E's refusal to bargain with collegiate basketball officials association (CBOA) which represented E's men's basketball officials and eastern college basketball association (ECBA) which supervises officials represented by CBOA, not violative where CBOA was not labor organization because, in its dealings with ECBA, it did not represent Ees w/i meaning of Act]

Imperial House Condominium, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 154
[ALJ rejected E's defense to failure to contribute to Ees' health benefit funds on ground payments would have been illegal under 302(a) because contract had expired and statutory written agreement requirement for making payments lawful was not met; to accept such argument would ignore policy considerations underlying enactment of 302 and 8(a)(5) and would deter rather than enhance bargaining process]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147
(E's grant of privileges to U chairman which included 4 hours of paid time each workday for conducting U business including processing of grievances, use of office, telephone and copying machine, not violative of Section 302 of LMRA, thus not illegal subject of bargaining justifying unilateral withdrawal of privileges since w/i exception set forth in Section 302 (c)(1) in that privileges were granted by reason of chairman's service as Ee of E, nor did such grant of privileges amount to bribery of Ees' representatives at which Section 302 was aimed)

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 274 NLRB No. 147
(E's contention that its granting of privileges to U i.e. permitting U chairman to spend 4 hours of paid time each workday conducting U business including grievance processing, use of office, telephone, and copying machine, violated Section 8(a)(2) as unlawful support of U, and thus justified unilateral withdrawal of privileges as illegal rather than mandatory subject of bargaining, rejected, since grant of time and property not violative of Section 8(a)(2) where U had been recognized and dealt with at arms length, but merely friendly cooperation of amiable labor management relationship, absent deeper E involvement or intrusion into U affairs)

Mead Packaging 273 NLRB No. 181
(E's unilateral discontinuance of insurance and pension benefits to U officers on leaves of absence for purpose of holding U office, not violative; granting such benefits to U officers alone under provision of contract would violate 8(a)(3) and 8(b)(2), since granting such benefits to U officers did not further effective administration of E's bargaining agreement where U officers were on U's payroll and acted as representatives of Ees at other Es premises, engaging in engotiations and arbitrations, and generally monitored compliance with U's bargaining agreements and further, granting of such benefits was not available to other Ees on an equal basis)

8052 DEFENSE OF ECONOMIC HARDSHIP

International Distribution Centers, Inc. 281 NLRB No. 111
[E's failure to remit pursuant to checkoff deducted dues and contributions to health and welfare fund, unlawful, inasmuch as E's alleged poor financial condition rejected as defense]

8052—Cont.

ABS Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 145
[unilateral decision to close plant and relocate remaining work, not violation, as there was no duty to bargain where decision was nonmandatory bargaining subject in view of fact it turned, not on reduction of labor costs but on restructuring of company due to heavy losses and requirements of lenders]

American Bank Note Company 281 NLRB No. 099
[decline in business, even to point where volume of business is 1/4 of its previous level does not constitute unusual circumstances which would relieve E of consequences of its failure to give timely notice (of withdrawal from multiE bargaining)]

Sandpiper Convalescent Center and Sandpiper Village 279 NLRB No. 147
[hospital's failure to bargain with U regarding lay off of Ees allegedly because of cuts in Medicaid, and concerning effects of lay off, unlawful, since not justified by compelling economic considerations and new Ees hired after lay off and after Medicaid reductions effective; contention lay offs not mandatory subject of bargaining, rejected]

Sandpiper Convalescent Center and Sandpiper Village 279 NLRB No. 147
[while compelling economic considerations could justify unilateral change which might otherwise be prohibited, economic expediency or sound business considerations are insufficient defenses to justify unilateral changes in terms and conditions of employment]

The Nielsen Lithographing Co. 279 NLRB No. 118
[E telling U that jobs would be lost and that E would go out of business unless economic concessions were made (by U) triggers duty to disclose financial information because by its words and conduct E conveyed to U an inability to pay w/i meaning of Atlanta Hilton & Tower 271 NLRB 1600 (1984) and not just mere unwillingness to continue to pay cost of its collective bargaining agreement]

The Nielsen Lithographing Co. 279 NLRB No. 118
[if E claims poverty or inability to pay then, upon request from U, E is required to produce or disclose financial data to support its claim of poverty or inability to pay]

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061
[fact E's unilateral mid-term changes in Ees' terms and conditions of employment were prompted by economic rather than discriminatory considerations is immaterial if E did not bargain about those changes. Defense that refusal to bargain did not take place in context of overall subjective, bad faith may be available when charge is violation of Section 8(a)(3) of Act, but it is no defense to 8(a)(5) allegation]

Mack Trucks, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 084
(E's decision to transfer and consolidate work being performed at truck assembly facility to another facility not mandatory bargaining subject, since E's decision did not turn on bargaining unit labor costs, but on serious losses for year 1980 and projected future losses because of E's excess productive capacity which led E to believe E had over invested in capital assets and such transfer to larger and more modern facility would cut freight and overhead costs)

Alamo Cement Company d/b/a San Antonio Portland Cement Company 277 NLRB No. 033
(failure to bargain over layoffs, unlawful, notwithstanding E's defense of economic necessity)

SFTT The Santa Fe Trail Transportation Company/BN transport JD-377-85
[unilaterally failing to make pension and health and welfare fund contributions, to pay wages, to pay vacation, holiday and sick pay, violation, despite alleged economic hardship]

Indianhead Truck Line, Inc. JD-271-85
(E's failure to notify Us of its decision to terminate its freight operations until after implementation of decision, thus denying Us opportunity to bargain over effects of its decision, unlawful; E's contention its failure to give timely notice was justified by fear of theft and its financial situation, rejected)

Tectonic Industries, Inc. JD-(NY)-100-84
(E's unilateral changes in terms and conditions of employment assertedly made because E faced economic difficulties after strike commenced requiring deviation from contract provisions in order for E to survive, unlawful, since unilateral changes are not excused by economic expediency even if made in good faith, and they cannot be made w/o notifying and bargaining with U)

8054 WAIVER (SEE ALSO 775-0000)

8054-0100 Generally

Handy Spot, Inc. 279 NLRB No. 177
[E's failure to bargain with U over effects of its decision to subcontract its delivery routes in metropolitan area to independent contractors resulting in layoff or termination of its Ees unlawful notwithstanding E's contention that U waived its right to bargain, where E never advised U of sale of any of E's routes until well after sales had taken place]

BASF Wyandotte Corporation 278 NLRB No. 028
[unilateral implementation of respirator seal rule that had effect of prohibiting wearing of facial hair by Ees whose jobs necessitated their wearing respiratory protective equipment, not violation where U waived right to bargain over rule by agreeing to management rights clause allowing E to make and enforce rules deemed necessary or proper for conduct of Ees and operation of plant]

Roman Iron Works, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 066
(interim unilateral wage increases granted during course of bargaining, violative where such increases were isolated individual wage adjustments, were not in accordance with practice of granting periodic increases, were granted in absence of impasse, and were granted w/o affording U opportunity to bargain about changes; E's contention that U waived its right to bargain over changes, rejected)

American Federation of State, County & Municipal Employees JD-131-85
(Ees' waiver of rights under arbitration award achieved by E's unlawfully bargaining individually with grievants not effective or defense)

Southwestern Steel & Supply, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 1111 (C.A. D.C., Dec. 1986)
[E's unilateral termination of payments to welfare plan and pension trust after expiration of bargaining agreement, unlawful; E's contention U waived right to bargain over such payments by provision in payment agreement between E and fund trustees prescribing how and when revocation was permissible between E and trustees, rejected]

8054-0133 Waiver must be explicit

Ground Breakers, Inc. 280 NLRB No. 014
[no clear and unmistakable waiver of U's right to designate its representative at grievance processing meeting existed since, by naming grievance committee in contract, parties did not necessarily mean to exclude all others, including non-Ee U representative; issue is not so much matter of contract interpretation as matter of Ees' statutory rights; and Ee's right to be represented by representative of his own choosing should not be lightly denied]

Ne Di Construction Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 071
[no waiver by U of its right to receive notice of E's termination of agreement to be bound by master contract where, upon receipt of E's letter tendering notice of union cancellation, U immediately sought explanation, consistently and forcefully resisted E's apparent attempt to withdraw recognition, and resisted E's announcement of unilateral changes by demanding immediate compliance with master contract]

Beckley Belt Service, Inc., d/b/a Beckley Belt Services & Roofing Co., Inc. 279 NLRB No. 066
[Ee's failure to protest E's alleged payment of wage rate comparable to that in the trade rather than contract not waiver of latter, since E's contractual obligation was to U, rather than Ees]

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation 278 NLRB No. 118
[contract provision stating that U warrants, represents and agrees that it represented a majority of unit Ees not clear and unmistakable waiver of U's right to benefit from presumption of majority status after expiration of contract]

KBMS, Inc., A Subsidiary of Century Broadcasting Corporation 278 NLRB No. 118
[unilateral cessation of pension and welfare fund contributions violation, notwithstanding contract expiration and E's reliance on provision in Trust Fund agreement stating that E should continue to pay fund contributions as long as E was obligated pursuant to collective bargaining agreement, where provision was not clear and unmistakable waiver of Ees' right to receive contributions and U's right to bargain over E's ceasing to make them on expiration of contract, since section did not deal with termination of E's obligation to contribute, and under Bd law E's obligation survived contract]

Clinchfield Coal Company 275 NLRB No. 189
(contractual language not clear and unmistakable waiver of U's right to request information where language concerning grievance procedure spoke of complaints filed by Ees, not U; mine committee's duties were confined to adjusting disputes arising out of contract that E and Ees, not U, had failed to adjust; and where full-disclosure provision obligated parties to disclose facts and contractual provisions relied on after grievance was filed but did not mention situations where, as here, a party sought to police the contract and obtain information to determine if a violation had occurred)

Kansas National Education Association 275 NLRB No. 092
(contract's management-rights provision standing alone held at best vague and as such insufficient to meet standard of clear and unmistakable waiver of U's right to be consulted about Ee transfer arrangements and did not privilege E to negotiate directly with Ee or to enter into transfer agreement with Ee; transfer rights were not necessarily contemplated by provision's broad reference to ordinary and customary functions of management nor was implementation of transfer agreement encompassed by provision's granting E right to adopt unspecified policies in furtherance of management functions)

Teledyne Wisconsin Motor, A Division of Teledyne Industries, Inc. 275 NLRB No. 076
(no violation by e's unilateral subcontracting piston production for engines where U contractually waived its right to bargain over E's decision to contract out production work when doing the work on E's premises cost substantially more than having an outside contractor do it, as here)

Continental Telephone Company of California 274 NLRB No. 210
(any claimed waiver of right to bargain concerning mandatory subjects of bargaining must be based upon evidence that is clear and unmistakable)

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 072
(U clearly and unmistakably waived its statutory right to a letter between supervisors assessing an Ee's attitude, performance and which discussed Ee's immediate supervisor's version of incident giving rise to a disciplinary warning, notwithstanding U anticipated filing grievance over that disciplinary warning, where letter of understanding supplementing partys' bargaining agreement gave U the right to certain records w/o prior advance requests (which did not include written communications between supervisors) and in exchange for this information, U relinquished its right to all other information with certain exceptions not herein relevant)

Everett Yacht Club JD-(SF)-115-85
(although U representative heard rumors and received phone calls that E would cease its restaurant and bar business by a certain day, record devoid of clear and unambiguous evidence that U waived its right to bargain about effects of E's decision, thus E's decision violative)

Roadway Express, Inc. JD-(SF)-78-85
(U did not clearly and unmistakably waive its presumptive statutory right to receive photocopies of supervisory reports relevant to processing grievances; contract reference to U's right to examine was not unmistakable indication that U consciously intended to relinquish rights to obtain photocopies of them)

Ingersoll-Rand Company JD-(NY)-48-85
(E's subcontracting unit work w/o bargaining with U, not violative, since U clearly and unmistakably waived right to object where contract specifically provided that E could unilaterally subcontract unit work, E had past practice of subcontracting unit work and U president acknowledged there was nothing U could do about E's decision)

My Buddy Products, A Division of S&T Industries, Inc. JD-114-85
(U did not waive its right to bargain about Ee health insurance contributions notwithstanding E raised issue during negotiations for new contract, since after some discussion, no agreement reached. W/o insisting upon express reservation to take such action and w/o zipper clause in contract, it would appear E conceded it had no right to take unilateral action. No waiver can be found unless issue was fully discussed, conscientiously explored and conscientiously yielded by U during negotiations)

Automobile Workers, Local 449 v. N.L.R.B. (National Lock Corp., et al.) 802 F.2d 969 (C.A. 7, Oct. 1986)

N.L.R.B. v. Harnstone Manufacturing Corp., Duray Fluorescent Manufacturing Co., American Fluorescent Corp. and House-O-Lite Corp. 785 F.2d 570 (C.A. 7, Mar. 1986)
[E's contention that U waived its right to review financial data substantiating claim of economic hardship, rejected where E's bargaining representative stated at meeting that E had lost $92,000 in last 6 months and waived profit and loss statement in air and asked if U wanted to see it, to which U representative responded that he would at some point want to see document; U's conduct did not come close to constituting clear and unmistakable waiver of its rights]

Southwestern Steel & Supply, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 806 F.2d 1111 (C.A. D.C., Dec. 1986)
[U did not waive right to bargain over payments to welfare plan and pension trust after expiration of bargaining agreement by provision in payment agreement between E and fund trustees prescribing how and when revocation was permissible between E and trustees, since provision was no more than right of E to terminate agreement w/trustees subject to obligation to give timely notice. That qualified right to terminate can be construed as coming into play after E has complied with duty to bargain. Such provision not clear and unmistakable waiver especially where U not party to document containing alleged waiver]

8054-0167 Waiver will not be implied

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002
[absent express language in contract waiving parties' bargaining obligations, Bd examines totality of circumstances surrounding making of contract, including prior bargaining history, to determine whether waiver may be implied; here, parties engaged in no discussion bearing on effects of relocation of unit work, and U's silence may not be construed as waiver; in absence of express language or unambiguous bargaining history, forfeiture of important right, such as bargaining over effects of decision to relocate Ees' work, will not be implied]

Boise Cascade Corp., Paper Group 279 NLRB No. 074
[E's contention U had waived right to information regarding surveys used to formulate maintenance improvement program at one of its facilities which would combine some duties of Ees, reduce number of craft classifications, and change wage structure, by provision in contract which stated in part that before substantial change made in job content or in size of crew, E must discuss with U changes and similar jobs in oother mills, to be set forth in survey of 5 competitive mills, rejected, and E furnishing U 5 mill study not sufficient, where no express, unambiguous waiver in agreement, and parties, past practice did not constitute clear waiver]

United Technologies Corporation 274 NLRB No. 072
(U did not waive its right to information, which included supervisor audit reports, audit departmental procedures and investigations of an Ee, by narrowing its defense of Ee's suspension and discharge before arbitration, to issue of improper supervision rather than Ee's actual guilt, since, regardless of U's defenses, it is still permitted to ascertain if disciplinary action complied with applicable contractual standards)

8054-1000 Union's failure to object to E's past unilateral changes not waiver as to present changes

Suffolk Child Development Center, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 158
(no waiver of right to bargain over change in health insurance plan by U's failure to object to prior changes)

City Cab Company of Orlando, Inc.; et al. d/b/a Yellow Cab Company and Dixie Cab Company 273 NLRB No. 131
(taxi company's unilateral changes in various charges, surcharges, late penalties drivers were required to pay, in bidding procedure and in minimum number of shifts required unlawful, where company had not committed itself to any fixed practice; company's contention U had failed to protest changes for inordinate amount of time, rejected, since U had alleged unlawful unilateral changed in first charge, and since Region was attempting to get company to comply with its promise not to engage in any further changes, it would have been useless for U to protest each change)

8054-2000 Omission from contract of matters subject to collective bargaining does not constitute waiver

Westinghouse Electric Corporation 278 NLRB No. 061
[obligation to bargain over wages, hours, and terms and conditions of employment, as well as any mid-term changes therein, covers multitude of specific items where terms, conditions of employment, and mid-term changes have effect of cutting wages, decreasing (Ee) take-home pay or changes in functions and content of (an Ee's) job an asserted waiver of bargaining obligation involves examination of meaning of contract provisions and does not oust Bd of jurisdiction to make that examination]

Government Employees (Office Employees, Local No. 2) 278 NLRB No. 055
[U did not waive striking Ees' rights to be reimbursed for unlawfully withheld annual leave benefits by raising issue in final phase of negotiations and then signing contract w/o any provision covering lost leave, where E gave no consideration to U's proposal that annual leave be restored]

Suffolk Child Development Center, Inc. 277 NLRB No. 158
(no waiver of right to bargain over health insurance plan by contract's lack of specificity about it where specifics were set out in Ee handbook)

My Buddy Products, A Division of S&T Industries, Inc. JD-114-85
(U did not waive its right to bargain about Ee health insurance contributions notwithstanding E raised issue during negotiations for new contract, since after some discussion, no agreement reached. W/o insisting upon express reservation to take such action and w/o zipper clause in contract, it would appear E conceded it had no right to take unilateral action. No waiver can be found unless issue was fully discussed, conscientiously explored and conscientiously yielded by U during negotiations)

8054-2050 Effect of 'zipper' or wrap-up clause

Armour and Company 280 NLRB No. 096
[contention that since allocation of severance and vacation payments to Ees being terminated upon closing of plant to specific periods was bargained for between parties, and was matter which bargaining agreement controlled, neither party had further obligation to bargain during term of bargaining agreement, rejected, since U is not seeking to discuss any modification of terms or conditions of contract and contract silent on issue, notwithstanding parties reached agreement on other matters concerning closing of plant, where no zipper clause, no clear and unmistakable waiver of matter, and absent evidence issue was subject of prior bargaining]

N.L.R.B. v. Americana Healthcare Center 782 F.2d 941 (C.A. 11, Feb. 1986)
[zipper clause in instant case must be read with implied exception that it has no application to agreement negotiated (by parties) pursuant to ct order but ommitted from written contract by inadvertence and mistake. Ct's reading of zipper clause leaves it ample scope for application, where it will not nullify statutory policy]

Electrical Workers Local 1466 v. N.L.R.B. (Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.) 795 F.2d 150

[no unilateral change in wages and no requirement that E must bargain when E discontinued its past practice of 40 years of paying Christmas bonus where contract contained zipper clause that stated... contract...shall be the sole source of all rights or claims which may be asserted in arbitration hereunder or otherwise.... and contract silent as to Christmas bonus]

8054-4000 Abandonment of demands does not constitute waiver

My Buddy Products, A Division of S&T Industries, Inc. JD-114-85

(U did not waive its right to bargain about Ee health insurance contributions notwithstanding E raised issue during negotiations for new contract, since after some discussion, no agreement reached. W/o insisting upon express reservation to take such action and w/o zipper clause in contract, it would appear E conceded it had no right to take unilateral action. No waiver can be found unless issue was fully discussed, conscientiously explored and conscientiously yielded by U during negotiations)

8054-5000 Effect of zipper clause

Challenge-Cook Brothers of Ohio, Inc. 282 NLRB No. 002

[zipper clause held not to constitute clear and unmistakeable waiver of U's right to bargain over effects of E's interplant transfer of unit work since, unlike case in which zipper clause constituted waiver of U's right to bargain over new benefit for non-bargaining unit personnel, leaving unit Ees unaffected, no such waiver could be read into parties' zipper clause herein, since transfer of work struck directly at one of the most critical of Ee concerns--availability of jobs elsewhere when unit work had been lost]

EPI Corporation d/b/a Rockford Manor Intermediate Care Facility 279 NLRB No. 170
